WHEAT "SHORTS" GET RUDE SHOCK

As Unexpected as a Thunderbolt from a Clear Sky, the Discovery Is Made at Chicago That the September Option Is Cornered.

Not Until the Trading Month Draws to a Close Does the True Condition Become Apparent, and Then a Severe "Squeeze" Occurs, the Price Shooting Up Fourteen Cents Before the Manipulator of the Deal Is Satisfied to Garner His Profits.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—A wheat "squeeze" which disturbed the ennui of the speculative routine with a fourteen-cent advance in the September option on the board of trade here today lacked none of the features of former years when "Old Hutch," Cudahy, Partridge and others were wont to explode bombshells. It was the cleanest cut of any corner in many years. The so-called Patten deal of last spring was an open secret long before the final delivery day, but what happened today came out of a clear sky.

September wheat had been lagging toward the end, with every evidence of ebbing vitality. For a month there had been practically nothing doing in the September option. The September closed yesterday at $1.06 and slept through most of today's session slightly above that figure. In a vague way there was known to be a short interest out, but that some individual or clique had secured control of the long side was undreamed of.

The trader (or traders) in control is said to have held about 1,000,000 bushels while the scattered short interest ran between five and ten millions, according to the average expert guess. In volume, this does not compare with some of the former deals, but in compact efficiency it is said to be the peer of any. No colossal winnings or losses were involved, although some of the weaker shorts were hard hit.

Expected Break Fails to Materialize.

The September was $1.07 when the riot of the shorts began. The receipts in the Northwest continued heavy, and Europe refused to buy, a situation usually followed by lower prices. As the final moment of the trading month drew near and a break did not materialize, the true conditions became apparent. One long with five thousand bushels to his credit snatched his profit at $1.10, and then watched what became of his sale. In the next thirty minutes it changed hands twenty eight times on an advancing scale the last buyer paying $1.20. One of the most influential traders waited until the top had been reached, and then delivered actual wheat at $1.20—one hundred thousand bushels of it.

Little wheat came out until $1.18 was reached. At this figure and above the net profit was garnered. The deliveries amounted to 615,000 bushels, going to scattered interests. While several firms are reported to have profited by the deal, common report credited the control of the September to an Eastern man. This trader is said to have bought around a dollar and to have recouped nicely the money lost two years ago in an attempted "squeeze" which failed. In some quarters it is insisted that the deal which ended today was manipulated by Chicago interests.

A Squeeze in Oats, Also.

A furore in the oats pit monpolized the attention during the forenoon, but was dimmed later by the excitement in wheat. The covering of two million bushels of September oats sent the price of that cereal to fifty cents—five and one-half cents higher than the previous close. At the top price elevator interests sold heavily, and the market reacted to forty-eight.

PRICE CHANGES ARE SMALL.

Dealings in Wall Street Stocks Undergo a Decided Shrinkage.

New York, Sept. 30.—The dealings in stocks underwent a decided shrinkage today from yesterday's volume. The desire to see the military parade left the market stagnant this afternoon. The slackened activity of the trading was partly due to caution on account of the October 1st money settlements. The amount called for October interest and dividend disbursements is estimated at $162,000,000. The money market showed some slight strain, the call loan rate rising to 4 per cent, the highest touched in New York since early in 1908. The declining interior exchanges indicate the revival of the demand on New York for cash, and the sub-treasury continues to withdraw from the banks, the amount for the banking week rising today to $5,699,000.

London selling helped turn the prices of stocks downwards here, after an effort to lift them during the first hour. The pressure on United States Steel was conspicuous, despite the evidence that the month just closed showed an output of steel and iron in excess of all precedents and with the demand reported still in full force. The earnings of the Union Pacific for August showed a gain of 20 per cent, and those of Southern Pacific a gain of 21 per cent over August last year. Joined with the previous Atchison statement, this is a striking demonstration of the prosperity to which the business of the Pacific carriers has risen. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific benefited from this showing, but the movement was not common. The conflicting influences in the market brought the prices back, after many fluctuations, to not far from the previous closing.

Human judgment is finite, and it ought always to be charitable.

TAMMANY HALL DICTATES NOMINATIONS

Justice William Jay Gaynor, of the New York State Supreme Court, Is Unanimously Named for Mayor by the Democratic City Convention.

New York, Sept. 30.—Justice William Jay Gaynor, of the New York state supreme court, tonight was unanimously nominated for mayor by the Democratic city convention.

Of the 1,679 delegates, Tammany controlled almost the entire representation of Manhattan and Bronx mustering 918 votes, and easily overrode the opposition, headed by Senator McCarren, of Brooklyn, who hoped to secure the nomination of Comptroller Metz. The convention nominated, for comptroller, Robert M. Moore, president of the Commercial Trust company.

The platform denounces the recent tariff legislation, objects to any interference in local affairs by the state legislature and advocates municipal ownership and the building of additional subways by the city. There is no mention of the retiring administration of Mayor McClellan. A resolution of sympathy with the family of Governor Johnson was adopted.

The district attorney will be nominated in a separate convention. Mr. Jerome's attack on Judge Gaynor makes it unlikely that his candidacy for reelection will receive endorsement.

PROHIBITIONISTS DOWNED.

Knox County, in Indiana, Votes Wet by a Substantial Majority.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 30.—Knox county voted wet in the local option election today. The forty-three precincts in the county show a majority of 701 for the "wets." The city of Vincennes voted "wet" by a majority of 1,709.

The deficit has been made good by the directors.

FINDS NOTHING TO CRITICISE

Participancy in the Parade Grant's Own Affair, Says Mr. Dickinson.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Secretary Dickinson finds nothing to criticise in the action of General Grant in taking part in the so-called temperance and law enforcement parade in Chicago in his uniform as a major general of the United States, and says that as to such movements each soldier and officer has the right to determine that matter for himself.

JENNINGS' TEAM WINS THE PENNANT

For the Third Consecutive Time—a Record for the American Baseball League—Detroit Captures Much Coveted Bunting.

With the Season Still Some Days to Go, the Fight for the Flag and the Championship of Which It Is Emblematic Is Decided When, Although the Tigers Lose to the Bean-Eaters, the White Sox Twice Take Connie Mack's Athletics Into Camp.

| Cleveland | 70 | 80 | 467 |
| St. Louis | 60 | 86 | 411 |
| Washington | 41 | 108 | 275 |

Boston, Sept. 30.—The fight for the American league pennant is over. Detroit has won again, making it three straight championships and a record for the league. The champions lost their game here today, but as Philadelphia lost twice to Chicago the Detroits are sure of the flag.

The champions this season had to make the hardest kind of a fight to win the flag, and up to last week the result of the race was in doubt. Detroit started off well and remained at the top for weeks, mainly through the remarkable work of its pitchers. A setback came toward the middle of the season, and at one time the champions dropped as low as third place. They did not stay there long, bracing up considerably and passing Philadelphia and Boston, who were in first and second places, respectively. A long series at home again gave the Detroits a good lead before they made their Eastern trip. But on that trip they slumped again, winning but five out of fifteen games, and when they went West for their last home series they were about on even terms with Philadelphia.

The feature of the pennant race was the wonderful fight made by Philadelphia. With an infield composed of almost entirely new players and some new pitchers, the club was always in the race and but for a poor start might have finished first. Detroit has three games yet to play—one with Boston at Boston, one with Chicago at Detroit and one with Chicago at Chicago. The latter game is scheduled for Sunday. Philadelphia has one more game with Chicago and two with Washington.

Today's game between Detroit and Boston was hard fought, both teams using two pitchers. Mullin was batted hard in the first inning and in part of the second. Willett also was hammered hard. Detroit drove Wood from the box, but Hall held the visitors scoreless.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Chicago won a double header here today, thus deciding the American league championship in favor of Detroit. ## SHIP SUBSIDIES URGED BY MR. TAFT

He Declares There Is No Subject That Congress Can Better Take Up Than the Development of the Merchant Marine.

Speaking at Seattle Before the Largest Audience He Has Faced Since His Trip Began, the President Outlines Also His Policy for the Upbuilding of Alaska and Announces His Intention to Pay a Visit to That Region Next Summer.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 30.—Speaking before the largest audience that he has faced his trip began—a crowd that overflowed the natural amphitheater of the exposition, with a seating capacity of 20,000—President Taft today announced that he would urge in his coming message to congress the enactment of a ship subsidy law. His utterances on this subject were received with great acclaim.

The president's statement declaring that he was opposed to granting Alaska a territorial form of government was received with silence, but as the president outlined his policy for the upbuilding of Alaska, recommending government aid in the construction of railroads, and of local government by a commission appointed by the president and cooperating with the governor, and when he reviewed Alaska's great possibilities, he was loudly cheered.

Later, when he was admitted to membership in the Arctic Brotherhood, an organization of Canadians and Americans interested in the development of Alaska, the president announced that he intended to visit Alaska next summer and go as far into the territory as time would permit, in order to come in contact with the the people and see for himself what is best to do for their welfare.

The president frankly told the brotherhood that he did not believe Alaska ready for self-government. "I am as much in favor of popular government as anybody," he said "but I favor popular government only when the conditions exist which make popular government a success for the people governed and for the government at large. When there are limitations to this, we must take other means until a popular government is possible."

Wants Merchant Marine Built Up.

In his speech in the amphitheater this afternoon, Mr. Taft, referring to subsidies, said: "There is no subject to which congress can better devote attention at the coming session than the regulation of our merchant marine in such a way as to establish American lines between New York and other ports and South American ports and between our coast ports and the Orient and the Philippines.

"We earn a profit from our foreign mails of six to eight millions a year. An appropriation of that amount would be quite sufficient to put on a satisfactory basis two to three Oriental lines and several lines from the East to South America. Of course this would be a contribution to private companies, but we are thus in effect contributing in various ways on similar principles, by tariff laws by the river and harbor bill, by the reclamation service. We are putting money into the pockets of the ship owners but we are giving them money with which they can compete with the merchant marine of the world."

The president pointed out the perilous position of the United States in the event of a foreign war, when we would have to buy vessels from other countries to use as colliers for the fleets.

Discusses Alaskan Affairs.

Concerning the proposal to give Alaska a regular territorial form of government, the president said: "It would be a great mistake, because the territory has not a population of sufficient stability and permanence to warrant the delegation of such authority to locally elected legislatures. Local self-government in a country so large, with a scattered, nomadic population and an intense local sectional feeling, should not be given serious consideration until the political division of the territory into more limited areas is warranted."

Mr. Taft suggested that the local legislation be vested in a resident commission of five members, acting in conjunction with the governor.

Belated Justice for Philippines.

The president said: "Since I last visited the coast, the Philippines have had extended to them in the tariff law a measure of justice which ought to have been adopted nine years ago. If it had been, Seattle, San Francisco and the Pacific coast would have profited. Free trade with the Philippines, as now established, will develop in an exchange of business greatly to the advantage of both countries.

"The Panama canal will be completed before 1915, and the trade between the eastern and western coasts of this country will be revolutionized, for the carriage of heavy bulk merchandise between the Pacific and the Atlantic coast is almost certain to be by water. It will change the avenues of international trade and bring the eastern coast of America closely in touch with the western coast of South America.

"China is approaching a period of development that cannot but augment her importance as a trader with this country, while Japan is moving onward with giant steps in commercial competition. It behooves us Americans to take steps to repair the conditions that exist respecting our merchant marine and that are humiliating to our national pride and most burdensome to us in the competition for international trade. I think the country ready now to try the proposed subsidy law and witness its affect upon our foreign trade. If it is successful, the experience will show how the policy can best be expanded and the American commercial flag be made to wave upon the seas as it did before the Civil war."

Two "liberal" Republicans are on the ticket. Eugene N. Foss, for many years a foremost member of the "reciprocal wing" of the Republican party, was nominated for lieutenant governor, and Harvey N. Shepard, of Boston, was nominated for attorney general.

The platform favors the immediate reduction of the tariff on necessaries and a reciprocal trade treaty with Canada; it declares for the support of only such candidates for office as are pledged in favor of the income tax, and it advocates the election of United States senators by popular vote and direct nominations. Resolutions were adopted expressing sorrow at the death of Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

MULTITUDE VIEWS A GREAT PARADE

Two Million People Shout Themselves Hoarse as 25,000 Men of Arms March Past Them in New York City.

So Many Men Representing So Many Branches of the World's Fighting Forces Were Never Before Seen in American Streets, and So Many Wearing American Colors Had Not Been Seen Since the Civil War—Honors Go to the Germans.

New York, Sept. 30.—Twenty-five thousand men of arms today marched past the massed representatives and special envoys of thirty-seven nations. Two million citizens, seated in grandstands or standing in Fifth avenue, shouted themselves hoarse.

The great military parade was the climax of the Hudson-Fulton celebration. Although there were tremendous ovations for each body of American troops and overwhelming applause for the British sailors, the most conspicuous reception went to the sailors of the German fleet—a picked body of magnificent men who, as they reached the reviewing stand, fell into the slap slap of the parade goose step and burst into "My Country 'Tis of Thee" with an overwhelming volume and a fervor which took the listeners' breath away. The benches were silent a moment, then rose bare-headed and cheered and cheered again, until voices gave way, while hats and handkerchiefs continued to wave.

There was ample evidence today that whatever be the interest of historic pageants and parades of merchant ships past anchored men-of-war, gold braid and the roll of drums have lost none of their fascination for the public. The people of all small towns about New York suspended business and watched the parade of the sailors and marines of visiting nations and the regular soldiers, blue jackets, national guardsmen, naval militiamen and police of the American forces.

Greatest Since the Civil War.

So many men representing so many branches of the war forces of the world were never before seen in American streets, and so many wearing the American colors had not been since the Civil war. The count of those in line outnumbered the roll of the American army before the Spanish-American war.

The parade followed strictly the order of official precedence. First came Admiral Seymour's British bluejackets and marines, then the Germans, the Dutch and the Italians. Then came the United States coast artillery, next a band of the Atlantic fleet in scarlet and gold, with a sprinkling of Filipino musicians, and then the Marine Corps, sailors from the various ships of the fleet, the naval militia, the National Guard and, lastly, the regulars.

The torpedo flotilla, submarines, naval auxiliaries and one scout cruiser, followed by merchant craft, tomorrow will escort the Half Moon and Clermont to Newburg, where they will be turned over to the celebration commission of the upper Hudson division, which will continue the festivities a week. At a Staten Island banquet tonight, Aviator Curtiss shared the honors with Dr. Cook and Governor Hughes.

WRIGHT ASCENDS 700 FEET.

Because of Wind, However, Flight Up the Hudson Is Not Attempted.

New York, Sept. 30.—Neither Wilbur Wright or Glen Curtiss attempted the contemplated flights up the Hudson today on account of a strong wind. Wright made a high flight this afternoon. No measurement was taken, but Mr. Wright estimated that he ascended 700 feet.

The Wright brothers applied today at Buffalo for a temporary injunction to prevent Curtiss making exhibition flights. According to Wilbur Wright the action was taken for the purpose of hastening the action of the courts in their case against Curtiss. "I think this suit may be regarded as a test case," he said. "We want to get a decision before too much damage is done." Neither Curtiss or Wright appeared to consider that the action involved any personal feeling.

Berlin Contests Disappointing Again.

Johannisthal, Sept. 30.—The aviation contests again were disappointing today. Only Latham did good work. After covering forty-seven miles in one hour and twenty-three minutes, Latham descended on account of darkness, but in landing the machine struck a stump, smashing the lower part. Latham was slightly hurt. The other contestants succeeded in making only a few rounds, on account of the usual trouble with the motors.

MARQUETTE, MICH., OCTOBER 1.

Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

President Taft is at the other side of the country, but he is still far from half way home.

Mr. Mershon, of Saginaw, comes to the defense of the old forestry commission. There's lots of room for activity along that line.

Mr. Wilbur Wright may be averse to entertaining the unthinking mob, but when he consents to do so he certainly gives them a good show.

Chief Forester Pinchot, in Chicago this week, professed himself as well satisfied with the developments of the past two months. All's well with conservation.

There will be a general disposition to coincide with Candidate Bannard's view that Tammany will not be defeated in New York without putting up a hard fight.

Messrs. Wright and Curtiss pass the time of day and behave with cordial courtesy toward each other. Too bad they are not the model that all distinguished scientists follow.

General Miles, retired from the army because he had reached the age limit for service some years ago, is about to espouse a young wife. There is no age limit in matrimony for these smart old beaus.

The question of the hour is: Will the Pirates get the Tigers, or are the Tigers going to succeed in their third attempt to annex a world's championship?

Judging from the amount of space the News and Free Press at Detroit are giving to the political rivalry between Representative Townsend and Senator Burrows, and the heat that they are developing, the ball must already be on.

By winning three successive pennants in the American league the Tigers will break a record, but there will be comparatively little satisfaction in reflecting on that distinction if they fail to take the measure of those Pittsburgers.

Mr. Bryan says he knows nothing about the debate between him and Senator Bailey proposed for Atlanta, Ga. Needless to say, Mr. Bryan will have to be taken into the confidence of the arrangement committee before the forensic engagement can occur as per schedule.

It's a disconcerting condition for the railroad managers to view, but the Chicago council plainly means business in its movement to compel, by ordinance, the electrification of all trackage in the city proper. War on the smoke nuisance is apparently to be opened in deadly earnest.

The continual ovations accorded Dr. Cook show that the people are not standing on technicalities where his claims to distinction as the discoverer of the pole are concerned. It has been demonstrated that there is an abiding faith in the authenticity of his report among perhaps a majority, and that they are willing to accept him on trust, pending the time when he will make a detailed statement of his data.

If the rule of requiring identification is rigidly insisted on in all postoffices before any general delivery mail is handed out we are left in no doubt that there will be, particularly in the larger cities, a noticeable falling off in the volume of general delivery mail. Much the greater part of this class of mail matter may be legitimate, as is claimed, but there is a considerable part that cannot be placed in this favorable classification.

The Houghton Gazette advises Mr. Osborn, of the Soo and the upper peninsula, not to be overhasty about announcing his gubernatorial candidacy, and intimates that Justice Montgomery's boom has already flattened out appreciably because it was launched too early. Justice Montgomery's friends may take emphatic exception to this, but there's no gainsaying the proposition that there is still much time that may well be allowed to elapse before the gubernatorial campaigners take the field, foot, horse and dragoons. A short and sharp engagement may carry some favored son to victory.

In order to prevent the president's train from taking on the appearance of a perambulating county fair it is necessary to, on frequent occasions, distribute the accumulation of fruit and prize pumpkins to the hospitals. A full carload was placed with these institutions at Spokane. If the president set out to bring home all the gift offerings made enroute he would arrive in Washington with at least fifty-five heavily laden freight trains for his rear guard.

General Grant says that the Chicago parade which he headed in uniform was not, as those who have been finding fault with his course have asserted, a prohibition parade, but one held in the interest of good government. General Grant said he was pleased to head it, and that he would gladly another time accept a similar invitation. It is stated that the present instance is the first time fault has ever been found with an officer for wearing his uniform on an official occasion of similar nature. Precedent seems to favor General Grant. Altogether the incident has been given an exaggerated importance. It should now, and probably will, be forgotten.

Mr. Whitney is a man who has no particular reason for favoring Dr. Cook over Commandant Peary. In fact he is at particular pains to say that his treatment by both explorers was all that he could ask. He has no possible motive for concealing the truth, or coloring it in any manner. It is, therefore, Commandant Peary's misfortune that Mr. Whitney's recital puts him in a bad light before all who are eagerly following the developments in the controversy between the rival explorers. Mr. Whitney not only relates the bald facts of Peary's refusal to allow him to bring on the Roosevelt any of Cook's belongings, but relates an incident that suggests that Peary and his companions endeavored to put into the minds of Cook's Esquimaux the things that they wanted them to say.

Members of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science have taken a modest hand in the polar controversy. They point out that one of the earlier Peary expeditions was backed by their academy on the condition that "complete sets of the specimens collected and the observations made should belong to and be the property of the academy." What the academy got, it is asserted, is a preliminary and unscientific account of the trip, filling but nine pages of its report for 1892, and forty-six bird skins. It is pointed to with interest that in this report Commandant Peary referred to Dr. Cook in these terms: "The report would be incomplete without an acknowledgment of my obligations to Dr. Cook, patient and skillful surgeon, indefatigable worker, earnest student of the peculiar people among whom he lived; he has obtained, I believe, a record of the tribe unapproachable in ethnological archives."

The Detroit baseball management does not propose to take the initiative in forcing an inquiry into the reported dishonorable tactics of the New York Highlanders in spying out the opposing battery's signals and tipping them off to the players at the bat. Detroit, with its third pennant within its grasp, doubtless feels that it can afford to be magnanimous, and overlook even such a serious breach of the ethics of the game as the one alleged. It is less important that there be a thorough inquiry into the New York offense, as that whatever additional steps are necessary to prevent its repetition be taken. There's no virtue in stirring up a scandal just to raise a smell. But it has generally been found that the way to encourage proper conduct in baseball is to severely punish the other kind, and the only thing that will excuse failure to proceed against New York will be steps that will so penalize similar offenses that no team could possibly have the temerity to again resort to such trickery.

The proposal by President Taft to ask congress to at once provide $10,000,000 for the completion of irrigation works that are being held back because of a lack of money to carry out the plans made for them is one that will be approved not only by the west, but by the country at large. Although they are not direct beneficiaries of the system the east, middle west and even the south have heartily supported the reclamation of the arid lands in the far west, lands that need only irrigation to transform them into fruitful garden spots, capable of supporting large populations. Projects which are now languishing because of lack of funds have been counted on confidently by settlers and investors as giving them a safe basis for plans to which they are committed, and delays beyond the time when the government expected to complete them are proving burdensome to these people. Obviously the fair thing to do is for congress to undertake such emergency measures as may be necessary to secure the earliest possible completion of irrigation projects now under way. They must be carried out ultimately, and as delays would work hardship to bona fide settlers provision may well be made for avoiding them. This is a matter in which congress will doubtless give speedy attention to what President Taft will recommend.

"Chicken" is the term a man applies to a small girl who'd be spanked were she his sister.

Feeding Farm Hands.

Every farmer's wife knows what tremendous appetites farm hands usually have; but while they eat well they work well, too.

Here's a good suggestion about feeding farm hands. Give them plenty of Quaker Oats. A big dish of Quaker Oats porridge with sugar and cream or milk is the greatest breakfast in the world for a man who needs vigor and strength for a long day's work. The man that eats Quaker Oats plentifully and often is the man who does good work without excessive fatigue. There is a sustaining quality in Quaker Oats not found in other foods, and for economy it is at the head of the list. Besides the regular size packages Quaker Oats is packed in large size family packages, with and without china. 20

STATES FALLING BEHIND.

One feature of President Taft's address on conservation was his exhortation to the states to take up their share of the work. He pointed out that, after all, the part of the forest domain over which the federal government retains sovereignty is but the smaller part of the whole, and that the larger share is owned by individuals and corporations and thus is subject to regulation only by the states, acting through their legislatures.

The federal conservation policy is now, thanks largely to former President Roosevelt and Chief Forester Pinchot, fairly well defined. Sentiment has been built up for it throughout the nation, and there is little doubt that when President Taft asks the co-operation of congress by the enaction of the legislation he deems necessary to give all work accomplished and planned a legal status that will be unassailable it will be forthcoming.

A survey of the states, however, reveals a much less satisfactory condition of affairs. They have been talking eloquently of what they ought to do and what they intended to do, but their tale of actual accomplishment is, as yet, a brief one, and there was great need of the prodding they have received from President Taft. Nor will one prodding suffice. They will have to be poked up continually before they are finally started into action on the lines they should follow.

The puttering and amateurish measures that Michigan has taken along lines of conservation the past few years are not far from typical of what has been accomplished generally by the states. Only this week we have been informed that the now defunct forestry commission, Michigan's first venture in the direction of building up depleted forests, failed to complete title to all the lands in the state reserves. We have also the interesting information that the seedlings on the state lands are claimed by a former member of the old commission, because he furnished the seed.

It is justly urged in defense of the former commission that it was inadequately supplied with funds, it having had only about $7,000 annually at its command. This sum was truly insignificant compared with the immensity of the work that the commission was directed to take up, and with such inadequate means at its command no large measure of accomplishment could well have been expected from it. The new public domain commission is organized under a better law and will doubtless be more productive of results. It has for guidance the thorough report of the special commission on state lands appointed by Governor Warner. It is made up of good men, and there is reason to hope that it will formulate plans for making the most of Michigan's public lands. When it brings them forward they should receive the most liberal support by the legislature.

The states should foster forest reserves, establish efficient protection of standing timber against fire, provide for the safeguarding of the public's interests in all water powers on state lands that have not already been pre-empted by private concerns, and should, as far as lies in their power, encourage sane lumbering methods. There is not a state in the union that is yet doing all these things, and, as President Taft points out, if conservation of natural resources is going to obtain the desired results as a national policy the work of the federal government must be supplemented by similar work by all the states.

GROVER CLEVELAND WAS PARTY MAN.

Personal Memories of His Partisanship And His Independence—Famous Victoria Dinner of the Capaign of 1892.

Mr. Cleveland was decidedly a party man. He believed that every man should be active in politcis, and he practiced this doctrine from early manhood. After his retirement we had a talk about this, in which he spoke as having had a letter from a young man asking his advice concerning party affiliations. He said he told him of his own experience, how he had early gone into local party work, standing all day at the polls. Mr. Cleveland added, "I never had anything to do with anything that was shady or corrupt."

I sometimes had an amused suspicion that although he admired and was grateful to the Independents who came to his support more than once, and although he felt a keen moral sympathy with them and gave some of them his intimate friendship, the fact that they had been Republicans and might easily become Republicans again, was just a slight regret in his mind. When, off on some inland fishing expedition, he fell in with an old-time Democratic farmer, especally one who was faithful to what the president considered "sound Democratic doctrine," he warmed up to the old fellow amazingly.

I do not believe he ever voted for a candidate outside of his party. He might have been willing to do so in certain campaigns in his later years, possibly—owing to what he looked upon as un-Democratic platforms and candidates—if he had not possessed an ever-present sense of obligation because of the great honors and responsibilities his party had bestowed upon him. He doubtless voted at times for Democrats not on the "regular ticket," but a feeling of propriety kept him from vehemently opposing a candidate of his party, even if such a candidate, in his opinion, might be leading the party into strange and unfortunate paths.

Yet inside of his "regularity" he manifested always a singular independence and, at times, even detachment. I have mentioned with what nonchalance he held the Tammany leaders at a distance at a time when he and they might easily have fallen into some sort of friendly relations.

Incidents connected with the famous dinner at the Victoria, which Mr. Whitney urged him to attend, during the campaign of 1892, were dramatically characteristic. I was told at the time by a prominent member of the national committee that Mr. Whitney became alarmed at Tammany's lack of interest in the canvass. Mr. Cleveland was shrewdly clinging to the protective isolation of his summer home at Gray Gables, when Mr. Whitney let him know that it was important that he should put something into writing by way of a peace proposition, or pledge, which would so far satisfy the Tammany leaders as to get them to work for the candidate.

To this—so I was informed—Mr. Cleveland's reply was that if the national committee regarded such a written pledge from the candidate as a necessity, they, being well acquainted with the circumstances, must be right; and, therefore, he would gladly step aside so that they could obtain a candidate who would make the required pledge!

As the resignation of the nominee was a thing not to be thought of, he was then asked if he could meet some of the Tammany leaders at dinner. Mr. Cleveland replied that he would meet any persons that the committee thought it desirable for the candidate to meet. He thereupon came to New York and met at table his leading committeemen, with Mr. Croker and members of the Democratic machine. The next day one of the papers announced that at that dinner he had given entirely satisfactory assurances to Tammany Hall.

As it happened I was walking down Broadway that evening with a friend, the Kentucky poet, Robert Burns Wilson, and thought I would drop in and introduce him to the ex-president. Seeing his private secretary, Robert Lincoln O'Brien, in the hall at the top of the stairway, I told him my errand, and asked what was going on. When he informed me who were in council I said that I was sure I was not wanted; but he insisted upon announcing my name, when out came Mr. Cleveland, to spend some time in genial talk with the young Kentuckian. So when, next morning, I read the news of his surrender to Tammany Hall, I could not believe it, not only because it would be out of character, but because he was, when I saw him, far from having the air of a man who was doing something against his will and judgment.

Mr. Cleveland never told me just what happened; but I was told by one who was there that when a certain politician made the demand of a written pledge, Mr. Cleveland flamed up, and, bringing his fist down on the table with a crash, declared that rather than do what was asked of him he would suffer damnation! At this one of Mr. Cleveland's leading supporters "turned pale," thinking it was "all up." After this unmistakable declaration of independence, Mr. Cleveland calmed down somewhat, and subsequently said that if he ever were president again he would not divide the party into personal friends and personal enemies, but would regard all alike and without partiality. It was this last statement to which the Tammany representatives clung, getting what comfort out of it they could. The course of events, in the ensuing administration, it may be added, showed that no embarrassing compact whatever was entered into by the candidate.

Now let us go forward to the eve of Mr. Cleveland's second election. I wonder if it ever happened with a candidate before, in our time, that such an evening should be passed without the presence of a single political associate, in the undisturbed privacy of home!

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, his devoted friend and physician, and myself were alone with him in his home on Fifty-first street. We sat a while chatting in Mr. Cleveland's library, till Dr. Bryant moved to go, when Mr. Cleveland suggested that we walk down to the doctor's house, then on Thirty-sixth street, with him. On the way down Mr. Cleveland said little. When we turned to walk back to Fifty-first street, I found him in a very solemn mood. I do not know how it happened but we fell to talking about that dinner at the Victoria, when he was reported to have placed the New York appointments at the disposal of Tammany Hall.

As I knew better, I did not hesitate to remark: "I will tell you what I said to a friend of mine today: I told him that rather than know that Mr. Cleveland had done what was charged I should prefer to be told that he was dead!" Quick as a flash, "That is right," came Mr. Cleveland's response. "What is a leader to us," I went on, "if he ceases to lead those who, in the cause of good government, have chosen him as their champion? " "You are right," again he exclaimed with warm sympathy and approval.

Then he added that no person had the right to give the details of that dinner, but if they could be fully told, no one would have reason to disapprove his part in the affair. He said ,furthermore, that not to any person had explanation of the occurrence been made, except to a certain prominent Republican, whom he named, one who had come out in his favor at the time of his defeat four years before.—Richard Watson in Century.

FROM MORGAN'S CURB LETTER.

Trading in New York was confined to the few leaders, with the balance of the list almost neglected. Dullness with a lower tendency characterized the Boston coppers. There was no special feature, such trading as there was being fairly well distributed. Boston wires that the 2,200-foot level of North Butte is coming into better ore. In other words, its development is just what might have been expected, and this covers the past three months. Cumberland-Ely was the feature on the curb, selling up to 7 7-16. We have emphatically advised the purchase of this issue for weeks past, and still think it a good bargain. There was considerable trading in all the better known curbs, but with little resulting change in prices. We believe the good curb stocks are the best purchases in this kind of market, as they respond more readily to favorable developments at the mines.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Ellen Quinn's Suit Against the Copper Range Railroad.

The case of Ellen Quinn, administratrix of the estate of Fred James Quinn, vs. the Copper Range railroad opened in the circuit court yesterday morning. It is one of the most interesting cases on the calendar.

Fred Quinn was a locomotive fireman and on Sunday morning, May 19, 1907, was returning to Houghton on his engine, having completed a shift. At or near the Michigan smelter it is alleged that that the embankment of the railroad gave way and the locomotive left the track and rolled down the embankment. Young Quinn was so badly scalded that he died. The case came up in court about a year ago, but the plaintiff submitted to a voluntary non-suit because the statute at that time did not cover the amount of damages recoverable in such cases. The statute has been changed since, and now appears to cover this case. P. H. O'Brien, having associated with him Angus W. Kerr, is the attorney for the plaintiff and Ball & Stone represent the railroad company.

Previously to the opening of this case nothing of interest had come up in the trial of the civil calender. The cases on call are Nos. 59, 60, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 77, 81 and 82.

Dan H. Ball of Marquette is here in conection with the Quinn case.

DEARTH OF JUVENILE CASES.

Judge Bertley's Court Has as Yet Had None to Attend To.

Houghton county youngsters seem to be a pretty well-behaved lot, judging from the first month's record of the juvenile court. The tribunal came into being Sept. 1 and in its first month, closing yesterday, Judge Bentley has had no cases to try. The nearest he came to it was in the arrest of a young girl on suspicion of larceny, but she was released, as no complaint was entered against her.

The building for the detention of juvenile offenders, as the old county building is now somewhat paucerously called, is ready for dealing with juvenile cases. Judge Bentley has fitted up his court room and office in a comfortable manner and the rooms are very pleasant; particularly are they well lighted. When Matron McGrath has the other portions of the building completely furnished it will be a structure perfectly adapted to the objects to which it is now dedicated. The county has spent money liberally on the building and the result appears to be satisfactory.

The result of the first month is perfectly satisfactory to Judge Bentley, who will be more than pleased if the establishment of the court acts as such a deterrent that he will never have a juvenile case to try.

IMPORTANT CRICKET MATCH.

Calumet & Hecla Team Will Meet the All-Stars Tomorrow.

The Calumet & Hecla team, champions of the Copper Country league will tomorrow meet the pick of the nine other clubs in what will prove the biggest and most exciting cricket game of the season in this part of the country. The match will be played on the Calumet & Hecla pitch. Not only the best bowlers in the county, outside of those on the Calumet & Hecla team but also the heaviest batters on any of the teams of the league will face the Calume & Hecla men.

The game will start at 11 o'clock in the morning and will continue until two innings can be played through. This will mean some of the finest and hardest played cricket that the fans of the copper country have ever had opportunity to witness and, in consequence, a crowd of thousands from every part of the district is expected to be in attendance. If the Calumet & Hecla team wins this game, it will be more than any other championship team in this part of the country has ever done, for never have the champions been able to down an "all star" team. The Calumet & Hecla aggregation, however, will be without some of it's best players, as one or two men are ill and one is out of town. The league officials would not postpone the game another week, however, because of the uncertainty of the weather. The two teams will line-up as follows:

Calumet & Hecla—George Hoskins, N. Kaiser, L. Cadwell, W. Venning, J. Semmens, T. Curnow, J. Williams, C. Thomas, T. Polkinghorne, W. T. Martens, H. Cornelier.

All-Stars—S. Davis, Mohawk; J. Williams, Mohawk; J. Pascoe, Mohawk; T. Ralph, Kearsarge; A. Bailey, Kearsarge; R. Roskelly, Kearsarge; S. Dunstan, Painesdale; R. Bodge, Painesdale; A. Skewes, Quincy, J. Thomas, Baltic; W. Verran Mesnard; reserves H. Clemmens, Tamarack, and S. Stone, Baltic.

RETURNS TO SCHOOL WORK.

John J. Summers Opens Chain of Business Schools.

Houghton friends of John J. Summers formerly head of the commercial department of the Houghton Central school, were advised yesterday that he had resigned his position with the Smith Premier Typewriter company in Wisconsin to return to his old profession of teaching. He will be interested in the ownership of a chain of business colleges in Wisconsin.

Mr. Summers was with the Houghton schools for five years and was the most successful commercial teacher the school ever had. He was personally very popular in Houghton and his departure was greatly regretted when he took the position with the typewriter company two years ago. He made a good record with the company and leaves only to return to work for which he is better fitted. Mr. Summers and others will be associated in the conduct of business colleges at Janesville, Baraboo and Beloit, Wis., and he will have the personal charge of the Janesville school.

Shall the upper peninsula play under the Michigan rules as modified by the last meeting of the Schoolmasters' club?—Superintendent E. J. Willman of Gladstone. Discussion led by Superintendent F. D. Davis of Escanaba.

Greater emphasis upon scholarship and physical development in athletic and less upon competitive skill—Superintendent W. D. Hill of Crystal Falls. Discussion led by Superintendent G. G. Malcolm of Norway.

Do athletics aid in developing more effective men and women?—Superintendent J. V. Brennan of Ironwood. Discussion led by Principal H. D. Hughes of Newberry.

KILLED AT THE TAMARACK.

Henry Sobey, aged forty-nine years, is dead as the result of an accident on the 500-foot level of No. 1 shaft of the Tamarack mine, where a station for a large Nordberg pump, similar to those used at the Lake Superior water works of the Tamarack, was being blasted out. Sobey was instantly killed. He was a married man, living in the Bollman addition, Laurium, but had no children. Sobey had charged and was firing or lighting the fuses of five holes, but the first one exploded before he could fire the last.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The inspiration institute for the teachers of Houghton and Keweenaw counties, to be held in Calumet this week, will open this morning. It is expected that practically every teacher in the public schools in both counties will attend. L. L. Wright, state superintendent of public instruction, has appointed Professor F. A. Barbour of Ypsilanti to act as conductor, and Charles R. McKinnery of Milwaukee and E. B. Bryant of Franklin, Ind., as instructors.

S.S.S. REMOVES BLOOD HUMORS

Every pore and gland of the skin is employed in the necessary work of preserving its smooth, even texture, softening and cleansing it, and regulating the temperature of our bodies. This is done by an evaporation through each tiny outlet, which goes on continually day and night. When the blood becomes infected with humors and acids a certain percentage of these impurities also pass off with the natural evaporation, and their sour, fiery nature irritates and inflames the skin, and dries up its natural oils, causing pimples, boils, pustules or some itching rash, or hard, scaly skin affection. S. S. S. cures skin troubles of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. S. S. S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its nutritious, red corpuscles, and enriches it in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acrid matter, is nourished, soothed and softened by this cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S., the greatest of blood purifiers, expels all foreign matter and surely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum and all other diseases and affections of the skin. It removes pimples, blackheads, and other unsightly blemishes from the skin and assists in restoring a good complexion. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired free to all who write

The preliminary organization of the White City company has been perfected and capitalized at $30,000, divided into 1,000 shares at $10 each. The names of the incorporators have not been given out, but many leading Houghton businessmen are known to be included. W. H. He will have the entire plant ready for operation early in June and will have a big excursion steamer on the lake coincident with the opening.

NOT ALL OF THEM "BONANZAS."

A word of Caution as to the Porphyry Copper Propositions.

The success of the Utah Copper company and the Nevada Consolidated is having the natural result of stimulating interest in the newer companies that have been organized to exploit similar ore deposits, and there will be undoubtedly increased speculaton in their shares. In this connection it is worth while to advise some caution, says the Engineering & Mining Journal. Among the newer enterprises there are some, particularly Miami and Ray Consolidated, which will undoubtedly repeat the successes of the older companies. Their development has been carried on so cautiously and so thoroughly, under the most competent engineering direction, that the knowledge as to their ore reserves affords strong ground for this expectation. Giroux also is one of the older and well developed propertes, as to which we shall say a word later. The other porphyry enterprises, such as Gila, Inspiration, Ray Central and Chino, are very new, and as yet comparatively little is known respecting them. The Utah Copper company and Nevada Consolidated were upward of five years in being brought to maturity, and a more or less similar time is to be expected in connection with all such enterprises. This is one condition that should be well considered by investors.

Another condition that should receive careful attention is the difficulty of determining accurately the probable yield of the ore when the exploration is done in a hasty way. It is comparatively easy to make a quick development of a large tonnage of ore in these immense blanket deposits, especially when they are so situated that the existence of ore can be proved by drilling. But drilling as commonly conducted is apt to be a guide only as to the existence of ore and utterly unreliable as to the grade of the ore. However, it may be conducted under certain conditions, with the exercise of extraordinary intelligence and care, as has been apparently the case at the Ray Consolidated, so as to afford what are apparently reliable results. At least, it is said that the sampling of underground openings that have connected with drill holes at the Ray Consolidated have closely confirmed the assay results obtained from the drill holes. Admitting this to be so, it shows only that drill exploration, in order to be reliable, must be conducted with the same engineering skill as at the Ray Consolidated. Everyone knows of drill exploratons elsewhere that have led to great disappointment as to the grade of the ore when the latter has been actually extracted. The most doubtful factor in connection with the newer porphyry mines is the grade of the ore. In early all cases the grade is conceded to be low, anyway, and the decrease of only a few tenths of a unit increases greatly the cost of production per pound of copper. Another doubtful factor that has the same effect is the percentage of extraction in milling. These essential factors can be reliably determined only by extensive underground openings and elaborate mill tests, such as were made in connection with the Utah Copper company, Nevada Consolidated, Miami and Ray Consolidated, all of which requires a good deal of time.

We referred above to the Giroux company, which is among the older porphyry mines; indeed, its exploitation began almost coincidently with that of its neighbor, the Nevada Consolidated. Giroux is still, however, a long way from the producing stage. This company, according to its report for 1907, had developed approximately 4,000,000 tons of porphyry ore of grade similar to that of the Nevada Consoldated and about 350,000 tons of smelting ore, averaging 6½ per cent. copper. Since the acquisition of the control of this company by Cole and Ryan attention has been chiefly directed to the development of the high-grade ore in the Alpha shaft, and it is said that the resources now disclosed there warrant the erection of a large smelting plant, but no authoritative statements have been made. This ore apparently occurs as chamber deposits in limestone, and is of entirely distinct character from the porphyry ore of Ely. It will be remarkable if Ely becomes famous for both kinds of ore deposits in such close proximity as is the case in the Giroux property. But whatever may be the glittering possibilities of Ely in this respect they do not confer any merit upon the numerous wildcats of that district whose property is outside of the mineralized zone so far as present geological knowledge extends, the booming of which is now being resumed upon the strength of the substantial companies of the district.

NORTH BUTTE.

Wiring from Butte, Mont., under date of yesterday, a mining correspondent of that city says: The management of North Butte company for months has refused all information to the public about the condition of the property, but according to news that is brought from the mine by miners the company is coming into its own again. For some time developments on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels were not up to expectations, owing to the fact that the vein was badly faulted. However, the drifts have gone through the fault and the vein on both levels is strong and well-mineralized, though on the 2,200-foot level the ore is still of a low grade. On the 2,000 the westerly drift is about 100 feet ahead of the 2,200-foot level drift and during the past week has come into a body of ore that fills the entire vein for its width of thirty feet, the ore giving an average assay of 5 per cent. As this ore body is about 300 feet from the west end line of the claim, there are prospects of opening a good-sized deposit. It is not unlikely that the same body of ore will be found on the 2,200 level.

It is needless to say that the management and the stockholders in Butte are very much pleased over the developments. After the Anaconda company made its rich finding on the 2,800-foot level of the High Ore mine and at a depth of 2,900 feet in the Diamond mine and the North Butte had passed through the fault on the new levels, mining men familiar with conditions in the Butte district no longer doubted that North Butte would again find copper wealth in its lower levels. Although North Butte and the High Ore are on different vein series, they are nevertheless of the same character and undoubtedly of the same period of formation and therefore there is every reason why they should not be different in value and permanency.

ALLOUEZ.

There is nothing in the underground situation at the Allouez property meriting particular mention, and though the general condition is materially unchanged from that noted in the more recent months it is very evident that average copper content of the ground developed is not being lowered by the character of the new ground opened at depth and in the drift extensions. The No. 2 shaft, in which much the best ground opened in the mine is noted, continues sinking in copper ground that apparently will yield, unmixed with other rock, as much as twenty pounds of ingot copper to the ton of rock and possibly several pounds better than that figure. This class of rock has been in evidence in the shaft for several weeks. However, only a limited production is being had at this point, the rock output averaging around 200 tons daily, compared with a daily outturn of upwards of six hundred tons at the No. 1 shaft.

LAKE.

In denying the report that the crosscut on the fifth level at the Lake property has encountered the lode and that the news is being withheld, an official of the company says that the crosscut is now in eighty feet and is still breasted in trap rock of the same character as has been in evidence for quite fifty feet back. Recent developments at the fourth level indicate a flattening of the lode with depth and that is apparently the situation at the fifth level. This would explain the failure of the crosscut to reach it within the distance calculated. There is nothing in the developments so far to indicate just when the lode will be reached, the change in the dip upsetting all former calculations. The company has nothing to conceal and when the lode is encountered the news will be given out promptly.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

RECOVERY OF THE BANKS A FINANCIAL WONDER

It Was Predicted a Year Ago That It Would Take the American Financial Institutions Five Years to Recuperate After Panic

New York, Sept. 30.—A year ago, when the American Bankers' association was in session, the recovery from the currency panic of October, 1907, had been so slight that many of the bankers were of the opinion that at least five years would be required to bring the condition of the banks up to a level with that which they held prior to the panic. That also was the view held in Europe. Several of the bankers who visited Europe a year ago last summer brought back a like story, although told by various leaders of the banking world across the sea. These returning bankers reported that in London the belief prevailed that at least five years must pass before the United States began really to recover from the effects of the currency fright of 1907.

When the opinion was expressed to some of these English bankers that our recuperative power was greater than in England, it was presumed to be, the English bankers replied by saying that it required not less than five years to recover from the world shattering of credit which was occasioned by the failure of the Baring Bros. It seemed to have been forgotten in England that the currency panic of 1907 was not caused by any failure, although the sudden run upon the Knickerbocker Trust institution made it impossible for that bank instantly to convert all its assets into cash. With a single exception, the currency panic involved no very important business collapses. What was lacking was confidence. And it is now beginning to be realized that the first return of confidence was due to the passage by congress of the emergency currency law.

That law persuaded business men throughout the United States that not again could there be a shrivelling of currency whereby a real money famine would be occasioned. In the treasury vaults at Washington were actual or potential means for reliveing any possible currency distress. This fact so swiftly restored confidence in the amplitude and safety of our currency that there began that amazing reaction which has recently made it possible for the bankers at their annual meeting at Chicago to report that in the United States today there is more currency, absolutely and relatively, than has ever before been in circulation in this or in any other country. In all probability the history of banks and of currency tells no like story of rapid recovery from despair and money famine to confidence and plenty.

The question has been asked many times what does the enormous expansion of bank loans mean. Why, at a time when much of the banking energy of the United States is to be focussed upon the financing of the crops and the harvests from the fields to the markets, is there also such expansion of bank loans as has not been recorded for four of five years. There appear to be no very important or large underwritings with contemplated railroad securities, although the common estimate here is that some time within the next six months the railroads will be in the market for as much as $500,000,000. The loans which have been made to Cuba, and that one which is in preparation for the United State's participation in the Chinese borrowings are really of inconsequential amount. Certainly speculation does not explain this expansion of bank loans.

A somewhat careful inquiry seems to justify the belief that expansion of loans represents in great measure the revival of business and industrial activity. There are very heavy investments in industrial undertakings. Merchants are calling for large lines of discount, and it is expected that, within six weeks or two months, these demands for mercantile funds, so to call them, will be greatly increased. So it is discovered that these heavy loans are on the whole regarded as not only an encouraging, but an inevitable result of the improvement in industrial and commercial conditions.

One incident tends strongly to confirm this view. That is a report which has been made by the postmaster of New York, Mr. Morgan. His figures show that in the month of August the money orders that have passed through the New York postoffice increased over the previous month by $6,000,000. These figures show the magnitude of the banking business done by the New York postoffice. It, as well as the postoffice at San Francisco, are the chief clearing houses in the United States for money orders, domestic and foreign. When Thomas L. James was postmaster at New York he was persuaded that one of the best tests of business conditions were the transactions at the money order office of the New York postoffice. And this was demonstrated to be true at the time of the currency panic. For, in October, November and December of 1907 millions of dollars were withdrawn from the banks, exchanged for money orders and sent to Europe. The movement was all that way. Now the business of the money order office shows healthful normal interchange of money orders, coming to and going from New York, and what has taken place in the New York money order office is also reflected, undoubtedly, in the great expansion of bank loans.

There's no way so sure to find out your ignorance as to try to teach a child.

ANOTHER TARIFF WAR.

This Time the Contest Is Just Among the Democrats.

Leaders of the Party Disagree on the Subject ,and It Is Clear That It Will Not Be a Good Issue in the Campaign—Course During Last Congress Not One That Will Stand Attacks.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Republicans are not alone in having trouble over the tariff. The Democrats are quite as badly harassed by this question as their opponents. Many indications are given that if the Democrats attempt to make an issue of the tariff in the next congressional campaign, as they apparently are inclined to do, it is likely to prove as much of a boomerang as anything else. Representative James T. Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, has been sending out letters to a large number of Democratic members of congress and other prominent Democrats, asking for suggestions as to the issues to be put forward in the next congressional campaign. He wanted material to aid in the preparation of the next Democratic campaign book. In sending out letters to his Democratic friends, Mr. Lloyd urged that such phases of the tariff question as were in controversy among Democrats or had been a cause of controversy in congress between Democrats should be passed over and avoided.

The way in which the Democrats split up over tariff in the special session is a sore point with many members of the party. Especially are the firm adherents of the doctrine of a genuine tariff for revenue only disgruntled. One of those who did not like the references in Lloyd's letter to tariff matters was Representative William Richardson of Alabama. Judge Richardson sat down and wrote a letter back to Mr. Lloyd in which he paid his respects to a lot of things connected with the attitude of Democrats in congress to the tariff. He said that everyone knew how hopelessly the Democrats in congress split up on the recent tariff bill and that the moment they went out before the people and attempted to attack the Republicans for enacting such a measure, the record of the Democrats would be brought up to trouble them. Judge Richardson took the position that unless his party took a frank and manly stand for the old Democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue only they would not be able to make much headway.

How far the advice of Judge Richardson will be taken remains to be seen. The episode, however, is a good indication of the difficulties that pave the way of the Democrats when it comes to the congressional campaign of next year. Democrats are so much at variance over the tariff question that if they are able as a party to accomplish what they hope to accomplish, carrying the next house, it will be largely due to the protest against the bill which has lately become law rather than to any expression of confidence in the Democrats.

Down in Texas the controversy over free raw materials between Senator Bailey and William Jennings Bryan has waxed hot. Senator Bailey is defending the doctrine of a duty on raw materials, and Mr. Bryan is supporting free raw materials. The controversy has become animated and is likely to run on for some time. Both men have attracted large crowds. The controversy is made the more interesting because all of Bailey's old enemies are supporting Bryan. It is the opinion of some who have observed the situation closely that Senator Bailey is perfectly willing to have the controversy go on for the reason that while his enemies are assailing him on this score, they are not attacking him on anything else, and are letting go of the question of what has been his corporation record.

In this connection it is said that former Representative Benton McMillin of Tennessee will be a candidate for the senate in that state. Mr. McMillin had a long carrer in the house and finally resigned about ten years ago to run for governor of Tennessee. He was in the house when the Dinley bill was passed and led the fight for the Democrats against the bill.

On the other hand, Mr. Bailey, then in the house, lined up with the Republicans on some features of the bill, such as the woolen schedule. This led to an animated discussion between Bailey and McMillin. It estranged them. McMillin scored Bailey's attitude bitterly, and said it was the first time he had seen a tariff bill defended by a Democrat. It is not likely that the old feud between Bailey and McMillin has died out, and the old-timers who remember the row between the two men are wondering what will happen if McMillin goes to the senate.

There would be no public nuisances if public nuisances never increased the profits of influential people.

HOOKED HIM THROUGH NOSE

Small Boy Makes the Biggest Catch of Season—His Prize, a Fellow-Fisherman.

Washington, Sept. 30.—A small, red-headed, barefooted urchin sat fishing from the wall of the tidal basin, and, without even trying, made the biggest catch of the season. The catch weighed 150 pounds and was judged by competent experts to be about thirty-eight years old. The catch was, strange to say, hooked through the nose, having apparently made no effort to grab for the bait. His name is Joseph P. Kuttner, and his home is at 212 Tenth street southeast. It took all the skill of the Emergency hospital surgeons to get him off the young fisherman's hook.

Kuttner gathered his fishing tackle together early, laid in a liberal supply of bait and hied him blithely to the basin for a merry afternoon's fishing. His hope for a nice catch of bass ran high. He found a likely looking spot on the stone wall and made his cast. Soon a small boy came along and took up his position beside Kuttner. Either the boy was over anxious or his nerves were on edge or he just naturally possessed the impulsive, artistic temperament.

Anyhow he had been angling but a little while when he thought he had something. This boy was no expert. He knew nothing of that deft and gentle preliminary pull which top-notch anglers use to get a firm grip on their catch. Grabbing the pole with both hands, the Titian haired youth laid back on it with a heft that would have pried a shark loose from his watery home.

No fish responded to the powerful pull, but a glistening, baitless hook did. It came hurling through the air in the direction of Mr. Kuttner and, with fiendish accuracy imbedded itself firmly in that gentleman's proboscis. Mr. Kuttner said afterward that he was surprised.

His first impulse was, naturally, to kick the red-headed boy as far out into the basin as the strength of his trusty right leg would let him. But the fleeting thought of his own nose soon forced Mr. Kuttner's ire into the background. He fumbled in his pocket for a knife, cut the line that held the hook, left his tackle in the cart of the boy whose murder he had gleefully contemplated a moment before and unceremoniously beat it for the Emergency hospital.

As the crow flies the distance from where Mr. Kuttner was fishing to the Emergency hospital is about a mile. Few crows ever flew as straight and none ever flew as fast as Mr. Kuttner ran. He paid no more attention to "Keep off the Grass" signs than a boy-pursued alley cat does to a ten-foot board fence. Three park policemen and a bicycle cop sighted Kuttner as he passed them, but it was a case of "here he comes—there he goes," for before they could catch breath Mr. Kuttner was out of earshot and gaining speed at every jump.

At the hospital he was attended to with care as soon as the surgeons and nurses could control their laughter. Mr. Kuttner did smile once after the hook had been removed from his nose, but the smile soon came off as he remembered the red-haired boy. He sent a friend after his deserted tackle, gave up his afternoon's sport and went home.

"He hasn't much sense," said the health fad enthusiast, disgustedly. "Why, he hasn't enough sense to go out into the wet."

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Let there be no evasion—we mean chronic and supposed incurable cases involving dropsy, albumen and casts. They are curable in a great majority of all cases.

Let us cite a typical case—that of Mr. R. F. Nitsekke, of 1246 Spaight Street, Madison, Wis. There had been eight physicians on this case and it got so extreme that he finally had one of the last symptoms; namly, failing eye-sight. In January, 1907, the doctors admitted that nothing further could be done, and they sent him to Eureka Springs, Arkansas. He continued to get worse, the dropsy finally reaching the stomach, heart and lungs. At one time tests showed albumen as high as 75 per cent.

He learned of Fulton's Renal Compound and began to take it July 3rd. Dropsy began slowly to decline and the albumen dropped to forty, then to twenty, then to ten, and finally to two per cent in May, 1908.

The patient is now back to his employment and is devoting full time to his business.

Patients desiring to know more of this treatment can get full literature by writing to the John J. Fulton Company, San Francisco, Cal.

Fulton's Renal Compound can be had in your city at The Stafford Drug Co.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week.

Marble is entirely out of date. Granite soon gets moss-grown, discolored, requires constant expense and care, and eventually crumbles back to Mother Earth. Besides, it is very expensive. WHITE BRONZE is strictly everlasting. It cannot crumble with the action of frost. Moss growth is an impossibility. It is more artistic than any stone. Then why not investigate it? It has been adopted for over one hundred public monuments, and by thousands of delighted customers in all parts of the country. It has been on the market over 25 years and is an established success. Many granite dealers have bought White Bronze for their own burial plots. I have hundreds of beautiful designs of all grades of work, and want to have you see them if you are interested in a monument, headstone, marker or grave cover. Thomas Madden Dead—Thomas Madden, an old-time woodsman of Marquette county, died at the county house yesterday at the age of seventy-five. Madden was admitted to the county house last June. On Sept. 10 he left the institution and secured employment at the New Dalton mill. He was unable to stand the work, however, and the first of this week he decided to return to Marquette. On the way back he was taken ill at Clowlay, and sought refuge at a farmer's house, whence he was brought to the county house Thursday and passed away a few hours later. He has no known relatives.

New Pressing Machine—There has recently been installed at the Marquette Steam Laundry a clothes pressing machine, which is said to be the first machine of the kind in the upper peninsula. The device is a great labor saver as with its use a suit of clothes can be pressed in twelve minutes whereas it takes about forty-five minutes to press a suit by hand. The article to be pressed is inserted between superheated steam plates, which are brought together by foot power. In addition to speed, the machine has many other advantages, such as leaving the clothing absolutely dry when the pressing is done and rendering it impossible to scorch a garment. The Marquette Steam Laundry cleaning, pressing and dye works is now one of the best equipped in this part of the country.

A decrease is noted in the number reported from tuberculosis of the lungs, other forms of tuberculosis, diphtheria and croup, scarlet fever, measles, pneumonia, meningitis and influenza.

There was one death from smallpox during the month, returned from Cass county. One death from rabies was returned from Lapeer county. Tetanus was responsible for two deaths during the month, one each in the counties of Manistee and Muskegon. The extreme heat during the month caused seven deaths, one each in the counties of Baraga, Bay, Montcalm, Osceola and Tuscola, and two in Menominee county. Forty deaths were returned from accidental drowning.

There were 4,993 births returned to the department as having occurred during the month, which corresponds to an annual birth rate of 22 per 1,000 estimated population. The number returned is an increase of 206 over the preceding month, and is also an increase of 213 over the number returned for the corresponding month of 1908.

In Marquette county there were forty-nine deaths reported for August, which corresponds to a death rate of fifteen per thousand population. DETROIT VS. PITTSBURG.

Much Interest Locally in World's Series Soon to Be Played.

It is hard to say in which baseball games Marquette fans are taking the greater interest, the world's championship series between Detroit and Pittsburg or the fight between Ishpeming and Negaunee for the top of the percentage column in the Marquette-Alger County league.

Large crowds of Marquette supporters of the Tigers have nightly awaited the reports from the American league games at Willesen's news stand, especially those in which Detroit and Philadelphia have had a part. For the last few days since Detroit has had the pennant practically cinched, the interest in the coming world's series has steadily increased. As in all parts of the United States, in Marquette Pittsburg seems to be picked to win the series, though the local fans would gladly have it otherwise.

This feeling is largely based on the fact that Detroit has made such a miserable showing against the Chicago Cubs the past two seasons. However, there are those who claim that the Cubs simply have it on the Tigers, and that Jennings' men will give a good account of themselves in the six games with the Pirates. That the White Sox easily defeated the Cubs in the world's series three years ago is cited as proof that the teams of the American league are in no wise inferior to those of the National organization. Both the Pirates and the Tigers have the reputation of heavy hitters, and the team that stacks up best against strange pitchers is likely to win. Though there is more Pittsburg than Detroit money in sight, there is no disposition locally to give odds on the Pirates.

PLANNED A RAILWAY LINE TO PANAMA.

E. H. Harriman Behind a Project for a Continental Line Through Mexico to the Isthmus.

New York, Sept. 30.—Had E. H. Harriman lived and his health been restored so that he could have taken up the more important features of the work he had planned, it is probable that there would have come some time in the fall or early winter information justifying the inference that Mr. Harriman and some of his railway interests were really behind the amazing project reported today involving the construction of a railway along the backbone of the Central American republics, from Mexico to Panama.

The late Hinton Rowen Helper died of a broken heart in Washington about two years ago because he saw no likelihood of the consummation of the purpose he had cherished for thirty years, namely, the construction of a hemispheric railroad by means of which it would be possible to travel from the headwaters of the Mississippi at Minneapolis, or from Chicago, Boston, New York or Philadelphia, without change of cars to Montevideo or to Buenos Ayres. Mr. Helper was just a little ahead of his time. The reports received in this city within a day or two would, had he lived long enough to read them, have been likely to have given him a new lease of life. For it is impossible to consider the project with which the American ambassador to Mexico, Mr. Thompson, and others are identified in any other light than that their proposed Pan-American railroad of Central America will not stop at the Panama zone, but, after bridging the canal, will be so continued as to meet the slowly but surely approaching South American railway for which the engineers are now trying to master the great obstacles of the equatorial Andes.

Although there have been technical and qualified denials that the Harriman extensions into Mexico were to become a part of this Pan-American railway system, yet it is not easy to conceive of any great expansion southward through Mexico and Central America which was not inspired by Mr. Harriman and which did not represent some of his purposes. His mind was full of the possibilities in Mexico and in Central America. He believed that adequate transportation would solve a very serious problem, namely, the rapidly diminishing beef cattle industry in the United States. The magnificent ranches of northwestern Mexico, containing millions of square miles, only needed in his view good transportaton for their utilization for beef cattle purposes. And the possibilities of agriculture, to say nothing of mining, throughout Mexico and the Central American republics, would he was sure if developed bring very profitable business to the railroads.

This Pan American railway of Central America is to demonstrate the truth of the theory that trade follows the tracks as well as the flag. When Marvin Hughitt carried the Chicago & Northwestern railroad over 1,000 miles of uninhabited prairie to Pierre they asked him where he expected to get the business, and his reply was that the business would follow the railroad, as it did. Reports recently received in this city tell of quick development of business along the newly constructed Pacific expansion of the Mineapolis and St. Paul railroad, a business which, if reports are accurate, represents an earning capacity equal to 6 per cent. upon the investment. So, if Ambassador Thompson and others are about to build at a cost of thirty millions a railroad bisecting north and south Central America, they must expect that trade is to follow the tracks. That is exactly what is expected in South America. And it seems to be not a too presumptious prophesy that within seven years a Pan American line will have been completed to the Panama zone, running north and south, or that ten years later the great system in South American paralleling in the main the parallel of longitude which identifies Central South America will also have been constructed.

These demonstrations of the influence of the Panama canal and of that new railway impulse which is bringing American capital into Mexico and Central America for railway construction, inevitably emphasize the strong suspicion that within the next four or five years the new individual force in greater American railway affairs may be Edwin Hawley. His name has been often mentioned as suggesting great possibilities, not as the successor of Mr. Harriman, for it is now apparent that no one person is to be his successor. It is now recognized in this city that brilliant railway strategy, and probably the exercise of great gifts of railway diplomacy made it possible for Edwin Hawley to secure the Chesapeake & Ohio railway system. For him to do that was to return to his first railway family associations. But if he is to get to the Pacific coast, it is still presumed that this is to be done through co-operation with one of the most brilliantly successful and original of modern American railway builders, A. E. Stillwell. Mr. Stillwell's railroads, stretching from Kansas City southwesterly to the Gulf of Mexico, with a terminal at the port of Tapolobampo, is to have far less difficulty in the financing of it than in the engineering features. There still remains the tremendously difficult construction of that railway across, through, over or under the Sierra Madre range. But if Henry Meiggs could take a railroad from the coast line of Peru over the Andes, there seems to be no engineering reason why Mr. Stillwell, with the financial support of the Dutch bankers, who have every confidence in him, should not be able to find engineers competent to build his railroad through the 50 miles which separte the eastern foot hills from the western foot hills of the Sierra Madre range.

The construction of this railway and the expanding of it into a transcontinental system under the leadership of Edwin Hawley must have in view vital competition with the Panama canal. The harbor of Tapolobampo, now called Port Stillwell, is unsurpassed upon the Pacific coast. The managers of one of the German lines of steamships have concluded negatiations which, when carried out, will establish a Pacific line from the harbor to the Orient, and it will be the shortest line measured by the great circle. These steamboat managers are ready to put steamers into service as soon as the railroad is completed.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s correspondent at New York yesterday telegraphed as follows:

"Despite the strength shown in C. & O., the stock market today displayed a hesitating tendency. Considerable realizing was in progress, and the shifting of loans in preparation for the October disbursements caused a flurry in call money rates which induced some pressure. The recent advances have reduced the short interest, which has tended to weaken the position of the list in view of the moderate outside participation, for which reason we are inclined to look for a moderate recession, but we believe that prices will ultimately seek new high levels."

Boston Stock Quotations.

Wiring from Boston yesterday, Paine, Webber & Co. had the following to say of the stock market:

"The local market was again very dull today, with no distinct tendency either way. Certain stocks were strong and others were weak, but the trading was light. Osceola advanced three points closing at the top. North Butte held firm all day, while Centennial Allouez and Shannon were weaker. The market is waiting for better metal news, and will probably do little except in specialties until such news is given out."

Copper Metal Prices.

New York, Sept. 30.—The market for standard copper was easy today, with spot, September and October quoted at 12.50@12.75, the November at 12.50@12.80 and the December at 12.65½@12.87½. The London market was easy, with spot quoted at £59, 6s, 3d and futures at £60, 2s, 6d. Local dealers quoted Lake coper at 13@13.25, electrolytic at 12.75@13 and casting at 12.62½@12.87½.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Shorts in September wheat and oats were severely "squeezed" today when the price of the current month's delivery of wheat was bid up fourteen cents and oats five and one-half compared with the final figures the previous day. The top for September wheat was reached at 1.20, while the high mark for oats was fifty. Corn was not affected, the September breaking three cents on realizing sales.

The sensational advance in September wheat occurred during the final half hour, when the prices advanced from around 1.17 to 1.20. A stampede among the small shorts was responsible for the remarkable upturn. Shorts who had put off "covering" until the final day, hoping for a break, suddenly became alarmed and bought regardless of price. Prior to the final spurt the market had been comparatively featureless, and with the exception of the September was inclined to weakness. The December opened at 99¾ to 100; highest, 100⅜; lowest, 99⅜; closing, 99¾@99⅞.

Corn—Liquidation of September holdings was the order of the day, the sentiment being extremely bearish throughout the session. The September declined from 64½ to 61½, while the December sold off from 58¼ to 59¾. The market closed ¼ to ¾ lower. The December opened at 58⅛ to 58¼; highest, 58¼; lowest, 57¾@57⅞; closed, 57⅞@58.

Oats—The September advanced from 46 to 50 during a day filled with intense excitement. Belated shorts bid the price up 5½ from the previous close. The distant deliveries were only slightly affected by the spurt in the September. The market closed with the September 3½ higher. The December opened at 38½; highest, 38⅞@39; lowest, 38⅜; closing, 38½@38⅝.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s Wheat Summary.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s Chicago correspondent said yesterday concerning the wheat market:

"It was a wild market in wheat the last half hour today, because it was the winding up of the September contracts. It was well known that there was a widely scattered short interest still to be covered in September. The price edged up to 109 on some early buying by shorts, but it was not until near the close that a group of brokerage firms went after the wheat in a determined way. Their buying put the prices to 110. A fair amount of wheat was covered on the advance to that figure, then the offerings ceased to a large extent, and as the bidding continued the market went with a whirl to 120, with but few trades on the way up. That it was purely a squeeze of belated shorts who were powerless to make deliveries because of the fancy premiums for cash wheat for weeks and months past was shown by the fact that the later months at the same time showed considerable heaviness. The foreign markets were all weak and lower for the day. There were some reports from the northwest that the farmers are surrendering their storage wheat checks and are selling wheat more freely than for some time. This was offset by the fact that the Minneapolis stocks increased only 175,000 bushels for five days, compared with a 2,000,000 increase the same time last year. There are indications that the local trade was somewhat oversold in the late months at the close. We believe the market will meet with excellent buying on good depressions."

HORSE RACE SURPRISES.

Supposedly Unbeatable in His Class, Paderewski Is Out-Trotted.

Columbus, O., Sept. 30.—Paderewski, an Illinois trotter, whose appearance in the 2.07 class today scared out The Harvester, was beaten in each heat by Wilkes Heart. This result, next to the defeat of George Gano last Tuesday, was the most startling of the meeting.

Paderewski last week took the record of 2:05¼ and was ranked then as unbeatable by a horse of his class. Today he sold the favorite, at $100 to $14 for the field, which was small after the withdrawals of The Harvester and San Francisco. Locust Jack in first heat and Wilkes Heart, in the second, set a pace so fast that Paderewski could not get to the pole quick enough. He made breaks in both miles and was unable to recover the ground so lost. He trotted all the way in the third mile, but never lapped Wilkes Heart.

Flora Coffee, a stable mate of Wilkes Heart the choice for the 2.15 pace, was second in that race, Alcyrias securing the victory by winning the first two heats, the first one in a dive with the favorite. Baron Whips, the winner of the 2:07 pace, was the pronounced choice and had all the speed of the party. The Eel scored a hollow victory in the free-for-all pace, neither Hedgewood Boy or Citation being able to prevent the race being a procession. The summaries:

INVENTS GLASS COFFIN.

Texas Man Declares That Bodies Can Be Preserved Forever.

Forth Worth, Tex., Sept. 30.—Beeville has an inventor, Dr. H. G. Becker, who has turned out the newest thing in coffins—a casket made of glass. He is now in Baltimore, Md., directing the casting of his invention. The doctor perfected his coffin nineteen years ago, but was never able to obtain a satisfactory preserving fluid. For thirteen years he had a man in Egypt trying to fathom the secret process used in preserving the old mummies. This agent learned the language, secured a bottle of fluid that was analyzed, and this formula is now used, Dr. Becker claiming to be the only one outside of Egypt who knows the formula. The glass of which the coffin is made is mixed with lead, the lead first being given chemical treatment which makes it stand the necessary heat to which the glass is subjected during the molding process.

This discovery, according to Dr. Becker, is most valuable, giving glass four times its strength. The glass thus treated is made of a grayish hue and not easily transparent. The coffin is the shape of a bottle, with one side flat. When the body is slipped in feet first the head is left directly under a transparent portion of the glass. The end is sealed by screwing in a glass stopper securely. This done, the air pump is used, all air being pumped out.

The vacum thus created forms a power of sufficient strength to pull the stopper from the bottle containing the liquid which, when liberated, forms a preserving gas. Dr. Becker claims the body will stay preserved forever.

If a human being continued to grow at the same rate as he does in his first year he would be 68 feet tall at the aged of 10.

One Dress in Eight Years—

In circuit court at the Soo, a decree of divorce has been granted in the case of Florence Sheldon vs. Frank Sheldon. Non-support was alleged. The case was not contested. The complainant testified that her husband frequently requested money from her, and that he bought her but one dress during their eight years of married life.

Violated Quarantine Regulations—

Arrested on the charge of disregarding the quarantine regulations of the health officer, Joseph Kozin of Ironwood was arraigned before Justice Shea and assessed a fine of $25 and costs, the total being $29.50. It is said that there has been much disregard of the quarantine regulations in different places in the city and the officials propose to put a stop to that sort of work. It is believed that a few stiff fines will have the required effect and greatly assist in stamping out contagious diseases.

Bridge Crew Makes Record—

The bridge gang of the Northwestern made a record at Brampton the other day when it jerked out the last of the old wooden bridge there, swung two great iron girders seventy feet long into place and had the tracks laid in time for the next train, which passed three and one-half hours later, to pass. Two big derricks were on hand to lift the girders and the rapid way in which the work was handled would have made many a steel contractor jealous.

Bagged Two Wolves—

Peter Dockstater, of Trout Lake, Chippewa county, bowled over two wolves in short order one day during the past week. He was taking a stroll through the woods back of the village and as usual had his trustry rifle with him when he espied a fawn well nigh spent with fatigue. Dockstater suspected at once that it was being hunted and sat down to await developments. He had not long to wait before two wolves hot on the trail of the fawn came into sight and before they were aware of the hunter's presence he had brought them both to the ground with well-aimed shots.

Taxes Paid at Glasgow—

The statement is frequently heard that the people of Glasgow, Scotland, pay no municipal taxes. While abroad on hs recent trip William Glacken of Sault Ste Marie took pains to investigate the matter and he says that the statement is not true. He says that property owners not only pay taxes now but that there has never been a time in the history of the city when they were not called upon to do so. He brought back with him a tax receipt made out to John McIntyre. It shows that in 1908 Mr. McIntyre paid something over two pounds sterling as taxes on property located at No. 93 Norfolk street, and he says that he has been a resdent of and a taxpayer in Glasgow for forty years. These taxes are in the nature of assessments made by the municipality for the conduct of public affairs.

Voting Machine Company Sues—

City Attorney Jennings sprung a surprise at the meeting of the Escanaba council this week, when he announced that the city has been made defendant in a suit brought against it by a representative of the Abbott Voting Machine company of Hudson, Mich. The plaintiff is a Hudson lawyer who holds what he claims to be a contract between the city of Escanaba and the company, for the voting machines which the city installed three years ago. He claims to be an innocent holder and sues for the interest due. Mayor Greenhoot came out flatly before the council, stating that in his opinion the machines were worthless. The council, by a unaninous vote, placed the matter in the hands of the city attorney, to defend the case to the supreme court if necessary.

In commenting upon the matter, Mayor Greenhoot stated to the council: "I do not believe the people of Escanaba want to beat anybody. I know the council doesn't. But it has been the people who got beat in this case. The machines did not give satisfaction. While they were voting the machines broke down. They are not what we want and I do not see any use of the city's paying $2,300 or $2,400 without getting value received. If it was my own business I would go to the supreme court with the case. I do not believe in spending the people's money without getting value received and I am willing to pay my share of the costs of the case."

The machines were purchased by the city, after the voters of Escanaba, by a two to one vote, decided to have them installed.

RECORD YEAR FOR FRUIT OF ALL KINDS

IN SPITE OF HEAVY YIELD IN MANY STATES PRICES ARE HIGH, WITH NO INDICATIONS THAT THEY WILL BE ANY LOWER.

"All previous records in this country in the amount of fruit of various kinds produced and sold will probably be broken this year," an Ishpeming fruit dealer said yesterday. "In spite of the fact that the yield of fruits is perhaps 25 per cent larger than during any season in the past four or five years, prices are high.

"The buyers of New York and some of the other eastern states have created an unusual demand for Michigan fruit. They were in the field some weeks ago and made deals with as many of the large growers as they could reach for shipments extending late into the fall. They agreed to take practically all of the better quality winter fruit offered.

"I am advised by the lower peninsula dealers that there is an abundance of apples, grapes and peaches for immediate delivery, but in spite of the heavy yield prices are not as low as we expected they would be. Apples that will keep for a few months, but are not guaranteed for the winter, are now selling at $3.50 per barrel. Good winter stock will probably go considerably higher. The Michigan peach crop is the best that I have seen in five or six years and the fruit is not excelled anywhere. The crops in California and New York are also exceptionally large, but it is reported from both of these states that the prices are firm.

"I believe that a greater quantity of fruit will be canned this fall than at any previous time. There will also be immense quantities of grapes put into wine. Few grapes are sold for that purpose here, but in all localities where Italians and Austrians are numerous carloads are now being received. There is perhaps no section of equal area in this country where as many grapes are used for wine as in the copper country. I understand that more than twenty carloads have already been delivered there this fall. The Concord grapes are now plentiful in Ishpeming and they are selling at a lower price than at any previous time this season. A number of carloads have been received during the past week or ten days and grapes of excellent quality are retailing at about twenty cents per basket. Several carloads of early apples have been sold in this county.

"The present ruling prices for fruits of various kinds are not such that the dealers will buy heavily for future delivery, as they consider them too high for the quality of stock available. I believe that the Michigan winter apples will be exceptionally fine, but in view of the fact that the eastern buyers have contracted for such large quantities of them I doubt very much if many will come this way."

HAS A GREAT RECORD.

Few plays attain the record breaking popularity that marked the two years' run of "The Great Divide" in New York, which will be presented at the Ishpeming theater tomorrow evening. This play was produced two years ago by Henry Miller at the Princess, and transferred to the historic Daly theater last season, playing in all over 600 performances, and receiving the largest receipts in the history of either house.

SHIPMENTS STILL HEAVY.

Mining Companies Calling for More Cars Than Railways Can Supply.

The ore movement continues heavy. The railroads are constantly being urged to supply more cars. All of the yard crews are putting in extra time and it is expected that the steam shovels will continue to work Sundays for at least a month.

A local railroad man said yesterday that every car available on all of the roads handling ore from the Marquette, Cascade and Menominee ranges is in use, and that 500 or more cars could be used to good advantage in the three districts. The shipments from both the Marquette and Menominee ranges will be considerably heavier than last year. There will be a comparatively small tonnage of ore left in stock at the mines here.

There have been very few mishaps in the yards this season, in spite of the almost continuous rush. No serious break downs have occurred, and there has not been a wreck of any kind since the season opened

DOUGHERTY STOCK COMPANY.

Organization Here All Next Week Comes Well Recommended.

The Dougherty Stock company, which will play at the Ishpeming theater all next week, opening Monday night with a comedy, "A Quaker Tragedy," is said to be one of the best popular-priced attractions that has visited the theaters of this circuit. The plays to be produced are new to local theatergoers, and some high class vaudeville acts will be introduced. James and Hattie Dougherty, the leading members of the company, were here two seasons ago. The prices will be ten, twenty and thirty cents.

The Janesville (Wis.) Press said of the company:

"The Dougherty Stock company, which has been playing at the theater all the week, was such that the attendance increased largely each night. The people of Janesville have nothing but praise for this company, which is playing here for the first time to crowded houses."

If your piano needs tuning, William Leininger will take your order, and M. J. Olson will do the work. (6-28-tf)

DEATH OF OLD RESIDENT

John Cutler, an old and highly respected resident of the city, died yesterday morning after an illness of three years. His condition had become critical during the past few weeks, and his relatives had realized for some days that the end was near. Mr. Cutler and his family located here some twenty years ago, having previously resided in Massachusetts. He entered the employ of the Oliver Iron company shortly after coming to this city, remaining with the company until three years ago, when he was obliged to give up work because of poor health. He is survived by his widow, one son, Philip Cutler, and two daughters, Mrs. Steven Corins, and Miss Mae, all residing here. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. John's church.

IS FINE GOLF PLAYER.

Bert P. McKinnie, who, with his wife, Mrs. Tekla Farm-McKinnie, gave a concert last evening at the Ishpeming theater, is said to be an exceptionally fine golf player. He was the champion at St. Louis, Mo., for three years. Mr. and Mrs. McKinnie are to give concerts at several places in the upper peninsula, also Minnesota, before departing for their home.

The meeting of the Odd Fellows, to be held in the new hall of Ahmeek lodge this evening promises to be one of the largest gatherings that any of the Odd Fellows' societies of the county have ever held. The hall will not be dedicated tonight as it has been decided to defer this ceremony until all of the work on the second floor is completed. The members have reason to be very proud of their new quarters, as the hall is one of the best in the upper peninsula. The members of Ahmeek lodge are requested to meet at their old hall in the Sellwood block at 7:30, where they will remain until the arrival of the special train from Marquette and the street cars from Negaunee, all marching in a body to the new hall. # MEMORY OF NICHOLAS LAUGHLIN HONORED

OBSEQUIES OF NEGAUNEE'S LATE PIONEER MERCHANT ATTENDED BY MANY FRIENDS FROM OUT OF TOWN.

The funeral of the late Nicholas Laughlin, held yesterday morning from St. Paul's church, under auspices of the Negaunee division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, of which the deceased was a charter member, was one of the largest ever seen in Negaunee. The line of carriages was considerably over a half mile long, and extended the entire length of Iron street, two blocks on Pioneer avenue and one block on Case street. Among those in attendance were many friends of the deceased from Marquette and Ishpeming.

The services, consisting of a solemn high mass, were most impressive. Rev. Father Langner, who had been an intimate friend of the deceased for years, celebrated the mass and was assisted by Fathers Pinten and Moriarty of Marquette and Lamoot of this city. The choir was assisted by Henry Nevins, baritone, of Ishpeming, and Mrs. Harry Trembath, soprano, of this city. The pallbearers were Frank Mulvey of Marquette, Dennis Driscoll, Phil Hogan, Michael O'Leary, James Gaffney and Patrick Reidy. Among those who attended the services were the members of the board of education and all of the teachers of the public schools, and several of the clergy from other churches.

During the services business was suspended in Negaunee. Interment was in the Negaunee cemetery.

Tribute from Superintendent Schurtz.

Responding to a request of the representative of The Mining Journal to write a brief tribute to the late Nicholas Laughlin, my mind naturally reviews an acquaintance and personal relation with him covering the past eight years. I shall always remember the warm hand clasp and the hearty, cheery greeting he extended to me when I came to Negaunee to begin my work in the schools. During my first two years here, he filled the office of secretary of the board of education, and in consequence our personal relations were close. As I recall these relations, it seems to me they were characterized at all times on his part by the same personality he disclosed at the meeting already alluded to. Always outspoken, always sympathetic and encouraging, always reliable, always firm in his support of both teachers and superintendent, and yet ever mindful of parent and pupil, he displayed the same qualities of heart and head that made him a forceful personality in the business life of Negaunee, and endeared him to his intimate friends and the public at large.

He loved peace and harmony and stood for these in everything that had to do with in school matters. Firm, when lack of firmness was likely to lead to complication and annoyance, if not to genuine trouble, at the same time he was always ready to listen to the other side of the question and weigh its merits and defects.

Above all, he was tender hearted, sympathetic and kind in all his relations with the teachers and the schools. If at times moved to criticise or speak out plainly, he did not hesitate to do so, but there went with this plainness an intangible something that voiced the unspoken but deep-seated sympathy of the man. And he had charity for all; I mean that charity of the heart that led him to see the good impulse and the right intention in almost everybody.

In his attitude toward everything connected with the schools, he was thoughtful, encouraging, just and fair. If he hesitated to favor a departure from former custom or to assent to innovation, it was in a spirit of inquiry rather than one of opposition. When satisfied a measure under consideration meant better teachers, better schools, better advantages for the children, his co-operation could be counted on with certainty. This spirit characterized his entire official action in connection with the erection of the new high school building and the much needed renovation of the Case street school, especially in the matter of light and ventilation. When the board visited the Mary Charlotte mine location only recently to decide whether or not to built there a schoolhouse to accommodate the children, who now are compelled to travel long distances to other buildings, he was quick to express his belief that such a school was a necessity, and his vote was cast for it without hesitation.

At the last regular meeting of the board of education, only two weeks ago, Nicholas Laughlin occupied his customary seat, apparently in even better health than usual. Little did others of us who sat around the table with him suspect it was for the last time. The board will miss his long-time presence; teachers and pupils have lost a long-time tried and true friend; and I personally am bereaved of a wise councilor, a firm supporter and, more than all, a true friend.

ORR SCHURTZ.

Board Adopts Resolutions.

At a special meeting of the board of education, held in the board rooms at 10 o'clock a. m. Sept. 28th, the president announced the death of Nicholas Laughlin, one of the board's most honored members, whereupon the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the members of this board are deeply shocked and grieved by the sudden death of Nicholas Laughlin, at his home early this morning. We recognize that in his removal this board, of which he was a member for twenty-two years, loses one of its most active, conscientious and valuable members; the teachers and schools an earnest friend and loyal supporter, and the district a high-minded and valuable public servant. In so far as mere words are able to voice our own and the public's deep appreciation of such earnest and efficient services as he rendered during these long years, we feel it a sacred duty to testify to his great worth as a member of this board; and we hereby express our profound sympathy with his family in their sudden and heavy bereavement.

Resolved, That this action be entered upon the records of this board and that a copy be transmitted to his family, and to the papers for publication.

TO LEAVE NEXT WEEK.

Rev. Coombe, and Family, Will Depart for Ironwood Thursday Night.

Rev. W. B. Coombe, pastor of the Mitchell Methodist church, who was assigned to the pastorate of the Ironwood church at the Detroit conference, will preach his farewell sermon here Sunday, and the pulpit will be occupied by his successor, Rev. D. C. Plannett, the following Sunday. Rev. Coombe and family will leave here next Thursday night. Rev. W. J. Balmer, the retiring pastor at Ironwood, was promoted to the superintendency of the Port Huron district and will leave for there the coming week. Rev. Balmer was last year appointed by the conference as one of the delegates to the general conference at Baltimore, Md.

Rev. Coombe yesterday said that he has no reason to feel disappointed with the change, though his removal came as a surprise to him, as he fully expected to return to the Negaunee parish. At a meeting of the congregation held prior to the conference he was endorsed by a unanimous vote and invited to remain the coming year. Some few years ago he received a call from Ironwood, but declined it. He did not know that he was to go to Ironwood until a short time before the appointments were announced. The Ironwood congregation is a little larger than the one here, and it has a fine church property and parsonage. The church is provided with a pipe organ and the parsonage is a modern dwelling.

WEDS AFTER WEEK'S COURTSHIP

Former Negaunee Girl Marries Famous Italian Bandmaster.

Miss Irma Orphia Calamara, a former wellknown Negaunee girl, who left here with her mother, Madam Calamara, less than a year ago for Detroit, was married on Tuesday to Francesco Creatore, the famous Italian bandmaster, who, with his band, is filling an engagement in that city. The marriage took place after a week's courtship. The following dispatch relates to the marriage:

"Francesco Creatore, the Italian bandmaster, bowed his acknowledgments to his listeners a week ago and he little thought that in the audience sat a young woman who would be Signora Francesco Creatore before the week was over. Miss Irma Orphia Calamara was the girl. The marriage took place in Justice Teagan's office today, the bride being attended by her mother, Mme. Calamara, and the groom by Assistant Director Angelo Callendo.

"'It was love at first sight,' said Mme. Calamara. 'My daughter was fascinated with the attainments of the young director. I wrote a note to Mr. Creatore, asking him to include certain Italian selections in his program, and he became greatly interested in us from the fact that we were so interested in Italians and Italian music. He came to call and the young couple became devoted to each other. The wedding brings happiness to us all.'

"'I liked Detroit so well that I decided to stay here,' said Creatore. Signora Creatore is twenty years old. She is a daughter of the late Emillo Calamara, director of a band in Chicago."

EXPECT TO OPEN MONDAY.

Cleo Meilleur, manager of the Negaunee National bank, who has been in the city the greater part of the week, yesterday said that the bank will probably be opened for business Monday morning. The charter, which was applied for immediately following organization, is expected today or tomorrow. The combination of the safe, which was purchased by E. N. Breitung some six years ago, for the bank that he had planned to start here at that time, has been lost, but the manufacturers at Canton, O., have been asked to send a duplicate. The safe has never been used. The bank's temporary quarters in the Neeley block are ready for the opening. Men have been employed there for several days putting in the necessary counters and furnishings. Mr. Meilleur said that the bank has some seventy odd shareholders, more than 50 per cent of them being residents of Negaunee.

BACK FROM AFRICA.

Frank Peek, who left Negaunee six years ago for Johannesburg, S. A., has returned, and will remain here permanently. He lived in Negaunee for some years before going to Africa, and is well known to many of the older residents. Enroute, he met James Reynolds, who left here some two or three weeks ago for Johannesburg.

W. MARCELAIN'S FATHER DEAD.

Thomas Marcelain, father of William Marcelain, proprietor of the barber shop in the Sundberg block, died Monday at the family home at Hubbell, in the copper country, and the funeral was held Wednesday from St. Cecelia's church at Lake Linden. Mr. Marcelain was called home over a week ago, but is expected back from the copper country today. The deceased is one of the pioneer residents of Houghton county, having located there something over forty years ago. He had lived in different parts of the copper country, and had resided at Hubbell for the past twenty-eight years. He was born in Canada and was sixty years of age. Besides the widow there are eight sons and daughters surviving.

BANK'S RECEIVER SUES E.D. NELSON

FORMER PRESIDENT OF DEFUNCT IRONWOOD FIRST NATIONAL NOW IN THE LIMELIGHT.

SALE OF STOCK ILLEGAL?

Plaintiff Alleges That Defendant Knowingly Accepted Credits of Bank in Payment for 339 Shares Sold Jahn and Larson.

Owing to the principal defendant having formerly been a well known resident of Ishpeming, a suit recently started in United States court, following upon the failure of the First National bank of Ironwood last June, is of unusual interest to Marquette county people. This suit is brought by Philip Tillinghast, receiver of the defunct bank, as plaintiff, against Edward D. Nelson, Elvin T. Larson and Chester G. Rogers administrator of the estate of Herman F. Jahn, deceased, praying that the court declare void the sale of 339 shares of bank stock by Nelson to Larson and Jahn in January, 1906, and compel Nelson to pay to the bank the full value of shares of stock, which were sold for $55,850.

The bill of complaint filed by the receiver sets up that at the time the sale was made Nelson was president of the First National bank of Ironwood, Jahn was vice president and Larson, cashier, and that the three held 460 shares of the stock of the bank. It is alleged that at that time the bank was insolvent and was known to be insolvent by the three defendants; furthermore, that Nelson personally owed large sums of money to divers creditors, who were threatening bankruptcy proceedings against him.

Bank Paid for Nelson's Stock.

In order that Nelson might be able to pay these creditors, it is charged that he, Larson and Jahn conspired to sell Nelson's stock. To further this conspiracy, Larson and Jahn purchased 339 shares from Nelson for $53,850. Accordingly, it is alleged, Larson and Jahn gave Nelson $9,000 in money and the balance in credits, notes, etc., all of which were a part of the credits of the bank, and not the property of Larson and Jahn. These notes and credits are separately set forth in the bill of complaint, where they appear to be largely notes, held by the bank against Jahn, Nelson, or public service corporations in which Nelson is generally believed to be a controlling stockholder. Among the corporations named are the Ironwood water works and the Ironwood and Hurley electric light and street car system.

It is alleged that Nelson received these moneys and credits with full knowledge that they belonged to the bank and not to Jahn and Larson, and that Nelson converted the moneys so obtained to his own personal use. It is further claimed that, with Nelson's knowledge, false entries were made in the bank's books to cover up the transaction.

For all these reasons Receiver Tillinghast asks that the sale of said 339 share of First National bank of Ironwood stock by Nelson to Larson and Jahn be decreed by the court to be void and set aside; furthermore, that Nelson be compelled to account for and to pay in full to the receiver of the bank the full value of said credits and moneys so delivered to him.

This suit is likely to be one of the many litigations in connection with the Ironwood bank failure that will come up at the May term of federal court. From a court standpoint, it is evident that the settlement of the affairs of the defunct Ironwood First National have only begun, when those criminally guilty have been detected and their punishment meted out.

AN INTERESTING FINISH.

Though Ishpeming Is in the Lead, Negaunee Stands a Chance to Tie.

Next Sunday will close the Marquette-Alger County league season, which has been a very successful one, in spite of certain unpleasant happenings. Though the expenses have been heavier than a year ago, the interest in the games has been proportionally greater and at least three of the teams in the league have made money.

There are still four league games to be played, one between Munising and Ishpeming at Ishpeming Saturday, two between the same teams in Marquette Sunday, and one between Negaunee and Marquette Sunday. All of these games will be hard fought. In order to remain at the head of the league, Ishpeming must win all of her games with Munising, provided Negaunee defeats Marquette Sunday. If Ishpeming should lose one game and Negaunee should win, the two teams would be tied for first place, and the tie would have to be played off later.

However, it is little more than possible that this combination of events will take place. Marquette will go into the game Sunday with the determination of defeating Negaunee and the Negaunee players are equally determined to hand it to Marquette. Rivalry for this game is heightened because of the feeling that has recently sprung up between the fans of the two cities, which is shared by the players.

Judging from previous games played, Ishpeming should be able to take all three games from Munising, though there is always that baseball uncertainty, which makes the game interesting, to be reckoned with. It is stated that Frost, Cole and other of the Rapid River players will be in the Munising line-up against Ishpeming, which should greatly strengthen the Alger county team, and it would be no staggering surprise if Munising were to cop off one of the contests.

CITY WATER PROBLEM AGAIN DISCUSSED

JOINT MEETING OF BOARD AND SPECIAL COMMERCIAL CLUB COMMITTEE HELD LAST EVENING.

A joint meeting of the water board and the special committee appointed by the Commercial club some time ago to work with the water board was held at the city hall last evening. The chief objects in holding the meeting were to exchange ideas and that the Commercial club committee might be better informed as to what the water board had done and was doing toward the improvement of the city water supply. The work thus far done by the water board met with the entire approval of the Commercial club committee, and plans were discussed for further efforts, in which the water board was assured of the co-operation of the committee.

It was learned that the water board already has gathered together a large amount of data, relative to the different plans for improving the water supply that have been suggested. In fact, there was some question as to whether there was not already sufficient data at hand on which to decide upon and pursue a definite course of action. However, Chairman Roberts, of the Commercial club committee, was asked to write a New York engineering firm with wide experience in installing city water plants, as to the price for which one of their most expert men would come here for a day and look over the whole situation.

One of the serious problems that faces the board is the difficulty in raising money to do anything, owing to the provision in the charter requiring a majority of all the voters in the city to carry a bonding proposition. The opinion seemed to be that the water board should first decide and put clearly before the public just what improvements were going to be made, and that the Commercial club would then do all in its power to secure a majority vote at a bonding election. Another joint meeting is likely to be held in the not distant future, at which more definite action may be taken.

ARCTIC DISPUTE WILL DRAG ALONG

Cook's Refusal to Submit His Data at Once to a Competent Scientific Body Stands in the Way of an Early Adjustment.

While Peary Is Willing and Anxious to Comply With This Condition, His Rival Persists in His Determination to First Lay His Records Before the University of Copenhagen When He Has Worked Them Out a Number of Months Hence.

New York, Oct. 1.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook's refusal to submit his observations, notes and other data at once to a competent scientific commission is all that stands in the way of compliance with the suggestion of the National Geographical society that such step on the part of Cook and Peary should precede any official recognition of the claims of the two explorers. Correspondence made public tonight shows that Peary has already formally signified his willingness to comply with this condition but that Cook, in a letter to Archer Huntington, president of the American Geographical society, has declared that he will continue in his determination to lay all his records and instruments first before the University of Copenhagen.

According to the announcement made tonight, President Remsen of Johns Hopkins University was asked by Henry F. Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, and by Mr. Huntington to appoint, through his authority as president of the National Academy of Sciences, a committee of astronomers, geographers and zoologists to whom the records of Peary and Cook would be submitted. Dr. Remsen declined, "unless it is clearly understood that both Peary and Cook are willing to submit their evidence to such committee." Mr. Osborn at once took steps to obtain the consent of Peary and Cook. He received a dispatch in behalf of Peary that the commander was "willing and desirous to submit all his records and data to a National Academy committee or other scientists impartially selected."

Dr. Cook at first fell in with the suggestion, but later sent the following to Mr. Huntington: "In pondering over the problems which you were kind enough to present at your visit yesterday, it appears to be an injustice to the Danes to consent to the appointment of the board of examiners after I had definitely agreed to submit my material first to the University of Copenhagen. I therefore ask your indulgence for a few months; and following the Danish investigation the record will be sent to all the geographical societies in the world, after which it becomes public property. I appreciate the good offices of the American Geographical society and its fair and friendly attitude, and promise that it will have early opportunity to go over the entire data of my polar conquest."

President Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History, issued a statement tonight to show why the National Academy of Sciences was the body best qualified to select such a committee of scientists as that suggested by the National Geographical society.

Brooklyn Man Lectures at Boston.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Introduced as one who "did not come to criticise or defame another, or to say that others had not done what he had done," Dr. Frederick A. Cook delivered a lecture tonight at Symphony Hall. He replied to the claim of George Kennan in a magazine article that Cook could not take sufficient food on two sledges to last eighty-two days, saying: "Kennan had an idea that we used pressed ox meat. We could not have lived on less than five thousand pounds of such meat. But we had pemmican, and used one pound per man and per dog per day. One pound of pemmican is equal to five pounds of fresh meat, so Kennan's figures are all right when properly applied." Dr. Cook included Peary's name in the list of explorers who had preceded him.

SEIZED BY MEXICANS.

Supposedly Poaching, an American Fishing Schooner Comes to Grief.

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 1.—The fishing schooner Caldwell H. Colt, of this port, has been seized by a Mexican gunboat off Progress. Her crew of eight men are imprisoned. The schooner left here fifteen days ago, supposedly for the Campeachee fishing banks. Today came news of her seizure, evidently upon a charge of poaching on the Mexican fishing preserves. Owing to the seizure three years ago of a schooner belonging to the same firm, the master af the Colt was warned not to enter the Mexican fishing grounds and if driven in by stress of weather to place all fishing tackle below.

GENERAL GRANT CONGRATULATED.

Rockford, Ills., Oct. 1.—The following resolution was adopted today by the Ministerial and Laymen's associations of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church: "Resolved, That we note with great pleasure the action of General Frederick Grant in participating actively in the law and order and temperance demonstration held in Chicago, and congratulate the army on having an officer who by his actions so well demonstrates the uprightness and love of order that are expected of every American soldier."

New Philadelphia, O., Oct. 1.—Louis Parsons, a painter, shot and killed his wife after a quarrel here today, and then shot and fatally wounded himself.

AVIATION IMPOSSIBLE AGAIN.

Wind Conditions Are Such That Wright and Curtiss Refuse to Fly.

New York, Oct. 1.—A fitful wind, averaging more than fifteen miles an hour, prevented Wilbur Wright and Glen Curtiss from making flights today.

Curtiss came to the city from Governor's island during the day and met the representatives of Chicago interests who claim to have obtained the use of the Hawthorne racetrack for a three day series of flights following Curtiss' engagement at St. Louis next week. While these representatives declared that Curtiss had accepted their offer, the aviator later said that he had not definitely decided and added that if he accepts the dates for the flights will be Oct. 15, 16 and 17. While Curtiss goes to Hammondsport tomorrow night, he intends to make every effort for a flight up the Hudson and around the battleships before he leaves. Wright has agreed to make flights here until Oct. 9, and he has planned a number of lengthy air trips, in addition to the one up the Hudson.

Captain Baldwin today abandoned the attempt to sail his dirigible to Albany for the $10,000 prize. He announced that he would leave for St. Louis to compete in the aeronautic races there Oct. 8 and 9. Tomlinson, the only other aeronaut in the Albany competition, has sent his dirigible to Baldwin's factory for repairs. Tomlinson is undecided whether he will go to St. Louis.

Indianapolis' Carnival Is Called Off.

Indianapolis Oct. 1.—The aviation carnival scheduled for the motor speedway has been cancelled. Failure to reach suitable terms with the aviators is given as the principal reason.

Madisonville, Ky. Oct 1.—The balloon Indiana, which left Indianapolis last evening descended at White Plains this morning. The gas was exhausted.

Berlin Witnesses Two Good Flights.

Johannisthal, Oct. 1.—Today brought the best results yet attained during aviation week. Rougier covered 130 rounds of the course, finally descending on account of darkness. The distance traveled was 80.6 miles, and the time 2 hours, 41 minutes and 50 seconds. Farman covered 51 miles in 1 hour and 21 minutes. Decaters made 18.6 miles in 34 minutes, and then had trouble with his motor.

GREAT MARINE PARADE UP THE HUDSON RIVER

Caraval Half Moon and Steamer Clermont Sail from Manhattan to Newburgh, Escorted by a Fifteen-Mile String of Ships Crowded With Passengers.

New York, Oct. 1.—Henry Hudson has sailed north again and the waters of the Manhattan harbor mirror no more the crescent stern, the spreading spars and the orange ensign of his caraval. The Half Moon and the Fulton steamer Clermont departed today as types. They will return as museum curiosities.

An escorting squadron with 500,000 passengers followed the two ships to Newburgh. The Dutch cruiser Utrecht, the United States scout cruisers Salem and Birmingham, the submarines and parent ship Castine, with gunboats and the naval auxiliaries, had preceded them, and the only ships of war in line were the destroyer Worden and six torpedo boats following her. Behind them came a fifteen-mile string of crowded river and sound liners.

The Robert Fulton led the way, carrying the governors of New York and Vermont, the officers of the foreign fleets, the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission and Henry Hudson, mayor of Hudson. On the three succeeding ships were other invited guests of the commission. Explorer Peary disappointed the directors of the parade by failing to fall into the front of the line. His ship did not start until they had passed and it arrived an hour late at Newburgh, but this was on account of a mishap to the steering gear.

The repetition of the historical pageant held on Tuesday was witnessed by enormous crowds, but with some bewilderment, for only half of the original fifty-four floats were seen and there was a strange juxtaposition of the historical pictures. The bungle is explained by the fact that half of the floats, which were to be taken to Brooklyn on scows, did not arrive on time. Tomorrow there will be children's exercises throughout all the boroughs of New York.

DR. ANGELL STEPS OUT.

Retires from the Presidency of the U. of M. After a Term of 38 Years.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 1.—Dr. James B. Angell today retired from the presidency of the University of Michigan, an office he had filled for thirty-eight years, except for the two periods when he was away on leave of absence, filling the posts of United States minister to China and United States minister to Turkey. The regents have appointed Dean H. B. Hutchins, of the law department of the university, acting president, pending the appointment of a permanent successor to Dr. Angell.

MORE CHRISTIANS WANTED.

Pittsburg, Oct. 1.—"We need more officers who are Christians. What we lack is more true followers of Christ. To make the Boys' brigade a financial success we must have true Christians leading it," was the statement of Lieutenant General H. C. Kilner, of Baltimore, commander-in-chief of the United Boys' brigade of America, here today. Pittsburg is thronged with boy soldiers attending the annual convention of the United Boys' Brigade. Probably four thousand boys and men connected with the brigade are present.

DISTRICT WILL BE REDCCED.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Following the appointment L. T. Plummer as the new inspector of immigration for the Chicago district comes the information that the district will be reduced. At present Chicago is the headquarters for Illinois Indiana, Tennessee, Kentucky and Michigan. Tennessee, it is reported, will be added to the New Orleans district, and Kentucky to the Cleveland district.

GREAT OVATION IS GIVEN PEARY

New York City and the Surrounding Country Accord the Explorer a Welcome Such as Few Returning Heroes Receive.

Standing on the Bridge of the Arctic Ship Roosevelt, the Naval Man Is the Most Prominent Feature in the Sixty-Mile Hudson-Fulton Marine Parade, and All the Way Up the River He Is Accorded a Notably Magnificent Reception.

New York, Oct. 1.—New York today gave Commander Robert E. Peary a welcome such as few returning heroes receive. Standing on the bridge of the Roosevelt, the explorer, with his wife by his side, was the most prominent feature in the sixty-mile Hudson-Fulton parade from New York to Newburgh. All the way land and water vied in cheers and congratulation to the white ship whereon the military-locking man smiled his answer. Captain Bartlett was kept at work so incessantly with his whistle cord in answering salutes that Engineer Wardwell called up from the engine room and said that he would not have steam enough to move the vessel if the master did not stop whistling.

Having proved herself so stout that no sea or ice floe could turn her back, the Roosevelt broke her steering gear on the tranquil Hudson just below West Point. Anchor was dropped while the tiller rope was spliced, causing an hour's delay.

Commander Peary said tonight: "I am deeply appreciative of the reception given the officers and crew of the Roosevelt and myself. It was magnificent." Mrs. Peary also was delighted and smiled her happiness. Both departed tonight for Portland, Me.

The explorer declined to talk about the Cook controversy, except to say that the Peary Arctic club would make his statement public next week.

Such Ovations Rarely Seen.

Commander Peary had scarcely headed his three-masted auxiliary schooner up the river when the marine demonstration began. Passing the long and imposing file of foreign and American battleships, the "North pole flag" was kept constantly bobbing in answer to the dipping colors of the war vessels. The crowds on the passing excursion boats, which easily left the Roosevelt astern, cheered and sang patriotic airs. Along the banks of the Hudson the groups that had gathered to witness the marine procession shouted and cheered, waved handkerchiefs and fired cannons as the Roosevelt passed.

When J. Pierpont Morgan, on his steam yacht Corsair, espied the Roosevelt, in a jiffy the quartermaster began to lower the yacht ensign. As the Corsair swept by the Roosevelt, Commodore Morgan bared his head until the Arctic ship had been left astern. Peary waved his cap in recognition. There was a sharp contrast between the trim, lordly yacht and the Roosevelt, but both flew the burgee of the New York Yacht club.

The Roosevelt this afternoon anchored at Newburgh near the flotilla of scout cruisers, submarines and torpedo boats. The lateness of the hour did not diminish the noisy greeting of the vessels anchored there. Peary and his party boarded a tug and were put ashore at Fishkill Landing, where he took a train for New York.

Summed up, the Roosevelt's trip up the river instead being of one of the features of the Hudson-Fulton naval parade, stood out as a demonstration to Peary, the like of which has rarely, if ever, been seen.

Forced March too Much for Many Soldiers of the Second Infantry.

Cincinnati, Sept. 1.—While on a forced march, under orders of the war department, from Fort Perry, O., to Fort Thomas, Ky., a large number of the soldiers of the Second infantry dropped from the ranks, through exhaustion. The ambulances were overcrowded with disabled men.

PECULIAR RAILROAD MISHAP.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 1.—A westbound Pennsylvania passenger train was struck by cars which, backing out of a steel plant here tonight, separated the engine from the tender. Kent Stafford, the fireman, was fatally hurt, and Engineer Cummins was thrown off and injured. For two miles the engine ran wild, and then struck a switch engine and knocked it off the track, injuring Engineer Simpson.

Still Having Designs on the America Cup, It Is Learned That He Proposes to Challenge the New York Yacht Club.

However, the Prospects for a Series of Races Appear Decidedly Dubious—Titled Tea Merchant Objects to Providing a Craft That Must Cross the Ocean Under Her Own Sail, and the Defenders Are Not Disposed to Waive the Requirement

New York, Oct. 1.—Joseph Garretson, managing editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, on arriving here from Europe today brought word from Sir Thomas Lipton that he will sail for New York this month and will challenge the New York Yacht club. He quoted Sir Thomas as saying:

"I'll race for the cup if permitted to do so on even terms. But I'll not engage to sail a marine freak across the ocean to compete against a skimming fish. When the Shamrock crossed the ocean she came within an ace of sinking. I'll never ask another man to subject his life in such useless risks."

Sir Thomas said he hoped the New York club would permit the race under the conditions he suggested. Otherwise he will leave a sum in his will, with directions to his executors to build a yacht to compete for the America cup whenever the New York yachting organization sanctions a contest under fair conditions. Mr Garretson added that King Edward himself is deeply interested in yachting and supports the renewal of Lipton's efforts, and that the aristocratic circles in England will give them the countenance which it is said they have so far withheld.

It is evident here that if the New York club accepts a challenge from Sir Thomas under the conditions named, it would be a direct violation of the deed of gift, the terms of which provide that the challenging yacht must cross the ocean under her own sail. This provision Sir Thomas told Mr. Garretson allows the defender to be designed along lines of speed only, while the challenger must be a seaworthy craft. Yachtsmen here regret the situation, but see no way to overcome the obstacle.

London, Oct. 1.—Sir Thomas Lipton stated tonight: "I am always ready to challenge with any size boat they like and under the universal rules existing in all American clubs, but I am unwilling to challenge under a rule made fifty-six years ago and not used in any races in America?" Sir Thomas will start for New York next month.

SPANISH GENERAL IS KILLED.

Alfonso's Troops Suffer a Serious Reverse in Battle With Moors.

Melilla, Oct. 1.—A Spanish force from Zeluan, reconnoitering yesterday in the direction of Sokel Jemis, encountered the Moors and met with a serious reverse. General Diaz Visario and three other officers and fourteen men were killed, and one hundred and eighty-two men were wounded.

This morning the Spaniards, under General Marina, again advanced in the direction of Sokel Jemis, but were attacked in front by five thousand Moors. The last reports stated that a severe fight was progressing.

Tangier, Oct. 1.—The mountain tribes of the Maza region are hurrying to the support of the Riffs who are fighting the Spaniards around Melilla. It is said that the tribesmen are acting upon orders from Mulai Hafid, the sultan, but this is not credited.

Rebel El Roghi's Horrible Fate.

Paris, Saturday, Oct. 2.—A despatch to the Matin from Fez says that the rebel El Roghi was executed by Mulai Hafid himself. The correspondent says that the sultan, assisted by a chamberlain, dragged the pretender into a cage of lions and then provoked the animals which inflicted horrible wounds on the captive. As the lions left him, despite the goadings of the sultan, the monarch pulled the still living victim outside with hooks, emptied a can of oil over him and set him afire, feeding the flames until nothing remained but the charred bones of the pretender.

MEXICO FACES A CORN FAMINE.

Mexico City, Oct. 1.—Mexico faces a corn famine which will require lifting the import duty on corn, according to the secretary of the Sociedad Agricola Mexicana. Frost which has injured corn to an extent estimated at a million dollars is the culmination of a series of disasters—rains in some sections, droughts in others and cyclones which swept away a great portion of the crop in the central district. Ninety per cent of the vegetable crop has been destroyed.

YERKES ESTATE SETTLED.

New York, Saturday Oct. 2.—According to the World, Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes has arranged a settlement of her husband's estate under which she will obtain a one-third interest, or substantially the same as she would have obtained if the court had awarded her dower rights under the laws of Illinois.

MORE RACE TRACK INDICTMENTS.

New York, Oct. 1.—Four more indictments in connection with the investigation of the horse races at Sheephead Bay and Gravesend were returned today. The names were not made public. Nineteen indictments had previously been brought against alleged bookmakers.

U. S. STEEL CONTINUES ITS PHENOMENAL RISE

Atchison, too, Sells at a New High Record—Money Rates Stiffen, However, and Speculation Is Held in Restraint, With the General Tone Irregular.

New York, Oct. 1.—The call money market today showed the effects of the requirements upon it, and the higher interest rate or the limitation of the funds offering, which caused it, held the speculation in stocks in restraint. The further phenomenal rise in United States Steel helped to offset the influence of the dull demand. Atchison also sold at a new high record, on intimations of an increased dividend.

A sharp advance in the private discount rate in London today gave point to the prediction that the Bank of England would raise its discount rate before the end of October. New York exchange at Chicago fell back again to thirty cents discount per $1,000 and showed a renewal of the interior demand on New York for currency. In addition to the adverse trade balance, there are heavy maturities approaching of obligations for American securities held in England, notably $25,000,000 of New York city revenue warrants which come due Nov. 1. Meantime the flotation of important new bond issues in New York has been deferred, and the expected participation in these of foreign banking houses is not forthcoming. As to our own interior banking situation, a compilation just published of the reports to the comptroller on the condition on Sept. 1 shows how well loaned up were the national banks on that date. The loan item had increased nearly $100,000,000 since June 23, last, and over $378,000,000 since Sept. 23 of last year. The deposits had increased $111,316,000 and $461,758,000 for the same periods, respectively, while the cash holdings had fallen off very materially. As a consequence, the percentage of the reserve Sept. 1 was 21.67, compared with 22.37 on June 23 and 22.47 on Sept. 23, last year.

Money on call opened at 4 per cent today and fell to 3 per cent, with reassuring affect on the speculative tone. There was some small response, however, to the strength of United States Steel, Reading, Atchison and a few others, and when the call loan rate stiffened to 4½ per cent late in the day it had weakening affect on the whole market. The final uprush of Steel to 92 left the closing tone irregular.

TREASURY OFFICIALS GRATIFIED.

Condition of Uncle Sam's Finances Shows a Notable Improvement.

Washington, Oct 1.—The public debt of the United States is $2,648,602,846, which includes $1,353,059,869 in certificates and notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury. The available cash balance in the treasury is $94,206,114. The aggregate debt increased last month to the extent of $2,958,235, but excluding the $1,353,059,869 in certificates and notes which are offset by cash the government debt amounts to $1,295,542,977, an increase of only $37,235 for September.

A cut of practically eight and one-half million dollars in the excess of the ordinary disbursements over the ordinary receipts so far this fiscal year, compared with the corresponding period last year, and a gain of a million dollars a month in the internal revenue and an increase of almost $19,000,000 in the customs for July, August and September, compared with the same period a year ago, are shown in the monthly report of the treasury. The treasury officials are gratified at these figures.

Stripped of the Panama canal and public debt figures the ordinary receipts aggregate $52,347,659 for last month and $161,066,517 for this fiscal year, a decrease of almost $19,000,000. The disbursements were $52,968,845 for the month and $182,146,629 for the fiscal year, making the excess of ordinary disbursements over receipts $621,186 for the month and $21,134,112 for the past three months, the last named figure being a decrease of $8,486,262 from that for the corresponding period last year.

The value of the imports in August last amounted to $117,081,689 and of those of August, 1908, $91,183,536. The exports last August were valued at $109,610,237 while for August, 1908, they were valued at $110,443,053.

REPLIES TO MR. BRYAN.

Senator Bailey Discusses the Tariff in an Address at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 1.—Senator Bailey, in an address here tonight in reply to the recent tariff declarations of W. J. Bryan, criticised Mr. Bryan for asserting that the only real reform attempted in the tariff was while the Democrats quarreled among themselves for the protection of the industries of their respective districts. Mr. Bailey characterized this as "a terrible indictment of the Democratic party" which would be used by the Republicans in the next campaign. The senator declared this indictment "almost mendacious," and said that with the single exception of Senator McEnery, of Louisiana, every Democrat had voted for lower duties than proposed in the Republican bill, a measure of which Senator Cummins, of Iowa, had declared that, bad as it was, it was better than any bill the Democrats could make.

Mr. Bailey declared that he did not vote to take the tax off of that which the manufacturer buys or that which the manufacturer makes, but would vote to reduce that tax to a revenue basis. Answering Mr. Bryan's declaration that he is seeking the election of a Democratic congress, the senator asked why he came to Texas, where the delegation to congress is solidly Democratic, and advised him to exert his influence in Nebraska.

HARRY THAW APPEALS.

Albany, Oct. 1.—The New York court of appeals next week will be asked to pass on the legality of the commitment of Harry Thaw to the Matteawan state hospital, also whether oral betting is a violation of the anti-race gambling laws. Thaw contends that the question of his sanity should have been determined by a jury.

PRESIDENT TAFT GOES TO TACOMA

From an Assemblage Thronging the Big Armory There, He Receives One of the Most Cordial Greetings of His Journey.

His Opposition to Home Rule for Alaska Creates a Sensation, Coming as It Does on the Heels of a Petition Asking His Support, but He Stands Steadfast and Will Make No Recommendations to Congress Until After He Has Visited the Territory.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 1.—President Taft came to Tacoma tonight and received from an audience thronging the big Armory one of the most cordial greetings of his trip. The president came from Seattle on board the private yacht El Primero, escorted by the torpedo boat destroyer Perry. Mr. Taft had earlier paid his last visit to the exposition and viewed the livestock exhibition. From the judges' stand he made a brief speech, amid a chorus of bleats, grunts and lowing. Mr. Taft promised today to attend the exposition at San Diego in 1915, in celebration of the completion of the Panama canal.

The president's speeches during the remainder of the trip will be extemporaneous, and will consist largely of an amplification of those he has already made. In making his set speeches, the president has selected in the different cities visited the subjects he believed of greater interest to his hearers. His outspoken opposition here to self-government for Alaska has created something of a sensation, coming on the heels of the dispatch of a monster petition from Alaska, asking his support in favor of home rule. It is understood that the president will make no specific recommendations to congress for legislation affecting the territory until after his visit there.

The president will arrive in Portland tomorrow morning, and after two days there will continue southward and turn eastward and will be at Los Angeles Oct. 12.

Plays Golf for Hours.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 1.—President Taft visited the Alaska-Yukon Pacific exposition this morning and witnessed a parade of blooded stock in the livestock show. On his way to the fair he reviewed the children of the Broadway High school. After half an hour at the stock show, the president and his party were taken to the Seattle Golf club, where they spent five hours. At 4 p. m. the president departed for Tacoma.

SENATORS DEMANDED HIS HEAD.

To Relieve Mr. Taft from Further Embarrassment, Auditor Person Reigns.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Declaring that the two South Dakota senators have been working for "his official decapitation for political reasons" and that he has decided to relieve the president from further embarrassment, Robert S. Person, auditor for the interior department, today tendered his resignation, to take effect Dec. 1. Mr. Person said:

"For several months past the president has been greatly embarrassed by the political situation in which I am a factor. Since his inauguration, the two senators from South Dakota have been persistently demanding my official decapitation for political reasons, although all of us profess to be Republicans. I have decided to relieve the president from the further embarrassment incident to the industry of the senators from my home state in demanding my separation from the service.

"It is needless to say," he continued, "that hereafter I shall enjoy that freedom of expression and action in public and political affairs which is denied me in my present position."

Lieutenant Governor Howard C. Shober, of Highmore, S. D., will be appointed Person's successor.

PINCHOT ASKS LEGISLATION.

Wants Laws That Will Prevent Monopoly in Water Power Sites.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Asserting that a monopoly is organizing to obtain possession of water power sites, Chief Forester Pinchot declared today that remedial legislation must be enacted at the coming session of congress in order to throttle such trust.

Mining Prospectors Complain.

Goldfield, Nev., Oct. 1.—The report of the sub-committee for Nevada on forestry matters, read before the American Mining congress today, declared that the regulations imposed by the forestry bureau regarding mineral claims in the forest reserves were such that prospecting thereon is at an end. Other delegates argued that the law fully sustained Forester Pinchot's acts. George Otis Smith, director of the geological survey, spoke on the interest of mining men in land classification. Dr. E. R. Buckley, of Flat River, Mo., was elected president of the congress.

WILL INSPECT BRITISH HARBORS.

London, Oct. 1.—The American waterways commission arrived here today and will spend a fortnight in England. The commissioners will visit the Manchester ship canal and Liverpool and other harbors.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 1.—With less than a minute to go in a scheduled ten-round bout, Kid Carter, of Brooklyn, was knocked out by Cleve Hawkins, the negro middleweight of Boston, here tonight.

BANK'S RECEIVER SUES E.D. NELSON

FORMER PRESIDENT OF DEFUNCT IRONWOOD FIRST NATIONAL NOW IN THE LIMELIGHT.

SALE OF STOCK ILLEGAL?

Plaintiff Alleges That Defendant Knowingly Accepted Credits of Bank in Payment for 339 Shares Sold Jahn and Larson.

Owing to the principal defendant having formerly been a well known resident of Ishpeming, a suit recently started in United States court, following upon the failure of the First National bank of Ironwood last June, is of unusual interest to Marquette county people. This suit is brought by Philip Tillinghast, receiver of the defunct bank, as plaintiff, against Edward D. Nelson, Elvin T. Larson and Chester G. Rogers, administrator of the estate of Herman F. Jahn, deceased, praying that the court declare void the sale of 339 shares of bank stock by Nelson to Larson and Jahn in January, 1906, and compel Nelson to pay to the bank the full value of shares of stock, which were sold for $55,850.

The bill of complaint filed by the receiver sets up that at the time the sale was made Nelson was president of the First National bank of Ironwood, Jahn was vice president and Larson, cashier, and that the three held 460 shares of the stock of the bank. It is alleged that at that time the bank was insolvent and was known to be insolvent by the three defendants; furthermore, that Nelson personally owed large sums of money to divers creditors, who were threatening bankruptcy proceedings against him.

Bank Paid for Nelson's Stock.

In order that Nelson might be able to pay these creditors, it is charged that he, Larson and Jahn conspired to sell Nelson's stock. To further this conspiracy, Larson and Jahn purchased 339 shares from Nelson for $53,850. Accordingly, it is alleged, Larson and Jahn gave Nelson $9,000 in money and the balance in credits, notes, etc., all of which were a part of the credits of the bank, and not the property of Larson and Jahn. These notes and credits are separately set forth in the bill of complaint, where they appear to be largely notes, held by the bank against Jahn, Nelson, or public service corporations in which Nelson is generally believed to be a controlling stockholder. Among the corporations named are the Ironwood water works and the Ironwood and Hurley electric light and street car system.

It is alleged that Nelson received these moneys and credits with full knowledge that they belonged to the bank and not to Jahn and Larson, and that Nelson converted the moneys so obtained to his own personal use. It is further claimed that, with Nelson's knowledge, false entries were made in the bank's books to cover up the transaction.

For all these reasons Receiver Tillinghast asks that the sale of said 339 share of First National bank of Ironwood stock by Nelson to Larson and Jahn be decreed by the court to be void and set aside; furthermore that Nelson be compelled to account for and to pay in full to the receiver of the bank the full value of said credits and moneys so delivered to him.

This suit is likely to be one of the many litigations in connection with the Ironwood bank failure that will come up at the May term of federal court. From a court standpoint, it is evident that the settlement of the affairs of the defunct Ironwood First National have only begun, when those criminally guilty have been detected and their punishment meted out.

AN INTERESTING FINISH.

Though Ishpeming Is in the Lead, Negaunee Stands a Chance to Tie.

Next Sunday will close the Marquette-Alger County league season, which has been a very successful one, in spite of certain unpleasant happenings. Though the expenses have been heavier than a year ago, the interest in the games has been proportionally greater and at least three of the teams in the league have made money.

There are still four league games to be played, one between Munising and Ishpeming at Ishpeming Saturday, two between the same teams in Marquette Sunday, and one between Negaunee and Marquette Sunday. All of these games will be hard fought. In order to remain at the head of the league, Ishpeming must win all of her games with Munising, provided Negaunee defeats Marquette Sunday. If Ishpeming should lose one game and Negaunee should win, the two teams would be tied for first place, and the tie would have to be played off later.

However, it is little more than possible that this combination of events will take place. Marquette will go into the game Sunday with the determination of defeating Negaunee and the Negaunee players are equally determined to hand it to Marquette. Rivalry for this game is heightened because of the feeling that has recently sprung up between the fans of the two cities which is shared by the players.

Judging from previous games played, Ishpeming should be able to take all three games from Munising, though there is always that baseball uncertainty, which makes the game interesting, to be reckoned with. It is stated that Frost, Cole and other of the Rapid River players will be in the Munising line-up against Ishpeming, which should greatly strengthen the Alger county team, and it would be no staggering surprise if Munising were to cop off one of the contests.

CITY WATER PROBLEM AGAIN DISCUSSED

JOINT MEETING OF BOARD AND SPECIAL COMMERCIAL CLUB COMMITTEE HELD LAST EVENING.

A joint meeting of the water board and the special committee appointed by the Commercial club some time ago to work with the water board was held at the city hall last evening. The chief objects in holding the meeting were to exchange ideas and that the Commercial club committee might be better informed as to what the water board had done and was doing toward the improvement of the city water supply. The work thus far done by the water board met with the entire approval of the Commercial club committee, and plans were discussed for further efforts, in which the water board was assured of the co-operation of the committee.

It was learned that the water board already has gathered together a large amount of data, relative to the different plans for improving the water supply that have been suggested. In fact, there was some question as to whether there was not already sufficient data at hand on which to decide upon and pursue a definite course of action. However Chairman Roberts, of the Commercial club committee, was asked to write a New York engineering firm with wide experience in installing city water plants, as to the price for which one of their most expert men would come here for a day and look over the whole situation.

One of the serious problems that faces the board is the difficulty in raising money to do anything, owing to the provision in the charter requiring a majority of all the voters in the city to carry a bonding proposition. The opinion seemed to be that the water board should first decide and put clearly before the public just what improvements were going to be made, and that the Commercial club would then do all in its power to secure a majority vote at a bonding election. Another joint meeting is likely to be held in the not distant future, at which more definite action may be taken.
