

Source: The Mining Journal
Marquette, Mi.
December 3, 1892

Ishpeming

Paid Dear for Their Fun

A young man who is employed as operator at South Ishpeming on the DSS&A truned the tables on a number of boys working on that portion of the road Thursday night. A dummy belonging to a certain Ishpeming clothing merchant was secured and togged out with a white shirt, collar, tie, etc., etc., and placed in the young man's bed in order to give him a scare when he was about to retire for the night. When the young man first discovered the stranger in his bed he was somewhat startled, but after a few moments consideration resolved to play out the hand and proceeded to awaken his new bed fellow. On discovering what had been done he took the plaster of paris cast and completely destroyed it. Also the clothing was destroyed. He now has the satisfaction of seeing his friends foot the bill of the clothing merchant.