A Message from the Supervisor
By Lee Durrwachter,
Burt Township Supervisor

Homestead Exemption is Being Policed by the County

At last Thursday's Board of Review (BOR) meeting several letters from property owners were reviewed regarding invalid Homestead Exemptions. Property with possible invalid Homestead Exemptions are now being challenged by the County Treasurer. In addition, failure to respond to the County Treasurer's letter of notification within 30 calendar days will automatically deny your exemption. The County billing includes back payments and interest at the rate of 1.25% per month. To validate your property's status, the County will ask you to verify the following:

- 1) You are a Michigan resident
- 2) You are the owner or one of the co-owners of the property
- 3) You occupy the property as your principal residence
- 4) You are not claiming a homestead exemption or similar exemption in any other location, whether in Michigan or another state

At stake here is your Principal Residence Exemption from School Property Taxes (F/N/A Homestead Exemption), which is 18,000 mills, or $18 per $1,000 of Taxable Value. (Please review your Summer Tax Bill. All School Property Taxes constitute your Summer Taxes. The 18,000 mills are just one part of the bill.)

Please Note: Up until February 29, 2004, if you find you have an invalid Homestead Exemption, you should still be able to pay your 18,000 mills at the Township level for this taxable year, 2003. Check with the Township Treasurer for the exact amount. He's in his office every Friday this month. Prior years i.e. 2002, 2001 can only be corrected and/or paid at the County level.

Another question raised at the BOR meeting was, can a 501(C)3, non profit corporation, be exempt from property taxes?

First, all property in the Township is assessed, regardless of the property owner's status.

Second, special circumstances can be heard by the BOR, and a request by the property owner can be made at that time. And.

Third, if the property owner is not satisfied with the BOR's decision, they can appeal to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

Revenue Sharing Targeted for Another 6% Cut
Governor and legislative leaks at a recent budget meeting are being reported by the media that an additional 6% cut in Revenue Sharing is being proposed to help solve the $900 million budget deficit for this current fiscal year, which began on October 1, 2003. This cut is in addition to revenue sharing payments that were already implemented in the 2004 fiscal year. According to MTA, the original cuts were slated to be 3% over what communities received the previous year, however, due to sales tax revenue (constitutional portion) reductions in the slow economy, the size of the cut has "bloomed" to 4.21%. Add the newly proposed 6% cut to this amount, and local governments are taking a cut greater than 10% in this fiscal year. Our Township planned for these large cuts, and still seem to be within budget so far. Stay tuned.

GovBenefits.gov

Finally, there's an attempt to have a one-source location for State and Federal Benefit Information. In a February 2002 budget proposal, President Bush outlined a management agenda for making government more focused on people and results, which included expanding eGovernment. According to MTA, eGovernment uses the latest technology and the Internet to make it easy for citizens and businesses to work together with the government and save taxpayer dollars. Currently, the federal government provides more than 1,400 benefit programs to more than 80 million eligible people. In addition, there are benefit programs managed by state and local government agencies, many of which involve the use of federal funds.

Currently, information about these programs is spread across 31 million federal government Web pages. Before GovBenefits.gov, there was no single source for citizens to use in determining their benefit eligibility. According to MTA, even citizens who knew the programs they were eligible for were confused about which agency Web site, call center, or office could help them. Ultimately, citizens will have instant access to information for all government benefit programs and services, and be able to apply online through a single Web site - GovBenefits.gov.

What this Web-site features is an easy-to-use online tool to help visitors to the site find out if they are eligible for government assistance programs. By answering a few confidential questions such as income level, marital status, and family size, users can receive a list of benefits for which they may be eligible. The Web site also provides descriptions and contact information for each benefit program.

In addition, MTA reports, GovBenefits.gov will reduce the amount of time it takes to identify and access important information about government benefit programs that match citizen's specific needs. GovBenefits.gov will improve the ability of government agencies to evaluate program performance, creating new opportunities for more efficient funding of these programs. GovBenefits.gov will also allow local governments to quickly identify and match citizen needs with the right benefit program.

And on a personal note: Let's hope last Saturday's capture of Saddam Hussein stuns the opposition factions into laying down their arms and to seek a peaceful solution and our troops can come home.

AROUND THE BAY:
BY EVELYN MORRISON

I am sure you are all aware now that the groomers have been on the snow trails and sleds are finding there way into town. I hope that we will have a safe year and no accidents. Obey the speed limit signs and remember, do not drink and drive.

The volleyball and basketball team did well Friday night. They were both winning teams. Congratulations.

I understand Stary, Stary, Night was good for the local businesses over Thanksgiving weekend. Thanks to all the local people that shopped in town.

Woman's club had a potluck and Santa joined in last week. Was so nice to see everyone out and about enjoying the holidays.

Woman's club had their winter dinner at the Sportsman's Saturday. What a lovely time they had.

Glad to see everyone got along without me while I was in Florida slaving away. Not really, I helped my folks Gerrie and Andy Bailey move into their new condominium in Englewood. It was nice to be in the warm weather before our winter really kicks in here. So really, painting, scrubbing walls, and washing windows and cleaning what ever needed to be cleaned was not that bad when you can have the windows open with a nice warm breeze blowing in.

George Kendall was able to get away for a few days for Thanksgiving to visit with his mother in Clare.

John and I were able to get away for Thanksgiving to the home of our daughter Jenny's and her husband Ben in Ithaca. Joining us were Gerrie and Andy Bailey, Wendy, and her husband Steve, and son Johnny Sohl from Hazel Park. Sara and Ray Scaife, and Warren Scaife. My sister Maggie and her husband Greg. My brothers George Bailey and his wife Suzanne, and Bruce Bailey and wife Carlene, along with numerous nieces and nephews. All in all, 31 of us enjoying mom's great pies and a fabulous dinner.

We were all grateful to see Grant (the Schawn man), Vanna's nephew from the Soo, in for the day. Grant picked up the route for this week, and informed us that Doug, the former driver will be returning to his old route next week.

In for the weekend were Sara and Ray Scaife from Pleasant Lake, along with Ray's brother Warren and dogs, Sosa and Pork Chop. They went sledding with their sister Elisabeth and enjoyed hot tubbing at our house a few times. The dogs really enjoyed playing in the snow too. Our dog Sailor enjoyed having company to play with too.

Penny Barney from Marquette came over for the night. She was able to visit with her grandparents Ruth and Neal Beaver and visit with Sara while she was here.

Nice changes at the local Wilson's Market and Hardware store. New owner's Tim and Debbie McKinstry are making everyone feel welcome. They have extended their business hours too. Glad they like it here and I hope you all make them feel welcome. I am certain we will see Karl going south and looking for a warm place to golf this winter.

Keep an eye on the Grand Marais web site. Kay is always updating it and adding new pictures. She is doing a fabulous job with Cathy Egerer helping too.

We all hope you have a Merry Christmas and see you Around the Bay. Keep on smiling.... Evie morriso3@jamadots.com

Thank You !!!!

To the people of Grand Marais, thank you for all you do for one another. Thank you for caring about each other. Each time someone speaks a kind word, waves to a neighbor, picks up meds at Putvins, volunteers at school or at a fire or on the ambulance crew, delivers food or groceries to shut ins, stops by to check on friends, or attends community functions, the spirit of what makes our town special prevails. Living here has its challenges, but the people here make it all worth it!

PICKLE OF A DAY

December 12, 2003 was a "pickle" of a day for the Grand Marais Historical Society and the Pickle Barrel House. On that day, the Pickle Barrel officially became the property of the Grand Marais Historical Society. This event became possible due to the dedicated efforts of a hardworking group spearheaded by Susan Bennett. The "Save the Pickle Barrel" organization wishes to thank everyone for their tremendous support and donations. A special thank you to Edmund Warren, the previous owner. Also thanks to our most generous benefactor for making this first goal at the dream come true.

Donations for Restoration can be made to: GMHS/Save the Pickle Barrel, PO Box 179, Grand Marais, MI 49839.

"HUNGRY" BUTS & PASSES

JIM

The capture of Saddam Insane has all the TV time as well it should. I feel the price to catch this slimeball was too high especially in lives. He isn't worth one of our soldiers yet alone the hundreds that have died in Iraq. Although his capture has already become a political issue, it ain't the end of the problems in Iraq and certainly not in the war on terror. Wether it will have much of a positive effect remains to be seen. Saddam sure looked as though he wasn't enjoying his retirement, didn't he? Although it is necessary for PR reasons, I am angry that now we will be forced to spend millions if not billions of dollars making sure that no one kills him before he can go to trial and then if they don't execute him, billions more to keep him incarcerated. Attaboys are in order for those responsible for his capture.

I recently caught a story on TV concerning a raid that we did on a suspected Alquaida stronghold in Afghanistan. Remember Afghanistan? We still have a few members of our Armed Forces there and despite the propaganda that this administration is trying to sell you, Afghanistan is still mostly controlled by the same warlords as it was before we liberated it. It just so happened that, no doubt based on "intelligence sources" there was a "Bad Guys" cell in a certain area. Well we bombed the Hell out of it and according to us, we got the bad guy. Problem is we took ten children with him. Now I would expect this administration and the hawks of this country to downplay this disaster, after all these kids are nothing but "collateral damage", right George? But when I heard our handpicked leader of Afghanistan, Karzai, stuff it off as though it was no big deal, I was just about ready to kill. I guess that is why our government placed him in power, he will do and say what he is told. Regardless of how a person feels about this war, this kind of reaction is disgusting. I would think that our reaction would have been one of apology and a commitment to find out what went wrong and to make the person or persons responsible for this massacre accountable. I am not talking about the soldiers that carried out the raid. I am referring to the people that gave us the information or if the information did include the fact that there were children in the area, the person who decided to go ahead, knowing children would probably be killed. It is a sad day indeed when we give such little value to life.

Most of the economists and all the president's men are crowing about the recovery of the economy. There are no doubt signs that it has turned around. The problem is, however, that although the rich are getting richer the poor are getting poorer and more numerous. The administration continues to mislead us by telling us that 300,000 new jobs have been created in the last year. This is no doubt supportable but they fail to mention the 2,000,000 jobs that have been lost since this administration took office. They also conveniently forget to tell us that most of the new jobs are no where near as good as the ones lost, less pay and benefits you see. More Americans are without health insurance now than ever have been. This is a problem that this administration was going to fix. Remember the promises of tort reform. Not only has it not happened, to the best of my knowledge, nothing has been tried. The surplus has not only disappeared, now projections are for a FIFTEEN TRILLION-dollar national debt.

The latest omnibus spending bill that will probably pass right after the first of the year is, according to members from both sides of the aisle, the biggest pork barrel to ever come out of Congress. It includes millions of dollars for a "rain forest museum" in Iowa. Why, because Senator Grassly is from Iowa and has pull. Several other pork projects are included in this bill that also contains some much needed funding for legitimate causes. The greed of the Republicans that were so critical of the Democrats pork-barreling, has exceeded the limits that even the biggest spenders can justify. Texas of course will benefit greatly, no need to tell you why? It wouldn't be quite so bad if we had a surplus and much-needed projects were adequately funded. We don't, and they aren't.

On the state level, jg has decided to cut an additional 6% from our revenue sharing. With a 3% original cut you would think we would have a 9% cut, right? Wrong, it will be a reduction of about 10.5%. There is also the fact that due to Engler's lousy fiscal policy, there is less revenue to share. I know that Burt Township figured this reduction was coming and provided for it in this year's budget. Others however have not and now are forced to make additional cuts. Police and Sheriff departments are usually the first to feel the knife and in many cases have already been decimated so what is next? It will probably be social programs. If the MSU Extension Service had not been funded by a millage in Alger County, it would definitely be gone. The cuts are not over and Burt Township may feel them with Commercial Forest payments, this represents a big chunk of our income and was not figured to be cut. As previously mentioned in my articles, the DEQ has decided that it doesn't have enough money to pay its property tax thus lowering income for all local governments including school districts.

We have been hearing about the improving economy for three years now. I wish it would hurry up and get here. I am sure that we will hear much more about how wonderful or lousy things are as the campaigns begin to tool up. The Supreme Court decision that the McCain-Feingold campaign finance law is constitutional will have little if any effect on the slimeballs running campaigns. They will find ways to sling the dirt and make this campaign as disgusting as any, if not more so. Money will prevail and unless the Democrats get their act together, Bush will buy four more years without any money worries.

And finally, Christmas is approaching quickly. Our community potluck Christmas party was well organized by the Women's Club and better attended than last year. We had a few children there but Santa had to give most of his gifts to old people. If attendance continues to increase, next years party will overflow the community center. The food was delicious and plentiful, as are all Grand Marais potlucks. Even Father Joy got to sit on Santa's lap and give him a Christmas list. On Wednesday the 17th, Sherri and I will travel to Marquette for the grandchildren's Christmas programs. Only Dizzy's and Too's classes are having a program this year, I don't know why the other grades aren't participating. The Burt Township School's Christmas program is Thursday afternoon. I am not sure why the middle of the day was picked because it is difficult for many of us to take time off in the middle of the week. I am sure there are reasons but I still hope the school goes back to an evening program next year. I am not sure where Sherri and I will be for the holidays, Marquette is a good guess. I know there are some who decry Christmas as being too commercial, a religious holiday forced down their throats in violation of the separation of church and state, and for other equally stupid reasons. They have a right to their opinion as long as they don't force it down my throat. I will celebrate the birth of Christ. I will enjoy the thrill of children as they see Santa and their excited anticipation of Christmas morning. I will enjoy the good will of most people during this season. I will enjoy family and tradition. I will eat like there is no tomorrow and I will put on several pounds. I will not make a list of resolutions for the New Year that will be broken by January 2nd. God willing, I will share with you some of my Christmas Season in the next issue.

And finally, finally. I will say a prayer for those who will not be celebrating this season with friends and family because they are members of our Armed Forces and not able to be home. I will also pray for all who have given their blood, sweat, tears and in some cases lives so that I can enjoy it.

And finally, finally, finally. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to everyone! Till next year!

Library News

If you haven't been to our "New Library" now is the time you should come and visit us. We are located in the "Green House" of the Community Center and can be entered either by the door opposite the Youth Center or by the main door of the Community Center.

We have the latest books with the more popular authors. You can try new recipes with Diane Mott Davidson in the "Who done it" (Chopping Spree); go on a spy mission with Tom Clancy (The Bear & the Dragon); learn about the settling of the United States with John Jakes (North & South); have a romantic interlude with Danielle Steele (The house on Hope Street); see how smart cats can be with Lillian Brown (The Cat That Bought Down the House); visit the 17th Century with Anne Perry (Southampton Run); do some forensic investigation with Patricia Cronwell (Blow Fly); plus many other famous authors.

You can browse these and many other books in comfort (4 rocking chairs to lull you) and pleasant surroundings. We also have a magazine rack with the latest Time, U.S. News, Consumers Report and the Smithsonian magazines.

We are open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 12 noon to 2 p.m.. Hopefully in January we will be able to schedule one evening a week to be open. Also if you so desire, you can join us for a senior meal. A sort of one stop for an afternoon away from home.

A way you can make this a more special place is to join the "Friends of the Library" group, it is an organization where we raise money for special needs that the library requires. Check with Edna Jean for more information on this.

Please come and visit us. We do need your input on which books you would like. If we don't have it, we can probably obtain it for you from the Munising Public library.

POLAR BEAR BASKETBALL
By John Bauknecht

The Grand Marais Polar Bears took to the basketball court in front of a large crowd for the first time this season in regional play with wins against Paradise on Friday night, November 21st and again Saturday morning, the 22nd. Clay Wilson led the Polar Bears during Friday night's match up with 16 points and quite a few rebounds. Matt Beaupied and Hunter Capogrossa followed Clay's scoring drive with 13 each. Chris Purple added 8 more weaving in and out of traffic while taking a beating underneath the boards. Those Paradise boys were pretty rough and by the end of the evening, 3 of their 5 starters had fouled out. Glen Bronson added 2 with a great effort on defense until he got into foul trouble late in the 3rd quarter. Stephen Simpson came in for Glen and scored 3 points and had 5 boards of his own. The final score on Friday night was Polar Bears 55, Paradise 41.

The Junior Varsity match up Friday night was just as exciting with Stephen Simpson leading the way with 18 points, followed by Michael Bell with 8. The "big guy" barely had to leave his feet. Stephen had a considerable size advantage over the entire Paradise J.V. team. His teammates just kept feeding him the ball and all he had to do was turn around and drop it in the hoop. Final score of the J.V. game was Polar Bears 26, Paradise, 8.

The Polar Bears were back in action again Saturday morning with another impressive win over Paradise. Hunter Capogrossa with 20 points led his team with numerous steals for easy lay-ups and some very nice outside shooting. Co-captain Matt Beaupied hit some great jumpers and sank almost all of his foul shots for 12 points, followed closely by team Captain Clay Wilson and Glen Bronson with 10 each. Chris Purple matched his total from the night before with 8 points. Stephen Simpson added 2 more for a final score, Polar Bears 62, Paradise 31.

The J.V. team came out a little slow on Saturday morning, but picked up the pace in the 2nd quarter and went on to win by the score of 24 to 16. Stephen Simpson led the way again for the J.V. squad with 12 points followed by Bauknecht brothers, Andy and Brad with 4 each. Michael Musselman and Michael Bell each added 2 for their second straight win. Good job guys!

On Tuesday, December 9, Maplewood Academy near Kinross visited the Grand Marais Polar Bear den for their first game ever. It was a non-conference/scrimmage, but you couldn't tell by the way these teams played. The Maplewood Varsity moved the ball around well, but proved to be no match for the Polar Bears, who extended their record to 3 and 0. Chris Purple was on fire for the Grand Marais squad. It seemed like everything he put up went in for a total of 19 points. Matt Beaupied added 11 with his sharp shooting, followed by Glen Bronson with 10, most of which came from great rebounding. Clay Wilson found the bottom of the net with 12 points, which included an exciting last second "buzzer beater" from 3 point range and Hunter Capogrossa ended up with 8 points and 4 steals. Final score was Polar Bears 78, Maplewood Academy 39.

The "young guns" saw action during the 3rd quarter with the "little guys" taking over the show. Michael Bell and Devlin Tapert looked like "M.J. and Scottie" out there finding their mark for 6 during regulation play and 6 more during the 2 "extra quarters" that were played after regulation play had concluded. Brad Bauknecht was tough underneath adding 4 points, while his brother, Andy found the bottom of the net for 2.

The next game is scheduled for Friday, December 12th with Munising Baptist here at Grand Marais. A special thanks from the coach to all who come out and support our Polar Bears!

The Polar Bears took to the court once again Friday night, December 12th hosting our neighbors to the west, the Munising Baptist Bobcats. The game started out evenly matched with both teams keeping it close in the first half. Glen Bronson suffered the first injury of the season in the 2nd quarter with a sprained ankle, which forced the tough forward to sit out the rest of the game with only 2 points. The tall freshman, Stephen Simpson came off the bench and filled in nicely for the Polar Bear Varsity, grabbing a number of rebounds and scoring an impressive 8 points on the side. Good job Stephen! However, it was Matt Beaupied's consistency that led the way for the Bears during this match up. Matt's sharp shooting from outside found the bottom of the net for 17 of their 63 point total. Hunter Capogrossa was on the prowl once again partnering with teammate, Chris Purple for several steals resulting in 12 points each for the Grand Marais squad. Team captain Clay Wilson got into a little foul trouble early while fighting the 6 ft. 5 in. Munising Baptist center for rebounds underneath the boards. Clay ended the game in double digits with 10 points and at least as many rebounds followed by Michael Bell with 2 points. Final score was Polar Bears 63, Munising Baptist Bobcats, 39

The winter snows have arrived. Looking around at the fluffy white snow is refreshing. I held this in my head as I drove through many miles of white out conditions. When you are driving but can barely make out the front of your truck, let alone the road or oncoming traffic, you can choose a variety of responses. I will concede the experience is somewhat daunting if not ominous.

My first reaction to the experience was, "Oh no!" After my initial view, I realized that I had many miles to travel to get to my destination and scheduled meeting. I knew that to arrive there safely I must reframe the situation. The variety of possible responses involved: fear, anxiety, caution, tenacity, persistence, faith and optimism. I chose to combine optimism and faith with tenacity, persistence and a 'pinch' of caution. I knew I had the ability, I just had to employ the positive to make it through the storm.

I found that depending upon the positive and maintaining that focus, I was able to accomplish my goal. I also found that my mind began to reflect on how much this experience replicates what we, as educators face daily. The snow squalls were, at times, blinding. Periodically, the sun would peek through lighting the way (albeit, momentarily). There are times, in our lives when 'life's squalls' make it appear there is no end in sight. The promise of 'the sunlight peeking through', helps us to get through it and reframe our thinking.

Miko Bryers (high school social studies teacher at Burt) frequently reframes negative student behaviors and school situations to be positive attributes and possible solutions. He helps us all see that all is not gloom and despair, but rather there exists the positive in all people and situations. He provides this when we (and our students) most need it.

So, based on his example, I employed this technique to the storm. The positive embedded in the falling snow is many faceted. The promise that winter has finally arrived and good skiing and snow shoeing is eminent. The promise that business in Grand Marais will soon be hopping. The reality that the students at school will once again experience the glee of sledding and snowmobiling. The ability to reframe is essential if one is to maintain a positive spirit.

So also, based upon Miko's wisdom, we at Grand Marais schools, reframe student behaviors and experiences. We look for the positive elements and accentuate them. Students today face enormous pressure from peers and our technological world. Our students are but a microcosm of the greater world. They have access to and experience the same things as students linked to the internet throughout the world; cosmopolitan and rural alike, in all hemispheres and in most locales. We can no longer exclude them from these elements, but we can protect them and help them to 'reframe'. This allows us, and them to maintain a positive spirit; in ourselves and those around us. Thanks Miko for helping us all!

All of us at school wish you the happiest of holidays and a new year filled with positive experiences. We also wish you the ability to seek the positive when faced with, what appears to be ominous and threatening. May reframing people and experiences be part of your new year; the willingness to see the positive and to share that with others.
