VIEWING THE REMAINS.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND. NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—When the city hall gates were shut at 1 o'clock this a. m., and when the shuffles of footstep had ceased, the undertakers and embalmers came. The face of Gen. Grant was scanned by them through the double plates of glass. Then the undertakers observed that dust had settled on the lower plate of glass, and they removed the top plate, that the other might be cleaned. Surprise was expressed that such should have been possible through the fine close joints made by the closing of the surface. The glass was cleaned and polished anew, the top plate replaced, and the lids of the casket fastened down. The body was not touched by them. The city hall clock marked 5:55 o'clock when vice commander Cranford lifted the covers from the casket, passed his handkerchief over the glass plate and then assumed his place at the head of his detail of G. A. R. men. St. Paul's was tolling 6 o'clock when the iron gates were thrown back and a solid stream had commenced flowing across the floor to the entrance.

AN ACCUMULATION OF DUST

THE HUMAN STREAM

was flowing just as though 100,000 people had not shuffled over the same stones. After fifteen minutes the entire line was stepping from away above Chambers street. A floral remembrance from Gen. Grant's old home, Galena, Ill., was placed near the remains to-day. Inspector Steers this morning stated that he had orders to close the gates at 1 o'clock to-night, and he also stated that the remains will be turned over to the undertakers, and the public will not again be permitted to see them.

IN MEMORIAM.

TOLLING THE BELLS. NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—A number of churches throughout the country have signified their intention of tolling the bells during the procession. In order that they may be promptly notified the Western Union telegraph company has arranged to announce over the wires, throughout the country, the time of starting of the funeral procession from city hall to-morrow morning, and the final moment of the deposit of the remains of Gen. Grant in the tomb.

THE LOST CASE.

GALVESTON, August 7th.—A special to the News from Greenville, Texas, says: At a meeting of ex-Confederate soldiers it was estimated that 20,000 veterans and others were on the grounds. Gen. Ross, of Ross' brigade, was orator of the day. At the close of Gen. Ross' address the following was unanimously adopted: "In the name of the surviving members of Ross' brigade, Victor's brigade, Maxey's brigade, Granburn's brigade, the Eleventh cavalry, of Texas, and unattached Confederate and Union soldiers, numbering 10,000 men, resolutions eulogistic of the life and services of Gen. Grant, and of sympathy with his family, were passed and adopted by the assembly." Addresses of eulogy were delivered.

MURDERED FOR HER MONEY.

A Sixty-Year Old Lady Killed by Unknown Persons at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Mrs. M. Walsh, a widow, 60-years old, was found to-day in a small back room of house at 609 Fulton street, dead. Her hands were tied, and there were marks of violence leading to the supposition that she was murdered. The body indicated that she had been dead two or three days. The matter is a complete mystery. The arms and limbs were tightly bound together with a small cord, and that the old lady had been foully murdered was evinced by another cord, pulled tight and knotted around her throat. The murderer, it was thought by the neighbors to be somewhat crazy. The house she lived in is a two-story cottage, all of which she rented out, living in two small rooms herself. The scene of the murder is the larger of these two. The body when found lay against the wall with the head in the corner, limbs drawn up, as though in a struggle for breath. Everything in the room was ransacked and turned inside out, leaving no doubt that robbery was the object of the murder. It has long been rumored that Mrs. Walsh kept large sums of money. She had but one daughter, as far as known. No clue to the perpetrators.

A FAMILY TRAGEDY.

In Georgia a Son Kills His Father and Exchanges Shots With His Brother.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 7.—A special from Lafayette to the Constitution says:

"Eight miles from Lafayette, Wm. Hancock, a farmer, aged 57, son of Wm. Hancock, who were partners in a threshing machine, quarrelled over the division of the tools. The old man got a gun and made threats of assault against the son, but no violence occurred then. "The father, with another son named John, went to William's house, soon after William arrived and procuring a gun told his father that he was ready to shoot it out. The old man raised his gun to fire, but William, being quicker, fired first at his father. The old man fired without effect, and William killed his father. "John Hancock took his father's gun and fired at his brother. William then drew a pistol and began firing, while John ran. One shot took effect, and William overtook him and carried him back home. William has been arrested, and seems to care little for the consequences of his awful deed."

None of them made confessions. They were pronounced dead in eight minutes after the trap fell. Fully 3,000 people witnessed the execution, which was public. Perfect order was preserved. Companies "A" and "B" of the second state guard, were present.
