He had no new decision. He thinks that Sullivan had the best of the fight so far as fighting points.

THE FIRST ROUND. At 5:21 the men shook hands and the first round began, amid almost breathless stillness.

SECOND ROUND—There was but a minute's breathing spell. Sullivan opened the fight this time by a blow which McCaffery artfully evaded.

THIRD ROUND—This was the worst for McCaffery. He struck out for Sullivan, but to no purpose, and in the quick work which followed, both succeeded in getting in slight blows.

FOURTH ROUND—Sullivan opened this with a blow on McCaffery's jaw. It looked as if McCaffery's powers were waning, while Sullivan was apparently fresh.

FIFTH ROUND—Both men seemed willing to be careful. They played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

SIXTH ROUND—Sullivan now seemed desperate, though it was apparent that he was growing weary, while McCaffery was fresher.

SEVENTH ROUND—Sullivan was apparently fresh, though not dimmed as a knock-down and out, but he played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

EIGHTH ROUND—Sullivan was apparently fresh, though not dimmed as a knock-down and out, but he played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

NINTH ROUND—Sullivan was apparently fresh, though not dimmed as a knock-down and out, but he played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

TENTH ROUND—Sullivan was apparently fresh, though not dimmed as a knock-down and out, but he played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

ELEVENTH ROUND—Sullivan was apparently fresh, though not dimmed as a knock-down and out, but he played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

Twelfth Round—Sullivan was apparently fresh, though not dimmed as a knock-down and out, but he played with each other for awhile, when McCaffery got in a light blow on Sullivan.

PRETENT THOROUGHLY ANSWERED.

Carroll's venomous attack on Gov. Swineford, in relation to his disbursement of the funds that came into his hands as U. S. commissioner for Michigan of the New Orleans exposition, is quite conclusively answered by Mr. Edward Kanter, of Detroit, and an associate member of the commission, in a statement given to the public through the medium of the Detroit Free Press of Friday last, which says:

Regarding the charge made by F. M. Carroll, of Grand Rapids, that A. P. Swineford, of Marquette, late United States Commissioner to the New Orleans exposition, embezzled $1,000 of the amount given to Michigan by the government, Edward Kanter, of this city, yesterday made the following statement:

"I observe in this morning's paper that Mr. Carroll had another interview with the Free Press correspondent at Lansing. Like his former attacks on individual members of the board of commissioners, and particularly on Gov. Swineford and Mr. G. C. Godwin, it is full of misstatements. Mr. Carroll's bill for imaginary services was rejected by a full board, and he was consequently removed from the commission by Gov. Beagle, for sufficient reasons urged by members of the board. Since that time he has frequently appeared in the Detroit and Grand Rapids papers with malicious articles containing patently untrue charges against commissioners Godwin and Swineford. Mr. Carroll was present at a meeting of the board at Grand Rapids, at which Gov. Swineford stated that $5,000 was allowed to Michigan and would be paid to him as United States commissioner; that he would pay over $4,000 to the Michigan state commission towards an exhibit from the lower peninsula, and would retain $1,000 for an exhibit of the mineral resources of the upper peninsula. This proposition was accepted with thanks, and the board considered that it was liberally dealt with.

"The Hon. A. C. Davis, Gov. Swineford and Mr. F. W. Noble, who made special reference to the mining resources of our state, deserve a great deal of credit for having made such a fine display with that amount retained by Mr. Swineford for that purpose.

"Mr. Carroll knew all these facts from the start, and his statement to the Free Press correspondent at Lansing, that the commission supposed that $4,000 was all that Gov. Swineford had received from the director-general for the Michigan exhibit, is absolutely false, and in fact, I reminded him of these circumstances only a few days ago, and several of his former attacks on the commissioners, and particularly on Gov. Swineford, show conclusively that he did know all the facts about the upper peninsula exhibit, for which $1,000 was retained by Gov. Swineford.

"The final accounting of the board of state commissioners with the board of state auditors yesterday was merely a financial statement in copper to fifteen cents, which was formerly considered a low price, or a restoration in the price of Chill bars in England from $43 to $50, mean for Calumet and Hecla stockholders; Chill bars are now selling in London at $43 7/8, and the copper supply Aug. 1 was 53,000 tons. Two years ago the copper supply was 48,000 tons, and the price of Chill bars was $53. While the price of copper in Europe and America has fallen nearly thirty per cent, the visible supply for the London market has increased only eight per cent, which is scarcely commensurate with the increased consumption. There is one satisfaction in studying the present condition of the copper market, and that is the satisfaction of noting the removal of the copper production industry from the class needing the protection of tariff imposts. For more than six months past native Lake Superior copper, which is the best in the world, being the only ductile copper, has been selling on both sides of the Atlantic on the basis of Chill bars in the London market, and with Chill bars at an abnormally low price. The question of tariff protection for this article has been solved. With the Calumet and Hecla producing 50,000,000 pounds of copper per annum, and its supply for many years assured, it has a foreign market for one-half of its production and irrevocably lowered the American market to the continental basis, while very greatly broadening the copper consumption in America.

"But all this was in Penobscot's palmy days. Since then the forests have been needed so far before the woodman's ax that logging and driving rails are more expensive than they were in the early days, and while the cost of getting logs down streams and provincial competition and the development of the southern hard pine trade have so cheapened the price of lumber that the Penobscot manufacturer must have very economical of his logs if he expects to make any profit out of his lumber. He throws nothing away now. Every log is carefully scrutinized, and all the parts sawed into something, long or short.

"Boxboards are saved by a gang saw; that is, a series of parallel saws worked in an up-and-down motion. Sometimes there are two or three saws in a gang, and they can be adjusted so as to saw many different thicknesses of boxboards from one log. Boxboards, used by shoe factories and such concerns, are saved in great quantities during by one-eighth of an inch. The gang is swift and economical at the same time.

"A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY. Consumptives and all, who suffer from any affection of the throat and lungs, can find a certain cure in Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Thousands of permanent cures verify the truth of this statement. No medicine can show such a record of wonderful cures as this. Hundreds of once hopeless sufferers now gratefully proclaim they owe their lives to this New Discovery. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. Write for a bottle at H. H. Stafford's drug store. Large size $1.00.

"VERY REMARKABLE RECOVERY. Mr. Geo. V. Williams of Manchester, Mich., writes: 'My wife has been almost helpless for five years, so helpless that she could not lift her head, and she was unable to eat or Electric Bitters, and is so much improved that she is able now to do her own work.' THE MICHIGAMME EXCURSION.

Both Visitors and Home People Were Well Pleased—The Home Club Defeated by the Consolidated Nine.

MICHIGAMME, Aug. 30.—Owing to the dark and gloomy weather of Friday and Saturday, people here-abouts had come to the conclusion that we would not have very many visitors on Sunday, but Sunday morning dawned clear and fine, and when the excursion train arrived from Houghton, a goodly number of visitors alighted, and shortly thereafter the train from Marquette also arrived heavily laden with passengers, among which was the celebrated Lake Angeline and Scandinavian bands combined, which, by the way, is a credit to any place. The fine picnic ground of A. L. Johnson, donated for the use of the general public, was completely filled during the afternoon, and many had occasion to thank Mr. Johnson for his kindness in providing the general public with a good resort.

The game of base ball from a syndicate from Champion and Republic against the Michigamme grounds, and was witnessed by upward of one thousand people. Two scrub games were afterward played for the amusement of the spectators. The Michigamme excursionists here—and every town in the county (and Houghton and Baraga) was duly represented—were in the best of humor, and had a view of this one of the most beautiful inland lakes in America.

Taken all in all, the excursion was a decided success in each and all particulars. The visitors were well entertained by our people, who knew just how to look after the welfare of guests, and everybody had a good time. Especial credit is due to the band above referred to, which dispersed the music all day, receiving the kind encomiums of all. The excursion closed at five o'clock, and long live among the pleasant memories of visitors and home people. May the hospitalities of the Michigamme grounds, and the many expressions of kindness of the visitors to our burg be often renewed, and set as an example to other places.

Shot the Wrong Man. CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Two young men, names unknown, got into a fight near Van Buren and Halsted streets, this morning. One discharged a pistol at his opponent, but instead struck William Wolf, a 22-year-old Mott did not fight. The two young men have not been arrested.

Stabbed to the Heart. PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—A Kearneyville, (W. Va.) Post special says: 'Jno. Musgrove, who was guarding a fruit orchard of E. S. McClinton's, was shot by a Nutter of Scotland, this morning. Nutter, who had a knife, stabbed Musgrove in the heart, and he died.

THE MAINE LUMBER TRADE. Cutting Second-Growth Timber for Hoop Boards—Penobscot's Palmy Days. (New York Sun.)

The cut of second-growth pine on the Penobscot was large last winter, being estimated as high as 200,000 cords. These logs are cut into boxboards. Nearly all the boxboards saved upon the Penobscot are sold in the New England and middle states. Years ago these boards used to be shipped by vessel to Salem and Lynn, Mass., and the choicest deck loads loaded up like stacks of hay. Then the wharves were piled high with the thin, rough-edged boards, and quite a fleet was employed in carrying them. Nowadays they are seasoned up the river and shipped through by rail.

Since the large, old pine became scarce and high in price, and second-growth pine has been used for a variety of purposes to which first-growth pine was originally devoted. Hemlock has also come into use, and is being used for the same purposes. Modern wooden houses are framed in it, whereas in the old days the best pine was used; splendid pine, too, as may be seen by an inspection of the beams, joists, and rafters of dwellings built long ago. Once on the Penobscot at Bangor, it was easy for a boy, provided with a punt and a pickaxe, to pick a board of the best pine, and carry it to his door. He would then saw it into a board, and carry it to his door. He would then saw it into a board, and carry it to his door.

Boxboards are saved by a gang saw; that is, a series of parallel saws worked in an up-and-down motion. Sometimes there are two or three saws in a gang, and they can be adjusted so as to saw many different thicknesses of boxboards from one log. Boxboards, used by shoe factories and such concerns, are saved in great quantities during by one-eighth of an inch. The gang is swift and economical at the same time.

RANK AND FILE.

Their Patriotism and Deeds of Valor in Days of Yore, Vividly Pictured in a Military Drama.

On the Stage, as Well as in the Auditorium, Our Citizens Will Honor the Boys in Blue.

All those who remember the anxious days of '61 should, and doubtless will, attend the military drama "Rank and File," which is to be brought out at the rink this week. One fact should not be lost sight of in connection therewith, and that is, it is to be brought out under the auspices of an organization whose members fought in the great war. They were shot at, and many of them were hit; they suffered from hunger and thirst, from heat and cold; offered their lives freely without prospect or expectation of reward, and so long as there was an enemy to the country that we are now so proud of in the field, they were on hand ready to help kill him. These are the men who invite the public to be present while some of the scenes of the great drama they helped enact, twenty or more years ago, are reproduced. They have some object in view undoubtedly, but it matters little what that object may be so long as it is theirs. When a post of the Grand Army of the Republic get up a show, and invite the public to come and see it, there ought to be such a rush, such an inclination to get there, manifested, that they would know that their services are remembered and appreciated. There is scarcely a soldier now living who took part in the war of the rebellion but has gray hair, and in the natural course of things but few more years can elapse before the most of them will have joined their great leader who has so lately gone over. While enough of them remain in any community to constitute a post, and they, as a post, invite their friends and neighbors to muster in their tent, the MINING JOURNAL believes that no second invitation will be necessary.

A NEW DIAGRAM.

A diagram of the rink as arranged for "Rank and File" shows a complete change in the location of the stage and the arrangement of seats. The stage is located in the east end, and the seats are all on the skating surface. There are 480 seats reserved, arranged in six sections, each section containing eight rows—ten chairs in a row. It is thought that this arrangement will be much more satisfactory than the old one.

NEWSPAPER COMMENTS.

The following two clippings, from an eastern and western newspaper, need no comment:

A large and fashionable audience greeted the first introduction of the great war drama "Rank and File" at the rink last evening. The exciting days of the war and various scenes and incidents in the play must have made the blood tingle in the veins of the ex-soldiers present. Mr. Owen Bartlett is the comedian and star and it is but proper to refer to the enthusiasm with which the funny songs and sayings were received. Cheers of laughter followed each effort and the merriest excitement must have done the people good.—Troy (N. Y.) Press.

Unquestionably one of the best entertainments that has been played upon the stage at the Philharmonic Hall for many months is the drama entitled "Rank and File" or "An American Soldier." The first representation of it last evening won praise from everyone who witnessed it, and the management may take encouragement that the people will be quick to discover the fact that they are losing a good thing by not going and seeing one of the most amusing, entertaining and instructive plays that has been brought out for a long time, and the audience for the rest of the week will surely be very large. Throughout the play love and romance predominate, and the scenes occur during the war period. The plot is interspersed with army incidents, thrilling situations, narrow escapes and the most amusing episodes, in which "Old Tom" and Kitty O'Neil, the true Irish girl, keep the house in an uproar by their amusing coincidences. The costumes were in elegant taste, and the actors on and all acquitted themselves with great credit. The tableaux themselves were worth the price of admission, and the singing by the glee club was excellent.—Winona Republican.

ENTERPRISE OF THE VETERANS.

In presenting the military drama "Rank and File" to a Marquette public the post has spared no expense. Fitting up a stage and four sets of scenery for such an occasion shows that the old vets believe in the saying "Faint heart never won fair lady," and in giving them full houses every night the citizens of this and surrounding towns will do no more than justly reward them, not alone for past services, but also for the enterprise they have shown on this occasion. The ladies and gentlemen who so kindly have given their services to a good cause, in taking parts in the play, certainly ought to be greeted by large and enthusiastic audiences, and the MINING JOURNAL hopes such will be the case.

A New Cutler.

The Messrs. S. Kaufman & Sons have secured Mr. John Meek, of New York, as assistant cutler in their merchant tailoring department. The increasing demands of their business made it necessary to secure the services of an assistant cutler, and his aid will enable them to spend more time in designing and elaborating patterns, so that they confidently expect to raise their standard of excellence, deservedly high as it now is. The senior member of the firm is now in New York, and is buying largely for their fall and winter trade. Mr. Kaufman has his eyes open while at home, but when in the metropolis he lets nothing escape his notice that he thinks will aid him in conducting a model establishment. The gentlemen of the firm are all on the alert, and to say that their customers are well served is to advertise a fact already well known.

The Excursion.

The excursion to Michigamme via the M. H. & O., occurred as per previous announcement, yesterday, and was a very enjoyable affair. Five coach loads of orderly, well disposed people participated, and as the day was all that could be required, nothing occurred to interrupt the hilarity of the occasion.

The Minnie Minus.

The Minnie M. did not show up yesterday, so there was no excursion via the aqueous route.

IN THE DRINK.

Mishap to the Grace Ely Friday Evening, in Which One Man Loses His Life, and Several Others Came Near Sharing His Fate.

Last Friday evening, at 5:15 o'clock, the schooner Grace Ely was towed out of Marquette harbor by the tug Mystic, bound for Yellow Dog river. On board the schooner, which is owned by Mr. W. C. Busch, there were nine of his employees, and three-quarters of a cargo of provisions for his camps on the Yellow Dog, and a quantity of lumber for repairing the woodmen's quarters. The tug steamed along at the rate of ten miles an hour, and as the bow of the Ely was held up by the tow-line, the stern was to a like extent submerged, and she began taking water near the rudder post soon after leaving the dock. The water came in too fast to admit of the pumps doing much good, so that, when there was two and a half feet in the hold, they signaled the tug, as the schooner had become unmanageable. When the tug came alongside, Mr. Busch, who was aboard, jumped on the Ely's deck and began shifting the cargo, which, owing to the carelessness of the men, had not been properly stowed. The schooner kept shortening and finally turned so far that she immediately capsized. Mr. Busch was standing near the rail, and succeeded in crawling over the side and keeping on top as she went over; all the others were thrown into the water. By means of the lumber, and prompt action on the part of Mr. Busch, who threw boards towards the struggling men, all were saved except Oscar Hess, formerly of Manistique, who was under the influence of liquor, and did not come to the surface after the catastrophe. The others were taken aboard the tug. Mr. Busch stayed on the schooner and as he could not succeed in righting her, she was towed into the Yellow Dog river. Her masts, spars, and a portion of her cargo went to the bottom. Two brothers of the drowned man are living in this state, one at Manistique, the other at Petoskey. The accident occurred between Little Presque Isle and Granite Rock.

A Bad Biter Handboxed.

Nelson Gota, a notorious aboriginal brute, who, when full, or part full, of the national beverage, is almost ferocious. He is one of the variety of brutes that delight in biting and rending human flesh, and has been at various times the occasion of a vast deal of trouble to the officers, as he is a powerful animal and without discretion. Saturday night he encountered his stepfather in the saloon under Rothschild & Bendig's store, and started in to fresco the old gentleman's exterior in colors which he proposed to draw from the elder party's circulating medium. He had "tapped" his deputy-parent and got him to "running" freely, when two or three officers appeared on the scene and interrupted his artistic though unskillful labors. He resisted arrest, and was so unskillful as to dodge a blow from a cane, intended for his head, and let it descend on officer Hogan's arm, leading to the discomfiture of that faithful guardian of the peace. He was, of course, overpowered, as every ruffian has been and will be, and now he awaits judgment. If the charges that will be preferred against him are sustained, and they undoubtedly will be, Nelson will be sent away under escort.

Shed Light.

An alarm of fire was sounded about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, and the department, as is its wont when such is the case, turned out in short order. An old shed near the Grace furnace had arrived at the time when it should illuminate the surrounding hills for a few moments, and then pass off in smoke, so it did that without loss to any one. Hence the ringing of the bell!

REPORTORIAL PENCILINGS.

Mr. R. M. Wells and family, of Chicago, has been summering in the city. Mr. Wells is a member of the firm of Wells & Neillger, extensive wholesale hardware dealers of the modern South. They leave this morning for home.

Mr. Geo. W. Reed is generally doing something to better the condition of mankind, his last move being in the way of reducing the price of wood. He authorizes the statement that he will deliver hard, four-foot wood at $4 per cord.

Messrs. R. M. Wells, of Chicago, and M. R. Mansfield, of this city, went down to Munising Thursday morning on a hunting "excursion." They were quite successful, succeeding in bagging a couple of deer and a number of other things, and returned home Saturday evening well pleased with the results of their trip.

Miss Gould, an art teacher of considerable merit, after a short sketching tour through the upper peninsula, left Marquette Saturday for her present home at Pittsburgh, Pa., and while here took sketches of a number of views around Marquette. Miss Gould is a native of Sweden, and is at present a correspondent of several Swedish papers and magazines. She expects to leave shortly for her native land, and is preparing a series of lectures on America, with a view to delivering them before her country people.

Dr. Dio Lewis sends the MINING JOURNAL a little magazine entitled "Dio Lewis Nuggets." It is full of valuable and interesting hints and suggestions about everything pertaining to the home and home life. Like all works of its class, it is sententious and dogmatic in style, but is full of good, hard sense. People know less about living than in the days when Homer sang his long-winded yarns about Troy, and it is time we learned some of the laws that should govern every civilized community in so far as sanitary affairs are concerned. A general circulation of Dr. Lewis' magazine would do as surely lessen the death rate as that such a periodical is published. Continue to teach us how to live, oh, Lewis.

This city is again becoming altogether too rural, and it's time there was a change made in some particulars. When property is taxed to build sidewalks, it has become too valuable for cows to promenade on. There is a brown-eyed young man living on a back street whose voice is heard in the sanctuary of a Sunday, ruminating the praises of his Creator, and whose general deportment is about medium, who was heard to make a statement, and he called one whom he styled the "jumped-up-John-Rogers" to witness the same—to the effect that some of those M—dash cows would be in the pound, before Monday morning or he was a liar, and then he began practicing the "backward-roll" skating stroke on the grass plot. Let us guilty cow escape.

One of our local philosophers, who is versed in weather lore, and can read the skies quicker and with more certainty than can a cribbage hand, told the reporter last spring that this country was entitled to a certain amount of heat each year, and that, owing to the stupendous and long continued lack of anything like what a rational being would accept as heat during the winter of '83-'84, the summer of '85 would be an unusually long and warm one. This sounded so reasonable that the reporter swallowed it, and loved it, it seemed so like his normal diet, which is truth. But, where is that heat and where that beggling duffer who claimed familiarity with the rolling spheres? Ah! they are enjoying each other's society in a locality where the ice harvest is unknown, and a water tax not one of the most grievous hardships.

Holders of course tickets can reserve seats for the night of the Veselous concert at Cook's store, Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock. The arrangements of stage and seats will be the same as for "Rank and File," the details of which are given in another place. The reporter has lately met quite a number of people who have attended the concerts given by the Veselous company, and they unite in pronouncing them the best class in every particular. It is hoped that the officers of the musical association will continue in the managerial field, as they have given our citizens an opportunity of hearing artists, at the price usually charged by managers of inferior talent. It is true that these gentlemen have given a great deal of their time to the enterprise, but if appreciation of their labors is gratifying to them, they may rest assured of that.

Approaching a veteran of the street force, whom the reporter had noticed leaning on the handle of his hammer for a long time, seemingly intent upon taking things easy so long as the "boss" remained out of sight, the scribe asked him how he felt. The old man looked up a moment, raised his hammer and let it fall listlessly upon a piece of stone, and then said: "I'm not fating very brisk this morn, so I'm not overtakin' meself; but, sorr, a pint of good whiskey would do more than an absent boss or a sine of juty to me employers can accomplish wid me." "Boss's what?" enquired the reporter. "Sixteen ounces scotch wan shot!" replied the old villain, and then he shot an enquiring squint at the sun, raised his hammer fully a foot from an obdurate rock, and let it fall on the same, eliciting a spark and a feeble "click," but broke nothing.

A group of boys standing on the corner of Third and Michigan streets last evening, were conversing about base ball, and the progress that was being made in reducing the game, or the manner of playing it, to scientific principles. Some of their speculations were quite ingenious, and showed conclusively that the boys had not only read, but thought, on this subject. Finally one of them piped up in shrill tones, as follows: "If any of our fellows see a piece in the paper about a fellow in town here who'd make a ball go round like a sick cat, and then roll into the feller's pocket as was ketchin'?" None of the others had read the "piece," and they questioned the one who had until they ascertained all he could tell them about the miraculous pitcher. Mr. Moffat, who had been and assimilated the morsel of information, one of them voiced the sentiment of the crowd in the frank and unconstrained manner common to the Marquette boy, by announcing: "Sdam lie!"

AT THE SAULT.

Death of a Prominent Citizen—Congressman Moffat Sampling "Soo" Hospitality.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 28.—W. C. Givens, a leading citizen and business man of this place, died at his home here this morning, of congestion of the brain. His death was quite unexpected, though he had been ailing some what lately, as he had been gaining for a time, and was not supposed to be in danger. He had been on a fishing excursion to the north shore with a party of gentlemen, and was taken sick while on the trip. He was brought home for care and treatment, but never rallied fully. It will be remembered that Mr. Givens was the gentleman who was lost in the woods near the Sault last spring while out with a fishing and hunting party, when he endured great hardship before being rescued. He was a young man possessed of means and full of enterprise, and leaves a host of friends here who sincerely mourn his untimely demise. He was married, and leaves a widow to grieve for the great loss that she has been called to bear up under. Representative Moffat is sojourning here, drinking in the beauties of the climate and scenery, and taking observations of what legislation our interests here demand. His efforts in our behalf during the next session of congress, Mr. Moffat is a gentleman of pleasant manner and winning address, and his constituents may anticipate a highly useful career for him at Washington.

THE ROAD QUESTION.

A Gentleman Whose Opinion is Entitled to Weight Gives His Views Thereon.

ED. MINING JOURNAL.—In your issue of the 22nd, inst., you have broached a subject well worthy the consideration of our county legislature. I refer to the matter of making roads from points along the line of the M. H. & O. northward. There are already a number of roads started by private enterprise that have proved a public convenience. If these roads were improved and extended northward, it would make it possible for men of small means to carry on their prospecting and exploring.

It takes the sand out of the most enthusiastic to pack drills, hammers, picks and shovels ten or twelve miles. Even sugar quill will not revive an explorer's ambition after such an exhausting experience.

There is at present a pretty fair road running north from the consideration of our county legislature. I refer to the matter of making roads from points along the line of the M. H. & O. northward. I refer to the matter of making roads from points along the line of the M. H. & O. northward. There are already a number of roads started by private enterprise that have proved a public convenience. If these roads were improved and extended northward, it would make it possible for men of small means to carry on their prospecting and exploring. It takes the sand out of the most enthusiastic to pack drills, hammers, picks and shovels ten or twelve miles. Even sugar quill will not revive an explorer's ambition after such an exhausting experience. There is at present a pretty fair road running north from the consideration of our county legislature.
