A $250 Piano and

A Lady's Gold Watch

To be Given Away to Customers at "The Fair."

DON'T FAIL TO ATTEND THE

Grand January Clearing Sale

At which goods will be given away at prices never before known.

We are compelled to do it. Our store is overstocked with winter goods, and as we have to take an inventory this year, we are bound to reduce it by Feb. 15th. The stock is brand new, purchased last month at one-third of its value from Messrs. Gage & Co., Chicago, and therefore enables us now to be the leading bargain givers of the day.

Be Sure and Come in time, and secure the big bargains we are giving away this month. With every dollar's worth of goods you will purchase from us during our special sale you will receive a ticket—a chance to win the piano, which will be drawn on Feb. 15th, 1886; besides this, we will give to the largest purchaser or ticket holder a prize of a Ladies' Gold Watch, with the name engraved.

We Are Overstocked in plain and flowered Ladies' Cloth, Boucle Dress Goods, Waterproofs, Feather Trimmings, Silk Velvets, Nonpareil Velveteens, Yarns, Ladies' white and scarlet Underwear, which we will close out during this month actually at first cost, as above goods must be sold by Feb. 15th. Ladies' Fine Shoes, Millinery, Feathers and Wings will be given away at your own price.

Sweeping Reductions in Gents' Furnishing Goods. Five Thousand Dollars worth of Men's and Boys' Overcoats, Suits, Underwear, Fur Caps, Socks, Mittens and Rubber Goods will be slaughtered this month at half their value.

P. S.—Customers should secure their tickets from the salesman. The piano is of "Newton & Co.'s" best make, and can be seen at our residence, cor. Ridge and Third streets. The gold watch can be seen at the store.

SHERIDAN'S IDEA OF IT.

He Believes Geronimo's Band of Apaches Will Be Speedily Extirpated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Lieutenant-general Sheridan in conversation with a representative of the Associated Press to-day remarked, with reference to his recent official visit to Arizona, and the latest news concerning the Apaches: "I have reason to believe that Gen. Crook's operations will result in the destruction of Geronimo's band and the restoration of quiet in the region of the Apache territory, but the work cannot be accomplished in a day. Now that Gen. Crook has full sway his tact and fearless energy will, I doubt not, bring about good results. He has all the troops he wants, and they are placed in the most advantageous positions. Detachments guard all the waiting places, and patrols and scouting parties cover the entire area of 3,000 square miles over which the savages have been operating. Every route which is practicable to white men is thus guarded. The failure to extirpate the band long ago is due to the very instincts of an enemy so small in number that the methods of actual warfare cannot be employed with effect, and to the nature of the country.

The Apache is a mountain Indian, bred from childhood to peak climbing, and to making long desert journeys afoot with little water, little or no clothing, and no other food than roots or berries. Then on the war path he carries no rations, and subsists only on the game he kills and the proceeds by trails which are impassable to mounted men or to those who are only habituated to the conditions of ordinary military expeditions. He and his followers are rarely to be anticipated or foreseen. When a band becomes hostile it manages to get away six or eight hours before any knowledge of its purposes can be known to the troops. They murder isolated settlers and prospectors, and attack and plunder ranches to obtain provisions. Their course is almost always toward the Mexican border, across which they have so often been found.

If such a band is headed off and overtaken by the troops, it does not give battle, but its members scatter to the hills, each for himself, and reunite at some designated spot one hundred miles away. The troops, and the Indian traders who accompany them, are rarely able to do more in such cases than to pick up a few women and children. When I visited Gen. Crook, five or six weeks ago, eleven warriors had been killed and thirty-two women and children captured. Twenty warriors and all the remaining men and children were in Mexico, and only ten warriors were north of the border. These Indians have committed all the recent murders.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Mysterious Tragedy As Yet But Partially Unearthed at Battle Creek, Mich.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 8.—Neighbors noticing the absence of persons around Dr. Martin White's residence in this city, broke into the house this afternoon and found the entire family with their throats cut from ear to ear. Dr. White and wife were lying on the floor, and the two children were lying on the bed. They have been dead since Sunday night, as they have not been seen since then. It is thought he became insane and murdered his family. The room reeked with the odor of a terrible struggle between husband and wife. No other cause is known. A coroner's jury is in session.

DERRY, Jan. 8.—The Tribune's special correspondent from Derry, Ireland, writes to-day that the tragedy in the White family. Mrs. White was found by the side

The next game of polo will be played here by the Superiors, of Ishpeming, and the home club, on Wednesday night.

It has been about settled that the Manistee polo club will visit the peninsula in the near future, and will play our polo club among others.

One of the most pleasant features of the polo game played at Marquette last Wednesday night was the perfect cordiality and freedom from wrangling between the clubs. There is no reason why polo players cannot act in a gentlemanly manner, but there are some that do not.

One peculiarity of the snow storm which has kept the railroads and street commissioners busy shoveling snow—by proxy—ever since it came along, was the small area which it covered. Here the snow fell to quite a depth, but at Escanaba the fall was light, while at and near L'Anse only a moderate quantity fell.

The unexpected leniency of the court was a surprise to all, and it is the generally accepted opinion that the jury found him guilty to save a disagreement, and then recommended him strongly to the clemency of Judge Grant.

The verdict was not generally known here until quite late in the afternoon, though it was known in the morning that he had been found guilty. The expressions of opinion on the sentence were of all shades of approval and condemnation. The general drift of public opinion, however, is toward approval of the verdict and sentence. The moral effect of finding Mr. Wadsworth guilty of the charge has been secured, and he has been let off with light punishment. He has a large family which is dependent on him for support. Three years ago he was one of the most popular men in the city; his friends were numbered by the hundred; property had smiled on him, and the business men found in him an ever willing helper. On the third day of January, 1884, the private banking firm, and sole manager, failed, for a sum aggregating over $100,000, under circumstances which were decidedly suspicious. On the last day of December, three days preceding the failure, he received from the Lake Superior and Cleveland Iron Companies, sums aggregating nearly $30,000, and refused to take the check of one of these corporations, asking for cash which he received. This large sum was taken by him in the capacity of deputy city treasurer, and when he must have been sure of the condition of his bank. He received deposits on the day before the failure and those who took their money from the bank got it with difficulty.

H. O. Young was designated as assignee, and from the assets of the bankrupt firm he has been able to distribute to the depositors and creditors of the bank 10 per cent of the amount due them. Many worthless mining stocks and securities for loans on risky mining ventures were found among the assets. Wadsworth made alterations in the cash blotter and other banking books after the failure, without the knowledge of the assignee. These, and other damaging facts were brought forward by the prosecution, and resulted in determining the jury to convict. He manifested an unwillingness to have the case come to a trial, and succeeded in delaying the trial for nearly eighteen months, but the end has come at last, and while it has not lifted the cloud from his name, it has at least left Mr. Wadsworth a free man.

ISHPEMING. The streets are in fairly good shape again, but the sidewalks are far from perfect.

The "week of prayer" is being observed in the Protestant churches of Ishpeming.

There is a business man on main street, who goes to bed at eleven o'clock every night, and arises in the afternoon of the next day. His friends are about to ask for an medical commission to examine him to his case.

The news that D. F. Wadsworth has been found guilty of embezzling, as charged in the indictment against him, was a great surprise to most of the people here, the general opinion being that the jury would disapprop.

FOUND GUILTY. D. F. Wadsworth Convicted on the Indictment Charging Him With Embezzling, But Let Off With a Light Fine.

The case of the people against D. F. Wadsworth, who was charged with embezzling a large sum of money deposited in the bank of D. F. Wadsworth & Co., was brought for trial before Judge Grant at Escanaba, on Monday of the present week. Three ineffectual attempts had before been made to bring the defendant to trial, two at Marquette and one at Monominee, but in each case the proceedings were quashed the indictment being defective in each instance.

A jury was secured Monday, and the trial began Tuesday. A large number of witnesses were called on both sides. Prosecuting attorney Geo. W. Hayden, of this place, conducted the prosecution, and the verdict of the jury was a proof of the thorough manner in which the case against Mr. Wadsworth was handled. E. E. Osborn, of this city, and John Q. Adams, of Negaunee, were retained for the defense, and did all that legal skill could do to secure a verdict favorable to their client.

The case, which was lengthy on account of the number of witnesses, and the exhaustive arguments of the attorney, was brought to a close Thursday evening, when the judge delivered his charge to the jury, and they retired to deliberate on a verdict. The charge favored the prosecution, and its effect was seen when the jury brought in the verdict early Friday morning. It was "guilty as charged."

Judge Grant sentenced Mr. Wadsworth shortly after eleven o'clock Friday forenoon. The court room was crowded, and the greatest interest and attention were manifested by the large audience, and those more intimately connected with the case. The man who had been found guilty by a jury of his peers was visibly affected, but received the sentence calmly. He had previously given notice through his attorney, that the case would be carried to the supreme court. At the close of an earnest address to the prisoner at the bar, the judge sentenced him to pay "a fine of five hundred dollars, or in default, imprisonment for one year."

The defense had hardly dared hope for so favorable a verdict, and received it with manifest satisfaction. It had generally been thought that the sentence would be a much heavier one. His friends congratulated him, and, for the first time in over two years, D. F. Wadsworth felt that he was once again a free man. Should he be unable to raise the necessary amount with which to pay the fine imposed, he can easily secure it from his friends.

The unexpected leniency of the court was a surprise to all, and it is the generally accepted opinion that the jury found him guilty to save a disagreement, and then recommended him strongly to the clemency of Judge Grant.

The verdict was not generally known here until quite late in the afternoon, though it was known in the morning that he had been found guilty. The expressions of opinion on the sentence were of all shades of approval and condemnation. The general drift of public opinion, however, is toward approval of the verdict and sentence. THE CLOSING DAY
Of Another Week Dawns Upon the Busy Burghers of Marquette, and Still "All's Well."

Derby Day in Marquette: Five Teams Run Away at the Same Time—Iron Bay Conquering.

Sunday School Work on this Peninsula—They Love the Light—Reception in Masonic Hall—New Rolling Stock.

A Lively Time on Front Street. Yesterday morning, between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, Front street was the scene of great excitement as even a great fire rarely produces. At that time five runaways occurred along the street, some of the teams taking the sidewalk and making sharp work necessary on the part of pedestrians in order to keep out of the way.

A. Bertrand's team of chestnuts caused the quickest stop on the part of the other horses, and played a prominent part in the scene themselves, as well. The trouble originated on Fourth street, at the M. H. & O. crossing; as the team went across the track, the box of the sleigh was thrown forward by the sharp descent caused by the removal of the snow on the track without the approach thereto being properly cleared. The driver was thrown forward between the horses, and hung on by the whiffletrees, being severely lacerated by the team ran up Fourth street. At the cathedral he was shaken off, and the team came down Front street and turned into Front street on a trot. They could easily have been stopped without further damage, had not a boy frightened them still further by yelling at them. Then it became a runaway in good earnest, Manhard's sleigh being run into and smashed, whereupon his horse started down the street. Rea's horse was standing near and he took part in the grand dash, while the brewery team made a wild run up Spring street, and Baptist's horse rushed up Front street and corralled himself in the enclosure back of Hager & Johnson's.

Bertrand's sleigh was wrecked on the sidewalk in front of Wetmore's store, and just grazing Conklin's window by three or four inches, as the furrows in the sidewalk show, they ran up the street until stopped near Vierling's. Although many persons and a great deal of property narrowly escaped suffering injury from the maddened horses, the actual damage was confined to the wrecking of Bertrand's and Manhard's sleighs.

Since the twenty-second of November ten new Sunday schools, auxiliary to the American Sunday School Union, have been organized on this peninsula, viz: At Munising, Floater, Voughts, Gilchrist, Xanthinway, Seney, Eagle Mills, Deer Lake, Hopes' Gold Mine and Robinson's. At one place there is no public school within ten miles, and the children are taught to read from the primary readers, spellers and papers furnished gratuitously by the society. The visits of the Sunday school missionary are heartily welcomed by the people who are compelled by circumstances beyond their control to dwell in these remote localities, with but few, if any, educational or religious privileges. It has been the mission of this national society for the past sixty-one years to care for the moral and religious instruction of children in the remote portions of the land, and to prepare the way for the onward march of civilization, and the establishment of the church and state upon the solid foundation of righteousness and religious liberty.

The missionary for the upper peninsula would esteem it a favor, not only to himself and to the society he represents, but to the cause in general, if any person knowing of a locality in need of a Sunday school, or any school in need of assistance, would notify him by mail or otherwise, and he will then give the matter prompt attention. Address Eben E. Saunders, Marquette, Mich.

Yesterday Watson & Palmer put in five of the Albo-Carbon lights, for which W. H. Volk is the agent in the city. Some time ago they put in one on trial and the result was that they ordered four more. Vierling's was also lighted by one of the new burners last night for the first time, and several other parties either have ordered, or are about to order, some of the burners.

Fourteen are now in use in this city, all giving good satisfaction: Five in Watson & Palmer's; three in the Clifton House; two in Stafford & Son's drug store, and one each in Conklin's, W. J. Brown's, Oshinsky's and Vierling's.

What Shall We Do With Our Boys? To the Mining Journal. The above question was rightly forced into my mind late Thursday night by the sight of a group of boys who were waiting in front of the bank building, between 10 and 11 P. M., to carry weary workers home from the supper room, clandestinely and with malice aforethought, disarranged his harness in such a manner as to endanger the lives of the occupants of the sleigh had not their devility been discovered before a start was made homeward through the darkness. I know who the boys are, and am really sorry that I do happen to know them. An sorry to know that we have such boys among us. The mothers and sisters of these same boys have ridden behind my horse many times, and are at all times as welcome to the use of him as though he were their own; this the boys knew when they were meddling with the harness. While it would be hardly possible to put Morgan in a position in his harness that would cause him to do anything mean, this does not in any way alleviate the culpability or in-laudable meanness of the boys. Luckily for them, my whip happened to be locked up where I could not get at it, or they would have gotten a lesson they seem very much in need of, and which has very evidently been denied them by their parents.

This little circumstance satisfies me that the many reports of apparent innate cunningness of these boys that has come to me from many sources, and which I have been wont to discredit, are true, and that as an act of friendship to these and other similarly disposed boys, as well as their parents, I am fully justified in calling special attention to the matter. On the strength of some of the reports above referred to I have approached parents, with the very best of intentions, in regard to their boys, and found to my surprise that

I could not get near them. "Yes, so-and-so has been telling a pack of lies; it is not my boy," etc., etc., was the retort. Now your attention to this question over my own signature, and beg of you not to each think it is some one else's boy, or boys, that is meant, but at once set about finding out for yourselves, beyond the possibility of a doubt, that it is not your boy that I am writing about. A gentleman who happened to see the trick attempted last night remarked to me, as the boys stood awaiting results, "Those boys, and a lot more like them around the city, ought to be behind the bars, and they will be there as long if something is not done to save them." Just think of it, parents; and boys, too. And this is not an isolated instance of this feeling; I have heard a number of persons express themselves in the same way. If there is one duty above another devolving on parents, it is to control and direct their children. I hold that parents are directly responsible for the future of their children, and that a correct record is kept by the Great Recorder of all the influences, both anti-natal and post-natal, that ever allow your child to grow up under. But what is the use of arguing this question? Many know their duties in this direction, but refuse to believe it is their duty that they are talked about. Now, I believe that all that is said about your boys is true, and much more; and earnestly advise you to believe what you hear and act upon that belief. You cannot afford to disbelieve it. If you cannot govern your boys, you have it in your power to put them where they will be safe from some of the devilry almost daily committed by some of these boys, to acts that the law defines as penitentiary offenses. I would as soon have thought of accusing those two boys of trying to burn my house as to have accused them of trying to set a trap to injure, or, maybe, kill me or some of my family.

I hope I am the friend of every parent and of every boy in the city; and would go as long a way around to avoid doing any one an injury as any other person living; and knowing me as you all do, I certainly feel that it is not necessary to assure any one of the fact that this personal appeal is made with the sincerest intentions, and in the hope of reaching some, if not all the boys that come under article, before it is too late. I have always felt an especial interest in the welfare of boys, and have helped to save many from ruin. I would like to help save some more. Will you parents who are apparently in need of assistance, come out from behind your boys, tear the blind from your parental eyes, and let those who are not so unfortunately situated as yourselves, aid you? They are none but those who will aid you if you will let them. Surely we can all govern your boys if you cannot unaided. There is no business so important that you cannot afford to neglect it for the protection of your boys. Do not neglect them any longer. All our boys are not in need of this special attention. It is sufficient that one is. If one were in our woods we would all stop to help and go in search of him. If I had a boy I would rather he were lost in the woods, a hundred times rather than have him lost to my control and influence. Come, let us attend to this matter now. Sincerely, A. MATHEWS.

A Tea Party. Hon. V. B. Cochran gave a very pleasant tea party to a select few of his friends at the Clifton House last evening. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Longyear, Misses Chandler, Bailey and Miles, and Messrs. H. A. Burt and E. A. Merritt were present. The refreshments were very fine.

REPORTORIAL PENCILINGS. Good, young beef, that will weigh about a hundred pounds to the quarter, can be bought here for six cents a pound.

Dog races are part of the human race rides, and applaud, and the rest look on approvingly. Pencilings would serve notice on the governor of Alaska to the effect that he is not enjoying all the mild weather this winter. Marquette has had a large share of the same; it is not two weeks since wagons were used in the city in preference to sleighs, and our hardy fishermen still raise their nets to supply the demand for their fluky prey in the large cities.

In correcting the proof on yesterday's MINING JOURNAL the omission of Mrs. A. Mathews' name from the list of the ladies having in charge the church supper at the White block, was overlooked. Pencilings feels that due credit should be given to all who labored to make the supper the success it proved to be, and therefore makes the correction now, for he understands that no one did more for the occasion than did Mrs. Mathews.

A horse belonging to W. J. Wallace ran off on Monday, and running against a team belonging to Dixon & Cook, scattered the contents of the latter all over the street. As the goods spilled consisted of nuts and bolts it was a nice job to gather them up from the snow.—Delta County Mirror.

The Mirror will please extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved firm, and the the unfortunate members should happen to recover perhaps some hints as to the proper contents of a Christian would not be ill-advised.

Some time ago a correspondent who signed herself "Ethel De Vere" sent some sweet, pretty verses to Pencilings, and requested that his opinions of them should be honestly expressed and addressed to her so and so, Marquette. Pencilings wrote a kind and fatherly note to Ethel, telling her that, though the verses submitted were tender and sweet, and in every way worthy of the beautiful plant (trailing arbutus) to which they were dedicated, she would do well to cultivate a more vigorous style, as the taste for soft, purring verse no longer existed. Yesterday another communication was received from Ethel De Vere (a sweet, romantic name), which indicates that she has been cultivating a more vigorous style under favorable circumstances. She desired that the son, to which she gave no name, might be sung to the tune of "Katie Gray," which shall be done, if Pencilings has to sing it himself. The song is as follows:

Old blinking baldy Bithers had a beary-eyed tom cat,
And a mighty tough old warrior cat was he,
All night he'd sound the tocsin, and all day he'd hug the mat.
For a black and wicked, murderous cat was he.
Old baldy loved his singing, and would laud his upper note,
And to make him waul would rub his mangled ears.
'Till the cat to show his metal would just open out his throat.
And leave no source of horror in arrears.
When old baldy kicked the bucket and had rung the devil's gong,
The neighbors vowed they'd shoot his wicked mate,
And they did. So now together they can sing the same old song,
While they wonder at the climate of that state.

PERSONAL MENTION. D. H. Ball returned from Escanaba yesterday. J. Connelly left the city yesterday on a trip to L'Anse. Mayor Thurber reached home yesterday via the C. & N. W. N. F. Leopold, of Chicago, came down from Republic yesterday and is at the Clifton. T. Nester returned yesterday via Chicago, from a trip to places in the Saginaw valley. Ira G. Whitney, the representative of a Chicago boot and shoe house, is at the Clifton. J. B. Brayton, of the lumber firm of Baares Bros., Grand Haven, is registered at the Clifton. W. C. Brown, Marquette's sole representative "on the road," got home from a trip last night.

J. H. Jacobs has returned from Chicago, where he spent the holidays and where his family still are. J. N. Williams and daughter, Miss Hattie, expect to start for Chicago for a visit next Thursday. Mr. Williams then has a vacation of two weeks. Johnny Hogan, whom every one knows and likes, has severed his connection with the Menard House, where he has been since the house was opened, and will engage in other pursuits. Johnny can be relied upon to do his duty faithfully and intelligently in any position that he will accept, and that he will have an opportunity to accept a position worthy of him at an early date the MINING JOURNAL hopes and believes.

THE CLOSING DAY

Of Another Week Dawns Upon the Busy Burghers of Marquette, and Still 'All's Well.'

Derby Day in Marquette; Five Teams Run Away at the Same Time—Iron Ray Conquering.

Sunday School Work on This Peninsula—They Love the Light—Reception in Masonic Hall—New Rolling Stock.

A Lively Time on Front Street. Yesterday morning, between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, Front street was the scene of great excitement such as even a great fire rarely produces. At that time five runaways occurred along the street, some of the teams taking the sidewalk and making sharp work necessary on the part of pedestrians in order to keep out of the way.

A Bertrand's team of chestnuts caused the quickstep on the part of the other horses, and played a prominent part in the scene themselves, as well. The trouble originated on Fourth street, at the M. H. & O. crossing; as the team went across the track, the box of the sleigh was thrown forward by the sharp descent caused by the removal of the snow on the track without the approach thereto being properly cleared. The driver was thrown forward between the horses, and hung on by the whiffletree, being severely bruised as the team ran up Fourth street. At the cathedral the sleigh was shaken off, and the team came down Superior and turned into Front street on a trot. They could easily have been stopped without further damage, had not a boy frightened them still further by yelling at them. Then it became a runaway in good earnest, Manhard's sleigh being run into and smashed, whereupon his horse started down the street. Rea's horse was standing near and he too took part in the grand show, while the brewery team made a wild run up Spring street, and Baptist's horse rushed up Front street and corralled himself in the enclosure back of Hager & Johnson's.

Bertrand's sleigh was wrecked on the sidewalk in front of Wetmore's store, and just grazing Conklin's window by three or four inches, as the furrows in the sidewalk show. They ran up the street until stopped near Vierling's. Although many persons and a great deal of property narrowly escaped suffering injury from the maddened horses, the actual damage was confined to the wrecking of Bertrand's and Manhard's sleighs.

Sunday School Work. Since the twenty-second of November ten new Sunday schools, auxiliary to the American Sunday School Union, have been organized on this peninsula, viz.: At Munising, Floeter, Voughts, Gilchrist, Naubinway, Seney, Eagle Mills, Deer Lake, Bopes' Gold Mine and Robinson's. At one place there is no public school within ten miles, and the children are taught to read from the primary readers, spellers and papers furnished gratuitously by the society. The visits of the Sunday school missionary are heartily welcomed by the people who are compelled by circumstances beyond their control to dwell in these remote localities, with but few, if any, educational or religious privileges.

It has been the mission of this national society for the past sixty-one years to care for the moral and religious instruction of children in the remote portions of the land, and to prepare the way for the onward march of civilization, and the establishment of the church and state upon the solid foundation of righteousness and religious liberty.

The missionary for the upper peninsula would esteem it a favor, not only to himself and to the society he represents, but to the cause in general, if any person knowing of a locality in need of a Sunday school, or any school in need of assistance, would notify him by mail or otherwise, and he will then give the matter prompt attention. Address Eben E. Saunders, Marquette, Mich.

Preferring Light to Darkness. Yesterday Watson & Palmer put in five of the Albo-Carbon lights, for which W. H. Volk is the agent in the city. Some time ago they put in one on trial and the result was that they ordered four more. Vierling's was also lighted by one of the new burners last night for the first time, and several other parties either have ordered, or are about to order, some of the burners.

Fourteen are now in use in this city, all giving good satisfaction: Five in Watson & Palmer's; three in the Clifton House; two in Stafford & Son's drug store, and one each in Conklin's, W. J. Brown's, Oshinsky's and Vierling's.

Closing In. Yesterday, for the first time this season, ice formed on the bay outside the breakwater and across to Shot point. So it remained all day, and the fish traps were kept running back and forth to keep a channel open to the lake outside, for they have about seventy-five nets still set and do not propose to give up for the season on the first appearance of their foe. All the ice in the bay at present is anchor ice, unfit for the harvest, but the true article will probably be obtainable to any desired degree before the smoke of the first boat is seen in the spring.

Masonic Reception Last Night. There was a very pleasant informal reception given by the Masons in their hall last night. About twenty couples were present and danced from 7:30 to 11:30 o'clock. These Masonic parties are about the only social events to relieve the monotony of existence in the city at present, and the young gentlemen of the lodge deserve many thanks for giving them.

After the dance many of the young people adjourned to Hoppen's, on Superior street, for oysters and other refreshments.

New Rolling Stock. Twenty-five pairs of Fenton's improved "Expert" roller skates have been received at the Casino, a needed addition to the large stock of skates already on hand.

To-night there will be a two-mile race commencing at 9 o'clock, in consequence of which, skating will be continued until 11 o'clock.

A Tea Party. Hon. V. B. Cochran gave a very pleasant little tea party to a select few of his friends at the Clifton House last evening. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Longyear, Misses Chandler, Bailey and Miles, and Messrs. H. A. Bart and E. A. Merritt were present. The refreshments were very fine.

"What Shall We Do With Our Boys?" To the Mining Journal.

The above question was rudely forced into my mind late Thursday night by two of "our boys" who, while my horse was waiting in front of the bank building, between 10 and 11 P. M., to carry weary workers home from the supper room, clandestinely and with malice aforethought, disarranged his harness in such a manner as to endanger the lives of the occupants of the sleigh had not their devility been discovered before a start was made homeward through the darkness. I know who the boys are, and am really sorry that I do happen to know them. Am sorry to know that we have such boys among us. The mothers and sisters of these same boys have ridden behind my horse many times, and are at all times as welcome to the use of him as though he were their own; this the boys knew when they were meddling with the harness. While it would be hardly possible to put Morgan in a position in his harness that would cause him to do anything mean, this does not in any way alleviate the culpableness or intended meanness of the boys. Luckily for them my whip happened to be locked up where I could not get at it, or they would have gotten a lesson they seem very much in need of, and which very evidently been denied them by their parents.

This little circumstance satisfies me that the many reports of apparent innate culpableness of these boys that has come to me from many sources, and which I have been wont to discredit, are true, and that as an act of friendship to these and other similarly disposed boys, as well as their parents, I am fully justified in calling special attention to the matter. On the strength of some of the reports above referred to I have approached parents, with the very best of intentions, in regard to their boys, and found to my surprise that I could not get near them. "Yes, so-and-so is a son of a b—, but he is not my boy," &c., &c., was the retort.

Now, parents, I call your attention to this question over my own signature, and beg of you not to each think it is some one else's boy, or boys, that is meant, but at once set about finding out for yourselves, beyond the possibility of a doubt, that it is not your boy that I am referring to. A gentleman who happened to see the trick attempted last night remarked to me, as the boys stood awaiting results, "Those boys, and a lot more like them around the city, ought to be behind the bars, and they will be there ere long if something is not done to save them." Just think of it, parents, and boys, too. And this is not an isolated instance of this feeling; I have heard a number of persons express themselves in the same way. If there is one duty above another devolving on parents, it is to control and direct their children. I hold that parents are directly responsible for the future of their children, and that a correct record is kept by the Great Recorder of all the good and bad that is done in this world, and that you allow your child to grow up under. But what is the use of arguing this question? Many know their duties in this connection, and refuse to believe it is their boys that are talked about. Now, I believe that all that is said about your boys is true, and much more, and earnestly advise you to believe what you hear and act upon that belief. You cannot afford to disbelieve it. If you cannot govern your boys, you have it in your power to put them where they can be governed; and it is your duty to do it. It will be easier and better for the boys to be put there by you than if put there by officers of the law. As I see it, it is but a step from some of the devilry almost daily committed by some of these boys, to acts that the law defines as penitentiary offenses. I would as soon have thought of accusing those two boys of trying to burn my house as to have accused them of trying to set a trap to injure, or, maybe, kill me or some of my family.

I hope I am the friend of every parent and of every boy in the city; and would go as long a way around to avoid doing any one an injury as any other person living; and knowing me as you all do, I certainly feel that it is not necessary to assure any one of the fact that this personal appeal is made with the sincerest intentions, and in the hope of reaching some, if not all the boys that come under article, before it is too late. I have always felt an especial interest in the welfare of boys, and have helped to save many from ruin. I would like to help save some more. Will you parents who are apparently in need of assistance, come out from behind your boys, tear the blind from your parental eyes, and let those who are not so unfortunately situated as yourselves, aid you? They are none but those who will aid you if you will let them. Surely we can all govern our boys if you cannot unaided. There is no business so important that you cannot afford to neglect it for the protection of your boys. Do not neglect them any longer. All our boys are not in need of this special attention. It is sufficient that some are. If one was lost in our woods we would all stop business and go in search of him. If I had a boy I would rather he were lost in the woods, a hundred times rather than have him lost to my control and influence. Come, let us attend to this matter now. Sincerely,

A. MATHEWS.
