THE GREAT STRIKE.

SIX STRIKERS SHOT.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—A crowd of strikers formed at the relay depot in East St. Louis at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, and advanced in the direction of the railroad yards to stop work by the new men employed there. They were met by a guard of deputy marshals, who ordered them to disperse. The mob refused, and made a rush for the yards, when the deputies leveled their Winchester rifles and fired, killing six of the strikers.

D. & N. DEPOT IN FLAMES.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—Three Cairo short line and four Louisville & Nashville freight cars were burned in the railroad yards in East St. Louis to-night, and it is thought they were set on fire by the strikers in revenge for to-day's trouble. It is now stated that the Louisville & Nashville depot is burning. Three fire engines have been sent from this city to aid in subduing the fire.

MURDEROUS DEPUTY MARSHALS.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—Deputy marshals this afternoon fired on a crowd of strikers at East St. Louis, five men and one woman being shot. Three of the men were killed, and the woman is supposed to be mortally wounded. The victims are Pat Driscoll, an employe of the water works, and not a striker; Oscar Washington, a painter; John Bohman, a water works laborer, not a striker; Major Richman, shot in the head and shoulder, will probably die; Mrs. John Pfeifer, shot in the back and probably mortally wounded; unknown man, shot at the bridge approach. The crowd had made no attack upon the yards, as at first reported, but were standing on Cahokia bridge, near the Louisville & Nashville yards, jeering at the guards, when without the slightest apparent provocation the deputies leveled their rifles and fired two volleys. The crowd immediately separated, running in all directions, and the deputies ran over the Cahokia bridge toward the Missouri river bridge, still holding their rifles and firing to cover their retreat.

BLOODSHED AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—Ever since the railroad employes in East St. Louis came out in support of the striking Knights of the Guild southwest system, rumors of riots and bloodshed have daily gained circulation, but until to-day no serious conflict has occurred. The county sheriff has sworn in numerous deputies, and upon several occasions has brought to that city bodies of armed men to suppress an anticipated attack on the railroad yards and their protectors. Upon one occasion only, however, has the presence of these men been really needed, and the railroads have, with some few exceptions, done their usual business. To-day opened with but little

PROSPECT OF SERIOUS TROUBLE.

although some of the strikers intimated that the roads would find it less easy to run trains than they had anticipated, and early in the morning the yards presented an animated scene. Switch engines were running backward and forward making up trains, the platform men were busy loading and unloading freight, and trains were arriving and departing without any interference. This condition of affairs continued until noon, and it was thought that the day would pass without any demonstration by the strikers. At that hour, however, the trouble which afterwards grew to

SUCH ALARMING PROPORTIONS.

A number of strikers without apparently having formed any preconceived plan, congregated at the relay depot and began a discussion of the general situation. As time passed their number was augmented until the original knot of men increased to nearly 200. The discussion then became animated and the crowd more demonstrative, until some one proposed that they go to the Louisville & Nashville yards and drive out the men employed there. The cry of "On to the Nashville yard" was caught up and the crowd advanced. As they proceeded their numbers again increased, some joining the mob simply as spectators, while others were in full sympathy with the movement, until from 300 to 400 were

ADVANCING ON THE YARDS.

Arriving there they swarmed into the yards and persuaded the men at work to desert their posts. The crowd remained in the yards for some time, and although considerable excitement prevailed, no violence was resorted to. Just at this time, however, a Louisville & Nashville freight train was slowly passing, guarded by eight deputy sheriffs, armed with Winchester rifles. In the meantime the crowds of men, women and children had congregated on Broadway, where the Louisville & Nashville tracks cross the street, and also upon the Broadway bridge, which spans the Cahokia creek, and in the open space to the east. Just as the train reached the Broadway crossing

THE TROUBLE BEGAN.

The crowd on the bridge began to yell and jeer at the officers, and it was ascertained that stones were thrown which struck two or

THREE OF THEM, AND IT ALSO SAID THAT A pistol was discharged. The deputies immediately leveled their rifles and fired two volleys into the crowd on the bridge with fatal effect, four men being killed and one woman mortally wounded. The wounded woman is Mrs. Pfeifer, said to be the wife of a striker. The greatest excitement immediately prevailed, and pandemonium reigned.

PURSING DEPUTY MARSHALS.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—Some of the deputies who failed to escape with those who fled to this city were chased by the crowd into the freight warehouse and offices of the Louisville & Nashville road. The warehouse was surrounded by an immense crowd, who hooted and yelled and urged the men to attack the stronghold and drive the deputies out. The men went among the crowd urging others to proceed, and shot all the deputies they could find. Some of the deputies watching their opportunity slipped out and worked their way among the freight cars unobserved.

TROOPS FOR EAST ST. LOUIS.

CHICAGO, April 9.—A Springfield (Ill.) special to the Daily News, says: Adjutant-General Vance has this afternoon by telegraph ordered the companies stationed at the following towns to report at once at East St. Louis for duty: Decatur, Champaign, Nashville, Sparta, Greenville, Vandavia and Paris. Company C of Springfield, will leave at 5 o'clock on a special train.

DEPUTY SHERIFF SHOT.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 9.—Deputy Sheriff Williams, who was shot this morning at the round house in Argent, rested easily to-night, but the chances are against his recovery. Darby, the leader of the strikers' mob, is secretary of the state executive board of the Knights of Labor.

GOULD AND HOME LIARS.

SEKONTON, April 9.—Mr. Frederick Turner, secretary and treasurer of the Knights of Labor, arrived in this city this morning to make his official report to Grand Master Workman Powderly. Mr. Turner was asked this afternoon: "Do you know the strike at St. Louis will be settled soon?" He replied: "I don't know. Mr. Hoxie and Mr. Gould have gone back on their agreement, and now when we issue an order to resume work they refuse to employ any Knights of Labor. The statement that trains are running on the Missouri Pacific as usual is untrue. They may be getting five or six cars out of East St. Louis a day."

WHEN THE STRIKE COMMENCED.

There were a few loaded cars in the yard, and they may have succeeded in getting these out. Mr. Powderly to-day sent the following dispatch to Hon. A. G. Curtis, Washington, D. C.: "Urge the immediate passage of your resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the labor troubles in the southwest. The committee should be made up of the public has a right to know who is to blame in the matter." After sending the above Mr. Powderly received a dispatch from St. Louis announcing the killing of six strikers by the deputies.

STRIKERS AMING THEMSELVES.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—Great excitement now prevails in East St. Louis, and the strikers are fast arming themselves. They are determined to avenge the death of those of their number so wantonly slain, as they say. Guards of police are stationed at each approach of the bridge connecting with East St. Louis, and no one is allowed to pass over.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

Hartington and Salisbury to Oppose the Home Rule Bill on Its Second Reading.

TO OPPOSE HOME RULE.

LONDON, April 9.—Lord Hartington in an interview with Lord Salisbury to-day arranged that no motion should be made against the home rule bill until the second reading. Mr. Chamberlain has rejected overtures from the conservatives for a coalition. Among the various radical workmen's clubs, the following is in favor of Gladstone.

APPROVING PARLIAMENTS.

PARIS, April 9.—Mr. Gladstone's speech is the uppermost topic of conversation in the literary and political circles. Most of the Parisian newspapers comment approvingly on the British premier's scheme.

FORSTER'S OBSEQUES.

LONDON, April 9.—The funeral services over the late William E. Forster took place in Westminster Abbey to-day. Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone and Earls Spencer and Rosebery were present.

ICE IN THE STRAITS.

The Warm Weather Making But Little Impression on That Frozen Mass.

MACKINAC CITY, April 9.—This has been the warmest day of spring, and the ice has melted quite rapidly, but it's still very solid. Several teams have crossed the straits from St. Helena to this place to-day. The keeper of St. Helena light house says there is no water to be seen from there. The weather is cloudy, with the prospect of a storm. The mercury was 50 above at noon, and is 38 above to-night.

ST. INAXER, April 9.—Five days of warm weather have just started to melt the ice in the straits. To-night it is cloudy and threatening rain.

The Raging Ohio.

CINCINNATI, April 9.—The river here at 9 o'clock to-night was 55 feet 8 inches and falling half an inch an hour. The weather is warm and threatening, but the danger is believed to be over.

LOUISVILLE, April 9.—The river is rising here very slowly, but will begin to fall by the morning. No further danger is anticipated. The canal gauge registers 32 1/2 feet.

Business Failures.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The business failures during the last seven days, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., number for the United States 173, and for Canada 12, against a total of 214 last week, and 221 the week previous. The failures are light in every section of the country except in the western and Pacific states and in Canada, where the number reported is above the average.

House Resolutions Expressing Sympathy With Gladstone Fall of Passing—Twenty-Five Pension Bills Passed.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The chair laid before the senate a letter from Mr. Fairchild, acting secretary of the treasury, transmitting a letter from the secretary of the interior submitting an estimate of $20,000 as the amount necessary to complete the investigation of Indian depredations. Mr. Stanford submitted the credentials of George Horst. The credentials having been read the new senator was escorted to the desk by Mr. Stanford. After the call of committees for reports of a private character, the house went into committee of the whole, Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, in the chair, on the private calendar. Several bills were agreed to, when the committee ran against a snag in the shape of a bill directing the quartermaster-general to settle with the McMinville & Manchester railroad company, of Tennessee. The amount involved in the bill is $264,000, and a long discussion ensued upon the measure, but no action was taken. The committee then rose. Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri, asked unanimous consent for the present consideration of the following resolutions:

RELATING TO THE FISHERIES.

The resolution declares it to be the sense of the senate that congress ought not to provide for the appointment of a commission—in which the governments of the United States and Great Britain should be represented—charged with the consideration and settlement of the fishing rights of the two governments on the coasts of the United States and British America. He contended that Great Britain had at ways had the best of the United States in negotiating treaties, and that this government had never derived any benefit from the treaty of Washington. Our fishermen, he said, heard with amazement and indignation that Secretary Bayard was making, without the interposition of the senate, a new treaty, and recommending a joint commission. The fault of the secretary was that he should take counsel of the enemy; that he should have consulted Mr. George Steele, president of

THE AMERICAN FISHING UNION.

who was very desirous of presenting the case of the American fisherman. If this hearing had been granted, neither the president nor Mr. Bayard would have fallen into the diplomatic traps Mr. West set for them. Mr. Frye then argued that no one desired a commission. We had nothing to ask of Canada. He said he had shored and fish fisheries were useless to us now. "Sir," said Mr. Frye, "what do these fishermen ask in this emergency when England is demanding on more sacrifice, and the administration seems to have been beguiled by the affirmations of the British minister and Sir Ambrose Shea? Their first and most earnest prayer is to be let alone. Tossed about for a century by the winds and waves of English diplomacy, buffeted by stripped and dismantled in provincial courts, it seems to them if only their country would say to this tempestuous sea, 'Peace, be still,' their cup of content would be full. The resolution now under consideration answers this demand, but Mr. President, the republic should demand more than this of congress. It should insist first, that Great Britain must abstain from the assumption of a territorial or any other jurisdiction over the vessels of the United States navigating or harboring in the open seas under the flag of the United States, whether within or without three miles of the shore. Second, upon the ordinary rights of hospitality, wood, water and shelter.

CANADIAN PENAL LAWS.

REGARDLESS OF THE TREATIES.

The republic should insist upon the same commercial privileges in the ports and harbors of the Dominion of Canada as she enjoys in ours. If these are not accorded then congress should promptly resort to retaliatory legislation, and our government send into those waters armed cruisers, not to perpetrate any wrongs upon or do injustice to our neighbors, but to protect our own citizens from outrages." Mr. Morgan did not understand the president's suggestion to propose a commission which by its action should conclude all questions between the two governments, it was a negotiation that was proposed by the president. Mr. Frye remarked that in that case the president's language was unfortunately chosen. Mr. Morgan said it had been misinterpreted. THE WASHINGTON TERRITORY ADMISSION BILL was then placed before the senate, the pending question being on Mr. Eustis' proposed amendment limiting the right of suffrage in the proposed new state to qualified male electors only. Mr. Butler said he would vote against the amendment. Mr. Beck favored the amendment and spoke in its support. He would do everything in his power, he said, to advance the condition of women, but was not prepared to give them the right of suffrage now. His main reason for this was that the constitution prohibited any discrimination on account of race or color. Referring to woman suffrage Mr. Teller believed it would be one of the greatest blessings to civilization. Mr. Eustis maintained that his amendment to qualified male electors did not disfranchise women because women had no existing right to vote. When congress authorized the formation of the territory it limited suffrage to male citizens. Mr. Butler said the limitation was only as to the first election under the territorial government. Mr. Eustis was suspicious when he saw republican unanimity on a question of the admission of a state. He was aware that we were now living in a very highly-scented atmosphere of reform. (Laughter.) Mr. Edmunds (sotto voce)—Yes, very highly-scented indeed; it smells of high heaven. (Renewed laughter.) Mr. Morgan supported Mr. Eustis' amendment and strongly

LIMITING THE RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

OPPOSED WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

He paid an eloquent tribute to the graces and virtues of women and their controlling influence upon civilization. The banner of Christianity, he declared, was upheld by the women. If it were to depend upon the men we would retrograde three centuries in three weeks. He would not put on women the burdens that should be borne by men. He would keep her out of politics, and out of association with dirty pot-house politicians. One bad woman could undo the good that many good women could do, and the ballot in the hands of a corrupt woman was the most dangerous instrumentality for evil that the world has ever seen. The Eustis amendment was rejected by a vote of 25 to 12. The senate then adjourned until to-morrow.

THE HORSE.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—On motion of Mr. St. Martin, of Louisiana, a night session was ordered for the 13th of May for the consideration of resolutions relative to the death of Michael Hahn, late representative from the state of Louisiana. After the call of committees for reports of a private character, the house went into committee of the whole, Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, in the chair, on the private calendar. Several bills were agreed to, when the committee ran against a snag in the shape of a bill directing the quartermaster-general to settle with the McMinville & Manchester railroad company, of Tennessee. The amount involved in the bill is $264,000, and a long discussion ensued upon the measure, but no action was taken. The committee then rose. Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri, asked unanimous consent for the present consideration of the following resolutions:

RESOLVED.

That the house of representatives of the United States earnestly sympathizes with the Right Hon. William E. Gladstone and his associates in their efforts to secure a free parliament for the people of Ireland, and congratulates the people of that hitherto unhappy country on the prospect of an early and successful termination of their long and painful struggle for the rights of self-government.

Resolved, That the speaker of the house be directed to communicate a copy of these resolutions to Mr. Gladstone.

MR. COX, of North Carolina, objected, and the resolutions were not received. The house here took a recess, the evening session to be for the consideration of pension bills. The house at its evening session passed twenty-five pension bills and adjourned till to-morrow.

UNITED NAILERS AND HEATERS.

They Fail to Make a Settlement With the Nail Manufacturers.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 9.—Contrary to general expectation the conference between the manufacturers of the Western Nail association and the United Nailers and Heaters Association of America adjourned to-day at noon without reaching a settlement, and the disputed questions are in the same shape as before the conference. The nailers agreed to waive their objections to the continued employment of the new iron union men, but they demanded what is known as the Mingo scale for nailing and heating, and this the manufacturers would not concede, refusing to pay more than they now pay the new men. They claim that they can fill out their mills at this scale, and after a ten months' strike do not propose to go above it. There is also a wide margin in what is demanded for heating as compared with what the mills that now use the Gets furnaces actually pay, and this too was an obstacle to an agreement. Opinions differ as to what result will follow this failure to formally terminate the long existing nail strike. By some it is claimed that a number of nailers will resume their old places in the mills at an early day.

GLADSTONE'S POSITION.

Thursday He Will Introduce His Irish Land Bill, Pronouncing it a Necessary Supplement to Home Rule.

Chamberlain Coldly Received While Making Personal Explanation of His Reasons for Leaving the Cabinet.

CHAMBERLAIN'S EXPLANATION.

LONDON, April 9.—The house of commons was again crowded to-day. Among the visitors were the Dukes of Connaught and Cambridge, and many peers and ambassadors. Although the attendance showed the intense interest that is taken in the progress of the debate on the Irish bill, the public excitement has somewhat abated. Mr. Gladstone was heartily cheered when he arose and said that the debate would be continued until Monday, when he hoped to close the discussion. He announced that the budget would be introduced on Tuesday, and the Irish land bill on Thursday, the latter being a necessary supplement to the home rule bill. He proposed that the house adjourn for a week's holiday at Easter. Mr. Chamberlain was received with faint cheers upon rising to resume the debate. He said that he arose more for the purpose than with the object of entering upon a detailed discussion of the speech of Mr. Gladstone. Continuing, he said that when he was asked to join the government, he told Mr. Gladstone that he did not think it possible to reconcile a separate parliament at Dublin, as demanded by the Irish members, with the conditions of a full guarantee for the security of the empire, and Mr. Gladstone informed him that all he wanted of them was an independent inquiry into the subject of the government of Ireland. He wrote a letter to Mr. Gladstone on January 31, in which he explained that he could not consent to the establishment of

MAKING A PERSONAL EXPLANATION

A PARLIAMENT IN DUBLIN.

and it was on that understanding that he consented to join the cabinet. He had presumed from what Mr. Gladstone had told him that the whole cabinet would proceed step by step in consultation to build a scheme of home rule not involving separation. It was not until March 13th that Mr. Gladstone started the cabinet by bringing forward a scheme involving the issue of 150,000,000 pounds in consols. At this point Mr. Gladstone interrupted and reminded Mr. Chamberlain that he had not received permission of her majesty's government to reveal the land proposals. Mr. Chamberlain, continuing, said that he would reserve his explanation. He did not resign on the land purchase proposals alone, but on the whole scheme. Still, he asked, how could he explain his position if his hands were tied? (Conservative cheers.) He asked if he might be permitted to read his letter to Mr. Gladstone. Here

AN ANXIOUS DISCUSSION OCCURRED

between Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Gladstone, the latter declaring that the former could not go beyond the limits of the permission given. Mr. Chamberlain thereupon complained that his explanation would be lame and incomplete. He would never be able to justify his conduct to the house and to the country. He took four principal objections to the scheme for the government of Ireland. The first was the proposal to exclude the Irish members from Westminster; his second objection was to renounce as proposed the exercise of the right of imperial taxation. In the third place he objected to the surrender of the appointments of judges and magistrates, and finally he objected to the proposed authority given to the Irish parliament in matters not specially excluded from its authority. Since he had left the cabinet he had been made by England retaining power over the customs and excise duties, but the proposal now appeared utterly inconsistent with the principle that taxation and representation should go together, and he further objected to any scheme that laid upon the British taxpayer a tremendous liability with excessive risk, as such a project could only be looked upon as a bribe to modify the hostility of Irish land owners to home rule. He did not believe that the Irish people would agree to be deprived of all voice in the control of matters of deep interest, and he asserted that Ireland was being asked to occupy

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE

A PRECARIOUS POSITION

which the people would never accept. Further, the contributions which Ireland was to be called on to pay to the imperial treasury were fixed by the scheme and could not be increased in case the United Kingdom should be in a position of direct peril, and where then, he asked, was the integrity of the empire. The financial question, he continued, divided itself into two parts. The first was taxpayer would object to any additional burden being thrown upon him to make good Irish deficiencies, and

THE IRISH TAXPAYERS

If there were a deficiency in the budget owing to the failure of the excise and custom duties, would be called on to pay new taxes, falling which the government would be obliged to repudiate their obligations. The scheme would be accepted grudgingly, and in the course of two years there would be an attempt to revise or alter it. As for himself,

The concert to be given at the Swedish Lutheran church will take place on Tuesday evening, April 27th.

Prof. Stope is a remarkably good violinist, and just as good a pianist. His violin solos were rendered as only a master of the bow and chords could render them.

Miss Carlson, of Chicago, will be present and assist in the concert. A good program has been prepared, and the entertainment can hardly fail to be a great success.

Honored by His Fellow-Workmen. Past Master Workman Peter Fitzpatrick was presented with an elegant gold regalia at the regular meeting of the local lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen Thursday night.

The badge is similar to the one presented to Grand Recorder W. Warner Wilson at the last meeting of the grand lodge of Michigan, and is a beautiful piece of workmanship of finely-chased solid gold.
