BUFFALO, N. Y., May 16 .- The republican convention was called to order at 12:20 P. M. After the roll-call, Charles Fitch was chosen temporary chairman and adnot for him to direct the deliberations, but he had gauged the sentiment of the republicans of New York aright when he said they did not mean to girt the delegates whom they will send to the national council of the party with cast iron instruc tions or bind them as to their individual preferences in regard to the national standard bearer. "If you will trust to their sagacity and discretion, supplemented as they will be by their conferences and consultations with the delegates from sister states, they will thus reach the wisest conclusion. THE MILITARY SITUATION. LONDON, May 16 .- The Daily Telegraph, commenting on the agitation regarding the English military condition, says that the net result is that the public now know the facts as to what it is necessary to do in the matter. The government, it says, will have to provide 10,000 extra men, to get magazine rifles and field guns manufactured either here or in. America, or wherever the work will be immediately done, to provide horses for the cavalry and barracks for the troops to drill and equip 10,000 volunteers and attend to the coast defences. THE PAPAL RESCRIPT. LONDON, May 16 .- Skands, a Rome correspondent, says the Irish bishops will forward to the prepaganda their observations on the late papal rescript before it goes into effect, so as to eliminate any political significance and avoid all bitter ness. These and other points are now under consideration. Another correspondent says the papal rescript will be read from the Irish pulpits at an early day with an explanation from the bishop -which will be submitted to the vatican for revision-to the effect that the pope does not condemn the political objects of the nationalist party but only the means employed toward attaining these objects

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The resolution offered by Mr. Vest a few days ago providing for a select committee to examine the question touching the meat and meat products of the United States, was taken up, and Mr. Vest proceeded to address the senate on the subject. He said in spite of the increased consumption abroad among the people with whom the American people are in the closest commercial intercourse, and with the additional fact that during the last terrible winter 500,-900 head of cattle perished in Montana alone, the price of beef was steadily declining to producers, while it was increasing to consumers. Five firms in Chicago controlled the price of meat throughlines centering in Chicago had entered Under that arrangement St. that public measures, Louis ceased to be a rival with Chicago in the shipment and sale of cattle.

Mr. Manderson said that, representing one of the great cattle producing states of the country, he felt a very great interest in the resolution, and was in hearty sympathy with Mr. Vest's desire to have that important matter thoroughly investigated. The investigation should be a speedy and thorough one.

Mr. Cullom expressed the opinion that the resolution should be broadened in its scope as he had proposed, and as Mr. Vest dling platform should influence the house had agreed to. Vanderbilt's culinary extravagance in hiring a $10,000 cook Cornelius was supposed to have the most expensive one in town, paying Fred Hennnerle, his chef, $150 a month, the highest salary paid by any private family in New York. Mrs. Langtry is not so far behind. She pays Constant Migirard, who gets up her meals and travels with her, $100 a month. Ogden Goelet gave Valtat $100, but Judge Water-

I was told on one of these occasions by a hysterical waiter, whom I corraled with a half a dollar and induced to give me some attention, that these great cooks order the simplest sort of food. They themselves adjure most of the sauces and gravies with which they stimulate the jaded palates of the public and, looking carefully over the bill, pick out just those dishes which require, through their simplicity, perfect cooking to make them palatable.—Brooklyn

An Incompetent Railroad Engineer. The danger of running on an engine handled by an incompetent engineer or a man who has remained at some other business perience of that kind that drove me off the road and into more pleasant lines of labor. The Iowa legislature passed a law in 1877 holding all railroads responsible in heavy amounts for loss of life or injuries incurred in their service, and to offset the liability the played south of here, and is well spoken railroad addressed a circular to all employes asking them to relinquish their claims. One morning I had fired up as usual, and run the were to take west from Burlington. Before the hour an agent stepped up and asked the day, the consignment consisting of fifteen cars. Regular shipments will now be was put in the cab. He had an engineer's license, and everything looked straight, so far as papers went. During the talk my fires had run down, so I filled in coal until steam was hissing out of the safety valve, and then

I opened the furnace door. Having taken our train, an hour later we were spinning along nicely when I turned to feed the fire. Throwing open the door I ob-Barnum's advertising car went south served the crown sheet and rivets showing through the fire box, and looked up at the gauge only to find that we were ru a dry boiler. I yelled to my partner, and he started out on the running board with a hammer in one hand. The pump had stopped working. The new man struck the metal gently to loosen the plunger. That's all I saw. I started over the coal in the tender, and, climbing up on the side of the first car, A number of young men have arranged or a social hop to be held at A. O. U. W. between me and that engine. Reaching the caboose and sitting on the cupola, I waited for the explosion. If that fool with his hammer had succeeded in starting that pump he would have gone into eternity the next second, for the boiler was at a white heat. I wasn't in a suicidal frame of mind, and that's why I lit out. But the old adage about fools and children proved true, for that engineer had to stop, draw the fire and wait for a relief engine. We had only run fifteen miles, but the damage in half an hour took three onths to repair .- Globe-Democrat Inter

> The Ranchman's Commissary Department. A ranchman's life is certainly a very pleas ant one, albeit generally varied with plenty of hardship and anxiety. Although occa-sionally he passes days of severe toil—for example, if he goes on the round up he works as hard as any of his men-yet he no longe has to undergo the monotonous drudgery attendant upon the tasks of the cowboy or of the apprentice in the business. His fare is simple; but, if he chooses, it is good enough. Many ranches are provided with nothing at all but salt pork, canned goods, and bread; indeed, it is a curious fact that in traveling through this cow country it is often imposible to get any milk or butter; but this is only because the owners or managers are too lazy to take enough trouble to insure their own comfort. We ourselves always keep up two or three cows, choosing such as are naturally tame, and so we invariably have plenty of milk and, when there is time for churning > a good deal of butter.

> We also keep hens, which, in spite of the damaging inroads of hawks, bob cats and foxes, supply us with eggs, and in time of need, when our rifles have failed to keep us in game, with stewed, roast or fried chicken. From our garden we get potatoes, and unless drought, frost or grasshoppers inter-fere (which they do about every second year) other vegetables as well. For fresh meat we depend chiefly upon our prowess as hunters. -Theodore Roosevelt in The Century.

Something in a Name. I knew a man who spent years and a fortune in getting up a new decoction of bit-ters. At last he had it in shape to sell it. He made about a million bottles of it, and had it advertised under a beautiful Greek name, which he had made up out of the dictionary specially to attract attention. And when he advertised it it sounded so like some chemical poison that he couldn't get anybody to believe it was a simple "bitters." He failed. A name is all a patent medicine wants. A patent medicine never makes itself popular from its merits. You've got to persuade people it will cure them before they take it, and then it does. The name is everything practically. Everybody knows that he has stood at street windows and looked at some-thing he has no use for and longed to buy it just because it has an attractive name.—San Mayor Hewitt, of New York, Gives a "Union Delegation a Characteristic Reception.

The New York Mail and Express gives this account of a meeting between a committee of the locked-out brewers in that city and Mayor Hewitt Monday, in the course of which the mayor read the representatives of the Brewers' union a shart leeture on the rights of employers and employed:

The committee consisted of Emil Herbrand, the national secretary of the brewers organization, and he was accompanied by Charles Pomme, and Ernst Kurzenarber. Editor Shevitch of the Volks Zeitung was also along and managed to get into a very lively debate with the mayor before the affair was settled.

Pretty nearly a thousand men marched we may credit the statement of the Ver- body for its delay in responding to the down Broadway, filled the benches in City Hall park and looked for places where non-pool bear is sold, while the committee conferred with the mayor. The mayor made short work of the committee. Its spokesman made a short speech, to the dition to see things double when he has fought the war of the rebellion over effect that the men wanted to go back to again-which will be quite soon enough work.

"Yes, but you want the bosses to recognize your union, don't you," demanded the mayor sharply.

Now you have in favor of his nomination are being a right to your unions and the bosses siderably more than his own delegation after a few test votes are taken in the convention, and we see no reason why his show isn't as good as that of any the rest of the aspirants, not even excepting Sherman.

I more than a probability that ne will be the Chicago the candidate chosen by the Chicago convention. As to his letter of withdrawal, all sorts of interpretations are given to it. About as plausible a one as we have seen is that of the Duluth News, which takes this view of it:

My sympathies are with you, but you are beaten. When pride meets pride, the longest purse wins. It is so in your case. Now, the best thing you can do is to retreat in good order. Why, I have been beaten fifty times. I didn't like it, but I retreated, and waited for a chance to give it to the other fellow. George Washington was reother fellow. George Washington was re-

HOW FOUND IN THE DAY TIME WITHOUT A COMPASS.

The Sun Often Obscured by Crowds-The Sunflower, the Marigold, the Compass Plant, the Tree and the Rock as Use-

be the sun. So long as the sun shines, he would reason, the wayfaring man, though a fool, need not err in the direction he desires to take, in whatever situation he may be

It is a well known physical fact, of course, that the sun is continually on the move. The point on the horizon on which it appears in the morning is directly opposite to that where it vanishes in the evening. The direc-tion which it is in at any time between two or three hours after sunrise and the same length of time before sunset is not easy at all times for the ordinary person to figure out, unless he has a watch or is surrounded with landmarks with which he is perfectly famil-

The average person, if cast adrift in a small boat on the ocean or on any of the large lakes, would discover it to be very nearly as difficult to tell which point of the horizon was north, or east, or south, or west, even though the sun was shining, as he would during the night. The same remark is true of the average person traveling on the prairie or the desert.

SUNFLOWER AND MARIGOLD. Several species of flowers may be said to be guides, in a general way, to the points of the compass. That is to say, they afford a hint as to the direction which the sun is in when that orb may be hidden from view by any ob-ject. Among these are the sunflower and the marigold. These flowers generally keep their faces toward the sun when it is visible, turning toward it when it rises, and following its movements as it sweeps across the horizon until it disappears below the western horizon. If the direction in which these flowers' faces point or followed by the eye the sun will often be seen if the time be during the daylight hours. To be sure, that luminary, when it is in the immediate vicinity, usually makes its presence manifest without the aid of the sunflower, the marigold, or any other member of the vegetable or animal kingdom. There are occasions, however, when a knowledge of these qualities of the plants named may possibly be useful in giving a hint as to the direction the sun is in from the observer. The possession of these attributes certainly gives these plants an interest and importance which they would not otherwise command. Of course, when the sun is found the direct tion may be traced as before indicated. To this extent, therefore, the sunflower and the narigold may be fairly included among the guides to the points of the compass.

The sunflower, the marigold, and plants of lead the eye to the point where the sun is en that luminary may be temporarily hidden from view by an intervening build-ing, tree, hill or other object, and the sun's position being known, it becomes possible to offigure out the points. There is a certain flower, however, which is a positive guide to the cardinal points. This is the compass plant. Most persons who have traveled for any considerable distance in Illinois, Miscouri Loya or Kansas have poticed a release souri, Iowa or Kansas, have noticed a plant producing several stems from a single root, the two or three central stems ranging from WILL SELL CHEAP—A very the new medium price, learnous house all modern improvements, as warm as warm can be. TREES AND ROCKS AS GUIDES Trees and rocks are also useful in indica-ting the cardinal points. Lichens and mosses, when found on trees or rocks, are densest on the north side. When tree or rock stand so that the sun strikes them during a larger part of the day, neither lichen nor moss, generally speaking, will be found on the south side.

The tendency of these growths to cling to the south side increases in the proportion with which the sun is obstructed from shining on them. Trees or rocks in a dense forest may have moss on all sides of them, but even Candles. Best assortment at HENRY TAPKEN'S.

But the stone on the north side will be comparatively light colored. The branches on the south side of a tree are heaviest and the south side of a rock is darkest for the same reason that moss is absent on the same side of both. The sun shines on that side longer than any other. This is true of the region north of the equa-tor all over the globe, but especially in the north temperate zone. South of the equator the opposite conditions prevail.—St. Louis Giobe-Democrat.

By an Immense Floe off Point Iroquois-The China Aground.

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 16. - The steamers V. Swain and Kasota arrived down this forenoon, and report a field of ice on Lake Superior from Sauble Point westerly 150 miles long. Last night's heavy northwest wind has driven the ice from Whitefish Bay to Point Iroquois The most natural guide in the day time to the cardinal points which would suggest itself to the mind of the average individual would aged to force her way through. The aged to force her way through. The steamer China, of the Transit line, upward bound, grounded yesterday at Church's Point. She is not on heavily and by lightering a little will be r 'cased without difficulty. Large fields of ice a e running over the rapids. The weather is cold with light snow; wind, northwest.

River Tug Sunk.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., May 16 .- The river tug Maud S. struck a snag yesterday at More's dock some miles inland from here, and before a tug could reach her to tow her in she sank, cabin under, with her stack just above water. An expedition will be sent to her.

a draught of 14-3 forward and 14-5 aft. Good for the new one. She could carry 2,300 except for low water.

The tug John Martin knocked two buckets off her wheel yesterday on a rock near Par ker's fish house. A chain was immediately run under her, and the dredge yanked her stern up out of water. The old wheel was then removed and a good one put on. The tug was working again before night.

The Chicago Herald says: "An insurance man who has been figuring on the daily rethe hull companies will have have to pay at least $50,000 for shipyard work and the services of tugs and lighters that have been en gaged up to this time helping stranded vessels. 'It's a singular thing,' he said, as he displayed his figures, 'that the strandings in the rivers are the costliest sort of accidents. Few people know it, but it's a fact, nevertheless, that every time one of the big steamer gets aground there is an expense of not less

It is singular how misfortune follows some the Detroit river railway ferry steamers, which the corporation had to pay after expensive litigation. On her first trip up the present season she found the bottom at Fighting Island, Detroit river, and half of her cargo had to be lightered. Then upon reaching Milwaukee she ran down the coal-laden schooner Monguagon, causing damage to the extent of $5,000 at least. And now that she has reached Chicago and is preparing for another start people whose curiosity has been excited are beginning to whisper audibly "Next!" Only recently, after litigation, the Anchor line were adjudged to pay $8,000 for the schooner Lucinda Van Valkenburg, which was run down and sunk in Lake Huron on the 1st of June last by one of their steamers.

A Well Dressed Wife.

A man loves to see his wife well dressed When she goes about in tatters, with big shoes, untidy skirts, soiled collar, and a halo of curl papers, if he doesn't swear he thinks it. I don't believe in the economy of home toilets. I never take a dress that is done for and wear it in the house. When the life is gone out of it, it goes in the rag bag. I make a duty of nice linen with plenty of laces, and my house gowns are not old, they are not wrappers, and they are not ugly Another hobby of mine is my hair, which I will have as near the poet's conception of 'her fragrant tresses' as possible. Then have a whole lot of little devices—I perfume my eyebrows and lips; keep my hands soft and cool, my teeth in good order, and I make my doctor prescribe for a sweet breath. But don't put that in the paper. I only tell you to give you an idea of the care required to keep a man in love with you. Men like to preach down extravagance, and style, and dress; but the woman who bangs her hair, powders the shine off her face, hides a blotch or scar under a piece of court plaster, who wants pretty gloves and stock ings, trim slippers, perfumes, balms, cold creams, finger curls, and fancy notions to increase her charms is the woman who is admired every time. Those long, lean, lank, common sense women may gad about with their wholesome ugliness and cheap simplicity, but the procession of men who follow is not a long one. Facts in a Nutshell. It is an acknowledged fact that during the last few years no other town in Michigan has made such rapid and substantial progress as the city of Ishpeming. Near ly every incoming train brings in new people who come here to find employment and to become permanent residents of our thriving city. As a result real estate has ap idly increased in value, every desirable building site has been purchased, and the inhabitants are clamoring for more. Many new and handsome residences have re cently been built and will be furnished this spring and summer. It was with this expectation that J. H. Quinn & Co., the firm who lay claim to the title of the only exclusive dry goods dealers in the city laid in such a magnificent spring stock. Especially in carpets they are showing an elegant stock, embracing all the late pat terns in Ingrain, Extra Super Three Ply Tapestry, Body Brussels and Wilton Velvet. Parties purchasing of them can have their carpets matched, sewed and laid on the floors if they so desire. They are also showing a nice line of lace curtains, Marseiles bed quilts, table covers, calico quilts, blankets, feathers and pillows, in fact all kind of house furnishings. In Smyrna rugs they have just received a choice line. A call at this immense establishment will convince you they are entitled to the title of the only exclusive dry goods house in the city.

It has been decided that there will be a Fourth of July celebration in Ishpeming this season. Whether the anniversary of Independence Day will be celebrated on July 4th, or on July 3d or 5th, has not been settled yet. The saloon-keepers usually put up the most of the cash conany in. Under the new fiquor law of this state all legal holidays must be observed by saloons with closed doors.

Clean Up PENINSULA BANK, Persons owning or occupying bouses in this city should at once clean up their premises, if they have not already done so. The city is cleaning the streets, and $50,000,00 the citizens should have enough regard for the appearance of their places and their own health to do the same.

> This Afternoon The funeral of William Johnston, father of Mrs. James McDwell of this city, who died at L'Anse Tuesday night, will take place from the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 1 o'cleek.

Between Sells Bros.' circus, which will show here on Thursday, June 7th, and Barnum's show, which will visit Ishpeming later in the season, the town has been billed as it never was billed before. Ten thousand square feet of bill boards are covered with circus pictures, and the number of hangers, posters, etc., strung in the show windows and posted on boards in 4.217,969.00 front of the stores, is astonishing. A man must be blind not to know that the circus is coming, and even such a man would be apt to "have his eyes opened," figuratively speaking, by the sound of the calliope that accompanies the bill posters car.

To call all persons "crazy" who do not follow the customs of the majority is a constant habit with men. But day after day Armstrong worked away with his pick and shovel, caring noihing for the remarks of his neighbors, and seeming to wish for no partner in his toils or rest, save the invisible personage whom he always ad-while at work would be as follows:

"Rather tough work, Armstrong—rich dirt, though—grub $i1$ a pound—no time to waste—pitch in, sir—hanged if I don't wish I was in the states. Nonsense, Armstrong; what a fool you are to be talking this way, with three ounces a day right under your feet, and three ounces a day right under your feet, and sthing to do but just to dig it out."

Thereupon arose a lengthy discussion about the difference between a crazy man and a fool. But after a while the landlord and the ox driver went down to the bank and agreed ox driver went down to the bank and agreed talked with his invisible partner. Well, it impressed in due course of time that the class of human vampire commonly called gamblers made their appearance at the camp where Armstrong had been working. As he was not above following the example of his fellows, he paid the newcomers a visit. It is the same old story. After watching the game awhile he concluded it was the simplest thing in the world. So he tried his luck and won—$1001 Now, any new experience would set Armstrong," he said, as he heistated about Armstrong," he said, as he hesitated about going to work the next morning, "that is the easiest $100 you ever made in your life. What's the use of your going into a hole in the ground to dig for three ounces a day! The fact is, Armstrong, you are sharp. You are not made for this kind of work. Suppose you just throw away your pick and shovel, leave the mines, bay a suit of store clothes, dress up like a born gentleman, and go at some business that suits your talent,"

Armstrong was not long in putting these thoughts and sayings into action. He left thoughts and sayings into action. He left the diggings and invested in fine clothes. He looked like another man, but he was still the same Armstrong, nevertheless. He was not long in finding an opportunity to try a new profession. Walking forth in his fresh outfit, he had just concluded a long talk with him-self about his bright prospects when he very long, but it was long enough to work a wonderful revolution in his feelings. When he came out he was a changed man—that is to say, he was a "changed san. He was thunderstruck, amazed, bewildered." He was thunderstruck, amazed, bewildered. thunderstruck, amazed, bewildered. He had lost his money, lost his new prospect, lost his self-conceit—lost everything but his new clothes and low habit of talking to himself. It is useless to say that he was mad. Armstrong was very mad. But there was no one to be mad at but Armstrong himself, so self number two was in for a rough lecture.

So the broken firm of "Armstrong & Self"

went forth in meditation long and deep,
Some of his thoughts were almost too deep for utterance. But finally he stood by the for utterance. But finally he stood by the dusty road along which the great freighting wagons were hauling supplies to the mining camp up the Sacramento. One of these fellows. They continued their old ways, camp up the Sacramento. One of these wagons, drawn by six yoke of oxen, was just, passing. Suap, saap, snap, in slow, irregular succession, came the keen, stinging reporce of the long Missouri ox whip. "G'lang! g'lang! we haw!" shouted the tall, dust begrimed driver, as he swung his whip and cast a sidelong glance at the broken firm, wondering "What in thunder all them store clothes was a doin' than." Now, when Armstrong saw the long column of white dust rising behind that wagon he was taken with an idea. So he shouted to the driver to know if he might be allowed to walk in the Recipe for Snaps.

"Get in and ride," said the driver. "No," said Armstrong, "I wish to walk."
"Then walk, you crazy fool," was the acmodating response, as the driver swung bis whip. Then came the tug of war. Greek never met Greek more fiercely than did the two contending spirits composing the firm of Armstrong & Self at that particular moment. "Now, 'Armstrong," said the imperious head of the firm, "you git right in the middle of that road, sir, and walk in that dust behind that wagon."

What, with these clothes on? Why, it is fifteen miles, and dusty all the way."
"No matter, sir; take the road. You squander your money on three card monte;

I'll teach you a lesson,' "G'lang! g'lang!" drawled the driver, as he looked over his shoulder with a curious mingling of pity, contempt or wonder on his dusty face. More and more spitefully snapped the swinging whip, as the slow paced oxen toiled mile after mile under the heat of a September sun. And there in the road tradged Armstrong behind the wagon; slowly, wearily, thoughtfully, but not silently. He was a man who always spoke his thoughts.

"This serves you right, Armstrong Any man who will fool his usoney away at three card monte descrives to walk in the dust,"

"It will spoil (nese clothes,"

"Well, don't you deserve in?"

"The dust fills my eyes."

"Yes; any man who gambles all his dust away at three card monte deserves to have dust in his eyes—and alkali dust at that,"
"The dust chokes me,"

"All right; any man who will buck at ground it is sure to be damp. Sub-ce monte deserves to be choked. Keep the road for this reason alone are very desirable.

sir-the middle of the road-close up to the wagon. Do you think you will ever buck at FOR PRESIDENT--monte again, Armstrong?"

And so the poor culprit, self arrested, self condemned, coughed and sneezed and choked and walked and talked, mile after mile, hour after hour, while the great wagon groaned and creaked, the driver bawled and swung his whip, the patient oxen gave their shoulders to the roke, and the golden sun of September sunk wearily toward the west. The shadows of evening were beginning to fall when the wagon halted at the place called Packer's Roost, on the Yuba, "Here we rest," sighed Armstrong, just above his breath, as he looked at the stream

"No you don't," answered the head of the firm. "You buck your money away at monte and talk about rest. Now, Arm-In the early days of Colifornia—the olden days of gold, or the golden days of old, as you please—in a certain miner's camp on Yuba river there lived a queer genius named Asmstrong. He was an honest miner, not differing materially from his fellows, excepting that he had a curious habit of talking to himself. From the simple reason that he departed from the common custom in this one strong, go right down the bank, sir, into the river." As the command was peremptory and a spirit of obedience seemed the safest, wish for no partner in his toils or rest, save the invisible personage whom he always addressed in the second person singular, and with whom he was almost always in close and earnest conversation. The drift of his talk while at work would be as follows:

"Rather touch work Armstrong—righ the poor crazy man out of the water."

three ounces a day right under your feet, and nothing to do but just to dig it out."

His conversation would be duly punctuated with strokes of the pick and lifts of the loaded shovel. And so the days would pass along, and Armstrong worked and slept and talked with his invisible partner. Well, it happened in due course of time that the class of human vampire commonly called games of the property of the property of the property of the words of the water. So he came out and went up to the house, "Will you have a cup of tea or coffee?"

Armstrong, with deliberate coolness, put a spoonful of red pepper into the tea and a spoonful of mustard into the coffee. Then he poured the two together into a tin cur

Then the old conflict raged again, and high above the din of rattling tin cups and pewter spoons, sounded the stern command: "Arm-strong, drink it, six drink it down." A mo-mentary hesitation and a few desperate gulps and it was down. "Oh, yes," said our hero, as his throat burned and the tears ran down his eyes. "you buck your money away down his eyes, "you buck your money away at three card monte, do you?" Now, the Thompsonian dose above de-

After a while the landlord ventured to suggest that a bed could be provided if one was desired. halted in front of a large tent with a sign over it, "Miners' Rest." Armstrong went in. It did not seem to him that he remained very long, but it was long around remained "No," said Armstrong, "I'll sleep on the floor. You see, stranger," said he eyeing the landlord with a peculiar expression, very long, but it was long around remained "this fool has been squandering gold land."

serve to sleep in a bed."

So Armstrong ended the day's battle by going to bed on the floor. Then came the dreams. He first dreamed that he was sleeping on the North Pole and his head in the tropics, while all the miners in Yuba were ground sluicing in his stomach. Next, he dreamed that he had swallowed Mount Shasta for supper, and that the old mountain had suddenly become an active volcano and was vomiting acres and acres of hot lava.

Then the scenes shifted, and he seemed to "Now, Armstrong, you are a nice specimen—you fool—you bilk—you dead beat—you ini"— Well, I need not repeat all the hard things he said. Like King Richard, he "found within himself no pity for himself."

But mere words were not sufficient. It was a time for action. But Armstrong never once the apply of drawning, shooting, hanging or thought of drawning, shooting, hanging or the sufficient of the seenes shifted, and he seemed to have found his final abode in a place of vile smells and fierce fames, politely called the antipodes of heaven. And while he writhed and groaned in sleepless agony a fork tail field, with his thumb at his nose, was saying to him in a mocking voice: "You buck your ways at three card monte, do you thought of drowning, shooting, hanging or money away at three card monte, do you—any other form of suicide. He was alto- hey?" But even this troubled sleep had an for that. Yet he was resolved on something real and practical in the way of reformatory punishment. He felt the need of a self-in punishment. He felt the need of a self-imposed decree of bankruptey that should reader the failure as complete as possible, and prevent a similar course in the future.

Time showed that he was right. His lesson was well learned. The miners looked a little making money fast and spending it foolishly even giving it to monte dealers. But the Armstrong firm was never broken in that way but once. After that, whenever he saw one of the peculiar signs, "Robbers' Roost," "Fleecers' Den," or "Fools' Last Chance," Armstrong would shake his head with a knowing air and say to himself as he passed though "Oh, yes Armstrong, you've been slong, "Oh, yes, Armstrong, you've been there; you know all about that; you don't Recipe for Snaps. This is an excellent recipe for ginger snaps the "snappishness" being produced by boil-ing the molasses and then allowing it to cool. Snaps—Boil one pint of molasses, and when it has cooled to about milk warm beat into it one egg and one teacup of butter and lard, mixed and melted, and two tablespoonfuls of ginger. Work in floor enough to make it roll easily, with one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a spoonful of warm water. Roll very thin and bake quickly. Remove from pan carefully. When cold they will snap.— Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

A Magnificent Car. The finest railroad car ever seen in Marquette is the "Marquette," the elegant private car of Hon. James McMillan, president of the Duluth, South Shore & the water, and as she left the ways the Atlantic railway, which now stands on the siding by Front street near Pickand's coal office. It is one of the finest ever built by the Pullman Palace Car company. is 65 feet long and is fitted up superbly in every way. The car was only recently built, and this is its first trip over the line whose lettering it bears, the name of the D., S. S. & A. and the car number, 100, appearing on its sides together with the single word "Marquette" in bold lettering. Every resident of the Queen City feel greatly pleased at the compliment paid the city by President McMillan in selecting the name of his car, as well as by the honor involved, for while General Alger's private car "Michigan" has become famous throughout the state through newspaper descriptions, this car surpasses it in beauty of design and finish. President McMillan and second vicepresident Hugh McMillan, of the South Shore, are on the car and made a flying trip over the line to Houghton yesterday, as well as a run out on the extension west from Nestoria. To-day they will inspect the South Shore property here and will then leave on their return to the straits.

Letting Contracts.

Smith & Wilson are busy letting contracts for the supply of the various materials to be used in the construction of Marquette's government building. They have already let the contract for the fireproofing to the Pioneer Fireproof Construction company, of Chicago, while the terra cotta will be furnished by the Northwestern Terra Cotta company, also of Chicago. Another Chicago concern, the Bouton Foundry company, gets the contract for all the ironwork. The granite used will come from the Knob Lick quarries in Missouri, operated by Milne & Gordon, of St. Louis. Other contracts are pending, none on the woodwork and interior finish having been let yet. The been to decide between different bidders, there being any number after each of the

The publication of the item in yesterday's MINING JOURNAL detailing the treatment accorded the firemen in the First ward recently, caused a great deal of comment throughout the city and the MINING JOURNAL is now informed on good authority that the scale house had been set on fire twice before the night on which it was finally burned and that the parties who set fire to it are already planning their next blaze. On Sunday, after the fire, every bit of the scale house left unburned was torn down and lugged off by parties near there and this is the practice, it seems, whenever a building is damaged by fire there. The flag furled at her foremast held the secret. At 3:20 she glided gracefully into secret was disclosed. The flag unfurled from the foremast bore the name of her owner. Charles Hebard. Her name was as much of a surprise to him as it was to the public, as her captain, James Parsons, had charge of the christening. The Hebard is one of the finest badges of her size afloat, being 186 feet keel, 196 feet over all, 34 feet beam and 13 feet 6 inches hold. The vessel has been supplied with all modern improvements, including compound engines, steam capstans and wind lass and Scotch boilers. She cost $75,-000. The Hebard will be placed in the lumber trade, receiving most of her freight from the immense pine tracts owned by Mr. Hebard, who is the posses sor of over thirty-five miles of uncut pine."

Shipper's Guide.

General freight agent Orr has prepared a very valuable little shippers' guide, giving billing instructions to all points on the line of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway or reached by means of that road. How

We're asked many times why we sell

UNDER OTHER DEALERS.

THE REASON is, we buy them in LARGE QUANTITIES, DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURERS, and PAY CASH to save discounts, therefore we are so busy. We're the gainers, so are you.

We Want the World

SCOOLOGO TO KNOW SCOOLOGO

The realization of the fact that our LOW PRICES ARE A REALITY, and not a fictitious legend, Makes Everybody Wonder!

HOW DO WE DO IT? Ready money is the wonder worker that has enabled us to place before the public such a GORGEOUS DISPLAY of spring bargains and a determination to be easily satisfied and LIVE FOR SMALL PROFITS is the reason why we can sell so much lower than anybody else. It is

The Triumph of Independence!

And before our standard, upon which is emblazoned "FAIR DEALING OUR STRENGTH," the giant monopolies who are bound together with the aim of robbing the public, must fall. To complete the victory your aid is necessary.

BUY FROM US AND YOU WILL NEVER REGRET IT!
