Salisbury Advises Englishmen Not to Expect Much From Recent Elections in U. S.

USUAL BANQUET OF LORD MAYOR OF LONDON TO THE MINISTRY.

Immense Crowd To Hear Canon Farran on General Booth's Scheme—Stanley Threatens Prosecutions—General.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The lord mayor gave the customary banquet to the ministry in Guild Hall to-night. The Right Hon. Edward Stanhope, secretary of state for war, replying to the toast "The Army," announced that all the regular troops, both at home and abroad, would be armed early in 1891 with the new magazine rifle. The experiments that had been made with this weapon, he said, had been in every way satisfactory. Lord Salisbury replied to the toast "The Government."

He said he regarded as a good omen of peace throughout the world and of a general eucletic among nations the fact that the Czar was about to visit India as the guest of the queen. He felt that this visit represented the GROWTH OF FRIENDLY IDEAS in Russia with reference to India—ideas that were pregnant with benefit to both countries and that afforded additional security for the peace of each. Touching the African agreements made with France and Germany, he said they tended to cement the relations of England with those countries, while the negotiations with Italy were making progress toward a successful issue. Although the dispute with Portugal had not been so happily arranged, still the position did not justify any sinister apprehensions. Referring to the relations with America, Lord Salisbury said that the McKinley tariff law would certainly affect some portion of British commerce.

FREE TRADERS COULD REJOICE over the recent elections in the United States as a protest against extravagance and utterly selfish protection. But they must not draw conclusions too rashly. They must still face the prospect of prohibitive tariffs England had no right to expect, as she had reduced her own tariff to the lowest point. Referring to the relations between labor and capital, the premier said that if they had an eight-hour bill forbidding men to exercise their strength and skill an hour or two more, thus imposing hindrances on production, they must be prepared to meet as a nation the violent competition of other countries where labor is not so embarrassed. The government, he declared, would not interfere at all in disputes between capital and labor. State interference would do more harm than good, and the differences would in the course of time adjust themselves. Unwise theorists and interested politicians might mislead some workmen, but the heart and mind of the country would remain patriotic and true to economic and commercial tradition. [Cheers.] The premier said he believed that the McKinley tariff was due to the idea that American pigs had failed to receive proper treatment at the hands of Europe. He defended England's desire to augment and consolidate her territory on the ground that all other countries were protective and compelled her to depend on trade within the queen's empire for the vital force of British commerce. He regarded this as the world's conflict of the future. "It will be an interesting consideration for us," he said, "whether our attitude can be sustained or whether the madness of our neighbors will force us to deflect in any degree from the sound and sensible position we now occupy."

He declined to enter into political prophesies, the faculty of which, he said, recent events had fully shown. For example, Boulanger had won by-elections in all the great towns in France, but he had somehow failed to win in the end. Skilled wire-pullers in America had been surprised at the sudden rising of free trade, and European political men had been equally astonished at the defeat of Tricoups in Greece.

THE CASTANA HEARING.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The appeal of Castana, the Swiss radical who was arrested in London on the charge of killing Councillor Rossi at Bellinzone, Canton of Ticino, Switzerland, during the recent revolt in that canton, and whose extradition was ordered by the lower English court, came up for hearing in the queen's bench division of the high court of justice to-day. Sir Charles Russell appeared for the prisoner. He argued that the Ticino movement was a popular revolution and that the killing of Councillor Rossi was a political crime for which his client could not be extradited. The hearing was adjourned until to-morrow.

It is reported that General Boulanger has left the island of Jersey for an unknown destination.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Colonel Smith, consul at Zanzibar, has been made a knight commander of the bath.

Lord Londonderry, in a speech at West Hartlepool, said that the Tipperary riot had been deliberately organized by Dillon and O'Brien and that Mr. Morley had been inveigled into the trap.

The Count of Paris and the Duke of Orleans, accompanied by their suites, have arrived in London.

The Chronicle's Berlin correspondent says it is rumored in Catholic circles there that, notwithstanding official assurances to the contrary, the young king of Spain is weak and not likely to live long.

STANLEY WILL PROSECUTE.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that Stanley will prosecute Walter Barttelot and others who brought charges against him in connection with the controversy regarding the rear guard of the Eatin expedition. Mr. Stanley has retained George Lewis and Sir Charles Russell to conduct his case.

CANON FARRAR JOINS BOOTH.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Thousands of persons were turned away yesterday from Westminster Abbey, where Canon Farrar preached a sermon on General Booth's philanthropic scheme, he having made a tour of the Salvation Army centers during the present week. Canon Farrar made a fervent appeal in behalf of the scheme, but he wished it to be understood that he alone was responsible for the views he expressed on the subject.

General Booth, of the Salvation Army, continues to receive letters commending favorably on his book, "In Darkest England And The Way Out," setting forth a scheme for the relief of poverty, ignorance and vice. The Prince of Wales has written General Booth thanking him for the receipt of a copy of the book. He says he is confident that he will be greatly interested in the work.

KATE IS AWFULLY SORRY.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Kate Riordan, the woman who shot Dr. Bright, master of University college, Oxford, was arraigned before the mayor of Oxford to-day and was committed for trial. Miss Riordan has confessed that she did the shooting. She says she did not intend to harm Dr. Bright, and that she is now sorry that she shot at all. She craves mercy from Dr. Bright and from Mr. Haines, who is engaged to Dr. Bright's daughter, and who, Miss Riordan charged, was formerly engaged to herself.

ITALY.

ROME, Nov. 10.—Prime Minister Crispi's organ, the Riforma, says that the visit of the German chancellor to Italy is an event over which the Italians should rejoice, as it affords a fresh confirmation of the existence of friendly relations between the two countries. It is a political event of the first order indicating a change of system and a belief in high quarters in the existence of other forces better adapted to combat socialism than the christian conservative party, which will be replaced by the Jewish middle class liberals; but the turn of the conservatives will come around again.

ROME, Nov. 10.—The Osservatore Romano says that the pope's announcement against Catholics taking part in the elections applies to the whole of Italy.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10.—A delegation from the radical association presented a petition to the municipal council to-day in favor of universal suffrage. The authorities feared there might be trouble. The soldiers were kept under arms in the barracks, ready for any emergency. A great crowd of workmen gathered around the Hotel de Ville, but there was no disorder, the throng dispersing quietly after the petition had been presented.

FRANCE.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—During the debate in the chamber of the deputies on the public worship estimates, M. Ferry moved to suppress the estimates on the ground that they were incompatible with modern ideas and republican principles. The motion was rejected—558 to 159.

A duel has been arranged between M. Deroulene and M. Laguerre, as the result of a row in the lobby of the chamber of deputies.

TURKEY.

ENZERUM, Nov. 10.—Five hundred armed Armenians concentrated at Mandor, on Russian territory, yesterday, and made a raid on several Kurdish villages, killing five persons. The band was attacked and dispersed by Cossacks. The police here have made large seizures of Marlin rifles and ammunition intended for the Armenians.

ELECTION IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Republicans Have a Majority of Legislature on Joint Ballot—The Capital Question.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 10.—Although Pierre claims to have won the contest for the permanent capital in South Dakota by a majority of about 9,000, and many of that city's opponents concede as much as that, the other contestant for the honor does not yield anything as is evident from the following Huron special to the Pioneer Press: "Of the senators in the new legislature the republicans have elected enough to give them a majority of three over all opposition, there being twenty-four republicans to twenty-one democrats and independents. In the house there will be a tie vote if the democrats and independents unite against the republicans. There are three contests which are believed to be rather favorable to the republicans. This would give them a majority on joint ballot and insure the election of Senator Moody to succeed himself. Governor Mellette's vote will exceed that of Leuck's (Ind) by 7,000 and that of Taylor (dem) by 12,000. It is probable that the capital question will go to the courts for settlement."

Gov. Campbell Very Ill.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 10.—A special from Columbus, Ohio, says: Governor Campbell is so seriously ill that visitors have been forbidden to see him. He is threatened with typhoid pneumonia and it is doubtful if he will be sufficiently recovered to attend the Thurman banquet Thursday evening.

Forecast of the weather.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—8 P. M.—The signal service reports the following as its forecast for the next 24 hours: For Wisconsin and Michigan: Fair; pre-ceeded by light rain in extreme southwest Michigan; warmer; southerly winds.

GREAT SLUMP IN STOCKS.

Rapid and Heavy Decline of New York Stock Market.

Almost a Panic—Excitement Proves Too Much For One Broker and He Expires on Floor of The Exchange.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The stock market today continued the rapid and heavy decline of the latter portion of last week, and for a time this morning it looked more like a panic than at any previous time since the downward movement began. As remarked by a prominent western manipulator of stocks and other speculative commodities, it was only a rich man's panic and thus far the slump in prices which has reached some 15 percent in some cases, has been accompanied by a complete freedom from failures upon the street, emphasizing the fact that not for a long time have stocks been held to any extent upon the street in broker's offices on margins. Today, however, the excitement which is credited to-day with being a large purchaser. The early advices from London this morning were of the most discouraging character. Prices of all kinds of securities there were materially lower, while American stocks were from 1 to 2 percent lower than Saturday's closing here. There were heavy selling orders in the market for foreign account also and prices were given absolutely no support whatever and the opening declines as compared with the final figures of Saturday were from 1 to 1 1/2 percent as a rule.

WAS OF THE SUPPRESSED ORDER and almost entirely free from the usual noise and wild gyrations which have marked the transactions of business at the stock exchange at times, was sufficient to cause the death of one of the leading members of the exchange upon the floor at about noon. The gentleman was Mr. James Strubbs. Such an event would in usual times have been sufficient to have caused the closing of the exchange at once but the magnitude of the interests which would have been endangered by such a course forbade it and after a half hour's interruption of business, trading was resumed upon the floor.

THE GOLD PARTY

BLAINE OR ALGER

John M. Thurston Thinks Either Would Be a Winner in Ninety-Two

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—John M. Thurston, president of the republican league clubs of the United States, arrived this morning from Omaha, fresh from the Nebraska campaign. In response to the inquiry as to what were the causes which led to the recent political upheaval in Nebraska and elsewhere, Judge Thurston said: "Several causes led to the so-called defeat. First, the apathy of an off-year in politics, but the principal thing among voters being the McKinley bill. We struck a rising market with the passage of the McKinley bill and all of this is laid to it."

"I think there will be a revival of stalwartism in the republican party such as to cause in 1892, the coming presidential election year, a great republican victory. Republican workers all over the country did not take an active part in this campaign just passed. They felt as though their services to the republican party had been undervalued. But in 1892 these persons will be at work in support of some candidate who will arouse enthusiasm, and these very men will lead to victory as heretofore. The result of the recent elections has not put an end to the presidential chances of either William B. McKinley or Thomas B. Reed, but it has probably postponed their dates. Blaine or Alger would be a winner at the head of the ticket in 1892."

SHIPMENTS OF ORE.

This Season's Output Unprecedented in the History of The Lake Ranges.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 10.—During the season of 1890 the ore shipping business of the ranges in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, the Gogebic, Marquette, Menominee and Vermilion ranges will represent figures unprecedented in the history of the mining business.

Before the close of the present shipping season, which lasts a month longer, the grand total for this season will reach over 8,000,000 tons. This ore is valued at from $3.50 to $3 per ton by the shipper according to quality. The probable total of 8,000,000 tons is exclusive of the ore received and manufactured at Bay View and other mines.

The largest shipment from any one mine is from the Norrie. Up to October 1st, over 900,000 tons alone were shipped from this mine and the officers say the output will reach over 1,000,000 tons before the season closes. This will be the largest shipment from any single mine in the world in the same time.

The Milwaukee, Lake Shore & Western road had, up to November 1st, carried nearly 2,000,000 tons, against 1,400,000 for the entire season of last year. Of individual shipping companies the Conity syndicate's shipments will be over 2,000,000 tons, and that of the Schlesinger syndicate will be the same amount.

ON MAGNETIC REEF.

The Bruno and Consort Driven Ashore in a Gale and Abandoned.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 10.—The steamship Bruno and her consort Louisa, a three-masted schooner, both of which are owned by Captain Maggan of Toronto, are ashore upon Magnet Reef, between Berakburu and Manitowish Islands and are total wrecks. The vessels, which were loaded with coal for Toronto, were driven ashore in a heavy gale and snow-storm. They have been abandoned to the insurance companies.

THE Detroit Free Press isn't a bit disturbed by the apprehension that any of the candidates on the republican state ticket will be found to be elected when the official count is made. The Free Press isn't afraid of anything since its party came in winner, but its courage hasn't always held up so well after election. Success has a wonderfully bracing effect on some people and newspapers.

"The prospects are not as brilliant for the usefulness of the next legislature as one might wish," lugubriously observes the Grand Rapids Telegram Herald. Well, if it doesn't prove more useful than the last legislature, the people of the state will wipe the party that controls it from the face of the earth in the next election. One of the things that led to the defeat of the republicans in the election just held was the disgust of the people with the performances of the "hawback" legislature elected two years ago, the blundering work of which rendered it an object of derision and contempt from one end of Michigan to the other. If the legislature to assemble the coming winter does no better than the one that preceded it, heaven have mercy on the party that will have to answer for its misdeeds and shortcomings, for the people of Michigan never will.

REPUBLICANS expect that there will be a "clean sweep" in all the state departments when the democrats come into possession of the offices that they won in the election of this year, and will not be found grumbling when the great change takes place after the new year opens. But there are some changes that the democrats will go slow about making if they desire to convince the people of Michigan that they can be relied on to make honest and judicious use of the power entrusted to them. One of the appointive positions in which it would be well to make no change is that of warden of the branch state prison at this place. The present warden, Mr. Tompkins, is a man singularly well qualified for the difficult duties of the position that he holds, and his success in organizing the branch prison and enforcing propriety and discipline there has attracted attention and obtained favorable notice throughout the state. It was very essential that the institution should have the best of management at the start, and it is necessary that it shall continue to have it for many years to come, if it is to be made the success that republicans and democrats alike desire it shall be. The position is one that the legislature which made provision for the branch prison in this part of the state designed to be non-political, and that ought to be so regarded and held. Mr. Tompkins was appointed because of special aptitude for prison management, and should be retained for the good of the institution, no matter what party is in charge of the state government. There may be other men in the state who would fill the place as well as he, but there is not one who would fill it better, and where there is so much risk involved in changing, an official who has proved himself so competent and faithful as he should not be disturbed.

That the ore market is in a quiescent state at present appears from all reports concerning its condition that reach us. The Iron Trade Review gives this relative to its state at Cleveland: "There is so very little going on in the iron ore market that only those directly interested are at all aware of its existence. The shipments are steadily going forward, at a greatly reduced rate, however, owing in part to the scarcity of vessels, and, in part, to the lack of ore in some of the shipping ports. The recent sharp advance in coal has diverted a number of vessels from the ore trade into the coal trade, and as the last selling prices of ore will hardly permit of exorbitant carriage rates, the chances are that no further change will occur in the conditions governing the vessel market. The rough weather of the week has done much toward the laying off of several vessels, and more will undoubtedly follow during the next few days, unless the inducements offered by coal shippers should be such as to overbalance the insurance drawback and the increased vessel charges. It may not be impossible that with adequate railway facilities, and moderate charges, this winter will see all rail shipments of ore. The demand from eastern furnaces for a high grade of Bessemer ore is very urgent, and in some instances local furnaces, unable to make pig iron at a profit, have resold their ore to these firms at no inconsiderable advance. It is thought that the east can consume between this and the opening of navigation next spring fully half a million tons of ore, and it is not at all unlikely that a way may be found to forward it at a moderate cost."

DEMOCRATIC "GERRYMANDERING." The most important advantage accruing to the democrats from the stupendous political victory that they won last week lies in the opportunities that it will afford them for redistricting the states in which they have secured the legislatures with a view to retaining control of the legislative machinery in these states, as well as control of the lower house of congress.

There is no restriction on the use that they can make in this regard of the power they are now invested with in several states hitherto republican. In this state they can so arrange the legislative and congressional districts that they can lose the state offices, and yet be able to elect a majority of the members of the state legislature, as also a majority of the delegation of its representatives in congress. The same is true of Wisconsin, New York, and other states in which they have captured the state legislatures, in addition to the other good things that fell to them in the late election.

Most opportunely for them, there will be a general redistricting of the states following the census enumeration of this year, otherwise the advantage that they would derive from having obtained control of the legislatures in states nominally republican would be of far less consequence. But the power is theirs, and they will neither lack the wicked ingenuity requisite to enable them to make the very most of it, nor be restrained from doing it by considerations of justice and decency. Nor will they want for precedents established by the republicans themselves to justify the partisan use that they will make of the chance to obtain an unfair advantage that control of the legislatures of this and other states will give them. The trouble with our politics is that both parties are so intent on securing unfair advantage that the interests of the people are not thought of sufficiently, and each is forever furnishing the other with just such precedents as that which the democrats will now plead in extenuation of any iniquity that they may be guilty of in "gerrymandering" the legislative and congressional districts. The politicians are always ready to improve on and perpetuate bad methods of government, but display no such willingness to give the sanction of continued usage to those that contemplate only the good of the whole people, though it is certain that the party which would do this would thereby prepare the way for a long continued supremacy. The reverse that the democrats met with two years ago, and that has just been visited on the party which was then victorious, ought to set the politicians to thinking, but the lesson will be lost on the triumphant democracy. That party will probably proceed to utilize its victory in such a manner as to prepare the way for a defeat in 1892, ignoring the truth contained in the homely aphorism of Abraham Lincoln, that "you can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time."

Guess This Conundrum. What is the reason that a physician will not indorse a good thing when he knows as well as he knows anything that the article in question has been used for years and is a valuable remedy, but because it is a proprietary medicine they cry it down. There is not a prescription case in any drug store in all this broad land that does not hold this same article. There are few if any physicians who do not prescribe it. And yet when the same article is made and sold in larger packages, and the price is so much more than is claimed for it. The only dis-appointment to physicians is that it exceeds its recommendation.

IDEAL HEARTS.

Did you tell me that life was a failure, That love was a bubble, a hoax? That the spray on the wine frolicscent Was only a vapor, a moment's dream? Why, darling, the best of God's blessings Is rayed in some opaline gleam; Let us catch from the theory colors The flash of our beautiful dream; Let us fling from the lights and shadows The ray of a sentient beam.

Did you tell me, my love, that in springtime The blossoms are flecked with the light? That in summer a luscious, hot splendor Glows out from their passionate sight; That in autumn their petals are layered— Their veins are concealed by the frost, And the silvery flecked blossom of spring— Time

Lies pallid and soulless and lost, And the sun and the light of a lifetime Is into eternity tossed? My darling, the blossoms, the flowers Are rapturous breaths from the bow, And the nocturnal perfume entrancing Wings ecstasy deep to the soul; Colored by the sun's rays of blessing, Its dreaming, its glowing, its rest, Makes life not a phantom, a fiction, Makes love not a bubble at best, And you the one that I'd scale for The walls of the heaven of the best. —New Orleans Penelope

CARPETS CLEANED BY STEAM. How Stains, Dirt and Vermin Are Removed from the Floor Coverings. "I want this carpet thoroughly cleaned—steam cleaned, mind you," said the customer, upon whom a reporter had called a few days ago. "Nothing short of steam, I am sure, will take out the grease spots from it."

"Madam," replied the upholsterer, with a faint smile, "I know of no process for steaming carpets." "But you advertise?" "I advertise, as all other dealers in my line do, to clean carpets by steam. The price is always employed in the business, though it naturally occasions some misunderstanding. People almost invariably suppose that the 'steam cleaning' of carpets and rugs is performed by the direct application of steam to the fabrics, whereas, as a matter of fact, the only connection it has with the process is to run a stationary engine that supplies the power for the work. That is all carpet cleaning by steam means."

"How then is the work done, pray?" "It is simply a process of heating carpets by steam power, that is all. Being done by machinery it is more thoroughly executed than it can be done by a person with a scrub. All it pretends to accomplish is the shaking out of the dust." "But suppose there should be any vermin?" "They will probably remain undisturbed, particularly if the nap of the carpet or rug is long and thick." "And the grease spots?" "The steam cleaning process makes no pretense of taking them out; all it removes is the dust." "So that is the reason why my steam cleaned carpets have always come out with the old grease spots after a few weeks of use?" "Certainly, madam. The grease still remains in the fabrics, and as soon as it has had time to gather dust it shows it again." "Well, that does seem to me almost a swindle! But tell me what the process you speak of actually is."

"The steam cleaning of carpets is done in huge octagonal cylinders of sheet metal, to revolve rapidly by a steam engine. Projecting shelves inside the cylinders and running their whole length keep the carpets bouncing around violently all the time, while the revolving wheels and every particle of dust is knocked out of the material by the action of centrifugal force. That is all there is to the business; it is simply a mechanical improvement on the colored gentleman and his club." "But why do you call that sort of carpet heating 'steam cleaning' when you know that it deceives people?" "Simply because every one else does, madam, and if we did not the public would suppose that we were not up to the most advanced methods of our trade." "Goodness me!" exclaimed the customer. "Is there then no way of having the grease spots taken out of one's carpet?" "Oh, yes," responded the upholsterer. "If you like you can have your carpets washed. Leave one here, and a workman of ours will first spread it out on the floor and cover it, as if he were going to shave with a razor, with a layer made from a kind of soap specially manufactured for the purpose. After the lather has all been taken off with tin scrapers the carpet will be entirely free from grease. It will be easier to perform the operation without taking the carpet up by sending our employe to your house."

AN OPEN LETTER
From a Well-known Druggist—'Positive Cure for Stomach Troubles.'

To Whom It May Concern: In the summer of 1876 I was first afflicted with that most dreaded disease, dyspepsia, and for over fifteen years I suffered terribly at times. In the meantime I tried every so-called remedy imaginable, without finding relief. Having been in the drug business since 1888, I determined to help myself if it lay in the power of medicine. Two years ago I succeeded in discovering a remedy. It cured me. Until I had given ample time for possibility of doubt, however, I kept my secret almost to myself, putting up the medicine for only a few of my sorely troubled friends, every one of whom was cured. It will be known as 'Bruske's Positive Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Cure,' which is guaranteed to cure all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys. I have a number of testimonials which afflicted parties may be interested in.

Gone to Join the Majority—Probably Fatal Accident at the Wheat Mine—Polo on Ice—Other Jottings of More or Less Interest.

Death of Another Pioneer.

Michael Manning, one of the earliest settlers in this part of the country, died Sunday morning of pneumonia, after a short illness. He was at work a week ago today, and worked all day, but was taken sick in the evening and rapidly grew worse until he peacefully passed away during the noon hour Sunday. His children and immediate relatives, scattered all over the state, had been summoned and were at his bedside when he died. The deceased was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1830, and was 60 years of age when death came to him. He emigrated to this country when a youth, and moved to this place two years before the civil war broke out. This was then a backwoods hamlet of only a few log shanties. The Jackson mine was then known as the old Pioneer pit, and that and the Pioneer furnace were the only industries in the place. He began work for the Jackson Iron company, and continued steadily in the employ of that company up to the time of his fatal sickness. Besides being one of the oldest, if not the oldest, and most experienced miners in this section, he will always be remembered here as a man of sterling honesty and unblemished character. He leaves a wife and six grown children, three of the latter being married. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from the Catholic church, and will be attended by the Ancient Order of Hibernians, of which he was a charter member.

A Mining Casualty.

A bad accident occurred at the Wheat mine at Palmer Saturday afternoon, which may result fatally to one of the parties concerned. A number of miners were working in the open pit under some loose over-hanging ground, which gave away and fell on them before they had time to escape. Three of the miners were caught by the falling dirt, but only suffered a few bruises. The fourth, named John Murphy, had his back broken by a heavy chunk of ore which fell with the loose dirt. He was taken to his home and surgical aid was quickly summoned. He now lies in a critical condition and his death is expected hourly.

Edward Lobb gave a grand reception to the republicans of this place last night at his residence on Main street, on the strength of the party's prospects two years from now, and to show that the voters of that faith are not entirely deserted by their recent defeat. Among the assemblage were a number of good speakers, who, in response to the toasts, arose and eloquently voiced their opinions, and hopes for future victories for the G. O. P.

Harris Ewing, of Detroit, who had been attending school here this summer, was taken down with brain fever about a month ago. Last Tuesday his condition was announced to be critical, and his mother arrived and took him home Sunday. He is a nephew of Robert Ewing, of this place.

My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at H. H. Stafford & Son's drug store, regular size, 50c and $1.00.

A THRILLING ACCOUNT OF THE BLOODY CUSTER MASSACRE.

This Man Was Forced to Remain Thirty-six Hours in the Brush Surrounded by Indians—His Hair Was Turned by His Awful Experience.

Well, I don't mind telling you the story, though I seldom repeat it, as the memories it calls up are the most painful that can ever come to me. One year ago I was down in the Big Horn country, where I had gone early in the spring, along with fifteen companies, who, like myself, had been raised here in Montana, to enlist as scout in the United States army. The Indians had been up to all sorts of deviltry and scouts were in demand. In that month I passed through just a little bit more than I bargained for, and a great deal more than I ever want to again. Hostile Indians had been gathering on the railroad all spring, and the department at Washington had given orders to bring them in or give them such a terrible licking that they would come in voluntarily. To that end a big campaign was organized.

On June 17 I was out scouting with a party that discovered that Sitting Bull had moved his headquarters from the Rosebud over into the larger valley of the Little Big Horn, the next stream to the west. Their ponies had eaten all the grass in the Rosebud, which was the cause of the waste. As soon as we reported back to Terry he decided to send Custer, the head of the cavalry, to "scout the trail."

Custer was willing and ready, and immediately started on the trail with the Seventh cavalry. A battalion of the Second cavalry was ordered him, as was also a battery of two field guns under Lieut. Low, but Custer wanted his own people, that he knew and had proved. He rode sixty miles in twenty-four hours, riding day and night, and Sunday morning, the 23d, we trotted in sight of a village in the valley of the Little Big Horn.

CUSTER'S PLAN ALL RIGHT.

It was then that Custer divided his forces. He kept five companies with him, and then divided the rest between Maj. Reno and Capt. Benteen, with the intention of partially surrounding the village and attacking at different points. I was in the division commanded by Custer himself. We galloped ahead, every man eager for the desperate fight we knew was coming, but only when we came around the bluff at the foot, about the center of the village, did we realize the extent of it, and the number of warriors that were waiting for us.

Our commander took in the situation at a glance, and I and five others were ordered to attempt to make our way to Reno and urge a hasty attack on the lower end of the village. Before we had hardly turned our horses the firing began and Indians literally swarmed out of the brush. I saw my companions fall out of their saddles in less time than I can tell, and I fell, too, but unhurt, and crawled into the brush down on the east side of the creek, across from the village, and in the excitement I managed to get, without being seen, where it was so thick that I wasn't discovered.

From a gully up on the side of the bluff I could see plainly the beginning of the fight, and the start to retreat to higher ground, but the end I couldn't see, although I knew when it came and what it meant, when I saw those red devils returning from the slaughter. I could hear firing down stream about the same time, but as it was scattered and soon over I didn't know but what Reno had suffered the same fate. The Indians swarmed all over the bluff where I was secreted that day and the next morning, and several times I thought I was discovered.

I was in that gully under the brush two nights and one day. When Terry came up the valley I heard the bugle calls, and finally becoming convinced that the Indians had left I crawled out, and when I got with the command my hair was as you now see it. When that fight began -- hair was as black as yours.

MAJ. RENO GUILTY.

Out of the fifteen of us that had enlisted as scouts together only three of them were left, and two of them were with Reno. I thought I had about enough, and I left the command immediately on getting back to Fort Keogh and came back up here. After my release, through the appearance of Terry, and I had joined him, we followed the creek south about four miles, and I found Reno strongly entrenched with the remaining seven companies, all the ammunition and supplies. The story I heard from my companions and the soldiers who had talks strongly impressed me with the needless sacrifice of Custer's command.

When Reno first made the attack it threw the Indians into the wildest excitement, as Custer had calculated it would, and a large portion of the village made hasty preparations to get out of the way and back to the protection of the reservation; but his hasty withdrawal before the scattering shots of a few old men and boys, which scared him into a panic, reassured the Indians.

He himself led the retreat and made no attempt to cover it. The column rushed pell-mell back to the stream and across it. The Indians saw that he was scared to death, and rushed right up on both flanks of the column. Benny Hodgson and Donald Mcintosh, the best loved and bravest officers of the regiment, tried to rally the men and face about and cover the retreat, but with the major on the run what could they do?

What Custer expected of Reno was a bold, dashing charge into the heart of the village, but Reno had no dash to speak of. Had he obeyed orders I firmly believe a panic would have resulted to the Indians, and the outcome would have been an entirely different story. Yes, I know Reno was whitewashed by a court martial, but I know, and the soldiers under him know, that he was guilty of the most arrant cowardice and direct disobedience of orders on that fatal day.—Interview in Chicago Times.

WILL RETURN TO ENGLAND.

Minister Lincoln Authorizes The Statement That He Has No Thought of Resigning.

A QUESTION AS TO LIQUOR LICENSES SETTLED BY SUPREME COURT.

Secretary Windom Keeps an Eye on Wall Street—Bond and Silver Purchases The Only Aid Offered.

WASHINGTON INTELLIGENCE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The army board appointed under the provisions of a recent act of congress, of which Colonel Craig, of the engineer corps, is president, to investigate the question of available sites for gun factories, and which has already visited Indianapolis, Rock Island and the Pacific coast in accordance with the terms of the act, will be in New Orleans during the present week for the purpose of beginning an examination of the advantages of the Gulf region.

Minister Lincoln called at the White House this afternoon and had a pleasant interview with the president, in the course of which he said he would leave for Chicago this evening and expected to remain there until his return to London, about the end of December.

The following national banks were today authorized to commence business: First National bank, of Sewickley, Pa., capital, $50,000; the First National bank, of Itasca, Texas, capital, $50,000.

The president of Mexico has appointed Senor Don Leandro Fernandez to represent the government of Mexico in the international railway commission. Senor Fernandez is an eminent civil engineer of Mexico.

NO THOUGHT OF RESIGNING.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Robert T. Lincoln, minister of the United States to England, called on Secretary Proctor, at the war department, early in the day and had quite a reception among his old official friends. He looks exceedingly well, being somewhat stouter than while secretary of war, and he appears to be in the best of health. To an Associated Press reporter Mr. Lincoln said in a most positive manner: "The stories to the effect that I intend to resign my position, and that I shall remain here in America are absolutely false. I came here on a leave of absence, and shall remain for about forty or fifty days, after which I shall go back to England and resume my work. The reports to the contrary are without the least foundation." He afterwards visited the state department and made a brief call on Secretary Blaine and Assistant Wharten.

HAVE ARBITRARY DISCRETION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The supreme court of the United States, through Justice Field, today rendered an opinion reversing the judgment of the circuit court for the Northern district of California discharging Henry Christensen from the custody of Chief of Police Crowley, of San Francisco. This is a liquor case, Christensen having been arrested for retailing without a license, which the police commissioners of San Francisco, under the discretion vested in them, refused. The court holds that the commissioners have arbitrary discretion to grant or refuse liquor licenses, and that such refusals do not infringe any privilege, or right of the applicant for a license. The decision of the lower court is, therefore, reversed.

BOND PURCHASES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Secretary Windom was kept fully advised of the condition of the money market today, but did not feel called on to take any action in the matter, beyond the purchase of all the silver bullion that was offered to the department. The director of the mints said this was done for the relief of the market. The available treasury cash balance will be used principally for the redemption of 4 per cent bonds. The secretary's offer of October 9th to redeem this class of bonds on presentation at par, with interest to maturity—September 1, 1891—is still open. The bonds are coming in very slowly, however, and the total redemptions to date are less than five million dollars.

HEAD TAKEN OFF.

Frightful Death of a Prominent Philadelphia Businessman in an Elevator.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 10.—Mr. Alexander Hexter, senior member of the firm of Hexter & Bros., clothing manufacturers at 432 Market street, met death in a horrible manner this afternoon at the above place. At 2:45 o'clock this afternoon the unfortunate man, who had been working on the first floor, started to go to the fourth floor on the elevator, which was partly loaded with a lot of unfinished clothing. While the elevator was passing from the second to the third floor he stooped over to speak to an employee and before he could escape his head was caught between the elevator and the ceiling. Complete decapitation followed.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

Jimmie, the 13-Year-Old Son of John Ryan, of Hancock, Drowned.

CALUMET, Mich., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—At 2 o'clock this afternoon Jimmie, the 13-year-old son of John L. Ryan, of Hancock, while playing on Hennessy dock, Houghton, was pushed into the lake and drowned. The body was recovered two hours later.

Painted Horse Complains of His Treatment While in Carver's Combination.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Painted Horse, one of the Indians from the Red Cloud agency, who was with Dr. Carver's show in Europe, arrived here on Saturday on the steamer Augusta Victoria. To-day in the presence of General O'Beirne, he made a long statement in which he charged both Carver and Buffalo Bill with great cruelty toward the Indians under their charge. Painted Horse said he was repeatedly tied up until he could endure no further suffering; that he was fed upon "stinking meat" and other things wholly unfit for food; that his money was taken from him, and when he asked for its return he received only $5.

He said the other Indians were also shamefully treated, and were frequently fired upon with both blank and ball cartridges and badly wounded. They were permitted to have all the whisky they wanted, and when under its influence they often fought among themselves. General O'Beirne has a copy of the agreement entered into by the Carver combination, in which good treatment to the Indians is specified particularly as one of the conditions of their engagement. A copy of Painted Horse's statement will be prepared and forwarded to the secretary of the interior and to the Indian commissioners. According to the latest advices Buffalo Bill's Indians will arrive in Philadelphia next Thursday.

TRAIN ROBBER CAPTURED.

Postoffice Inspector Watkins Puts the Brackets onto William E. Newberry.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—To-night Postoffice Inspector Watkins, of Chicago, will arrive here having in custody William E. Newberry, who is said to be the leader of one of the most daring gangs of train robbers of recent years. On June 6th a Northern Pacific train was stopped at New Salem, N. D., by highwaymen. Two masked men climbed onto the engine and compelled the engineer and fireman to detach the engine from the train and then to pull out. Having taken the engine about twenty rods the engineer was ordered to stop and the engineer and fireman were taken back to the train where they were ordered to batter down the door of the express car. About 500 packages, containing $5,500 in cash, were thus secured. Newberry comes from an excellent Virginia family.

NO MONEY HAD PASSED.

Detectives Were too Hasty in Arresting Big Walter and He is Discharged.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Walter Willard, alias "Big Walter," who was arrested yesterday on a charge of having decoyed Mrs. Angelina Conrad here from Brookville, Braeken county, Ky., for the purpose of selling her counterfeit money, was arraigned in court today. Mrs. Conrad was also present and told her story as already made public. The detectives were too hasty and spoiled the case. They saw no money passed, and the magistrate said there was no law on which the man could be held. If the detectives made oath that Walter was a notorious confidence man and had no visible means of support, the magistrate said he would send him to prison for six months. This they declined to do and rather reluctantly the magistrate discharged Willard, telling the detectives that the next time they arrested him to be sure to have a case against him. Judge Duffy then ordered the detectives to see Mrs. Conrad on a train for Kentucky.

THE SNELL MURDER.

Mrs. Albert J. Snell Insinuates That the Crime Was "a Family Affair."

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Albert J. Snell, daughter-in-law of Amos J. Snell, the murdered millionaire, has been interviewed by the reporters. She says that she and others know where Tascott, the supposed murderer is, but asserts that he is not the guilty party. She makes little of a A. J. Stone's efforts to discover Tascott, and insinuates that the murder was "a family affair." Mrs. Snell, widow of the murdered man, denies the statements made by her daughter-in-law, as does Mr. Stone. Mrs. Snell, the elder, says she $50,000 offered for the arrest of Tascott, will be paid to any one who will arrest and secure the conviction of her husband's murderer.

NO CAUSE KNOWN.

A Texas Railway Conductor Kills His Wife and Then Takes His Own Life.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—The Pica-yune's Corsican, Tex., special says: Wm. G. Vallie killed his wife and committed suicide at the Mallory Hotel in this city last night. Vallie was a railway conductor. The couple had just retired for the night when three shots in rapid succession were heard. The hotel clerk rushing to the room found the wife lying across the bed in a dying condition and the husband dead with a smoking revolver in his hand. He first shot his wife once through the head and another time through the neck. He then shot himself through the head dying instantly. There is no cause known for the act.

PALMER'S ELECTION ASSURED.

Mistake Discovered Which Gives Democrats Another State Legislator In Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—An error has been discovered in footings up the returns of the Second senatorial district and it now appears that Kinney, the democratic candidate for representative, was elected instead of Hoppin, the republican, as reported. Owing to the fact that the two parties have been thought to be a tie in the legislature this discovery is of considerable importance. If the official count verifies the election of Kinney the democrats will have 101 votes in the assembly and the republicans but 100, thus making the election of John M. Palmer to the United States senate the next thing to a certainty.

IT WENT OFF.

Miss Eilson, whose real name is Georgia Davids, was a clerk in a Louisville store some years ago, and Norton put her on the stage.

Struck a Snag.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Nov. 10.—The Oskian Cook, a freight boat which plies between this city and the ports on the Upper Fox river, was sunk Saturday. When the boat reached what is known as the Upper cut, near North Port, a small town on the Fox river, it in some way ran against a snag and sunk almost immediately. A man named Otto went below and tried to stop the leak and was drowned. All the rest of the crew were saved.

They Named "Tom."

A DANDY CRUSTACEAN.

ALL ITS TIME SPENT IN OUTGROWING ITS OLD CLOTHES.

The Life of a Shedder Crab—How He Increases and Wins the Favor of Fishermen and Epicures—Where He is Caught. Man and Fish Are His Enemies.

The shedder crab is known to fishermen equally well as an excellent bait and a costly article of merchandise. The rest of mankind is not so well acquainted with him, yet he is a very interesting fellow. All kinds of fish show a high appreciation of his fine qualities, which give a long way toward proving that fish know more than we are disposed to give them credit for. Nor is the crab at all ignorant of the active demand, for as soon as he reaches the shedder stage he seeks the strictest seclusion which his surroundings grant.

The crab is the Beau Brummel of crustaceans, and indeed no living creature gives so much time and attention to his wearing apparel. Compared with him in this regard the extreme dude leads a careless and easy life. If he were a member of the human family his tailor's bills would consume his entire earnings. All of this may sound ridiculous, but it is seriously said, for the metamorphoses of the crab are extraordinary.

From the time he leaves the egg till he arrives at maturity he passes through more and more frequent transformations than probably any other member of the animal kingdom. In his infancy he is so unlike himself that for centuries he was mistaken for a nondescript, and it was not much more than fifty years ago that his identity was even suspected.

The female crab carries her eggs, thousands, probably hundreds of thousands, in a number, in a great semi-spherical bunch under her belly until they are hatched. From that time the young crab has to look out for himself, and that he is moderately successful in this regard is attested by his presence in vast numbers along our shores from Maine to Texas. On emerging from the egg he looks somewhat like an impossible combination of those omnipresent products of New Jersey, the flea and the mosquito, or, to speak more definitely, he has a flat, irregular shaped body, with a long, prolegical, longer tail, long swimming appendages, with spine covered, tooth-like branches at the ends, and proportionally enormous eyes, not attached to stalks as in later life, but fixed flat upon the head.

All of these peculiarities are compressed within a minute fraction of an inch. In this stage he swims around mostly at the surface of the water, and was for a long time called zoea, for want of a better name and position in the animal kingdom. Like the nicknames of human infants, it has stuck to him, and his infancy is still called the zoea stage.

But this is not all. In his early youth he was the victim of another zoological mistake. Having shed his skin a few times he has increased in size, his eyes have appeared on stalks, legs like those of shrimps have been developed, and nippers have been added to the pair of front legs, but his family likeness is still undiscoverable, and he was therefore regarded as a distinct and solitary genus, and therefore called megalops.

His rapid growth. This, in which the tail and proboscis have nearly if not entirely disappeared, is even now called the megalops stage. After more shedding of his skin and further growth he finally appears as a miniature crab about an eighth of an inch long. Being ready to begin business as a crab he abandons swimming as a profession and takes to the bottom, goes foraging along the shores, or attaches himself on floating seaweed.

The crab literally grows by shedding. As fast as his garments become too small for him he casts them off and appears in a larger suit. He is familiar to salt water fishermen in all sizes, from that of a tack head to a silver dollar, but how often he sheds his shell in these early stages of his growth is not definitely known. It must, however, be very frequently, for even after he has reached the edible size he sheds once a month. Men who make a business of hunting him say that his time of shedding is the full of the moon. After he attains his full growth he ceases to shed, and indications are not wanting that he reaches a ripe old age, as specimens have been taken with full grown barnacles and oysters attached to their shells, showing that they had been wandering about the deep for some years at least.

When a crab is about to shed his shell he seeks shallow water, and secretes himself in the roots of the grasses or under bunches of sedge, so as to be as much as possible out of the way of the fish, which, as before intimated, are very fond of him at that stage, and know when and where to look for him. The striped bass and other large fish taken along the margins of bays, rivers and creeks are there, looking for shedder and soft crabs. Sharks are also very fond of them. One day the writer saw a shark at least ten feet long carefully searching a mud flat in Barnegat Bay for crabs. There was very little water on the flat, and the dorsal and caudal fins of the big fish were both several inches above water.

How he sheds. Fishermen have coined a number of expressive names for the different stages through which the crab passes in shedding his shell. A "comer" is a crab in the first stage, when a new shell is a mere filament or thin membrane under the old. In the "shedder" stage the new skin is a thick, soft, elastic envelope to which the old shell has ceased to adhere, and from which it separates readily, even on the claws and feet. When ready to shed the old shell separates nearly all round the body at the base of the legs, and the crab withdraws itself.

The shells of the claws and legs are not broken or cracked, but the new skin "is so soft and yielding, and the margin in such a flaccid condition, that the limbs are drawn through the small openings at the joints much as a sack newly filled with some fluid may be drawn through an opening much smaller than the sack itself." When he is ready it takes the crab only about five minutes to get out of his old shell. It is by the "soft shell" crab, so suitable for frying and so dear to the palate of the epicure.

It is not generally known that the shedder is even superior as an edible to the soft shell. He is then in his finest condition, having fattened himself to the highest point for the purposes of subsistence while his new shell is too tender to admit locomotion or the catching and eating of prey. After boiling his old shell is easily removed, even from his legs, and his internal anatomy, and he is fit to be eaten as he stands or fried in batter.—New York Times.

REFUSED TO STEAL A NICKEL.

Alderman Diver Tests His Judgment of Human Nature on a Horse Car.

"Tim," remarked Alderman Diver to a friend as they boarded a Fourth avenue car the other day, "I'll bet you that there isn't an honest passenger on this car except yourself and myself."

"What are you driving at?" inquired the alderman's friend.

"I mean just what I say. You see there are five men sitting inside. Yes; well, the conductor hasn't collected their fares, has he? No; well, now, I'll bet you that I'll prove to your satisfaction that every man in there is dishonest. Is it a go?"

Tim said it was. Then the alderman drew some small change from his pocket and paid the fares for his friend, himself and the five men inside the car, all of whom were strangers to him.

By the time the City Hall was reached three other people got on board and the conductor collected their fares, but of course passed by the original five men. They, however, appeared to be very uncomfortable, although they tried to look unconcerned. By the time the car had proceeded as far as Duane street it was full of passengers. Time after time the conductor went in and out, but the five guilty men failed to offer him the nickel which they were morally certain was not rightfully their own. Finally one fellow began to perspire slyly returned it to his pocket and assumed an air of innocence that was immensely pleasing to the attentive alderman, who, with his friend, stood on the rear platform. Another man, who for ten minutes had behaved as if he were seated on pins and needles, and had furtively eyed the conductor every time he passed, was unable to longer endure the mental strain. So he arose, and without daring to look the conductor in the face, got off, evidently many blocks from his destination.

A third man, who had the appearance of being an actor, and was evidently used to being skipped by the conductor, but didn't like to meet him face to face, got up and went out the front door. So did two more men, leaving but one of the original five in the car.

The alderman was chuckling over his prospects of success when, just as the car went bowling by the Cooper Union, the last man left his seat and approached the rear door. In one hand he held a coin, which, as he reached the conductor, he extended to him with the remark:

"I hope you'll excuse me, sir, but here is my fare which you failed to collect," and pressing the nickel into his palm, jumped off before the conductor could utter a word of protest, even if he had been ever so vigorously intimated.

The alderman looked very ill as he gazed upon this transaction, but Tim was elated.

"Let's get off at the Morton house," he said with a grin.

Without a word he complied, but as they walked up the street he turned to his friend, and with an air of assumed savagery exclaimed:

"You noticed that man who got off the car last, didn't you? Well, I overlooked him because he sat in the corner with his face turned away from me. If I had seen him I don't think I would have tried to show off my knowledge of human nature. That man, sir, is 'Dry Dollar' Sullivan, of Center street and the United States. No wonder I lost."—New York Herald.

ISHPEMING MENTION.

Something About the Outfit Carried in Its Cars and Always in Readiness. Accidents will happen occasionally on the best managed railroads, and sometimes bad wrecks happen, the cause of which frequently is a mystery, and the tracks are blocked for hours. For every minute the track remains blocked money and time are lost, and passenger and freight traffic is interrupted. So the railroads are always prepared, and within thirty minutes after a wreck has happened a wrecking train is on the way with a trained crew of men, and if the telegram announcing the wreck says that passengers or employes are injured the wrecking train comes along with its physicians, bandages and cots. A wrecking outfit is about the homeliest thing owned by a railroad company, but when they are needed they are needed badly.

The Pythians. A short article appeared in the Marquette department of the MINING JOURNAL yesterday about the institution of a regiment of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, to take place in this city on Monday evening next. The article was in the main correct, but the review will take place from the balcony of the Urban House, and not from the front of the Nelson House, as stated.

The members of the local division of the Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias here are taking a great deal of pains to make the affair a success, and such it will undoubtedly prove. In addition to the grand parade, which will be quite an imposing feature, and the review of the Pythian troops by General Hastings, there will be the ceremonies attendant on the institution of the first upper peninsula regiment of Pythian troops, and the banquet at the Urban House. The army of Zenith division No. 42, U. R. K. P., in the Heineman block, will be used for the ceremonies pertaining to the organization of the regiment.

The Knights of Pythias here are very thankful for the interest that has been taken in the matter by the business public, and for the material assistance that has been given them. If all goes well the affair will be the most important that has ever taken place in Pythian circles in this part of the state.

Newspaper Rumors. Since the election there has been no end of newspaper rumors in Ishpeming. The Peninsula Record has descended from its perch on the fence, and is now a straight-out democratic sheet.

Mr. Soules, of the Menominee Democrat, was in the city yesterday, and it is asserted that he was here to start a straight democratic paper.

There is also a rumor to the effect that a daily paper is to be started here soon, and in fact there is no end to the rumors now current regarding newspaper business ventures with Ishpeming as their seat. Some of them may come to maturity, but it is the opinion of the MINING JOURNAL that not more than half a dozen or so of new papers will be established here before the first of January. The field is not large enough to support more than that number as they should be supported in order to make them dividend-earners for their promoters.

Frank Beard. Mr. Ed. Butler, of the City Opera House, is circulating a subscription list for tickets for Frank Beard's "chalk talk." Mr. Butler has given Mr. Beard a heavy guarantee in order to get him to come here, and to see his way clear is asking people here to take tickets.

The writer of this can say, from personal knowledge, that Mr. Beard's illustrated "talks" are among the funniest things that are given on any stage at present. Mr. Beard is a caricaturist of no mean order, and his talks are replete with humor, while his crayon is kept busy illustrating the points that he makes verbally. Between the pictures and the talk, it is impossible for the audience to help laughing most heartily.

It is not every entertainment that comes along that the MINING JOURNAL cares to recommend, but it does advise the people of Ishpeming to attend Mr. Beard's lecture. It will prove a revelation to those who have not heard, and seen him before, and there are few in the city who have ever enjoyed that privilege. To those who appreciate an evening's entertainment that is perfectly free from vulgarity, yet abounding in racy wit and racy crayon sketches made in full sight of all in attendance on the entertainment, Mr. Beard's "talk" will be full of enjoyment. By all means attend, and recommend your friends to do likewise. They will be very sorry if they miss it.

Death of Mrs. Ready. Mrs. Michael Ready died at her home in the Cleveland location on Saturday evening, at 9 o'clock, and the funeral will be held this morning.

Mrs. Ready's death was not unexpected, as she had been a great sufferer for a number of years. She bore her sufferings with Christian fortitude, and led a most exemplary life. Her death will be mourned sincerely by a husband and a family of sons and daughters, some of whom have arrived at maturity, and by all who came in contact with her during her many years residence in this city.

Nowegian "Skis." A reporter of the MINING JOURNAL had the pleasure yesterday of examining some genuine Norwegian skis, several pairs of which may be seen at Tillson's drug store. These skis differ in a number of points from those in common use here, to which they are in all respects superior. They are made of the toughest and best seasoned ash, and have no groove on the under side. They are of the regulation length, but are built on a different model from those of home production. The curve at the toe is much similar to those of the skis that have been in use here, but the ash is thicker under the foot than in the home-made article. At the toe the ski is wider, while it recedes under the foot, and widens again at the heel. Under the foot there is a spring, which assists in walking, while the foot is seen to hold in the skis by a neat contrivance that allows the wearer to either hold them firmly on his foot, or to throw them off in the twinkling of an eye if desired.

The Lad Byestrom's Funeral. The funeral of young John Byestrom, who lost his life by drowning in Lake Bancroft, was held Sunday afternoon, and was very largely attended. The circumstances surrounding his death were peculiarly sad, and it should be a warning to other young men and boys not to be too venturesome.

THE WRECKING TRAIN.

Something About the Outfit Carried in Its Cars and Always in Readiness. Accidents will happen occasionally on the best managed railroads, and sometimes bad wrecks happen, the cause of which frequently is a mystery, and the tracks are blocked for hours. For every minute the track remains blocked money and time are lost, and passenger and freight traffic is interrupted. So the railroads are always prepared, and within thirty minutes after a wreck has happened a wrecking train is on the way with a trained crew of men, and if the telegram announcing the wreck says that passengers or employes are injured the wrecking train comes along with its physicians, bandages and cots. A wrecking outfit is about the homeliest thing owned by a railroad company, but when they are needed they are needed badly.

The wrecking cars are kept at the end of a division, and are directly under the control of the superintendent of that division. The wrecking train is composed of three cars—a powerful locomotive, and all the cars are fitted with air brakes. The first car is what is known as the truck car. The body of the car is very low, and upon it are carried two extra pairs of tracks, rails, cross ties and spikes, for sometimes the track is torn up in a wreck.

The second car is the wrecking car. It is built of the heaviest timber, and is mounted on two pairs of small, heavy trucks. Half of the car is covered over, and the other half is a mere platform; but arising from the center is a powerful derrick with a 28 foot boom. With this powerful contrivance trucks, cars and locomotives are swung about. The covered portion of the car resembles inside a storeroom of a ship, as there are so many cables hanging around.

In one end of the car are two closets, one containing the food for the crew. The locker is always well filled, for there is no telling when the wrecking train may be called into service. The other closet or locker contains medicines, bandages and a portable telegraph outfit, with several coils of wire. If the wreck is a bad one the instrument is brought into use. An operator is picked up at the first station along the road, and when the scene of the accident is reached the wires are set and a telegraph office is established. The car carries rope of every size and kind up to three inches in diameter, hydraulic jacks for raising engines and cars, levers, pulleys, and derrick tackle of all kinds.

On the Louisville and Nashville first division wrecking cars are carried 300 feet of Manila three inch rope for putting engines on the track, 300 feet of two inch full line for pulling purposes, 275 feet one and three-fourth inch rope for the derrick, two sixty foot sections of three inch switch rope for pulling on cars, 240 feet two and one-half inch rope for the same purpose, and 230 feet of three inch rope for putting on trucks, and 550 feet for guy lines. The next car is the "block car," containing short blocks of wood of every size for blocking up cars and locomotives.

At every wreck cars are generally tumbled about in confusion, and the wrecking crew begin on these. The shattered ones are pushed off the track, and those left in a little better condition are put on the truck and drawn away. After this is done there is one or more disabled engines. The heavy cables on the wrecking car are attached to the disabled locomotive, and a live one at the other end of the rope generally by hard work pulls the disabled locomotive back on the track. When the truck is clear the wrecking train picks up all the iron and trucks and comes back to town.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

May Thank Her Stars. The narrow escape of Mrs. B. M. Searles, of Elkhart, Ind., from a premature death is wonderful. She states that "for twenty years my heart troubled me greatly. I became worse. Had another spells, short breath, fluttering; could not sleep on my left side, had much pain in breast, shoulders and stomach. Ankles swelled. Had much headache and dizziness. Treatment did me no good, until I tried Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine. The first bottle helped me, and I was soon virtually cured. For sale at H. H. St. John & Son's drug store. EXPOSITION AND HOTELS.

Two Ideas That Deserve Most Careful Consideration From the Citizens of Marquette.

WARDENSHIP OF BRANCH PRISON WAS MADE NO-POLITICAL.

Interesting Interview With Mr. Wilkinson on That Subject—Warden Tompkins Will Remain Here—City News.

More Hotels are Needed.

There is no question that for the needs of summer travel Marquette needs more hotels. The present accommodations are sufficient for winter business and perhaps somewhat in excess of present needs. But the experience of the past summer has amply shown that the hotels of Marquette are by no means adequate to the tourist travel. All the hotels were crowded last year and rooms in private houses were not equal to the demand. There is no question that hundreds of people passed this city by last year because they were informed that accommodations could not be had. Marquette would be second to no point in the northwest in attractions for summer travellers if only a place were provided to take care of them. This city needs a large and well-conducted summer hotel and such a house would undoubtedly pay.

The Citizens' Association has already started this movement. The report of the committee on hotels was a comprehensive and convincing document. It shows well what are the possibilities of this city as a tourist point and outlines its many attractions. Two thousand copies of this report will shortly be printed and scattered over the country among hotel men and capitalists interested in hotel property. In this way it is believed that men and money may be found to build and run a successful summer hotel here. Local assistance will not be lacking if the proper persons to undertake such an enterprise can be found.

There is another and very strong reason why this hotel idea should be pushed with all possible diligence. The Upper Peninsula Exposition plan is admitted on all sides to be a good one. The chief obstacle to its realization is the admitted lack of accommodation for the great throngs it would surely attract to Marquette. The two plans must go together. When Marquette announces to the public at large that on such a date her exposition of the magnificent resources and varied products of this wonderful region will open she must be able at the same time to give full assurance that ample accommodations will be provided for visitors. By means of the exposition the hotel's season of profit would be lengthened several weeks for then the bulk of the travellers from lower latitudes would be gone.

An upper peninsula exposition would benefit greatly, both directly and indirectly, Marquette and this whole region. The increased tourist travel which one or more large and well-managed hotels would bring would also be a benefit, both directly and indirectly. Both these ideas are worthy the attention of citizens generally and should be followed up with all diligence.

Not Affected by the Land Slide.

A MINING JOURNAL reported called on Mr. J. M. Wilkinson, local member of the board of control of the Marquette branch prison, to learn what effect, if any, a change in the state administration would have on the management of the prison.

"Under the law, Warden Tompkins' position is non-political and he is not likely to be disturbed by the new administration," said Mr. Wilkinson. "The statutes governing the Marquette prison were drawn with special reference to making the position of warden practically a permanent one and they state repeatedly and specifically that the warden shall possess practical experience in prison management and that no removal or appointment shall be made for political and partisan reasons. Even if it were otherwise, I doubt if Governor-elect Winans would want to put an untried and inexperienced man at the head of so important an institution just at the beginning of its organization. Warden Tompkins was not appointed on account of his being a republican but because he had acquired from practical experience a thorough knowledge of all branches of prison management and had earned a reputation for being one of the best and most successful of disciplinarians. At the time he was appointed warden of this prison he was holding the position of deputy warden in the prison at Jackson and was receiving nearly as much compensation there as the law allowed here. He came here only at the urgent solicitation of Governor Luce, who offered him the position at the request of the board of control of the prison."

"I don't think it is generally understood that the position is a very laborious one and that the intricate system of accounting in the prison makes it quite necessary that the warden besides possessing the other desired qualifications should have a well grounded education. There are at present some twelve or thirteen full sets of double entry books kept in the prison. Each set represents the transactions of a department and the accounts of each department are kept as separate as though they belonged to different institutions. At the end of each month after every item is accurately classified, balances are taken from all these books, summarized and together with vouchers and abstracts forwarded to the auditor-general at Lansing for examination and approval. This work has all been done by Warden Tompkins and in fact the records of the prison have also been prepared and written up under his personal supervision. The only office assistant he has is a young lady stenographer and typewriter who also assists transcribing the accounts. By law we are also required to maintain a school for the instruction of convicts. The school was organized some months ago and under the immediate direction of the warden it has done good work." "Are the other prisons of the state protected by the laws similar to the one governing the Marquette prison," asked the reporter. "Unfortunately they are not. However at a recent joint meeting of the State Board of Charities and Corrections and Boards of Control of the three prisons a committee was appointed to draft a bill that if adopted by the legislature next winter, will afford the other prisons the same protection. "As a general thing throughout the country," continued Mr. Wilkinson, "I think that prison management is non-partisan. New York sent to Detroit for Warden Brockway, Massachusetts sent to Joliet, Ill., for Warden McClaughrey and Warden Tompkins at the time he came here was considering a call to go to an Iowa prison. Warden Nicholson of the Detroit House of Correction, notwithstanding he is a prominent democrat and takes an active part in politics, has held his position uninterruptedly for the past twelve or thirteen years under both republican and democratic administrations. The fact is that it is becoming generally understood that a warden to be successful must be educated up to his trade and this is no where more important than in the prison here which is just in its infancy and where every detail of work and organization should be kept under the strict supervision of an expert prison man."

"How about the Prison Board of Control? Will any changes occur under the new administration?" "The board is composed of three members. The term of one expires next winter. The other two hold over for two and four years respectively. My term expires in 1905."

He Will Not Sign Those Bills.

"I think the aldermen ought to be paid as much for their work as inspectors of election or other people," said Mayor Longyear yesterday. "But as matters now stand and as the law is I am unable to help them. It is clearly illegal under the charter to pay aldermen more than $1 per year for their official services. The laws ought to be different but I am bound to obey them as I find them. By signing illegal bills I would lay myself open to prosecution which might be instituted by any taxpayer. The law being as it stands my duty is plain, no matter what my personal opinions may be. Hence I shall not sign the bills of any aldermen for services as inspectors of registration or election."

Thus the matter of those disputed election bills stands. The council passed them but the mayor and recorder refuse to sign them because they are illegal. The charter revision commission should see to it that suitable provision is made in this matter. It is hardly possible, in this region, to get competent inspectors of election to serve for the $1.50 per day allowed by the statute. And it is only fair that aldermen in this regard be placed on the same plane as other citizens.

Rifles Ball Thanksgiving Night.

The Marquette Rifles held a very largely attended drill and company meeting last night. F. S. Byrne and J. F. Pierce were elected to active membership in the company and five new recruits signed the muster roll. Under the training of Captain Russell and Lieutenants Agnew and Kaufman the company is making good progress and the average attendance at drills is rising. At the company meeting it was decided to hold an informal dancing reception Thanksgiving night and Frank Bay was given charge of the affair with power to appoint assistants. Lieutenant Agnew presented the company with the huge Japanese umbrella won by him at the recent Catholic fair which was received with thanks.

There is talk in the company of organizing a Rifles Snow Shoe Club and the idea will probably be carried into effect.

Will Count Returns To-Day.

The board of canvassers will meet in the circuit court room at 10 o'clock this morning to go over the returns for this county. Not half of the returns had been received by County Clerk Smith yesterday, but they will all come in today. So far there is no indication that the results already published in the MINING JOURNAL will be materially changed. A tabulation of the official returns will be published as soon as they are made up.
