DECIDE AGAINST PARNELL.

Irish Envoys Say His Continuance in Irish Party Leadership Will Wreck Home Rule.

THEY ARE COMPELLED TO CHOSE BETWEEN LEADER AND COUNTRY.

In Such a Crisis There Can Be No Hesitancy. His Attacks on Gladstone Are Causeless and Unjust.

FEELING YIELDS TO PATRIOTISM.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The views of the Irish envoys in America, excepting Timothy Harrington, were cabled to night to London. Following is the document in full:

To JUSTIN MCCARTHY, M. P., VICE-CHAIRMAN OF THE IRISH PARLIAMENTARY PARTY: Our sense of the matchless genius of Mr. Parnell as a leader, of the imperishable services he has rendered to the Irish cause, of the courage, integrity and splendid success with which he has led our people for ten years and the tie of comradeship and personal respect and affection which for years bound us to him have made us suspend to the latest possible moment our judgment against his further leadership. The obligation to express that judgment is to all of us the most painful duty of our lives. No earthly consideration could have moved us to our determination except the solemn conviction that we are driven to choose between Mr. Parnell and the DESTRUCTION OF OUR COUNTRY'S CAUSE.

So painfully alive were we to all that might be involved in the loss of such a leader that we eagerly co-operated with our colleagues in every effort to retain his influence in our counsels. The manifesto which Mr. Parnell has just issued cuts us off from the last hopes to which we clung. Axious to avoid any word that might embitter this controversy we shall not dwell upon the cruel injustice with which he treats the members of the party that has followed him with a loyalty and affection such as no leader ever experienced before. His recollection of their fealty in many an hour of trial might well have saved them from the imputation that any section of them could have allowed by liberal wire pullers, nor would we do more than enter a protest against this violation of all constitutional principle in flouting by anticipation the decision of the elected representatives of the people from whose votes the chairman of the parliamentary party receives his authority and resorting to a vague general appeal over their heads. Considerations like these we should readily have waived in the interest of the national solidarity, but the method by which, ignoring the origin of the present calamitous situation, Mr. Parnell endeavored to fasten the responsibility for it upon Messrs. Gladstone and Morley, compels us to disassociate ourselves in the strongest manner from an imputation which we believe to be causeless and unjust. We view with abhorrence the attacks that have been made on Mr. Parnell by his public and private enemies under cover of his present difficulties. To attacks of this kind addressed to a man of a proud and strong spirit we attribute with which Ireland is now threatened; and we fear that they may do the further mischief of diverting the minds of many people from grave national to purely personal issues in the natural resentment at an ungenerous attack on a great leader in an hour of stress and disaster. But, while making every possible allowance for Mr. Parnell's feelings on the English people and lamentable from the point of view of international good feeling to describe as English wolves howling for his destruction those who have not been able to bring themselves to the same view to which gratitude and the necessity for union impelled Mr. Parnell's own colleagues and countrymen. The plea of Mr. Parnell that Mr. Gladstone's letter involves a claim and thereby strike at the independence of that party as a strictly Irish national body is one calculated to inspire every Irish nationalist with alarm, if that plea were not an obvious fallacy. The Irish party was formed for the purpose of winning home rule for Ireland. Any attempt to divert the Irish party from that object in the interest of English parties would be an invasion of the independence of the Irish party and would, we believe, be repelled by no one more sternly than our colleagues and ourselves who are now in opposition to Mr. Parnell. But the very basis of our independent alliance with the liberal party is the adoption by them of the program for which the Irish party was formed and the recognition that it must be the first work of a liberal cabinet to realize that program. Whatever differences of opinion may exist is to the haste with which Mr. Gladstone's letter was communicated to the public it was obviously not his

THEIR INTEGRITY TO BE SAPPED

MANY OF THE TERRIBLE DANGERS

DICTATE TO THE IRISH PARTY

but his earnest desire to save it from disaster that prompted Mr. Gladstone to write his letter. We believe that the difficulties of Mr. Gladstone's position were not frankly recognized by Mr. Parnell and that on the contrary friendly private communications—communications obviously made with a view of smoothing the passage of the home rule bill—have been made the basis of insinuations of treachery to the Irish cause. By his conviction again and again expressed that home rule to be effective must be such a measure as will satisfy the Irish people Mr. Gladstone is bound to a full and ample measure of self-government to Ireland. To offer any other scheme would be an act of incredible folly; and we emphatically separate ourselves from any such CHARGE AGAINST MR. GLADSTONE.

We think it deplorable that Mr. Morley's suggestion that some of the Irish party might co-operate in carrying out the Irish program of a liberal home-rule ministry, should be so strangely misinterpreted by Mr. Parnell. Every member of the Irish party will of course agree with Mr. Parnell that the acceptance by any Nationalist member of office from an English ministry would be a breach of the elementary principles upon which our party is founded. But nobody who knows Mr. Morley's character will doubt that the suggestion was made in the honest belief that a liberal ministry would be helped in the difficult work of carrying through the details of an Irish home-rule bill by the co-operation of Irish colleagues and that it was on the integrity and independence of the Irish party. We have now to confront the statement that Mr. Parnell's leadership opens an impassable gulf between the representatives of Ireland and the liberal party who have faithfully observed their part of the agreement as to the national claims of Ireland and the situation is aggravated by deplorable expressions of ill-will toward the British people who have again and again within the past five years manifested their determination to do justice to Ireland and have by their votes paralyzed the arm of coercion. In deliberately bringing things to this position Mr. Parnell has entered upon which every consideration of Ireland's safety as well as of personal honor forbid us absolutely to follow him. In the future of a party that is isolated and discredited we cannot imagine how any Irishman can see anything but destruction of the hopes of self-government, happiness and peace which but a few weeks ago were on the point of being realized for our people, so tried by many years of sacrifice and suffering. What Mr. Parnell asks us to do, stripped of all side issues, is to sacrifice all the hopes of an early settlement of an Irish struggle to his resolve to maintain his personal position. We are driven to choose between

UPON A RASH AND FATAL PATH

OUR LEADER AND OUR CAUSE.

In that sad choice we cannot hesitate. We lay these views respectfully before all our colleagues of the Irish parliamentary party in the earnest belief that a decisive vote on their part will deliver Ireland from the fearful anxiety now overhauling her people. We are convinced that a calm but resolute course of action of our party in this crucial emergency will redound to the advantage of our cause by furnishing conclusive testimony of the capacity of our party and of our people for self-government. We cannot relinquish the hope that in face of such decisive action by the elective representatives of the Irish people Mr. Parnell's sense of patriotism will with hold him from plunging Ireland into those horrors of dissolution which have so often already in her tragic and unhappy history robbed her of liberty the moment it was within her grasp and will save him from undoing in one passionate hour the results of all his incomparable services to his country. (Signed) John Dillon, William O'Brien, Thomas P. O'Connor, T. D. Sullivan, Thomas P. Gill.

From an indirect source information was obtained that Mr. Harrington declined to sign the manifesto on personal grounds. He was said to have stated his position in these words: "My judgment is against Parnell, but my heart is with him."

GLADSTONE ON PARNELL.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Mr. Gladstone, writing to Mr. Mellor, the liberal candidate at Bassetlaw, says: "Mr. Parnell's manifesto has widened the gulf made by recent disclosures and separated him from the liberal party, who have now to consider the great and noble cause of justice for Ireland apart from any individual name. But, I am glad to think, so far as appears here will not be a severance between us and the nationalist party, for Mr. Parnell throws over his colleagues. He acknowledges in them no right nor authority, and goes past the constitutional representatives of his frenzied appeal to the nation which has chosen them to speak its wants and wishes."

BISHOPS AGAINST PARNELL.

DUBLIN, Nov. 30.—In an interview Archbishop Walsh, referring to his recent letter on the Parnell difficulty says: "The letter was guarded because Mr. Parnell had not then spoken. But his manifesto enables me to speak more plainly. Unless Mr. Parnell clears himself of the charge of adultery the party taking or retaining him as its leader will not find the support, co-operation or confidence of the Irish bishops. Mr. Parnell's breach of Mr. Gladstone's confidence is blamable." Archbishop Walsh speaks only of the moral aspect of the manifesto saying that he leaves its political bearings to the Irish members.

PARNELL WITH MRS. O'SHEA.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Mrs. O'Shea is at Brighton with her four daughters and Mr. Parnell was with her there during the parliamentary recess. Mr. Parnell returned to Brighton after the trial of the O'Shea divorce suit. He left there on Friday and expected to go to Cork to-day.

DUBLIN, Nov. 30.—John O'Leary, the Fenian, in an interview thus refers to Mr. Parnell: "Though I never was Parnell's follower I say Parnell is the only fit leader of the nationalists. It is stupid to abandon him because Gladstone's screeches. Gladstone's revised scheme can satisfy no possible party in Ireland."

CALLS ON PARNELL TO RETIRE.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—The Parnell branch of the Irish National League to-day adopted a resolution calling upon Mr. Parnell to retire from the leadership of the Irish parliamentary party and the secretary was directed to telegraph the resolution to Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien at Chicago and to the Irish leaders in London. This branch is one of the oldest in this country and has been regarded as one of the most important. It reached its decision to-day after a discussion lasting more than an hour.

ENTHUSIASM AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Ten thousand people assembled in Battery B, and 2,000 more in the Second Regiment armory, adjoining, to see and hear the Irish parliamentary delegates. Among the prominent figures in front of the audience was Mrs. Parnell, mother of the man still at the helm of Irish affairs. When Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien, O'Connor, Harrington, Sullivan and Gill were escorted to the platform wild cheers broke out and were repeated again and again. Mayor Greger made a brief speech of welcome and then introduced John Dillon. Mr. Dillon dwelt at considerable length on Ireland's struggle and the mission of the delegates to this country. The telling points in the speech were received with tremendous enthusiasm. Mr. O'Brien spoke next and was accorded an equally warm reception. The speaking was then suspended for half an hour, during which contributions were received by tellers appointed to canvass the audience. Besides a great mass of small contributions, fifteen or twenty prominent citizens handed in amounts ranging from $100 to $500.

MORLEY AGAINST PARNELL.

He Contradicts Flatly Some Statements in The Irish Leader's Manifesto.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Mr. Morley writes to the press as follows: "The manifesto of Mr. Parnell contains two or three statements affecting me which I desire without loss of time to correct. First—I made no sort of attempt to fetter Mr. Parnell's action with reference to the land bill. He agreed with me in all our conversations that the bill ought to be opposed as omitting the principle of local control and for other reasons specified in his speech of April 21st. The only question was as to the form of motion for the rejection of the bill. I pointed out to him on April 14th, that as many liberals objected to the whole principle of the bill an amendment stating their reasons would be less suitable than a motion for its rejection simpliciter. Parnell assented. Two days later he explained to me his alternative plan for muzzling down rents and this at his request was immediately communicated to Mr. Gladstone. The same evening I wrote to Parnell that Mr. Gladstone felt he could have nothing to say about his plan one way or another, not that, of course, he was perfectly free to propound on it his own responsibility, so completely did we recognize that our relations with the Irish party were those of an independent alliance and not of a fusion.

"Second—Mr. Parnell imputes to me in our conversation of November 10th five days before the proceedings in court were begun, a remarkable proposal with the object of absorbing the Irish party into English politics by means of office. I made no proposal. It was natural that in a free, confidential discussion of the possible future I should wish to make sure for Mr. Gladstone's information that Mr. Parnell still held to his self-denying declaration of 1889. His answer to my inquiry was what I fully anticipated.

"Third—Mr. Parnell's account of what passed on the same occasion on the subject of evicted tenants is wholly incorrect. I observed that some direct action might become necessary. Though I foresaw difficulties in the way of legislation, I never said that I or any of my colleagues had formed any conclusions against legislation. I never said or hinted that it would be impossible for an Irish parliament to do anything in the matter. I did say that, whether by direct or indirect action evicted tenants ought not to be allowed to suffer. As to Tipperary, there is all the difference between a sensible perception of difficulties and the despair which Mr. Parnell ascribes to me.

"Mr. Gladstone is well able to deal with his own share of the manifesto, but I am bound to say that on November 10th I was under the most distinct impression that Mr. Parnell did not object to the suggestions thrown out at Hawarden a year ago as subjects for provisional examination if these suggestions were likely to make the scheme generally acceptable to Great Britain."

BIG HARVESTER TRUST.

Meeting Held in Chicago Elects Board of Directors.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The meeting of the new American Harvester company, which was incorporated last week with a capital of $35,000,000, was held here yesterday. The program laid out for the day was the election of officers and a board of directors. William Deering, one of the heaviest stockholders in the new company, was called east a few days ago by the death of his mother, and on account of his absence the election of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, general manager and assistant general manager was postponed until Monday, when another meeting will be held. The following board of directors was chosen: Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago; William Deering of Chicago; Walter A. Wood, of Hoosic Falls, N. Y.; Lewis Miller, of Akron, O.; A. S. Bushnell, of Springfield, O.; A. L. Conger, of Akron, O., and W. C. Gandy, of Chicago. Twenty-two concerns were represented at the meeting.

Milwaukee's Mayoralty.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 30.—The republican city convention last evening nominated F. H. Magdeburg, the well-known and wealthy miller, for mayor to succeed Governor-Elect Peck. A meeting of Lutherans endorsed P. J. Somers, now president of the council, acting mayor, and democratic candidate. The special election will be held Tuesday.

It is announced that a correction of errors made in the first adding up of the enunciations' returns from New York city makes the population of that city 125,000 greater than it was at first given out. This ought to satisfy Gov. Hill, who affected to feel badly over the showing made by Gotham in the reports first given to the public.

A "COMBINE" of the manufacturers of threshing machines is said to have been effected. This will be another straw on the back of the complaining granger, but it isn't the last one. The two "old parties" haven't combined yet to down the alliance, but even that may come some day if the farmers' party keeps on growing as rapidly as it did during the past couple of years.

GREAT interest centers on the president's message to congress at the opening of the session to begin to-day. It will be an unusually lengthy document, the MINING JOURNAL is informed. A full synopsis of the message will be given in this paper the morning following its delivery, its great length (it would make about fourteen columns in the MINING JOURNAL'S type) precluding presenting it in its entirety.

ANOTHER Duluth bank, that of Hall & Co., suspended payments Saturday, being forced to the procedure by a run upon it of distrustful depositors. It is a small private concern doing a limited business, and had only about $60,000 on deposit, of which amount $24,000 had been paid out before the suspension was decided on. The bank has assets that will enable it to pay all claims in full when it can realize on them, and its embarrassment is only temporary.

The Cleveland Iron Trade Review says of the ore market in its issue for last week:

The close of the season is not marked with any features that call for comment. While ore freights during the past week or two have been slightly higher, the volume of receipts has considerably fallen off, as was naturally expected. With next Monday comes the end of navigation, although some half dozen of the staunchest steel steamers will make another trip to complete contracts. In the absence of reliable figures from the head of the lakes as to the shipments for the season, it is impossible to review the business for the year, but enough is known to enable the statement to be made that it was not satisfactory, on the whole, to the ore interests. The season started out with prices that were too high to be maintained, and a great many concessions had to be made to the consumers. Judging from the present temper of the ore men, it is safe to say that they intend, next year, to hold off with their sales, ask a fair price, and mine no more than they can readily dispose of at that price.

THE postmaster-general sticks to his hobby that the country ought to be given one cent letter postage. What it needs is greater efficiency in the service and decent pay for those who render it. The postal railway clerks and the clerical forces in the postoffices are now overworked and underpaid, and the entire service is crippled by a policy of holding down expenditures to bring it as nearly as possible to the point of being self-sustaining. To cut the letter rate in two under these circumstances would be highly injudicious, and it is singular that such an unwisdom proceeding should find an advocate in the head of the postoffice department. It may be possible to gradually squeeze employes down to the starvation point, while holding them up to a fair standard of efficiency in service, in a great manufacturing or commercial establishment, but it doesn't work that way in the government service. Mr. Wanamaker's advocacy of a one-cent letter rate will not tend to enhance this popularity with people who understand the real needs of the postal service.

AFTER having brought the Irish home rule movement to a point where its ultimate triumph seemed assured, Parnell has destroyed all its prospects of success for the present, first by refusing to abdicate his position as leader of the Irish party in parliament, and secondly by his manifesto, in which he aims to breed distrust of the English liberals in the minds of the Irish people. The probability is that the breach he has caused in the allied party composed of the English liberals under Gladstone and the Irish home rulers will not soon be closed. Parnell's course since the outcome of the O'Shea divorce suit cast an ineffaceable stigma on his name as a source of poignant sorrow to those who had learned to revere him for his masterly handling of Ireland's cause, and the high sense of patriotic devotion to it by which he seemed to be inspired. He has done much for Ireland in the past, but all that he has accomplished is worse than lost in the disgrace that he has brought upon his cause through his criminality, and the disintegration of the forces that were battling for justice to that country wrought by his selfish determination not to surrender the leadership of the Irish contingent which it is manifestly improper that he should be longer permitted to hold.

WHEN the run on the Bank of Commerce at Superior started, the other banks there came promptly to its rescue, one placing $50,000 in cash at its disposal, another $30,000, and others lesser amounts. In order to show their confidence in the bank, the business men generally began depositing money in its vaults while the panic-stricken depositors were crowding in to draw theirs out, and as a consequence there was more on deposit in the bank when the run was over than when it began. The incident illustrates the public spirit that prevails at Superior, and which, manifested in other ways, has accomplished such wonders within the past few years in building up that city. The people there have differences among themselves, but, like Lochiel's clan, "their swords are a thousand, their bosoms are one" when an issue affecting the welfare or reputation of their city arises. The manner in which the other banks and the business people of Superior stood by the Bank of Commerce when the run on it resulting from the failure of the Bell & Eyster banking house at Duluth was made the other day is infinitely to the credit of that city, and will go far to strengthen confidence in its future throughout the country.

QUITE a notable newspaper event is the sale of the New York World to George W. Childs and A. J. Drexel, of Philadelphia—the former a publisher who has been wonderfully successful and the latter a millionaire banker. The new owners of the paper will take charge of it on the first of the coming month, and will reorganize its editorial and working forces throughout. The price paid for the World was $4,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is for the new building occupied by the paper and $3,000,000 for the newspaper property itself—a pretty good figure for a paper that hadn't made a dollar for almost a generation before Mr. Pulitzer took hold of it. Failing health and impaired eyesight due to overwork have compelled Mr. Mr. Pulitzer to sell the paper and retire from business altogether. The World will continue to be democratic under its new ownership and management, it is stated, but whether it will attach itself to the fortunes of the Tammany crowd and go to booming Hill for the presidency, or ally itself with the more respectable element of the party there, can only be conjectured as yet. It will probably "outton" the decent element of the party, as the Tammanies have an organ quite to their taste already in the shameless Sun.

THE NEWSPAPER OF TODAY.

The Helper of Religion, Science, Education and All Good Works.
No publisher or editor pretends that he risks his capital, gives time, labor, thought and care to the making of a newspaper for charity's sake. He publishes his book—for profit as a means of living or making a fortune. Publishing a newspaper is strictly business, though there is no honest enemy of public wrong or injustice, and it must be so necessarily, as it is but public sentiment reflected in type. The newspaper depends for its success upon popular favor, and the aim of every one connected with it is that of winning popular favor by running upon parallel lines with public morality. To say that the newspaper is published for money is to say no harm of it.

It has passed into a universal maxim that "the church lives by the altar"—by the contributions which the faithful lay upon the altar. And it is true, and it is not discreditable. The newspaper press is generally as high in morals and intelligence as the public conscience and mind, higher than that that can never be permanently, as it must be what society demands it should be. As a matter of fact, it frequently runs ahead, temporarily, of public morality; it often creates the public sentiment that detests public wrongs; it often secures justice by proclaiming the injustice.

The press is not without its faults, but venality or untruth for money's sake is not one of them. Its worst fault is its partisan prejudice, its inability to perceive that the newspaper that serves its country best serves its party best. It does not lie for self, but it does for political expediency's sake too often fail to recognize the truth. It is not unclean for money's sake, nor sensational for profit's sake, though it may too often blunder into the mire or into sentimentalism through want of good judgment. The press of the United States—and we speak, of course, of that great body of reputable newspapers which really constitute the press—is just what readers of high or average intelligence and morals make it, and it rises day by day to higher planes of intelligence and morality.

To make the best, the truthfulest, the cleanest newspaper, all other things being equal, is to make the most profitable one. That is the experience of every publisher and responsible editor of a great and pecuniarily successful public journal. The press will always have its adverse critics, who if run to earth will be found to be some unworthy, discarded members of it, or those with whom the press has had to deal more in justice than in mercy. As to its defense against mendacious criticism, it is making it daily; for it is compelling the testimony of scores of millions of readers to its usefulness, its public spirit, its intelligence and its morality.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

TWILIGHT.
When I was young the twilight seemed too long.
How often on the western window-seat
I leaned my book against the misty pane
And spelled the last uncertain lines again,
The while my mother hummed an ancient song
Or sighed a little and said, "The hour is sweet,"
When I, rebellious, clamored for the light.

But now I love the soft approach of night,
And now with folded hands I sit and dream,
While all too fleet the hours of twilight seem;
And thus I know that I am growing old.

O granaribs of age! O manifold
And royal harvest of the common years!
There are in all thy treasure-house no ways
But lead by soft descent and gradual slope
To memories more exquisite than hope.
Thine is the Iris born of older days
And three more happy are the happy days
That live divinely in thy lingering rays.
So autumn roses bear a lowlier flower;
So, in the emerald after sunset hour,
The orchard wall and trembling aspen trees
Appear as trifles in thy splendour.

At an old desk we sit with folded hands,
Who knows, who cares in what enchanted lands
We wander while the undying memories throng?

When I was young the twilight seemed too long.
—Mrs. James Darmastor in Athenaeum.

Dean Brummell's Aversion to Jewels.
Dean Brummell, as many people know, was a fop whose elegant impudence made him for a time a favorite with George IV of England and his court. His fashionable career began about the dawn of the Nineteenth century, and he died in 1810. He was a dandy of peculiar tastes and habits, and had so much influence with the English monarch that he led him into the greatest extravagances in dress. In the earlier part of his career Brummell dressed much as the fops of today looked themselves; that is, he affected a variety of ornaments and bestowed upon colors but little attention beyond wearing them in profusion. In the zenith of his influence, however, he manifested the highest taste for harmony in color and texture, and in the latter days of his glory was an anomaly among exquisites.

Dean Brummell wore jewelry in plenty when he was a very young man, in fashion, but observing that this habit was quickly copied by the cooals and other servants of his associates, he soon eschewed everything except a fob with a bunch of seals, key, etc., gold shoe and knee buckles, and a few other simple jewels. The youthful aristocracy of England did not like him to exorcise their persons with gold trinkets or flashing gems, and as it was the aristocracy of England that Brummell was ambitious to lead, he abandoned jewelry and set an example of simplicity in this sort of decoration in strong contrast to the luxuriance of the Elizabethan period, which he had at first undertaken to revive.—Jeweler's Weekly.

The New York Boy is Up in History.
A friend of mine who sometimes indulges in the hobby of a Saturday school class told me of an experience of his in which his historical knowledge was shown to be of a very high standard. In the course of the lesson on a certain monarch he had occasion, when asked what intent Henry was to order to the story of Chart. John Smith, and added that after having been rescued from a death of torture by Pochontas he had married his wife. This statement was in perfect accord with his schoolboy traditions, but it did not suit one of the class, who at once was protesting against the marriage, and whose protests were paid for in a dozen different places. "She had never been his wife, teacher," he made haste to explain. "Pochontas married Capt. John Rolfe, and went to England to live with him."
Well aware that history is continually on the improve, and that the New York boy is never wrong, my friend was completely silenced.—New York Herald.

Marvelous Endurance.

It beats 100,000 times, and force, the blood at the rate of 108 miles a days which is 3,000,000,000 times and 5,150,880 miles in a life time. No wonder there are so many heart failures. A Finnish Brawl and What Came of it—A Victim of Rheumatism—Miscellaneous Mention.

They Got Away.
About half-past three o'clock last Thursday morning, shortly after the street lamps had been put out, night-watchman Chouquette, while patrolling his beat near the Breitung house, was attracted by loud outcries proceeding from a gang of men at the Central street crossing. Rushing to the spot, he found a party of seven drunken Finns pelting the brakemen who were switching box cars near the depot with missiles. As soon as they caught sight of the officer, the gang dispersed with such expedition that no arrests could be made. Officer Chouquette, in company with the street lamp-lighter, followed close on their heels. As soon as the party got inside the yard surrounding a house tenanted by Finns, on Peck street, they stopped to await the arrival of their pursuers. The officer was just in the act of taking hold of the nearest Finn when a cry from the man who had accompanied him put him on his guard, and he just had time to throw his arm between his head and an ax wielded by one of the Finns. He received the full force of the blow across the palm of his hand, the blade of the ax cutting into the bone and inflicting a gash about three inches long. In the meantime, another of the Finns had made an attack on the lamp-lighter with a stout club, but was thrown down before he could do anything. Two of the party were captured and marched off to jail. Chouquette, in company with a fellow officer, then returned to the house to search the others, but on entering found everybody in bed and apparently sound asleep. He noticed snow clinging to the shoes near the foot of two of the beds, and immediately roused the sleepers. Inside of half an hour he had the seven in the city jail. The cells are all locked by spring catches, which can be operated by any person outside the door. If the outer entrance doors are left open. When they had the Finns safely quartered in the cells, the officers found that neither had the key to the steel entrance door. As daylight was just then breaking, and there appeared to be no one about the place, it was not thought necessary to watch the jail, and both officers went away, leaving the outer door unlocked. About an hour later Chouquette again visited the jail, when he found all the cell doors wide open and every cell empty. Some confederate of the party must have hung around until the officers had gone, and then liberated the inmates of the cells by springing the catch-locks. The affair was kept quite quiet now in the hope of effecting a recapture of the culprits. They are supposed to be in hiding somewhere about the city. The officers will be able to identify the offenders if they make their appearance of the street again.

Died of Acute Rheumatism.
Miss Nettie Yaki, a daughter of J. Yaki aged fourteen years, died Saturday morning of an ailment that had puzzled the physicians in attendance on her during her illness, but is believed to have been a severe attack of rheumatism. About a week ago she walked up from Morgan, a location about four miles distant from here, to her home at the Queen mine location. She got her feet wet on the way, and shortly after arriving home began to complain of being chilled. Later she was taken with excruciating pains in the lower limbs and suffered intense agony until her death Saturday morning. The funeral will occur to-morrow morning from the Catholic church.

A combined ladies' fair and grand ball was given at McDonald's hall Saturday night by the Finnish element here. The hall was crowded, and although the price of admission was very small, over $80 was cleared. This neat sum will go towards purchasing instruments for a Finnish band, about to be organized. This will make four bands in the city, namely, the English Oak, the A. O. U. W., the Finnish and the Salvation Army band.

He Was Ingenious.
A lazy boy's shirking of tasks does not often result so well as in the case of W. C. Smith, of Round Pound, who has made application for a patent on a milking machine which promises to be a good thing. He got his ideas when a boy living on the "Meadow Flat Stock farm." His parents would send him to milk and he would want to play ball with the other boys, and as he couldn't play ball and milk both at the same time he would put straws in the cows' teats, and they would milk themselves. Afterward he made improvements on this plan which resulted in the milkier.—Pemaquid (Me.) Messenger.

A People's Temple.
The project of providing a place for accommodating 100,000 people is being considered in London, England. A proposal is on foot to build a "People's Temple," by covering a space wherein at least 100,000 could assemble for the discussion of topics of public interest. The building is to be made architecturally beautiful, with such arrangements that it can be subdivided when required, so that discussion on many subjects could be going on at the same time.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

An Old Custom Killed.
At last they are about to introduce gas into the boys' dormitories at the Rugby school. Up to now candles, stuck in a rude zinc candlestick, have been used. Each evening it was the duty of the "fag" for the week to blow out the candle and put the stick outside the door.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

SIGHTLESS BUT NOT HELPLESS.

The Active Business Life of a Chicago Man Who is Wholly Blind.

The wonder of West Harrison street is a blind man, William F. Buschick, who lives at 1115, where he conducts a retail cigar and confectionery store. A casual observer would not be apt to discover that the storekeeper is totally blind from the manner in which he moves around and about his goods. Mr. Buschick keeps his own accounts, waits on the customers, takes in money and hands out change as deftly as any fellowman in a downtown store. He seldom makes mistakes in handling coin, and if anybody were mean enough to try it would not be an easy matter to pass counterfeit coins on him.

His sense of feeling is keen, and perhaps more so as a result of the absence of sight. He handles out any brand of cigars asked for, and his sensitive finger tips light upon the right brand of chewing gum without any fumbling. His eyes, which are not concealed from view, are a beautiful dark blue, and a stranger looking into them would not guess that they were to utterly useless.

Mr. Buschick buys all his stock, going down town on the street cars and about the crowded streets of the business section of the south side without a guide. He never loses his bearings. When ready to return home he waits quietly beside a peanut stand and asks the vendor to tell him when a Harrison street car comes. This car passes his store, and he intuitively knows when it is opposite his home.

He jumps from the car while it is in motion. He walks about his store and turns sharp corners without mishap. He can walk straight to a door and grasp the knob without fumbling it, or trip down stairs as lively and as gracefully as a young woman, and never makes a miscalculation when reaching the last step. He is a candy maker and makes all the candy he sells.

As is usual in cases of blindness, the loss of this man's vision has quickened his sense of feeling and hearing. When his eyes went out of business their available assets appear to have been transferred to his ears and finger tips. His ability to locate objects by sound is wonderful. This was demonstrated one night when a burglar broke into his store. The robber left hastily with a leaden bullet in his anatomy, as spots on the floor proved the next morning. The blind man handles a revolver cleverly and shoots accurately for one so heavily handicapped, locating the object to be aimed at by sound.—Chicago Tribune.

Not Altogether Modern.

The opinion held by many people who have never had their attention especially turned to the work of Jean Jacques Rousseau is not that he was a benefactor of his kind, but in reality he was one of the first apostles of the modern methods of education, and it is only after all this lapse of years that his ideas have come to be widely adopted. It is he who once said that we came into the world ignorant, but with capacity; that education begins at birth; that we learn incredibly in the first years, and that as impressions supply our first knowledge those impressions should be of the best and should be presented in the right order; that the first cry of a child is a request, the second a command; that destructiveness in a child is not cruelty, but activity; that the sin of children is their weakness; that strength brings about virtue, and he who can do all things will never do wrong things.

This we see to be undoubtedly good reasoning in the light thrown on the subject of late years, and understanding now how greatly our children are affected by what they see to be we comprehend more fully what Thales meant when he said that men must live in the consciousness that all around them is filled with gods, and that this should keep them more chaste than if they were in the holiest of temples.—Harper's Bazar.

THE EFFECT OF TOBACCO.

"Very few smokers realize the extent of the harm done to the heart, nerves, and mind by tobacco," said a well known physician. "I recently treated a subject who, after overcoming its harmful effect. It is by using Paine's Celery Compound once or twice a day. This food for nerves, brain and blood is a price-a-day boon to smokers."

MERIT WINS.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. H. H. Stafford & Son, druggists.

IN AND ABOUT ISHPERING.

A Fire Nipped in Time—Newly Wedded Pair "Surprised"—Harrington Got Off Easily. Winter Recreations—The Credit System Should Go.

A Quickly Extinguished Fire.

Friday night at about ten o'clock passers-by discovered flames issuing from a pile of comforters lying in one of the show windows of Moeckler Bros. store, 102 South Main street. Messrs. William and Jerry Moeckler, who live over the store, were at once aroused, and, with the help of a few pails of water, and, what promised to be a bad blaze was extinguished. Had it not been discovered so opportunely, when the fire, which had been smouldering for some time, was just breaking into a blaze, the fire department would have had a bad job on its hands.

It is supposed that the fire started from a piece of charred wick that dropped through one of the big lamps in the window on the pile of goods as the lamp was extinguished for the night, but its origin can only be conjectured. The loss is estimated by Mr. William Moeckler at about $300.

Taken by Surprise.

Announcement of the marriage of Mr. Jas. Gaynor was made in this column but a few days ago. Mr. Gaynor's marriage occurred at Oshkosh early in the month, but his friends here only then learned of it.

Mr. Gaynor is a valuable member of the fire department, and when the boys of the Hook and Ladder company and of Hose Company No. 1 learned of the step that Mr. G. had taken they resolved to get even. Their plans were well laid, and on Friday evening, shortly after 7 o'clock, the members of both companies might have been seen wending their way, in Indian file, from a certain furniture store toward Mr. Gaynor's house. Each had his load, but the load was not of the kind that causes the cops to put the unlucky bearer in the city hall. They were loaded with furniture. The dismay of Mr. Gaynor at the arrival of the members of the fire department knew no bounds. He knew that he had violated the unwritten law of the company in not notifying his brethren in the rubber coats of his intention to commit matrimony, and his consternation was not allayed until the furniture began coming in on the heads of the bearers. Then a terrific smile spread over his features. It was found that a complete dining room set, parlor table and chairs, and many other things, were included in the handsome gift. Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

One of the reasons why the fire companies here are now more efficient than ever before is because the boys hang together and pull together. They work together, stand by each other in marriage and trouble. The unique revenge they look on Mr. and Mrs. Gaynor for having been so shy about getting married affords a sample of the way in which the fire laddies do business here.

The case of Michael Harrington was tried before Justice Funston Friday afternoon, and the defendant was acquitted. From the testimony taken at the trial it appeared that Harrington was a passenger on a South Shore train, and that when Conductor Loftus asked him for his ticket he replied in a manner that was meant to be jocular, but was construed by the conductor as insulting. From the evidence elicited on the trial, Mr. Loftus can hardly be blamed for taking it in that way. The conductor grasped Harrington, but the latter, who is small but strong, held up his end of the tussle so successfully that Sheriff Adams, who was on the train, was called on to assist in making him keep quiet. Harrington was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, but the juryman found that the testimony did not sustain the action brought. Mr. Harrington is to be felicitated on getting out of the scrape as well as he did. Hereafter, if he is wise, he will wear his ticket in the band of his hat, and padlock his mouth in the presence of the conductor.

More Cash and Less Wind.

The Iron Ore in its Saturday issue sounds a note of warning to the business men of this city that they would do well to ponder over. The MINING JOURNAL has often referred to the many evil effects of doing business on a credit system. Very few merchants are making money here, because of the loss incurred through giving credit to parties unworthy of it. Operating on a cash basis, the business men here could mean fewer failures, lower prices, more profit for the merchants, and a wedding out of dead beats. It must come sooner or later, and the sooner it comes the better for all concerned.

Will Enjoy the Winter.

The annual meeting of the Ishpeming Snow Shoe club was held a few days ago, when officers were elected to serve for the winter season. The club now has a membership of some seventy-five gentlemen, and the wives, sisters, mothers, daughters, and other lady relatives of the members, are admitted to all gatherings where ladies are invited, and "ladies' night" is the most popular evening of any. The club has a thousand-dollar club house in the northern part of the city, with an immense open fire place, and a hardwood floor for dancing. Its affairs are in good shape, financially and socially, for the winter. Last winter there were several meetings at which tableaux were presented, and dancing was frequently indulged in. During the present season an attempt will be made to present some of these special features at nearly every meeting to which the ladies are invited. Long tramps over the snow on moonlight nights, with beefsteak and oyster suppers, will continue to be the principal features of all ordinary tramps, but on the special occasions when the ladies turn out it is proposed to have amateur theatricals, minstrel shows, dances and anything else that will be both novel and entertaining. The season of 1890-91 will be made the most memorable in the annals of the club.

The "Shin Fane" Snow Shoe club, which has prospered and waxed great in numbers for the past two winters, may build a club house this winter. In case it is done a hardwood floor for dancing purposes will be put in, and the old-fashioned open fire place will not be forgotten. If built, the "Shin Fane" club house will probably be located somewhere in the neighborhood of the Ishpeming Snow Shoe club house.

The "Don Am" Snow Shoe club, which was organized but a few weeks ago, is getting its suits ready, and will turn out for a tramp, as soon as the snow is deep enough. This club has quite a large membership, and meets at the house of some member for each tramp.

Good Advice in a Nutschell.

There are four organs in the human body which are vital in their functions and delicate in their structure, and which give us an immense amount of trouble. These are the Heart, Stomach, Kidneys and Liver. If they give us trouble it is because we neglect or abuse them, and of course we must take the consequences. The diseases of these organs are very numerous and often dangerous. Luckily we now have a remedy which has proved just the thing for this class of diseases. It is Pe-ru-na, a purely vegetable compound, that strikes right at the root of the whole trouble. This preparation was used by Dr. Hartman most successfully in his general practice for years before it was placed before the general public; and it was its remarkable success in his private practice that led him to place it before the public for the benefit of mankind everywhere. As a Tonic it is unequalled, building up the system weakened by constant toil, either mental or physical. As a remedy for Lung Troubles, such as Consumption, it has accomplished wonders. Its action on the Kidneys is mild and effective. Its use will keep the blood pure. Regulate the Bowels, if necessary, with Man-a-lin. Price $1 per bottle; 6 for $5. For sale by H. H. THEY HAVE SEEN THE LIGHT

Marquette Masons Prepare Plans For Their New Quarters in the Opera Block.

THE QUEEN CITY NEARLY UP WITH DETROIT AND GRAND RAPIDS.

A Sketch of the Masonic Bodies Here With the Names of Their Present and Early Officers.

Masonry in Marquette.

The plans have been completed for the arrangement of the third floor in the new opera house block which will be taken, unfinished, on a long term lease by the Masonic bodies of Marquette and completed according to their wishes and needs. The floor space will be 81x82 feet or 6,591 square feet. The stairway from the second floor will be on the east side near the middle of the block and about it will be the ladies' dressing room, gentlemen's dressing room, kitchen, serving room, pantries, etc. In the southeast corner will be the room for the Scottish Rite bodies, 35x22 feet in size. Adjoining it on the west will be the Rose Croix room, 24x23 feet. Corresponding with these two rooms will be the two reception parlors, at the rear of the block, each 22x16 feet, connected by an arch, while between the Rose Croix room and the west parlor will be the banquet hall, 40x22 feet, the serving room, pantries and kitchen being connected with it.

Through the center of the block from front to back will be a hall 10 feet wide and 81 feet long. In this hall will be the lockers for the commandery. The west half of the block will be taken up by the lodge room, 64x37 feet, the ante-rooms, 37x10, preparation rooms, closets, etc. The new quarters are to be ready for occupancy May 1st and when furnished according to plan will provide the Masonic bodies in Marquette with every convenience for the work of the order as well as unsurpassed facilities for either social meetings or parties and receptions and it is a well-known fact that the Masons of Marquette are splendid hosts and that no social gatherings are more enjoyed than the Masonic parties.

Marquette is the third city in Michigan from a Masonic standpoint and hopes soon to be on a footing with the other two, Detroit and Grand Rapids. There is probably no other city in the country of the same size which has equal prominence from a Masonic standpoint or where Masonry has so strong a foothold. Such being the case a review of the history of the Masonic bodies now existing in Marquette will be of interest.

Though the lodge at Ontonagon is the oldest in the upper peninsula Marquette lodge No. 101, F. & A. M., was chartered January 15, 1858, and in a short time will round out its first third of a century. Its first officers were James J. St. Clair, W. M.; Peter White, S. W.; M. H. Maynard, J. W.; Alexander G. Ross, treasurer, Charles Goldsmith, secretary, George T. Barney, S. D.; Jeremiah P. Van Isterline, J. D.; and Ariel N. Barney, Tyler. The past masters of the lodge are James J. St. Clair, M. H. Maynard, Andrew G. Clark, S. M. Billings, Peter C. Parkinson, M. R. Manhard, Francis M. Moore, Gad Smith and Richard Lord. One of its members, M. H. Maynard, is past grand master of the grand lodge of Michigan. The lodge now has one hundred and twenty-five members, is rapidly increasing its membership among the best young men in the city and is in a prosperous condition. Its present officers are: Wm. B. McCombs, W. M.; James W. Young, S. W.; C. M. Gooding, J. W.; Gad Smith, treasurer; E. J. Steele, secretary; Will Mitchell, S. D.; Chas. E. Deane, J. D.; and Rev. S. J. Brown, Tyler.

Marquette chapter No. 43, Royal Arch Masons, was chartered January 26, 1866 and started upon its career with M. H. Manyard as the first H. P., James E. Dalliba, king, and George P. Cummings, scribe. In the great fire in June, 1868, the records of the chapter were burned and no business was transacted from that date until March 3, 1871, nearly three years, when the following officers were elected: M. H. Maynard, H. P.; J. E. Dalliba, K. G. P. Cummings, S. P.; Peter White, C. of H.; D. H. Merritt, P. S.; John Kern, R. A. C.; H. R. Mather, M. of 3d V.; H. H. Stafford, M. of 2d V.; Sidney E. Church, M. of 1st V.; Henry D. Smith, secretary. The past grand masters are M. H. Maynard, J. E. Dalliba, F. M. Moore, S. M. Billings, Chas. D. Blanchard and H. J. Hopkins. C. D. Blanchard is the present grand Royal Arch captain of the grand chapter of Michigan. The chapter now has thirty-seven members and is enjoying the same prosperity as the lodge. Its officers are: F. M. Moore, H. P.; W. A. Rudd, K. G. P.; S. S. Ormsbee, S. J.; W. Young, treasurer; W. B. McCombs, secretary; Chas. E. Brown, C. of H.; A. Kline Thiell, P. S.; W. C. Brown, R. A. C.; C. E. Deane, M. of 3d V.; Edward Mitchell, M. of 2d V.; C. H. Chaffer, M. of 1st V.; J. N. Williams, scribe.

Lake Superior commandery No. 30, Knights Templar, was organized under a dispensation granted December 23, 1872, its charter being dated June 4, 1873. Its first officers were: James E. Dalliba, E. C.; Henry R. Mather, Gen. O.; William H. Kaighin, C. G.; M. H. Maynard, prelate; E. B. Gay, treasurer; David S. Scoville, recorder; Francis M. Moore, S. W.; J. J. Drew, J. W.; Alfred Green, sword bearer; Alexander C. Thiell, warder; Peter Hume, sentinel. The past eminent commanders are James E. Dalliba, M. H. Maynard, Charles M. Wheeler, Varnum B. Cochran, Rev. William A. Masker and Francis M. Moore, the latter being now the grand warder of the grand commandery of Michigan. Lake Superior commandery is the mother commandery of the upper peninsula, Menominee commandery No. 35, of Menominee, and Montrose commandery No. 38, of Calumet, having been erected from it. Lake Superior commandery now has a roster of 122 members and its officers are: Le Roy W. Midlam, E. C.; Frank H. Gooding, Gen. O.; M. R. Manhard, C. G.; Rev. Wyllys Hall, D. D., prelate; W. Foote Hall, treasurer; A. Samuel Parks, recorder; W. B. McCombs, S. W.; C. E.

Deane, J. W., James Freeman, standard bearer; L. P. Cray, sword bearer; H. J. Hopkins, warder; William Oliver, Jr., sentinel. Marquette has two Scottish Rite bodies duly chartered, Marquette Lodge of Perfection, and Lake Superior Council, Princes of Jerusalem, besides the Peninsular chapter of Rose Croix which is working under a dispensation. The first two have about 150 members each and the last 100 members. These bodies confer the Scottish Rite grades up to and including the eighteenth and hope ere long to have a consistory with full power and authority to confer the grades up to and including the thirty-second. Francis M. Moore is T. P. G. M. of the Lodge of Perfection. Rev. Dr. Wyllys Hall is M. E. Sov. G. P. W. of the Council of Princes of Jerusalem and Hon. John Quincy Adams, of Negawnee, is the M. W. & P. M. of Peninsular chapter of Rose Croix.

Marquette has two Masons who have passed within the innermost veil and have attained the highest degree in Masonry, the much-coveted thirty-third. They are C. M. Wheeler and Francis M. Moore.

Sunday School Work.

A union meeting of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches was held at the Baptist church last evening and was addressed by Mr. William Reynolds, of Peoria, Ill., president of the International Sunday School association, on the subject of Sunday school work. Mr. Reynolds is an easy and agreeable talker, aiming to present his facts and his cause in a plain, straightforward manner, and his address interested all who heard it greatly. The field of the International Sunday School association, which is not denominational, embraces the United States and Canada and its aims are to aid in the establishment of Sunday schools, to increase the effectiveness of Sunday school work and build up the cause generally.

Mr. Reynolds opened his address by stating briefly the methods employed by the association in its work for the Sunday school, chief of these being the organization of associations in every state in the union and in all the Canadian provinces. In the two countries named there are now 150,000 Sunday schools with 1,350,000 teachers and 10,000,000 pupils, there having been an increase of 50 per cent in the last eleven years. He next considered the importance of the Sunday school to the state as giving the only religious teaching provided in these countries and to the church as constituting its foundation, 80 per cent of the additions to the church in the past year having been from the Sunday school. He next spoke of the reflex influence of the Sunday school, resulting in increased study of the Bible on the part of teachers and parents.

In mentioning things of importance to success in Sunday school teaching Mr. Reynolds drew upon his wide experience for many interesting illustrations of Sunday school work and spoke of the labors of such men as Moody and Stephen Paxton, who, though converted and educated after he was thirty years of age, yet lived to found 1,316 Sunday schools and enroll 73,000 pupils. The International association, of which Mr. Reynolds is the president, practically gives the lessons to all the world, its course being followed in nearly every secular newspaper which has a Sunday issue.
