MARQUETTE, MICH., AUGUST 3.

Entered as mailmatter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

WHEN an evening paper has to get out a morning "extra" in order to avoid getting "scooped" on news that with ordinary enterprise it could have given the public in its regular edition the night before it is entitled to feel good—real good—over its inconsequential spurt. Especially when the "extra" contains about enough fresh news matter to give the force employed on a real newspaper (such as the MINING JOURNAL, for instance) employment for 30 minutes! Keep on trying, kids. If you can stand the pace you'll get there about the time Gabriel is brushing the cobwebs out of his horn preparatory to sounding the toot that will give us all notice that the "jig is up!"

MAJOR BUTTERWORTH, who is over drumming up Europe for the World's Fair, takes particular pains to inform the Europeans that he isn't responsible for the McKinley bill, which tends to discourage exhibitors from sending their wares over here. It is true that Major Butterworth never took much stock in the bill, and he made a very lively speech on the floor of the house, pitching into its provisions, but he voted for it just the same. He will have to take his share of the responsibility.

The Herald calls the turn very neatly on the glib-tongued gentleman who has been tickling the British free-traders with his sly digs at the McKinley tariff bill. Is it any wonder that those shiftily publicists who are found first on one side and then on the other hold the "newspaper fellers," with their atrociously long memories and provokingly sharp pens, in such profound detestation?

The 'Senaba Mirror, Philjay McKenna's redmouth-organ, comes swaggingly to the defense of Governor Winans in the matter of his World's Fair commission appointments. Philjay thinks the commission is all right, albeit there is not a single representative of the upper peninsula upon it, and "predicts" that if the interests of this peninsula are not cared for properly it "will be the fault of the very ones whom the MINING JOURNAL is tooting its horn for." This is just what might be expected from the idiotic paper that opposed having an appropriation made by the state legislature last winter to provide for the establishment of a Normal school in this peninsula on the ground that we do not need such an institution, and that the great state of Michigan is too poor to provide it even if it were necessary. It is quite in line with the policy of hostility to the interests of its own section of the state that the Escanaba sheet has steadfastly pursued since it came under the editorial management which now controls it. The MINING JOURNAL did not speak for Marquette, or any other city or community of the upper peninsula, when it criticized the governor's selection of World's Fair commissioners. It resented his failure to appoint at least one of the commissioners from this peninsula as an insult to it as a whole, which it is, indisputably. The Mirror could not, as a matter of course, discuss the subject without a characteristic sneer at the "snobs" of Marquette. The gentlemen at whom its clumsy slurs are aimed are too far above the editor of the Mirror in reputation, citizenship, public spirit and ability to stand in need of defense against attacks coming from such a source. They were esteemed citizens of this city and state long before Philjay found shelter in the upper peninsula to become in his little way a hindrance to its progress, a defamer of those who are laboring for its advancement, a champion of those who treat it with contumely and an apologist for those who offer it insult.

On his way home Representative Blanchard—who was a member of the congressional party that made a tour of the Great Lakes under the pilotage of Representative Stephenson—stopped off at Washington long enough to be interviewed by a reporter relative to his trip and the impression that what he saw up here had made upon him, and this is what he said concerning the Great Lake commerce and what lake transportation is doing for the business of the territory that has the benefit of its influence on carrying rates: "We visited Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Mackinac Island, Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, Duluth, Superior and other points of interest. Our object was to acquire a personal knowledge of the localities on the lakes where the government is expending large sums in river and harbor improvement. The waterway known as the Great Lakes is the grandest inland waterway on the globe. Last year it floated commerce aggregating in value $300,000,000, and as a result of the improvements authorized by congress, freight is now being transported on the lakes at the rate of 1.3 mills per ton per mile charged by the railways. There was carried through the great lock and dam at the 'Soo' operated by the government, in 1890, lumber, ore, copper, coal, wheat, corn and other products and commodities coming from and going to the Lake Superior region aggregating in value $120,000,000. The cost of the transportation of this immense commerce by water was between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 only, while to have transported it by rail would have cost exceeding $55,000,000. Representative Blanchard is said to be booked for the chairmanship of the rivers and harbors committee of the next house. It is safe to say that if he should get there we shall have a pretty good friend in a place where he will be able to do us a service. It begins to look as if the late tour of the visiting congressman will prove not to have been made in vain.

ISN'T IT A MISTAKE?

This peninsula sends every year a large number of students to outside colleges and universities, to there receive the intellectual training and acquire the knowledge that will fit them for useful work in after life.

In going away from home to secure an education these young men turn their backs on an educational institution that is admirably equipped for the purpose of giving our youth scientific training for an honorable and useful vocation—one, too, in which there is need of men who have been specially educated for it, instead of being, as all the so-called learned professions are, over-crowded to such an extent that advancement in any of them is reached by even the most talented only by slow steps and the most laborious application. That institution is the Michigan Mining School at Houghton, where any young man of ordinary ability may fit himself for a practical career in much less time and at considerably less expense than will be required to prepare him for the practice of law or medicine in the colleges, which aim to train young men for these professions.

Are not the young men to whom we allude making a mistake in going away to acquire an education that will prepare them for honorable and useful careers in life when the opening for such a career awaits many of their number right at home, and the educational establishment in which they may obtain the best of preparation for it is here also? The MINING JOURNAL certainly believes that they, or at least a large proportion of them, are making just that mistake. It so believes because it knows that a false pride leads very many young men who are possessed of the ability to succeed in the more practical walks of life to choose the professions named because these are thought to be a grade higher in gentility, despite the fact that they have no natural aptitude for them and can never hope to achieve in them either fame or fortune.

It is vastly better for a man to be a skillful artisan than a poor lawyer or a bungling doctor. Ever so much better is it, then, for a man to be a skillful mining or civil engineer, with plenty to do and a consciousness of the power to do it well, than an unskillful and unsuccessful dabbler in law, or medicine, or literature.

The essential thing in choosing a career is to select that for which one is adapted and in which the talents of the person who makes the choice will enable him to achieve a fair degree of success with proper application. Too many of our young men make a fatal misstep at the outset by deciding on a profession in which an honorable place is beyond their reach, and then have to pay the penalty for the blunder during after life in disheartening failure and confessed incapacity for the work they have undertaken. Many of the young men of the upper peninsula who are going away from home to obtain an education are leaving behind them a place of training where they might be prepared for good work in a vocation of recognized usefulness and honor to spend valuable years of their lives in fitting themselves for professions that do not need recruits, and in which they could not succeed even if these were not already filled to overflowing.

The best talent that we can command in this part of the state can find no more honorable or profitable occupation than in assisting in the development and management of the great industries which have made the mineral region of Lake Superior famous throughout the world. The Michigan Mining school was intended by the state to prepare our young men for just that work. They should take much larger advantage than they are taking of the magnificent opportunities which it has opened to them, and not abdicate their natural heritage in favor of aliens, in the mistaken belief that what is so easily within their reach holds for them too small promise of honor and preferment.

OLD NURSERY FAVORITES.

There was Tom, the Son of the Piper, Jack Sprat, and Merry King Cole, And the Three Wise Men of Gotham, Who went to sea in a bowl;

The woman who rode on a broomstick, And swept the cobwebbed sky, And the boy who sat in the corner, Eating his Christmas pie.

These were some of the old favorites, but they have been supplanted by the "Pansy" and "Chatterbox" stories, "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Five Little Peppers." The Old fashioned pills and physics have been superseded, and wisely, too, by Pierce's Furgative Pills, a mild, harmless and effective cathartic. They are pleasant to take—so gentle in their action that the most delicate child can take them, yet so effective that they will cure the most obstinate cases of constipation, stomach, liver and bowel troubles. They should be in every nursery. As a gentle laxative, only one for a dose.

A SHARP TRICK.

Yet It Shook the Faith That Two Young Boys Had in Their Older Sister.

Anna Mowry was left in charge of her two younger brothers one summer while her parents went to California. She was with them in a farmhouse on the Massachusetts coast, and frequently lectured them on questions of morals and manners. One evening she talked to them on the subject of honesty. "I have often read in the papers," she said, "of young men who are first led into extravagance and then rob or defraud their employers. If a brother of mine was to be guilty of such dishonesty I would never forgive him—never! I would not acknowledge him as my brother!"

The boys had never been tempted to steal, and the suggestion that temptation and fall were possible, together with their sister's threat, startled and impressed them. The next day, while the question of honesty was still fresh in their minds, Anna came in, eager and excited.

"I hear," she said, "that a woman in the neighborhood has some fine old Salsuma ware. Her husband was a sea captain and brought it to her fifty years ago. Come with me. I am going to try to buy a piece of it."

The house, when they reached it, was a meager, forlorn little cottage. The woman was old; her lean, pale face lightened when she saw Anna. She was poorly clad. Here was a chance of earning money!

"Lookin' for rooms, ma'am?" she said. "I have some good ones to let."

"No," said Anna, carelessly. "We just stopped for—a glass of water."

"Why, sister!" exclaimed Bob, astonished at the deception.

She shook her head angrily at him to be silent, and when the woman left the room she whispered, "If she knew what I came for she would charge twice as high for the ware." Then she followed her hostess, who was opening a cupboard.

"You have some nice glasses there," she said. "Yes; cost a dollar a dozen."

"Very neat pattern indeed." Anna turned the cheap, ugly shaped goblet in her hand, while her keen eye scanned the recess of the cupboard.

"Queer looking old china cup, that," she said. "May I see it? Thank you. What is it?"

"Some foreign kind of crockery. My husband brought it to me. I've been told it was worth considerable money."

"Ah! I shouldn't like to give much for it. It's a dingy looking bit of china. I think I would give seventy-five cents for it—just for the oddity."

"I couldn't let it go for less than a dollar," said the woman anxiously. "My husband gave it to me, but I do need money."

Anna laid the cup down, declaring that it was "dingy," but after some higgling she bought it for a dollar. She hurried away with it, her cheeks flushed and her eye shining.

"Cousin Bell gave twenty-five dollars for not half so good a specimen!" she cried exultantly, when they were on the road.

"Is this worth so much?" asked Bob gravely. "It is worth more, but she did not know it."

"That was a pretty sharp trick of yours, Anna," said Tom thoughtfully, after a pause.

Anna laughed complacently. "Yes, I think so," she said. "When the lads were alone that night Bob said: 'Anna said she would not acknowledge us as brothers if we stole money. Didn't she the same as steal that cup from the old woman if it was worth twenty-five dollars? If the old woman had known it she would not have let it go for a dollar. Anna took advantage of her ignorance. She really stole it.'"

"It looks like that," replied Tom. "Well, then, I guess Anna wouldn't mind sharp tricks in business if we were men, Tom, would she?"

"No," said Tom. "The seed was planted which would reach a deadly growth hereafter, and Anna's talk about dishonesty was always thought of with derision.—Youth's Companion.

The Usurer's Only Hope.

"In St. Louis," said the drummer, "is a firm to whom I sell goods once in a great while. The senior partner is a regular shark. Not long ago he loaned some money to a church society for the purchase of a new organ. When payment of the loan was made he charged the society 9 per cent. This was refused, and the principal was not paid. Finally one of the deacons of the church was sent to talk with the usurer.

"You have acted very badly," said the pillar of the church. "How's that?"

"Six per cent. was enough interest." "Nine is fair."

"When the Lord looks down on that he will put a long black mark against your name."

"This staggered the old fellow for a moment, but suddenly recovering, he replied, 'When the Lord looks down on that he will think it's a 6.'"—Chicago Herald.

Trades in France.

In trades properly so called the apprenticeship is regulated by contract, and in most cases French nationality is indispensable. The limit of hours of work for women is fixed by law at eleven daily after eighteen and at ten for children under thirteen. There are seven teaching institutions in Paris alone for the teaching of different trades. Those that are dangerous to health are forbidden to young children. The term of apprenticeship naturally varies according to the nature of the employment. Some trades are very intermittent in their times of work.—New York Sun.

PEWABIC AGAIN IN COURTS.

Supreme Court of United States Will Have a Whack at Famous Mine Case.

THE CLAIM OF VANT COULDN'T SKELL GAS NOR SEE IT.

Superintendent Guy Resigns-Base Ball This Week-They Paid the Fine. Other City News Notes.

PEWABIC FIGHT STILL ON.

The bonds filed with the clerk of the United States court here, F. M. Moore, by Johnson Vivian and others interested in the old Pewabic mine, mean a continuation of the litigation over that famous property, not a confirmation of the sale to the Quincy as the Sunday Times has it. The bonds filed are for $150,000 to indemnify the Quincy people for the delay should the sale finally be confirmed. The superseas virtually sets aside the sale of the property until after the case has been taken before the United States supreme court and it may place the property again in the hands of the special master, Hon. Peter White.

Open Window Saved Them.

Two ladies had a narrow escape from asphyxiation by gas at the Summit House Saturday night. At about midnight the night clerk detected the odor of escaping gas and went through the house. He finally concluded that the trouble was in the room occupied by Madam Smith, the clairvoyant, and hammered on the door. He was answered and was informed that there was no gas escaping in the room. He was not satisfied but beat a retreat and went down for his lunch. Half an hour later the odor of gas became so distinct that he resumed the search, again tracing it to Madam Smith's room. This time he could get no answer to his knocking and after calling Mr. Taylor the door was forced in. The noise aroused the two women in the room but they were delirious from the effects of the gas, which was escaping from a burner turned on full; only the open window saved them from death. A physician was called but although quite sick for a time the occupants of the room were in no danger.

Superintendent Guy, of the street railway, resigned Saturday and was succeeded by J. Donn temporarily who will remain in charge until the board of directors makes a permanent appointment. Mr. Guy retires with a splendid record behind him. The road was built under his personal supervision economically and thoroughly. Mr. McLimont the T. H. expert, declared that he had opened seven other roads and that this had a finer track than any of them and was the only one where the cars were not off the rails almost half the time for the first week. The Marquette line was splendidly built and the cars were started and have been operated without a single accident. Only one car has been off the track through any fault of the rails and that was at a switch which has since given no trouble, and a stone in a curve sent the only other car off which has left the rails. The record is one for any street railway builder to be proud of and the skill, fidelity and push shown by Mr. Guy in the construction and opening of Marquette's electric railway proclaim him a thoroughly first-class man in his profession. He expects to start for Detroit soon, but the Ishpeming-Negaunee company will make a mistake if it permits him to carry out his intention.

Base Ball This Week.

The iron country base ball teams went up to the copper country with an important part of their unmentionables very carefully lubricated, to judge from the results, Ishpeming having lost four and Marquette five of the six games played there. This week the iron country clubs will play with each other and Houghton will give Calumet a chance to do to the tail of the league, if she can, what she did so successfully and successively to the late leaders of the league. The Marquette and Ishpeming teams will play in this city Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, playing Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Ishpeming. Both clubs have been playing good ball in spite of their defeats and will undoubtedly put up good games here.

Damazed Ordinance Plastered.

Alderman James Pendill and Deputy Sheriff Joseph E. Reau, arrested on complaint of President Hennessey, of the common council, appeared before Recorder Meads Saturday morning. They pleaded guilty of wantonly and maliciously toying with the affections of an ordinance of the city of Marquette, made and provided for the preservation of public thoroughfares. Fined $15 and costs each.

Will Be Built Here.

Louis Genett, the inventor of the Genett air brake, left for Duluth yesterday to equip the electric cars there with the new brake. Mr. Neuberger, of the company controlling the Genett patents, states that the apparatus for the Duluth cars, about thirty of which are to be equipped, will be built in Marquette. The brake is working to perfection in Chicago, giving perfect satisfaction. The company expects to start works in Chicago soon for the manufacture of the brake.

A Letter of Acknowledgment.

The MINING JOURNAL has received the following graceful letter from Hon. T. C. Sherwood, the state commissioner of banking, and, although it is slightly personal so far as this paper is concerned, it is well deserving of preservation:

STATE OF MICHIGAN, BANKING DEPARTMENT, Lansing, July 31st, 1891.

My DEAR SIR:—After arriving home and thinking over the events of our trip Marquette, the bankers' convention and banquet, and the hospitable manner in which we were entertained in your beautiful city, I feel well paid for the time and trouble incident to so lengthy a journey.

Prominent among the kindly attention paid us by Hon. Peter White, Mr. C. H. Call and Mr. J. W. Wilkinson, and Mr. James Sturgis, I was especially impressed with the efficient and enterprising qualities of the Marquette MINING JOURNAL, which published the entire proceedings of the convention, something that has not been done by newspapers in other cities, where the convention has been held. The proceedings of such a convention could not but be of interest to every citizen of Marquette, and especially to the bankers of Michigan.

What is Worsted?

A woolen yarn is soft and fluffy, while a worsted yarn is hard and firm, possessing a much greater tensile strength. In the woolen yarn the fibers are tangled and crossed, and drawing is avoided as much as possible in preparing the raw material for spinning, so as to leave the natural curvature of the fibers undisturbed and afford the greatest freedom of action to the felting and quality of the wool. In worsted yarns the object is to obliterate the felting quality and to secure elongation and parallel arrangement of the fibers.

In the early days of the manufacture the best results were only attainable in worsted yarns from long fibered fleeces. The English wools are commonly called combed wools for this reason, and it was the possession of this fleece of an unrivaled quality which made England the birthplace of the worsted manufacture, and has kept it at the front in this process.

One of the results of improved machinery has been to remove any distinction between woolsens and worsteds based upon the difference between the wools employed in the two processes. Short wool of merino blood can now be combed as successfully as the longer staple. The processes of treatment, however, continue to differ radically. This difference is primarily created by the introduction of the combing machine, an instrument unknown to the wool manufacturer proper.—S. N. D. North in Popular Science Monthly.

harmless to the most delicate skin. Especially during the hot weather it is to your advantage to use PEARLINE, and only humane to supply your servants with it, and thus lighten their labors; besides you insure much better results. Beware of imitations. JAMES PYLE, New York.

What is Worsted?

One of the standard tests at most of our important and many of the informal dinners here has been, "The Ladies—God bless them!" and the response is usually made by Mr. John R. Van Wormer, who is a witty, rapid, energetic speaker, and whose comments as a confirmed bachelor upon the charms of the other sex are always a delight to hear. Mr. Van Wormer is probably known to as many politicians and prominent men as any person of his years in New York. He was for a long time in intimate relations with Senator Conkling, serving as the clerk of his committee and as his private secretary. He was also chief clerk of the postoffice department when General James was postmaster general, and is now the manager of the largest safe deposit company in the city.

A Bachelor Converted.

But Mr. Van Wormer will no longer be called upon as a confirmed bachelor to expatiate upon fair women at public dinners. He has capitulated; he has found the fairest of women; he has lowered his independent flag and salutes one of the most charming of her sex, and he is receiving congratulations by the score. He is soon to marry Mrs. D. Demorest Lloyd, whose husband was a very successful playwright and journalist, and whose sudden death was a great bereavement to a large circle of friends.—E. J. Edwards in Philadelphia Press.

Hotter the Weather Bigger the Proof.

As the weather grows warm, the sale of James Pyle's Pearline Washing Compound rapidly increases. This proves that many women recognize the fact that PEARLINE makes washing and cleaning very much easier than when done with the ordinary means. Proves also that summer clothing, being of delicate texture and color, will not stand the rough usage necessary when washed with soap, and establishes the fact that PEARLINE, in doing away with the rubbing, lessens the wear and tear and fills a very important place. Delightful for bathing in fresh or salt water. Its ingredients render it harmless to the most delicate skin. Especially during the hot weather it is to your advantage to use PEARLINE, and only humane to supply your servants with it, and thus lighten their labors; besides you insure much better results. Beware of imitations. JAMES PYLE, New York.

FUNERALS IN AUGUST. Half of Them are of Little Children. They Die For WANT OF PROPER FOOD—THEIR PARENTS NEGLIGENT. What to do to Make the Babies Healthy, Happy and Hearty.

"The infants have got to suffer a month or two yet," said the Registrar of Vital Statistics to a MINING JOURNAL reporter yesterday.

"Our returns show that in August last year the largest part of the deaths were of infants who died of cholera infantum. August is a fatal month for children."

Half the funerals in August every year are those of children under five years, and year in and year out a third of all the people who die are children less than five years old.

They die for want of nourishing food, and the cause of consolation their mothers have is, "that next to a child on earth it is best to have a child in heaven."

An instance of this wanting away from lack of the proper food is afforded by the baby of Mrs. Margaret Boyce, 149 Armorey St., Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Boyce says: "When I commenced using lactated food, I did not think my baby boy could live."

Mothers can obtain this pure food at any drug store, with plain directions for its use.

THE MANUFACTURERS, WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., are located at Burlington, Vt., and the food is sent from there almost everywhere to gladden the hearts of those who are blessed with children. They will mail a beautiful birthday card and book of "Prize Babies" to any mother writing for it.

Babies who are well now, ought to live on lactated food the rest of the summer and keep strong and healthy. Mothers whose babies are sick and ailing, need no advice to use this food, now that they know the marvelous change following its use in Mrs. Boyce's family.

A WONDER WORKER. Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable.

He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much benefited; he continued to use it and is today enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at W. H. Stafford & Son, drug store.

PREACHING NIGHT BY NIGHT. Dr. C. D. WARNER—Dear Sir: Last winter I was very much troubled with my throat, especially when preaching night after night. I received the bottle of White Wine of Tar Syrup you so kindly sent me, and am glad to say I was much benefited by its use, and regard it a most excellent medicine for the throat and lungs. Rev. W. F. WAGONER, Pink Hill, Mo.

MARQUETTE BRIDE MOURNS.

Tragic Ending of Minnie Eastman. Conway's Honeymoon in a Chicago Hotel.

HARD DRINKING CUTS OFF A TALENTED YOUNG MAN AT 26.

The Story of the Suicide Saturday Morning as Told in the Chicago Papers—A Sad Case.

A FATAL ENDING.

Two weeks ago a MINING JOURNAL reporter met at the Hotel Marquette late at night a young man whose card bore the name "James F. Conway." He was somewhat under the influence of liquor and informed the reporter that he had come to Marquette to be married, that his bride was living at Trout Creek but would be down to be married on the following Wednesday, July 22. He showed her photograph and gave her name. The picture and name were those of Miss Minnie Eastman who was for over a year employed at Preston's cafe and is well remembered by its patrons. She came down and it is supposed that the marriage took place as agreed upon for after a visit of a day with the mother of the bride's nearest friend, Kitty Powers, of Champion, the bride returned home to rejoin her husband later in Chicago.

Conway, who was private secretary to Manager Walker, of the Illinois Steel company, lived in South Chicago. He registered at the Sherman House at the end of that week and when he registered said that his wife would join him in a short time and that they intended making a trip to Philadelphia. The following from the Chicago Times tells the story:

When May Conway awoke at the Sherman house yesterday morning she was horrified to find her husband, J. C. Conway, dead by her side. An empty bottle which had contained morphine was on the chair by the bedside and plainly told the story. The suicide is accompanied by several sensational features, and the cause for Conway's rash act is shrouded in mystery. Conway was private secretary to Manager Walker of the Illinois Steel company, and lived at South Chicago. Two weeks ago last Thursday he went to the Sherman House and was assigned to room 307. When he registered he told Mr. Pierce that he expected his wife in a short time, and that when she arrived they intended to take a trip to Philadelphia and other eastern cities. Conway was well dressed and seemed to have plenty of money. He spent most of his time about the hotel barroom. Last Tuesday a pretty young woman went to the hotel and inquired for Conway, saying that she was his wife. Mrs. Conway came from Marquette, Mich., and tells the following story:

"We were married in Marquette on the 22d of July. He wanted me to come to Chicago with him then, but I was not ready to come. When he left he said he would send for me when he had his vacation and we would take a trip east and call it our wedding tour. Saturday I received a telegram from him telling me to meet him at the Sherman House as soon as possible. When I arrived here he was waiting for me and told me that we would go east in a few days. He acted strangely and seemed to have been drinking hard. Every day he would say something about dying, and that he was tired of living. I thought he might have been discharged, but found that he had been losing money gambling. Yesterday about 2 o'clock in the afternoon he came to the room so much under the influence of liquor that he could not stand up. He sat down and wrote several letters. One of them was to his mother. He wrote her that he was going to die and told her several things he wished her to do after his death.

"I asked him if he intended to kill himself and he told me it was none of my business. He then went to bed and slept to 6 o'clock. When he got up we went out and entered a saloon on Randolph street, where we had several drinks. It was about 11 o'clock when we came back to the hotel. Before he went to bed he took a bottle of morphine and poured some of it in a glass and drank it. I thought nothing of it, as I knew he was in the habit of taking morphine to make him sleep when he had been drinking. When he went to bed he said: 'Well, May, I guess 'll break away.' About 2 o'clock in the morning I awoke and found him taking more morphine. I begged him not to and grabbed the glass, spilling some of it on the floor. He pushed me roughly away and drank it. When I awoke about 9 o'clock this morning I tried to awaken him and found that he was dead. I never thought he meant to kill himself. Had I thought so I would have told some one."

Conway's father is employed in the South Chicago rolling-mills. He hadn't seen his son since one week ago Friday. His mother, however, said that he was home Thursday and told her his wife was at the Sherman House and they were going east. "I didn't know he was married," she said, "and didn't believe him when he told me, as he was under the influence of liquor. I never saw his wife before nor never heard of her."

The woman who claims to be the dead man's wife is 20 years old, possessed of a pretty face and figure. When asked about her marriage she truthfully said she had no proof that she was Conway's wife. "We were married in Marquette," she said, "I do not remember the name of the minister, nor have I a marriage certificate. When I asked him for it he told me that he would attend to that and I trusted him."

His father said that Conway was 26 years old and had been with the steel company some time. He was not discharged, but was on his vacation. In fact, he didn't seem to know much about his son, as he had not lived at home for years, but had made his home at a club organized by the rolling-mill employees.

Conway was drinking heavily while here and was undoubtedly on the verge of the Jim-Jams at that time. He spoke to the reporter of having been here before but a number of years ago. He is supposed to have met Miss Eastman while she was living in South Chicago.

Pharmacists' Examination.

A meeting of the Michigan Board of Pharmacy, for the purpose of examining candidates for registration, will be held at the Douglas House, Houghton, Sept. 1st and 2nd.

The examination of candidates for both registered pharmacists and assistant pharmacists will commence Tuesday, Sept. 1st, at 9 A. M., at which hour all candidates must be present.

This meeting is ordered by the board for the convenience of persons residing in the upper peninsula, to whom attendance at the regular meetings held at Detroit, Grand Rapids or Lansing is both inconvenient and expensive, and the board trusts that advantage will be taken of the meeting by all who may be desirous of passing the examination within a year, and to whom Houghton is more accessible than the usual places of meeting.

Persons who intend to be present are requested to notify the secretary, James Vernor, of Detroit, immediately that proper arrangements can be made in advance.

Special railroad rates for this meeting could not be secured, owing to the action of the last legislature, which caused the Railway Association of Michigan to change its rules relative to reduced rates for assemblies.

The next examination will be held at Lansing, November 4th.

Will Raise the Pontiac.

Capt. James Reid, of St. Ignace, whose feat of raising the steamer P. D. Armour from deep water at South-east Bend, St. Clair River, won him fame while it depleted his purse, has taken the contract to raise the great steel steamer Pontiac from the bottom in Little Mud Lake, Sault passage. He is to receive 35 per cent. of the value of the steamer and her cargo for a successful accomplishment of the undertaking. As the Athabasca carried away the entire bow of the Pontiac for a distance of thirty feet, it will be necessary, in order to float her, to cover the break with a water-tight bulkhead or caisson of wood, sufficiently strong to resist the pressure of the water. It may take Capt. Reid until late in the fall to float the steamer, but if he goes about the work systematically and makes use of modern appliances there will be money in the job for him. The raising of the Pontiac and her cargo of ore, taken on at the Marquette docks, would be one of the greatest feats in the history of wrecking on the great lakes.

An Interesting Lecture.

A. Bechari, the Quebec journalist who lectured to the French Canadians of Marquette in K. O. T. M. hall last evening on Canada and its relations to the United States, had a good audience and was listened to with interest. Mr. Bechari holds that annexation to the United States is inevitable. "We are a nation of over five millions of people and we cannot starve through fanaticism or loyalty"—and the intense sarcasm with which the last word was clothed could only have been given it by a Frenchman—the McKinley bill has killed Canada. With a market of sixty-four millions of people at our doors are we through loyalty to the Queen of England to turn our backs upon it? Two courses will very soon force themselves upon Canada, independence or annexation. The change must come. The call of Laurier to power would mean unrestricted reciprocity with the United States, but that would only delay the end for a few years—annexation is inevitable." Mr. Bechari's lecture if repeated in English would undoubtedly attract general attention and interest as it is on a subject upon which all are thinking.

Coming Up the Lakes.

Lake trips by congressmen are quite the rage this year. Congressman Gantz, of Detroit and Congressman G. W. Cooper left Cleveland Friday as guests of vessel owners for a tour of the lakes, and Tuesday five Ohio congressmen will follow them. It is the purpose of the Cleveland vessel men that the lakes will receive full attention during the coming session of congress.

New Gas Main.

Supt. Miller, of the Marquette Gas company is extending the mains on Front, Pine and Spruce streets and on Hewitt avenue now, laying about 1,800 feet of pipe on the four streets named. The gas company is evidently determined to keep pace with the city as the improvements of the past year attest.
