PERRIEN KIDNAPERS JAILED.

Detroit Police Rake in Five Bold Crooks Who Abducted Banker Joseph Perrien.

HAND- ME- DOWN PLANS FOR WORLD'S FAIR BUILDING.

Michigan's Granger Commissioners Likely to Exploit Their Thinkers. Old Man's Double Crime.

NOTORIOUS CONSIDINE GANG.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—On the evening of March 19 Joseph Perrien, a millionaire Detroit business man, was inveigled into a hack from his home on pretense of business and kept for forty-eight hours in some secluded part of the city. A ransom of $10,000 was demanded by his abductors. Payment being refused, at the expiration of two days he was blindfolded, taken in a hack and left at some distance from his home. The police made vigorous efforts to discover his abductors, but they did not succeed until late last night and the city was startled today by the report that the gang of kidnapers had been arrested. Five men compose the gang. They are John and Billy Considine, Francis Griffiths, James McDoel and Tom Kennedy. They are leaders of a gang of crooks that has infested this city for years.

MICHIGAN GRANGERS' BARN.

Hayseed Commissioners Gets Some Hand-Me-Down Plans.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The Michigan commission was notified last evening that the style of building they proposed to erect would be considered in assigning a site for the state. At 9 o'clock this morning architects were engaged and plans completed and filed at 2 o'clock for a three-story building, 185 by 118 feet with room for employees on the third floor. The first floor is planned for the use of visitors and the second for exhibits. President Weston explained the plans to several members of the board of control at the Grand Pacific hotel tonight. No state building plans have yet been approved and Delaware's have been rejected. The committee feels disposed to give Michigan a first-class place and action on the application for site and plans is expected tomorrow afternoon. Commissioners Belden and Flynn and Secretary Stevens returned to Michigan tonight. President Weston will remain until tomorrow night.

KILLED HIS GRAND-DAUGHTER

Foolish Old Man Commits Atrocious Murder and Suicide.

GAYLORD, Mich., Aug. 13.—A. W. Wilcox, aged 70, who resided two miles east of Waters, this afternoon split open the head of Mrs. West, his granddaughter, with an axe and then shot himself in the head and near the heart. He is dead and she will die. Mrs. West had been keeping house for him and it is supposed that he was enraged because she was about to go and live with her husband, from whom she had been separated for a while. The only witness of the crime was Mrs. West's 14-year-old sister, who ran screaming to inform the neighbors. She says the old man tried first to kill Mrs. West with the revolver with which the latter took his own life and failing used the axe. He took a big dose of paris green before shooting himself.

SHEPARD'S FAST PACE.

Grand Rapids Young Man's Life of Debauchery Causes Insanity.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 13.—Harry Shepard has been adjudged insane and ordered admitted to the asylum. He is 22 years old and his insanity was caused by wild living. He is a son of the late Charles N. Shepard and upon attaining his majority went on a mad career of dissipation. He was finally sent to an inebriate asylum, but escaping went to Chicago, where he continued his debauch. He was quietly brought home last week and will recuperate at the asylum. His mother, brother and sister are traveling in Europe.

DETROIT FACTORY GONE.

Hartman Manufacturing Is Company Burned Out and 350 Men Idle.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—The factory of the Henry C. Hartman Manufacturing company was destroyed by fire this evening. The fire started in the fifth story and aided by the falling of the top floors worked its way to the basement, gutting the building and destroying the stock and plant. The loss is estimated at $120,000, insurance, $75,000. Three hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment by the fire.

Fishing Party Missing.

WEST BAY CITY, Aug. 13.—Early Sunday morning William Campbell, J. Pero and a young man from Saginaw left this city in a small sailboat on a fishing excursion. They were expected home on Tuesday but nothing has yet been heard from them. Their friends are becoming anxious for their safety.

PARDRIDGE GIVES UP.

Chicago Wheat Plunker Settles His Losses and Quits.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—E. Partridge's check for the balance against him, growing out of the buying in of his outstanding contracts in short wheat yesterday, went through the clearing house all right this morning and one disturbing element was removed from the market. He was on the board this morning, but was not trading. His friends were congratulating him. "I am beaten," said Mr. Partridge. "I acknowledge that I am beaten badly, and I'm ready to quit. It wasn't the natural strength of the market that overcame me. There was some hand behind it all more powerful than mine, and after I had gone to my limit I had to quit. There is 700,000,000 bushels of wheat in our country today and there is no reason why it should be 97 cents a bushel. It belongs about 75 cents, but it is sustained and driven up by somebody. I began to see the way it was going Tuesday and I closed out four or five million bushels. I still had 1,500,000 bushels and I thought the market might go to 90 cents yesterday. Instead of that it climbed so fast that I could do nothing. Some of the houses began to call me heavily—for 10 per cent. I margined up and up and sent my boy around to tell them to buy in for me, which they did, with one or two exceptions. The market was then at 95 cents. I could not go around myself, don't you see, they were on to me and I would not do. I sent my boy around and I settled with nearly every one direct. They called me for some of that I have a lot of money with some of the houses instead of owing them any."

ENGLAND'S STERN JUSTICE.

Two Leaders of Recent Manipur Revolt Hanged as Murderers.

Two More of the Rebel Chiefs Will Be Sent Into Life-Long Exile—Died Soldier's Death.

DEAD ENGLISHMEN AVENGED.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 13.—Another illustration of the swift punishment which England inflicts upon those who violate her rights or infringe upon her dignity in India was given today at Manipur, when two of the leaders of the massacre of British officials in March last met their death at the gates of the capital. The two men who were executed today were members of the reigning family of Manipur but neither their high positions nor the appeals for clemency that had been made for them could save them from the vengeance of the law. Both had appealed from the sentence of death that had been imposed by the military court of inquiry before which they were tried but the viceroy of India, the Marquis of Lansdowne had decided that the interests of Great Britain demanded that these men who had waged war against the Queen and abetted murder should die. They were soldiers yet not for them was the honor of a soldier's death. They were not permitted to stand erect before a squad of soldiery and to hear the fatal commands, "ready, aim, fire." They were taken from their prison to a scaffold and there hanged like ordinary murderers.

The principal victim of today's tragedy was the "senaputty" or commander-in-chief of the Manipur army. He was a younger brother of the rajah of Manipur. Some years ago he drove the rajah into exile and placed another brother on the throne who governed Manipur under the title of "jubraj" or regent. It was the senaputty who instigated the massacre of Chief-Commissioner Quinton, Holistical Agent Grimwood and the others who lost their lives at the fatal durbar held in Manipur. The other victim was the "tongal" or general, who violated the flag of truce under which the Englishmen were decoyed from the residence at Manipur, which they had so gallantly defended against overwhelming odds when attacked by the Manipuri, and who gave the order to the native executioner to strike the heads and feet from the British prisoners. An immense crowd of natives witnessed the executions.

The regent of Manipur and the prince Angon Sen, whose sentences of death were commuted by the viceroy to transportation for life and the forfeiture of their property will shortly be taken from the country. It has not yet been publicly announced to which of the British possessions they will be transported.

GAVE BREAD PILLS.

Hard Luck of Bogus Doctor Who Killed No One.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—For some time past advertisements of the "Institute of European Staff Physicians," have appeared in the German papers. All bills of both sexes were guaranteed to be quickly cured and lack of money in the patient was no barrier to treatment. Sick and ailing Germans flocked to the institute by the hundreds. One "doctor" Beckman, who styled himself the president of the association, was the only visible "staff" and in each and every case he administered a colored fluid and sweet pills. Complaints of extortion were made. Beckman was arrested, and confessed that he was no physician. He said he had been a doctor's servant in the German army. His medicines were analyzed and found to be bread pills and a solution of salt. Beckman said he thought his treatment would kill no more than that of the regular physicians. The county medical society caused Beckman's arraignment in the police court today and he was held in $1,000 bail.

AFTER SEAL STEALERS.

Fifty Poachers Warned and Captures Will Follow Soon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—Advices from Oonalaska, under date of August 7, state that during a cruise in the vicinity of the seal islands the United States and English vessels had warned fifteen sealers. Many of these had to be fired on to make them halt but only one schooner succeeded in running away. As about fifty schooners have received warning the next cruise of the warships will result more seriously to poachers if caught in Bering sea. The British war vessel Porpoise has arrived here from the China station and each nation now has three warships here in addition to the United States cutters. So far the cutters have taken all the prizes.

IT MUST BE UNANIMOUS

Washington Politician Says That Mr. Harrison Is Not Nursing Boom For Himself.

SOME STATEMENTS THAT SEEM EXTREMELY GAUZY.

President Harrison Said to Demand a Unanimous Endorsement by National Convention.

HAS HARRISON GIVEN UP?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—"President Harrison is not, nor has he been at any time a personal candidate for renomination."

This declaration was made today by a republican of national prominence, one who occupies close official relations with the present administration, and who has been credited by the press of the country with having had considerable of a hand in the raising of a big campaign fund in 1888. His declaration, therefore, may be regarded as coming from the "inside."

"When I say that the president is not a personal candidate," the speaker continued, "I mean emphatically that he is doing nothing himself to promote his own prospects as against those of any other prospective candidate, nor will any of his friends with his knowledge open up a Harrison campaign."

"There is going to be no Harrison party, no Harrison clique, no moving of heaven and earth on the part of the president to retain the reins of power. These can be no partial endorsement of his administration by the next national convention. It must be unanimous or not at all."

THE WAR IN CHILL

Official Report of Admiral Brown Gives Some Facts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The navy department has received a report from Rear Admiral Brown, of the Pacific station. The report is dated Coquimbo, Chili, July 3. He says: "About two weeks before my visit to Pisagua the government torpedo vessels Condell and Lynch and the armed transport Imperial had, without any previous notice, bombarded the city. They fired fifty-five shells into the city but did no serious damage to property and no one on shore was even wounded. The same vessels appeared off Iquique and began firing at the city, but at such long range that no projectile reached the shore or could be seen to strike the water, although a great many shots were fired. The insurgent ships got under way and went out at full speed but the government ships, by their superior speed, did not allow the insurgents to get within range of them. The land forces of the insurgents are mainly concentrated at Iquique, where there are about 6,000 men well armed. Their aggregate force at all the ports held by them is about 8,000. The insurgent naval vessels Esmeralda, Cochran, Huascar, Magellanes, O'Higgins and Abtao and several armed transports are generally at Iquique."

THEIR QUARRELS ENDED.

Young Couple Settle Domestic Difficulties by Dying Together.

DENVER, Aug. 13.—Unhappy, harassed and sick of life Eugene H. Bonnick and his young wife today sought together in death relief from this world's fretting cares. The young couple lived at 911 Santa Fe avenue. About 10 o'clock this morning the door of their sleeping room was burst open. Mrs. Bonnick was dead and her husband was beyond human aid. He died before noon. It is the old familiar story of domestic trouble magnified by the interference of relatives and meddling neighbors. Eugene H. Bonnick was a member of the firm of Bonnick & Co., tinners, and was considered a steady, industrious young man of more than ordinary business qualifications. The only thing that seemed to stand between him and happiness was his domestic troubles. He attended closely to his business and was always punctual in his habits with but few exceptions and each time his delay was traced to some quarrel at home, after which a truce had been patched up. The only word left was a note which read: "Please bury us side by side. Don't separate us."

SOUTHERN TEXAS HARD UP.

Crops a Failure and Everybody Poor Along the Rio Grande.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 13.—There is a great scarcity of money in all the lower Rio Grande section of this state. There has been no rain to speak of for eighteen months, the ranchmen are all in debt and the farmers have been unable to raise enough for their actual needs. The scarcity of money and the impossibility of obtaining it in any quantity was emphasized yesterday at Roma on the Rio Grande where 278 fat and healthy sheep sold for 38 cents each.

DEADLY THRESHING BOILER.

One Man Killed and Three Hurt by Explosion.

HAWATHA, Kas., Aug. 13.—A threshing machine boiler on the farm of M. D. Hammond exploded today. Charles McCarthy, the engineer, was killed, W. W. Loofboror was badly hurt and two others were slightly injured.

Entered as matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

THE MARQUETTE MINING JOURNAL believes that the G. A. R. encampment at Washington next year should be made a national affair and that congress should make suitable provision for the entertainment of the grizzled veterans. The Grand Rapids Telegram-Herald seconds this but is doubtful if it will work. It says:

But just listen for the democratic howl that will go up if any attempt is made to appropriate public funds for any such purpose. The Michigan democratic screech over the $30,000 appropriation will be a zephyr's sigh in comparison. Southern democracy, with its subservient northern sympathizers, at the opening of the rebellion, looted the United States treasury and military supplies for the benefit of the traitors, and they have been the loudest and most impudent since in their howls against any public appropriations for the benefit of those who suppressed their treasonable schemes. How will the people choose between the two?

Inasmuch as the democrats will control the next house of representatives and southern democrats control the party it is a foregone conclusion that if the grizzled veterans are entertained at the national capitol the people of that city will be required to foot all the bills. -Saginaw Courier-Herald.

The MINING JOURNAL opposed having the state appropriate money to aid the city of Detroit in caring for the encampment this year, but favors having congress aid in making next year's encampment at Washington a national affair to the extent of voting an appropriation to aid in rendering it a grand reunion of the veterans than the country has yet witnessed. In this it is consistent. It may be that the democratic majority in congress is more patriotic than our lower peninsula contemporaries seem to think. Give them a chance to show that or the contrary to be the case at all events. It should be remembered that not a few of the democrats of today were loyal, patriotic republicans during the war and for considerable time subsequently, and it is not to be presumed that they divested themselves of their patriotism when they changed their politics. There will be several democrats of that class in the next congress, possibly enough to swing their "dyed-in-the-wool" associates in favor of such an appropriation, should the question come up. Let us hope so, at all events, and pray that we may not be disappointed in the hope.

OUR MINING SCHOOL.

The MINING JOURNAL takes pleasure in reproducing from a leading English paper—Industries, published at London—the following article contributed to it by Mr. Bennett H. Brough, Assoc. R. S. M., on the subject of the value of technical education, (especially that branch of it relating to mining work), and the necessity of special schools wherein scientific instruction and practical training in mining operations may be obtained by young men. It will be seen that Mr. Brough cites the Michigan Mining school at Houghton as a notable example of what an institution of this character is accomplishing. It should gratify the pride of every citizen of Michigan to find that this young institution has already done so much to spread the fame of the state abroad, while training our young men to render valuable service in developing the great mineral resources which have contributed so greatly to its wealth and standing. Mr. Brough's article is as here given:

The importance of technical education is now widely recognized, and in no branch of industry is this more the case than in mining. As far back as three hundred and fifty years ago the necessity of technical training was appreciated by the learned writer Georgius Agricola, who enumerated the various branches of knowledge which should be acquired by an educated miner. First, he should be familiar with chemistry, mineralogy, and geology, that he may understand the nature of the minerals with which he has to deal; secondly, with medicine, that he may cope with the accidents to which miners are liable; thirdly, with astronomy and geometry, that he may conduct careful surveys; fourthly, with book-keeping, that he may accurately keep the mine accounts; next, with machine and building construction, that he may erect, or at least instruct others to erect, machinery and buildings; further, with mechanical drawing, that he may design machines; and, lastly, with mining law. At the present day the sciences upon which the art of mining is based are much the same as in Agricola's time, and all these subjects must be taught in a mining school. But by no plan of education in a school is it possible to make a miner, or in other words, to prepare a man for taking charge of a mine directly; he leaves the institution. It might as reasonably be expected that a lad leaving a naval college should be a sailor fit to take charge of a ship. By a thorough knowledge of principles, however, the academically trained student will be ready to take advantage of circumstances and to make rapid progress. He will thus be enabled to avoid the mistakes that an untrained miner, who has accumulated stores of practical knowledge upon an unsound basis, is sure to make.

Although no country equals Great Britain in having such an amount of varied mineral wealth stored within the same area, there was, until 1851, no proper school of mines. Experience has shown that vast amounts of capital have therefore been wasted in speculations which properly trained mining engineers would at once have seen to be absurd. Paris has its school of mines, founded in 1873. Germany has mining schools at Freiberg, in Saxony, founded in 1765; at Clausthal, in the Harz, founded a little later; and at Berlin. At the last named city the institution is of recent date, and based on the English model. In Austria the Leoben school celebrated its fiftieth anniversary quite recently. Mining schools also exist at Schemnitz, in Hungary (founded in 1770); at Prizbram, in Bohemia; at Liege, Belgium; at Stockholm, at Madrid, (founded in 1836); and at St. Petersburg.

In view of this long list of European Mining schools, it is interesting to turn to what is being done in America. Here the list is considerably longer. Almost every university throughout the continent has a mining school attached to it. The School of Mines at Columbia College is one of the oldest, and is characterized by intense activity. A glance at the list of well-known names among the graduates of this institution shows that the United States already owes much to the existing mining schools.

It is questionable whether a school of mines should be situated in the chief city, or at some point in the vicinity of working mines, where practical operations may be witnessed. The eminent success of the schools in London, Paris, Berlin, Stockholm, Madrid, St. Petersburg, New York and Boston is a distinct argument in favor of the former view. The preliminary scientific education at most metropolitan schools is usually acquired at a sister institution. Thus, the mining students in London spend the first two years of their course in studying pure science at the South Kensington Science schools.

This institution, like Columbian College in New York, has acquired the character of a center for a system of technical education of which the Mining school naturally forms but one branch. At Paris, Berlin and Stockholm the preliminary education is obtained in a similar manner. It would thus seem a hazardous experiment to establish a new school in a thinly populated district, where a complete and independent staff of instructors must be maintained. Yet this has been done at Houghton, in Michigan, with marked success.

This school, known as the Michigan Mining school, was opened in 1890. At first instruction was carried on in make-shift quarters. In 1891, however, the handsome building now occupied was completed by the state at a cost of 15,000 pounds. It is built of red sandstone, with a tiled roof, and is heated and ventilated by steam, two large boilers being employed for the purpose, with an auxiliary boiler for driving machinery. The main building is 100x33 ft., with a wing 37x25 ft. In an out building there is a well appointed stamp mill and ore dressing works, erected and equipped during the spring of 1890.

The school is supported by the state. Education is free, the students merely paying for material used. The regular course extends over three years. Compared with the courses of many American schools this represents the saving of one year's time to the student. This end is accomplished by shortening the vacation, and by requiring the students to take part in a summer course. The teaching staff consists of the director, Dr. M. E. Wadsworth, a geologist of world-wide reputation, professors of mathematics and chemistry, and instructors in drawing, metallurgy and mining.

As the school is situated in the center of the Lake Superior copper region, a number of important mines may be easily reached. The school is well equipped with teaching appliances. The most complete collection is that of mine surveying instruments. No European school has so complete or expensive an outfit. Indeed, the subject of mine surveying is brought into unusual prominence, as it is found in Michigan that there is no other course of study that gives so quick and profitable returns for the money and time expended, since employment at a fair salary can almost always be obtained by a competent mine surveyor. Prof. Denton, the instructor in mine surveying, has arranged a course which enables each student to receive a special training in all branches of the subject. Owing to the paucity of diagrams and models to illustrate the lectures, the instruction in mining engineering is, however, not so satisfactory.

As at the mining school of the Royal College of Science, London, a small metallurgical plant is provided, which enables the lectures to be very completely illustrated, and gives the teaching a practical character, as metallurgical problems may be studied by dealing with ores in bulk. The plant at the Houghton school is for ore dressing rather than for metallurgical use. Though not so complete as that installed at the London School of Mines by Professor Roberts-Austen, the plant is well adapted to render the student familiar with the difficulties that arise in conducting processes, and with the facility with which metals may be lost by unskillful treatment.

The Houghton school is at present attended by 63 students, the average age being twenty-two years. The future of the school will be watched with interest. Though well equipped in every way, and liberally endowed by the state, the Michigan Mining School has yet its reputation to make. With the exception of the mining school at Freiberg and Clausthal, mining schools in mining districts, such as those of Leoben, Prizbram and Schemnitz, have had to abandon instruction in pure science and to confine themselves to technical subjects, the students having to obtain their preliminary training elsewhere. It will be interesting, therefore, to see whether the Michigan Mining School will be able to preserve the complete and admirable character with which it has started on its career.

[*This is an error of the author as but twenty schools of any kind are known in the United States which give instruction in mining engineering.—EDITOR.] A FATAL MISTAKE. Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at H. H. Stafford & Son's, who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles unequalled new heart cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headache, fits, etc.

Vessel Ventilation. The ventilation and disinfection of the holds of vessels is now proposed to be accomplished by an arrangement or system of tubes, which, in addition to its simplicity, easily overcomes the difficulties experienced in ordinary methods. According to this new plan iron tubes, pierced with numerous holes, are extended from the deck of the vessel into the hold, these being arranged in such a manner as to establish and maintain an upward and downward draught, by this means causing a thorough ventilation of the hold and its contents, the adaptation of the apparatus for the purpose of fumigation being thus fully apparent.

The top of the tube, set flush with the deck, is closed, when desirable, with a cap that screws into it, this cap being so beveled as not to interfere with the passage of anything over it; and to the top of the tube when open may also be attached a windsail as a means of gathering in an additional supply of air, thus insuring more effective ventilation. For fumigating the vessel's hold, killing vermin, or extinguishing fire, a fluid or compound of an effective character for such purpose is simply poured into the open tube, the cap screwed on and the material left to do its work.—New York Sun.

The Letter Y. Some old time author has represented the path of life by the symbolic figure of the letter Y. In youth the common way is a broad and easy one, comparatively speaking, although the children themselves may not be aware of the fact; but sooner or later the paths diverge from each other, the distance between them growing wider and wider as they go onward. One road is still broad and alluring, the other narrow and straight. "Choose," says Duty, stern and inflexible. "Choose," says Worldly Pleasure, easy going and self-indulgent, and each son traveling along life's highway must decide upon its course and walk in the path elected. There is no middle highway. This would not be a bad object lesson for our youngsters who are painfully printing their alphabets, but who know well enough, the little rogues, the difference between the straight and crooked path of "Mr. Ought To" and the broad and easy road of "Mr. Do as You Like."—New York Tribune.

Equal to the Occasion. "I've been hearing something bad about you from papa, George, and I'm afraid I must ask you to cease visiting me." "What does he say about me?" "He says you are not a saint by any means." "Isn't a man known by the company he keeps?" "I suppose so." "And if the company he keeps is the best, the purest, the highest, the most elevating, the most refining, and, finally, the most charming in the world, isn't it an evidence that he is good?" "Yes." "Well, don't I keep your company?" The maiden pondered, blushed, smiled and said: "Papa's mind has been poisoned. I won't believe anything against you."—New York Press.

In Another Latitude. He understood all about the sun, and the moon, and the stars, and something about the weather. Indeed, he was popularly supposed to regulate this last, and his indication of probabilities was received as gospel by his admiring fellow citizens in a certain southern colony of Australia. He went to England for a well earned holiday. He was shown over a celebrated fruit garden there. He was observed to be sniffing about as if something were wrong. They asked him what was the matter. "Well," he replied, "these funny fellows have trained their peach trees against the south side of the wall to get the mizzly sun instead of against the north."—London Truth.

THE FIRST BABY. "As he was our first baby we treasured him more than we could tell."

"But when four months old, the little fellow weighed only seven pounds, and seemed to be gradually wasting away."

"Our family physician, Dr. Robert H. Jones told us that the child needed food, not medicine, that what he ate did not make good blood, and ordered us to use lactated food. The result was really wonderful. In a few days our little boy, who was before so pale and puny, had cheeks as red as roses, and was strong and well."

"Our friends often ask us what brought him out, and say that he doesn't look like the same child. We always tell them that it was all due to lactated food."

"Four-fifths of all the children that die under two years of age, die from diseases that are caused by improper food. When the lactated is used good blood is formed, cholera infantum is prevented, teething becomes easy, and the little one enjoys sound and refreshing sleep. If parents understand these truths as they should, much of the misery and most of the deaths among children of the land could be and would be avoided."

"Mr. Andrews' experience with his first baby should be remembered both as a warning and encouragement to all parents whose children are poor and puny, when they should be bright and happy."

HOW TO SUCCEED. This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. Wanting and Getting.

It has been said that the reason so few people get what they want in this world is that they do not want it hard enough. There is profound truth at the bottom of this old conceit. Earnest striving and perseverance are rare qualities. A little struggle, and then a falling off, a few faint efforts, and then despair—this is the usual story of attempts to "get anything," whether it be a physical, mental or spiritual good.

A cubic inch of any of the stones from which the palaces, churches and fine residences of Paris are built contains hundreds of thousands of fossils, so that it may with truth be said that Paris, together with its pavements and quays, is composed entirely of the shells of the millioleae.

Oh, this ringing in the ears! Oh, this humming in the head! Hawking, blowing, snuffing, gasping. Watery eyes and throat-irritating. Health impaired and comfort fled. Till I would that I were dead!

What folly to suffer so with catarrhal troubles, when the worst cases of chronic catarrh in the head are relieved and cured by the mild, cleansing and healing properties of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It purifies the food breath, by removing the cause of offense, heals the raw and inflamed passages, and perfects a lasting cure.

A SAFE INVESTMENT.

I have been a great sufferer from dry catarrh for many years, and I tried many remedies, but none did me so much benefit as Ely's Cream Balm. It completely cured me. M. J. Lally, 39 Woodward Ave., Boston, Highland, Mass.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly, and I have not felt so well for a long time. I used to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week.—J. A. Alcorn, A'gt. U. P. R. Co., Eaton, Colo.

THE LITTLE ONES

Ought to be considered. In the mysterious processes of nature, which are generalized in the term "growth," there is sometimes a demand on one part of the system at the expense of another. Some of the complications are beyond the reach of diagnostic observation. It is here that makes itself felt. Rev. L. B. Falme, of Macon, Ga., writes: "We have been using S. S. S. at the Orphan's Home as a remedy for blood complaints and as a general tonic, and have had remarkable results from its use with the children. It is such an excellent tonic and keeps the blood so pure that the system is less liable to disease. It has cured some of our children of scrofula."

BONDHOLDERS PREFER CASH

Secretary Foster's Two Per Cent. Extension Scheme Is Not a Brilliant Success.

ONLY $18,500,000 OUT OF $51,000,000 OFFERED.

Banks Practically Forced to Extend but Private Owners Apparently Do Not Much Like the Idea.

MUST PAY $25,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Inquiry at the treasury department develops the fact that Secretary Foster's plan for continuing the 4 1/2 per cent loan at 2 per cent has so far failed to meet with the favor that was anticipated by its advocates.

On July 2 when the offer was made to continue the 4 1/2 per cent bonds at 2 per cent there was outstanding $51,000,000 of 4 1/2 per cents, of which amount $23,000,000 were held by about nine hundred national banks as a basis for circulation. Since then $18,500,000 of the bonds have been continued.

Of this amount $3,000,000 came from private individuals and $15,500,000 from about six hundred national banks, leaving $7,500,000 4 1/2 per cents in the possession of about three hundred national banks and $25,000,000 in the hands of individuals.

These bonds, aggregating $32,500,000, in order to be continued under the present offer must be presented on or before September 2, the date on which their interest ceases. Otherwise the secretary of the treasury must be prepared to redeem them on presentation or to make terms with the holders for an extension of time at the present rate of interest, 4 1/2 per cent.

The available cash balance in the treasury today outside of fractional silver coin and deposits in national banks is $13,500,000 and is gradually increasing. While there is no question of the government's ability to redeem these bonds at maturity it is well known that it would prefer to continue them. There is no doubt that the $7,500,000 of bonds held by national banks will be presented for continuance.

The uncertainty is wholly in regard to the $25,000,000 in the hands of individuals. The department had assurances that these bonds would be taken up by the national banks and used for the purpose of increasing their circulation. This was the argument that mainly induced the department to adopt the 2 per cent extension plan. So far, however, it seems the assurances have not been made good. According to a prominent treasury official this is entirely the fault of the banks.

"There is no sense," said he to an Associated Press representative this afternoon, "in the owners of these bonds holding them for redemption by the government at par when they are at a premium 1/2 of one per cent on the market. They are either holding out for a greater premium or the banks which were ostensibly so willing to take up the loan for the purpose of increasing their circulation have gone back entirely on their promises to the department and are making no effort whatever to secure these floating bonds."

This is one of the questions that will be presented to Secretary Foster on his return to Washington from his vacation in Ohio.

SENSIBLE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Union Pacific Employees Recognize Validity of Their Contract.

OMAHA, Aug. 13.—District Assembly No. 83, Knights of Labor, which includes all the employees of the Union Pacific system, has taken action regarding the Nebraska eight hour law, which is at present causing some trouble in Omaha and other cities, as will be seen by the following telegram which has been sent to Omaha, Grand Island and North Platte.

"Section 15 of the agreement is a contract to work in time, still in force and made prior to the eight-hour law, which cannot be abrogated. The law would thus be inoperative on Union Pacific shop employees because of the contract. In honor we are bound to recognize this contract, inasmuch as it appears, until it can be modified by the parties to it. Our good faith as an organization should be considered in assisting in this matter."

SETTLING THE STRIKE.

Omaha Smelter Employees Agree to Return at Former Wages.

OMAHA, Aug. 13.—A delegation of the striking smelter employees called on President Barton this evening and held a conference with him as to the terms on which he would take the men back. Mr. Barton said that the men must come back at the old hours and rate of wages and if they agreed to do so the smelter would be started up in 48 hours and the old men given employment, with the exception of James Bacon, the leading agitator. The delegation said they believed the men would return to work at the terms offered and President Barton agreed to meet a committee of six men tomorrow to talk over the situation and come to a perfect understanding.

LAW SUIT FOR MILLIONS.

Archer R. Harman's Claim Against Southern Land Boomers.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 13.—Attorney-General-Elect W. J. Hendricks and Capt. William Abbott, as attorneys, have brought suit at Pineville, Ky., on a claim for $1,653,000. The plaintiff is Archer R. Harman, a wealthy promoter who represents eastern capitalists and he seeks to enjoy payment for 200,000 acres of land in Bell, Clay, Leslie, Perry, Letcher and Harlan counties, lying principally upon Red Bird Creek of the Kentucky river. The defendants are the Kentucky Coal, Iron and Development company, limited; the Kentucky Ridge Development Company, limited; J. W. Parmenter, E. H. Patterson, J. H. Allen, the Atlantic Trust company of New York and James Maverick, representative of the Belgian and English syndicate to whom the land has been sold. Harman has written contracts upon which he bases his claim. He wants either the injunction for the payment of the money or as an alternative the conveyance to himself of one-third of the 200,000 acres of land. The total price to be paid for the land is $5,000,000.

'TIS A ROUGH COUNTRY.

Murderers Seem to Rule Southern Cowley County, Kas.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., Aug. 13.—Mrs. J. A. Wickline of Bolter township who three weeks ago was brutally assaulted and nearly murdered, this morning found nailed to her door a letter written in red ink with skull and crossbones over it warning her to leave the country or she would fill a coffin within a week. This is the same neighborhood where Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Donnelly were mysteriously murdered a week ago. The people are greatly excited.

ALLEGED CASE OF CHOLERA.

Dr. Harris of Springfield, Ill., Thinks He Has Found One.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 13.—A case of genuine cholera is reported to the board of health, and some fears are entertained that the city will be visited by another epidemic like that of 1850. Henry Hilton of 229 Gallagher street is the victim. Dr. Harris said the man could not live unless there was change for the better immediately. When asked if there could be any doubt of it being a case of cholera the doctor stated that there was none as he knew the symptoms of cholera. He had seen enough of it in 1850 and had considerable experience with it then.

COAL DEALER BRAINED.

Old Job Haas Found Dead in His Philadelphia Office.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Job Haas, aged 60 years, a coal dealer, was found dead in his office on Gorman's Lane, Mount Airy, in the extreme northern section of this city, at 6 o'clock this morning. His skull was crushed and a club and hatchet, both covered with blood, were lying on the floor of the office. A colored man who had been seen lurking in the vicinity is suspected of having committed the deed, but he has not yet been apprehended. The motive for the crime is supposed to have been robbery.

IS THIS THE BANDIT?

Columbus Grove Bank Robber Caught at New Castle, Pa.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 13.—A man giving the name of Edward Logan of Cleveland was arrested today while attempting to enter a rear room of the First National bank. Logan answers to the description of the burglar and murderer who recently robbed the bank at Columbus Grove, Ohio, after shooting the cashier and a farmer, the latter fatally. He will be held for identification.

SOME LIVELY BOAT RACES.

Second Day of Mississippi Valley Amateur Rowing Association Regatta at Detroit.

RECORDS OF WINNERS IN VARIOUS EVENTS.

Cleveland, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago Were Yesterday's National League Victors—Other Games.

WITH SHELL AND OAR.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—The second day of the Mississippi Valley Amateur Rowing association regatta was far more successful than yesterday both in point of attendance and sport offered. The course was in good condition, there being practically no wind. The racing was more spirited than on junior day and few harder fought contests than the double sculling proved to be ever seen.

The first event of the day was the senior single sculls. Edward Duran of the Sunny Side Rowing club, Toronto, won in 10:23 1/2; Fred Gastreich of the Modoc Rowing club, St. Louis, second in 10:55 1/2.

The second event was the pair oared shell race. It went to the Detroit crew No. 1 in 10:15; Modocs of St. Louis second in 10:41 1/2; Detroit crew No. 2 third in 11:05 1/2.

In the four oared-race the Wolverines of Detroit won in 9:14 1/2; the Modocs of St. Louis second in 9:28 1/2. The double sculls went to the Bay Sides of Toronto in 9:49 1/2; Catlins of Chicago second in 10:09 1/2; Manhattan Athletic club third in 10:19 1/2; Owashtamogs of Grand Rapids fourth in 11:07 1/2.

The last event of the day was the six-oared barge race which went to the Modocs of St. Louis in 4:33 1/2; Wolverines of Detroit second in 4:42.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—For seven innings today the Spiders could do nothing with Nichols but in the eighth three singles, followed by a home run tied the game. The winning run came after two men were out and two strikes called on Tebeau. Score:

Cleveland.....0 0 0 0 1 0 4 0 0 1-6
Boston.....0 2 0 0 0 1 2 0 0 0-5
Base hits—Cleveland 11; Boston 8. Errors—Cleveland 4; Boston 3. Batteries—Vau and Zimmer; Nichols and Bennett. Attendance—3,323. Time—2:15. Umpires—McQuade and Battin.

QUAKERS WERE BADLY SCARED.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—The Phillies defeated Pittsburgh today in a loosely played game but they were badly frightened in the ninth when after Myers had missed a chance to retire the third man the visitors developed a batting streak and knocked out three runs. Score:

Philadelphia.....1 4 0 0 1 1 0 0 0-7
Pittsburgh.....3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3-6
Base hits—Philadelphia 8; Pittsburgh 10; errors—Philadelphia 3; Pittsburgh 1. Batteries—Kline and Clements; Baldwin and Miller. Attendance—3,450. Time—3:20. Umpire—Hurst.

GIANTS WERE RATHER TIRED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Giants showed little vim in their work today and Cincinnati beat them rather easily. Score:

Cincinnati.....0 3 0 0 0 1 2 0 0 0-7
Base hits—New York 9; Cincinnati 8. Errors—New York 2; Cincinnati 4. Batteries—Barr, Welch, Burrell and Buckley; Rhines and Keenan. Attendance—1,695. Time, 1:52. Umpire—Lynch.

COLTS THROW THE BRIDEGROOMS.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 13.—Anson carried his good luck over the bridge today and the Bridegrooms were beaten after an exciting battle. Score:

Chicago.....1 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0-3
Base hits—Chicago 9; Brooklyn 9. Errors—Chicago 2; Brooklyn 1. Batteries—Gumbert and Merritt; Carruthers and Daly. Attendance—4,873. Time—1:40. Umpire—Owens.

Frogging Is Done in Two Ways.

"Frogging" is a sport and a business to marsh dwellers near this town. Far out on Long Island and over in New Jersey hundreds of men and boys patrol the marshes for frogs. The day frogger, clad in hip boots and usually accompanied by a dog, walks along the bank of a ditch or stream keenly watching for the green back and great eyes of his prey. The frogger expects this, and is prompt to act.

He steps into the water near the spot where froggy was, and with almost unerring hand lays thumb and finger upon the creature's neck. A sharp pinch snaps the spinal cord, and the frog is presently plumped into a basket or game bag. If the frog jumps from bank to stream at the hunter's approach the latter hardly expects to bug the game, but the skilled hunter nearly always catches the frog that is first discovered sitting in the water.

The night frogger goes in a boat with a "hawkeye" lantern at the bow. The light not only discovers the frog to the hunter, but also fascinates the game so that he is easily shot with a rifle or scopped up with a net. The night cry of the frog guides the hunter to the victim's hiding place. Those that go for sport usually shoot the game, but the pot hunter prefers to take the frogs alive in the net, as a method less likely to frighten off his intended prize. Some hunters catch as many as twenty dozen frogs in the course of a night, when all the conditions are favorable. Eggs bring at wholesale from $1 to $1.25 a dozen, but the frogging season is short and the success of the hunter varies greatly with the weather.—New York Recorder.

Where to Find Honest Men.

"Please, sir, when I went up town this afternoon I left the change of a dollar behind me. Do you remember it?"

"What was it you gave me, miss—a silver dollar or a bill?" inquired the ticket seller as the young lady stepped out of his window at a blue eyed young lady who seemed much embarrassed.

"Oh! it was paper, sir, and it was a new, crisp bill. I was in a hurry for the train, and I just hurried through without thinking about the change."

"The agent had a little pile of silver, nine or ten cents in all, set apart from the rest of his money, and he handed it out to the young lady with a—"

"There you are, miss, I kept it for you." "Oh, dear! thank you," and the young lady went her way rejoicing.

"You wouldn't believe it," remarked the ticket agent, "but people forget to wait for their change at the elevated railroad station every day. Some of them happen to be So many people come over the bridge from Brooklyn, and they are always in a great hurry to get up town. All sorts of people leave their change, men, women and children, but they all come back for it as a rule. Why, there have been several times when I have had ten or fifteen dollars waiting for patrons of the road who just slipped down the stairs and rushed through the gate."—New York Telegram.

All Classes in England's Booking Offices.

Booking clerks are drawn from all classes, and mystery enshrouds many of them. If they are elderly, the chances are that they have been in some other line of business and failed, and through a little ingenuity managed to get on the line. They can be seen at all ages, sizes and heights. The 6 feet 2 inches man will take his turn with a lad a trifle over four feet and the thin, delicate lad weighing seven stone will change duty with a man turning the scale at sixteen or seventeen stone. Some can show a pedigree that a Highlander might envy, and others—well, would rather not have theirs inquired into.

Officers in the army who have met with reverses or misfortune have been known to accept the post of booking clerk. One such was some years ago at a large station in the West Riding, and was recognized by an old private who had served under him, and who addressed him by his military rank. It was very gallant of him that he should be recognized, and still more so that his fellow clerks should know what he had intended keeping secret. Some of the officers, parsons and doctors abound in the service; but they do not always take kindly to their work, and seldom rise to any position.—Chambers' Journal.

He Used to Teach Elocution.

Colonel F. K. Hain, general manager of the elevated railroad system in this city, was riding up town on the Sixth Avenue road one day not long ago with a friend. At one of the stations a guard stuck his head through the doorway and shouted, "S-a-c-h-kittycut street!"

Nobody in the car manifested any surprise, but in a few seconds Colonel Hain, who had been looking intently at the guard, turned to his friend and said: "You would find it difficult to believe that the guard was at one time a teacher of elocution, wouldn't you?" "Well, yes," replied the friend, looking at the colonel as though he expected that a joke was forthcoming. "I don't believe it, either," grimly responded Colonel Hain, "but that is what he claimed to have been when he applied for this job."—New York Times.

Security Enough.

The story is told of a rather impetuous young man of this city that he had ordered a suit of clothing which was solemnly promised for Saturday evening. Of course the tailor did not keep his word, and about 9 o'clock a boy came from the store bringing the trousers and an apology that the coat was not completed. The disappointed youth expressed his regret, but told the boy to leave the trousers and he would make a shift to get along. Thereupon the messenger said that he could not deliver the garment until he had collected eight dollars. "That will be all right," said the customer, "Jones has the coat and vest. What more security does he want?"—Detroit Free Press.

Writing on the Cars.

There are two ways of writing on a train. The first requires that the paper be laid upon a light board, perhaps eight inches square. One end of this will rest in your lap, and the end furthest from you will be raised a few inches by a cord which passes around the neck. The whole affords a sloping desk which moves with the body, and is fairly satisfactory. The simpler and perhaps the better plan is to place your tablet upon a feather pillow in your lap, when you will find that the elasticity of the feathers reduces the motion to a minimum, and makes writing easy.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Bottomless Spring.

The great seltzer spring at Saratoga, N. Y., has been sounded to the depth of 3,900 feet without touching bottom or encountering any obstacle. This strengthens the belief that this great northern summer resort is built over a subterranean sea.—St. Louis Republic.

TO BE SEEN IN EGYPT.

IMMORTAL SIGNATURES UNDER THE SPHINX'S LEFT EAR.

Colonel Mason, of Chicago, Finds the Names of Napoleon, Wellington, Disraeli, Grant and a Host of Others, Topped by an Illustrious American's.

"My sojourn in Europe," says Colonel Edward G. Mason, president of the Chicago Historical society, "was wholly delightful. The climate is salubrious, the scenery is bewilderingly novel, and the natives are politely attentive. When I went to that part of the world my health was failing. For several years I had worked hard, and my nerves had suffered a particularly severe strain in that famous debate in which, as president of the Historical society, I was compelled to engage with Hiram Atwater, of Kaskaskia, relative to the exact location of Pierre Menard's barn prior to the June rise in the Mississippi in 1844. I had been in Cairo but a week when I felt fully restored, in corpore et mente. I return to Chicago splendidly equipped to grapple with the brilliant sophistries of Norton, the artful heresies of Head, the cold pessimism of MacVeagh, and such other specious persuasions that talented coterie with which I am wont to associate may choose to bring to bear upon me.

"That object in all Egypt which most engaged my attention was the sphinx. I visited it a number of times, and each time regarded it with absorbing interest. My companion at such times was the venerable sheik, Kamir-el-Abdul, a man of profound learning, and I never wearied of the reminiscences with which he beguiled the tedium of the journey to and from the pyramids.

"I shall never forget my first visit to the sphinx. Starting from Cairo before daylight, we reached our destination just as the solar orb issuing from the glowing east cast upon that mighty stretch of sand the rosy flood of his gracious benediction. The sulen head and massive shoulders of the beast woman loomed up threateningly before us, the pitilessness of forty centuries of desolate loneliness lay like a shadow on the ruthless face and over the cruel eyes; here at last I found the meaning my unwonted utter hopelessness. Observe my unwonted seriousness—for I was indeed awed by the solemnity, the grandeur, and the awfulness of this spectacle—the good sheik sought to dissipate the gathering clouds of sadness by relating certain entertaining bits of historical information.

"Here, light of the western world," quoth he, "for he always employed the ornate metaphors of the orient when he addressed me; here the years meet and speak with one another. Monarchs of all ages have come hither to commune with this mighty monument to the genius of the dead; hither come artisans to wonder at the work of an art they know not of, and hither come the sage, the poet and the philosopher to ruminate in the shadow of this pile upon the awful mysteries of human life."

"Yes," said I, "the spot is pregnant of the most solemn associations. It was here that, as I remember to have read in my geography, Bonaparte encouraged his soldiery to battle by reminding them that from yonder pyramids forty centuries looked down upon them."

"Napoleon inscribed his name upon the sphinx at that time," said the good sheik. "Take your spyglass and you will see the name cut upon the neck of the sphinx, just below the ear there. Below it appears, in Turkish, the name of the great sultan, Abd-ul-Hamed, while to the right, upon the cheek, you will see the name of Bufon, the naturalist."

"The head and face of the sphinx seems to be covered with names," said I, contemplating the mammoth through my glass.

"It is even so, pearl of the prairies," said he. "For many years the great men of all nations and tribes have delighted to cut their names into this deathless monument; even your people come hither to do that, and honor your office, as you shall see if you sweep your glass to the left and right and up and down the surface of that scarred face."

"I did as the good sheik suggested, and a thousand noble names were presented to my enraptured vision by the aid of my glass. Among my own countrymen, Bayard Taylor, Franklin, Burr, Prescott, Beecher, Grant, Longfellow, Emerson—yes, and a hundred others, representing our statesmanship, our theology, our literature, our arts and our sciences, had engraved their proud names upon this historical column, this imperishable tablet.

"And the great geniuses of other nations had been there too. I beheld with unfeigned delight the immortal names of Wellington, of Cuvier, of Goethe, of Cavour, of Kosuth, of Dumas, of Disraeli, of Shopenhauer, of Heine, of Byron, of Scott, of Burton, of Browning, and of other noble masters. The sight inspired me with indescribable feelings, my bosom heaved with conflicting emotions, and I seemed to commune with the invisible spirits of those who in this human life had borne those names.

"Would the star of the west choose to set himself amid that galaxy?" inquired my delicious reverie. I have brought with me a chisel and a maul, and yonder Arabs will provide us with a rope ladder, whereby by the summit of the sphinx can easily be reached."

"I thanked the good sheik for the suggestion. With what pride should I return to my native land and announce to my compatriots that my name was high in this roster of immortals! With what feelings of delight should posterity gather on these blistering sands and rivet their eyes upon the imperishable name of 'E. G. Mason' in big capital letters! Kamir-el-Abdul signalled to the Arabs, and they approached. I was eager for action. My whole frame quivered with excitement.

"But stay," quoth I. "Another moment, I pray, until I decipher that name which stands boldly out high above the rest. Some transcendent genius has with consummate valor braved the perils of the endeavor and set his mark where no less noble hand may reach."

He Laughed Last.

To my own knowledge three of the greatest greenhorns on earth made the richest finds I have ever seen, stumbling upon them by sheer good luck. When I was first out with a party of prospectors in Idaho an old Yankee came up to our camp one sultry afternoon and asked, "Say, can you tell me where there is a good place to mine?" "We thought we would have some sport at the fellow's expense, and so pointing up the hill to where a lone tree stood said: "Right under the shade of that tree you will find lots of gold. Dig down about ten feet, and when you get tired rest in the shade of the tree."

He went up there and set to work at a place that showed no indications of gold, and which we had passed by. We thought we had caged a sucker. He worked for two days very industriously, and then in the evening came strolling into our camp. "Much obliged, stranger," he said; "you gave me good advice, and I'll make it square with you. I've run across a whole basketful of these little lumps of gold." He exhibited a dozen nuggets as big as marbles, and later on when the mine was developed, it turned out wondrously rich. We all felt a little weak when we saw the extent of his find.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE A. O. U. W. CELEBRATION Attendance Not so Large as Expected but a Splendid Time Had by All. A FINE PARADE FOLLOWED BY AN ENJOYABLE BALL.

The Band Contest—Cornet Won by Leader of Calumet Band—Dredging the Canal—General. RED JACKET.

The members of the different lodges of the Ancient Order of United Workmen who attended the reunion and celebration in this city on Wednesday last will look back upon it as a day that they thoroughly enjoyed, as every detail connected with the order of the day worked smoothly.

Upon the arrival of the special train at the depot here the societies were escorted to the park where a splendid dinner awaited them. At 2 o'clock the command was given to form in line for the parade.

The parade did not go through the streets of the mine location because the column moved so late. The ball in the evening was a most brilliant affair. The large Army was completely filled with dancers who tripped it until the small hours of the morning to the delicious music of the Calumet Cornet band.

The contest for the $125 cornet which was held in the Armory in the evening was won by Prof. J. F. Ansell, leader of the Calumet band there being only one contestant against him. The solo playing was very fine. It was fully expected that Leader Williams of the Lake Linden band and Johnson and Decker of Negaunee, would enter the contest.

The Congregational Sunday school will hold its annual excursion and picnic on Wednesday, August 19, 1891. Copper Tent, No. 251, K. O. T. M., will give its annual excursion to the canal on Saturday, Aug. 22.

Dr. M. E. de Laval has returned from his outing in Canada with the large party of excursionists who left here about a month ago. Mr. F. B. Dougherty, of Duluth, of the firm of Williams, Upham & Co., is in the city. He is here for the purpose of superintending the dredging of the upper canal.

Not the Kind Wanted. Angelina Hamfate (of the Frivolity)—Is there much likelihood of these diamonds being lost or stolen? Jeweler—The construction of the settings, madam, has so carefully been attended to that it is next to impossible to lose the stones or have them stolen.

REDUCE YOUR DENOMINATOR. There Are Two Ways of Equalizing Your Attainments and Desires. To most earnest people life is hard and fast, and growing continually harder and faster, and to many it is becoming more and more a burning question how they shall meet like men and women the demands of each day without falling under the condemnation of that law.

In this view it follows that there are always two possible ways of increasing the amount of the latter—and this is no doubt the main object toward which are directed most of the efforts of most men—namely, to increase our numerator by increasing our possessions, or to diminish our denominator by decreasing the total amount of our desires.

Since that result—that alteration in the value of the fraction—is what we are many of us generally perceived by the majority of people, and the one to which they bend all their efforts, but it is often the impossible way, while the other path lies always open to most people, with absolute sure result.

Even in the matter of books the number which we care to own grows smaller day by day instead of larger. We have learned the great lesson that it is easier to climb up to high lands, and drink from the springs which run there, than to accept the diluted stuff which is delivered to us in conduits often not of the cleanest.

Cost of Pure Candy. Andrew J. Hope, who knows a thing or two about the candy business, is of the opinion that another candy manufacturer, who made the statement that pure candy couldn't be bought for less than forty cents a pound, didn't know what he was talking about.

How Santley Was Discovered. Mr. Charles Santley, the great baritone, owes much of his success in life to the generosity and perspicacity of his master, who was then a draper in business in Manchester. When young Santley was an assistant in the establishment just mentioned.

Safety and Business on the Ocean. So keen is the rivalry between the various lines and so much does their success depend on a reputation for safety that self interest, in the absence of a higher motive, is sufficient to stimulate them to leave nothing undone in the construction and manning of their vessels which may in any way be the means of averting disaster.

Disposing of Garbage. When your home is started the wastes begin. Never let them accumulate. Have no dark, damp corners and no standing garbage. All refuse should be burned at once. Not directly on the fire, for this makes a noxious smell, but in a receptacle at the side of the stove or on top of the stove, where it is dried down to a sweet, harmless charcoal, without smell and easy as fuel.

An Unconscious Compliment. Little Mugley—Do you admire handsome men, Miss Amy? Amy—Indeed I do, Mr. Mugley. Little Mugley—Oh, thank you!—Harper's Bazar.

Doctoring Aboard Ship. Curious yarns are spun about the method of dispensing followed by divers captains on deep water. The sea lawyer usually found in a ship's forecastle fondly asserts that each bottle of the medicine chest bears a distinguishing number, and upon this foundation proceeds to build the following story, which is refuted with the salt sea.

Big Spiders of the Jungles. There is a enormous spider frequently found in the jungle, fully three inches long in the body and seven across the legs, black in color, and elegantly marked with red and yellow. It spins a geometrical web about four feet in diameter between two trees, which web is strong enough to knock off a pill hat.

DEAFNESS CAN'T BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the portion of the ear. There is only one way of curing deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube.

DEER LAKE PARK. The beautiful natural scenery of this picturesque spot has been greatly enhanced by a large expenditure of money by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic R'y., and it is now one of the finest picnic grounds in the country, situated on the banks of Deer Lake from which it derives its name, a charming sheet of pure spring water abounding in all the species of fish native to upper peninsula lakes and streams.

Who rules in this town? Depends on the question up. The lamp-chimney question—what sort do you break? Whatever sort your dealer leads in. How, do you think, he selects his chimneys? He buys those that cost him least; he can get the regular price for them; and the faster they break the more he sells.

Tell him you want Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass," tough glass, transparent, clear, not foggy, fine, of right shape and uniform. Tell him you'll pay him a nickel more a piece, and that will cover his extra costs twice over. Tell him you don't propose to break any more. Try your hand at ruling.

IN DURANCE ONCE MORE.

DEPUTY WARDEN SMITH AWAITING REQUISITION PAPERS.

Days Spent Around Hancock After His Escape—Helped by a Friend—General City News.

CAPTURE OF MESERVEY.

Dick Meservey has been recaptured and will soon be taking his regular rations at Hotel de Malmberg once more.

When Meservey left the prison in such an unceremonious manner on the 28th of July he neglected to leave his postoffice address or to state to the warden his probable destination. This was doubtless an oversight on his part but it wounded the friends he left behind and they at once started to find out his whereabouts. Meservey was greatly missed about the prison, his gentlemanly and endearing character being known to all, and so it was with more than ordinary pleasure that the warden received word yesterday from Deputy Warden Smith stating that "Dick" was in custody at Marengo, Iowa.

Meservey is now in the hands of officers and as soon as requisition papers can be made out and forwarded will be returned to the prison here.

Immediately after Meservey's cool departure from the prison, the warden sent word to the police authorities of Marengo, Iowa, Dick's old home and the place where his wife now lives, to be on the lookout for him, as it was thought he would head for there. The warden also went up the road to Hancock and notified the sheriff of Houghton county to be on the watch for him, as it was thought he would first go to that place. The sheriff was instructed to watch the movements of a Hancock tailor, John Hutchinson, a friend of Meservey's to whom he (Meservey) had sent money a short time before his escape. The copper country officers could get no trace of Dick and not until last Tuesday did the warden hear of him. Then a letter was received from Marshal Beem, of Marengo, Iowa, stating that Dick was in Hancock; that his wife had heard from him and had written him through Hutchinson. The same day a telegram was received from Marshal Beem, saying: "Have got Meservey sure. Come at once." Deputy Warden Smith left at once for Marengo and yesterday word was received from him. Mr. Smith telegraphed: "Arrived safe; found the man, but shot; some doctors' bill to settle; send on requisition papers and telegraph money at once."

It is the belief of Warden Malmberg that after Meservey's arrest, with the aid of friends, he attempted to escape and was shot by the officers. Meservey or Devereaux, as he is known there, where he lived for a long time and was married, has a large number of friends in Marengo, all tough characters, who would stop at nothing to assist him to escape. The warden charged Deputy Smith when he left here to get the officers there to accompany him at least a portion of the way back, as he feared an attempt at release might be made by Meservey's friends. The warden's theory of the manner in which Meservey was shot seems plausible under the circumstances, as had he been wounded when first taken Marshal Beem would have mentioned it in his message telling of the capture. That he did not do so is good presumptive evidence that Dick was afterwards wounded, probably while trying to escape, and he is a desperate fellow and would risk anything for a chance for liberty. Meservey has gained a reputation as a jail breaker, having accomplished that feat on several occasions. Right after receiving the sentence of five years which he was serving out in the prison here, he broke jail at Kalamazoo. He was almost immediately retaken, however, and the judge who had first sentenced him ordered him back into court and made his sentence five years additional or ten years instead of five. The supreme court, however, held the additional sentence to be beyond the power of the judge and five years was taken off, leaving Meservey to serve the original sentence, five years.

A request for requisition papers was forwarded to Governor Winans yesterday, but it will take some time for the formalities to be gone through with and it is doubtful if Deputy Smith will reach here with his prisoner much before the latter part of next week.

The officers at Marengo deserve great credit for the clever way in which they worked up and made the capture of the convict. They knew him well and so spotted him at once when he appeared in Marengo. An account of the capture will probably be received by the warden within a day or two. Mr. Smith has doubtless written already, and the people will be given the facts by the Mining Journal, as usual, as soon as they arrive.

When Meservey made his escape, he doubtless headed for Hancock and was sheltered there by his friend. There he remained for over a week, and the fact that his friend could shelter and feed him as he must have done, and avoid detection speaks volumes as to his shrewdness or it shows a lamentable lack of sharpness on the part of the officers. After hearing from his wife through Hutchinson and being supplied with funds, he made for Marengo and ran his head right into the halter.

The warden has had quite a hunt for his prisoner but now that he has him again he will probably take no more chances with him, but will guard him as closely as a mother does a runaway child.

There's joy in the prison today. For Dick is in durance once more; And the cell that is waiting, they say, He'll fill for a year or two more.

Result of Teachers' Examination.

Through the courtesy of County School Commissioner Montgomery of Champion, the MINING JOURNAL is able to give the result of the teachers' examination held in this city on the 7th and 8th of this month. Those who passed the examinations for second grade certificates were: Miss Mary A. Coyne of Beacon, and Miss Alma F. Cole, of Negaunee. The following candidates secured a third grade certificate: Mr. W. L. Webster, Ishpeming; Miss Anna Lacey, Ishpeming; Misses Nellie Curran, Helen M. Zeren, Louise Primeau, Edith Broad, Jennie Rockwell, Sezerine E. Wellet, Celia O'Leary, Ellen O'Leary, all of Negaunee; Misses Florence Bennett, Rose A. Libby, Mamie Flynn, Maggie Grant, Emily McNulty, of Marquette; Mr. Hugh Ferguson, Stoneville; and Mrs. Agnes R. Lord, Clarksburg.

There will be a special examination of teachers held at Negaunee August 28. The examination questions will be given out in the following order: In the morning: Arithmetic, grammar, geography; In the afternoon: United States history, physiology, civil government; Saturday morning: orthography, reading, penmanship, theory and art. Candidates for certificates will be required to complete the subjects in the order named, and during the time given to each session respectively.

A New Strad.

Mr. Roderick Campbell, of this city, who has been in the employ of the Lake Superior Powder company for a number of years, has just completed a violin of the "Strad" model, that would be a credit to Strad himself, if that garlick-scented old saint were on earth and making fiddles equal to his best. The wood of which the new violin was made was imported from the Tyrol, and is guaranteed to have been seasoning more than a century. The grain and markings are of exquisite beauty and testifies eloquently of Mr. Campbell's matchless workmanship. The instrument is as sensitive as an Eolian harp, and the tone is of wonderful power and richness. This violin with several others of Mr. Campbell's fabrication will be on exhibition at the fair, and admirers of artistic workmanship will find them worthy of critical examination.

Picnic at Ishpeming.

The fifth annual convention of the Lake Superior Unterstuetzung Bund, now in session at Ishpeming, will wind up the meeting with a picnic at Lake Superior grove at Ishpeming on Saturday. There will also be a procession through the streets of the Hemetite City. The line will be formed at 10 o'clock A. M. At the grove three will be music, dancing and other sports. An oration in German will be delivered by the Hon. Geo. Wagner of this city. A grand good time is assured to all who attend. Special cars will be attached to the train which leaves here at 8 A. M. in order to accommodate all who may wish to take in the day's amusements. The railroad company has made the cost of tickets one fare for the round trip.

Brought Here for Interment.

The body of James Enright, who died Tuesday morning at Iron River, reached this city on the noon train yesterday and was conveyed at once to the cathedral where services were held. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery. Marshal Glode accompanied the body from Republic. Mr. Enright will be remembered by the old residents of the city. He came to Marquette about 1860 and was engaged in the saddlery and harness business here from that time until 1876 when he sold out his business and removed to Republic.
