SOLEMN PARCE CONTINUES

Long-Winded Eulogies of Dead Congressmen to Which No One Ever Listens.

MR. STOUT'S JUST CENSURE ON THE PRACTICE.

Proposed to Have Eulogies Delivered on Sunday—House Favors Plan but Fears to Adopt It.

GREAT WASTE OF TIME GOES ON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The house of representatives was called before the bar of public opinion today to answer to the charge of irreverence to the memory of departed representatives. Mr. Stout of Michigan was the public prosecutor and in the absence of counsel for the defense the house pleaded guilty to the charge.

It was in the historic days of Adams and Clay and Webster and Calhoun that the practice of setting apart a day for the eulogy of deceased statesmen was inaugurated. The panegyrics of those days still live in the nation's history as the ideal of American oratory and now adorn the pages of nearly every school reader in the land. But as time passed the custom of eulogizing the illustrious was gradually extended until today every member of the house has as his heritage the right to have a day set apart for the special eulogy of his eminent abilities of statesmanship. The eloquent and spontaneous orations of Webster and Calhoun and Clay have generally given place to studiously prepared remarks on the mental and moral characteristics of the deceased. An eulogy became a duty instead of a spontaneous tribute. The interest of the house and of the country in these events decreased until memorial day, as it is now known, is regarded as a day of rest and recreation, as a period when no one feels it incumbent to attend the sessions except the orators of the occasion—generally colleagues from the state which the deceased represented in life.

The first declaration of the insincerity of such proceedings came from Mr. Enloe (Tenn.) who desired to amend the rules by providing that eulogies to deceased members shall be delivered on Sundays and Sundays only on which day the ceremonies shall be opened with prayer by the chaplain. These services he said were in the nature of religious services and no more appropriate day could be selected for giving tributes to deceased members than Sunday.

The amendment was seconded by Mr. Morse (Mass.) He believed that the memorial services were educational and proper and the Lord's day was the most suitable one that could be chosen. "I am in favor of this amendment," said Mr. Stout (Mich.) "I happened once, Mr. Speaker, to be in St. Louis when a funeral cortege bearing the body of a member of congress passed through the city. The newspapers on the next morning said that the body was left in the depot while the senators were talking about the presidential election in the rotundas of the hotels. (laughter.) And the younger members were gone to the theatre—I suppose to assuage their profound grief (great laughter.) The country should know whether or not we are sincere in our professions of respect to the dead. Let us meet on Sunday and those who are not sincere in their professions of regret and reverence for the dead may stay at home." (applause.)

Mr. Ray (N. Y.) opposed the amendment. It was evidently offered in the interest of those persons who never attended church but who could come here on the Sabbath day and listen to oratory.

Mr. Reed (Me.) gave the information that the consumption of time in the first session of the last congress for memorial services was twenty-four days. This announcement created great surprise but was not disputed.

Mr. Bergen (N. J.) said he saw no necessity for putting another day into the week. Although a standing vote showed a majority of 95 to 68 in favor of the amendment the majority vanished before the dreaded roll-call and the amendment was defeated—yeas, 91; nays, 155.

Various propositions were made, having for their object the abolition or the restriction of the custom of setting apart days for the delivery of eulogies upon deceased members but they were all rejected.

Mr. Reed offered a substitute for rule 24 relating to the order of business. The only change proposed is that the morning hour (which under the code is limited to sixty minutes) may be extended indefinitely for the pleasure of the house. The substitute was lost—yeas, 89; nays, 104.

Mr. Chipman (Mich.) offered an amendment providing for Friday night sessions for the consideration of private pension bills, which was agreed to.

In speaking of an informal amendment J. D. Taylor (O.) sent to the clerk's desk and had read the letter sent by Messrs. Wise (Va.), Henderson (N. C.) and Randall (Pa.) to speaker Carlisle asking for recognition to move a suspension of the rules and the passage of a bill for the repeal of the internal revenue tax upon tobacco.

Mr. Caruth (Ky.) said that he did not rise to enter into any defense of speaker Carlisle. His name and fame were well known. No man had ever retired from the speakers' chair who had the confidence of this country (without regard to party) in a greater degree than had J. G. Carlisle. (democratic applause.)

Mr. Taylor said that he meant to make no attack upon speaker Carlisle. He pointed to these letters only as an illustration of the great power which the rules conferred upon the speaker.

Mr. O'Neill (Mo.) offered an amendment requiring the committee on rules to report back within ten days all

FIGHTING THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Sore-Headed Member From Texas Meddling in Others' Business.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the house today Representative Sayers of Texas from the committee on appropriations reported a resolution providing for an investigation into the management and the expenditures for the World's Fair. The resolution is sweeping in terms and proposes that the inquiry into the subject of expenditures be made to extend to all money raised for the fair both locally and by congress. The World's Fair people, however, were promptly on their feet and insisted through Representative Durborrow in reporting a resolution passed by the World's Fair committee providing for an investigation by that committee into the management and expenditures for the fair. The investigation into the matter of the expenditures for the fair is, however, restricted to the money appropriated by the federal government.

The contest between the two committees for jurisdiction over the matter promises to be bitter when the resolutions are called up in the house.

ALLIANCE MEMBERS PROTEST.

Say Their Congressional Delegation Is Perfectly Harmonious.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The people's party of the house of representatives is intact as a political organization and united as to the party measures which it is to press upon the two houses of the Fifty-second congress. In the caucus which met before the organization of the house and nominated Representative Watson of Georgia as the candidate of the people's party for speaker of the house the nine independent members then assembled decided to preserve their political autonomy on all questions to the end of the session. Within the past few days various reports of alleged dissension in the ranks of the people's party have been current and the third party men tonight complain that these rumors have been inspired by politicians of the other parties and telegraphed throughout the country to papers for political effect. To silence these insidious rumors in their inception the nine regular representatives of the people's party today issued an address to the country in which they say there has been no split between the people's party representatives. The only dissension that has come among the alliance members came when they had conferences with congressmen who adhere to old party lines. The address is signed by the nine independent members.

ITALY STILL SULKING.

Report That She Has Come Down Discredited—Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The reports from Rome that the Italian government contemplates the immediate re-establishment of full diplomatic relations with the United States and that Mr. Catalina, now minister to Denmark, will be accredited to this government are discredited in official circles in Washington.

Senator Sawyer today introduced a bill to repeal the act amending certain sections of the revised statutes requiring steamers to be equipped with lifesaving appliances so far as they relate to the carrying of line projectiles and the means of propelling them on steamers plying exclusively upon any of the lakes, bays or sounds of the United States.

CAN INHERIT IN FRANCE.

The Pope on the Same Plane as Other Persons.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—In the case of the disputed right of the late Marquise du Pleissis to make the pope her universal legatee the court today decided that in view of the events of 1870 and the abolition of the temporal power the pope is entitled to inherit property in France like any other person.

IRONWOOD, Feb. 4.—[Special].—The Norrie mine of this city, whose output of 900,000 tons of ore in 1891 was the largest taken from any iron mine in the world in the same time, has just declared a dividend of $5 a share. This is an addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents. The output this season will reach 1,000,000 tons.

ABSORBED BY THOMSON-HOUSTON

Reports that Detroit Electric Light Company Will Change Hands.

DETROIT, Feb. 4.—It is rumored that the Detroit Electric Light & Power company will soon change hands and become a part of the Thomson-Houston company. The treasurer of the local company denies the rumor and states that the company merely intends to issue some bonds. The present indebtedness of the company is about $400,000 and the last inventory, it is asserted, showed that the plant is worth about $750,000.

CLING TO THE MESSIAH.

That Curious Delusion Still Prevails Among the Indians.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Capt. Eli L. Huggins, aide-de-camp to General Miles, returned this morning from an extensive trip in the Indian territory. He was sent there to investigate and report on the rumors of ghost dancing among the Indians there. "The Arapahoe, Cheyenne and Osage Indians still cling to the belief the messiah will some day appear to save them," said Captain Huggins, "and they are not all disappointed in the failure of the messiah to come among them last year. They do not pretend to know the date of his coming. The former frenzy among them and their excited dances have given way to a belief which has almost become a religion with them. The whites are to be destroyed and the messiah will come. There is no excitement among the whites who live on the land bordering on the reservations and no excitement is at all apparent because no outbreak is feared." Captain Huggins witnessed the distribution of cattle to the Indians at the Cheyenne and Arapahoe agencies. The cattle were supplied by a contractor and were so poor that they that Little Chief objected to them. The officer who inspected the cattle rejected them. An investigation showed that all the poor and worthless cattle were given to the Indians, the fatter ones being shipped to the markets.

JOHNSTOWN FLOOD MEMORIAL.

Appropriate Monument of That Awful Disaster Duly Dedicated.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 4.—The dedication of the Conemaugh Valley Memorial hospital took place in this city today. After prayer by the Rev. Mr. Conner General Hastings made the opening address in which he spoke of the appalling desolation consequent upon the flood and paid a high tribute to the energies of the people of Johnstown as shown in the rapid rebuilding of the city. He was followed by Jas. B. Scott who presented the hospital to the Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital association on behalf of the state flood commission. Addresses of acceptance of the gift were then made by A. V. Barker of Elensburg and Horace Rosemeyer of Johnstown. After the ceremony the hospital, which was erected and furnished by the state flood commission at a cost of $65,000 was thrown open for inspection by the visitors.

HISTORIC CANDLE LIGHTED.

It Was Found in Cornwallis' Tent After His Surrender.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 4.—The Jackson Hermitage ball occurred here tonight. Ex-Governor Porter of Indiana spoke of General Jackson's life and qualities and placed in the hands of Mr. Romero, representing President Diaz of Mexico, the remnant of a candle. It was found in Lord Cornwallis' tent after his surrender to the American army at Yorktown. It was afterwards presented to General Jackson with the request that he light it on every recurring 31st of January, the anniversary of the great victory he achieved at New Orleans, a promise he faithfully kept during his life time. After his death the candle remained in the possession of his relatives and it was only about two years ago that it was given to the Hermitage association. Mr. Romero explained these facts and then lighted the historic candle. Mrs. John G. Christopher then extinguished the candle in the name of Mrs. Harrison and the ceremony was over. The ball was a success.

DEED OF A FIRE-FIEND.

Mrs. Lennig and Her Two Children Smothered by Smoke.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 4.—A fire which caused the loss of life of three persons occurred at an early hour this morning in the house of A. M. Lennig. Mrs. Lennig succeeded in reaching the street in safety. Mrs. Lennig was suffocated and died before she could be taken out of the house and two children were burned to death. Oil was found in several parts of the house which leads to the suspicion of foul play.

A LEADER GONE.

The Warwick of upper peninsula politics, Col. Charles Y. Osburn, is no more. In his death Marquette loses a valued citizen, the upper peninsula one of its foremost men and the republican party a leader who will be sadly missed in the councils of the party and in the heat of the campaign. Devoted to his home city, devoted to the interests of the upper peninsula and the state in which he lived and above all devoted to the party which he loved and for whose principles he so often did battle, Colonel Osburn was a man of far reaching influence and reputation. He was a brilliant man intellectually, polished and affable socially and diplomatic and far-seeing to a marked degree, the result being that he easily acquired a wonderful hold upon those whom he met in the walks of life and was thus enabled to exert a tremendous power in the politics of this portion of the state.

Yet the man thus gifted and thus clothed with the influence that marks the successful politician, using the word in its best and highest sense, was a "king maker" in very truth. He advanced others, for himself he asked no preference. There was no question of his nomination and election to congress from this district had he sought the office but only once was his name presented to a convention and then only at the earnest solicitation of his friends and at such a late hour that many who would otherwise have been his strongest supporters had pledged themselves elsewhere. But though robbed of the support of his own county in that convention by the fortunes of politics, his name rallied forces from every quarter of the district and he virtually shaped the entire course of the convention.

The MINING JOURNAL has cause for regretting the loss of so valuable a life for reasons strictly personal to itself also, for it was to purchase an interest in and assist in the management of the MINING JOURNAL that Colonel Osburn first came to Marquette and to the peninsula in which he early became such a prominent figure. He was even then well known in political circles, having been led to come to Marquette through an acquaintance with Governor Swineford, formed while both were members of the legislature of '71-'72. In all the subsequent years he continued to manifest a friendly interest in and sympathy with the paper and it is with a feeling of intense sorrow and regret that the MINING JOURNAL speaks of so old and well-tried a friend as among those that were and are not.

In Illinois the question of interest on public moneys, since the Wisconsin decision, has become such a live one, that Barrett, republican candidate for the nomination of state treasurer, promises in advance, to pay into the state treasury all the money received for interest. No decision has been made on the point in Illinois, and the treasurers have been pocketing from $30,000 to $40,000 a year in addition to $3,000 salary. The Wisconsin decision that public money is the state's property under all circumstances, and that interest belongs, not to the individual treasurer, but to the public, is certainly sound doctrine for the whole country.

We take the above from a republican exchange to show the trend of opinion regarding the decision in the Wisconsin ex-state treasurer suits and the principle that it establishes relative to the right of the state to the interest earned by its public funds where banks pay for the use of its surplus money deposited with them. The doctrine laid down by Judge Newman in the Wisconsin cases is certainly profitable for the people in its application to their business affairs, and ought to be sound in law, whether it is or not.

WHEN the McKinley bill was passed the French papers were as severe in their denunciations of the measure as were our own democratic organs, though for different reasons. The French people had some cause to dislike it, as it was not hard to perceive that it would eventually have the effect to transfer to this country the manufacture of many articles that we had been procuring from French factories, while with the democrats who derided it the opposition to the bill was inspired by considerations the reverse of patriotic. But though the French did not relish having us use the tariff gate to protect our manufacturers against hurtful foreign competition they are not so foolish as to ignore its value where their own interests are concerned, and they have just raised their own tariff a point higher, to the intense disgust of some of the neighboring nations which are thus practically shut out from the French market on certain lines of manufacture. The democrats who are eternally complaining about the "robber tariff" ought to be able to get a pointer from this.

A SPLIT in the ranks of the republicans gave the democrats an easy victory in the fight over the mayoralty at Duluth this week. Chas. D'Autremont, the democratic candidate, being successful by a plurality of 500 over the people's candidate, Davis, and the regular nominee of the republicans, Mr. Long.

Long got only about 700 votes—just enough to prevent the election of Davis, who was generally supported by the republicans and should have been their nominee. Davis is the present mayor of Duluth and has made himself obnoxious to the lawless element there by insisting on a strict enforcement of the laws regulating the sale of liquor and the suppression of gambling places. The republican bosses were afraid to again make him their candidate because of this and put up Long, instead of endorsing the nomination given Davis by the people's party. As a consequence the democrats now have the mayoralty, and a "wide open" policy will prevail in Duluth under D'Autremont. It is but a swing backward of the pendulum, however, for Duluth is not going to let the gamblers and thugs run her as of yore for any great length of time. They are on top again for an interval in consequence of the blunder made by the republicans in allowing their forces to be divided in the election just held, but the next time that mistake will not be made and decency will again regain the saddle in the zenith city.

REFERRING to the shrewd observation made by General Grant years ago, and which has since been so singularly verified, that the democratic party would break its back on the Alleghenies, tinkering with the tariff, the Evening Wisconsin, of Milwaukee, remarks that "it now looks as though the bourbon organization will come to grief on the silver cliffs of the west and southwest in trying to catch votes of the silverites." That party is always pounding its head against or breaking its back upon some obstruction or another which it has not the ability to surmount nor the intelligence to avoid.

THE Chicago Herald derides the protest of anti-Hill democrats in New York against having the delegate convention in that state set for so early a date, calling it "a senseless howl." It may be senseless in that it will not change the purpose of the party leaders in New York who are executing Hill's will and assisting him to accomplish his aims, but it at least shows that the friends of Cleveland in the state have the sense to know when they are being sat down on and the courage to protest.

A DILATORY CONGRESS.

There is reason to apprehend that the present session of congress will break all previous records for dilatoriness. The session began two months ago and the democrats of the house, who have control of that branch "by a large majority," have not yet agreed on the rules that are to govern in the transaction of business. In fact they are in a quandary over the question of what rules to adopt. If they return to the old rules they will arm the republican minority with power that it can use to obstruct the democratic majority in accomplishing many things that it desires to do, and if they adopt the Reed rules in substance they convict themselves of insincerity and dishonesty in having fought against their adoption and complained so bitterly of their enforcement in the last congress. So they are "between the devil and the deep sea" in the matter of rules, thanks to their stupidity in making such a row over the "czarism" of Reed in the last congress, and do not know which way to turn.

Then, too, the democrats are divided in sentiment on the silver issue, and are mortally afraid to tackle it lest it shall develop a fatal split in the party on the eve of a presidential election. With characteristic cowardice they are attempting to temporize in the hope that some way out of the difficulty that confronts them may be found later. In this they will be disappointed. Difficulties do not melt away of their own accord. They only vanish in the presence of firmness and courage, and these are qualities that the democratic leaders are not conspicuously dowered with.

There seems to be only one man among them who has the courage of his convictions, Cleveland being that one, and the rest are disposed to set him aside for his very fearlessness in advocating what he believes to be right. Reed in the house and Sherman in the senate determined the position of the republican party on the silver question and stamped out the heresy which the silver senators from the western states sought to engraft on republicanism, and the same kind of leaders could now render the democratic party a similar service. But it hasn't got the leaders, or if it has it does not choose to listen to them, hence is forever floundering in the mire of expediency and thereby disgracing the best elements in its ranks and disgracing itself.

Talk's cheap, but when it's backed up by a pledge of the hard cash of a financially responsible firm, or company, of world-wide reputation for fair and honorable dealing, it means business!

Now there are scores of sarsaparillas and other blood-purifiers all cranked up to be the best, most peculiar and wonderful, but bear in mind (for your own sake), there's only one guaranteed blood-purifier and remedy for torpid liver and all diseases that come from bad blood.

That one—standing solitary and alone sold on trial, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If it doesn't do good in skin scalp and scrofulous diseases—and pulmonary consumption is only lung-scrofula—just let its makers know and get your money back.

Talk's cheap but to back a poor medicine, or a common one, by selling it on trial, as "Golden Medical Discovery" is sold, would bankrupt the largest fortune.

Talk's cheap, but only "Discovery" is guaranteed.

Why He Changed. Conductor C. of our early train, was a church member with a reputation of being good natured and mild mannered to all. He's changed in appearance since Saturday's trip. Our train had just started from B—station when we saw some distance off an old woman of the colored persuasion and of 200 pounds weight, shiny and nervous, with carpetbag and umbrella swinging with the energy of her great exertion to catch the train. His heart was touched and he pulled the ropes for "down brakes." At this unusual signal every window was pushed up and an eager head thrust out of each. The conductor smilingly encouraged the would be passenger, and the others cheered her as she thundered along in a full duck gallop. Two lady friends of hers (brunettes) stood upon the platform of the car and frantically beckoned her approach. When at last she was landed by the train, and was helped on by the conductor, three brakemen and a boy, she greeted her two friends with several affectionate "smacks" and a "goodby, children," then rolling back again to the ground she turned to our polite conductor and said, "Thank you, boss," and waddled away.

That train was started as by one in a spasm, and the minister read on the following evening a prayer request from the wife of a backsliding conductor.—Troy Telegram.

An Interesting Tennis Battle.

There is something superb about the loftiness of the average British army officer when in the presence of "civilians." In the recent tennis tournament for the championship of the maritime provinces of Canada, Halifax sent the flower of her majesty's officers to compete for tennis laurels. The military men poopohed the idea that the "civilians" had of making a fight worth talking about with British redcoats. "Now, if you had any military men here," said one, "it might be different." They stalked around with a majestic army stride before the tourney began. Then two young men, hardly more than boys, who had heard the talk about the "civilians," tightened their belts and went for the whole British army.

They defeated all her majesty's players save two, the "crack" pair of Halifax, and when their turn to meet came the humiliated officers leaned back and smiled once more in a superior way. "Now let these youngsters beat them, if they can," they said. And the youngsters did beat them. They played tennis that made the officers shiver, and thrashed them beautifully. The military men couldn't explain it, but the boys could. "I would rather have beaten those fellows than the best player in the world," said one of them, and the young "civilian" shut his teeth, "and I'd like to do it again."—New York Tribune.

A Letter That Came at Last.

Dory Coal, a farmer of Saunders county, came to the city Wednesday after his mail, and one of the letters handed him was from his former sweetheart, Miss Harris, written at Port Bryan, Ills., May 8, 1875. KNOCKING OUT A JEHU.

Resentment of the Insults of a Big Stage Driver by a Little Dude.

Colonel William Greene Sterrett, of the Galveston-Dallas News, tells this story:

"Once, a good many years ago," he said, "I was traveling in a stage in western Texas. It was long before the moor of the locomotive was heard on the prairies of that region, over which the buffalo yet roamed.

At one of the stations a young Englishman and his wife got in. He was a little fellow and dressed as a typical Englishman—what we now call a dude. The driver was a big, raw boned six footer. He was a noted fighter. He had never been whipped and was a regular terror.

He seemed to take a dislike to the little Englishman from the start. Presently he stopped the stage, got down, came back and threw open the door.

"Here," he said to the Englishman, "you come out of that and get up on the seat with me. There ain't room for you in there." The Englishman didn't move. "Come out, I tell you," roared the driver. The Englishman just sat still.

"If you don't come out, I'll haul you out by the legs," shouted the Jehu. Then the rest of us expostulated with the driver. I was too tired to fight and couldn't get at my gun, so I just expostulated along with the rest.

We told the driver there was plenty of room inside; that the Englishman was not crowding us, and that if he (the driver) insulted or injured any of his passengers he would be discharged by the stage company.

The driver by this time was wild. He swore he was in command of that stage and that he proposed to run it to suit himself, and if that blankety blank cuss didn't come out he'd pull him out.

"All right," said the Englishman, at last. "I will come out, and when I am out I will whip you soundly."

"He got out slowly. We all felt sorry for him and sorry for his wife. She didn't seem scared or worried, though, and all she said was:

"Charley, don't let him scratch your face."

"Well, when the little Englishman got out he took his coat off and handed it back into the stage. Then he started toward him and the driver started toward him. We heard a sound a good deal like that made by hitting a steer in the head with an ax.

Down in a heap went the driver. He was up as quick as a flash. Down he went again. Actually that little English dude knocked that burly six foot driver clean off his feet a dozen times. How it was done none of us could tell.

The big fellow would rush at the little 'un with his arms going like flails. Suddenly the little fellow would make a dash, his right arm would fly out, and down would go the driver. After the dozenth round that driver called out:

"Hold on, stranger—hold on! I'm whipped and throw up my hands. You kin ride anywhere on this stage you darn please, outside or inside or on the horses. You're the boss now; but," he added, glaring savagely at the rest of us, "I kin lick anybody else on this stage."

"We didn't expostulate. The Englishman climbed back into the stage as quickly as he got off. His wife was satisfied, for 'Charley's' face wasn't even scratched. At the next station the driver explained that if he'd only have got hold of the little fellow he'd have hugged him to death like a bear; 'but,' he exclaimed, 'every time just as I was about to lay hands on him the ground'd fly up and hit me on the back of the head.'

"Who was the little fellow? Oh, a graduate of Cambridge, and the best boxer of his time at the university."—Washington Post.

INSTANTLY AND PAINLESSLY

Death of Burton H. Pillsbury at St. Mary's Hospital Early Yesterday Morning.

SAD AND REMARKABLE ENDING OF SEVERE GUNSHOT WOUND.

A New England Boy's Fatal Trial of the Snow Shoes—A Nephew of Rev. F. C. Pillsbury.

THEY TURNED AND HE WAS DEAD

Burton H. Pillsbury died suddenly at St. Mary's hospital yesterday morning shortly after 7 o'clock, death being sudden and painless from embolism or blood clot in the heart. The young man was a seventeen years of age and was born in Tuxbury, Mass. He was a nephew of Rev. F. C. Pillsbury of the First M. E. church, of this city, and came west from New England with his father a short time ago for a visit, his father also being a clergyman.

During his visit here he went up into the homestead country near Kenton for a visit and one morning started out for a tramp on snow shoes with his gun. He had gone only a little ways when he tripped and fell, the gun being discharged and its contents entering the left thigh just where it joins the abdomen and passing downward toward the knee. His father heard his cries and hurried to his assistance, just as he picked him up and started for the cabin with him a lumber team came along breaking a road and a conveyance was hastily rigged up and the wounded boy taken to the railroad. He was brought to this city immediately, reaching St. Mary's hospital a week ago Sunday.

The wound was a very severe one but Dr. Thibault managed to clean it thoroughly and the young man improved so rapidly in the last few days that he believed him practically out of danger and his relatives and friends rejoiced at his speedy convalescence. He was apparently strong and happy when the sister in charge of his ward started to get his breakfast yesterday morning but a few minutes later convulsions in the same ward was attracted by something strange in his appearance and stepping hastily over to his cot found him dead.

REPORTORIAL PENCILINGS.

Miss Clara Ray is down from Ishpeming visiting her sister, Mrs. C. M. Gooding. E. L. Bice, of the First National bank, is in Detroit on a two weeks' vacation. W. F. Dermont, manager of the Trout Creek Lumber company, was in the city yesterday. Louis Grabowsky came down from Ishpeming yesterday to enter Grabow's as a clerk temporarily. J. E. Reau, agent of the Palast Brewing Co., announces a rebate of 25 cents to all his patrons who pay cash for their case beer. J. W. Young is home from Detroit, where he attended the Masonic grand lodge; he brought back a slice of the grip with him. R. M. Abel came home yesterday from Muskegon where he attended the state meeting of the A. O. U. W. as the representative of Grafton lodge of this city. A telephone cable was stretched across Front street yesterday to the new Savings' bank building. It carries wires for all the 'phones which will be placed in the building. The "Once a Week Club" held its regular meeting at Mrs. C. F. Schock's residence, No. 216 North Third street last evening. A very enjoyable time was spent, with music, songs, dancing, etc., etc. Dan Mullally is out once more and though looking pale and thin from his confinement and traveling on crutches, the leg broken at the Davison fire is doing well and will soon be as serviceable as ever. The MINING JOURNAL editorial force have to return their thanks this morning to some unknown friend or friends for a basket of elegant cake, which reached the office in some mysterious manner last evening. The cake is gone, but the basket still remains and also the remembrance of the excellence of its contents. The great clearing sale lately announced by G. Hallstrom & Co. has kept the clerks at the Emporium busy from early morning until late every evening. Mr. Hallstrom's purpose in holding the sale is to make room for an immense stock of spring goods already ordered and the sale will continue a about two weeks longer. Mr. Hallstrom's trimmer, Miss Hopkins, leaves for Chicago next week to look up the latest styles in trimmings; she will return to open his millinery department about the first of March. STOOD THE TEST. Alcock's Porous Plasters are unapproachable in curative properties, rapidly and safely of action, and are the only reliable plasters ever produced. They have successfully stood the test of over thirty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon the reputation of Alcock's by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be "just as good as Alcock's" and they stand today indorsed by not only the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy. Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentations. Ask for Alcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Titles and Plats "Mister."

Not many years ago the title of doctor was considered justly as an honor and an evidence of sound education and training.

The extraordinary fondness in this country for titles of all kinds, especially those of doctor, professor and colonel or some military equivalent, has taken away all the prestige from the name. The druggist at the corner is a "doctor," the chiroprapist is a "professor," and the advertising columns of some newspapers are emblazoned with pictures of these long haired "doctors" and "professors." To a man who has been a groom the bestowal of "doctor medicine," no doubt, still confers an honor; but, on the whole, the title has become rather a trade mark and a convenient means of unobtrusive advertisement rather than a badge of distinction or evidence of scholarly attainment.

There seems to be a growing feeling that, after all, the title of "mister" is as noble a one as a gentleman needs or can desire.

This is the title that is almost now a distinction among medical men, who feel their own strength and rest on their consciousness of being masters of their art—the good old title of "mister," which some of the best men in the profession find ample for all social and professional purposes. It is certainly infinitely more honorable than any unacademic or unwarranted use of the title of "doctor." And I see many indications that this view is shared by the professional and by many who think they have a right by courtesy to something more.—New York Herald.

It Came Off, for Once.

"How now! What ho! dear sir," said an old rounder, stopping me at the Washington statue in front of Independence hall, "will you allow me, beneath the shadow of this historic building, to speak a few words to you?"

"Well, go ahead," I said. "For about the fiftieth time I read the Declaration of Independence today," he continued, "and I pondered long and deeply over it. I believe the whole gist of it is that 'all men are free and equal. Am I not right?"

"Certainly. But what have I to do with that?" I asked.

"Everything, my dear sir; everything," he replied. "You are a good American, I know, and that is the reason why I wished to say to you that men are not free and equal in all cases."

"In what cases are they not?" "Well, take for instance our own case," he said with all seriousness. "True, we are both free, but we are not equal. You have more money about you to buy a brace. I have not. Therefore we are not equal. Do I make myself clear?"

"Perfectly. Here you are. Will ten pence upon an equal footing?"

"Undoubtedly. Would that all Americans thought as much of our fundamental principles."

"And he shot up the street rejoicing in the fact that for once he was free and equal.—Philadelphia Press.

Names of London Streets.

I don't wonder that reformers shudder when it comes to the names of streets. I myself have counted twenty-six King streets, sixteen Queen streets and thirteen Duke streets in this town! The same name will repeat itself in street, road, place, crescent and square, upper and lower, east and west, until the brain begins to soften. We've spent more shillings in directing cabs to Gloucester something or other, when we ought to have gone to Gloucester something else, than I dare tell.

Bob declares he'll be chained to an address book hereafter. I suppose a good deal of this repetition is due to the greediness with which London swallows up town after town. But really there is no excuse for baptizing the same streets several times. One street in our neighborhood, not half a mile long, has three names. It's a blessing to get into Piccadilly, Oxford street and the Strand, for then I know where I am; but now I come to think of it, I don't know anything of the sort, for Piccadilly runs into Knights bridge, that street runs into several things, the Strand becomes Fleet street at Temple Bar—or, perhaps I ought to say, at the place where Temple Bar once stood—and Oxford street loses itself in Holborn.—London Cor. Kate Field's Washington.

The Glow Worm's Light.

The English glow worm is the wingless female of a winged beetle. Some suppose that the light she bears is bestowed for her protection to scare away the nightingale and other nocturnal birds. Others, however, believe that the gift of brightness is the very lure by which her foes are assisted to discover and devour her. Much speculation has been indulged in as to the nature of the glow worm's light, which is not put out by water nor seemingly capable of giving forth any heat. It has been asserted that the light diffusing substance contains phosphorus, but this has never been proved. Certainly it is incapable of communicating ignition to anything.—Washington Star.

A Ticking Tombstone.

A "ticking tombstone" draws many visitors to the cemetery of the London Tract meeting house on the boundary line between Delaware and Pennsylvania. Two centuries ago the region was settled by Quakers from London, and the meeting house is quaint and venerable. A constant ticking comes from one of the old tombstones; and while many superstitious ears listen to the sound with awe, practical people say that the strange noise is caused by a subterranean rivulet, which drains drop by drop, against the base of the tombstone.—Yankee Blade.

A Sad Completion.

"I'll never publish another book anonymously as long as I live," said a poet on Christmas morning. "Why not?" queried a friend. "Because I have already received five copies of my own book from my admirers, with the compliments of the season."—Harper's

Why the Shark is Always Hungry.

As it is a source of wonder how the flea manages to exist in the sand, where his chances of obtaining a meal may not occur once in a lifetime, so naturalists are puzzled as to how the shark maintains himself. The ocean is wide, and the number of men who fall overboard small indeed in comparison to its area. The vast proportion of sharks then, must go through their lives with out a remote chance of obtaining a meal at the expense of the human kind.

There is no ground for the supposition that the shark can exist upon air; he is not like the whale, provided with an apparatus that enables him to sweep up the tiny inhabitants of the seas. He is too slow in swimming, and infinitely too slow in turning, to catch any fish that did not deliberately swim into his mouth, and unless we suppose that, as it is said of the snake, he exercises a magnetic influence over fish and causes them to rush headlong to destruction between his jaws, it is impossible to imagine how he obtains a sufficient supply of food for his sustenance.

Indeed, it would appear that it is only when he gets the good luck to light upon a dead or badly injured fish that the shark has ever the opportunity of making a really square meal. His prolonged fasts certainly furnish an ample explanation and excuse for his alleged savagery of disposition.—London Standard.

Uses for a Bottle of Gold Paint.

A twenty-five cent bottle of gold paint is a capital investment for any woman. She will find a dozen occasions for its use every week of her life. Perhaps she chips some bit of Japanese or other fancy porcelain in dusting; a brushful of gold paint over the chip will make everything right. A gilt picture or mirror frame may be bruised or tarnished; call in the little bottle again and remedy in five minutes and for a fraction of a cent a damage the cabinet maker would charge a dollar to repair and keep your frame a couple of days besides.

By the by, you girls who are clever with your paint brushes, did you ever spend a few dollars at the damaged counters of the large Japanese stores? Do you know that you can buy for a trifle lovely delicate vases and bits of oriental ware that would sell for many dollars were it not for a crack or a chip somewhere. Buy them joyfully, take them home tenderly and spend half an hour with your paint box, filling up the nick with flour paste, plaster of paris or putty. Any of these will take color nicely, and if carefully painted and dried the vases will be practically as good as the best.—New York Press.

A Hard Joke on a Bashful Couple.

A pretty girl from out of town had been staying for some time with a young lady friend in Buffalo, and as the time for her departure drew nigh a young man from out of town turned up and volunteered to attend the young girl on her homeward journey. The hostess put up a liberal lunch for the travelers, and then filled in all the crevices with rice. She also put some in the young man's coat pockets, sid some into the young lady's parasol, and likewise deposited some in the depths of the young man's umbrella. Both boarded the train without noticing these suggestive additions to their traps.

The result is not yet known, but as the young man is slightly bashful, and the young lady is known to blush on slight provocation, the consequences, when the rice fell all over the car floor, can be imagined.—Buffalo Enquirer.

SUBSTITUTE FOR "MATCHES"

During Louis Grabowsky's Absence Nat. Tonkin Will Fill That Important Post.

CHIEF ROUTHIER'S APPOINTMENT APPROVED.

Resolutions of Respect for the Late Wellick O. Tislov—Personal and Miscellaneous News Notes.

TONKIN SUCCEEDS GRABOWSKY.

Louis Grabowsky, the fireman of Hose Co. No. 1 of this city who operates the lantern and match job in case of a night fire, left the city Wednesday for Marquette where he will assist in the operation of the business of L. Grabower of that city during the latter's illness.

During Grabowsky's absence Nat. Tonkin, through his ambition to become a fireman, has received the appointment of "matches," as the boys term it. There is no doubt but that Tonkin will make a hustler at the job. Chief Routhier is responsible for the appointment and the fire ladders are having considerable fun—and other things—at Mr. Tonkin's expense.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of the Ishpeming fire department, held at No. 1 engine house on Monday evening, February 1, 1892, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from this life an ex-chief of this department and an honorary member of the same, in the person of Wellick O. Tislov, be it

Resolved, by the Ishpeming fire department, that we extend our honor to bear testimony to his worth as a citizen, his bearing as a fireman, and his faithfulness as a fireman, and that we herewith tender to his sorrowing wife and children our most sincere sympathy in this, their hour of trial and distress, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be given to the city papers with a request for the publication of the same, and an engraved copy be presented by our chief to the wife of our late comrade.

JOHN BOWDEN, J. S. MENNIE, CHRIST HANSSON, T. MCNAMARA, W. H. TREMBATH, Committee.

The following resolutions of respect were adopted by the common council at their regular meeting on Wednesday evening:

WHEREAS, In view of the loss sustained by the death of Wellick O. Tislov, ex-alderman of this city, and of the still heavier loss sustained by those who were near and dear to him; therefore be it

Resolved, That it be and a just tribute of memory to say that in removing his removal from our midst we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased and that this be spread on the minutes and a copy of the same be sent to them.

J. H. MALLOY, FRED. J. EGGAN, Committee.

New Stalls.

For the accommodation of the second team of horses recently purchased by the common council for street work and for use on the hook and ladder truck in case of fire, two new stalls are being built in the rear of the hook and ladder room at No. 1 engine house. The extra team will be kept there by night so that it will be in readiness in case of fire. The stalls will be built where the coal bin stood. In case of fire by night the second team will prove a valuable addition, as much time was often lost in waiting for a team to arrive to take out the hook and ladder truck. Plenty of work can be found on the streets to keep the team busy.

Works Smoothly.

Yesterday morning the Negaunee & Ishpeming Electric Street Railway Co. opened its line for the accommodation of the public and during the day the cars made several trips between this city and Negaunee. Everything in connection with the motors and cars worked like a charm, and the cars ran as smoothly as though they had been in operation for years. Yesterday they did not run any further than the South Shore depot in this city, but today the road "will be clear and everything will be in readiness so that the cars can be run as far as the Ishpeming hospital which will be the terminus of the road this winter.

Improving Rapidly.

Martin Casey, who lost a limb in an accident on the C. & N. W. railroad in this city a little over a month ago, is improving rapidly. He is at the Ishpeming hospital and is now able to come down stairs and visit the office. Ole Grotta, the champion boy ski runner, who injured his knee joint about three weeks ago while taking the Brasserie hill on skis, is also able to walk about the hospital and is doing well.

Died Yesterday.

At an early hour yesterday morning Seth F., the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. F. Vidlund, died at the family residence on Strawberry Hill of inflammation of the bowels. Mr. and Mrs. Vidlund have the sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement. The funeral will take place Sunday from the Swedish Methodist church.

Of Typhoid Fever.

On Wednesday Carl A. Bjorlander, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. W. Bjorlander, died at his home on West High street of typhoid fever. The funeral will be held today.

First in the New Hall.

Hematite Camp of Modern Woodmen was the first lodge to be called to order in the new and beautiful Anderson Hall; it held its meeting there on Wednesday evening.

Hurt His Back.

Three of the handles on the casket of the late W. O. Tislov broke while the body was being conveyed from the house to the hearse on Tuesday afternoon last, letting the casket drop to the floor. Mr. Fred J. Eggen had hold of the head of the casket and retained his hold, but the weight was so great that his back received a severe wrenching. Mr. Eggen was confined to his room yesterday as a result of the mishap.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Notice the change of advertisement of Mr. Peter Hein on this page.

The street cars will leave this city for Negaunee every twenty minutes during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hjalman E. Johnson lost a boy baby, one year old, on Tuesday last of heart disease.

Mrs. J. N. Williams, of Marquette, was here yesterday visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joseph M. Hayden.

Mr. Geo. A. St. Clair left the city on Wednesday for Detroit and Cleveland, where he will transact business of a mining nature for a few days.

Mrs. W. A. Clark (nee Bray), of Crystal Falls, is in this city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bray. She will remain for another week.

A return party will be given on the 12th inst. at Anderson's Hall to the ladies who tendered the leap year party to their gentlemen friends last Friday evening.

E. McArthur, of Marquette, who brought a number of car loads of apples to this section last fall, is in the city, and says that he will have a car load of choice apples here next week.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Schneider, of Deer Lake, died on Wednesday aged eighteen months and was buried in the Catholic cemetery yesterday. The funeral took place from St. John's church and was conducted by Rev. Fr. Boissonault.

Zenith lodge No. 33, K. of P., will give a social dance at its hall on Friday evening, the 19th inst. A few friends of the members will be asked to participate. The invited guests can consider themselves fortunate as the K. of P. boys never do anything by halves.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Parks, of this city, received word yesterday of the serious illness of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kunz, of Eagle Harbor, with the grip. Mr. and Mrs. Parks left for that place yesterday, as did also Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Heppie and Mrs. John Shand, all relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Coons.

The Evolution of the Sword.

As men in early times fought hand to hand, the oldest specimens of the sword are short; in fact, the sword is probably but an evolution of the club, which at first made of hard wood was gradually sharpened on one and then on both sides, so as to inflict a more deadly wound. Even today we find some savage races employing wooden weapons. Wood gave way to stone, which in turn was displaced by bronze, iron and finally steel.

Unasked Sympathy.

I cannot touch a piece of velvet with my fingers or permit the furry side of a peach skin to touch my lips without experiencing immediately a sort of cold chill all over my person. It is not so very severe, but it is unpleasant. Still I would prefer to live forever under the ban of such a chill than to be compelled to meet once a day one of those elegant bundles of insincerity and pretense, the metuous and effusive chap who thinks you are not properly treated and never loses an opportunity to tell you so. Of course I am aware I am not properly appreciated, but I detest being told of the fact by another person, who never lifts a finger in my behalf, and who only wags his tongue in my favor when I am by to see him do it.—Detroit Free Press.

Helping One Another.

A seventh ward man rises in the early dawn of Monday morning and does the family washing, because his wife has an organic heart trouble. After he goes to his daily toil, with the consciousness of having performed his duty, she goes over and does the washing for the minister's family.—Springfield Homestead.

A Mischievous Schoolgirl.

Commodore P. Vedder, while a young man, teaching school, had occasion to punish a mischievous girl, and, as was usual in that day and locality, was about to resort to the ferule. To the offending maid he said, "Miss—, give me your hand." She dropped her head and blushed. Again he said, sternly, "Miss—, I say, give me your hand." Slowly lifting her eyes, she remarked: "Mr. Vedder, this is embarrassing for me. You should not make such proposals in public. However, you must ask my papa first.—Buffalo Express.

The Amateur Actress.

We had rather throw aside this pen forever than to write a word to discourage any woman who is conscientiously striving to earn a position on the stage; but there are other women—some in the profession, some in the audience—to whom it is grossly unfair to put forth an inexperienced amateur as a star. Consider, ladies and gentlemen, what a poor, miserable art that of acting would be if anybody could acquire it in a few lessons, in a year or so, from a private box across the footlights to the center of the stage. It takes a longer time to learn to be a carpenter or to play a piano, to be a dressmaker or to paint a picture, to be a typewriter or to cut hair properly, than amateurs who are now willing to bestow upon the art which includes, employs and dignifies all other arts from statuesque posing to wig wearing. If acting could be taught in a day it would not be so well paid nor so highly esteemed, and good acting would not be so uncommon.—Stephen Fiske in Spirit of the Times.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at H. H. Stafford, Son & Co.'s, who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles' unequalled New Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, drowsy, etc. His Restorative Nerve cures headache, etc. H. H. Stafford, Son & Co.'s.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, changeable, easily get the blues and "take the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the Restorative Nerve, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits and hysteria. Trial bottles and time book of testimonials free at H. H. Stafford, Son & Co.'s.

CHARLES Y. OSBURN DEAD

A Kindly, Courteous, Brainy Man,
A Leader Among His Fellow
Men, Is Gone.

FOR NEARLY TWENTY YEARS A
RESIDENT OF MARQUETTE.

Collector of District of Superior for Ten
Years—Leader of the Republican

A DISTINGUISHED LIFE.

Col. Charles Y. Osburn died at his home on East Ridge street yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock, the cause of death being attributed to heart failure. The colonel had been in poor health for some time and during the last week he was so seriously ill that the gravest fears were entertained by his friends but he seemed to rally from the effects of his illness and Wednesday, and again yesterday morning, seemed to be doing remarkably well. A few minutes after his physician had left the house for a walk, or at about 11 o'clock, a sudden change came and then, quietly and peacefully, without a word or a struggle, the man who had been such a force in upper peninsula affairs passed away.

Of the colonel's three brothers one, Fred, was present at his bedside throughout his illness while warm friends of many years standing were eager to do anything in their power to assist in caring for him. But everything that medical skill could suggest or tried friends secure alike failed in the end to save the life of him for whom they fought disease.

At his death Colonel Osburn was collector of this port, the customs district of Superior, and also supervisor of the ward in which he lived, an office which he accepted in order to set an example in which others should find a lesson and a moral. He was also, as for many years before, chairman of the Marquette county republican committee.

Born in Meadville, Pa., in 1842, he came to Michigan with his parents in 1857, settling at Owosso. In 1862, before his twentieth birthday, he enlisted in the Fifth Michigan cavalry in which he served until retired for disability as the result of wounds received in one of the hottest cavalry engagements of the war, that at Hawes' Shop, Virginia, May 28th, 1864. Soon after his enlistment he was made sergeant-major of the Fifth, promoted to second lieutenant, August 18, 1865; first lieutenant, November 2, 1865; captain, August 9, 1864, and honorably discharged September 29, 1864, for disability, his brevets being given at the close of war for "gallant and meritorious conduct during the war."

Russell A. Alger was colonel of the Fifth Michigan cavalry during the latter part of the war and Lieutenant Osburn was his adjutant. The Fifth was a part of the famous Michigan cavalry brigade which did such service under Custer, Kilpatrick and Sheridan in the Virginia campaigns, at Gettysburg and in the closing days of the rebellion. At Hawes' Shop the Fifth had eleven officers and one hundred and fifty men engaged and of these five officers and fifty men were either killed or wounded, Lieut. Osburn being among those severely wounded.

Returning to Owosso after his discharge Mr. Osburn engaged in business there and entering politics was elected to the legislature of 1871-72 from Shiawassee county and there met A. P. Swineford as the member from Marquette. The acquaintance thus formed resulted in his coming to Marquette and purchasing an interest in the MINING JOURNAL, which he conducted with Governor Swineford for several years. Retiring from his connection with this paper he was appointed special inspector of customs May 18, 1875, and December 1, 1875, on the resignation of H. A. Downs, special deputy collector under Joseph H. Chandler, then collector of this port, Colonel Osburn became his successor. In 1877 Mr. Chandler resigned and June 22nd of that year Mr. Osburn became the collector. Reappointed in 1881 he held the office until the close of his second term, when a democratic administration having come in, C. H. Call was named as his successor. On the expiration of Mr. Call's term President Harrison named Colonel Osburn as his successor and taking the oath January 11, 1890, he was once more installed in his old office.

During the nearly twenty years of his residence in Marquette he was intimately connected with the leading men of Marquette county and the Lake Superior iron region in politics and business matters. James Pickands and J. C. Morse were his especially strong friends; together they shaped the course of conventions, municipal, county and district, and they were also associated in many important business undertakings. At the time of his death the colonel was the secretary and one of the principal stockholders of the Lake Shore Iron Works, as he was of its predecessor, the Iron Bay Manufacturing company, while he was also interested in other upper peninsula industries.

Some years after his removal to Marquette, Colonel Osburn brought here as his bride a daughter of Judge Gould, of Owosso, a charming woman whose untimely death is even now mourned by those who formed her acquaintance in the few short years which she passed here before she was called to her long home. Her early death caused a great change in her husband and he never fully recovered from it. She died just a little over ten years ago. Last June the colonel was called upon to mourn the death of his father and mother, one passing away on the 25th and the other on the 27th.

Colonel Osburn's personal popularity was something marvelous. There was a charm about his manner and conversation which made him a favorite with all classes, even his strongest political foes being forced to acknowledge its power. He was a brilliant and interesting talker upon any theme which chanced to interest him, remarkably well informed upon subjects even apart from the usual fields of reading and research, possessing a very cultivated ear. Physically a veritable son of Anak, he possessed brain power proportionate to his body and had he been ambitious in that direction he had the intellect to adorn the very highest official position. Such was the man and the citizen lost to Marquette yesterday, a man who undoubtedly possessed more warm personal friends than any other in the city, and such is the plain story of his life. His remains will be taken to Owosso today for interment by the side of his parents, his wife also being buried there. A short sermon will be held at the house at 4 o'clock by Archdeacon Williams and then the remains will be escorted to the depot for the 5:30 train by the veterans of Albert Jackson post, No. 300, G. A. R., of which Colonel Osburn was a member. Meanwhile the flag on the federal building still floats at half-mast, a mute emblem of the city's loss.

Bill Nye Tickets.
The reserved seat diagram for Bill Nye and A. P. Burbank will be opened at H. H. Stafford, Son & Co.'s this morning at 9 o'clock and while the fellow who is late probably won't get hurt in the crush he certainly won't get a very desirable seat. In some quarters it seems that there is an impression that the engagement of Nye and Burbank is part of the regular course of entertainments of the Epworth League and that the course tickets will be good for Wednesday evening. This is entirely a mistake and those who have made it should lose no time in securing tickets of the proper kind.

General Manager Fitch announces that there will be a special train on Wednesday evening to take up-the-road people home after the entertainment and this should ensure a large attendance from Ishpeming and Negaunee and other up-the-road points.

All Cash Prizes.
The posters announcing the masquerade ball by the Marquette Masquerade club are now out and announce $50 in cash prizes for that event, which will take place at the Casino on Friday evening, February 19th. The following are the prizes offered: Best fancy dressed couple, $12; second best, $6; best comic couple, $8; second best, $5; best masked gentleman, $4; best masked lady, $4; best single comic gentleman, $4; best single comic lady, $4; best character costume, $3.

The music will be furnished by the Marquette City band and the floor will be covered with canvas. Supper will be served at the Hotel Brunswick. The admission will be 50 cents a person; everybody invited.

Coming In Force.
There are no flies on the people of Sault Ste. Marie. At least Manager Shute, of the Soo Opera house is going to bring twenty of them up here on Tuesday evening next to take in one of the opening nights at the Marquette Opera house and demonstrate to the good people of Marquette that the above statement is true. Joseph Trempe received a letter yesterday notifying him that the party was coming, the second evening being chosen because the Souites were afraid that they would not be able to get seats on the first evening. The Soo is bound to help open that house, even if the round trip is over three hundred miles.

The Masquerade Carnival.
The preparations indicate that the masquerade carnival at the Casino Saturday evening will be the greatest assemblage of masked characters seen in Marquette for years. Fully thirty have already signified their intention of coming down from Ishpeming and Negaunee in full costume and the dealers here have found it necessary to send away for more masks and dominoes, so great has been the demand.

Picked Up In a Fit.
Yesterday afternoon Conductor Connell picked up a man in front of Klein & Adlers' who was apparently in a fit and promptly turned him over to Marshal Maloney. The man had been acting queerly recently and will now be examined to see if he is insane. He was found to be Adolf Sundberg who has been working for the Hager & Johnson Manufacturing company. He is an unmarried man living with a sister here.

Announced Tomorrow.
Special trains and special rates of fare will be announced by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road tomorrow for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, the opening nights at the Marquette Opera House. The trains will leave after the close of the entertainment each night to carry up-the-road people to their homes.

As a Guard of Honor.
The members of Albert Jackson post, No. 300, G. A. R., will meet at the new post rooms in the L'huillier block on Washington street at 3 p. m. sharp today wearing the regulation hats and badges, to escort the remains of their late comrade, Col. Charles Y. Osburn, to the train which is to bear them to their last resting place in lower Michigan.
