DEEP WATERWAY PROSPECTS. General Poe, the government engineer in charge of the harbor and connecting waterways improvements on the great lakes.

The improvements in the St. Mary's Falls canal and the locks will probably be finished within three years at the present rate of progress.

Despite the doubt expressed by the Herald's authority as to the closing down of the Anaconda, the MINING JOURNAL is quite reliably informed that the management has determined to close down on the date mentioned.

step is not taken with any view to affecting the market or on account of its present condition.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS.

Alluding to the endeavors of a few misguided individuals to make out that Columbus was not as good as he might be, their motive being very obviously to prevent non-Catholic Americans from paying honor to the memory of a man who was born and bred and died a Roman Catholic.

As we know nothing absolutely and unqualifiedly about him, and know a great deal that was to his credit, there can be no harm in giving him as an historical character the benefit of all doubts.

the size and capacity of all vessels plying the lakes. The increase of carrying capacity will decrease the cost of handling freights and will cheapen western products in the east and eastern products in the west.

Do you consider these lake improvements among the most important authorized by Congress?

Unquestionably. There are, of course, a great many important works aside from those on the lakes, but the money expended on lake improvements is so far reaching in its effect.

"GOT IT IN THE NECK."

The Common Council Sat Down Hard on Mayor Adams and His Band of Obstructionists Last Night.

NO MORE NONSENSE IN THE STREET RAILWAY BUSINESS.

Authority to Enjoin Withdrawn and the Street Railway Company Assured of No Further Vexatious Interference.

"NO MORE FOOLISHNESS."

The caption of this article expresses the sense of the common council of this city on the street railway question, as put in the shape of action at the meeting held last evening to receive and act on the report submitted by the special committee appointed to meet and confer with the officers of the street railway company relative to the matters assumed by Mayor Adams and his supporters to be in dispute between the company and the city.

The MINING JOURNAL has heretofore explained the status of the contention fully and when the council met last evening the members of that body had a more perfect understanding of the whole business than at any previous meeting, owing to the discussion of it in this paper and in the conference between the special council committee and the street railway officers held Tuesday night, the result of which was given to the people in Wednesday morning's issue of this paper.

The council convened at 8 o'clock with the mayor in the chair and thirteen of the aldermen in their seats. The minutes of the preceding meeting having been read, and approved after several corrections had been made, the report of the special committee was called up. Alderman Moore, from that committee, explained that one of the members who was present at the conference with the railway officials was absent and that the committee desired that an adjournment should be taken to Monday evening next in order that he could be in attendance. The missing member was Alderman Powell and Alderman Moore moved an adjournment until Monday evening in order that Mr. Powell might be present to participate in a discussion of the questions involved. The mayor put the motion and declared it carried, though it was quite manifest to everybody in the chamber that it had been lost.

A ye a and nay vote was called for and it appeared that the council was not disposed to wait on the stalwart alderman from the Third ward, despite the well-known fact that he stands "nearer the throne" under this administration than any other man in the council. The vote in favor of taking up and disposing of the business before the council without Mr. Powell was as follows, it being polled on Alderman Moore's motion to adjourn, which the mayor had declared carried: Noes—Agnave, Desjardins, Ward, Hennessey, Johnsonson, McGregor, Siegel, Stafford, Yeas—Gillett, Moore, Gravel, Williams, Young.

Alderman Moore then read the report of the special committee, which recommended the adoption of the numerous proposed amendments to the franchise of the street railway company prepared at the instance of the mayor by the city attorney, and submitted at a previous meeting.

Alderman Hennessey moved to lay the report on the table and the motion was promptly seconded by Alderman Desjardins. When it was put by the mayor the storm of "ayes" that arose from the aldermanic seats left his orator in no doubt as to where the council stood on the report. After giving the council a chance to vote "no" that was faintly taken advantage of he declared the motion carried and, the first knock-out for the mayor and his backers was scored by those who were keeping tab on the proceedings.

Alderman Hennessey followed up his advantage by moving that the vote by which the mayor at a previous meeting was authorized and empowered to proceed by injunction to restrain the street railway company from extending its line on the route contemplated by its plans be reconsidered and rescinded. The vote on this was again decisive enough to satisfy the mayor that the motion had prevailed, and he declared it carried, but with tears in his voice.

Again the alderman from the Second ward arose to his feet, and, as if to administer the coup de grace to the writhing victim in the chair, moved that the street railway company be authorized to proceed with the construction of its extensions as proposed without further obstruction or annoyance from the municipal authorities. This motion being put was carried with a vote that left no doubt of the earnestness of the majority of the aldermen in the matter. That disposed of the street railway business proper, but the end was not yet. Alderman Desjardins moved that the city engineer be instructed by the common council to discharge his duties from this time forward without regard to directions given him by any person, officer of the city or otherwise, outside of the council, by which he is employed and to which alone he is responsible for the proper discharge of his duties. The motion prevailed by a large majority, and the worst snub administered to Mayor Adams since he has occupied the executive chair went on record, while the recorder dropped a big tear on the page where he noted it down.

A motion to adjourn by Alderman Hennessey was withdrawn by him at the request of Dr. Desjardins, who wanted to hear from the special commission on charter revision appointed by the mayor some three months ago by direction of the council, and which was charged with the work of preparing and submitting to the council a revision of the charter to be sent to the legislature for its sanction next winter. Alderman Desjardins reminded the council that the session of the legislature would open in about two months from date and that in the meantime it would be necessary for the council to carefully consider the proposed revision; that this was a work of considerable labor and that there was no time to be lost if it is to be done properly. The mayor had apparently forgotten all about the charter revision business and referred the alderman to the city attorney. That official informed the council that the commission had received and considered numerous suggestions relative to the revision and had given them considerable thought, but had as yet formulated nothing. "Probably the city attorney has been so busy of late looking for flaws in the street railway company's franchise that he has not had any leisure for other duties and had to neglect work on the revision," suggested the irrepressible attorney hotly resented this imputation but was choked off before he had fully explained himself by Alderman Desjardins, who moved that the commission be instructed to get down to business at once and report its work at each meeting of the council in order that it might be fully considered and the proposed revision ready for introduction when the legislature assembles. The motion prevailed and then the motion to adjourn was renewed and was carried, greatly to the relief of the sufferer in the chair, who seemed quite weary, though the session had not lasted over half an hour.

The MINING JOURNAL is well satisfied with the result of the council meeting of last evening. It has put an effectual quietus on the mayor's senseless attempts to embarrass the street railway company in a work that will conduce largely to the benefit of the whole city, and gives the company assurance that as long as it faithfully lives up to its contracts with the city the people here and their representatives in the council will see to it that it is protected in the exercise of all its rights under its franchise. "All's well that ends well," and now "let us have peace."

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The Twelfth district convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union closed its sessions last evening with an address by Miss Frances Griffin of Montgomery, Ala. Miss Griffin is tall and gray-haired and speaks with a southern softness that is very pleasant to the ear. She makes no pretensions to oratory but there is something in the ring of her voice and in her evident earnestness that holds her audience with a manifest charm. She devoted a considerable part of her address to current politics and found something good to say of all the national candidates and of the platforms of all the parties. She called attention, however, to the fact that the prohibition party was the first since the war that had dared to go south for a national candidate. She believed that the country would be safe with any of the present candidates in the presidential chair and thought that therefore this was the time for the thinking voter to reflect where he could invest his vote to the best advantage of the republic. The obvious inference was, of course, that he should vote the prohibition ticket. She incidentally made it plain, however, that if her hearers lived in Alabama she would advise them to vote the democratic ticket rather than the republican.

The banners for the largest increases in membership went to Marquette and Houghton counties. Marquette county won the large white silk banner for the largest increase in membership in the Y. W. C. T. U. and Houghton county the blue silk one for the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Law made brief presentation speeches and the banners were received by Mrs. McDonald of Calumet for Houghton county and Miss McKinnon of this city for Marquette county. Both ladies responded briefly and appropriately.

At the morning session officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. E. N. Law, Baraga; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. J. Bird, Menominee; recording secretary, Mrs. Parmenter, Menominee; treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Phillips, Ishpeming. Three of these were reelections, the only change being Mrs. Bird, who succeeds Mrs. A. M. Tuten of Iron Mountain.

Columbian Concert Tonight.

Prof. J. N. Fohrman, organist of St. Peter's cathedral, has arranged a very attractive program for the Columbian day concert at the cathedral this evening. Some of the best musical talent of the city will take part and all who attend are assured of passing a pleasant evening. Following is the program: Solo and Chorus, "Daughter of Error"..... Very Successful Party.

The largest crowd that has danced in Armory hall this year swung over its polished floor last night at the Ladies' Leap Year party. The affair was the idea of Mrs. Martin Hogan and Miss Margaret Flynn and the numerous friends of those ladies hastened to make it a success. The ladies ran the whole affair, even acting as floor managers with the skill of veterans. The reception committee consisted of Miss Mary Raymond, Miss Anna Mack, Miss Anna Breen and Miss Emma Stewart. The floor managers were Mrs. Fay, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Jones and Miss Emma Doetsch. Mr. Gray and Miss Sparrow led the grand march and at least 150 couples were present. The ladies supplied the supper themselves and it was a fine one. The dancing lasted in the small hours of the morning and everyone went home declaring that the men were not in it when it came to giving a really pleasant ball.

Bossed Too Much.

A result of too much supervision is plainly to be seen on a portion of the street railway track now being put in on Hewitt avenue. The macadam dressing on that thoroughfare has been worn away until now there is not over three inches of it left on the surface. This is not sufficient to stand the wear and tear, and an additional dressing of at least three inches of crushed rock will soon be necessary on that avenue. When Mr. Guy, superintendent of construction for the street railway company, laid the rails for the extension of the street railway on that avenue he had the track put in high enough to admit of the street being dressed so as to put it in good condition, acting under the direction of the chairman of the street committee, Mr. Powell. Subsequently the mayor ordered the city engineer to have the track lowered, and this was done against the city engineer's judgment and at considerable expense to the street railway company. As constructed, the track is about three inches below the present level of the street, and when the dressing that must be given it is put on the surface Hewitt avenue will in many places be from four to five inches below the surface of the roadway on either side. This is an illustration of the evil results of the mayor's "pernicious activity" in interfering with men who understand what they are doing merely for the sake of exploiting his "little brief authority." He should take a rest.

There is no one instrument, unless, indeed, it be a large pipe organ, capable of the variety of effects that are obtainable on the Aeolian. Unlike the pipe organ, however, the Aeolian is adapted to all classes of music; overtures and symphonies can be rendered on it with all the softness and delicacy of the flute and violin and cello, and all the snap and brilliancy of the piano. See and hear them at Conklin's.
