BACK TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

Snow-Squalls and Biting Winds Vex Grover Cleveland's Second Inauguration.

GREATEST CROWDS EVER KNOWN FACE THE ELEMENTS.
Inaugural Address Briefly Discussed Leading Issues From Mr. Cleveland's Known Points of View.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AGAIN
WASHINGTON, March 5.—The proverbial "Cleveland weather" which has been the commentary of the past eight years failed the president-elect. The fiercest weather of the day began an hour before the conclusion of President Harrison's term of office and raged for an hour after President Cleveland had been inducted into office. Thus the Harrison administration went out in storm and snow and the Cleveland term was ushered in with icy wind and sleet. Soon after 2 o'clock the snow and sleet ceased entirely, but with every hour the cold increased in intensity.
Seen under such atmospheric conditions the handsome city in America is a howling wilderness. The acres of flags and miles of bunting which decked the public buildings and private shops and residences became ghastly, drooping and unpleasant.
Men and women braved the discomforts of the day and filled the streets with probably the biggest crowd ever gathered here for an inauguration. Mr. Cleveland, bareheaded, spoke his address and stood on the reviewing stand until nearly dark, in spite of the wintry winds.

KISSED HIM GOOD-BYE.
About 11 o'clock a fine four-in-hand turnout came briskly around the corner and drew up in front of the Arlington. As everyone knew, it was the one which had been provided to convey the president and president-elect to the Capitol. Then ensued a touching scene. The president-elect had bowed to the party of officials and personal friends gathered about him and was about to pass through the doorway when Mrs. Cleveland called him back and, with disregard for the assembled company, threw her arms about her husband and kissed him several times, bidding him "God-speed" on his way to take the oath of office. Those who saw this leave-taking endeavored to look unconscious of what was going on, but the act of Mrs. Cleveland was done so simply and with such womanly grace that it seemed to be the most natural occurrence in the world, and endeared the wife of the president-elect to all those in the apartment.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.
After a quarter of an hour's delay to await some moderation of the weather, the president-elect, escorted by Senators Teller and Ransom, appeared and entering the carriage were rapidly driven to the White House. Mrs. Stevenson was escorted by Senator McPherson and was accompanied by his son, Louis, who is to be his private secretary. Shortly after 11 o'clock President-elect Cleveland and Vice-President-elect Stevenson, accompanied by the senate committee on arrangements, entered the executive mansion. They were received by President Harrison in the Blue Room. Five minutes later the president reappeared and entering an open carriage the march of the procession to the capitol began. Mr. and Mrs. McKee remained at the White House to receive the president and Mrs. Cleveland on their return from the Capitol.

SNOW FALLING FAST.
The snow was falling fast when President Harrison and the president-elect entered their carriages under the White House portico. The president and Mr. Cleveland entered an open carriage belonging to President Harrison drawn by four handsome bays from the White House stable. Mr. Stevenson and Senator McPherson were in the second carriage, drawn by four big white horses with white trappings. President Harrison was well muffled up in a big military coat, and on the way out of the grounds the two leaders busied themselves in tucking the robes about their distinguished persons. Mr. Cleveland pulled out a big silk and blue-bordered muffler and tied it about his throat. Four troops of cavalry were drawn up in front of the White House and as soon as the presidential carriage came to the gate the order to march was given, and with the Second Artillery band playing the air about a conquering hero the last official journey of President Harrison was begun. The 5,000 persons grouped in front of the White House sent up a cheer that kept up all the way to the Capitol. Both Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Harrison were kept busy doffing their hats all along the march down Pennsylvania avenue.

SCENES AT THE CAPITOL.
As early as 8 o'clock people began to gather about the entrance to the Capitol to await the arrival of the president-elect and party. The doors were not to be opened until 10 o'clock, but long before that time thousands were pressing into the Capitol grounds and clamoring for admission to the Capitol and shelter from the storm. Under the circumstances they were admitted and it was but a few minutes until the corridors were filled and the guards had all their coats do to restrain the people from pushing in the gallery doors.
Mrs. Cleveland entered the presidential gallery without attracting special notice. Indeed, the matronly figure, the sunken cheeks, and faded complexion afforded but a scant reminder of the blooming bride of six years ago.
The diplomatic corps entered the chamber at 11:30, headed by Baron Fava, its dean, and Sir Julian Pauncefote. It was remarked with some surprise that the Hawaiian commissioners, Messrs. Thurston and Carter, were with the corps. The supreme court followed, Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Field in the lead.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY ARRIVES.
The presidential party, with its military escort, came in sight of the eastern entrance of the Capitol a few minutes after 12 o'clock. A large crowd had assembled at the east front and from the moment Mr. Cleveland descended from the carriage he was received with lusty cheers. As Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Harrison crossed the threshold of the Marble room, Mr. Harrison bowed to his successor and walked unattended to the president's room. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Stevenson had been ushered into the private room of Mr. Morton.

When the senate clock indicated 11:55 but when the actual time was 12:50, the vice president-elect was announced and Mr. Stevenson, escorted by Senator McPherson, took his chair to the right of Vice President Morton. Immediately afterward the president of the United States and his cabinet were announced. Mr. Harrison was escorted to one of the chairs standing in front of the clerk's desk. Immediately afterwards the president-elect was announced and Mr. Cleveland, escorted by Senator Ransom, took the chair next to Mr. Harrison. His entrance into the chamber was greeted with applause.

Vice President Morton administered the oath of office to his successor and yielded to him the chair of the presiding officer. After the organization of the new senate under the call for an extra session was completed by the swearing in of the members-elect those assembled in the senate chamber proceeded through the rotunda to the platform on the central portico of the Capitol.

SCENES ON THE OUTSIDE.
On the outside the snow storm had subsided towards noon, but the temperature had lowered and the northwest wind blew bitterly. The sun made several ineffectual efforts to pierce the clouds with only partial success. Troops arrived at the noon hour and filled up the place reserved for them while several photographers planted themselves in the box house enclosing the Washington statue and prepared to take a picture of the wintry scene. The patience of the crowd was at last rewarded and about 1:30 o'clock the arrival of Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Perrine and other members of the presidential party betokened the early appearance of the president-elect.

At 1:35 o'clock the doors leading into the rotunda to the central portico of the inaugural stand swung open and Marshal Dan Ramsdell of the District of Columbia and Marshal Wright of the United States Supreme court appeared. Ex-Vice President Morton and Chief Justice Fuller and the justices of the supreme court came next. Then came Sergeant-at-Arms Valentine and Senators Teller, McPherson and Ransom preceding President Harrison and President-elect Cleveland, who walked side by side. Behind the incoming and outgoing president followed members of the senate an unusually large contingent from the diplomatic corps, members of the house of representatives, governors of states and other official persons. The president and president-elect, Vice President Morton, Chief Justice Fuller and the committee of arrangements were shown to the front of the platform within a railed enclosure and had been laid a bright green carpet, upon which had been placed large leather-covered chairs, several tables, a writing desk and other furnishings.

MR. CLEVELAND WARMLY GREETED.
Mr. Cleveland was warmly greeted by the patient throng gathered about the stand, and after a few minutes' delay stepped up to the front and began the delivery of his inaugural address. He followed the course pursued eight years ago of delivering his address first and taking the oath afterwards. This was the course pursued by Lincoln.
Notwithstanding the exceedingly inclement weather, Mr. Cleveland removed his silk hat and with bared head addressed the multitude. The wind had been rising and turning colder ever since noon and Mr. Cleveland's task must have been attended with considerable personal discomfort, but he gave no sign of it and steadily continued his address until the close.

The characteristic feature about the inaugural was the clear, steady, and excellent enunciation with which it was delivered and the absolute absence of any gesture. Mr. Cleveland gave no other emphasis to his remarks than derived from the emphatic tone and determined nod of the head while he uttered the words. The more forcible passages of his oration, which ever provoked considerable cheers, but the loudest approval was given the tariff section of his remarks. The president began the delivery of his address about 1:30 o'clock and it occupied twenty-five minutes.

THE OATH ADMINISTERED.
At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Cleveland turned around to the chief justice, who was seated in the robes of his office, to take the oath prescribed by the constitution. Chief Justice Fuller and the other persons near to the president removed their hats and with bared heads listened to the taking of the oath of office, which was pronounced by Chief Justice Fuller in a clear voice. Mr. Cleveland assented to it by bowing his head and kissing the Bible.

The Bible used in the ceremony was given President Cleveland by his mother forty-one years ago. By his special request it was eight years ago put to the same service for which it used today. A new Bible had been purchased for the occasion, as had been done eight years ago, of course, it was not used after Mr. Cleveland had signified his preference for the use of his mother's gift. The book is a small gilt-edged, black leather-covered volume.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

That Body Was Chiefly Remarkable for What It Did Not Do.

AND FOR NUMBER OF FOLLIES ADVOCATED.

Political Antagonism of House and Senate and Warring Factions Responsible for This.

PASSED APPROPRIATION BILLS.
WASHINGTON, March 5.—The silver and tariff questions, the anti-option bill and the reduction of expenditures were the leading topics of consideration by the Fifty-second congress. Secondary only in importance to these were measures relating to the World's Fair, equipment of railroads with automatic car-couplers, quarantine and immigration and Hawaiian annexation.
Nothing of an affirmative nature, except to prevent two items in the McKinley bill taking effect, was actually accomplished. As respects silver, the tariff and anti-option, the action taken on each of these questions in one branch of congress was negated by the action or no action of the other branch.

RETRENCHMENT NOT VISIBLE.
The result of the agitation for a retrenchment of expenditures is not apparent in any considerable change in the aggregate appropriations, for they amount to about as much in the Fifty-first congress. Laws on the statute books prevented some large reductions which otherwise possible would have been made, while the decreases which it was possible to effect were offset by increased appropriations for pensions and rivers and harbors.
The condition of the treasury, however, though it did not result in the Fifty-second congress getting below the billion dollar limit, undoubtedly influenced legislation to a considerable extent and prevented the authorization of many proposed new expenditures for improvement of the public services, for public buildings, for payment of claims and for other purposes. A notable instance of the operation of this influence is seen in the fact that not a single public building bill passed the house and it was only by putting a number of them on the sundry civil bill that any authorizations whatever for public buildings were secured.

DEADLOCK OVER SILVER.
The silver question was kept steadily before congress by alternate efforts of the advocates of free coinage and of the repeal of the Sherman law. The coinage committee of the house in the first session reported a free silver bill which, after an exciting debate, was saved from defeat by the casting vote of the speaker but was afterward filibustered to death. The senate then passed a free coinage bill but when the free silver men renewed their fight in the house they were out-numbered by fourteen votes. The anti-silver men met a similar fate in their efforts to secure a repeal of the present law, the senate refusing by a decisive vote to consider it and the house killing the Andrew-Cate bill by declining to vote so as to give its friends the parliamentary right to move closure on it without which it concededly could never be forced to a vote in the closing hours of congress.

TARIFFS NOT CHANGED.
On the tariff the dominant party in the house adopted a policy of attacking the McKinley bill in detail, largely for political reasons and partly for the reason that in view of the political complexion of the senate it was practically out of the question to pass a general tariff revision bill while special measures might stand some show of passage. The result was the enactment into law of two bills continuing in force the free list and fine lines at 35 per cent ad valorem. Under the McKinley bill large duties were to take effect on these items in the near future. Other separate bills were passed through the house only to be pigeon-holed in the senate, as follows: Free wool and reduction of duties on woolen manufactures; free cotton ties, gins and cotton bagging machinery; free binding twine; free silver-lead ores where the value of the silver exceeds that of the lead; free tin plate, tinned plate and tinned tin.

ANTI-OPTION LEXAET KILLED.
The anti-option bill passed both houses but was killed by the refusal of the house to suspend the rules or agree by a two-thirds vote to the amendments put on the bill by the senate, the opponents of the measure maneuvering so as to prevent Mr. Harris making effective his majority in favor of the measure and forcing him at the last moment to try suspension of the rules. The pure food bill, the running mate of the anti-option bill, passed the senate but was never able to get consideration in the house.

WORLD'S FAIR LEGISLATION.
World's Fair legislation comprised the grant of $2,500,000 in sovereign half dollars in aid of the fair, the closing of its gates on Sunday, the appropriation of various amounts for different fair purposes and the passage of sundry acts of a special nature and minor importance.
An automatic car coupler bill short of its drastic feature was enacted into law as was also a national quarantine bill increasing the powers of the marine hospital service to meet the threatened dangers from cholera and an immigration law imposing additional restrictions on immigration but not suspending it entirely.

DISPOSITION OF TREATIES.
The senate averted the bill over the Bering sea seal fish fishery by ratifying a treaty of arbitration. It also ratified extradition treaties with Russia and other countries but still has before it a treaty of annexation of the Hawaiian Islands.

ume about 5 by 3 inches in dimensions... distinguished from Bibles frequently carried to church by ladies.

RETURN TO THE CAPITOL. The ceremony performed, the line of procession was quickly re-formed, way was made for the immediate members of the presidential party to return to the Capitol building, and then the spectators on the stand crowded pell-mell after the party in haste to get out of the cold and warm their benumbed extremities within the building.

President Cleveland and ex-President Harrison returned to the senate chamber, going at once to Mr. Morton's private room. Here an elaborate buffet lunch was ready and was speedily enjoyed.

After lunch and a few minutes spent in chatting with those present, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Harrison emerged from the room. As they buttoned up their coats and started toward the basement stairs, Mr. Harrison said to Mr. Cleveland, laughingly:

"We will go to the White House now and turn things over to you," and the two central figures of today's American quadrennial exhibition tripped as lightly as boys down the marble stairway and gained their carriages. The troops, who had been stamping their feet endeavoring to keep warm, formed in line and at 12 o'clock the line of procession was started, General Martin T. McMahon, grand marshal, leading the way, followed by his staff.

BACK TO THE WHITE HOUSE. President Cleveland and Mr. Harrison, riding in the latter's carriage, drove under the portico after passing the reviewing stand. They were met on the upper steps by Colonel Berret but arm in arm walked through the door. The double glass doors in the partition separating the public entrance from the main corridor of the house were thrown open and President Cleveland was face to face with his wife.

It was a most dramatic incident and greatly enjoyed by those fortunate enough to witness it. At 3 o'clock Mr. Harrison and Mrs. McKee bade the assembled party farewell and took their carriage to go to ex-postmaster General Wanamaker's for lunch and then to the station for their departure for Indianapolis.

After spending a few minutes in the parlor President Cleveland, accompanied by General Scofield, proceeded to the reviewing stand and took his place there. Then the members of his cabinet went out again and with them some of the ladies. The others remained longer to partake of the luncheon spread in the dining room.

The 15,000 more or less that patiently waited the approach of the presidential party to the reviewing stand in the grounds of the White House will probably never forget the experience of the day. Full play was afforded the northwest wind in its open space between the treasury and navy and navy buildings, and tore around and about down the avenue, whistling through the trees, picking up the snow and carrying it into eyes and ears and nostrils, stripping the bunting that decorates the stands from its place.

IN THE REVIEWING STAND. A hearty cheer greeted President Cleveland's appearance on the reviewing stand and the shouts redoubled as he took his place in the conspicuous projection of the structure, where he stood during the parade. He was soon followed by Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Lamont and the other ladies who had been with the presidential party all day.

As the president appeared before the multitude, and while the cheers were yet sounding in his honor, an aide of the grand marshal stationed opposite the reviewing stand galloped at full speed down Pennsylvania avenue and gave the signal for the march to be resumed. The bugles sounded "forward, march," the officers repeated the command and the line of march was taken up from the point where the head of the column had halted opposite the treasury department. The great crowds about the White House were enthusiastic from the beginning and kept time with feet and hands to the music of the bands in an endeavor to keep warm and get rid of surplus hilarity.

Mr. Cleveland followed his own precedent in saluting the national flag each time it passed him. He also occasionally bowed to personal and political friends, which had formed the president's escort to and from the Capitol, came in for their share of applause.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS. Mr. Cleveland Briefly Discusses the Leading Political Issues.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Cleveland's inaugural address, as delivered in front of the Capitol, is as follows:

MY FELLOW CITIZENS: In obedience to the mandate of my countrymen I am about to dedicate myself to their service under the sanction of a solemn oath. Deeply moved by the expression of confidence and personal attachment which has called me to this office, I am sure my countrymen can make no better return than the pledge I now give, before God and these witnesses, of unreserved and complete devotion to the interests and welfare of those who have honored me.

I deem it fitting on this occasion, while indicating the opinions I hold concerning public questions of present importance, to also briefly refer to the existence of certain conditions and tendencies among our people which seem to menace the integrity and usefulness of their government.

SOUND CURRENCY. While every American citizen must contemplate with the utmost pride and enthusiasm the growth and expansion of our country, the sufficiency of our institutions to stand against the rash shocks of events of insidious infirmity that threatens our national vigor.

The strong man who, in the confidence of sturdy health, courts the sternest activities of life and rejoices in the hardship of constant labor, may still have lurking near his vitals the unheeded disease that dooms him to sudden collapse. It cannot be doubted that our stupendous achievements as a people, and our country's robust strength, have given rise to a heedlessness of those laws governing our personal health, which can no more evade than human life can escape the laws of God and nature.

Manifestly nothing is more vital to our supremacy as a nation and to the beneficent purposes of our government than a sound and stable currency. Its exposure to degradation should at once arouse the activity of the most enlightened statesmanship and the vigor of the most energetic legislation.

In dealing with our present embarrassing situation as related to this subject, we will be wise if we temper our confidence and faith in our nation's strength and resources with the frank concession that even these will not permit us to defy with impunity the inexorable laws of finance and trade. At the same time, we should be free from intolerance or passion, and our judgment should be unimpaired by alluring phrases and unscrupulous promises.

Closely related to the exaggerated confidence in our country's greatness, which tends to a disregard of the rules of national safety, another danger to our national security is the prevalence of a disposition to expect from the operation of the government special and direct individual advantages. The verdict of our voters which condemned the injury of maintaining a protection for protection's sake enjoins upon the people's servants the duty of ceasing and destroying the brood of kindred evils which are the unwelcome progeny of paternalism.

Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of checking at its beginning any tendency, in public or private station, toward extravagance and economy as virtues which we may safely outgrow. The violation of this idea results in the waste of the people's money by their chosen servants and encourages prodigality and extravagance in the home life of our countrymen. Under our scheme of government waste of public money is a crime against the citizen and the contempt of our people for frugality in their personal affairs deliberately saps the sturdy endurance of our national character.

Under our scheme of government waste of public money is a crime against the citizen and the contempt of our people for frugality in their personal affairs deliberately saps the sturdy endurance of our national character. It is a plain dictate of honesty and good government that public expenditures should be limited by public necessity, and that they should be measured by the rules of strict economy, and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guaranty of a contented and strong support of free institutions.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM. One mode of the misappropriation of public funds is avoided when appointments and offices, instead of being rewards of partisan activity, are awarded to those whose efficiency promises a fair return of work for the compensation paid to them. To secure this end, and to remove from political action the demoralizing madness for spoils, civil service reform has found a place in our public policy and laws. The benefits already gained through this instrumentality and the further usefulness it promises, entitles it to the hearty support and encouragement of all who desire to see our public service well performed, and who hope for the elevation of political sentiment and the purification of political methods.

The existence of immense aggregations of business interests, formed for the purpose of limiting production and fixing prices, is inconsistent with the fair field which ought to be open to every independent activity. Legitimate strife in business should not be superseded by an enforced concession to the demands of combinations that have the power to destroy, nor should the people be served lose the benefit of cheapness which usually results from wholesome competition. These aggregations and combinations frequently constitute conspiracies against the interests of the people, and all their phases they are unnatural and opposed to our American sense of fairness.

Our relations with the Indians located within our borders impose upon us responsibilities which we cannot escape. Humanity and consistency require us to treat them with forbearance, and in our dealings with them to honestly and considerately regard their rights and interests. Every effort should be made to lead them through the paths of civilization and education, to self-supporting and independent citizenship. In the meanwhile, as the nation's wards, they should be promptly defended against the schemes of those who would deprive them of every influence of temptation that retards their advancement.

TARIFF REFORM. The people of the United States have decried with vigor the control of this government in its legislative and executive branches.

The people of the United States have decried with vigor the control of this government in its legislative and executive branches. The people of the United States have decried with vigor the control of this government in its legislative and executive branches.

When we wear away the hard crust of prejudice which blinds our eyes to the true condition of our country, we shall find that the tariff is not a necessary incident of our return to right and justice. It would be a wise and a noble undertaking to reduce in principle, our tariff, and when we seek to reinstate the self-confidence and business enterprise of our citizens, by discrediting an abject dependence upon government favor, we strive to restore those elements of our American character which support the hope of American achievement.

REDEMPTION OF SLAVES. Anxiety for the redemption of the pledges which our party has made, and solicitude for the complete justification of the trust the people have reposed in us, constrain me to remind those with whom I cooperate to co-operate and succeed in doing so.

The oath I now take to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States not only impressively defines the strict responsibility for its service, but suggests obedience to constitutional commands as the rule by which my official conduct must be guided.

Even Small Partisan Politicians Are Disgusted With Themselves. STATE HOUSE, LANSING, Mich., March 5.—[Special.]—The house held a three hour session yesterday afternoon but became involved in an unfortunate partisan wrangle on the right of protest and the expunging of proceedings from the journal at the outset which continued to the end without profit or honor to either party.

REPORTORIAL PENCILINGS.

M. M. Foley, of Houghton was in the city yesterday.

Regular meeting of the common council tonight.

N. A. Metz left yesterday for Chicago on a purchasing trip.

W. H. Jobe, of Republic was a Marquette visitor yesterday.

J. J. Hyers and George Wilson returned last evening from trips up the road.

J. H. Jacobs returned last night from a buying trip to the Kerber-Jacobs quarry.

Governor Swineford was in the city yesterday, returning to Superior in the evening.

C. L. Richards has gone up to Ishpening to take the position of station baggage master for the D., S. S. & A.

Max Endelman, of Joneau, Alaska, was in the city Saturday and Sunday for a farewell visit before returning to his far away home.

Duluth parties are preparing to thoroughly explore the property south of the Michigan Redstone company's quarry on Keweenaw Bay.

Lower lake marine writers admit that the Lake Michigan car ferris cannot hold a candle to the South Shore's ice crusher, the St. Ignace, let alone the new Ste. Marie.

Fred Kraemer returned last night from a visit to Red Jacket. He is going to get a patent on a new air brake fixture, having skillfully pressed into service an old letter last night to doctor up a leaky "union" on the South Shore train at Michigamme.

Marquette has a firm of hustling contractors in Powell & Mitchell who are making great records on the Marquette breakwater and the Kerber-Jacobs quarry and have two other big contracts on hand, the Two Harbors and Grand Marais improvements.

The 12,000,000 feet of logs that Hurst & Eastman are putting into the Yellow Dog, the stock having been sold to Fisher of Bay City, may possibly be manufactured at Marquette. The timber is very fine, and will cut lumber that will make the average board buyer's mouth water.—Northwestern Lumberman.

Vanderbilt's New Ballroom.

Next season there will be a Miss Vanderbilt to be introduced, and there is now in process of construction for this new event a splendid ballroom. That Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt's new ballroom will combine all that is possible in artistic and decorative effect is a foregone conclusion. It is also safe to say that when completed it will have cost as much or more money than any room of the size anywhere else. For example, the ground on which it is being built cost $200,000. It occupies the space of three of the old Fifth avenue homes. The first of these, whose owners had occupied it for a long period and were not anxious to move, could only be bought at a cost of $250,000. The other two cost $350,000.

This makes quite an expensive bit of ground, but when completed the ballroom will have a frontage of 75 feet on Fifth avenue. In this large functions can be given as in the Delmonico ballroom, which is little if any bigger, and the Vanderbilts can entertain large groups of distinction visiting the town.

Probably the coming out ball next season of the eldest daughter of the house of Vanderbilt will be the finest affair ever given here. The approach to the ballroom, which is such a factor in adding to the final effect, is to be worthy of the ballroom itself.—New York World.

The Giant of All Timepieces.

The greatest horological wonder in the world today is the gigantic clock in the tower of the immense public building at Philadelphia. When everything is in running order this marvel of the clock-maker's art will be stationed a distance of 351 feet from the pavement. Its bell weighs between 30,000 and 25,000 pounds, and is the second largest bell of any kind in America, the great bell at Montreal being the largest, weighing 28,000 pounds. The dial of this Philadelphia Titan is 25 feet in diameter, and the striking hammer is as large as a pile-driver's weight. The minute hand is 12 and the hour hand 9 feet in length.

The machinery is arranged so that the clock will strike every 15 minutes—the quarter, half, three-quarters and hours. The Roman numerals on the face are each 2 feet 8 inches in length, the dark part of the figures being 24 inches in width. As it is entirely out of the question to talk of winding such a monster by hand, a 3-horsepower engine has been placed at the square of the tower for that special purpose.—St. Louis Republic.

The Sedan Chair.

The sedan chair is named after Sedan, the town where it was first used. The earliest mention of it in England occurs in 1581. Early in the following century the Duke of Buckingham caused much indignation by its use in London. People were exasperated at that nobleman employing his fellow men to take the place of horses to carry him. Prince Charles brought from Spain in 1633 three curiously wrought sedans, two of which he gave to the Duke of Buckingham. A few weeks after their introduction Messinger produced his advent, "The Bondman," and in it he thus adverts to the ladies:

For their pomp and ease being borne
In triumph on men's shoulders.
The reference is doubtless to Buckingham's sedan, which was borne like a palanquin.—"Bygone England."

Troubles of the Prince of Wales.

The salary and emoluments of the Prince of Wales, supposed to be about $200,000, would probably be enough for his private needs were he not put to so large an expense in performing royal and social obligations which should be undertaken by his royal mother.—New York Press.

ADVERTISING DOES IT

CIGARETTE SMOKING IS KEPT ALIVE BY CLEVER SCHEMES.

An interesting and instructive talk with a Man Who Sells the Ominous Article—He Says That Only Fine Tobacco Is Used in the Manufacture.

"Three-fifths of the cigarettes sold in the city," said a commercial traveler representing an eastern manufactory, a few days ago, "are from one house. Why? If you could see our advertising bills you wouldn't ask. Nothing on earth is so capricious, so fickle as the cigarette trade. Just the cigarette either, for that matter. The cigarette would lie down and die tomorrow if it were not for the small boy, and he is the most capricious thing that strides the earth. Today he swears by the 'Trio's Delight,' tomorrow he grows enthusiastic over the 'Old Soldier,' and the next day loudly calls for 'Pearl's Pet.'"

"Doesn't the name have a good deal to do with it?"

"Yes; my opinion is that securing a happy name is half the battle. But there is absolutely no telling whether it's going to take well or not. I've seen some of the most euphonious names ever heard of fall flat."

"Why do cigarettes require more advertising than cigars?"

"For one thing, cigars of a certain price vary in quality more than cigarettes. When a man finds a good cigar he sticks to it. That cigarette smoker comes in and asks for his brand, the cigarette consumer looks through the glass case, hesitates, picks out the kind that for the moment seizes his fancy and buys. He does the same thing every time. Cigarette smokers, other than the small boys, are people inclined toward the aesthetic, there is no denying that. As a rule the cigarette smoker is a man rather refined in his tastes. And this taste has to be appealed to through the eye as well as anything else."

"In the whole range of advertising you wouldn't find any class of wares more artistically treated than the cigarette. Some cigarette manufacturers claim that it isn't so much the advertising that sells their goods; it's simply the extraordinary quality of their goods, and say that they don't spend more than 5 per cent. of their receipts in advertising. That is all both. Our firm spends from 33 to 40 per cent, and counts ourselves lucky. If we should quit advertising for a single month I am convinced our receipts would fall off one-half."

Five cigarette manufacturers make over 50 per cent. of all the cigarettes sold in the country. The amount of "all tobacco" cigarettes sold, compared with the paper product, is in the ratio of 1 to 10.

Continuing the agent said:

"The evolution of cigarette advertising is quite interesting. Being head and shoulders above all competitors it is only natural that we should have inaugurated every advertising novelty that you see today. The first unusual thing in cigarette advertising that we did was the 'jockey' card. London woke up one morning and found itself with a sort of yellow flash about it. We had pasted 10,000 big yellow posters about the central portion of the city in one night. That was the beginning. Pretty soon we were pasting bills all over the city, and the Alps, on the wall of China, and when I was in Burma last summer I saw some there."

"Then we began using photographs of large size. Afterward we used small photographs—one in each package of cigarettes. Other manufacturers immediately began to do the same thing, and we dropped it and used colored lithograph cards instead. These we run in flags of 20 and 100 cards. First were the flags of all nations, then the world's beauties—pictures of 100 famous pretty women. Then the flags of fifty cities, then race horses, then the sporting champions of the world. Next we issued a series of jockey colored, then the arms of nations, followed by fifty naval flags. After this we had the birds of America, then fifty Indian chiefs, and then a series of game birds."

"Following this we gave prizes, a ticket inserted in each package giving the buyer a chance in the drawing. Just think of it," he said, "25,000,000 cigarettes were sold last year. In spite of all the fight that has been made and is being made against the cigarette it is an actual fact that more cigarettes are consumed every year."

"Lying aside all personal interest, I am anxious to first state all the antagonism of the cigarette. Instead of being made of the poorest tobacco it is made of the best—that is, the cleanest and mildest, which are the top leaves of the tobacco plant. All the adulteration is a little glycerin to make the tobacco stick together while it is being shaved up. I have been around a tobacco factory a good deal, and I never saw anything else put in. The idea that opium is used is absurd."

"There is, however, no such thing as rice paper used. Ordinary linen paper is wet with a solution of rice water. The trouble with the cigarette is that it is so mild that the smoker overcomes himself before he realizes it. Then many people don't care to smoke cigarettes unless they can inhale the smoke. That's always had. There is a law against selling them to boys under sixteen years old, but I have never seen the boy yet, even if he couldn't reach up to the counter, who wasn't willing to swear he was sixteen. They soon caught on to that. Dealers invariably protest against the cigarette because the margin of profit is so much smaller than on cigars. It is almost like a druggist selling postage stamps."—Ohio State Journal.

The Congo River's Deep Mouth.

The London Society of Telegraph Engineers and Electricians have been making soundings along the coast of Africa with a view of laying a cable from England to Cape Town. At the mouth of the Congo they found a remarkable state of affairs, their maps and soundings showing that that river's mouth is an extraordinary marine gully of no less depth than 1,452 feet! The mouth of the Mississippi at an equal distance from shore would only show thirty-three feet, and the Thames, forty feet. The Congo's incredible depths were traced for more than 100 miles out at sea.—St. Louis Republic.

Dextrin Comes from Starch.

I fee it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year and have found it to be most admirable. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Dear Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

A PROPOSAL.

Is always in order, and is especially interesting to the one who receives it. Everybody in Marquette is intensely interested in our proposal to furnish a house on the Installment plan. This is the most tempting proposal ever made, the culminating bargain offering in furniture, which the shrewd wouldn't miss for money.

Let the eye tell the story of our parlor and bedroom suits, the prices tell the story of economy which always supplies the magnet of trade. Our proposal is worth accepting at once. To refuse such an offer as ours means a lost opportunity. Would anybody miss the chance to buy a parlor or bedroom suit for $10? We have none at that price but very near it. Give us a call as we sell on the Installment plan at cash prices.

SALVATIONIST SCRIMMAGE.

Ruffians Interfere With Salvation Army Meeting at Ishpeming and Create an Ugly Row.

CAPTAIN OF THE ARMY SPENDS SOME HOURS IN JAIL.

A Couple of Miners Narrowly Escape Death—Clerks on the War Path—A Commission Man Doing Business.

RELIGION AND GORE. There was a lively time at the Swedish Salvation Army Hall for a while last evening. While the Salvationists were holding their services a number of hoodlums started a row in the hall, and a free fight ensued. As the row progressed the crowd in the hall swelled, until the place was too small to hold the combatants and spectators, and the struggling mob spilled out into the street. Here they had it hot for quite an interval. The police took a hand in and tried to persuade the captain of the army to go home, but his blood was up and he refused to abandon the field to the emissaries of Satan.

A Marvelous Escape. Friday night about 9 o'clock some ground and timber fell away at the Winthrop mine, catching Edward Oplund and John Lundblad, who were buried under the mass. The amount of dirt that fell was quite considerable and covered the miners completely, but it fortunately happened that they were thrown underneath the timbers in such a way that the dirt never touched them. It took about an hour to remove the dirt and timbers from above the two men. The men engaged in removing the dirt never expected to find their partners alive but to their astonishment and delight the two men were found uninjured, and none the worse for their short entombment, except that they were greatly excited and frightened.

The Clerks' Meeting. The members of the Clerks' association held a meeting Friday evening last, the object of which was principally to discuss matters pertaining to the 8 o'clock closing movement. One or two of the merchants, it appears, have a particular desire to keep their stores open after the closing hour.

Secured Another House. Fred Collins, the commission merchant, has been engaged by Kennedy & Devereaux, a commission firm of St. Paul, and will hereafter handle the entire upper peninsula for that concern, besides continuing to do business with the other houses he represents. Mr. Delvan, who traveled through this section for Kennedy & Devereaux, has taken another territory. On Saturday, the first day that Fred did business with the new firm, he telegraphed his orders for five car loads of grain. Mr. Collins is doing a thriving business, which is due to the low prices that he offers and the way he has of hustling around among the trade. Today Mr. Collins starts John Blaney of Champion on the road as his assistant, his business having increased to such an extent that he was unable to handle it alone.

Will Move This Week. R. McSweyn, the painter, has rented the Tislov building on Pearl street, into which he will move his stock of paints, oils, etc., from his present quarters on Pine street, some time this week. Mr. Alex Nelson, who has conducted a bakery store in this place, is packing up the goods to send them to Virginia, on the Mesabara range, where he will open a branch store. The new stand will make a much better place for Mr. McSweyn, as it is more centrally located, besides being in a street where considerable business is done.

Cricket Club Officers. At a recent meeting of Sir Humphrey Davy Cricket club, of Ishpeming, the following officers were elected: President, Wm. Andrews; vice-president, F. Nichols; captain, John Cox; treasurer, R. Hodge; secretary, C. Roberts. When the season opens the club will be pleased to meet any team on the peninsula. With last year's practice the Sir Humphrey Davy cricketers feel confident that they will be "in it" with the best of 'em the coming summer.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

The "Gold King" by Browne's Theatre company at the City Opera house tonight.

Tonight at the Ishpeming Snow Shoe club house the ladies will furnish supper and entertainment to the gentlemen.

Rev. Strong, pastor of the M. E. church at Negaunee, preached at the Division street M. E. church, this city, last evening.

The Lake Angeline company received six mules from Sarrey, Mich., Saturday. They will be used for surface work at the mine.

Geo. Sheldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Sheldon, gave a snow shoe party to a number of his school associates Saturday evening.

The Finnish Male choir of Ishpeming is preparing a drama called "Murto-askans," which will be ready for presentation the latter part of this month.

The special meeting of the Norden Ski club called for yesterday afternoon was postponed until tonight at 8 o'clock, when it will be held in Braastad's club rooms.

Zenith lodge, No. 33, K. of P., will hold its meeting tomorrow evening at 7:30 sharp in order that the members may be able to attend the J. H. Browne performance afterward.

Hose Co. No. 1 will meet tonight at 7 o'clock sharp, in order to complete business in time to allow the members an opportunity to attend Browne's theatrical entertainment at the opera house.

The dedication of the co-operative society's new building Saturday night was a very successful affair. The attendance was large and the entertainment and banquet were pleasing features.

The entertainment and ball at the City Opera House Saturday evening by the Wasa Male choir, of Negaunee, was not very liberally patronized. The concert was good and should have been attended by a large number. The dancing was continued until 1 o'clock.

Mr. W. A. Rosier, who has worked as blacksmith in the carriage shops of Ole Walseth, this city, for a number of years, left on Saturday for Marquette, where he will go to work in the blacksmith department of the Lake Superior Carriage works. Mr. Rosier's family also left Saturday.

J. P. Oulthwaite came home from Iron Mountain, where he has leased the Commercial Hotel and placed Harvey Nels in charge, yesterday morning and returned again in the evening. His two daughters, Larue and Mary, who spent the past few days at Iron Mountain, accompanied him home.

Zenith lodge, No. 33, K. of P., will dedicate its new hall in the Co-operative society block on Easter Monday evening. In addition to the regular declamatory exercises an entertainment and ball will be given. A limited number of invitations will be sent out to lodge members and their friends.

The Ishpeming friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Durham, who resided in Ishpeming a few years ago, will be pained to learn of the death of Mrs. Duham, which occurred on the 26th inst. at Barrie, Canada, of Bright's disease. Her husband and six children are left to mourn the loss of the deceased.

It will cost you nothing to drop into Calhoun's and learn the low prices at which that stock is being sold. The goods must be disposed of quickly at some price, 3-3-4d.

LOOK AT THIS. On and after today F. Braastad & Co. will sell Pillsbury's Best XXXX flour at $4.20 per bbl., Washburn Crosby's Co's Best, $4.30 per bbl.; Wisconsin Patent (Island City) wholesale, $4.00; retail, $4.25 per bbl. Eye Graham, $4.00 per bbl. (1-18-17)

If you want shoes at a bargain go to Robbins' block, Main street, where the stock formerly owned by F. E. Calhoun is being sold at a sacrifice. 3-3-4d.

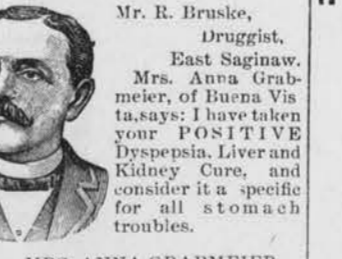

Get out one of these fine days and take a walk down Main street, and call into Calhoun's and buy a pair of shoes while the sale is on. By so doing you can save a dollar or two. The object the mortgagee has in view is to get rid of the stock quickly so as to save expenses, time, etc. 3-3-4d.

COPPER COUNTRY NEWS.

St. Patrick's Day Will Be Elaborately Celebrated at Red Jacket This Year.

POLITICS IN SOME TOWNS BECOMING QUITE HEATED.

Montrose Commandery Elects Officers. Messrs. Hubbell and Dunstan Seek Judicial Honors.

RED JACKET. (All communications for copper country department intended for publication should be addressed to A. F. Lister, Houghton.)

Arrangements are being made for a grand celebration of St. Patrick's Day. There will be a parade of the Irish societies at 2 o'clock and a concert and lecture at the opera house in the evening.

Brakeman John Sullivan had a very narrow escape Saturday afternoon. While making signals to Engineer Schenk as the engine was backing up a plank sticking out from the snow struck him on the legs and knocked him off.

A large force of men was at work yesterday on the locomotive Superior and got it on the track. An engine towed it to Hancock for repairs.

Calumet. Montrose Commandery, Knights Templar, at a regular convocation held Friday evening elected the following officers: Eminent commander, John Duncan; generalissimo, James N. Cox; captain general, James Collier; prelate, Dr. H. H. Osborn; senior warden, John Merton; junior warden, Charles Smith; treasurer, Stephen Paul; recorder, J. P. North; standard bearer, A. B. Wareham; sword bearer, George Grierson; warder, A. McNaughton; organist, W. S. Whisler; first guard, Charles W. Niles; second guard, E. G. Brown; third guard, M. M. Morrison. The commandery will attend divine service at Christ church Easter Sunday.

The Calumet Musical union will produce Alfred Cellier's comic opera, "Dorothy" in the Calumet School Hall on April 3 and at the Red Jacket Opera House April 5. The opera is tuneful and the singers will be accompanied by a full orchestra of ten pieces under the leadership of F. N. Bossion.

Lake Linden. At a village caucus held in the school hall Friday evening the following ticket was nominated: President, A. H. McDougall, clerk, Fred G. Wisnauer; treasurer, Charles P. Jochims; street commissioner, William Green; assessors, Jacob Mertes and Frank Jacques; constable, Alex Barbeaux.

Division No. 3, A. O. H., will go to Calumet on St. Patrick's Day by special train on the Hecla & Torch Lake road tendered by the company. The train leaves here at 1:30 p. m., returning after the concert and lecture in the evening.

The Lake Linden band intends to come out in new uniforms of green and gold at a grand reception to be given at the opera house on Thursday evening, March 16. A very choice program is being arranged and the best vocal talent the county affords will assist.

The late storms have so completely filled in the track cleared on the ice for the horse races that the expense of ploughing out a new one would be too much for the local syndicate to undertake. The races are now postponed until the snow is off the ground.

Hancock. A mammoth musical meeting will be conducted by Major Cozens of Detroit, assisted by Staff Captain Brown of Ishpeming and "Colonel" Grove, the "Tongue-tie" musical comedian. The concert, at the Salvation Army Hall next Friday evening, March 10, at 8 o'clock sharp. Major Cozens will deliver an address. George Glasby, the happy colored lad, can play seventeen different instruments.

The smoke stack blown down during the recent storm from the fire engine house is being repaired.

Nearly two hundred new names were placed on the registration books Saturday. This promises the largest vote ever polled in the village tomorrow. The largest on record now is 275.

A Republican caucus will be held in the fire engine house hall tomorrow evening to select delegates to the county convention to be held at Houghton Wednesday afternoon.

The concert and supper in the Methodist church Saturday evening was a grand success, both socially and financially. A large number of Houghton people were in attendance.

Hans Busch has finished the scenery for the Browne Theatre company and it will be used for the first time at Ishpeming tonight.

The product of the Franklin mine for February was 187,000 pounds. This is very good for a short month as some time lost by storms in getting rock to the stamp mill.

The product of the Quincy for February was 700 tons 1400 pounds. The Quincy lost no time by storms. The splendid equipment of its road made it possible to run the full number of cars of rock each day.

Rev. L. P. Rowland spoke at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday afternoon. There was special music and a large attendance. Mr. Rowland also spoke at the Congregational church last evening, closing a two weeks' engagement of revival meetings.

L. Silverman has taken into partnership Mr. Levy of New York city and the firm will be known as Silverman & Levy. Both are experienced in the dry goods business.

Houghton. Saturday evening, when all hands had quit work at Hodge's, the fires in the boilers of the machine shop were pulled out so as to get them ready to be cleaned. When this is done the fires in the boilers in the moulding department are lighted so as to have steam in case of emergency. About 10:30 o'clock the watchman had about 60 pounds of steam up and he turned it on so as to keep the pipes from freezing in the machine shop. As the pressure was a little higher it raised the valve in the big whistle and everybody thought it was an alarm of fire. Many attending the theatre rushed out and as many more would have done so had they not heard in time that there was no fire.

For the benefit of those desiring the services of the Houghton Cornet band in the future Henry Kutscheld, the manager, wishes to state that he is the only one authorized to make contracts for the band. The misunderstanding between the band and the Maenner chor arose from the committee of the latter organization hiring the band from an unauthorized person and the manager not knowing of this made a contract to play at the Liberman Rifles ball on the same evening.

Browne's Theatre company closed a two weeks' engagement here and a two weeks' engagement in the copper country Saturday evening. The company has been playing to large and appreciative houses every night.

E. L. Rule has purchased the interest of Mr. Gitzen in the firm of Kutscheld & Gitzen, cigar manufacturers, the new firm being known as Kutscheld & Rule.

Albert N. Baudin will not run for assessor on the Citizens' ticket against Ernest J. Dube.

The Republican county convention will be held at Miller's Hall Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. Jay A. Hubbell and Thomas B. Dunstan are seeking the nomination for circuit judge. Both gentlemen are well qualified for the place.

Treasurer Richards of Schoolcraft township made his returns Saturday and paid $1,540.20 to County Treasurer Miller.

There will be a Republican caucus in Miller's Hall tonight for the purpose of selecting delegates to the county convention on Wednesday.

N. J. Dolf, treasurer of Duncan township, was in the city Thursday making his returns to County Treasurer Miller. The returns were the most favorable of that portion of the county are prospering or else Mr. Dolf is a gem of a tax collector.

ATLANTIC. The product of the Atlantic mine for February was 215 tons 780 pounds. This mine did very well during the stormy weather in keeping its road to the mill open every day.

THE POPULAR ROUTE TO CHICAGO. The Chicago & Northwestern railway is now running a daily line of gas lighted night sleeping cars between North Michigan points and Milwaukee and Chicago. Close connections are made at Negaunee with trains from Marquette, Houghton, Hancock, Calumet, Red Jacket and other points in the copper country, and passengers arrive at Chicago at an early hour in the morning, in ample time to make connections with trains of eastern and southern lines. To secure the advantages of fast time and the best accommodations, purchase your tickets via the Chicago & Northwestern railway. (2-24-1w)

THE KERBER-JACOBS QUARRY

A New Company Which Has Been "Saying Nothin' and Sawing Wood."

THE NEW TOWN OF REDROCK GROWING RAPIDLY.

One of the Liveliest Pieces of Work Ever Done in the Upper Peninsula Stone World.

THE K-J. REDSTONE CO.

On the 16th day of October last, with snow already on the ground, the first axe cut was made in the inauguration of an enterprise which promises much for Houghton county and for the Marquette men who are chiefly interested in it. Today there stands on the ground then covered by a heavy growth of hardwood, hemlock and spruce the handsome little forest village of Redrock, with two great boarding houses and ten private houses finished and occupied and five more houses in different stages of construction.

All this is the result of the push and energy of the men in control of the affairs of the Kerber-Jacobs Redstone company, organized in this city last fall, and of Mr. W. J. Fales, the company's superintendent, and Edward Mitchell, of the noted firm of contractors, Powell & Mitchell.

Leaving the South Shore train at Newtonville Saturday evening and enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Newton that night a representative of THE MINING JOURNAL was driven up Keweenaw bay on the ice yesterday morning, across to Jacobsville, the site of the famous First-Jacobs quarry, now owned by First, Xen & Co., and then a mile up the shore to the site of the new quarry. The progress made there is really remarkable, especially when it is considered that not only has all the work been done in the dead of winter but in the most severe winter Lake Superior has known for many years. Besides building a fair sized village two-thirds of the stripping has been done for a quarry opening 250 by 100 feet, where the average depth of the stripping is 23 feet and a dock has been pushed out into Keweenaw Bay over 900 feet, the cribs being unusually heavy and strong because of the exposed position in which the structure stands.

The new quarry is upon Sec. 8, 33-32, and the company controls all of the section, which is fractional because of the contour of the shore, except 80 acres at the corner farthest from the lake, making about 424 acres in the property. The company was not organized until a year's thorough drilling had been done with results justifying energetic work in the line of development. The officers are: J. H. Jacobs, president; S. W. Goodale, vice president; B. S. Packard, secretary; D. W. Powell, treasurer, and John H. Jacobs, S. W. Goodale, B. S. Packard, D. W. Powell and John Mitchell, directors. Prominent Chicago stone men are interested in the company, as its name indicates.

The contract for the stripping and the crib work of the dock was let to Powell & Mitchell. The bed of stone dips to the northwest about 4 feet in 100, the stripping being 15 feet at the southeast end of the opening and 37 at the northwest. The opening is 1,600 feet from the edge of the 32-foot bluff which forms the shore of the lake at that place. A broad avenue was cut out from the opening to the lake and in direct line with this the dock reaches out due southeast into deep water, an incline being cut down through the cliff and the fill being carried far out onto the dock to make the descent an easy one. A track runs from the quarry opening out upon the dock with an engine house from which the dump cars are hauled up out of the quarry and another one from which they are hauled on the grade down to the dock.

A bulkhead of cribs parallel with, and 262 feet (outside measurement) from, the shore was first put in and from this the cribs start, the water deepening rapidly from 9 feet at the start to about 14 feet at the outer end. All told there will be forty cribs placed, five of which will be detached breakwater cribs set in an angling position out from the exposed side of the structure. These will be put in by the company but the remaining thirty-five are in Powell & Mitchell's contract and twenty of them are already in place. Very heavy hemlock logs are used in building the cribs and then they are filed and heavily rapped with the material taken out in stripping the quarry. The cribs will reach out in a straight line 688 feet from the bulkhead making the total projection into the lake 1,026 feet. It will be about 90 feet wide at the outer end where the great derrick will stand which will load the blockstone on the vessels, its engine house standing near by. The cribs rise 7 feet above the surface of the water.

The derrick will be the largest ever erected at a Lake Superior quarry. The mast, a single stick of pine, will be 64 feet long and when in position its top will be 66 1/2 feet from the planking of the dock. Its boom will be 56 feet long and the two bridge guys, single sticks of spruce, 66 feet long. All of the timber is already on the ground and the sticks are of wonderful size, strength and straightness. A couple of other very heavy derricks will be erected at the quarry, one coming from the Lake Superior Redstone company's quarry and the other from the Case & Luling opening on the mainland.

The new company has purchased the entire plant of machinery owned by the Lake Superior company, including boilers, engines, drills, channeller, two derricks, etc., and also the splendid plant of machinery put in by Mr. Luling at the property mentioned above. The Luling derrick sticks and the big 60-horse power boiler are now being hauled across the bay on the ice to the new quarry by Mr. Newton, the hoisting plant, (built by the Lake Shore Iron works) and the other machinery having already been moved in safety.

Powell & Mitchell are working about seventy men on their contract and Mr. Fales has a dozen or so on company account and is now putting on more and also additional teams. The company's boarding houses are each two stories high without the attic and 45x40 in size while blacksmith shops, a big barn, storehouses, root cellar, cow barn and other necessary structures have been erected. All of the buildings are on the broad avenue named, the company's structures being nearest the quarry. The houses built by the men are the neatest houses built of hewn logs which the reporter has ever seen and as they stand in an even line and just 50 feet apart. Redrock is already a very handsome little village, its level site at such height from the lake being an especially rare one. An office and several houses for the company are soon to be started.

The Kerber-Jacobs company is starting out on a scale never before approached here, its equipment being perfect in every feature. It will spring into the field full armed both in quarrying and shipping facilities and as it is believed to have the thickest solid bed of stone ever tackled in this part of the country its operations are already attracting attention and it promises to be a large shipper this year. Powell & Mitchell are to finish their stripping and dock contract by May 1 and by the time the first boats can arrive the quarry will be in full blast. If the company tackles the quarrying with the wonderful energy it has shown in the preliminary work the Kerber-Jacobs quarry will become famous as a "hummer" in its very first season.

Raft Towing.

A letter from the office of the chief of engineers, U. S. A., informs us that Colonel O. M. Poe, Major C. E. L. B. Davis and Major C. B. Sears, all officers of the corps of engineers, are members of the board selected to investigate the subject of raft towing on the Great Lakes in accordance with Senator McMillan's joint resolution recently passed by congress. The board will meet at Detroit on the call of the senior member, Colonel O. M. Poe. These officers are especially fitted for this service, and it is more than probable that the vessel interests will give support in congress to their report, which will have great influence in prompting the passage of a law regulating raft towing.—Marine Review.

A New Restaurant.

George C. Preston, the popular restaurateur, will re-enter the business this week. He will close his downtown barber shop this evening and on Wednesday evening hopes to open up his new establishment for which every preparation has already been made. Mr. Preston thoroughly refitted his place last fall and got everything ready for a start at that time but finally determined to wait until spring. He has secured a first class cook who is already a favorite here, and with trained waiters, a perfect restaurant equipment and an attractive bill of fare he promises to deserve fully the patronage of the hungry public and will spare no effort to please all who favor him with a call.

The "Jim Hayes" for Sale.

F. W. Reed & Co. advertise to sell the "Jim Hayes" cheap. The tug stands on skids at Mjehigamme, ready to load on the cars, and can be delivered promptly. The owners find it necessary to replace her with a larger craft to accommodate their increased business. The tug can be secured at a bargain.

ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY.

W. J. Arkell, publisher of Judge and Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, writes: "I have used your plaster for some time and I am glad to say it is entirely satisfactory."

"About three weeks since, while suffering from a severe cold which had settled on my chest, I applied an Alcock's porous plaster and in a short time obtained relief. In my opinion these plasters should be in every household for use in case of colds, coughs, sprains, bruises or pains of any kind. I know that in my case the results have been entirely satisfactory and beneficial."

A MOIST SPRING.

The deep frozen ground will gradually relax under the warmth of spring while the earth will throw off its moisture and dampness will fill the air. No condition could be worse for the development of the lung. Extreme cold is bad for it, but a moist spring is worse. Suffering is very great and it will increase and intensify, unless, as sensible people do, we provide ourselves with St. Jacobs Oil, the best remedy known for this plague. It is a torture in bad weather.

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretions will do well to avail themselves of this chance.

DR. SPEER & CO.

Will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases of weakness or private disease of any kind or character they undertake or forfeit $250. They will therefore say to the unfortunate sufferers who may read this notice that you are treading on dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedies for your complaint. Then for the first time you will realize what negligence means. Our success in such cases can be best understood when we will positively declare that over 100,000 have been treated by us in different parts of the world. Call and get the benefit of our experience.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many of the age of 30 to 50 who are troubled with too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting sensation and weakening of the system in a manner which the patient cannot account for. On examination it will be found that the urine deposits aropy sediment and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear or the color be of a thin or milky hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of weakness.

LADIES

Finding it inconvenient to call at the office can be treated by mail by sending a full description of their case.

DR. SPEER & CO.

Will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases and a healthy restoration of the organs. Examination and advice free to all. Remember the place, 146 West Washington street, Marquette.

P. S.—See our testimonials in the different papers from well-known people. Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today. If you feel alarmed about your lungs take Dr. Speer & Co's. new lung treatment.
