MARQUETTE, MICH., MARCH 16.

Entered as second-class matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

From the reports it is to be inferred that the stream of office seekers has set from Washington rather than toward that city during the past week.

Not all of them are returning happy either. Many a heart that was as light as a feather when its owner was on his way to assist at the inauguration of the new president was like a lump of lead in the aforesaid owner's buzzum as he painfully made his way back again. Such is politics.

The assertion is made, apparently by authority, that the president will appoint only capable business men to consulships, as he desires to have these positions filled by men who will be able to do something toward increasing our foreign trade.

It has not yet been definitely stated what branch of the public service the professional politicians will be regarded as specially suited for, but there are signs which unerringly denote that they will have but scant picking under the new order of things recently established at Washington.

MARCUS POLLASKEY has turned up again in Michigan, and in his old role of "promoter" of railroad schemes. He plans a direct line to connect Detroit and Toledo, and appears to have interested several Detroit capitalists in it.

Marcus is one of the chaps who are forever finding enterprises for other people to put money into, and he is such a glib-tongued rooster that he generally succeeds in persuading them to do it.

Getting the money out again is quite another thing, the "promoter" usually allowing the capitalists behind his scheme to discover how that can be done on their own hook. He's a slick one, and no mistake.

ALLUDING to the previousness of a Calumet paper in undertaking to stir up a row over the location of the proposed upper peninsula normal school by urging Hancock's claims for that institution in advance of favorable action by the legislature on the bill providing for its establishment, The Copper Journal of Hancock pointedly remarks:

We ourselves expect to have something to say on the subject, but we think the time for agitating the question of location is not yet ripe. The superintendents of the public schools, when they met here to discuss the subject, set a precedent that should be, and we are glad to observe has been, generally followed by the papers published in the upper peninsula. We have not been backward in letting the fact be known that Hancock would be in the race when it was definitely known that there was to be a prize to contend for but we do not wish to create any prejudice against us and draw the fire from other papers by openly discussing a subject that, if not by general consent, was tacitly understood at least, should remain in the background until the legislature had taken some action in the matter.

If The Calumet News has succeeded in placing us in a false position before the upper peninsula public, it will hardly receive the thanks of the town for its mistaken valor in our behalf. All Hancock asks is a fair field and no favor.

The State Republican, which is published at Lansing, has information that Mayor Pingree of Detroit has begun a damage suit for libel against the Detroit Tribune on account of matter published in that paper in the form of an advertisement in which the mayor was by innuendo charged with dishonest conduct.

The impression which the offensive article sought to convey was that the mayor was interested in a lighting contract let to one of the lighting companies there some time ago at a higher price than that which he now insists is robbery of the taxpayers, and that he is, therefore, not sincere in the fight that he is making against the lighting companies. The Tribune's defence is that it published the article as an advertisement, marked it as such, and is not responsible for what it contained. Detroit's mayor is not a man who will allow himself to be fired at from behind an ambuscade without trying to get in a return shot, and THE MINING JOURNAL sincerely hopes that he may be able to bring down his cowardly assailant, and at the same time teach The Tribune that it cannot be used as a shelter by miscreants who like to do their shooting from behind cover without taking some chances itself.

IT MAY be somewhat in the nature of a breach of confidence for THE MINING JOURNAL to say even this much, but it is in a position, and feels constrained, to state that since his return to Marquette from Washington, where he was in attendance at the inauguration, Hon. Peter White has been given the most signal and flattering evidence of the great regard entertained for him by President Cleveland: evidence that would be public property at an early day were it possible for Mr. White to accept a position of the highest trust and honor under the new administration. More we may not say now, but we deeply regret that Mr. White's business affairs and other official engagements debar him from taking upon himself at this time the duties of a position that it would be a distinguished honor for Marquette to have filled by one of her citizens, and which he has been cordially urged by the president to accept. It will surprise Mr. White to find this allusion to the honor done him in print, for he has, through motives of delicacy, refrained from saying anything about it save to close and trusted friends, but THE MINING JOURNAL's scent for news is too keen to be evaded and it has full knowledge of the facts that it makes this guarded comment on. And it cannot refrain from heartily congratulating Mr. White, even while regretting that he does not see his way clear to acceptance of the place tendered him.

MORE "FAKES."

The Marquette correspondent of the Detroit News is feeding that sheet liberally on "fake" information on subjects of local interest ever since the loss of his other job compelled him to rely for a living on the sale of news to outside papers. One of his latest "breaks" was a dispatch announcing that Mr. W. B. Cady of Sault Ste. Marie is a candidate for the collectorship of customs at this port.

THE MINING JOURNAL has a letter written by Mr. Cady denouncing the statement that he is seeking the position as "bald-headed lie," and stating that it will be denied for him by the Soo Democrat in the next issue of that paper, and also that he had written to The News in denial of the report to which it was led to give currency through over-confidence in the reliability of its Marquette correspondent.

Mr. Cady's letter arrived just after a similar request from a gentleman residing in this city, whose name had also been dragged into print in connection with this office, had been attended to, his denial being equally as strenuous and indignant as Mr. Cady's.

Alluding to an equally misleading report, relating to another matter and emanating from another of those "news bureau" fellows, the Iron Port of Escanaba has this comment in its issue dated the 14th:

A correspondent of a Detroit paper telegraphs from Ishpeming that the producers of iron ore in this region have organized a "trust" to control the price and output of that commodity. Every one has long ago learned to take with large allowance any telegram from that city to outside papers, but this requires more than usual. That there is an understanding among the ore producers that it would be folly to crowd ore upon a market which does not demand it, and to allow demand to fix the amount to be produced, we are assured and, further, that such understanding is all there is of the alleged "trust."

THE MINING JOURNAL has had frequent occasion to call down the penny-afinders who are serving the outside dailies with stuff of this character, but as long as there is a market for the rubbish that they send out they will keep on providing it. It speaks poorly for the discrimination exercised on the big dailies that their columns are burdened with such fake matter, despite the notice of its character that has been time and again given them.

A NON-PARTISAN JUDICIARY.

In four of the judicial circuits of this peninsula non-partisan candidates for the judgeships have been agreed on by the nominating conventions of both political parties.

In one of the four districts the candidate is a Democrat—that, too, being a district in which the Republicans have an undoubted majority, Judge Haire being the man so honored—and in the other three the candidates who are in the field without opposition are Republicans.

The fact serves to show that a very high conception of the judicial function obtains among the people of this peninsula, and also that partisan feeling is not allowed to dominate everything with us, as in the case of communities less progressive and liberal.

Our lower peninsula brethren have been much addicted to felicitating themselves on their assumed greater regard for law, and consequent freedom from crime, as compared with this section of the state, but this has been but one of their numerous hallucinations regarding the upper peninsula. The fact that we are about to elect four judges solely because of the fitness for the bench of the men placed in nomination and without reference to their political sentiments or affiliations, while in the lower part of the state they are running party candidates for judicial offices in many instances and wrangling unseemly over their election, shows that in one respect, at least, we are in advance of the lower part of the state.

This is not by any means "the wild and woolly" end of the Wolverine state, of which fact the decorous manner in which we are conducting the election of our circuit judges is very strong and satisfactory proof. We know when to divide on party lines and when to abstain from doing this, and that alone argues a conception of the duties of true American citizenship on the part of our people considerably above the standard prevailing throughout the country.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A VOLUMINOUS SKIRT. A GOWN WHICH CONTAINS A HUNDRED YARDS OF FINEST SILK. How the Girl Who Does a Serpentine Dance on the Stage Has Her Performing Dress Constructed--How She Manipulates the Wonderful Garment.

Scene—A large bare room containing a piano, its stool and two chairs. On the stool sat the pianist. In one chair sat an elderly, ladylike woman. In the middle of the bare floor stood a handsome girl, panting. She seemed to be in the condition of a person who has run half a mile as tight as she could go.

The girl was what is known as a "serpentine dancer," and that was her serpentine skirt. It was made of the lightest silk that the Asiatic looms can produce. The dressmaker who fashioned it had to make it to the cover of an umbrella patterned. Many lengths of silk of the full width were cut at the right length to fall from the girl's waist to the ground.

It is with her hands and arms that she makes concert with the "time" of the dance music. The dance is a dance of the arms. But over her arms and over her hands she keeps throwing the voluminous looseness of her skirt this way and that until its fullness piles up in soft cloudlike masses that rise and fall, reappear and disappear as smoke rolls up from a green wood fire.

Some tutors teach this dance of the arms without the use of the dress. They call that into play only when the student has mastered the graceful art of swaying her arms in rhythm.

"She's Agoin Better Tonight." The fat, Deim Moore was singing her principal solo in "The Deafening Eye," the footlights being down to give play to the line. And one limelight man in the flies was heard to remark to another:

"She's agoin a bit better tonight, Bill." "It was just time, too," growled the other. "Monday night she was something awful."

"She's all the better since I stuck a hair-pin into her last night," rejoined the first. "Burning with indignation, a gentleman who had overheard these remarks sought the manager."

PROMINENT MERCHANT GONE

The Death of Frederick P. Wetmore at Baltimore, Md., Announced Yesterday.

WHERE THE CREDIT BELONGS IN STREET RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

Real Estate Transfers—An Unsolicited Testimonial—A Silver Wedding Reception—Miscellaneous Notes.

GATHERED TO HIS FATHERS.

A telegram was received yesterday from Russell C. Wetmore at Baltimore stating that his father, Frederick P. Wetmore of this city passed away that morning. No particulars were given and it is not known whether the remains will be brought back here to Mr. Wetmore's old home for burial or not.

Mr. Wetmore had never been himself since he had the grip, a year ago last February. All the winter he was in Florida until about three weeks ago when Russell Wetmore, who is now moving from Chicago to New York to go into the American Steel Barge company with his brother, Charles W. Wetmore, the husband of Elizabeth Bisland, went down and brought him up to Baltimore to receive treatment in Johns Hopkins Institute there, some of his symptoms giving rise to a fear of dropsy.

Mrs. Wetmore was with her husband and it is supposed that Charles W. was also present, the whole family being together when the end came.

Mr. Wetmore was born October 30, 1813, in Burlington, Vt., where his father, John Pomeroy Wetmore, resided for many years, and was the eldest of three sons in a family of thirteen children. Of these only William L. Wetmore and Madam Robbins of this city survive him. While still a youth he went to Norfolk, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., and there learned the printer's trade, afterwards working for some time on the old Burlington, Vt., Free Press. Later he followed his brother, William L., to Ohio, where the latter established a sawmill. After residing in Cuyahoga Falls for some time he removed, about 1840, to Hinckley, where he conducted a store.

William L. Wetmore came to Marquette in '37 '38 and in 1863 Frederick P. also came here, at once entering the mercantile business with his brother, who had before been in business with Dr. M. L. Hewitt under the firm name of Wetmore & Co. On his brother's arrival the firm became Wetmore Brothers and they did an enormous business until the failure of William L. Wetmore through the panic of 1876 carried the firm down with it.

In 1880 Mr. Wetmore resumed business at his present stand under the firm name of R. C. Wetmore & Co., starting with $150 capital himself and borrowing a few hundreds from his son, Russell C. In about two years he was able to buy out his son for $2,000 and the firm name gave way to that of Frederick P. Wetmore, the business constantly increasing until for several years it has exceeded $100,000 per year, keeping above this figure even in the past year of depression. Since Mr. Wetmore's failure in health the business has been conducted by Charles E. Brown, who had been with him for many years and who recently has really been a special partner in the business.

Mr. Wetmore for many years has been the mainstay of the farming community south of Chocoley, many a homesteader and farmer getting his start through him, and it was stated not many months ago that he was carrying on his books over $20,000 of accounts of the nature indicated. It was a very frequent remark on the streets yesterday, when his death became known, that the men who are carving out homes for themselves south of the city as well as many a poor man in Marquette had lost their best friend.

Mr. Wetmore was well along in his eightieth year and had lived to see his sons make splendid names for themselves in the business and professional world. He enjoyed rugged health until after the attack of the grip mentioned and was able to be about until a few days before his death. Indeed the fatal termination of his illness was entirely unexpected here as in a letter received from him Wednesday by Mr. Brown he stated that he was feeling much better and recent letters from his son, R. C., to Marquette relatives were also very hopeful in tone.

Mr. Wetmore for many years was an officer and very prominent member of St. Paul's church in this city.

Real Estate Transfers.

Yesterday John Cone sold his Michigan street residence property to Thomas C. Fitzgerald through the real estate agency of M. H. Foard. The consideration was not made public but the entire amount was paid in cash.

Thomas C. Foard, now agent of the American Express company at Sault Ste. Marie, has sold his residence, formerly the Jory place, on North Front street between Ohio street and Hewitt avenue, to Mrs. Gill of this city.

The Whole Force Deserve It.

The Superior street concern gives all the credit for the splendid record the Marquette City & Presque Isle R'y has made this winter and especially in the recent storm to Superintendent John Ward. Mr. Ward objects most decidedly and it is right that he should, for no superintendent ever had more hearty co-operation than he has received this winter from every man connected with the road. When an emergency has arisen the bookkeeper and assistant treasurer of the company, Mr. Dunn has invariably deserted his books and gone out on the line to handle a shovel and he has handled it well, too. In the same way the motor men and conductors have pitched in with the shovel brigade and made the snow fly as hard as an of them. THE MINING JOURNAL has in mind especially the severe storm in February when the last car was caught north of Fair avenue on its way back to the car barn for the night, the crew insisting on staying by it and shoveling their way through while Superintendent Ward, Mr. Dunn and the regular track gang also took hold. They put that car in the barn so that it could be inspected and overhauled for the next day's run as usual though it took until nearly midnight to do it. When such a spirit is shown by every man connected with the road it is no wonder that Marquette has found reason to be proud of the management of its street railway and of its ability to overcome all obstacles. Even "an old-time Lake Superior winter" cannot tie up a road managed by men as loyal and as devoted to its interests as are those now connected with the Marquette City & Presque Isle railway.

An Unsolicited Testimonial.
Yesterday THE MINING JOURNAL received the following letter, written entirely without the knowledge of the parties named or of the officers of the Hagey Gold Cure company and brought into the office of the paper by the writer himself with the request that it be published. The request is cheerfully granted, in the hope that Mr. Wetmore's letter may induce hundreds of others throughout the upper peninsula to follow his example:

To THE MINING JOURNAL: Being actuated by the purest motives of gratitude and conscious of the deep obligation due to Mr. Geo. Arthur Brown and Dr. Youngquist who induced me to take the Hagey Gold Cure, I can joyfully certify that I have been discharged perfectly cured from any desire for any liquor of an intoxicating nature. Contrary to my old habits, the remedy has created in me a strong abhorrence to all intoxicants and I feel all together a new being. I can relish my meals which prior to my treatment seemed tasteless. Words are inadequate to do justice to the feeling of gratitude I entertain toward the above gentlemen for the interest they have taken in my behalf. I would highly recommend the gold cure to any irritable persons who are addicted to the excessive use of liquor. The treatment is mild.

I have the honor to be your humble servant,
JOHN E. THOMAS.
MARQUETTE, March 10th.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The members of Mr. Epley's music class are requested to remember the hour for rehearsal, 8 o'clock tonight, and to be on hand promptly.

Mr. W. C. Brown desires to meet every member of the membership committee in the association parlors tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Silver Wedding Reception.

The ladies of the M. E. church will give a reception in the parlors of the church this evening from 8 to 10 o'clock for the Rev. Joseph Frazer, the pastor of the church, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frazer having been married twenty-five years ago today—St. Patrick's Day. Let all attend the reception.

"ROYAL RUBY" PORT WINE.

If you are reduced in vitality or strength by illness or any other cause, we recommend the use of this grand old Port wine, the very blood of the grape. It is a tonic for mothers nursing and those reduced by wasting disease. It creates strength; improves the appetite. Nature's own remedy, much preferable to drugs, guaranteed absolutely pure and of age. Young wine ordinarily sold is not fit to use. Insist on having this standard brand, it costs no more. $1 quart bottles of the Royal Wine Co., Chicago. For sale by H. H. Stafford, Son & Co., Marquette, and J. N. Perkins & Co., Negaunee.

MOTHERS' RECOMMENDATION.

We are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house for a good many times its cost, and are recommending it every day. From personal experience we can say it has broken up bad colds for our children.—Centerville, South Dakota. Citizen. 50 cent bottles for sale by H. H. Stafford, Son & Co. Druggists.

HOTEL MARQUETTE.

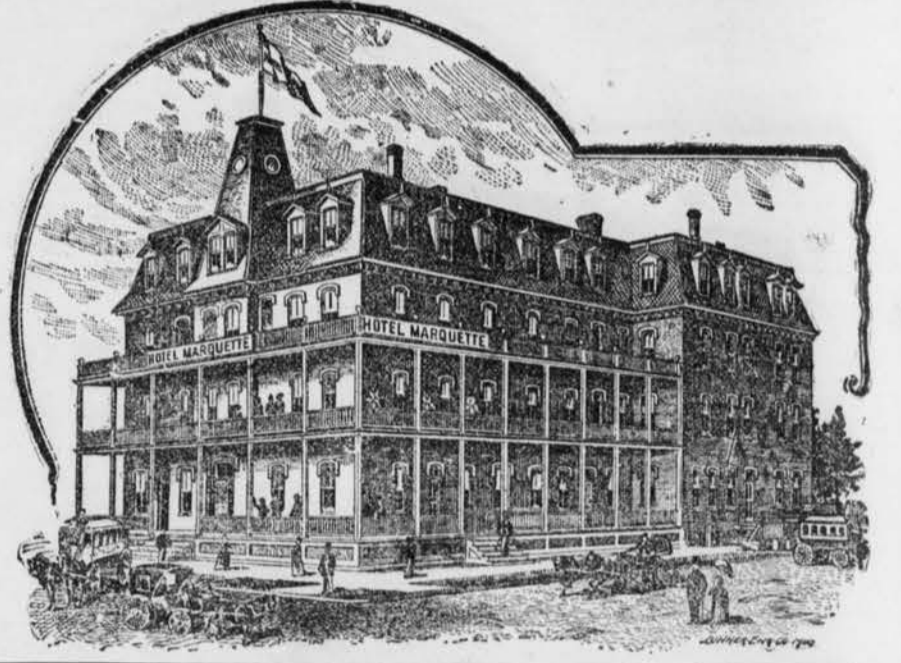

JOHN H. LEWIS, Proprietor.

This is the LARGEST, BEST and most centrally located hotel in the city, with an unobstructed view of the lake. It has been remodelled and equipped throughout as a first-class hotel.

Travelling men are treated with due respect and are given the best in the house. The bill of fare is unsurpassed this side of Detroit and Chicago. A good place to stay over Sunday.

RATES.....$2 & $3.00 per day.

P. S.—Guests of this hotel are free to smoke in the office.

ALFRED THURTELL,
Coles' New Block, Cor. Third and Bluff Sts. Marquette, Mich.

There is no one instrument, unless, indeed, it be a large pipe organ, capable of the variety of effects that are obtainable on the Aeolian. Unlike the pipe organ, however, the Aeolian is adapted to all classes of music: overtures and symphonies can be rendered on it with all the softness and delicacy of the flute and violin and cello and all the snap and brilliancy of the piano. See and hear them at Conklin's.
