A MATRICIDE AT LIBERTY.

Escapes From Jackson With a Winchester Rifle After Drugging His Keeper.

LATIMER ADDS ANOTHER TO HIS LIST OF MURDERS.

Captain Gill, Night Keeper of the Prison, Under Arrest, Charged With Assisting Him to Escape.

COMMITTS MURDER TO ESCAPE.

JACKSON, Mich., March 27.—R. Irving Latimer, the Jackson matricide, is at liberty and is armed with a rifle. He escaped soon after 1 o'clock this morning after drugging George W. Haight, who had charge of the gate upstairs. Haight died at 3 a. m. as a result of the poison. Captain Gill, night keeper, is under arrest charged with being Latimer's accomplice. Latimer tried to release the prisoners near his own cell but failing made his own escape by way of the front gates. Latimer secured a rifle and a quantity of ammunition before going and will surely make a desperate resistance.

Latimer has for some time occupied the cell nearest the door to the guard room and it is stated that lately he has been permitted to take luncheon with Captain Gill in the lower corridor. Last night about 9 o'clock Latimer and Gill had their lunch and it is not shown that the prisoner was ever in his cell after that time. About 12 o'clock, after having drunk several glasses of lemonade prepared by Latimer Gill was taken sick. Keeper C. E. Rice and Latimer took care of him. Soon afterward the noise of a heavy fall and the rattling of dishes was heard in the guard room, and it is supposed he took the captain's keys and rushed up to see what was the matter. Rice claims to have gone to the guard room with Latimer, but it is thought to be impossible under the circumstances. George W. Haight was keeper of the guard room and he had just sat down to his lunch when he fell to the floor in a fit and died ten minutes later.

R. Irving Latimer murdered his mother at Jackson soon after 1 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 25, 1889. He evidently shot her while in bed asleep. The wound was not fatal and she sprang from her bed and attempted to make her way to the window with the intention of crying for help. Latimer then shot her again and beat her over the head with the butt of his revolver until she sank to the floor dead. Latimer owned a drug store in Jackson at the time and was one of the society youths of the city. His father had died some years before the murder under very suspicious circumstances and there is but little doubt that Irving poisoned his father. Latimer is twenty-six years old, and has a mustache and short side whiskers, and weight 165 pounds. He has blue eyes and light complexion.

DEATH PENALTY PROPOSED.

Capital Punishment Advocated for Prisoner Who Shot His Mother.

STATE HOUSE, LANSING, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—Representative Sumner took advantage of the excitement over the escape of Irving Latimer to call up his bill tonight providing a death penalty for any convict who commits murder while doing time and an effort will be made to push it through while the excitement lasts.

The governor has signed the Ishpeming charter bill, also the bill authorizing Ontonagon to issue bonds for $30,000 for public improvements. An effort was made to pass the Houghton county probate judge bill in the house but no quorum voted and the house adjourned.

THE END NOT FAR OFF.

VALPARAISO, March 27.—A correspondent in Riviera says: A force of 1,000 troops sent down by the general government from Rio Janeiro reached there today. These troops raise the number of soldiers of the national army now in Rio Grand to more than 5,000. They are well armed and it will not be possible for the revolutionists to hold out against them very long. This was shown only a week ago when the troops of Lavarez, left near Santa Anna, fled at the approach of 800 soldiers of the national army, and the defeat of Saravia with a loss of 3,000 men at Alegrete. At each the federal force displayed their inability to fight the national army. With 5,000 men to face them they will not be able to prolong the war. It is believed here that Lavarez will be met at Bage by a force of national troops large enough to overwhelm him and end the war there.

BANK ROBBERS AT WORK.

A Kansas Bank Robbed of $4,000 in Broad Daylight.

COFFEYVILLE, March 27.—The Caney Valley bank at Caney, Kas., was robbed late this afternoon and $4,000 secured by the robbers. The job is said to have been done by two men named Starr and Newcomb, the former of whom is a fugitive from justice. A posse has started after them but they secured a good start and it is feared that the chase will prove fruitless for the pursuers. No one was hurt during the robbery which occurred when the streets in the vicinity were crowded with passers-by.

SUICIDE OR INSANITY?

Strange Actions of a Young Man Result in Death.

BUTTERNUT, Wis., March 27.—A young man giving his name as Cole reached this town Friday night about 10 o'clock without money. Failing to find a lodging place he went into a sawmill and was found the following day with his throat badly cut and his feet frozen. He was taken care of by the town authorities and was in a fair way for recovery, but last evening about 11 o'clock when his attendant was absent he made his escape, and with nothing on but his underwear he ran through the deep snow into the woods for a distance of about two miles, where he was found dead this morning.

A GREAT STRIKE IS ENDED.

The Striking Monongahela Coal Miners Return to Work.

PITTSBURG, March 27.—The great strike of the Monongahela coal miners has practically ended and before the end of the week it is probable that all of the 7,000 old men will be back to work. Fully 3,000 strikers returned to the mines today in the second and fourth pools and the third pool men have also weakened. The strikers are so anxious to get their old places that they did not wait for the convention called for tomorrow at Monongahela City, at which it is expected the strike will be declared off. The strike was broken by the men at Lucyville and Roscoe returning to work on Saturday. As soon as this was learned there was a general scramble to get back. The strike lasted seven months and it is estimated to have cost the operators and miners $4,000,000. Of this amount the strikers lost $210,000 in wages. There is great rejoicing throughout the valley, particularly among merchants and storekeepers, over the ending of the strike.

COUNT OF PARIS SPEAKS.

Exhorts All True Frenchmen to Stand by the Monarchy.

PARIS, March 27.—The Count of Paris has sent out a circular letter to the monarchist committees throughout France. In it he says substantially: "The present movement is most critical. The chamber has lost credit throughout the country. The government has no cause to act against the socialists. It is powerless at home and devoid of authority abroad. The time has come for all right-minded men to unite in a supreme effort to restore the honor of France. The monarchists must not repudiate any political alliance required by the interests of the nation and for the defense of religious liberty, but at the same time they must let France understand that the monarchy alone can give to her a strong and stable government whose sole object will be the public welfare. My son seconds me in trying to realize this object. We shall spare no effort to place France upon firmer foundations."

CAPTAIN CASSIDY'S VERSION.

Says He Did Not Order Shooting in the Buffalo Riot.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Captain Clifford Cassidy of the Twenty-second regiment of New York, who is under indictment for the murder of the striker Broderick during the Buffalo riots, is at the Grand Pacific Hotel in this city. In an interview this morning he said: "My men were scattered over a distance of three blocks. I did not order a shot fired and know nothing about the killing. On my arrest I went to Buffalo with the understanding that my bail was to be $5,000 but on my going there it was jumped to $10,000. In this affair I have obeyed implicit instructions from Governor Flower."

THREE OF THE FAMILY BURNED.

Father Burned to Death While Rescuing His Family.

NEILSVILLE, Wis., March 27.—Olyver Sanders, living about six miles from Neilsville discovered his house on fire at about 4 o'clock this morning. He aided his wife and one child out and returned for two other children, one three and one six years old, and never came out alive. The three bodies were found in the ruins after the fire was extinguished in a horribly charred condition, their limbs nearly burned off. Mr. Sanders was eighty years of age.

TALMAGE'S DONATION.

He Gives $1,000 to Be Applied on the Church Debt.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage made an announcement yesterday in the Brooklyn tabernacle that he had subscribed $1,000 to pay the last $10,000 of the entire floating debt of his church. This statement means that the congregation has raised $10,000 to meet the debt of $20,000 which the church must pay before April 1. The rumor that Dr. Talmage was going to leave Brooklyn has been quieted by this action.

JULES FERRY'S SUCCESSOR.

Lacour Is Elected President of the French Senate.

PARIS, March 27.—The senate today elected M. Chalemeil Lacour, the well-known statesman and writer and senator from Bouches du Rhone, president of the senate in place of Jules Ferry deceased. The election is very satisfactory to President Carnot and the supporters of the government and it is all the more popular on account of the recent election of M. Chalemeil Lacour to Renan's seat in the French academy.

AMUSEMENT PAVILION GOES UP.

CHICAGO, March 27.—The injunction stopping construction of the big amusement pavilion on Fifty-sixth street near the World's Fair grounds was dissolved today by Judge Stein. The aristocratic residents in the neighborhood objected unavailingly. The hall is designed for such attractions as pugilist Jim Corbett.

ARRESTED FOR A TEMPTED MURDER.

DES MOINES, March 27.—Ex-Pension Agent Fred N. Webber, a prominent character in Iowa politics, was arrested here this morning on a charge of attempting to murder his wife at Newton.

WHO OWNS THIS PENINSULA?

Startling Discovery in Regard to Land Titles in the Upper Peninsula.

THIS LAND CLAIMED TO BE OWNED BY THE INDIANS.

Attorney Chipman Says That the Chippewa Indians Never Ceded the Land to the Government.

A GRAVE QUESTION OF TITLE

DETROIT, March 27.—Something in the nature of a startling discovery has been made by H. F. Chipman, son of Congressman Chipman, in relation to the title of the lands of a large part, if not the whole of the upper peninsula of this state and if Mr. Chipman's conclusions are borne out by more minute investigation and sustained by the courts, every acre of land in that peninsula west of Sault Ste. Marie and Macinac to the Montreal and Menominee rivers and from Lake Superior to Lake Michigan and the straits, inclusive of city and village lots, will be handed over to their rightful owners, the descendants of the Chippewa Indians of the Lake Superior region.

Mr. Chipman asserts that his investigations have convinced him that no cession of the upper peninsula lands has been made to the United States government and that therefore the title deeds in every registry of deeds in the region indicated are as worthless as so much blank paper. Mr. Chipman's general conclusions were reached while he was engaged in making researches of United States treaties and claims made by his clients, descendants of the Chippewa nation residing in and near L'Anse au Loup and Baraga, for non-payment of principal and interest on the part of the United States of a large sum of money due them under treaty stipulations. Involved with these claims for compensation is the title to the lands of Keweenaw Point, which embrace the copper country within its area and the chief cities of Houghton, Hancock and Red Jacket.

"The case involving the payment of principal and interest under the treaties," said Mr. Chipman, "is well under way and will be brought in the department of the interior. If rejected it will be taken to the United States supreme court of claims. This case will not involve a claim to title; that feature of the matter will be brought up later, and after the collection of evidence, which will occupy some time as the question is a pretty big one. The claims for money payments run over a term of fifty years."

SPECIAL GRAND JURY CALLED.

The Recent Fires in Milwaukee Will Be Investigated.

MILWAUKEE, March 27.—Judge Waller has called a grand jury to investigate the causes of the recent fires in Milwaukee. Various reasons will make it impossible to get the jury together at an early date and it will probably be the first Monday in May before the jury will convene. The judge ordered the jury this morning from the bench at the municipal court and instructed the clerk of the court to take the necessary preliminary steps at once. This action was something of a surprise, for when the subject of calling a grand jury to investigate the fires was broached a few months ago Judge Waller said he did not see any necessity for such action at that time, believing that the police and district attorney were competent to make the investigations. He said at the time, however, that if at any future time he saw the necessity for a grand jury, he would not hesitate to call one.

A PUBLISHER'S TRAGIC DEATH.

A Chicago Man Suicides While in His Wife's Presence.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Horace C. Donoghue, a well-known publisher, suicided under remarkable circumstances today. While he was standing before his dressing case his wife took up a newspaper and commenced reading about Elliott F. Shepard's death in New York. Suddenly she heard her husband fall with a peculiar gurgling sound and rushing to his side she was horrified to find that he had cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor. The cause of the tragic affair is a mystery. Mr. Donoghue leaves a large estate.

CHILDREN NEED A FRIEND.

A Murder Leaves Small Children Worse Than Orphans.

MILWAUKEE, March 27.—A letter from California, Mo., to Chief Janssen states that about six years ago a young woman arrived in California from Milwaukee. Her name was Margaret Vogelsanger and she married a man named Grossenbacher. On March 18 Grossenbacher shot and killed his wife. She left several small children. It was thought that perhaps she had relatives or friends in Milwaukee who might want to take charge of the children. The husband is in jail awaiting trial.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

Three Men Shot by a Negro and Will Probably Die

FORT WHITE, Fla., March 27.—Jode Halloway, John Bell and Seth Calhoun, were dangerously and perhaps mortally wounded last night. They were returning home from the village and when about 200 yards from the depot they were met by a man supposed to be a negro who spoke to them and immediately began shooting with a Winchester rifle. All three of the men were shot through the body.

MARQUETTE, MICH., MARCH 28.

Entered as mailmatter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

The gorgeous posters of a burlesque company shocked greatly the good ladies of the classic town of Baraboo, Wis., and they sent a committee to the common council to protest against the allegedly "obscene lithographs." Anything that would shock Baraboo must be very bad indeed.

The Arizona legislature has passed a bill requiring incorporated towns and cities, on the petition of parents of fifty pupils, to employ a teacher of Spanish. There was a hot fight over the bill and curiously enough the strongest opposition came from sections where Mexicans predominate, their opposition being based on a fear that the result of the bill would be the exclusion of English from the schools.

A GERMAN tailor has invented a cloth which is said to be proof against the small bullets of modern military rifles. The utility of such an invention in war is perhaps doubtful but this cloth should have a large sale in this country among young ladies who are about to reject ineligible suitors. It is quite the thing lately to shoot the girl under such circumstances and hence the practical utility of a gown of bullet-proof cloth is readily apparent.

THE MINING JOURNAL is in receipt of a letter from Professor F. W. Denton of the Michigan Mining school regarding the convention of mining men held at Iron Mountain last week and making some minor corrections in the report of that affair published in this paper. The new organization is entitled "The Lake Superior Mining Institute" and the meetings are to be held in March and September. The next meeting will be held at Ishpeming in September of this year. The following statement of the objects of the organization was agreed upon:

The objects of the Lake Superior Mining Institute are to promote the arts and sciences connected with the economical production of the useful minerals and metals in the Lake Superior region and the welfare of those employed in these industries by means of meetings for social intercourse, by excursions and by the reading and discussion of practical and professional papers and to circulate, by means of publications among its members, the information thus obtained.

The condemnation to death of Carlisle W. Harris, the New York murderer of his school girl wife, has given the mushy sentimentalists a chance to let their tears flow in great streams. The evidence brought out in the trial showed Harris to be one of the most depraved and vicious men that ever stood before the bar of justice. He gloried in the debauchery of women and in the practice of nameless vices. He utilized the knowledge acquired as a medical student to slay his young wife in a manner that he thought might escape detection. His unhappy mother has, of course, stood by her boy and it is to be hoped that it is rather pity for the mother than sympathy for the son that has induced intelligent men and women to attempt to save this useless and justly-forfeited life. Governor Flower has always shown himself a pretty level-headed man and it is very doubtful if he will pay any attention to the plea of these lachrymose and soft-headed sympathizers with a beastly and treacherous murderer.

RAILWAY SERVICE CONTRACTS.

The last issue of The Railroad Gazette has the following very sensible remarks on the recent legal developments in relation to the strike of the Ann Arbor railroad engineers: "Railroad men speculate more or less over the possible changes in the policy in the brotherhoods in consequence of what has happened at Toledo. So far as can be judged by the present aspect of the case the most vital issue is between the law—that is, the whole people—and the brotherhoods whether the latter may issue orders which virtually require a member to defy the law. This as an abstract question is an old one, as it has been up in many boycotts, but as applied to railroad work it is new. If a brotherhood is thwarted as an official body, will there be secret unwritten agreements to quit work suddenly? Vice President Ashley, of the Ann Arbor road, suggests the desirability of a system of contracts, to be regulated by law. He would have enlistments for definite periods, oaths to obey the rules, sixty days notice from either party desiring to terminate the engagement, etc. The New York Evening Post repeats its former plea for semi-military regulations in the railroad service, to be enforced by law. The weakness of this last idea, we think, in the impossibility of getting a reasonable law passed; and Mr. Ashley's plan will work much better if he puts it in force voluntarily, giving the men something to induce them to accept it, than if he asks the state to protect him. The vital point is that concerning the sixty days' notice. Most roads would object to binding themselves to so costly a notice. A shorter limit would probably be just as effective. Would men live up to their agreements? As we have intimated, and as we have before said, public sentiment will be slow to approve the punishment of employes as criminals for breaking a bargain which the employer can break with no danger of incurring anything worse than a money penalty. This being so, how shall the employe bind himself to do what he agrees to do? To deposit money would be the simplest plan. Thoughts of a $500 forfeit would completely neutralize many so-called grievances. The possibility of such a loss would not prevent dissatisfactions, but it would postpone some of them and give time a chance to operate as a curative. Of course a strong brotherhood could agree to pay forfeits for a hundred of its members, and if it did we should be simply exchanging small fights, and warfare somewhat after the guerilla fashion, for the larger contests. This might not be a disadvantage, however. The most pressing need in the relations between railroads and their employes is to have the agreements lifted to a position where their importance shall be more constantly and thoroughly recognized by the railroad company. As we have recently said, there are still too many men in railroad offices who forget that in dealings about wages they and their employes are equals. Anything that will dignify and enhance the importance of contracts will tend to cure this evil. On the other hand, one of the hardest things to do is to protect the men against the tyranny of their own unions. In real suffering it is the men themselves and their families who fare worst in strikes—not stockholders or the public.

After stating the facts of the case which brought out Judge Ricks' order The Nation of New York has the following comment, correcting a quite general misinterpretation of the ruling of the court:

In explaining these orders to some engineers and fireman who had quit work in aid of the boycott on the railway company and had been arrested for so doing, Judge Ricks read a statement which the labor leaders throughout the country have taken to mean, if sustained, that henceforth railway employes will be compelled to continue to work against their will—that the decisions involve the right of a man to quit work when he chooses. This a perversion both of the judge's words and of the facts in the case. All that the judge says on this point has been said many times before, so far as the abstract merits of the case are concerned. That no body of employes who perform a service involving public comfort and convenience ought to be allowed to quit work in such a manner as to cause great public inconvenience is a point that has frequently been raised. Whether they can do it, and not violate existing common law rights, is a question about which opinions differ, some authorities believing that they cannot, and others that additional legislation is necessary to restrain them from such action. As for their moral right to do so, there is nothing in Judge Ricks' opinion which has not been stated in many quarters, and in none with more clearness than in the reports of the New York state board of mediation and arbitration. Beginning with their report of 1887, this board, which is composed of men who were appointed as friends of labor, has repeatedly called attention to the need of legislation which should make it impossible for railway employes to quit work without giving notice according to contract. In its special report on the New York Central strike, the board laid down some recommendations which are almost identical with the statement made by Judge Ricks as to the obligations which ought to be imposed upon railway employes. Judge Ricks holds that there exists legal authority to enforce such obligations, and his decisions will serve the useful purpose of having the question decided once for all. It is noticeable that Chief Arthur declares that he will comply at once with the judge's orders, and will suspend the law of the brotherhood under which boycotts are ordered.

Chief Arthur, in a public statement over his own signature, given in these columns a few days ago, declares that the men are quite willing to accept any rule that is equally binding on both the railroad companies and their employes. The sensible way out of all these difficulties would therefore seem to be for both employer and employe to agree to a specific contract requiring a reasonable notice of termination of service on either side—that is, no employe to quit work without giving specific notice and no employe to be discharged save for downright violation of rules or proved incompetence without the same notice or equivalent payment of wages. In England, where the organizations of skilled labor are much older and much more perfect than in this country, this system has been greatly mistaken, long in use and long approved by the courts.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Joseph H. Cox Dead. Joseph H. Cox, an old resident of Negaunee, died about 4 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of only two weeks duration. He had a carcinoma on his neck and erysipelas set in, which was the immediate cause of his death. His case was not considered a very dangerous one. Mr. Cox conducted a confectionary business on West Iron street, near the railroad crossing, and had many friends who will be pained to learn of his sudden departure. He has been a resident of Negaunee for about fifteen years, was married and is survived by a wife. His age was thirty-eight years.

He was a member of Cal Bono lodge No. 112, A. O. U. W., in which order he carried an insurance on his life of $2,000. He was also a member of Iron Mountain lodge No. 132, I. O. O. F., of English Oak lodge of Sons of St. George and of hose company No. 2. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon, leaving the late residence at 2 o'clock in charge of the I. O. O. F. The religious services will be held at the Presbyterian church, Rev. C. M. Brown officiating.

Hose company No. 2 held a meeting last evening for the purpose of making arrangements to attend the funeral in a body. They will tender an invitation to hose company No. 1 to take part with them and the invitation will most likely be accepted today.

The A. O. U. W. members have been requested by Master Workman Ira A. Clark to assemble at their hall tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock to prepare to attend the funeral. The Sons of St. George lodge will also turn out in a body.

Stockbaure Will Move. W. E. Stockbaure, the photographer, will remove from his present quarters in A. P. Gogaran's building to Kuhlman's block, second floor, on or about May 1. Architects are now figuring on the remodeling of the place according to the plans already drawn and the contract for the changes and improvements will be let in a few days. The whole of the second floor will be utilized by Mr. Stockbaure and the place will be fitted up in the most convenient style. Ample room will be afforded in the new stand and it is centrally located and a better place could not be desired.

Mr. Gogaran intends opening a gallery in his block as soon as Mr. Stockbaure vacates. Mr. E. V. Thomas of Chicago, who was in the employ of Mr. Stockbaure a few years ago, will return to Negaunee and take charge of Mr. Gogaran's business. Mr. Thomas is well known in Negaunee and is said to be a clever artist in his line.

Send Them the First Day. Mr. J. D. Davis, superintendent of the Negaunee public schools, desires all parents who intend to send their children to school the coming term to send them on the first day of the term. This is desired because the new classes for primary pupils will be organized during the early part of the first week. The pupils that are sent a few days late are invariably a drawback to the classes in which they are placed and the annoyance to the teachers is considerable. The schools will open for the summer term Monday morning next.

LOCAL LACONICS T. Murphy, the clothier, put up the awning over his place of business yesterday morning.

Al. F. Draper, Mendel Smith & Co.'s representative, was in Negaunee yesterday calling on the grocery trade.

The Theatre Royal Dramatic company will present "Ten Nights in a Barroom" at the Ishpeming Opera House tonight.

The Odd Fellows will hold a special meeting at their hall tonight to make arrangements to attend the funeral of Joseph H. Cox.

The three-months old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Moyle, who died Saturday, was buried yesterday afternoon from the Presbyterian church.

The lumbermen and their teams that have been working in the woods in the vicinity of Negaunee during the past winter are beginning to come to town.

There will be a rehearsal of the "Ancient Order of Hercules" at McDonald's Opera House this evening. Rehearsals will also be held tomorrow and Thursday evenings.

The street railway company got all the snow removed from the railroad crossing in Negaunee to the railroad crossing at Ishpeming yesterday, and now the cars are once more making regular trips.

STRONG WORDS.

Her Testimony and Evidence Clear and Strong.

Ring Words of Hope and Cheer Which Will Comfort Many Hearts.

The Great Information and Good Advice a Talented Woman can Give.

One of the most skillful nurses in this country is Mrs. Elizabeth D. Berry of Hampton, N. H. She is a lady of the widest experience among diseases of all kinds, and has cheered many a sickroom by her hopeful and encouraging words.

She has sent a communication to this paper which will read with great interest by all.

"Through trouble and overwork," she writes, "I grew fearfully nervous, weak, dizzy, faint and exhausted from nervous prostration until I became entirely helpless. Thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I am now so well and strong that everyone who sees me is very much surprised. I would like to tell the whole world of women what Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done for me and to recommend all women to use this wonderful medicine.

"I am a nurse, and when nursing my sister I gave her this wonderful medicine. She says she never has felt better than since using it. I gave it also to a lady suffering from great nervous prostration, who could not get help from three physicians. She is now well, strong and fleshy, and says she should have been in her grave if it had not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I have recommended it to many others with the same wonderful success, and I would especially say that if women between the ages of forty and sixty years would take it there would not be so many die when they came to the change that takes place. I bear this wonderful medicine nam-d and blessed everywhere and I am glad to add my testimony to its great value, and truly call it a savior of its women."

We would say that Mrs. Berry's advice as a nurse is endorsed by physicians generally. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is indeed a wonderful discovery and of incalculable and inestimable value to the sick everywhere. It has been proved over and over again, in thousands upon thousands of cases, that it does cure, that it makes the sick well.

Especially should it be used at this season of the year, for every body feels the weakness and lack of vigor, of spring debility, and this wonderful remedy is the best spring medicine in use, for it will immediately invigorate the blood, strengthen the nerves and create a healthy and natural action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Physicians know of its great value, for they have seen it perform wonders in restoring health, and they recommend it freely to the sick because it is the discovery and prescription of the famous specialist in the treatment of nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the well-known physician who gives consultation to sufferers from any disease free of charge, personally or by letter.

The great remedy costs but $1 of druggists and we know it will make you well.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham, like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

Jealous Contentions have resulted in misery the world over. People who are well disposed and not bound by self-interest, are willing to accord credit wherever merited and due. Civilization is gradually bringing the human race up to this elevation, and in exact proportion is Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Bladder Cure coming to be recognized as the correct and standard remedy in all kidney, female, and blood diseases—being able to cure them readily. It is specific in all skin eruptions, erysipelas, scrofula, dyspepsia, headaches, dullness, indigestion, constipation, etc. Sold by dealers on guaranty for many years. THE QUEEN'S SOLICITUDE.

It is said that the real reason that Queen Victoria took up the study of Hindoostani four years ago was in order that she might converse in their own tongue with the Indian princesses who come from time to time to pay their respects to her. These are of course purda, or "secluded," ladies, and it is very embarrassing for them to be obliged to communicate through a male interpreter. That the queen, at her age and with her ceaseless occupation, should undertake sufficient study of a difficult oriental language to save a few of her distinguished subjects from this purely ceremonial unpleasantness shows a pleasant imperial solicitude.—New York Tribune.

Fashionable Watches. Watches are suspended from pins of the most elaborate designs instead of the little bowknot which was so much worn. A very pretty sword of gold set with diamonds and sapphires is an effective pin for this purpose. Another unique design is a watch with a pansy on the lid, suspended from an enameled pansy pin with a large diamond in the center. The effect is that of two pansies, one above the other, and you do not, upon first sight, discover that the lower one is a watch, for the lid is exactly like a pansy pin above it. A crown set with rubies and diamonds is another handsome pin design used for the chateleine watch.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Dainty Pocketknife. In the pocket of a tailor made gown the small girl carries her knife. Anybody who thinks this is an ordinary knife such as can be gotten at any shop is mistaken. It is invariably made of gold, and in addition is decorated with some special design. A very original one has a heart of lapis lazuli framed in diamonds set in one corner of the handle, and the owner's name and a curious cipher carved on the other. A very general fancy exists for having the name engraved upon the knife in an exact copy of the way one would write one's own initials.—Chicago Journal.

Features for a Church Fair. Some variations of church fair schemes were seen in a recent entertainment of the sort. In lieu of the time honored grab bag an old village pump, moss green and dark with age, apparently, flowed favors instead of water through its ancient spout. One of the stalls represented a huge web, with a giant spider enthroned therein. Caught in its meshes were all sorts of tempting fancy work and notions, while from above floated a banner enticingly inviting the passing flies to "Come into my parlor."—Exchange.

RHEUMATISM QUICKLY CURED. Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism; but it can be done, if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert of New Brunswick, Ill: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and got well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by H. CHOLERINE IN PENNSYLVANIA. Swickley, Penn.: We had an epidemic of cholera, as our physicians called it, in this place lately and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This Remedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me. Several persons who had been troubled with diarrhoea for two or three years were cured by a few doses of this medicine.

THE AX HAS BEGUN TO SWING

Dr. O. F. St. Clair, Head of Consular Bureau in State Department, Removed.

100 FOURTH CLASS POSTMASTERS APPOINTED.

Allan B. Morse of Michigan Appointed Consul at Glasgow—W. H. Seaman Succeeds Judge Jenkins.

ST. CLAIR'S SURPRISE PARTY. WASHINGTON, March 27.—Dr. O. F. St. Clair, for more than twenty-seven years head of the consular bureau in the state department, has been removed. Late Saturday afternoon Secretary Gresham sent a note to Dr. St. Clair that he desired him to tender his resignation at once, and further that his assistant, Mr. W. G. Fason of North Carolina, had already been appointed his successor and would assume the duties of the office. This was naturally a surprise to Dr. St. Clair, who had never dreamed that his official conduct had been called into question. He sought an explanation from the secretary. The latter is said to have told him that he had been guilty of holding back official papers on the score that they were personal letters and for this offense his resignation was requested. These papers, it is said, contained charges against a certain United States consul in Germany and instead of being treated as private by Dr. St. Clair they should have been sent in their regular departmental round. Dr. St. Clair produced the letters in question which he claimed to be his private correspondence, but he did not succeed in convincing the secretary that they were other than official papers or that he had not been guilty of a breach of official etiquette.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Maxwell today appointed 100 fourth-class postmasters and of this number sixty-seven were to fill vacancies caused by the removal of the incumbents. The largest number of changes was made in the state of Wisconsin where there were 22 appointments, 14 of the incumbents being removed; in Arkansas there were 8 appointments and 4 removals; in Kansas 9 appointments and 5 removals, and in Tennessee 17 appointments and 10 removals. Secretary Morton has appointed the following state statistical agents of the agricultural department: George L. Fryer, Tennessee; Frank A. Dilatash, Illinois; L. M. Fay, Wisconsin; A. S. Mercer, Wyoming.

Today Representative Oates of Alabama was closeted with the president for nearly an hour and during that hour had acquired so much of Mr. Cleveland's own reservation of manner as to render him a sealed book to inquirers when he emerged from the audience room. As Colonel Oates came out Representative McCreary of Kentucky entered. He also had an appointment with the president and remained with him about half an hour. When he emerged Mr. McCreary displayed a remarkable unanimity with Colonel Oates in his resolution to maintain a sphinx-like silence but as he has been a distinguished delegate to the international monetary conference and as another conference is soon to be held one might hazard the guess that financial matters were discussed. The next one to see the president was Mr. Allen W. Thurman of Ohio, and the political situation in that state was probably the topic of conversation.

The United States government exhibit at the World's Fair will be made up of exhibits from the several executive departments. These exhibits are now being sent to Chicago. Among those that left today was the exhibit from the register's office, treasury department. This will be one of the most interesting exhibits at the fair. It consists of 400 samples, each one distinct and separate, of every piece of paper money ever issued by the United States government. In the exhibit will also be found samples of colonial and continental money, of the old wild cat money, broken state banks and Confederate money and bonds. An unbroken line of United States bonds will also be in the exhibit. The United States fish commission steamer Fish Hawk has arrived here from the lower Chesapeake Bay, where fish will be transferred to Chicago for exhibition at the World's Fair. The Fish Hawk will return to Morehead, N. C., for further collections.

A telegram has been received at the war department from General Wheaton commanding the department of Texas announcing the surrender to United States troops at Fort Ringgold of three Mexican bandits, one of whom is said to have been a leader in the Garza revolution. They have been delivered to the civil authorities for trial.

SEAMAN SUCCEEDS JENKINS

Sheboygan Man Appointed Judge of Eastern District of Wisconsin.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—W. H. Seaman of Sheboygan succeeds Judge James G. Jen in the United States bench in the eastern district of Wisconsin. His appointment was sent to the senate today. It goes to the committee on judiciary and will be favorably reported, and confirmation will follow by Wednesday, if not tomorrow. T. E. Dodge of Racine was heavily backed to win the position, but worth and not politics triumphed and Mr. Seaman was selected.

The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: Justice—Felix A. Reeves, of Tennessee, to be solicitor of the treasury; Albert E. Fall of New Mexico to be associate justice of the supreme court, of the territory of New Mexico; to be attorneys of the United States—George J. Dennis of California, for the southern district of California; Joseph S. Jones of Georgia, for the northern district of Georgia; William Leary of Georgia, for the southern district of Georgia; to be marshals of the United States—Frank Leverett of Georgia for the district of Georgia; James Blackburn of Kentucky for the district of Kentucky; Samuel T. Fisher of Massachusetts to be as-

Parker of New York to be consul at Birmingham; Seaton Norman of Indiana to be assistant surgeon in the marine hospital service.

TWO REPORTS HANDED IN.

Montana Contest Case Is Laid Before the Senate. WASHINGTON, March 27.—The reports of the majority and minority on the contested election case of Lee Mantle, senator appointed by the governor of Montana, were made to the senate today. Mr. Hoar submitting the report of the majority in favor of seating Mr. Mantle, and Mr. Vance, chairman of the committee, the report against seating. There are two other cases, those of Mr. Beckwith, appointed by the governor of Wyoming, and Mr. Allen appointed by the governor of Washington. Inasmuch as the facts are the same, the test will be made in the case of the senator upon whose credentials the report is made. It is not unlikely that as this is decided so will be the others.

Police Officials Deny Plot to Kill the Prince of Wales.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Chicago officials laugh at the story of a plot to assassinate the Prince of Wales when he later visits the World's Fair. Assistant Superintendent of the Police George W. ARRAIGNS THE MINISTRY.

Balfour Charges the British Government With Winking at Crime in Ireland.

A VIGOROUS SPEECH AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

Present State of Affairs and Increase in Crime in Ireland Blamed on the Ruling Powers.

TO CENSURE THE EXECUTIVE.

LONDON, March 27.—Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, spoke at length on his motion, of which he gave notice last Thursday that the Irish executive be censured for condoning serious offences, and thus bringing the law into general contempt. He made his attack upon the government with exceptional vigor and evoked repeatedly loud cheers from the opposition benches.

"The present deplorable state of affairs in Ireland," Mr. Balfour said, "was largely in consequence of a compact between the government and the forces of disorder. The ministry had made with the Irish party an agreement by which the administration of the law was being defeated. According to the terms of this unwritten concord the government had acquiesced with an amnesty and had encouraged dishonest tenants, through the evicted tenants commission, to disown their obligations and to treat the landlords as law-abiding people would treat malefactors. The government has fermented outages by suspending the Crimes act and had instigated crimes by the release of the dynamiters. The government has not hesitated to take steps which were in direct antagonism to the decisions of the courts. Had not a judge of a high court of justice declared that the chief secretary for Ireland had acted illegally in referring police protection to those against defaulting tenants? "In certain districts the direct countenance by the government of law-breaking had appalling consequences. Such a state of lawlessness prevailed in them that no conviction could be obtained in cases of agrarian crime, no matter how clear and undisputed the evidence. A new reign of terror had been established. Witnesses refused to appear to testify, as they realized that the most convincing testimony would be vain, while incurring the vengeance of the criminal population. The victims of the outrages also preferred to hold their peace rather than render themselves marked men."

TO RUSH THE HOME RULE BILL.

The Liberals Hold a Caucus Under Premier Gladstone.

LONDON, March 27.—A Liberal party meeting was held at the foreign office today under the presidency of Premier Gladstone to discuss the position of business and the course of the Liberals in parliament. It was proposed by Mr. Gladstone that the Irish home rule bill should be put on a second reading on April 6 and that the home rule bill should have precedence of all other business every day except Wednesdays and also that the house should sit in the morning on Fridays. Mr. Gladstone expressed a hope that the party would give the government all the aid in its power to expedite the home rule bill issue and the parish council bill and to assist the government in fighting obstruction. H. Labouchere, member of parliament for Northampton, suggested that the ministers as well as the private members should curtail their speeches on the home rule question.

UNITED STATES RECIPROCATES.

LONDON, March 27.—In the house of commons today Sir Edward Gray, parliamentary under secretary of the foreign office, stated that the British foreign office had been informed of the intention of the United States to credit an ambassador to the court of St. James in acceptance and in reciprocity for the friendly action of her Britannic majesty in raising the British minister at Washington to the rank of ambassador.

THOMAS DAILY'S SUICIDE.

Cut His Throat at Beaufort Location—Michigan News.

Timothy Daily committed suicide at the house of Mrs. Johnston at the Beaufort location, about three miles west of here, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a common jack knife. Dr. E. B. Patterson was summoned at once but when he arrived Daily was dead. His motive for the deed is not known. He has been complaining for some time for some but has been working right along. There were two or three other persons with him in the house but they could not stop him. Daily was well known around here, having resided here and at Three Lakes for many years. He was nominated for supervisor for Spurr township at a caucus at Spurr Friday evening last. He was thirty-six years of age.

At the Citizens' caucuses the following ticket was nominated: Supervisor, George W. Richards; clerk, Peter Jacobsen; treasurer, Chas. F. Sandstrom; justice of the peace, James M. Langely; highway commissioner, John

Pote; overseer of highways, William

Pote; member of board of review, James C. Donnelly; school inspector, Henry J. Atkinson; members of school board, James C. Connelly and J. Gottliebson; poundmaster, Charles Bradenberg; constables, John Veale, Hank Murry, Wm. Harrington and A. Munch. Another ticket or two will be put in the field and politics are boiling.

Married on Saturday evening, at the residence of the bride, Mr. Charles Johnson and Mrs. Emelia Peterson, Rev. Mr. Borg of Ishpeming officiating. Miss Kate Bright has come home from Humboldt to spend Easter with her parents.

The schools closed Friday for the winter term and will open up again on the Monday after Easter.

Isaac Treddo and family and A. Lun-nean and family have returned to the Gogebic range where they have been logging this winter.

Remember the registration day, Saturday, April 1, and if you have not registered don't forget to do so.

PEQUAMING CANDIDATES.

At a citizens' caucus held at Pequaming Saturday evening William K. Haviland was elected chairman and Thomas Brady secretary. The following ticket was placed in nomination: Supervisor, Edward W. Hebard; clerk, Patrick C. Murphy; treasurer, Charles Kelsey; justice of the peace, A. G. Shields, three years, and Geo. W. Moore, four years; members of board of education, William K. Haviland, two years, and Patrick Brennan, one year; school inspector, Edwin L. Mason; commissioner of highways, John H. Edgerton; member board of review, Joseph Conrin; Murphy; District number one, Chas. Pickard; District number two, Charles Hebard; District number three, Patrick Clark; constables, Allen J. Donnelly, John Hullehey, William Owen and Chas. Ferguson.

City Ticket Nominated.

MENOMINEE, Mich., March 27.—The Republicans of this place nominated on Saturday evening the following city ticket: Mayor, Andrew C. Stephenson; treasurer, William D. Hutchinson; justices, Henry Nason and William Lehman.

A Seasonable Warning.

Do not allow yourself to feel "chilly." It may indicate a circumstance or physical condition, either of which can be modified by prompt attention. If you are chilly from a draft, move away from it, step it off or put on more clothes. If the coldness arises from a physical condition, you are probably taking cold. Heat a brick and sit with your feet upon it until you are heated through. This will do much to prevent a cold taking hold of you.—Philadelphia Times.

Animal Worship Among the Hebrews.

The Old Testament records show—notwithstanding the various revisions through which these venerated books have passed—many indications of animal worship among the Israelites, which must have lasted for ages before the prohibition indicated in the second line of the decalogue was formulated. At a comparatively late date, "Jehovah was worshipped under the popular symbol of a bull, while the twelve oxen upholding the laver in Solomon's temple, as well as the horns adorning the altar, were drawn from the prevalent bull worship."

Modern research has also proved that the cherubim were represented in the form of winged bulls, M. Lenormant, in his famous book on the "Beginnings of History," says that, during the time of the kings and prophets, "most assuredly the cherubim, as there described, are animals."—Mrs. Clara K. Barnum in Popular Science Monthly.

Makes Him Shudder.

Nervousness shows itself in queer ways. There is a young New York newspaper man who exhibits a commendable self-possession on most occasions, and would not be supposed to have such a thing as a nerve about his person, but there is one spectacle that he cannot endure, and that is to see a man's hat blow off. If this calamity occurs in his presence, he catches his breath, shudders and reaches about for something to hold to until the sensation of losing himself has passed. This is constitutional and is the only exhibition of nervous weakness that he ever makes.—New York Sun.

REPORTORIAL PENCILINGS.

At 7 o'clock sharp. Come at 6:35. Remember your ward caucus this evening and put only good men in nomination.

Cards have been issued for a social hon by Prospe Isle Lodge No. 130, K. of P., in Fraternity Hall on Thursday evening, April 6.

Henry LaRoche lost his four-year-old trotter yesterday, the mare dying in foal. She had a record of 3:16 and he valued her at $500.

The county board of supervisors will hold its final meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the auditing committee having met last Saturday.

You will have plenty of time to attend your ward caucus this evening, at 7 o'clock sharp, before taking in the Hughes' orchestra concert at Fraternity Hall.

The Rifles will not drill next Monday evening the hall being engaged by the expressmen for their dance. There will be a regular drill the following Tuesday.

Born, yesterday morning, to Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes, a daughter, and the popular cashier of the M. C. S. B. is about the happiest man on the upper peninsula.

The Odd Fellows' Building association had a sale of delinquent stock last night, sixty-four shares being sold. Messrs. Glenn, Metz and Zerbel were the buyers.

J. E. Reas's team ran away on West Washington street yesterday and both horses were badly cut up. The driver is claimed to have been at fault and those who took charge of the team left him sticking head down in a snow drift.

Remember the concert at Fraternity Hall this evening by the Ideal orchestra. Many curious mechanical effects are introduced in some of the pieces by Mr. Hancock and throughout the program is one which will interest and please. Turn out and show the orchestra that it is appreciated at home as well as abroad.

THE MINING JOURNAL received a fine Tuerck water motor yesterday and when it is installed will be in shape for every emergency, having electric, water and steam power in its press room, three separate plants, any one of which can be brought into service whenever desired. The power used ordinarily will be electrically, as has been the case in the office ever since the paper moved into its new building.

E. Largeness is planning to move his saloon from the corner of Third and Prospect streets to the stand in the Adams building on Front street known as "The Hub." He makes the change because he cannot get possession of the whole of the house in the basement of which is his saloon. Possession of the whole house was promised him when he started there but as he has never been able to secure it he has decided to move down town.

The past: My native land! Behind those silhouetted mountains, still beyond the valley, far away, were my people—that is to say, childhood, youth, family, my heart, Susana! In thinking of her the sad thoughts flood the soul, heavy, overwhelming, threatening as those storm-clouds, gave place to the rosy tints of hope.

Again I seemed to see blue mountains flooded with sunlight, their peaks encircled by a violet haze, the morning mist floating in the valley; the billowy maize field; the grove, thick and dark, beside the road; the white cottages in the distance; landscape, my people! My Susana! She, the only one who ever distracted my attention during mass; she who sang with me in the moonlight on the balcony; she who hung on my arm during our walks; she who made me love to think of the future!

The pencil of memory was drawing with indelible lines two pictures which I can never forget—my first and my last interview with her alone.

The first meeting was when the twilight was fading, the country was asleep, the milpas undulating like the sea, the pueblo quiet, until the frogs in the neighboring marshes began to intone their monotonous and melancholy serenade.

Trembling at every sound, I was waiting behind a maguery for the promised signal. I started at the rustling of a withered leaf blown by the wind.

When I saw a light I was to approach it, imitate the whistle of a bird, wait till I heard a slight cough, and then—the road was dark, the night remained dark, and I was afraid. Of the solitude! Of the night? No; of the senorita's father. (Those senoras are always brutal and unfeeling.)

Comfort! A light shines, and I approach tremulous and cowardly. My mouth is dry and I can scarcely whistle.

"Susana!"

"Come up carefully."

"My energies fail me. I have fallen twice; but at last here I am, with my pantaloons torn and muddy, astride the adobe wall."

"Do not move."

"No; I am coming down. Tie Corzo so that he will not bite me."

"He knows you already. Take him. Corzo! You see, he wags his tail."

"My darling, here I am. Where are you going?"

"Here—this way, to the arbor. No one is there—come."

Moving softly on tiptoe, holding aside her starched skirt of percale, that it might not rustle, she preceded me to the arbor, and we sat on the seats by side. She shuddered a little and finally said:

"I am afraid of the darkness."

"Afraid with me, who loves you?"

"Hush! Do not let them hear you; they are in the kitchen. Listen," she added in a lower voice. "I have made you come solely to tell you that it is worse than useless for this to go on any further. I am older than you. When you are a man I shall be an old woman."

"How old? Not more than?"—And taking her in my arms I added, "Old or young, you will be my Susana; I shall love you always—always."

"Yes, you say so now, but by and by—"

"Susana! Under such circumstances I have spoken. At length she sighed and said, "Do you swear that you love me?"

"Yes; I swear it to you."

"No, no, it is not fitting. Forget me. It is best. Are you angry?"

"No," I answered ironically.

"Are you angry?" she cried passionately, "when I adore you?"

"My Su—"

"Hark! I hear a noise! Go!"

Fear seized upon her and upon me also. I felt my valor ooze from my finger tips.

"They are not coming. The mozo is a tall tale, and is capable of springing on us in order to tell papa."

I was cold; I fancied I saw a man in every shadow.

"Susana!" cried a voice from a door opening into the courtyard.

"Mamma!" she answered, and in a hasty undertone added: "Quick, hide yourself! There," she said, pushing me, "stay behind!"

"What are you doing?"

"I am busy."

"It is dangerous for you to be out in the dew. What a child you are!"

I, dazed with fear, crouched in a corner and danced with the point of fainting, when I

WHAT A WOMAN SAYS.

When a woman's will is thwarted She will toss her pretty head. She will close her lips quite tightly, While her cheeks assume a flaming red. And, though her breast be surging With the pride that's struggling there, She never fails to tell herself, "Oh, really I don't care!"

"I do not care," she argues With a quiver of the lips And a felling in the throat. That most uncomfortably grips. She shrugs her dainty shoulders And assumes a reckless air—"Why, what a goose I am!" she says; "Of course I do not care!"

"I do not care," she asserts, But surely there appears A moisture on her lashes That's suspiciously like tears. The corners of her mouth grow weak. "Why, what a goose I am!" she says, "I do not care—" "Tah," she sobs, "Boo-hoo, boo-hoo-hoo-hoo!" —Puck.

SUSANA.

There was an indescribable tumult; cabs and express wagons crowded the muddy street; men were running with bundles on their shoulders; the newsboys were shouting with discordant voices. What animation! How brilliant the electric light! Everything denoted hurry and work, even the hiss of escaping steam from the engine about to move.

How tedious! An interminable hour before the train would arrive. Tired of walking I leaned against a post and by the bluish rays of the electric light read, for the twentieth time, this paragraph of a letter:

I shall arrive Thursday. Come to the station to meet me. It is possible that my cousin Susana may come with me to spend the 15th of September. I am anxious to see you. Your friend, MIGUEL.

Miguel! My friend, my confidant, my brother! Ah, the sweetness of friendship! To pass away the time I walked away from the station toward the fields. I seated myself on a pile of fies, and with my chin resting on my hand pensively watched the darkening landscape. The grove was a blur. I do not know what there was in the outlines of the distant houses, in the watchman's lantern, shining in the shadow like a red eye, or in the distant glimmer of a lighted window, lost to sight, that should depress and sadden me. What frightful shapes the clouds seemed to take, heaped in their immensity, outlined in sinister forms by the lightning, advancing like a somber army of monsters, the monsters of the tempest! Not one pale star in the wind, the cold, the darkness, memory, perhaps presentiment, something inspired me with an unspeakable, bitter sadness on that cold, wintry night.

The past! My native land! Behind those silhouetted mountains, still beyond the valley, far away, were my people—that is to say, childhood, youth, family, my heart, Susana! In thinking of her the sad thoughts flood the soul, heavy, overwhelming, threatening as those storm-clouds, gave place to the rosy tints of hope.

I, dazed with fear, crouched in a corner and danced with the point of fainting, when I felt a dark object moving beside me. My heart stopped beating, for I thought it was the mozo, but it proved to be a pig.

"What do you wish, mamma? Will you bring me a light? My candle has gone out."

The senora brought a light, and both turned in at the door, but as they did so the daughter said to her mother: "Wait a moment. I forgot my handkerchief."

Approaching my corner she murmured, "My life, goodnight."

The last time that I saw her I had no fear. That was a mute scene. She threw herself sobbing on my neck. She wished to look at me till the last instant, and her great dark eyes, ardent and humid and full of inexpressible sadness, were fixed on my face.

I never since have cried as I did then. She blessed me, hung amulets about my neck, and pressed her lips to mine in one long, intense kiss. She gave me her icy hand for the last time and sobbed in uncontrollable grief, "Go."

I climbed slowly over the wall.

"Adios, my love, my life. Until my return, farewell," I sobbed, wild with grief. My friend Miguel was awaiting me.

"You know all," I said to him. "Make this parting easier for her. Give her my letters; send me hers."

He tried to console me. He took my arm and spoke such words as are inspired by sincere friendship. How rare it is to find a being so disinterested so loyal! He promised to join me after a few months. He would tell me of her. What a comfort! I should have one of her relatives with me.

At last! The shrill whistle of the locomotive rent the air, and I listened to it with the most intense anxiety. There comes the train. It is a blot of light, a star in the darkness of the grove. It grows larger; it comes nearer; now the great headlight projects a cone of red into the shadows; it illumines the steel of the rails; gigantic, powerful, it rushes into the station.

The people are crowding forward; arms are opened to receive the dear and dusty travelers; trunks are hurled about; one hears laughter, sobs and kisses. And she! In vain I search for her profile among the women who are passing. She is not among them.

"Juanito!" cries a manly voice, and robust arms hug me to suffocation.

"Miguelito! How large you are! And did!"

"She did not come; aunt is sick; the family expect you to visit them on your vacations. Julia sends you this basket of fruit; Uncle Andres, these guavas, and Pepe this jelly. Where is your valise?"

"Cochero, take these bags! Step in, Miguel. No, Peredo!"

I had met. The coming of my friend, the messages sent by his family, even the dust of his clothes, brought to my mind more than a recollection of my country, of that distant home—a perfume of those flowers of passion, the only ones on the altar of my heart, all my hopes, my life.

"And Susana—tell me about her. Why does she not write to me? Does she love me? Is she forgetting me?"

Never shall I forget the pallor of cowardice that covered Miguel's face, nor that glance that wounded me like the dart of an asp, that tone of cringing supplication, that signal repentance, that gesture with which he brought forth his letter case, like the gesture of an assassin who seeks his weapon.

"Kill me, brother!" he exclaimed. "She is my betrothed!"

He threw upon the table a portrait and some letters.

Yes, that was her picture, identical with the one which I had; that was her handwriting, her signature, and even those phrases of hers, which I knew by heart—"If you do not love me tell me so; I will die dreaming that you love me; my heart is yours till death."

How could I pronounce that, "I congratulate you!" What power enabled me to listen smilingly to the details of his love, which he related with tranquil voice, while my soul was flooded with thoughts of evil, of tragedy, of crime? How was I able to dominate my fiery passion and declare that I no longer loved her?

When he left me I said pleasantly, "Come again in the morning."

I threw myself on the bed without undressing, and buried my head in the pillows; I longed for darkness, for silence, gloomy as a funeral cortege, all my memories of the past fled before me.

A belief in friendship had been killed in my soul—a love that could never be replaced had died in my heart.

For this reason I am saddened when in the night I hear the whistle of trains going or coming.

But it has all passed. A fugitive bird, I found a nest, loved in it, and, far from the scene of those events, I am forgetting them. Friendship is sweet for some, but sad for others.

After the embrace, the treachery! After the kiss, the sting!—Translated from the Spanish of Gonzales Micros for Romance by Helen W. Lester.

Eyesless Fish in Boiling Water.

One of the most remarkable discoveries in the shape of a peculiar species of fish ever made on this continent was that made at Carson City, Nev., in 1876. At that time both the Hale & Norcross and the Savage mines were down to what is known as the "2,200-foot level." When at that depth a subterranean lake of boiling water was tapped. This accident flooded both mines to a depth of 400 feet. After this water had all been pumped out except that which had gathered in basins and in the inaccessible portions of the works, and when the water still had a temperature of 128 degs.—nearly scalding hot—many queer looking little blood red fish were taken out. In appearance they somewhat resembled the goldfish.

They seemed lively and sportive enough when they were in their native element—boiling water—withstanding the fact that they did not even have rudimentary eyes. When the fish were taken out of the hot water and put into buckets of cold water for the purpose of being transported to the surface, they died as quickly as a perch or a bass would if plunged into a kettle of water that was scalding hot; not only this, but the skin peeled off exactly as if it had been boiled.

Eyesless fish are common enough in all subterranean lakes and rivers, but this is the only case on record of living fish being found in boiling water.—St. Louis Republic.

The Most Remarkable Suicide.

The most curious suicide in the annals of self destruction occurred at Chiquito, N. B., in the spring of 1850. Before committing the deed the self murderer, who was named W. R. T. Jones, dug his own grave and placed a rough coffin of his own handiwork at the bottom. The dirt from the opening was kept from rolling back into the excavation by boards held in place by a trigger to which a string was attached. Everything in readiness, the deliberate Mr. Jones, as subsequent developments revealed, got in the coffin, took a dose of poison and then pulled the string, burying himself beneath tons of earth. This has been put down as one of the most unique and successful cases of self destruction on record.—Philadelphia Record.

WARD CAUCUSES TONIGHT.

The Caucuses at 7 o'clock and City Convention at 8 o'clock.

WILLIAM J. RICHARDS GETS HIS BOILER PATENT.

Coming Attractions at the Opera House. Mine Host Sullivan Again—Ridpath's Life of Blaine.

BE ON HAND EARLY.

The ward caucuses will be held at 7 o'clock tonight, the city convention meeting an hour later. The caucuses promise to result in some very marked changes in the common council for the coming year. In the Third ward Alderman Powell, the president of the present council, has most emphatically refused to allow his name to be used for another term because of the pressure of his private business and Mr. B. O. Pearl has been suggested as one who would make a first-class alderman and fill a seat in the council with honor to himself and his ward. No other name has been heard as yet. Mr. George W. Rule declining to run. There is a general feeling throughout the ward that Mr. Alfred Kidder should be made the supervisor of the ward, the sentiment being that Mr. Kidder would not refuse to discharge the duties of the position, however much against his private inclinations, if they were forced upon him and it appeared clearly that the public demanded his services.

In the Fifth ward a new candidate for aldermanic honors has been brought out in Mr. E. E. Homeier who, while he will not make a scramble for the nomination for alderman for the short term, has promised to accept if his friends succeed in nominating him and will then enter the fight with a determination to leave no stone unturned to justify the confidence reposed in him by his friends by success at the polls. As he is very popular in his ward and is recognized as a bright and wide awake young man he should make a strong run.

In the eighth ward Alderman Werner emphatically declines to run again. The Dead River mill location is in the north end of the eighth ward and the people there feel they are fairly entitled to one of the aldermen. As they bring out Mr. J. W. Putnam for the position the south end of the ward will undoubtedly say "Amen" most heartily. Mr. Putnam having made a great many friends in the city and being recognized as a keen, progressive business man, just the kind of an alderman the city wants more of.

A Young Marquette Inventor.

Mr. William J. Richards has just received his letters patent, issued by the United States patent office on March 21, 1893, for a new form of steam boiler and fire box invented by him, his application being dated Dec. 19, 1892, and filed through the patent attorneys, Munn & Co., publishers of the famous "Scientific American." Mr. Richards is an expert boilermaker and nearly two years ago it struck him that if he could devise some way of utilizing the heat wasted on the brick walls of the ordinary boiler furnace he could get more work out of every pound of coal burned. He worked on his idea until he devised water legs which are in reality small boilers to take the place of the brick walls and connected with the same steam dome as the large boiler which they support. As stated in his application his claims are as follows:

1. A furnace, comprising a central boiler, side boilers connected at their front ends with the smoke box of the central boiler and at their rear ends with the rear end of the furnace, the said side boilers having water legs forming the side walls for the furnace, substantially as shown and described.

2. A furnace, comprising a central boiler, side boilers connected at their front ends with the smoke box of the central boiler and at their rear ends with the rear end of the furnace, the said side boilers having water legs forming the side walls for the furnace, and pipes connecting the water compartments of the said central boiler and side boilers with each other at the front and rear ends, substantially as shown and described.

The water legs being of small width and having a large surface exposed to the fire will make steam very rapidly and thus without increasing the grate surface or the number of pounds of fuel used, the heating surface, and consequently, the capacity of the boiler, is very largely increased. The new device has many other good points to recommend it but this fact alone that it will increase the amount of work to be secured from a pound of coal, should make it a splendid thing for its inventor.

Mr. Richards commenced learning his trade at the Ishpeming branch of the Iron Bay Manufacturing company of this city. He finished his apprenticeship at Cole's works and after several years there started out to see the country. After working in a number of contract shops he struck the railroads, working first in the shops of the Little Rock & Fort Smith at Little Rock, Ark., then on the Southern Pacific and later in the great shops of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe at Topeka, Kas. Returning to the upper peninsula he worked with Cole at Ishpeming for a time and then came down to Marquette to enter the boiler shops of the D. S. S. & A., where he has been employed for the last two years. He has a host of friends here who will hope that his invention will prove a great financial success.

Coming Theatrical Attractions.

Manager Ross has made some very good bookings for the coming month and has the time pretty well filled clear through to July 15. Among the companies booked are the following: Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company (third or fourth visit here) April 8; Katie Putnam, April 12; Russell's Female Sports (burlesque) April 15; Murphy in "A Striking Resemblance," April 18; Jane Coombs in "Bleak House," April 21; "Josh Spruceby," April 22; McCabe & Young's Minstrels, April 26; Pete Baker in "Chris and Lena," April 29 while Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew and their noted company have been secured for an eight night engagement, two nights a week from June 19 to July 15 with a change of bill nightly, the company making this arrangement in order to secure a month's vacation and rest from the road in Marquette.

Once More in Charge.

Dan Sullivan takes charge of the Hotel Brunswick again at supper time today, the negotiations commenced at the time THE MINING JOURNAL gave its hint about a returning hotel proprietor having been concluded yesterday. Mr. Sullivan's strong force of friends all over the peninsula will hail his return to the Brunswick with delight and the regular boarders all stood on their heads yesterday when they learned that "Dan" and Mrs. Sullivan were coming back.

Life of Blaine.

Mr. Joseph Trempe has been appointed agent for "The Life and Work of James G. Blaine," by John Clark Ridpath and General Selden Connor, ex-governor of Maine. The work is magnificently illustrated and covers the great events in the life of the greatest American of modern times fully pictorially as well as in the text. Mr. Trempe's commission covers all parts of the upper peninsula and as the work cannot fail to sell itself wherever it is shown, he undoubtedly has a very fine thing in the agency. The book is gotten up as a memorial of the great statesman and is perfect in every feature.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

One hundred and fifty enjoyed the Y. M. C. A. services last Sunday afternoon. From the chapel the crowd stretched out into the hall and parlor, and those who were forced to stand thought of that happy day in the future when the association can conduct its services in a commodious hall in a new building of its own. But the impressive address of R. Y. F. A. Johnson and the inspiring singing of the Swedish Lutheran choir claimed the undivided attention of all, and few objected at being forced to stand or to lean against the door posts.

The Easter services will be held in the Baptist church. Ladies often intimate their desire to attend the afternoon meetings. On Easter Sunday they will all be cordially welcomed. Music and brief speeches will constitute the exercises.

Any Young Men's Christian association will exert a wide and wholesome influence if its work is pushed by wide awake committees. The steadily increasing effort of the membership, devotional and finance committees is the surest guarantee of the future of the Marquette association.

Citizens' Convention.

A citizens' convention will be held at Armory Hall, Front street, on Tuesday evening, March 28, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of nominating candidates for city offices, to-wit: Mayor, recorder, treasurer, one justice of the peace for three years, one justice of the peace for four years and two constables. Ward caucuses for electing delegates to said city convention and nominating candidates for ward offices will be held on the same evening at 7 o'clock as follows: First ward, four delegates, Ryan's store; Second ward, five delegates, recorder's office; Third ward, five delegates, Hodgkin's livery office; Fourth ward, four delegates, vacant store Opera House block; Fifth ward, four delegates, Northwestern Hotel, Washington street; Sixth ward, four delegates, Martin Foad's store building, Third street; Seventh ward, three delegates, John Q. Lewis' store, Third street; Eighth ward, two delegates, George Rees' house, Park street. Candidates for the several ward offices will be nominated by the ward caucuses as follows: One supervisor in each ward, one alderman for long term in each of the First, Second and Third wards and one alderman for short term in each of the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards.

By order of the city committee.
