PUBLIC DEATH TRAP FALLS.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Hundreds of men carried down by the falling walls of a building which was notoriously insecure. Human lives crushed out by the tons of bricks and iron and sent unheralded to the throne of their Maker. Men by the score maimed and disfigured for life. Happy families hurled into the depth of despair; women calling for their husbands; children calling for their fathers; mothers calling for their sons; not an answer to their cry.

This is but a shadow of the awful calamity that befell this city this morning about 8:30 o'clock. Words cannot picture the awfulness of the accident. The imagination stands back and fails to give any idea of the scene. Its horrors will never be fully told. Its suddenness was almost the chief horror. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, there was a change and men who came to the scene of their daily toil this morning will never return alive.

Other cities have felt the visitation of awful calamities. They have been swept by fire and deluged by floods and plagues have decimated their communities. In the national capital of the richest nation of the earth there has been a catastrophe unparalleled in the annals of its history and in every mind there is the horrible conviction that its genesis is to be found in the criminal neglect of a congress too parsimonious to provide for the safety of its loyal servants by erecting buildings proper for their accommodation.

OLD FORD'S THEATRE FALLS.

It was between 9:30 and 10 o'clock this morning the floors of the old Ford's theatre building on Tenth street, occupied by the records and pension division of the surgeon general's office, fell in as though those of a card house. On each floor there were scores of men at work. Without warning they were carried down as by an awful cataclysm. The death trap was iron girders hardly strong enough to support the floors but heavy enough to crush out human lives; of bricks that were held together by plaster long since dried out; of wooden beams that had been in place too long. The government of a great nation could not afford to provide a safe building for its faithful employees but horded them together in a building whose unsound condition was notorious. Again and again have the columns of the press been filled with the story of the rotten walls.

WHEN LINCOLN WAS SLAIN.

Twenty-eight years ago there was another tragedy within the walls of this building. The news of it was flashed to the four quarters of the earth and it brought consternation wherever it went. The man who was killed was the president of the United States. Those in the multitude who could think of something besides the catastrophe remarked upon the strange coincidence that the building in which John Wilkes Booth slew President Lincoln should fall and kill scores of people on the very day that the body of the assassin's brother was taken to its final rest.

CRIMINALLY CARELESS CONGRESS.

But notwithstanding the fact that in the public press and in congress also continued attention was called to the bulging walls of the building and its darkness and general unsuitability and unsafety, it continued to be used for the daily employment of nearly 500 government clerks of the pension record division in the midst an ill-judged effort to remedy some of its defects. The moral of the disaster is emphasized by the fact that there are known to be at least two great government buildings—the printing office and the Winder building annex of the war department, each containing many more employees than were caged in Ford's Theatre death trap—which are in an equally dangerous condition.

RESCUING THE VICTIMS.

A general fire alarm was turned in a few minutes after the crash and all the ambulances in the city were summoned. As quickly as possible the police and firemen formed a brigade and ready hands assisted them to take out the killed and wounded. In less than an hour twenty-five persons had been taken out and every few minutes thereafter some still form would be borne on a stretcher from the building. Police and army ambulances, cabs, carriages and vehicles of every description were pressed into service for carrying away the dead and injured. The hospitals in the city were all utilized in caring for the injured and scores of physicians volunteered their services for this work. The commissioners of the District of Columbia took possession of the building and vicinity in person and helped the rescuers.

ARMY AND NAVY ASSIST.

Colonel Corbin, assistant adjutant general of the army, was sent by Major General Schofield to represent the war department and to decide if it were necessary to call out troops. Both the military and naval authorities took prompt action. General Schofield ordered two troops of cavalry from Fort Myer, just across the river, and two companies of infantry from the Arsenal to the scene of the disaster. The secretary of the navy ordered out all medical officers stationed here and also opened the naval hospital to receive the injured. The commandant at the navy yard was ordered to render all assistance in his power. Every hospital in the city was called into requisition and ambulances, carriages and other vehicles filled with the wounded were quickly traversing the city in every direction.

THE FIRST BODY FOUND.

Those who were early on the scene found the body of a colored man in the alley in the rear of the building where John Wilkes Booth had his horse tethered the night he killed Lincoln. This was George M. Arnold, a well known colored clerk. He was seen at a third story window. He was warned not to jump but despite the protestations from the people he climbed out and lowering himself from the sill let go. He fell upon a corner at a lower door and slid off into the cobblestoned alley, striking on his head. His head was smashed into a jelly and the cobbles for a distance of several yards were bespattered with blood.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

None of those who escaped injury could tell when the floors gave way. To the occupants of each of the floors there was but one crash heard and instantly the whole building was filled with blinding lime dust.

Running directly through all of the stories and in the middle of the building was a light well 10 feet or more long and nearly as wide. The fatal area was in front of this, leaving a space of 7 or 7 feet in width undisturbed on either side. The entire back part of the building, containing more than half of the floor space, remained intact. No women were employed in the building.

MEN AND NOT PAPERS.

This afternoon the firemen turned a stream of water into the building. This was done to lay the dust so that the work of clearing away could be better accomplished. A dyed-in-the-wool government clerk objected to this proceeding because, he said, the place was stored with important government papers which would be ruined by water. A man who was standing beside him shouted back excitedly:

"We don't care a damn for the papers of a government that lets its clerks work in such a trap. It's men we're trying to save; not papers."

SCENES AT THE MORGUE.

At the morgue the sight was one horrible to behold. The little building, in which was one ice chest and a dissecting table, was not near large enough to hold the dead bodies brought from the wrecked building. When the morgue was filled the stable was turned into a reception room for the bodies. Blankets were spread on the floor and the remains were laid out as respectfully as possible under the circumstances.

The president was informed of the sad event just as he reached the entrance to the White House by one of the clerks and he at once interested himself in relief measures, learning with satisfaction what had been done by Assistant Secretary of War Grant.

The following list of dead thus far reported, with the names of the states from which they were appointed, contained twenty-two names, including one unknown and one probable duplication; only twenty-one bodies having been taken from the ruins:

ROLL OF THE DEAD.

UNKNOWN MAN, taken from the ruins at 5 o'clock this evening, evidently a clerk.
GEORGE ALLEN, Pennsylvania.
GEORGE ARNOLD, Virginia.
L. W. BOODY, New York.
SAMUEL P. BANES, Pennsylvania.
JOHN BOSSIUS, District of Columbia.
ARTHUR L. DIETRICH, Kentucky.
JEREMIAH DALEY, Pennsylvania.
JAMES A. R. FAGAN, Kansas.
JOSEPH B. GAGE, Michigan.
DAVID C. JORDAN, Missouri.
M. M. JARVIS, Michigan.
J. BOYD JONES, Wisconsin.
F. B. LOFTUS, New York.
B. W. MAEDER, state unknown.
H. WOOD, state unknown.
HOWARD S. MILLER, Ohio.
J. H. McFALL, Wisconsin.
E. G. SHULL, Kansas.
WILLIAM SCHRIEVER, Maryland.
H. WOOD, state unknown.
F. M. WILLIAMS, Wisconsin.

TOTAL NUMBER UNCERTAIN.

C. H. Miller is reported killed but it is probable that the name is meant for C. R. Miller, who was supposed to have been killed but will recover. The names of Jordan and Paul have also attached to the unofficial death list as having been taken out dead, but their bodies have not been located. Jordan is probably a duplication of the name of David C. Jordan of Missouri, who was killed, and Paul may have been confused with McFall, also killed. One man taken from the ruins dead was identified by a bystander as "Old Man" McCauley who lives in Virginia, but this identification was not verified and the death list does not contain his name.

REPAIRS BROUGHT DISASTER.

From a responsible gentleman who yesterday took a look at the work going on under the doomed building this statement is obtained:

"As I passed the building, Captain M. R. Thorp, chief of the bureau of supplies of the war department, seemed to be directing some work and I stopped to see what it was. There was a brick wall running from the back of the lower floors, which it supported. A number of workmen were excavating under this wall for the purpose, as I was told, of putting in an independent electric light plant and they were preparing to support it by underpinning. It now seems very evident to me that as they undermined this brick wall the first floor gave way; the second followed in like manner, as it was supported by columns which rested on the first floor."

OTHER DANGEROUS BUILDINGS.

As soon as Secretary Lamont returns to Washington steps will be taken to thoroughly investigate the cause of the disaster and to fix the responsibility, if the coroner's jury does not anticipate the department in that direction. The collapse of this building has directed the earnest attention to two other great public buildings believed to be in an almost equally unsafe condition—one the government printing office where 1,800 people are employed, the other the rickety shell known as the Windsor building, also belonging to the war department and occupied by hundreds of clerks of that department and the second auditor's office. This place is notoriously dangerous and the floors are overloaded.

All of the facts have been known to congress for years but received no attention.

CONFLICT OF COURTS.

Promises to Be a Very Lively One in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Judge Woods in the United States circuit court decided this morning to allow the World's Columbian exposition an appeal from the decision yesterday granting an injunction against Sunday opening of the World's Fair. The time and place of hearing the appeal will be fixed by Chief Justice Fuller. Application for the supersedeas, which would suspend the effect of the injunction pending a hearing on the appeal, was refused, leaving yesterday's decision in force. Judges Jenkins and Grosscup have not spoken in regard to the appeal and a decision has not been made.

Attorney Walker, representing the exposition directors, moved for a suspension of the order when it should be entered and began a long argument in support of the motion. After hearing Mr. Walker's arguments Judge Woods announced that the order for injunction was entered in accordance with the decision of yesterday. The order for the injunction was accordingly made out and signed. It was agreed, however, that a transcript of the record would be made out today and that tomorrow morning Mr. Walker will be before Chief Justice Fuller and ask for a suspension of the injunction until such time as it can be heard by the court of appeals. On Chief Fuller's decision hangs the question whether or not the World's Fair will be open next Sunday. Soon after the proceedings in the federal court Attorney William E. Mason of this city and Attorney General Maloney of Illinois filed a bill for mandamus in the courts to compel the park commissioners to open Jackson park on Sunday.

DRAINAGE CANAL TROUBLES.

Six Strikers Badly, Some Totally Hurt in the Fray.

ROME, Ill., June 9.—An encounter occurred between the strikers and drainage contractors' employes about one o'clock this afternoon and one unknown man was killed and the following wounded:

THOMAS MERRIA, shot in the breast, will probably die.

ANTON WESHOFSKI, shot in the breast, fatally injured.

KESA GREGGIER, shot through the abdomen, may die.

FRANK BLOKESKI, struck in the body; badly wounded.

DAN KESMOSCH, struck in the head.

CHEMUND SHODCEK, struck on the head with a musket.

Two other operatives were slightly wounded. The strikers came down from Lamont and it is claimed began firing on the contractors and their men. All the men wounded belong to the strikers.

MARQUETTE, MICH., JUNE 10.

Entered as mailmatter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY is going to succeed himself as the chief executive of Ohio. The Republicans of that state appreciate him and manifest a praiseworthy disposition to stand by him. His financial troubles have not impaired his popularity in the least, even if they have left him as poor in pocket as the most of us.

It is now believed that when congress meets in special session it will repeal the silver law without granting any concession in return to the advocates of free silver. This is what should be done. We have got the country in a fix by making concessions to these gentlemen and there should be no more folly of that kind indulged in.

THE Menominee Herald says that place "will be satisfied with the new insane asylum to be built somewhere in the upper peninsula in the near future." Probably it would be, but there are several places in the upper peninsula which do not feel inclined to "satisfy" Menominee in that way. The scramble for the insane asylum promises to be quite animated.

SAYS the Boston Transcript: "The time draws near for copper stock semi-annual dividends. Nothing is expected this summer from Atlantic or Central; a payment is due in July from Quincy, and ought to be $3 at least; Calumet and Hecla and Tamarack presumably will make their regular payments, and another $1 probably will come from Osceola somewhere between now and Indian summer."

EDITOR GRIFFEY of the Negaunee Iron Herald emphatically and unequivocally denies that he holds the views as to the necessity for a new party in which the best element of both the old ones shall combine attributed to him in an obscure and characterless sheet published in this city. He hardly needed to characterize its report of his utterances as false. The paper has become so addicted to lying about reputable people that it could hardly be expected to truthfully report what Mr. Griffey did say, if the latter wasted time talking to its editor at all, which THE MINING JOURNAL is much inclined to doubt.

WE HAVE seen something about the "state organization of that party being turned down" in a few of the prints of the Democratic persuasion, but to THE MINING JOURNAL's vision the only thing that has been turned down in the party has been a coterie of political thimble-riggers who were trying to boost one another into positions they were not entitled to and a prominence they do not deserve. These may have been laid on their backs, but if so it is all the better for the people of the state, who have a decided interest in having the offices capably and honestly filled, no matter what party may be in power.

THE growing depression in the bituminous coal trade during the past four weeks has culminated in a virtual suspension of work at the collieries in the Broad Top and East Broad Top bituminous regions in Huntingdon and Bedford counties, Pa. Of the twenty mines in the Broad Top district only three are now in operation, and these are working but two days per week. The present stagnated condition is attributed by the Broad Top operators to the recent material increase in freight rates by the railroad companies, and also to the shutting down of coal shipments to Cuba, which receives over one-half of the output of the Broad Top region.

DETROIT'S common council will consider propositions from the street railway people there with a view to an adjustment of their differences over the company's franchise. Mayor Pingree opposed having anything in the nature of a compromise considered, but the council majority disagreed with him, and will proceed to arbitrate. Unless the people keep a sharp watch on the council the probability is that the corporation will get by arbitration what it failed to get in the courts and the sturdy fight made by the mayor and his supporters will have been in vain. There is a "bad lot" of aldermen in the Detroit council, and the railway company is prepared to pay well for the attainment of its ends.

PREPARATIONS to underwater the flooded Hamilton and Ludington shafts are under way and the work will begin next week. The Range Tribune of Iron Mountain states that four 2,600 gallon bailers will be operated at Hamilton No. 2, and two each at A, B and C Ludington shafts. In addition to these the big Cornish pump at the Ludington will be operated. Superintendent Flaherty estimates that the bailers and pump will bring to the surface between 5,000 and 6,000 gallons of water every minute. This water will be run into the sewer and will give the system a severe test, but if the city engineer's figures are correct no damage will be done. Mr. Jones thinks the mines will be underwatered in thirty days from the time the machinery is in operation, but Superintendent Flaherty is of the opinion that it will take considerable more time than that. Both gentlemen are confident that no trouble will be experienced in unwatering the properties and in keeping them in a workable condition.

THE Boston Herald, mugwump, has this cautious comment on the appointment of Chas. W. Dayton to the position of postmaster of New York: "It looks very much as if the President had shown something of the astuteness of the politician in his selection of a postmaster of New York. The appointee, Charles W. Dayton, is a Tammany Hall man, but, if we are not deceived, he is far from being a Hill and Murphy man. Tammany cannot object to him, and if Hill and Murphy do they are put in antagonism to Tammany. This is the game to play in the sharp kind of politics that they have in New York. It is not a method of dealing with the offices especially to be commended, but, perhaps, there might have been a worse manner of meeting the situation. The main point, after all, is to get a good postmaster for New York city, and the testimony is to the effect that this has been done in the present instance."

MICHIGAMME MATTERS.

Chas. E. Anderson, who has been connected with J. Gothelsohn & Co. of the past seven years, has resigned his position here and will leave next week for Iron Mountain, where he will engage in the grocery business in company A. F. Sundstrom, also of this place.

Sigfried, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Olson, died Wednesday night after a painful illness of about ten days. The funeral took place yesterday with services at the Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. Gust Hultgren of Republic officiating.

A petition was passed around and signed by all the business men of this place asking the D. S. S. & A. Railway company to build a suitable depot here in place of the old box car and coach that are now being used for that purpose.

Our firemen have received an invitation from the Ishpeming fire department to attend the Fourth of July celebration in that town. A special meeting will be held this evening to act on the invitation.

The saw mill is now running "double shift." The night "shift" was put on last Monday. There are over 300 men employed in and around the mill at present.

Emil Sundstrom has had charge of the tower the past week during the absence of J. Martin Casey, who was called to Ironwood to attend a sick brother.

Billy Wallace is down from West Superior looking after his property here. He reports the big towns at the head of the lake booming.

F. W. Read & Co. have launched the tug Rose of Marquette and she is now doing excellent service on the lake.

The steamer Michigan was laid up a few days this week owing to a slight accident to her machinery.

Highway Commissioner Bereson commenced work on the roads with a crew of men this week.

D. W. Whoolley, formerly operator at the tower here, is visiting friends at this place.

Supervisor A. G. Johnson attended the supervisors' meeting at Marquette on Tuesday.

Mr. J. Gatthebon returned from a collection tour up the road Tuesday.

C. F. Sundstrom went to Marquette Thursday.

W. W. Ingram of Chicago is in town.

A Novel Method of Voting.

In a number of the towns of the state of New York, when the spring elections are held this year, there will be a very novel scene. Each voter will walk into a little room with walls of sheet iron, will see before him a neat array of bright knobs—to each of which is attached the name of a candidate for office, the whole number including all the names placed in nomination—will push in the knob for every name he wishes to vote and will pass out, having taken less than 40 seconds. By the machinery thus employed every vote is securely and secretly recorded, and every voter can cast one vote, and no more, for one candidate for each office.

There is no printing of ballots required, there is no chance of misprinted names or of miscounting, accidental or intended, or of changing the returns. The election held in Lockport in the spring of 1892 was very favorably reported on by those who watched it, and the like elections this year will be closely studied. If the machinery does in all places what it did in Lockport, it would seem that the ingenuity of the Yankee inventor had settled the vexed question of ballot reform, and by a voting machine had destroyed much of the viciousness of machine voting.—Harper's Weekly.

SET HIM RIGHT.

Geo. Augustus Sala, the well known English writer, on his last Australian trip, writes as follows to The London Daily Telegraph: "I especially have a pleasant remembrance of the ship's doctor—a very experienced maritime medic indeed, who tended me most kindly during a horrible spell of bronchitis and spasmodic asthma, provoked by the sea fog which had swooped down on us just after we left San Francisco. But the doctor's prescriptions and the increasing warmth of the temperature as we neared the Tropics, and, in particular, a couple of Alcock's Porous Plasters clapped on—one on the chest and another between the shoulder blades—soon set me right."

AN EVENING LECTURE

A STEREOTYPIC EXHIBITION THAT IS INTERESTING.

A Woman Schoolteacher Has Written Out Word For Word the Remarks of Her Fellow Instructor Upon a Recent Night When There Was to Be a Lecture.

DEAR TEACHERS AND PUPILS—Probably nothing ever thought of has been more helpful to the higher moral and intellectual life of children than the stereotypic lecture. Beneficial alike to teacher and pupil, familiarizing the young mind with scenes that are dear to us, yet could not be made familiar in any other way; stimulating the teacher to fresh flights of descriptive fancy, what wonder that our audience room is full this evening, and that the dear little faces upturned to meet me, filled with enthusiasm, are more of a reward than the 55 tickets which we have sold? If that little boy on the right will keep his little feet quiet, it will add so much more to the pleasure of his little companions. Now, dear children, the gas will be turned out, and you must not be alarmed, for you know good children are just as safe in the dark as in the light. What little girl is that crying? Susie Brown? Well, that is too bad, Susie. Now, what little boy is pulling Susie Brown's hair? Will the sexton please turn the gas on again that we may find out which little boy is so naughty? No one will acknowledge it, I see, which proves that he is quite ashamed of himself and will never do it again. Now we will have the light out again, if you please. The first picture we shall see, dear little ones, will be—Sammy Dexter, I was afraid you were the one who pulled Susie Brown's hair, and now you can come right down in front, away from all your little companions, and Susie can have an opportunity to enjoy the pictures. Don't cry any more, Susie, Sammy is a naughty boy and won't see the pretty pictures half as nicely as you will. Oh, no, you won't see them "a darned sight better," Sammy. That isn't a pretty way to express yourself, and the farther away you get from a picture the better it looks, you know. So you are being properly punished for your naughtiness. But I don't wish you to go home, Samuel. We are to have some cake and ice cream by and by. Children, you must not talk out loud. You are not in the street, you know—and I hope you will remain and be a better boy. Very well, then, Samuel, you may go, and I shall be obliged to ask Miss Corinthian to leave her little charges and go home with Sammy, for he lives in Roxbury and his parents were coming in for him at 9 o'clock. Very true, Jimmy Powers, he has also lost his cake and ice cream, which is perhaps, as you say, the worst of it for Sammie. And now we will lose no more time, but go on with the first picture. You have all been studying, dear children, about the Israelites and their manifold trials and sorrows, and who was it, now, that just led them out of bondage? You don't know? Oh, yes, you do. A great, good man, who told them if they would only follow him he would lead them out of all their troubles. Oh, no, Johnny Barrows, not Napoleon. Now we shall see and we shall know who he is when we see his noble face. (Screen shows Grover Cleveland upside down.) Wild excitement among the children. Now, children, we can't have any noise like this over a little, simple mistake. Mr. Phillippeau, who has kindly consented to work the stereotypic for us, has never worked one before, and we must of course excuse him if he does not always get things correctly. Mr. Phillippeau, we will let Moses go, since you can't find him among the slides, and we will proceed, Susie Brown, what is it this time? Boys, it isn't possible that any of you are naughty and rude enough to stick pins in Susie Brown's legs. I wouldn't have believed it of you if any one had told me you would do it. Now, who has done it? "The same one that pulled her hair!" But that can't be, for it was Sammie Dexter who did that. "It wasn't Sammie that pulled her hair!" and you let poor Sammie go home without his good time and being accused wrongfully of something he didn't do. Miss Ephesians, I am very sorry, but I must ask you to help me rectify this sad error by leaving your class and going out to Roxbury after Miss Corinthian and Sammie. He will get back in time for the ice cream and cake, at least. And now I wish the little boy who has made all the trouble to come forward. And so no one is honest enough to own up to what he has done? I am very, very much surprised and pained. What is it, now? Susie pulled her hair or pricked her legs. She said it just for fun. And so we are to blame you, Susie, for spoiling our evening's pleasure. I do not know what to say. I thought that Susie Brown was a nice, good little girl, who loved to see those about her happy. I see I was wrong. Now, Mr. Phillippeau, we will go on. Leaving the story of the Israelites, children, as it is now getting a little late, and we must hurry a little, I will show you the temple where the wicked money changers were carrying on their bad business when they were driven out; where bribing and all sorts of wrong doing went on, and you must look at it and always remember it as a place condemned for the very wicked actions that went on in it. Now, Mr. Phillippeau. (Screen shows the city hall, Boston.) There is some mistake, children; this isn't the temple, of course. Yes, I see a good many of you recognize it, but you must be careful, you know, and not think of it—that is, associate it—in your mind with the temple meant to move you, because that wouldn't be correct, you know. Now, you will have to wait a few moments while I consult with Mr. Phillippeau, for I am afraid there is a little misunderstanding about the slides. (Consults Mr. Phillippeau.) I am very sorry to tell you, children, that the wrong slides have been sent us. I intended to show you, as you know, pictures of the very wicked actions that went on in it. Now, Mr. Phillippeau, the Holy Land, but by some strange error, which it is too late now to correct, the gentleman who kindly loaned us the slides has mixed us up with his illustrated lecture at the ex-convicts' coterie. They have our slides, you see, and we have theirs. But while we may feel a passing moment of disappointment, I know the dear children will be pleased to feel that our loss is their gain and rejoice that the ex-convicts are being treated to such a beautiful series of pictures as those of the Holy Land, and now if Mr. Phillippeau will play "Onward, Christian Soldiers" on the piano we will march out and have some ice cream.—Miss Meander in Boston Gazette.

Sister Versus Rabbit.

"This is my little sister, Tommy," said his father, showing him the baby. "You will love her dearly, will you not?" "Y-yes, of course," replied Tommy, inspecting the latest arrival, "but it'll cost a good deal to keep her, won't it?" "I presume so."

"Yes," said Tommy, with a long drawn breath. "And when I asked you the other day to buy me a white rabbit, you said you couldn't afford it."—Exchange.

JOHNSTON'S SURE SHOT! OR GIANT FLY KILLER. IT WILL KILL.

And it came to pass that the people laid themselves down at night, after the toils and fatigues of the day to get a sweet sleep and repose. They got it not. Why?

THE BED-BUG. And they arose and went to the pantry to get refreshments. But lo! What was there?

THE BLACK ANT. They then betook themselves to mine host of the restaurant, and there beheld the good things set before them liberally besprinkled with

THE RED ANT. They cried out, "Give us water, ere we perish." They could not drink it. Why?

THE WATER BUG. They rushed to the wine cellar, but could not out; the way was disputed—by whom? Why, there in all his horrors,

THE COCKROACH. They looked about them for their robes and blankets to wrap themselves in, for despair did rest upon their brows. They were destroyed—by what?

[All communications for copper country department intended for publication should be addressed to A. F. Isler, Houghton]

HOUGHTON.

Professor J. E. Bryan, who for the past four years has been principal of the high school in this city, has resigned that position to accept the superintendency of the schools at Litchfield, Ill., a town of about 8,000 inhabitants. The town has three ward schools besides the high school with 130 scholars and there are twenty-five teachers. Since Mr. Bryan's arrival here he has made many friends and was well liked by all the scholars who will regret to see him depart, but will wish him all possible success in his new field of labor. In securing the services of Professor Bryan the school board of Litchfield has made an excellent choice and has secured a first-class teacher. He expects to leave here about July 1.

At the new Grace Methodist church Rev. G. A. Walker tomorrow will offer prayer after which Bishop Ninde of Detroit will deliver a sermon. At 3 o'clock there will be Sunday school and Epworth League mass meeting with addresses by Revs. F. O. Jones, R. L. Hewson, G. Y. Washburn and B. Jud-ger. The choir of the church, assisted by special soloists, will furnish suitable music for the occasion. Monday evening the pastor and trustees will give a reception to Bishop Ninde and other visiting ministers. MANCOCK.

Fire was discovered in M. Doyle's tailor shop about 2 o'clock Friday morning. In a few minutes the fire company was on deck and had the fire out. The fire caught in a closet where a lot of clothes were hanging, but how is not known, as there was no fire left in the building the night before. The damage will not amount to a great deal on account of early discovery and the prompt action of the fire company.

Today the Odd Fellows of this city picnic at the Canal. If the weather is fine there is every indication that a large crowd will accompany them.

now if the citizens owning lots will club together and hire a man to take care of the place Hancock will soon be placed on an equal footing with other towns in her care for the dead.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Dollar Bay was buried Thursday afternoon.

The firemen were out for practice Thursday afternoon and tested their hose. A lot of it was in bad shape and was condemned.

The directors of the Arnold mine have decided to levy an assessment of 50 cents per share for the purpose of opening the mine on a basis commensurate with the rich showing that the vein has made. WENT TO HAVE A GOOD TIME AND HAD IT.

Woods Refuses to Grant Stay of Proceedings and World's Fair May Not Open Tomorrow.

EULALIA SHOWS HER SENSE.

CHICAGO, June 9.—To the great dismay of a few self-styled aristocrats and the extreme delight of the people of Chicago in general and the thousands of visitors Eulalia, infanta of Spain, went to the World's Fair today without any military escort and without any of the usual ceremony that royalty is usually supposed to require.

And to the still greater horror of the aristocrats the obstinate princess persisted in passing by the Fine Arts galleries and led the way right up into the Midway Plaisance where everybody except those of very superior tastes is accustomed to go.

As they were about to leave the Plaisance the princess caught sight of Blarney Castle and the Irish village. She insisted that she was not at all tired and through the village the party went.

Miss Sullivan perform Irish melodies on the harp of Erin's Isle and applauded the performance generously at its close.

A meeting will be held on Sunday evening, June 11, at 8 o'clock at the California club for the purpose of considering the commercial exhibition in San Francisco.

The bureau of admissions announced this afternoon that the official count showed that 160,000 visitors paid admission to the fair yesterday and that near 60,000 workmen's, concessioners', exhibitors' and press passes were used, making the total number of people at the park over 200,000.

German day at the fair will be June 15. The preliminary program has been completed and the speeches will be in both German and English.

The principal orators of the occasion will be Carl Schurz and Mayor Harrison, the latter making the welcoming address. The ceremonies at the park will be followed by a grand illumination and display of fireworks.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Prospect of Currency Reform Improves the Situation Slightly.

New York, June 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of trade says: The severe depression of a week ago which culminated in very tight money and numerous failures has been followed by some recovery.

Reports that definite action by congress on the money question has been assured have done much to better the feeling. But the stringency at Chicago and elsewhere has forced realizing on the unprecedented stocks of wheat so that the lowest prices ever known have been made here and at the west.

This has helped exports and in other respects monetary conditions are fast becoming more favorable. Though no radical change in underlying conditions has occurred there is more hopefulness and some recovery from the extreme contradiction of credit.

At Philadelphia banks are holding money cautiously. There is rather more business in iron but at very low prices. At Cleveland trade is fairly good but money close.

At Cincinnati trade improves and money is active but collections are slow. At Indianapolis the grocery trade is better and at Detroit it is only fair and banks are calling many loans.

Chicago reports trade orders satisfactory. Banks are considered safe but are pursuing a very conservative policy. Excitement is subsiding in Milwaukee. Trade at Minneapolis and St. Paul is fairly active and the lumber trade strong with crop prospects fair.

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

Heavy Cars the Safest.

Every commercial traveler has an opinion of his own as to that position which makes a car the safest one in a train. Some of them hold that it is the one next to the baggage car; the majority maintain that the center of the train is the least dangerous, while there are still individuals, in the minority, to be sure, who favor the rear.

The One With Blue Eyes.

A little Harlem boy who has an old maid aunt who is very fond of cats has been in the habit of officiating as executioner whenever the kittens multiplied around at his auntie's to a degree that even that venerable feminine cat fancier could not support.

How to Keep the Feet While Walking.

From the earliest days, since the walk and carriage have been a matter of study, it has been decided by all authorities on the subject that the proper position of the feet was "heels together and toes out," which is the present military position.

A Lendish Pawshop.

The Monta di Pietà at Rome, which has existed ever since 1585, is probably the most lendish pawnshop in the world. Any person who brings a pledge may borrow from $15 to $25 without paying any interest, but all that is lent above that sum is paid for at the rate of 2 per cent per annum.

Essential.

The superintendent of a school was catechizing a number of scholars, varying the usual form by beginning at the end of the catechism. After asking what were the prerequisites of confirmation and receiving satisfactory replies, he asked: "And now, boys, tell me what must precede baptism?"

A Little Too Polite.

Strange Lady—I beg your pardon, but I heard you mention Mrs. Upperton's name, and I know she has been very sick. Can you tell me how she is? Gentleman—She is dead. Strange Lady—Thank you. Lady's Friend (in a whisper)—Horror! You should not have said "Thank you." That gentleman is Mrs. Upperton's physician.—New York Weekly.

Worse Than Wicked.

A Boston woman was reproving her little son for a certain action. "Why, it is wicked, mamma!" asked the little fellow, "really and truly wicked?" "Far worse, my dear," replied the mother. "It is vulgar!"

Realistic.

"I hate that fellow Bagley. He looks so like an elephant with his small gimlet eyes." "That's just the way I feel. Fact is, he looked so like an elephant the other day that I couldn't resist the temptation to offer him a peanut."—Harper's Bazar.

Andre Gaertner, founder of the Mechanical Museum at Dresden, who was born in 1854, is said to be the inventor of the elevator.

According to a decision in an English court, a man has a good case against a clergyman who persuades the former's wife to go to church instead of staying at home and cooking his dinner.

A man in love is a man who wishes to be more amiable and agreeable than he can be, and this is the reason why all men in love are ridiculous.

Whenever Whittier had an inspiration, he would go to a corner of his room and kneel down while he reduced his thoughts to words.

A contract for the cutting and hauling of 200,000,000 feet of fir timber was entered into in Tacoma recently by a mill company and a railroad company. It is the largest logging contract ever made in the state and will take five years to execute.

A bankrupt merchant at Acadia Mines, N. S., has been sentenced to two months in jail for having willfully contracted a debt without having at the time a reasonable expectation of being able to pay it.

"Side Tracked" at the opera house tonight.

The sudden tumble in the mercury yesterday afternoon made everyone's teeth chatter.

The children of the Baptist Sunday school will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church for Children's Day rehearsal.

The band concert announced for last evening by the Marquette City band was postponed on account of the weather until next week.

There was a fair attendance only at the dance in Armory Hall last night but everyone present seemed to have the jolliest kind of a time and to feel sorry for those who stayed away.

The fire in the North Marquette addition was driven over much ground by the high wind yesterday but although one or two houses were completely surrounded for a time the vigilance of the inmates kept the flames away and very soon the fire had moved past.

Children's Day will be observed at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning at the usual preaching service hour, 10:30 o'clock, by the scholars of the Sunday school. A splendid program of music and recitations will be rendered. All parents and friends are cordially invited to be present. A collection will be taken up for the benefit of the American Baptist Publication society.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelsey returned yesterday from the World's Fair. Before taking in the sights at Chicago Mr. Kelsey was in Washington for over two weeks as a delegate to the Presbyterian General Assembly from the presbytery of Lake Superior. Necessity of Proper Food for Babies.

To prevent the great infant mortality in June, July and August has been the aim of all sorts of philanthropy. Its principal cause is improper feeding, say medical men, and with lactated food they are now able to lessen the awful mortality of the summer months. As a preventative of cholera infantum lactated food is worth more than all the medicines in the world. It is food that is easy to procure and to prepare, and is liked by the little ones themselves.

In every smoker's mouth. Ben-Hur cigars. Ask for them. (5-23-12)

THIRD ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE.

TO THE SHRINE OF THE GOOD SAINT ANNE.

The 1893 pilgrimage to this famous miracle working shrine is being organized by the South Shore under the auspices of the Clergy of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, leaving Wednesday, June 21, 1893, and promises to be the largest ever sent out from the upper peninsula. Tickets from Houghton, Marquette and intermediate stations will be $25.00 for the round trip. They will be good going only on the special train leaving June 21st, but will be valid for return passage on all regular trains until July 21, 1893, and will allow passengers to stop off at any point en route in Canada. The special train will be run leaving Houghton 8:00 a. m. stopping at all stations to take on pilgrims; leaving Marquette 12:40 p. m. arriving at Sault Ste. Marie 6:10 p. m., where connections will be made with a special train over the Canadian Pacific Rv. arriving at Montreal the following afternoon. The special train will be run to Montreal only, as it is expected the majority of the pilgrims will want to stop over in that city for the grand celebration of the St. Jean de Baptiste societies, which takes place June 24.

The journey from Montreal to Ste. Anne de Beaupre and return home to be made on regular trains at any time within the limit of the tickets.

A feature this year will be the Palace Sleeping cars and Tourist Sleepers that will be attached to the Canadian Pacific special train. The rate per double berth in the former from Sault Ste. Marie to Montreal will be $4.00 and berths in the Tourist Sleepers will be at a nominal price.

Anticipating that a number of excursionists will want to visit the World's Fair on the return, arrangements have been made by which excursion tickets entitling holders to return via Chicago will be sold at the low fare of $15.00 for the round trip. This will be one of the choicest summer excursions offered to the people of this section, as it includes not only a visit to the principal cities of the Dominion of Canada, but also gives the tourist an opportunity of visiting Detroit and the World's Fair on the return trip home.

John Thomas' Prayer in a Lighthouse.

John William Thomas, assistant keeper of the Wolf Trap Light station, which succumbed to the ice last week, says he had an experience calculated to quicken his wits and open his weather eye. Mr. Thomas was alone at the station, which is in 12 feet of water and three miles from the shore. It is not easy to appreciate the dreadful forebodings which filled his mind as day after day he watched the thickening ice, conscious as he was of the great peril which environed him, his distress signals unnoticed, with that vast field of ice expanding its mighty power against the piles and gathering additional strength every moment as it overlapped and piled up against the doomed structure.

To pray in such a crisis was a most natural thing to do, and pray he did, long and fervently, and he feels assured that his prayers were answered, for it was not very long before he descried in the distance the smoke of a steamer battling with the ice. Slowly she proceeded along until, getting abreast of the station, she was stopped by the thick ice. Although the steamer was some half mile out toward the ship channel, the nery keeper determined to abandon the station to its impending fate and make the effort to reach her. Getting upon the untried ice he proceeded toward her, waving his hat to attract the attention of those on board. When within hailing distance, he cried out lustily to the officer in command, and was told to come aboard, which he did in safety. On leaving the steamer higher up the bay for the shore he broke through the ice in eight feet of water and came near being drowned.—Cor. Washington Post.

A Salt Lake In Africa.

The French government has just sold to Mr. Chefnux the right to refine and export salt from Lake Assal, one of the most remarkable sheets of water in the world. The lake is in the district of Obok, East Africa, only a few miles from the head of the bay of Tadjoorah. The gentleman who has purchased the concession agrees to pay into the colonial office the sum of $10,000 a year, and if, during the 50 years that he is to have the exclusive right to export salt from Lake Assal, the annual product exceeds 50,000 tons he is to pay a tax of 20 cents for every ton in excess. The government will designate a part of the lake where the natives may secure all the salt they want without tax or hindrance. All along the edge of this little lake, which comprises only 16 square miles, is a bed of nearly pure salt about a foot in thickness.

The water of the lake is so surcharged with salt that it is impossible to sink in it. The bottom is apparently a bed of solid salt. The heavy waters lave the bases of jagged and precipitous mountains which descend to the edge of the lake, making it almost impossible to travel around it. Mr. Chefnux will probably carry on his work by floating machinery on the lake and dredging in the salt bed at its bottom, though on the west side of the lake an enormous quantity of salt is in sight when the lake is at its lowest level.—New York Sun.

HE IS WANTED FOR ARSON.

Jack King, who cremated a saloon at Ewen, captured at Ishpeming.

AN ISHPEMING BOY'S GOOD LUCK OUT WEST.

Colorado School of Mines Sends Students Here to View Our Mines. Mine Models to be Exhibited.

SPOTTED HIS MAN.

Marshal Peterson received a message from the marshal of Ewen a few days ago telling him to be on the lookout for one Jack King, who was wanted at that place for arson. On Thursday Marshal Peterson found King at the Ishpeming hospital, where he has been lying ill for several days. The Ewen officer was notified and yesterday morning a Mr. McLaughlin, whose place was set on fire and destroyed recently, arrived here and identified King as the incendiary who fired the building. King was tending bar for McLaughlin at the time, and it is said that his motive in firing the place was the theft of $128 of McLaughlin's money which was in the house. McLaughlin was out of town when the fire occurred, but he says that he can produce evidence enough to convict King of having committed the crime. McLaughlin was on his way to the Ann Arbor surgical institute with his young son, who had swallowed a lead pencil three inches in length the previous day. While here the boy was rather uneasy but was not suffering much pain from the presence in his wind pipe of the pencil. King will remain at the hospital until he is well enough to be taken back to Ewen.

Struck Wealth.

Word has been received here that James Tobin, formerly of this city, recently sold an interest he held in a Pitkin, Colorado, mining property for $17,000. Mr. Tobin lived in Ishpeming from childhood and a few years ago engaged with a Chicago prospecting company as diamond setter, working in different western states until about two years ago, when he located at Pitkin. While here a few months since on a visit to his parents he told his friends that he was sinking his earnings in western hills and had hopes of some day realizing handsomely from his investments. Mr. Tobin's Ishpeming friends will be pleased to learn of his good fortune.

Colorado Students Here.

Twenty students from the state school of mines at Golden, Colorado, arrived here Thursday evening from Iron Mountain via the C. & N. W. road and will do practical surveying at the Ishpeming mines until Tuesday next. The party consists of George W. Schneider, J. A. Harra, F. H. Herzinger, F. B. Young, George H. Hoyt, O. B. Subr, Thomas G. Smith, J. M. Boland, H. H. Atkins, Jr., W. E. Herzinger, W. H. Brown, Clarence S. King, James H. Parker, D. P. Meyer, F. W. Parker, F. M. Field, W. H. Paul, A. B. Rogers, M. C. Hilsen and M. B. Parker. Professor M. C. Hilsen is in charge of the party. They will leave here Tuesday evening for Republic where they will spend Wednesday looking over the Republic mine. Thence they will go to Houghton to visit the mining school. While in the copper country they will spend a few days visiting the Calumet & Hecla and other mines in that district.

All May See Them.

Agent F. P. Mills of the Cleveland-Cliffs company has decided to place the model of the underground workings of the Cliff shaft and the Cleveland Lake shaft on public exhibition Monday next at the Cleveland company's shops. The models will be entirely completed tonight and on Monday those who desire to see them can do so. On Tuesday the models will be taken apart, preparatory to shipment to the World's Fair.

Appointed Sub-Committees.

The arrangement committee for the firemen's picnic to be held here on the Fourth held a meeting Thursday evening and appointed a number of sub-committees to assist in getting everything in readiness for the event. It was decided that the lady friends of the firemen shall be given exclusive charge of the refreshments, etc. Postal cards will be issued today notifying the members of the sub-committees that a meeting of the different committees will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the department headquarters.

A quantity of fireworks was ordered from a traveling man yesterday for the fireworks display at the picnic grounds on the evening of the Fourth at 9 o'clock.

Ventilating Fan.

Needham Bros. of the Ishpeming steam laundry have just received a patent ventilating fan to be used in expelling the hot air from the ironing department of the laundry. The apparatus will be placed in the upper half of the window facing Pine street. It is guaranteed to change the air in a room in five minutes. It will be put in place tomorrow and will be operated by a belt leading from the engine in an adjoining room.

A. W. Graves in Prison.

A. W. Graves, the one-armed painter who shot and killed a saloon-keeper at Crystal Falls a few days ago, was taken to the Marquette branch prison Wednesday last. Graves was well known in Ishpeming, where he resided for about two years prior to locating at Crystal Falls.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D. D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that by a thorough course of treatment, it will cure almost every case of catarrh. Ministers, as a class are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly." I used Ely's Cream Balm for dry catarrh. It proved a cure.—B. F. M. Weeks, Denver.

The Letter "R" in Conversation.

The letter "r" has met with almost as many vicissitudes of late as the unfortunate British "h," and the "r," unlike the "h," is not exempt from danger in America. To be sure, the most elegantly soft spoken American does not pronounce "modern" as if it were written "mod'n," a common pronunciation among the upper classes of Great Britain, but the "r" suffers a somewhat similar elision in many words throughout this latitude, and even the supercilious "r" often heard in the New England pronunciation of "law" is met with in and about New York. Curiously enough most persons who are guilty of this blunder seem incapable of distinguishing between the correct and the incorrect pronunciation in the month of a third person.—New York Sun.

AN EX-CONVICT'S STORY. Plaintiff of a Man Who Has Served Term For Forgery.

No. 15,481" tells a pitiable story of his difficulties in attempting to obtain a living honestly after serving a term of imprisonment. He was sentenced to three years ago to two years' imprisonment for forgery.

He says: "I was told I could come into the house (and so mix with some of the greatest of criminals), for which I should have to chop wood or do tailoring, etc., but this I objected to do, so was given a note to take to a tradesman in a certain district of London, who offered me a situation as traveler on commission (only) for the sale of cart grease, which I politely declined.

It matters not what position a man held in life previous to his getting into trouble, or release this society offers the same means of obtaining an honest livelihood to every one—that is, chopping and making up bundles of firewood, working in the tailors' shops, taking on a milk round with a hand truck, traveling on commission for some article which the public in 90 cases out of 100 refuse to look at, much less to purchase.

"It is now nearly 18 months since I was released, during which time I have been living on a wretched existence, sometimes going days without food and walking the streets at night, and sometimes I am able to earn a few shillings by addressing postal wrappers. I can assure you, sir, that if the authorities would allow me inside the prison (without committing another crime) I would return today! It will ultimately come to my going back or suicide."—London News.

The London Coffee House in 1700. At the coffee house the news was discussed, rumors were invented, scandal aired and assignments made.

Swift used to find his letters from Stella in the frame of the glass behind the bar of the St. James coffee house. Harley, afterward Earl of Oxford, saw one of Stella's letters one day in that conspicuous position and asked Swift how long he had learned the trick of writing to himself.

The floor of a coffee room was divided into boxes similar to those that still linger in a few taverns and hostleries that preserve a flavor of times gone by. Behind a bar at each end of the "idols," as a correspondent of The Spectator terms the barmaids, whose manners and customs, especially their fondness for flirtation and bar worship—the chief grievance with this correspondent, who was probably either old or ugly—have their counterparts at the present day beneath more pretentious roofs.

Tom Brown describes the "idols" as "a charming Phillis or two, who invite you by their amorous glances into their smoky territories." The crusty Spectator complained that great difficulty in getting served was experienced by those who did not respond to the amorous glances or who wished to pass their time otherwise than in ogling and worshipping the charming Phillis at the bar.—Temple Bar.

Migrating Birds and Their Flight. Many discussions have been maintained as to the manner of flight of birds in migrating. The wild geese are well known to have a way of gathering in a large flock and traveling in something like a military procession, but for the most part naturalists have differed in their ideas on this, as they differ seemingly on most subjects, some asserting that most birds fly low, others that they fly high, etc. Some observations made by Mr. W. E. D. Scott, however, at Princeton college on the night of Oct. 19, 1880, give some data upon which to base an opinion.

His observations discovered a large flight of migratory birds proved by computations made at the time to be flying from one to four miles high above the earth. They were small birds like the robin, wren, etc. This leads us to another point—viz., the dangers encountered by birds in their annual flight. Of course the greatest is by storms, which beat them far from their course out to sea, when they drop from exhaustion and are drowned, or to the earth, where the force of the fall is no less fatal.—Mrs. J. B. Southworth in Albany Journal.

A Bet With Apparent Odds. A successful railroad projector was expressing some very positive opinions about the market value of a certain railroad stock in a Wall street restaurant two or three days ago. "I will bet $100 to a red apple," he exclaimed, "that that stock will sell at par within a year and a half."

"I'll take the bet," exclaimed a young man with a very serious face. "All right, sir. Put up your red apple, and I will put up my money."

The young man hurried round to a Broadway fruit store, bought a red apple for 5 cents and returned to the restaurant, where he placed it in the hands of the cashier of the place. The railroad man promptly put $100 in bills in the side of the apple and said: "Now, I shall expect you to keep that apple in a perfectly sound condition. If the apple decays, the bet is off."—New York Times.

Misled by the Name. "Who is that man Talmage we hear so much about?" asked Talmage Jones the other day.

"Why, don't you know?" said Brother Snow. "He am de great Brooklyn preacher."

"Preacher!" exclaimed Jones. "I thought he war a comic lecturer."

FLOWERS IN A HOME. AN INEXPENSIVE WAY OF BEAUTIFYING ALMOST ANY HOUSE.

The Proper Methods For Stocking and Taking Care of a Small Conservatory or Bay Window—Decorative Considerations Are Essential.

Many are no doubt deterred from becoming amateur cultivators of flowers because they fear the expense of building, stocking and maintaining greenhouses. They hear of $1,000 being paid for one specimen of Vanda sanderiana, and of the fancy prices brought by other plants; of such collections as that of Frederick L. Ames of North Easton, Mass.; Henry Graves of Orange, N. J.; William S. Kimball of Rochester, Erastus Corning of Albany and Hicks Arnold of New York, and conclude that love of flowers is a taste that cannot be cultivated without enormous expense. This is very much as if people should give up learning to play the piano because they cannot become Liszt or Paderewski, or amateur theatricals should be abandoned because the standard of a Garrick or a Booth cannot be attained.

If everybody wanted to play first violin, there could be no orchestra. An intelligent amateur grower of flowers can derive in a modest way a delight from a bay window of well selected plants, and thus begin what may in time develop into a good collection. It is quite obvious that a bay window would not be ruinously expensive to stock. About $1 to the square foot of floor will cover the outfit. For, unless the grower wishes to develop some special variety, which it would be unwise for the beginner to attempt, he need not invest in costly plants.

If he will proceed with an eye to beauty only, he will soon discover that often very beautiful varieties of a species can be had at low prices. This must be especially true of the orchids, the cattleya, can be bought, and in bloom, too, if an ordinary variety, for $2 a plant. I cannot imagine richer decoration in a room the prevailing color of which is pink, or some harmonizing tint, than a bay of these noble flowers, with their large petals and spirals of delicate pink and lips of royal purple. Many beautiful varieties of chrysanthemums can also be had at slight expense.

The cost of maintaining a bay window after it has once been stocked is virtually nil. The ordinary temperature of the house will suffice. Almost any plant will thrive in a temperature of from 60 to 65 degrees, this being the medium temperature, which both warm and cool house plants adapt themselves, and the plants will require but little care beyond watering and occasional cleaning.

Color effects can be produced in a simple bay window upon which the eye will rest with delight—effect which the art of the most skillful decorator cannot equal, let alone surpass. One can have graceful foliage plants, like the Ficus elastica (the rubber tree), Latania borbonica (the fan palm), varieties of kentia and the beautiful Aracaria excelsa (New Zealand pine), and, blooming under their fresh green foliage, such box plants as hyacinth, tulips and narcissus or azaleas, geraniums and abutilon. These are among the more common flowers best adapted to window growth.

Very these with those orchids which are most apt to thrive in a bay, and exquisite harmonies in color can be produced. One could have Cypripedium insigne, with its yellow and white flowers; Lycaste skinneri, ranging from light pink to deep purple; Odontoglossum Rossi majus, with white, pink and brown flowers, besides the glorious cattleyas, laelias and dendrobiums. Nor is there any reason why the amateur should not devote himself (of course in a modest, yet none the less delightful way) to the perfecting of some special group of flowers, branching out more extensively, if he desires, as opportunity presents itself.

It may have been gathered from a statement made above that plants do not require so much care as is generally bestowed upon them. Indeed in many cases a plant suffers rather than benefits from being handled too much. All plants as a rule want water when dry—that is, when the soil about them becomes moderately dry. Then they should get a watering that will go right through the pot and not only a little on the top soil, as is generally the practice, while the roots at the bottom are starving.

Flowering plants of fresh air and all the light that can be given them, while the foliage plants will do well in shady places. Besides watering the plants, care should be taken to keep them free from insects, which is accomplished by occasional sponging and keeping a few tobacco stems near them or sprinkling them with tobacco dust. These are certainly not very imposing labor.

These suggestions apply equally well to the conservatory and greenhouse. A small conservatory is, next to the bay, the least expensive means of enjoying flowers indoors. For it is possible to heat it from the room into which it opens provided the furnace flue is near enough to the door of the conservatory to allow considerable heat to pass through it. To have a flue from the furnace directly to the conservatory would be unwise, as the heat would then be too intense and dry. The only practicable method of directly heating a conservatory or greenhouse is by a boiler and pipes. As a rule the expense of building a conservatory or greenhouse, including the boiler and ordinary fixtures, will average $20 a running foot or $1 per square foot of floor.

This of course does not include any excavation or masonry work, simply wood, iron, pipes, boiler, glass, painting and the like—in fact, everything over the ground. The expense of running such a greenhouse would be about 30 cents a square foot for an entire year. This would be the only outfit should the proprietor tend the plants himself. The expense of stocking a conservatory can be safely estimated by square feet of the floor, as the cost of fitting up with foliage and flowering plants, including orchids, would not be more than $1 to $1.25 per square foot. Thus it would cost only from $250 to $300 to stock a small greenhouse, say 25 feet by 10 or 12, with choice plants. This estimate for stocking applies equally to a bay.

But the grouping of plants proceeds upon different lines, for in a bay the decoration of the room should be considered, while in a conservatory the plants constitute in themselves all the decoration. It is advisable to have in each nook and corner of a conservatory a strong combination of similar varieties—for instance, ferns arranged together are more effective than if they were scattered through the house. Similarly, the fan shaped palms should be grouped together with the long frond varieties, forming a special group, and variegated and fancy foliage plants will also be far more effective in a special group.—James R. Pitcher in New York Tribune.

REGARDING CITY HALL LOAN

The Public Buildings Committee Addresses a Few Words to the Public.

JERRY LAUGHLIN RECAPTURED IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN.

Game Warden Hampton's Notice to the Sportsmen of Michigan—Street Cars to Presque Isle Again.

VOICE FOR THE BONDS.

The council committee on parks, cemeteries, public buildings and grounds, having in charge the preparation of plans for a city hall, has deemed it advisable to issue a manifesto to voters through the columns of THE MINING JOURNAL. It is here given:

VOICE FOR THE CITY HALL LOAN.

There seem to be a few men laboring under a mistake in regard to the City Hall question. Before kicking against building this summer, would it not be a good idea to look around and take thought of the mechanics leaving the city because there is no work of any importance going on? It would seem to be good economy to build now while you can help your neighbor to get a job, and at the same time have the benefit of sharp competition between contractors who will bid lower now than they will when there is a boom, figuring, of course, on plenty of help at reasonable wages and no risk of strikes, which are naturally confined to more prosperous times. It seems to us that any one who objects to building now, stands in his own light, or, in other words, favors a penny wise and dollar foolish policy. We have got to have the building, so let us build it now, and by so doing, help create better times in our city. We hope every voter will think this matter over in an impersonal way and go the polls and vote for the loan.

S. MOORE, Committee.
J. F. ZERBEL, J. J. MULLALLY.
Marquette, June 9, 1893.

It hardly seems possible to THE MINING JOURNAL that any serious objection will develop to the building of a city hall as proposed. No one can deny that the town needs a city building, looking at the question from a strictly business standpoint and it is equally patent that the dignity and importance of Marquette, the noted "Queen City of Lake Superior" demand that its affairs be conducted in more elegant and more commodious quarters than it now possesses.

Since no one can deny that the building is needed and would make a valuable addition to the list of fine buildings in the city, what objection can there be to building it now, especially when its construction would quicken business in all the building trades by emboldening the large number who really want to build this season but lack nerve to go ahead in spite of the depression existing all through the country just now.

It is not as if the Bluff street school racket were to be repeated and the whole cost of the building spread on the roll in a year or two. By issuing bonds for the hall an increase in taxation is avoided as the interest can be attended to without making any man's taxes a cent heavier.

If there is anyone working against this loan from sore-headedness, pure cussedness or any other reason it's about time that he was smoked out and brought into the light where his reasons can be learned and where a few arguments, in turn, can be hammered into him.

Laughlin Recaptured.

News was received by wire last evening to the effect that Jerry Laughlin, the seven-year man who escaped from Marquette prison last Sunday with Kneebone, had been recaptured at a small town in Wisconsin near Marinette. The capture was made at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Game Laws for 1893.

State Game Warden Hampton has issued the following circular regarding what the legislature did in regard to the fish and game laws:

To THE PUBLIC:—In reply to many inquiries I would state that none of the bills making changes in the seasons during which certain fish may be caught and certain kinds of game may be taken became laws. The open seasons are as follows, the same as under the laws of '91:

Deer, lower peninsula, from Nov. 5 to Nov. 25; upper peninsula, between Sept. 25 and Oct. 25. Wild turkey and quail, Nov. 1 to Dec. 15 inclusive. Partridge, lower peninsula, Nov. 1 to Dec. 15 inclusive; upper peninsula, Oct. 1 to Jan. 1. Woodcock, Aug. 25 to Dec. 15. Jacksnipe, read-headed, blue bill, canvas back, wild geese and pin-tail ducks and wild geese between Sept. 1 and May 1. Other wild water fowl and snipe between Sept. 1 and Jan. 1. Prairie chicken, protected until next year, then open season September and October. Speckled trout and grayling May 1 to Sept. 1.

A great many local acts in regard to fishing were passed, but the general fish law recommended by the fishermen's association and the fish commissioners, the fish shute bill, and the bill prohibiting the fouling of fishing waters were among the measures which were not considered. There is therefore no use of people writing about fish shutes or sun dust in streams. A general law was passed prohibiting entirely the killing of Mongolian and English pheasants.

A very important change in the game warden law takes effect July first. It continues the present system by allowing three game and fish wardens in each county, but they will be termed county wardens under the new law. The state warden is also authorized to appoint deputy wardens who can serve anywhere in the state, and who receive three dollars a day from the state for the work they actually perform under his orders. But as there can not be more than ten deputies at any time, and as the whole amount expended must not exceed two thousand dollars a year, the office will not be desirable from a financial point of view. The law will, however, enable the state warden to have violations promptly attended to when the circumstances warrant sending a special deputy.

Under this new law it is made the duty of every game and fish warden in the state to seize all nets and fishing apparatus found in use in violation of law, and all game, etc., found in possession contrary to law, and dispose of the same as the court may direct. Every game and fish warden has the right to arrest without warrant any person caught violating the law. They also have the right to "search" any person and examine any boat, conveyance, vehicle, fish box, fish basket, game bag or game coat, or any other receptacle for game or fish, when he has good reason to believe that he will thereby secure evidence of the violation of the law; and any hindrance or interference or attempt at hindrance or interference with such search and examination shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of the law by the party or parties who hinder or interfere with, or attempt to hinder or interfere with such search and examination.

This unusual power was given the wardens so that violators would be running the greatest possible risk in trying to evade the law. An officious officer could of course make himself and the law very objectionable under this provision; but if any law-abiding citizen is ever needlessly annoyed under this clause of the law, the obnoxious officer will be immediately removed if the facts are reported to the state warden. It is of course expected that all law-abiding sportsmen and fishermen will assist the wardens in the enforcement of the law upon others by cheerfully furnishing proof of compliance with the law themselves, but except in imperative cases no forcible searches will be made without search warrant which the new law provides for. It is important to note in this connection that "any person who hinders, obstructs or interferes with, or attempts to hinder, obstruct or interfere with the said game and fish warden or any deputy or county warden in the discharge of any of his duties," is liable to fifty dollars fine or thirty days in jail. These are stringent provisions, but no one will have any occasion to complain of them if they obey the law.

The only other important fish and game law was "an act regulating the use, possession, transportation and sale of fish and game." It takes effect August 27 and forbids the shipment out of the state of "any of the birds, game or fish, the killing, taking or having in possession of which is at any time or at all times prohibited." It therefore applies to grayling, trout and all protected game named above. Another section of the act forbids the sale of the same during the close seasons, and is framed to avoid the objections which caused our supreme court to overthrow a previous law intended to secure this same object.

This law is considered of great importance by all who have studied the subject for it restricts shooting to the open seasons by making it impossible for the law-breakers to dispose of their game. A new compilation of the fish and game laws will be issued in August.

CHARLES S. HAMPTON, Game and Fish Warden.
PETOSKEY, June, 1893.

Running to Presque Isle Again.

Such progress was made on the repairs on the street railway company's Dead river trestle yesterday that the success of the company's effort to have the gap filled before Sunday is now assured. The driving was finished and the driver removed yesterday and a start was made on the timber work so that by tonight the bridge is expected to be in shape for the passage of cars while even if some night work is required the cars will cross on Sunday and deliver their passengers on Presque Isle as of old. The carriage bridge across the Presque Isle drive will not be finished for several days, hence those who have not visited Presque Isle yet this season but who have been waiting to do so will have to go out by car to-day.

A Splendid Tribute.

Jules E. Wieniawski writes the following letter to Herr Aamold:

HERE AAMOLD, DEAR SIR:—I pen you these few lines to express my sincere pleasure at having heard you play, and my regret that your stay here was so short. I was so moved by your playing that I have no words to express my feelings. Your success was brilliant and well deserved. When you come to Brussels I know my mother will be delighted to hear you.

Yours very truly,
JULES E. WIENIAWSKI.

Herr August Aamold was born on the 6th day of Nov. 1863, in Christiania, the capitol of Norway. At eight years of age he came to this country and commenced to study under the direction of his father, who was a good violinist. He then went to Paris and studied under H. Leonard and later three years in Berlin. While in Europe he appeared in many of the capitol cities before critical audiences and was received with great favor, the prophecy being made that the world would again pay tribute to another child of the Norse-lands, as it had to Ole Bull, Jennie Lind and Christine Nilsson.

Don't fail to hear this celebrated violinist at the First M. E. church, Friday evening, June 10.

"Side Tracked."

Of the attraction which appears at the opera house this evening the Buffalo Express of May 16 last says:

"Side Tracked," which holds the boards at Jacob's Court-street theatre this week, is a remarkably good performance. Of course, the people knew it beforehand, as they always do when a good thing comes their way, and they fairly packed the house. Jule Walters as a tramp is a remarkably apt comedian and he is not all there is of the cast. James F. Mackin as Miles Wellington, the man who is wronged, plays a good sober part, and Charles Bradley, who personates Fritz Grabholt, the lively German, is an original and very funny character player. Add to this Miss Ada Walters, who does excellent song and dance specialties, though only a child, and there is already a strong cast, not to mention the good hands in which the other parts are placed. The play itself abounds in good situations, both funny and exciting, and the dialogue is very diverting.

Lecture by Bishop Ninde.

Bishop W. X. Ninde of the Methodist church will deliver a lecture at the First Methodist church in this city Tuesday evening, June 13. The lecture will be free, and it is to be hoped that the people of Marquette will show their appreciation of a first-class lecture by giving the bishop a full house.

There is no one instrument, unless, indeed, it be a large pipe organ, capable of the variety of effects that are obtainable on the Aeolian. Unlike the pipe organ, however, the Aeolian is adapted to all classes of music; overtures and symphonies can be rendered on it with all the softness and delicacy of the flute and violin and cello and all the snap and brilliancy of the piano. See and hear them at Conklin's.
