ROOSEVELT ON THE A. P. A.

Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt in a recent address at Boston paid his compliments to that detestable and un-American organization, the A. P. A. Following are some extracts from his remarks:

To the man who comes here from abroad in good faith, anxious to make his home with us, and to assume the burdens as well as share the privileges of American citizenship, we stretch out promptly the hand of fellowship. We have a right to demand that he shall, in dealing with American affairs, leave his old world prejudices and antipathies behind and act simply as an American; but if he does this it is an infamy to discriminate in any way against him because of creed or birthplace and not to treat him on his own merits as compared with other American citizens.

Indeed, I go farther than calling it an outrage. I call it a crime against the body politic. It is a crime as thoroughly un-American when discrimination is made against some man because of his religion or because of his national origin, as when it assumes the shape of action taken by some body of citizens, because of the old world ties and interests. It is an outrage for any body of American citizens to vote upon questions of American politics, or upon questions affecting American public or social life, as foreigners—to vote as Irish-Americans, as German-Americans, or what not; it is, indeed, if anything, a worse outrage, to vote against some good American because of consideration of creed or birthplace.

The other day, in choosing a civil service board in a northwestern postoffice, I was in doubt as to which of two equally good men to take for a certain vacancy. Then I was informed through some self-constituted spokesmen of the town that one of these men was a Protestant and one a Catholic and that the latter must not be appointed, as the town was controlled by an organization which objected to any but Protestants holding such positions. That settled it; my doubts were resolved at once, and I immediately appointed the Catholic, exactly as, had the situation been reversed, and similar objections been raised against the Protestant, I would have appointed him. As far as the sphere of my official action extends I can guarantee that any manifestation of such feeling will be checked in short order.

The Know-nothing movement in every form is entirely repugnant to true Americanism, and that is, perhaps, especially the case when it is directed not merely against American citizens of foreign origin but also against even native-born Americans of a different creed. We Americans give to men of all races equal and exact justice. That has been our boast as a nation ever since the day when the Puritan of Massachusetts and the Catholic of Maryland sat in the same hall and signed the same Declaration of Independence.

On the roll of honor where we have engraved the names of the nation's statesmen and soldiers, patriots and commonwealth builders, no distinction is known of creed or of race origin, nor even of birthplace. What man of a patriotic spirit would be capable of paying heed to the fact that Albert Gallatin, the secretary of the treasury, came from Switzerland, any more than of paying heed to the fact that Carl Schurz, the secretary of the interior, came from Germany? What man who reveres our flag and holds precious its honor and glory cares whether the soldiers who followed Sherman in his great march to the sea followed a Protestant, or the soldiers who were rallied by Sheridan after his great ride from Winchester were rallied by a Catholic?

What man is so small-souled as to bear in mind the creed of either in dwelling on his price-less services to "a nation saved, a race delivered?" or, indeed, to bear in mind of either man anything save that he was one of the iron leaders who, under the guidance of and patient, mighty Abraham Lincoln, fought to a finish the terrible civil war, and in so doing wrought out the destiny of a continent, and bore evermore to the front the banner of the freedom of mankind.

As it was with our statesmen and soldiers, so it is with our writers, and I can appeal to your own city for the truth of this. Not Lowell himself paid a finer tribute to the Puritan founders of the commonwealth than John B. O'Reilly. Every American who cherishes with pride the deeds of Mowatt's army in its struggle through the grim July days at Gettysburg must also, if his soul is capable of being thrilled by poems which ring like music notes, prize Bret Harte's strong, homely ballad of John Burns, and prize also James Jeffrey Roche's ode on the anniversary of the battle.

Moreover, exactly as all Americans have a common right to be proud of American statesmen and soldiers and writers, utterly regardless of what their religious convictions may have been, so long as they did all that in them lay for America, so all Americans, without distinction of faith, have right to be proud of those great men who stand as the exponents of the different creeds on American soil, who stand as the leaders in our religious thought. The country is better, every man in it, Protestant or Catholic is better, because of the life of Bishop Brooks; and in the same way every true American, Catholic or Protestant, should be glad that there lives in the United States so stout a champion of Americanism as Archbishop Ireland—the only bishop, by the way, in existence who is entitled to wear that badge of nobility, the button of the Loyal Legion.

The reports of the special correspondent sent by The Free Press with the Detroit committee of investigation as to actual conditions on the iron ranges are eminently accurate. In regard to the Marquette range they give the lie completely to the miserable fabrications sent out by certain local penny- liners and published in certain Detroit and Chicago papers. The Free Press man says in the issue of Dec. 7:

The people on the Marquette range will need no assistance. They are not only able to take care of themselves, but are able to contribute provisions for their less fortunate neighbors on the Gogebic and Menominee ranges. A car-load of flour was sent today to the Gogebic range by the mayor of Marquette, and it is said that two other cars and also private donations will be conveyed to the more destitute districts in a day or two. Not that the people of Marquette are rolling in wealth, but they have $50,000, appropriated by the county for the poor fund, and this will tide them over, especially as there is a good prospect for a large force of workmen on the range here in the near future.

It should again be emphatically stated that on the Marquette range no outside assistance is necessary. The state committee did not go to Marquette expecting to find destitution, nor were they invited to come, since the people on the Marquette range have at no time signified that they would require outside assistance. But the admirable investigation of the committee would have been incomplete if the third great iron range had not been visited. The facts that its prospects were brightening and that mines were going to be opened were not to be ascertained why the outlook is so much better here. The principal reason seems to be the liberality of the mine owners, who assume a positive duty in operating their mines, and thus sustaining their own at a personal loss rather than to force the state to pay for the maintenance of a community which has made a few men rich, who in the moment of adversity will not turn from their employes and confess their inability to operate the mines.

This is very fair and satisfactory but it is rather provoking to find on the same page with this, a double-column cut of a homesteader's shanty in a raw clearing and the whole labeled "A Typical Miner's Cabin." The thrifty miners of this peninsula do not live in that sort of houses. In fact the good quality of the dwellings inhabited by many families that have been compelled to ask charity to ward off starvation has been a matter of surprise to observers from outside. When times were good here many miners were naturally anxious to own their own homes and built neat and comfortable houses. Their savings have largely gone in this way and thus many families with good dwellings partly paid for are without money to buy food. But the Marquette range is able to take care of itself and the sooner outside papers realize that fact the less money they will waste on tales of woe from lying correspondents.

The Hawaiian comic opera revolution is about over. Minister Stevens' defense wholly ignores the evidence of his complicity in the alleged revolution presented by Commissioner Blount. It has become very evident that Stevens was one of the original conspirators and that he used the forces of the United States to overthrow a foreign and friendly government and set up one of his own creation. Then he wilfully misrepresented and lied about the facts to President Harrison and Secretary Foster. We may want the Hawaiian Islands but we do not want them badly enough to steal them. Had President Harrison not been deceived as to the facts he would have been the first to sit down upon Filibuster Stevens.

An indignant citizen writes to deny that two toughs, Malloy and Joyce, run in at Sidnaw were from Trout Creek and alleges that it would be "carrying coals to Newcastle for this town (Trout Creek) to send toughs to Sidnaw." As our Sidnaw correspondent and our Trout Creek correspondent are of equal official rank and dignity THE MINING JOURNAL will leave them to settle the controversy between themselves and suggests justice dockets as appropriate weapons.

THIRTY-THREE men employed in one of Coach & Funke's lumber camps, that run by Peter Girard on Plum-bago creek, chipped up $50 the other day for the Gogebic range sufferers. The two employers added $100 each and a draft for $250 was mailed Saturday from Houston to Judge Haire. That is the style of upper peninsula workmen.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Sufferers from Piles Should know that the Pyramid Pile Cure will promptly and effectually remove every trace of them. Any druggist will get it for you.

The Book of the Fair, which cost the Bancroft company such a heavy outlay, is an assured success, subscriptions having already exceeded 100,000, and will keep coming in as fast as ever. What has given this work such great popularity has been not only the plan but the execution. Nothing could have better fitted popular requirements than a work which covered the whole ground, historical and descriptive, and executed in the highest style of art. We understand that there is an opportunity for a few more competent persons to canvass for the superb book and we know of no more praiseworthy or profitable occupation. Those interested can write to Bacon Bros. Pub. Co., No. 90 Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

Success speaks volumes. Geo. Moebis & Co.'s cigars are the best sellers. [5-23-41w]

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST.

Program for the Week on the Floors of Congress Briefly Outlined.

ADMISSION OF UTAH OPPOSED BY THE REPUBLICANS.

The Tariff Bill Will Not Be Brought Up in the House for Discussion for a Week.

PLENTY OF WORK MAPPED OUT.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The sudden collapse of the bankruptcy bill in the house last Friday has somewhat disorganized the program in the house for the coming week which it was supposed would be almost entirely devoted to that subject.

The bill for the admission of Utah, which consumed the morning hour on Friday, will again come up during the morning tomorrow.

On Tuesday the committee on judiciary meets and it is expected that it will immediately report with a favorable recommendation on Mr. Bailey's bill for the establishment of a voluntary system of bankruptcy.

There are no bills of national importance on the calendar. The most important, perhaps, is the one to protect forest reservations which has already had some consideration and which will probably be disposed of this week.

A favorable report on the bill to refund the cotton tax collected during the periods between 1864 and 1865, amounting to $68,874,385, has been ordered by the committee.

Upon the present calendar the most important bill is the famous Billy McGarrahan claim to the Rancho Pancho de Grande.

It is thought that it will also figure in the house proceedings this week. It is also probable that the Hawaiian affair may reach the arena of debate in the house in some form before the week closes.

The contest over the federal election repeal bill has from the beginning of this congress been expected to furnish more genuine political talk than any other likely to be under discussion during the present congress.

The program for the week also promises a speech by Senator Morrill on the financial features of the president's message.

The chances are that the Hawaiian question will again during the week receive the attention of the senate.

GIRLS HAVE A NEW FAD.

They Look for Young Men with Rings on Their Fingers.

Young men have been wondering what it all could mean. For the last few weeks whenever a young man met a young lady of his acquaintance she would closely examine his fingers, and, finding a ring there, would turn it around two or three times and be satisfied.

When asked for an explanation the young lady would of course evade the subject and laugh most sweetly at what she would innocently call a joke.

It is a new craze, this turning of the fingers of young men by their lady friends. Where it came from no one knows; why the girls have all taken it up they of course will not explain themselves.

There is a firm down town which employs a large number of young men and women, and much time is wasted there during the day by the practice of this craze.

"Why, it's the craziest thing you ever heard of," he said. "The idea is this: If a young lady meets a young man with a ring on his finger she is to turn the ring two or three times.

"Crazy, isn't it?" said the dignified employer with a laugh. "But that sign here has put a stop to it in this place. The time we have lost through it would amount to days."

"Of course you girls only do it for a joke," she said. "No, no," replied she, very seriously. "We all believe in it. Why, I know of a young lady myself who married the very man she shook hands with after turning the marriage ring. It comes true every time."

"How about yourself?" "Well, I'm waiting patiently for the young man whom I shook hands with to ask me." And she bounded away with a laugh to join her friends.

INDIANS OF YUCATAN.

Strange Customs with Infants and with Brides in Early Days.

In an old book called "The Buccaneers of America," recently reprinted, is given a curious account of the customs in vogue among the Yucatan Indians two hundred years ago.

As soon as a child is born it is carried to the temple where a circle or hole is made and filled with ashes. On this heap of ashes the naked child is placed and left there a whole night alone, not without great danger, no one daring to come near it.

THE CHINESE LEGATION. Impressiveness of the Emperor's New Representatives. Under Existing Relations Between Us and China the Celestials Will Receive No Favours from Americans. It would seem that China intended to impress Americans with its importance, judging from the size and gorgeousness of the legation it has sent here to treat in the name of the emperor, says a Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser. When the suite landed in San Francisco there were over eighty in the train of Yung Yu. But as some were left as consuls on the Pacific coast, the legation has dwindled to fifty-nine persons in all. This, of course, includes Mme Yung Yu, four children and as many nurses. There is an amount of paraphernalia connected with the legation. The entire legation is now domiciled at a leading hotel. There nightly a crowd gathers to catch a glimpse of the Celestials. Since their installation at the hotel all who are entitled to call as dignitaries, and many who are not, have taken advantage of their prerogative and presented themselves to Yung Yu. Strict court etiquette forbids Mme. Yung Yu from being seen by any except her maids and immediate household. So no one can get a glimpse of this strange little woman. Mme. Yung's predecessor was not allowed to appear at her own state dinners, nor permitted to receive a caller. The wife of the Chinese minister is forced to absolute seclusion. When she goes for a drive it is with her entire head covered with yards of impenetrable material. The wife of the Japanese minister, on the contrary, Mme. Munemitsu, is one of the most ultra-fashionable women in Washington, and her entertainments are gems. The new legation has taken three houses for which the Chinese government pays twenty thousand dollars a year. The United States paid two hundred dollars a day for the board of infants while her suite occupied these quarters. Yung Yu is paying five hundred dollars a day and says he thinks it very cheap. While the women are kept in seclusion the men have the run of the house and make themselves thoroughly at home. A part of the delegation were once in England and speak the English language fluently. They have the free and easy manner of the westerner and show a disposition to talk to anyone who will listen. The minister is as dark as a sun-burned mulatto, being at least three shades blacker than the other members of the delegation. Yung Yu says he is very well pleased with American cooking, but he has taken the precaution to provide himself with a Chinese cook, and has installed him in the hotel kitchen. The legation eat but little meat, dining chiefly on vegetables. Yung Yu has never been out of China before. He was not a man of the highest rank in China, but like Koko, though in a different way, rose to distinction. He was an official in the province of Chin King, which corresponds there to the position of collector of the Boston port here. It was strictly on his merit that he was chosen by the prime minister to represent the emperor in this country, pending the delicate relations between the two nations in consequence of the Geary act. As long as there are any strained relations existing no member of the legation will be allowed to accept the hospitality of an American, that being the law of the embassy.

LAI'D BY THE FABLED ROC. Important Discovery in Madagascar of the Egg of the Extinct Gigantic Bird. A large specimen of the egg of the fabled roc of the "Arabian Nights," or Epyornis, as the extinct gigantic bird of Madagascar is called, has been secured by Mr. J. Procter, of Tamatave and Prince's square, W., who has brought the curiosity to London. It was discovered by some natives about twenty miles to the southwest of St. Augustine's bay, on the southwest coast of Madagascar. It was floating on the calm sea, within twenty yards of the beach, and is supposed to have been washed away with the foreshore, which consists of sand hills, after a hurricane in the early part of the year. The childlike longshoreman of the antipodes, opining that the egg had a value, showed the unusual piece of floss about with a view to sale, and it thus came into the hands of Mr. Procter. The egg, which is white-brown in color and unbroken, is a fine specimen, 3 3/8 inches long, and an even higher value is placed upon it than upon the egg of the great auk, which lived within the memory of man. The Broddignagian proportions of the egg are better demonstrated by comparison with the eggs of the ostrich and crocodile. An ostrich's egg is about 17 inches by 15 inches, and the contents of six such are only equal to one egg of the Epyornis. The measurements of the egg of the crocodile are normally 9 inches by 6 1/2 inches. It would require the contents of 16 1/2 emu's eggs to equal the contents of this great egg, or 148 eggs of the homely fowl, or 30,000 of the humming bird. The last egg of the kind disposed of in London sold for £100, though cracked.

Work of a Royal Inventor. The signaling apparatus invented by Prince Louis of Battenberg, which is now on trial in the Royal Sovereign, has received notices of approbation from various competent naval judges, says a London letter. The contrivance consists of a sort of collapsible spheroid, capable of being opened and shut like an umbrella, visible at sea for a far greater distance than flags, by which Morse code signals can be made without difficulty. If Admiral Fairfax and the signaling department report favorably it will probably be universally adopted, to the satisfaction of the clever inventor, who is said to have been helped by Capt. Percy Scott, now employed on signal books at the admiralty.

DEATH CLAIMS ANOTHER.

Arthur H. Holland Succumbs to an Attack of Pneumonia.

REV. ELLIS M. JONES BIDS FAREWELL TO MARQUETTE.

Women Successfully Managing the Y. M. C. A. Rooms—Not Hired to Break an Arm.

HIS MOTHER IN ENGLAND.
Arthur H. Holland died at 9 o'clock Saturday evening Nov. 9, at the home of M. C. Scully, East Arch street, aged thirty-six years and seven months. Death resulted from pneumonia after a week's illness.

Decided was born in Nottingham, England. At his native town and London he received a liberal education and about the time of attaining his majority he came to America engaging in the business of publishing directories with two uncles in Chicago. About seven years ago he came to Marquette and began work on a Marquette county directory which he shortly afterward published. This was followed at regular intervals by two directories of the city of Marquette, his 1891 volume being the last official work of this nature. During the past year his health had not been as robust as usual and at the time of his death he held a position in the customs office under Collector Scully.

Mr. Holland was a man pleasant to meet and of more than ordinary engaging manners. Possessed of a good education, an apt delivery and considerable traveled experience he was at once interesting, entertaining and instructive as a host and conversationalist. His conduct under all circumstances was that of a thorough gentleman. He was frank and honest in his opinions, generous in his impulses, charitable to his opponents and if he had an enemy it was within the confines of his own breast. Those who best knew him in life will most readily excuse and forget any shortcomings which, as friends, they may have deeply deplored.

Mr. Holland was unmarried. His only relatives in this country were the two uncles referred to in Chicago, but away off in England, at his native town of Nottingham, his mother will read with grief, that only mothers feel, the sad news of her son Arthur's death.

Mr. Holland was a member of Iron Cross lodge, Knights of Pythias, of this city and also of Oak Leaf lodge Sons of St. George. The former will take charge of the remains and conduct the funeral which will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of M. C. Scully with burial in Park cemetery. The Sons of St. George will also attend in a body assisting in the obsequies of their departed brother.

Rev. Ellis M. Jones' Farewell.
Last night's service in the Baptist church was the last one which Rev. Ellis M. Jones will conduct. Tuesday afternoon he leaves with his wife and little daughter for Waverley, Ia., to assume the pastorate of the Baptist church in that city.

It is six months since Mr. Jones took provisional charge of the First Baptist church here, and so successful have been his efforts that he leaves the congregation materially increased and the spiritual welfare of the church strengthened in a marked degree. In the different duties devolving upon him he has shown untiring energy, Christian patience and a singleness of heart particularly pleasing to those with whom he came in contact. Not only in the circle marked by his own flock has he become endeared but to many outside of his church, or in fact any other, he has established respect by his kindly bearing, agreeable manners and charity towards others' opinions. It is safe to say that he will be missed by every member of his church here as well as by all who had the pleasure of his society.

Mr. Jones last official act was administering the sacrament of baptism last night to an old man eighty years of age. It occurred at the end of the service and under the circumstances possessed an impressiveness that will not soon be forgotten. It will doubtless be a matter of pleasant memory to Mr. Jones to recall that his ministrations here touched not alone the young but led the tottering feet of the aged into the straight and narrow path just as, for them, life's sun was setting and the prospect was gloomy.

Women Are Doing It.

A Young Men's Christian association conducted by women is one of the paradoxes of our city at present. When the association management decided to discontinue the Ladies' Benevolent society took the matter up and decided to keep the reading rooms open at least three afternoons each week. Saturday and yesterday a MINING JOURNAL reporter dropped into the rooms and was surprised to find them comfortably sprinkled with young men all busily reading. Nearly twenty were present Saturday.

The air of the rooms was particularly warm and the surroundings cozy and inviting. There are dozens of men who would enjoy a few hours' quiet rest and warmth in these rooms did they but know they are open. Each Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoon, from noon until dark, the Benevolent society will keep the rooms warm and open and a generous invitation is extended to all young men to take the fullest advantage of this effort made in their behalf. Sundays especially should find the room well patronized.

An All-Day Case.

The case of Thomas Violette vs John C. Fowle occupied the attention of the circuit court during Saturday's session. The action involved the question of an employer's liability for damage done by one of his employes.

It appears that one Sunday morning some time ago a man named McMillan, Fowle's foreman, went to one of the logging shanties over which he had charge and proceeded to wipe the earth with Violette. When he got through the latter was considerably bruised and his arm broken. The assaulted person, instead of suing his assailant, McMillan, brought action for damages against Fowle, McMillan's employer. After listening to the arguments of the counsel the court charged the jury to find for the defendant unless they were convinced that part of McMillan's duty was to go to that cabin that Sunday morning and maul Violette and break his arm. The jury could not see that it was and gave a verdict against the plaintiff without leaving their seats. W. T. Potter appeared for the plaintiff and Hayden & Young for defendant.

The Sewing School.
There were 144 children in attendance at the Benevolent Society's sewing school Saturday forenoon, ten regular teachers and seven assistants. This is the largest attendance of scholars since the opening of the school but the volunteers for teaching do not keep pace as the necessities demand. The work is going ahead in a most gratifying manner, the only trouble at present being a larger number of pupils than the few teachers can satisfactorily handle. There is an excellent opportunity here for young women of some leisure to warm their own hearts with the result of a good act well done.

Hallstrom's Emporium.
You have, of course, noticed that big brass sign on one of the stores of the opera house block bearing the legend "Hallstrom & Co.'s Emporium," but did it ever strike you to enter the spacious store and look at the good things Hallstrom has to offer? Just drop in with that procession you see going in the main entrance and watch the bargains being offered and promptly closed. This is Hallstrom's very busy day. He has established a specially low schedule of prices for the holiday trade and of course the people are taking advantage of them.

Notions for the holiday trade and a big line of dress goods first attract the eye. Of the former the most noticeable is the immense assortment of fancy baskets. These were made by the Indians out in Indian Territory and comprise every style of basket from a doll's toy to a handsome hamper. They are interlaced with German sweet grass which gives them a pleasing fragrance. They are all qualities, all sizes, all shapes and, of course, all prices.

Then there are handkerchiefs, gloves, of leading manufacture and in great variety. Dainty table linen—cloths, napkins and center pieces—that would charm the eye of any housewife. Over on the other side are shoes, a big line, slippers, hosiery, etc., to fit all feet and suit all pockets. About the store hang drapings and curtains, table spreads and blankets completing the thoroughness of the general stock of dry goods.

Of course Hallstrom is not in business for fun. He naturally wants to realize all he can out of it, keeping an eye single to pleasing his customers. Thus he has put prices for holiday goods and trading away down. He makes something out of it and his customers make a great deal. That is how he figures it. But he don't ask you to take his word for it. Just drop into the Emporium and judge for yourself. "The proof o' the puddin' is the preenin' o' it."

Patriotism vs the Mob.
Paul Kauvar's terrifying dreams of anarchy are painted in vivid and shocking colors. The play, though fraught with gloomy passion and casting a pall of gloom over the heart, holds the mirror so perfectly up to nature that it challenges admiration at the same time that its realism pains and oppresses. Simple and absorbingly interesting in story, copious in action, presenting well-conceived and clearly-defined characters in a natural relation to one another and vitalized by a vigorous and steady dramatic movement that increases in force and speed till it reaches a startling climax and a beautiful culmination. The essential object of the drama is to discriminate patriotism from mob violence by representing in action lofty themes, the conduct of heroic men and women moved by the loftiest patriotism and environed by the awful circumstances of civil revolution.

It is a vivid picture of the most troublous times of the French nation, and in addition to his great dramatic situations, has a beautiful coloring of romance. "Paul Kauvar" will be seen at the Marquette Opera House Wednesday, Dec. 13th.

ERUPTIONS OF THE SKIN CURED.

Ed Venney, Brockville, Ontario, Canada, says: "I have used Brandreth's pills for the past fifteen years and think them the best cathartic and anti-bilious remedy known. For some five years I suffered with an eruption of the skin that gave me great pain and annoyance. I tried different blood remedies but, although gaining strength, the itching was unrelieved. I finally concluded to take a thorough course of Brandreth's pills. I took six each night for four nights, then five, four, three, two, lessening each time by one, and then for one month took one every night, with the happy result that now my skin is perfectly clear and has been so ever since."

There is no one instrument, unless, indeed, it be a large pipe organ, capable of the variety of effects that are obtainable on the Aeolian. Unlike the pipe organ, however, the Aeolian is adapted to all classes of music; overtures and symphonies can be rendered on it with all the softness and delicacy of the flute and violin and cello and all the snap and brilliancy of the piano. See and hear them at Conklin's.
