DAMAGING EVIDENCE GIVEN.

Mrs. Foy on the Witness Stand Gives Startling Testimony Against Prisoner Coughlin.

HER TESTIMONY CONTINUALLY OPPOSED BY DEFENSE.

She Testifies That the Conspirators Held Meetings at Her House and There Hatched the Plot.

LOOKS GLOOMY FOR COUGHLIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Mrs. Andrew Foy, pale and nervous and guarded by a police officer appeared in court today, ready to testify in the Coughlin case. The letter which she is reported to have received warning her not to testify and containing dire though guarded threats had apparently added to her fears for her personal safety. Her husband, she said, did not appear at her home last night and, guarded by a detail of policemen, she had been undisturbed. For fear that she would be intercepted on her way to the scene of the trial she appeared in the court room long before the hour for the convening of court and patiently waited to be called to the witness stand. The warning received by Mrs. Foy was, it is said, in substance as follows:

"Don't be a traitor. Look out for yourself and little family and remember the fate of Judas, who went out and hung himself and whose body burst open and let his bowels be scattered on the ground."

Mrs. Foy is the wife of Andrew Foy who, it is said, was the first man to openly denounce Dr. Cronin as a spy after Cronin disappeared. It was at Foy's house, it is claimed, that the alleged conspiracy against the doctor was hatched and the story of the meetings of the conspirators implicating Coughlin as the leader in what the prosecution has been so anxious for Mrs. Foy to give if possible.

The court room was crowded today and the officers had difficulty in keeping back the crowds which surged the corridor and attempted to gain admission to the room.

After a long consideration of the objections of the defense, chiefly that a wife could not testify where her testimony would implicate her husband as one of the conspirators, Judge Tutthill said quietly: "I have decided the matter. Call Mrs. Foy. The objection of the defense is overruled. You understood" said he "that this testimony is greatly restricted. Mrs. Foy can testify only to what she saw and to what she said to any of the conspirators."

When Mrs. Foy was called the spectators leaned forward in their seats and the attorneys crowded toward the witness stand eager to hear her every word. During the examination the defense interposed objections to almost every question put by the state and her story proceeded slowly.

She stated that she knew Coughlin, Martin Burke and Patrick Cooney, all of whom came to her home. Coughlin, she said, first appeared there in March or April, 1889, several times. She said that Coughlin visited her husband and that the two talked in whispers. On one visit, Mrs. Foy stated, she surprised her husband and the prisoner while reading a letter. Coughlin was reading it aloud. As she entered from another room she caught the words: "Remove him at all hazards, but use your discretion."

Coughlin had staid two hours that night and then went away without speaking to her.

Mrs. Foy then told of two visits of Cooney at which he and her husband had held conversations in low tones, always with the door closed. The witness was asked if Martin Burke had visited her husband. She replied in the affirmative, telling of a visit before May 4 at which Burke had talked with her husband in the front room and in the hall. The next appearance of Martin Burke was on the night of May 6, 1889. As the witness made this statement Judge Wing objected. It was the bitterly fought point of yesterday. The court said: "I have decided to admit that evidence, but I instruct the jury to regard all acts of Martin Burke after May 4 as tending to show conspiracy and not bearing upon the guilt of Daniel Coughlin."

The witness said that on the night of May 12, some time after Cronin's disappearance, Coughlin called at her house and asked for her husband. She told Coughlin she was afraid her husband had been arrested, and he replied: "Oh, there is no proof against Andy. He's all right."

"I said," continued Mrs. Foy, "Coughlin this is an awful thing you have done. Dr. Cronin will do you more harm dead than alive." He laughed and said I need not worry.

"There is no danger," he said, "but you will be taken care of anyway, don't worry." I asked him who was to take care of me and my little children.

"Oh," he said, "don't mind about that. Alexander Sullivan is a good friend of your husband's and of mine and he will take care of you."

The deep silence in court at this point for a moment was broken by the prosecuting attorney resuming the examination and then a buzz of comment coming from the spectators, a number of whom excitedly declared the woman a "trained" witness.

"Coughlin came once before that time," continued Mrs. Foy "and told my husband what luck he had in fooling Captain Schaeck and Captain Schuetler about Dr. Cronin's body and where they had put it." The witness said that several times Coughlin had assured her that there was no danger of her husband being arrested and told her that if she would keep quiet she would be well taken care of. This ended her direct examination.

Judge Wing, of counsel for the defense, then subjected Mrs. Foy to a rigid cross-examination. For a half hour the attorney continued the cross-examination and was at last reprimanded by the court, Judge Tutthill declaring that Mrs. Foy was being treated differently from other witnesses and she was not receiving common courtesy. The court added:

"I wish this performance ended."

"I object to the remarks of the court," hotly replied Judge Wing. "There is nothing discourteous in my manner and I am examining the witness fairly." The cross-examination continued at length during the afternoon. She was closely plied with questions upon every side of her testimony but her story was not broken down nor any new features of importance brought out.

LUMBER MILL BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Four Men Killed and Three Others Seriously Injured.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22.—A most shocking accident occurred at noon today. The boiler of the lumber mill of the Alexandria Lumber company exploded, killing four persons outright and seriously wounding three others. The killed are:

J. M. WHITTLE,
LOUIS PALMER,
SHERRILL DUPES,
HARRISON CALDWELL.

Injured:

TOM BLAIR,
SOLOMON HENRY,
JOSHUA MASSEY.

Henry will probably die. The explosion came with terrific force, blowing the building to atoms. The remains of the killed were terribly mangled and found a long distance away. Caldwell's body has not yet been found and it is not believed it ever will be. The ill-fated mill stood on the bank of the river and the body was doubtless torn into atoms and blown into the stream. Huge fragments of the boiler were hurled hundreds of feet away, one of them striking and breaking timbers of the Marietta & Northern railroad bridge. The shocking accident casts gloom over the entire community.

COMMITTEE WILL INVESTIGATE.

Senate Committee Secures Honolulu Citizens as Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Nothing has been received at the state department from Minister Willis by the steamer Mariposa, which arrived at San Francisco yesterday. It is supposed at the department that the revenue cutter Corwin is now on her way back from Honolulu and it is expected that she will bring the reply of Minister Willis to the instructions sent him by the Corwin.

The senate committee on foreign relations will immediately begin the work of investigating the irregularity of the diplomatic relations between this country and the Hawaiian government as authorized by the resolution of Senator Morgan, chairman of that committee. The resolution as it passed the senate authorizes the committee to send for persons and papers and it is the purpose to investigate the subject as fully as is possible under the scope of the resolution and as the regular duties of the members of the committee will permit.

There are several residents of Hawaii now in the city, and it is the purpose of the committee to secure their testimony as soon as possible and before they leave here, consequently the committee will sit during the holidays, probably beginning next Tuesday or Wednesday.

EATEN BY AN EAGLE.

Colored Child Carried Away and Devoured by an Eagle.

SHELMA, Ala., Dec. 22.—The body of a three-year-old child of Henry Smith, colored, was found yesterday on a rocky cliff by a party of searchers who have been looking for it for a week. The child had been left alone and when an older child returned he saw an eagle with what appeared to be a child in its talons. The body was recognized by bits of clothing, the flesh being eaten from the bones. Numerous skeletons of animals were found at the same place.

ELECTION FRAUDS CHARGED.

Prominent New York Politicians May Be Arrested.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—It was officially announced in the district attorney's office that the extraordinary grand jury had today handed into court a big batch of indictments for frauds in several election districts during the last municipal election. It was said that thirty indictments has been found in election cases and that many of them were against prominent local politicians. A number of bench warrants have been issued and many important arrests may be looked for during the next few days.

SUMMONS CAME SUDDENLY.

Business Manager of Chicago Tribune Dies of Apoplexy.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—William T. Ogden, business manager of the Chicago Tribune, died at 1:30 o'clock this morning of apoplexy. He had been at the Douglas club during the evening and returning home at 11:30 o'clock lay down on the sofa before retiring. He was stricken just at midnight and failed to recover consciousness. Mr. Ogden entered the employ of The Tribune company over thirty years ago.

THEY OWN THE WHOLE TOWN.

Deputy Sheriff and Two Policemen Robbed by Tramps.

OSKALOOSA, Ia., Dec. 22.—A gang of fifteen tramps held up and robbed the deputy sheriff and two policemen here last night of all their valuables. One tramp was fatally shot and the officers were badly bruised. The town and vicinity is overrun with the vagabonds. The militia has been called out to protect the town.

RIO JANEIRO HAS FALLEN.

Rumor Reaches Pernambuco That Rio Janeiro Is Captured by the Insurgents.

PRESIDENT PEIXOTO SAID TO BE A PRISONER.

Wild Rumors of Startling Events Reach Pernambuco But Positive Facts Are Hard to Get.

INSURGENTS ARE VICTORIOUS.

PERNAMBUCO, Dec. 22.—[Copyrighted by the Associated Press.]—A report received here today states that the Brazilian government forces at Rio de Janeiro have suffered a crushing defeat, that the city has been captured by the insurgents and that President Peixoto is a prisoner. Official advices state that a severe engagement between the insurgents and the government troops had taken place at Itajhy, north of Desterro. The number of killed is said to be four hundred and in addition a very large number are said to have been wounded. The government forces are said to have captured the rebel Brazilian warship Maduro.

The most startling rumors are in circulation here, and as they come from various sources and directions it will seem that the report which is causing so much commotion is widespread.

According to the report which has reached here from Rio de Janeiro today the insurgent fleet, after two days of desultory fighting with the government troops, made a determined and successful attack upon Rio de Janeiro, which resulted in the capture of that city. It is added that President Peixoto has resigned the presidency in favor of Admal de Mello and that Peixoto is a prisoner in the hands of his enemies.

These are the facts of the affair at Rio as they have reached here. The Associated Press correspondent is doing his utmost to find out the real facts in the case but he is unable to obtain any reply to his message sent south and messages from the Associated Press correspondent at Rio Janeiro have apparently been interrupted, which would give color to the report that something of an extraordinary nature has occurred.

RUMOR NOT SUBSTANTIATED.

Not Known at Washington Whether Rio Janeiro Has Fallen.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Neither the state nor the navy department had received any news up to this evening indicating the capture of Rio and the downfall of President Peixoto, and at the navy department the opinion was expressed that Captain Picking would promptly notify the department of such an occurrence. The government here, however, for some days past has inclined to the belief that Peixoto was losing ground and that he was liable to meet serious reverses in a short time.

At the Brazilian legation it was stated that no news had been received and the rumors of Rio's capture were doubted. Ordinarily the legation receives advices each day, and something has apparently occurred in sending cable messages to the legation here.

IS AFTER THAT PENSION.

Case of Judge Long Brought up for a Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The first attempt to get a judicial determination of the legal right of the commissioner of pensions to suspend a pensioner from the rolls came up today before Justice Bradley of the supreme court of the District of Columbia. It is brought in the form of an application by Charles D. Long, a justice of the supreme court of Michigan, for a mandamus to compel Commissioner Lochren to restore him to his full rating at $72 per month. Justice Bradley issued an order on the commissioner to show cause why the mandamus should not issue and the writ being returnable today the matter was argued by counsel. Commissioner Lochren and ex-Commissioner Tanner were present and the legal array included Mr. E. B. Whitney, assistant attorney general, representing the government, and Mr. Thomas S. Hopkins of Washington and Mr. F. A. Baker of Detroit representing Judge Long.

HAS GOT A BLACK EYE.

Michigan State Inspection Law of 1893 Is Knocked Out.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 22.—The Michigan health board has just been given a terrific setback by the supreme court. The Minneapolis, St. Paul & Soo railway refused to inspect or allow the board to inspect immigrants baggage at the "Soo." The health board asked the court for a mandamus compelling the company to allow baggage to be held for inspection. This the court refused to do, thus knocking out the inspection law of 1893.

TRAIN ROBBERS FOILED.

Engineer's Presence of Mind Saves the Train from Robbers.

VINITA, I. T., Dec. 22.—An unsuccessful attempt was made this evening at Kelso, four miles north of here, to hold up a Missouri, Kansas & Texas train No. 3. A switch was open and the train ran upon a siding. This alarmed the engines and, knowing there was a spring switch at the other end of the siding, he applied full steam and ran through. Finding they were foiled the robbers, four in number, opened fire with their guns. One fireman, Charles Milne, was shot in the face and his lower jaw torn off, the wound being a serious one. The robbers then mounted their horses and rode away. Officers are in pursuit.

A TALENT FOR GOVERNMENT.

It is apparent from facts brought out by the Hawaiian unpleasantness that the Americans there are a remarkable body of men, with a decided aptitude for the business of governing other people.

The provisional government which was set up there with, it is charged, the assistance of our minister and an armed force landed from an American vessel, is composed almost wholly, if not wholly, of Americans.

Is it likely that an element of the population having so little numerical strength would have dared to undertake to revolutionize the government had not the presence of an American vessel in the harbor and the assurances of support from the American minister given their reason to believe that their adventure would not be attended with dangerous consequences to themselves?

We are now told that the provisional government has "an army of 1,000 men" ready to resist to the last any attempt to reinstate the dethroned queen.

An army of only 1,000 men out of a population of about 100,000, and with the sentiment of the entire population determinedly opposed to having the provisional government set aside!

It is certain that this county will find it "hard sledding" to take care of its unemployed before the winter is over, in spite of all that benevolent people are doing to relieve the suffering which exists here.

It is already obvious that the help we may get from the lower part of the state in response to the governor's proclamations will not go far toward providing for the destitution existing in portions of this peninsula.

It is now conceded that Swift would have been elected in the mayoralty contest in Chicago this week but for the A. P. A. crowd. They came out for him openly and raised the religious issue.

and 1891. This quantity must be increased by the requirements for replacing existing iron rails by steel ones. The world's mileage of rails of iron at the present day amounts to at least 70,000,000, which, added to the renewal amount, gives the 60,000,000 tons estimated.

WE LEARN from the Menominee Leader that the Marinette Iron Works Co. of Marinette has concluded to wind up its affairs and go out of business.

There is little talk of hard times in these cities, though they are affected to some extent by the general depression in trade, and they are doing something to help the poor elsewhere in addition to taking care of their own, notwithstanding the prospect that the duty on lumber will be removed.

"In nominating Wayne MacVeagh to be ambassador to Italy President Cleveland has sadly disappointed his party," remarks the Lansing Journal.

One of the astonishing facts in the field of industry is the marvelous power of machinery operated by hand. In the cotton trade, in 1880, the average product of every employe was something less than $700, while thirty years later he was able to produce a value of $1,200.

A WILD RIDE.

The Stirring Experience of a Kentuckian in the Cherokee Strip.

Terrific Scenes Witnessed in the Mad Rush for Land in the Newly-Organized Territory—Hard Times in Store.

Lieut. Arnold, who is attached to the staff of Gov. Brown, of Kentucky, recently arrived here from the Cherokee strip, where he was successful in securing a splendid claim, says the St. Louis Republic.

Arnold is a sunburnt, snawy-looking man of about forty. He said: "I was prepared for a tough experience, but, great heavens! not for what I saw and underwent. To begin with, thousands of men and women were kept forty-eight hours in the line endeavoring to register. The dust was simply awful. At the time the rush was made everyone was black and unrecognizable. There was hardly a drop of water to drink, and washing was an impossibility.

There was fighting and bloodshed enough to satisfy the very worst of the bad men from Bitter creek. Not far from my claim two men were quarrelling with drawn pistols, when a third interfered and endeavored to separate them. He got a shot through the wrist, and then the two proceeded to kill each other. I saw one fellow lying dead with a handkerchief drawn tightly around his neck. He had been strangled, and when searched four hundred and fifty dollars was found on him.

The committee of ladies from the different churches of this city succeeded in gathering together a number of large boxes of clothing, bedding, etc., for the Gogebic sufferers, which were packed Thursday and are now on the way there.

The full term of the Michigan Mining school closed yesterday. A vacation of two weeks will be taken by the students and many of them have already left for their homes to spend the holidays.

This evening occurs the Sunday school social in the basement of Grace Methodist church. Mrs. Collins of the high school has kindly consented to be present and help the children with some kindergarten games and a good time is promised those who attend.

The committee on entertainments appointed by the general relief committee has decided to give a grand Charity ball on the evening of Jan. 18, 1894, for the Gogebic sufferers.

The hours for the opening of the post-office Monday, Christmas day, are as follows: 8 to 9 a. m., 1 to 2 p. m., and 7 to 8 p. m. Paste this in your hat.

The public schools closed yesterday for a week's vacation. They will reopen Tuesday, Jan. 2.

The Mineral Range railway will run a special train from this city and Hancock to Red Jacket on the evening of Dec. 27 free to all holders of tickets to the grand Charity ball there.

The Quincy Excelsior band, the new organization started out but a short time ago under the able leadership of William Sanders, have progressed so nicely that their many friends have urged them to come before the public and show what they can do.

The Lyra Singing society are busily engaged in practicing the operetta to be produced at Germania Hall on the evening of Dec. 30, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the Gogebic sufferers. Tickets are on sale at the stores of E. Ryan, G. Rohrer, George H. Nichols and R. Barkell in this city and the Douglass House, Kroll's and Ruhl & Barry's, Houghton.

The holiday rates on the Mineral Range and Hancock & Calumet rail-ways will be one and one-third fare for round trip tickets where the fare exceeds ten cents. Children one-half of regular holiday fare. Tickets will be on sale Dec. 23, 24, 25, 26, 31 and Jan. 1, good to return up to and including Jan. 3.

The Hancock Whist club enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Dunstan Thursday evening.

Yesterday morning when the store of Silverman & Levy was opened for business the rush was enormous. The store room was so crowded that the door had to be locked and there was a large crowd always on the outside waiting to get in.

Superintendent S. B. Harris, Judge Jay A. Hubbell, Cashier J. B. Sturgis, James H. Seager, Superintendent Johnson Vivian and James R. Dee, directors of the Peninsula Electric Light & Power company, arrived here Thursday afternoon to examine the electric light plant at this place.

TAKING GOLD FROM ENGLAND.

Methods Which Attend Its Removal From the Bank and Shipment Across the Ocean.

Let us suppose that the London correspondent of a New York house receives a cablegram to ship $500,000 in gold. A clerk is sent to the bullion office, at the Lothbury end of the bank, to ascertain the selling price of gold bars, which lose less by abrasion during transportation than coin.

The bank may refuse to sell bars, but its selling price for eagles as all American coin is called, whether double, single or half eagles, may admit of their being taken more profitably than sovereigns, at the bank's selling price.

It pays better to ship eagles than sovereigns, as the former are available as currency upon arrival in New York, while the sovereigns must go to the assay office.

To fill the order it would be necessary to buy about 20,000 ounces, which would be weighed in the presence of the purchaser and handed over the counter, payment being required, whether for bars or foreign coin, in a check on the bank of England, payable to bearer, or as it is called here an open check, which is cashed by the bullion office, which you wait.

In case the bullion office refuses to sell bars or American coin, or fixes the price too high, sovereigns would be withdrawn for shipment. To do this it would be necessary to go to the issue department of the bank and present bank notes or a marked check drawn on the banking department. A marked check, which is seldom required in England, corresponds to the American certified check.

The paying teller at the issue department gives out the gold in bags containing a thousand full weight sovereigns, which are weighed on a delicately-adjusted scale, then placed on a handcart and delivered to the shipper in the courtyard of the bank, the bags being sealed.

Here the bank's responsibility ends, and the coin is left with the shipper, who now employs porters connected with the bank to pack the gold for shipment. Stout boxes made of inch-thick deal or pine, in sizes to hold 500 or 1,000 sovereigns (the latter being generally used for American shipment), are ready, and the shipper places the bags in the box, the porter nailing on the cover and the iron straps.

The boxes are sealed with the shipper's seal, numbered, and, as a rule, the consignee's name is cut on the box.

The freight room on an outgoing steamer being engaged, the steamship company is notified to send to the bank for the boxes of gold and their vans drive into the courtyard of the bank, where the shipper gets a receipt, the steamship company receiving the boxes at the bank and delivering them at the office of the consignee in New York at an inclusive freight charge of three thirty-second per cent. Insuring from the bank to the consignee costs about the same.

The relative return on shipments of sovereigns and American coin from London depends largely on whether the bank's stock of eagles consists of full-weight or light coins. If the double eagles turned the scales at 316 grains each, only $484,285 could be bought at the present rate for $1,000,000, while the same sterling sum would buy $485,495 in double eagles that had been abraded but a quarter of 1 per cent.

The fact that the bank had a large stock of light-weight coins, received from New York early in the year, admitted of their being taken for shipment to New York, where they would be available as currency upon arrival, instead of shipping sovereigns, which must be sent to the assay office in New York.

The melting charges are light, but every day's delay, with interest at 6 per cent, means a loss of $80, and three days' delay at the assay office is the usual estimate.

The average return from a lot of 100,000 sovereigns is about $485,700, so that the difference between shipping light-weight eagles and sovereigns is small, but when exchange is at such a figure that gold would be shipped at a loss unless it commanded a premium, as at present, it is important that it be available immediately upon arrival, so that the premium upon currency may be secured and the transaction be made profitable.—N. Y. Times.

THREATENED BY CRANKS.

Vice President Stevenson and Several Senators Receive Threatening Letters from Cranks.

POLISH ANARCHIST THE AUTHOR OF MOST OF THEM.

Two Letters Are Found at Abilene, Kan., Planning the Abduction of Little Ruth Cleveland.

CRANKS OUGHT TO BE CAGED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—A crank who signs himself as Joseph Donjam of 75 Passaic street, Newark, N. J., is wanted by the secret service of the government for writing threatening letters to a number of prominent officials of the government.

The letters were generally thrown away until at a dinner one evening Secretary Carlisle informed Mr. Stevenson that he had received several threatening letters from Donjam and that Senators Sherman and Mills also had been objects of attention on the part of the crank.

An unavailing search was made for him and then the matter was allowed to rest until Thursday when, upon receipt of another threatening letter to the vice president demanding $25 and saying that he was stopping at 105 Eutaw street, Baltimore, a telegram was sent to the chief of police in Baltimore advising Donjam's arrest.

"We have concluded to make two jobs out of the White House business. We will take the oldest child first. We can get her all right. Mollie will get her and hand her over to us and we will keep her until the reward is offered. It means thousands to us to get this child Ruth and we will get her, too, in January. Address me in Chicago. We will go right on."

"We have everything ready for the White House and will send Grover to Hades when the bugle sounds. We will also get our $20,000. Will start for the White House now. We five never failed in our job and won't now. There is much more in the houses of gold bugs and Vanderbilts."

TRESTLE BROKE DOWN.

Fatal Accident on the South Shore Road Yesterday Near Trout Creek.

ENGINEER WILLIAM TURNER DEAD OF HIS INJURIES.

He Jumped and Was Caught in the Wreck While His Engine Went Over Safely.

MARRIED BUT TWO MONTHS.
Engineer William Turner of this city was fatally hurt in an accident near Trout Creek yesterday afternoon and died within forty-five minutes after being drawn from the wreck. He was married only a little over two months ago and his young wife is left a widow ere she had more than fairly entered upon her married life.

An east-bound freight train was passing over a trestle bridge about three miles this side of Trout Creek about 4 o'clock. The bridge gave way beneath the train. Engineer Turner felt or heard the collapse and jumped. It was most unfortunate for him that he did so for his engine and the first car went over safely.

The next eleven cars plunged into the chasm and Engineer Turner was caught in the wreckage. The other members of the train crew promptly came to his assistance and soon extricated him from the wreck. Medical aid was summoned from Ewen and Aidaw and Chief Surgeon Northrop left with the wrecking train which was made up here. But it was of no avail for the unfortunate engineer died forty-five minutes after being taken from the wreck and before the doctors could reach him.

The fatal trestle is between Trout Creek and Withey Junction and is about 140 feet long and some ten feet high. What caused it to give way is not yet known here. Superintendent Lytle went up the line to Thomaston yesterday morning, was notified of the wreck there and went at once to the scene. Hence the usual detailed reports have not yet reached his office here. It is surmised by railroad men, however, that a wheel or axle broke two or three cars behind the engine and letting that car fall on the timbers took down the trestle and the train.

The wrecking train left here promptly and its crew were at work all night getting the trestle and track into shape. Both east and west-bound trains last night had of course to transfer passengers, mail, express and baggage at the wreck but it is thought the track will be cleared by this evening at the farthest.

Engineer Turner's body was expected here on this morning train. He had been in several minor derailments but always jumped off and escaped unhurt. He had many friends in the city and expressions of regret at his untimely taking off were numerous last night.

Presents That Never Go.
"Now some lady will be wondering why her friend has not secured that little Christmas present and be saying harsh things about 'those careless post-office clerks.'"

The speaker was Postmaster Midlam and he laid before THE MINING JOURNAL man a square, cream-tinted envelope. It was properly stamped and appeared to contain some small article that might be a pen-wiper or a dainty handkerchief or some other of those little trifles which women delight so much to make and to give and to receive. But on this envelope there was not one scratch of a pen to show for whom it was intended nor from whom it came.

"That is one of a dozen such mailed in the last two days," continued Mr. Midlam. "Absolutely the only thing that I can do under the circumstances is to send them all to the dead letter office at Washington. There they will be opened and if the senders have not omitted to give their names inside as well as outside they will in due time be returned to them. But if no trace of the sender can be found then this little Christmas gift will be laid away for two years and then sold at auction to the highest bidder. Meanwhile the lady who mailed this will wonder why her friend does not acknowledge its receipt. Maybe she will write to inquire and then two more people will blame those 'careless post-office clerks' for their own carelessness or even perhaps suspect if not accuse some hard-worked clerk or carrier of dishonesty."

The annual report of Postmaster General Bissell states that for the year ending June 30 last there were sent to the dead letter office 7,131,027 pieces of mail that for various reasons could not be delivered. Of this enormous number 35,918 letters were without any address whatever. The dead letter office alone has authority to break the seals of a letter.

WILL AID IN THE GOOD WORK

Ishpeming Ladies Will Assist in Distributing Clothing, Etc., to the Destitute.

COMMITTEES FOR THE PURPOSE WILL BE APPOINTED SOON.

Kept at Work Clearing the Streets—Got a Dose of His Own Medicine. Christmas at Churches.

THE LADIES WILL ASSIST.
 A number of the ladies of Ishpeming have consented to assist the city's relief committee in the distribution of clothing and other supplies among the destitute families here. The ministers of several of the churches are taking an active interest in the work and will also aid the committee in every way possible. They will endeavor to appoint committees of ladies from among their congregations to look after the wants of people belonging to their respective churches.

Mr. Jones has had his old office, situated four doors west of the express office, comfortably and conveniently fitted up as headquarters for the ladies. The supplies are stored there and shelves and tables are being arranged so that they may be kept in proper order. A committee of ladies from the Division street Methodist church met there yesterday afternoon and did considerable in the way of arranging supplies and attending to the wants of those applying for clothing.

Before any supplies will be given out at headquarters the applicant must prepare an order containing a list of the articles desired from the relief committee or the superintendent of poor. Mr. Allen, the superintendent of poor, was in town yesterday and furnished a number of families with material for their Christmas dinner. He made many families happy who but for the aid given would perhaps have spent a gloomy Christmas day. Mr. Allen states that the number of applicants for county aid is increasing slowly but steadily. He thinks that with the present system of looking after the needy everything will run quite satisfactorily from now on, and that everyone who is deserving of help will receive it promptly.

Keeping Them Busy.

The driver of the city hook and ladder team and his hags have been kept unusually busy during the past week or two. With the assistance of the street commissioner's force they are taking care of the snow and garbage in the streets and alleys quite satisfactorily, and they are delivering wood to the poor and doing numerous other odd jobs about the city besides. The street commissioner says he never before saw a team of horses that could get over more work in a day than this one. Thus far this winter they have taken care of all the city work with the exception of being assisted a few times in plowing the sidewalks.

Got Caught in the Act.

Thursday evening a disorderly chap, carrying a tremendous jag, strolled into the Swedish Salvation Army barracks and attempted to run the place in his own way. He was quickly and quietly ejected. After he struck the bottom of the stairs leading to the barracks and got comfortably on his feet again he ran against Officer Nolan, who started him homeward. As he was going along East Cleveland avenue, minding his own business and trying to carry his jag without falling all over the street, a young man, who evidently wanted a little fun, dealt him a blow and knocked him down. Then he proceeded to give the defenseless individual a thorough pounding, when the officer, who stood some distance away, taking in the proceeding, quietly stole up behind the fellow and gave him a drubbing that he won't soon forget.

Hampton and Miss Jessie Broad, soprano; Mrs. John Paul, Miss Alice Ropes and Mrs. E. B. Howard, alto; Messrs. George Tucker and C. H. Moss, tenor; and Messrs. M. W. Barringer, W. H. A BIT OF ROMANCING. A Railway Yarn That Causes the Trainmen of Negaunee and Vicinity to Smile Broadly. TERRIBLE STORY OF ADVENTURE THAT NEVER OCCURRED.

An Aged Lady's Mishap—Making Targets of the Arc Light Globes—Some Succulent Forkers.

HE WAS QUITE A HERO. For some time past the following story, which is looked upon as a very large joke by the railroad employes in this section, has been going the rounds of the press in the larger cities.

"The liveliest time I ever experienced was in chasing a runaway engine," said an old railroad man to a party of friends recently in the presence of a Cincinnati Commercial Gazette reporter. "I was an engineer on the Northern Michigan and Lake Superior line at the time," he continued, "and pulled a fast freight between Michigan and Menominee. We stopped at a little station called Maple Ridge one afternoon, as usual, for water, but had to wait a while for an engine which was taking water at the time. The fireman was on the tank and the engineer stepped down from the cab to do some oiling. The engine was ready to go out on a passenger train and had a high pressure of steam on. Suddenly there was a rush of steam, the smoke belched from the stack and the locomotive gave a leap forward as a horse would if prodded with a sharp stick. The fireman was thrown off and the engineer jumped aside to see the engine start down the track at an alarming rate of speed.

"We knew instantly what had happened. The pressure of steam had been so great as to blow the throttle open and let the steam into the cylinders full force. She was now running away, and we knew that she would go on at that alarming rate of speed until the fire died out under her boiler or she collided with some obstacle. What to do we didn't know. The runaway must be caught, and every second was valuable; probably lives depended on it. The operator had seen the engine start, and was already pounding desperately on his key to clear the track and notify the superintendent. Uncoupling our engine, I pulled the throttle open, the fireman shoved in the coal, and we started in pursuit. We had enough water in our tank to last for some time, and in Providence we began to overtake. We began the fastest ride I ever experienced. The runaway had about two miles the start of us, and for the first few miles at least would gain on us. Our hope lay in catching up with it for some distance and then gradually closing up the gap between us. If we passed the first few stations safely it was quite probable that the track would be clear for us after that.

"Campbell was the first station, and we whizzed by at a rate of speed which made the station appear like a little streak of brown. Five miles had been covered, and we felt sure we were holding our own in the exciting race. Three miles further we sped by the little town of Beaver, and Perkins, which is one mile further, seemed to be a part of the same place, and thus the race continued. As we proceeded we saw crowds of people gathered about the stations, who cheered as we passed, but their cheers scarcely reached our ears above the thundering of our locomotive. After we reached Negaunee, thirty-three miles from Maple Ridge, we began to expect some trace of the fugitive. We did not let up our speed and as there were no sharp curves we had a view of the track for a mile ahead. Finally, from behind a patch of timber, we sighted it bowling along at a very sharp rate, but I knew we were gaining on it fast. A piece of up grade was ahead, and we now felt that our prey was in our grasp.

"Gradually we drew up behind the runaway until not more than one hundred yards was between us. Both engines were going at a speed of twenty-five miles an hour, and I called to the fireman to take the throttle. Then I climbed down on to the pilot and waited for us to come up. When we touched there was a jar and I had a good opportunity to climb on board. Crawling over the coal into the cab I put off the steam, and the runaway engine was a captive again.

"The line on which this adventure is located is the Chicago & Northwestern, undoubtedly, as the stations named are on that line. The story was evidently manufactured, as the railroad boys who have worked on the road for years never before heard of that frightful runaway. According to the yarn it must have happened in recent years, as the road was extended to Michigan only about three years ago. Maple Ridge, where the alleged runaway engine started from, is only a few miles from Negaunee and there never was a watering tank there, which is sufficient proof that the story originated in some fellow's brain. A fast freight running between Michigan and Menominee is also something new to employes on the road.

Fell Into the Cellar. Mrs. John Truan accidentally fell into the cellar at her home on Thursday and fractured her hip. She was in the house alone at the time and it was with the greatest difficulty that she climbed out of the cellar again. After getting out she remained in the room entirely helpless for some time, until a member of her family came home, when a surgeon was sent for and the fracture reduced. Mrs. Truan is quite an elderly lady and not very strong, consequently her condition is quite critical.

Heavy Forkers. Winter & Suss yesterday morning received a carload of hogs from below. Among the lot were about a dozen that averaged 500 pounds each. It required three men to handle them. The firm has been short of pure lard of late and bought these hogs for rendering purposes. When they were being unloaded quite a crowd gathered around the market to see them. Winter & Suss have a nice assortment of beef, poultry, etc., for the holidays.

At the Rink. There will be skating this afternoon and evening, also Christmas afternoon and evening, at the Adelphi roller rink. The English Oak band will be in attendance each evening. Regular prices of admission will be charged.

Hard on the Globes. The kids at the "Patch" have broken so many arc lamp globes in that neighborhood of late that the Electric Light Company will cover them with a wire netting hereafter. Although the netting will not absolutely protect the globes it will interfere a little with the fun of vandals who find amusement in breaking them. The mischievous youngsters do just about as they please down in that neighborhood.

Reduced Rates. The Southshore road is offering a one and one-third fare, beginning today, to and from all points on that line for the holidays. Tickets will be sold today, tomorrow, Monday, Tuesday and one week from tomorrow. All tickets are good for return passage until Jan. 3, inclusive. The Chicago & Northwestern road is also offering reduced rates for the holidays. Further particulars can be obtained by applying to the local agents of the companies.

OPIUM FROM CANADA. Smugglers Working the Drug Across the Border Line.

In Spite of Government Precautions a Very Large Amount of the Narcotic is Secretly Brought Across.

A prominent Boston physician says that it would startle the people of Boston generally were it known to what great extent the use of opium had already gone in this city; not only among the Chinese, for it has been understood that this class of the population use the drug, but among the white residents. The physicians of this city have fought vehemently against the use of opiates to quiet children, and they have accomplished something in that direction; but it is still evident that a far larger quantity of opium is used in this city than is accounted for in the druggists' statement of sales. Says the Boston Advertiser: "More than one Boston physician could, if the principles of their profession allowed, give some grave facts regarding the ruin wrought by the drug in Boston homes. Now and then the police make a raid on some opium room, but their efforts have not succeeded in checking the use of opium to any extent. A special agent of the treasury said lately, in reply to some questions in this connection, that opium smuggling was carried on across the Canadian border to-day in spite of the arrest of so many gangs of smugglers in the past. The stuff can be bought for $6 a pound in Montreal and can be sold here at $10 or more per pound, according to its quality. The drug is easily carried in large weight, and one man can carry from twenty-five to fifty pounds and can escape detection. The trade of smuggling opium is, of course, a very profitable one, and the smugglers have about one thousand two hundred miles of border over which they can cross they have a good opportunity to do business without being caught. The favorite method of the smugglers is to take the train from Montreal to a way station not far from the boundary, and to cross the line in a carriage to some small station on the American side. In this way they escape the search of the regular customs officers whose duty it is to examine the luggage of railroad passengers at the boundary. Some smuggling is also done by hiding the opium in bulky packages of freight. At best the government has a small force of customs officers along the border, and the smugglers do a thriving trade. They can sell opium more cheaply than regular dealers, of course, and a large part of the opium used in Boston comes over the border without paying duty. Only ten years ago 27,000 pounds were imported into Canada. Last year the amount was about 150,000 pounds, and it is said that 100,000 pounds were smuggled across the line last year to United States consumers. In view of the increase in the use of opium in this section it is a matter of some interest that the Canadian government is at last considering the plan of putting a watch on the opium refineries in the dominion, practically compelling the refineries to carry on their work in bond under government inspection. If this should be done a prompt check would be put upon the smugglers and it would no longer be easy to get opium so cheaply in Boston. The great increase in price would serve to close up some of the opium 'joints,' and would probably put a check upon the growth of the opium habit."

M. Louis Bontou, a tutor at the Paris university, who has been for some time distinguished by his submarine investigations and zoological treatises on the Red sea, has now, says the Paris Figaro, succeeded in taking photographs in the depths of the sea. Descending by means of a diver's dress, this gentleman manages to carry with him a small camera specially constructed for the purpose. After trying for some time to operate in the natural light to be had at the bottom of the sea, he found that it was too weak to produce photographs, so he next attempted with magnesium to obtain a flash that would enable him to take by the instantaneous process. He contrived a small spirit lamp resting on a bottle of oxygen and covered by a glass shade, and into this lamp he threw some magnesium by means of an india-rubber ball which was pressed for the purpose.

At each flash thus obtained a photograph was produced. These experiments have been made in a quiet bay near the coast, in the ichthyological laboratory at Banyuise-Mer, but the success which has attended them leads to the hope that soon we may venture further ahead. Already dreams of automatic apparatus are not wanting which could be sunk and return with pictures of the deep sea such as no mortal eye has ever beheld. M. Bontou relates that while he was busy with his experiments large numbers of fish and other creatures that inhabit the depths of the sea gathered round the spot with evident curiosity about the nature of the proceeding. But they showed no fear. When he tried to touch or catch them they merely moved aside to evade his grasp, but were not disturbed, nor did they move away to any great distance from the spot in which they were interested.

An Old Orchard. In 1794 Joshua Pine settled on a farm near Walton, N. Y., and planted a fine orchard. Although it was nearly ninety-nine years ago when the trees were first planted, they do not show much signs of their great age, and a number of the trees are yet vigorous, giving promise of many years of life and fruitage. The largest measures 117 1/2 inches in circumference, the next largest 105 inches, and another 102 inches, all of which are bearing a good crop of fruit this year.

JOHN CLEGG'S CRIMES.
Thorough-Faced Scoundrel Who Stole and Swindled Wherever He Possibly Could.

STEALINGS SPENT FOR WHISKY AND ON LEWD WOMEN.

Systematic Thief Caught at Last—Dull-Eyed Deputy Sheriff Failed to See Him Escaping.

DESERVES THE LAW'S LIMIT.

John Clegg, the embezzling deputy postmaster of Atlantic Mine, arrived here yesterday in the custody of Deputy Marshal George Q. Allen of Chicago and accompanied by Postoffice Inspector James D. Wood. Clegg was picked up by the police of Galena, Ills., from descriptions sent out by Sheriff Dunn of Houghton county. He has been in and about Hurley most of the time since his disappearance from Houghton. He has relatives at Elizabeth, a town near Galena, and was doubtless making his way there when arrested. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Francis M. Moore last evening, waived examination and was held in $2,000 bail to the United States district court, which will meet in July. Meanwhile, unless he can furnish bail, he will lie in the jail here.

According to the information obtained by Inspector Wood while working on the case Clegg seems to have been a most systematic thief. He kept his money order cash all straight so that a casual inspection of the office would not disclose any shortage. By means of systematic false entries in the books he kept them apparently balanced. But he stole right and left wherever he could without immediate detection. The complaint against him charges stealings of $750 but as many of his thefts were of money paid for foreign money orders it may be six months or more before the full extent of his crime can be known.

Clegg was well-known in the copper country, having lived there twenty years or more. He had a wife and several children. A few years ago he removed to Colorado but developed a disease of the throat in those high altitudes and returned to Lake Superior. Two or three applicants for the postmastership at Atlantic Mine were unable to qualify and the office was finally in a manner forced upon Mr. A. D. Edwards, clerk of the Atlantic Mining company. Mr. Edwards' other duties did not allow him to give his personal attention to the postoffice and he appointed Clegg his deputy and gave him all he could make out of the place. He made so much that a shortage of about $1,000 which he must make good stares Mr. Edwards in the face.

In the latter part of September Mr. Edwards went to the World's Fair. After a few days Clegg went down to Houghton and proceeded to go on a spree. While on this carouse he sent a package containing $375 and two silver watches to his wife, who was visiting relatives at Elizabeth, Ills. The first night Clegg spent at a house of ill-fame near Houghton and in the morning requested one of the girls to count his money. She says that he then had $137. He went down town and returned to the same house in the evening and said he wanted to lie down and rest awhile. Meanwhile his brother-in-law has come in from the mine, having heard that Clegg was on a drunk, and had sent the marshal of Houghton to this house after Clegg. The latter told the marshal that he would come as soon as he could put on his coat and wash his face. This was about 9 o'clock in the evening and no one suspected as yet that Clegg was a defaulter. But Clegg seems to have thought the game was up, for while the marshal was waiting for him in the parlor he slipped out the back way and vanished. From that day until he was arrested in Galena this week nothing more was heard of John Clegg.

While Clegg was on his debauch in Houghton Mr. Edwards returned from the World's Fair, rather sooner than he was expected. He found his deputy missing and when he did not return began to investigate and soon discovered things in the office that looked suspicious. Meanwhile Mrs. Clegg had received the express package with the $375 and the two watches. What led her to suspect that something was wrong is not known but she took the first train to Houghton. At the Houghton postoffice she inquired if John Clegg was still deputy at Atlantic Mine and was told that they supposed he was. She drove out to the mine and found that Mr. Edwards was just waking up to the fact that on the way out she had wrong with the postoffice. She turned over the $375 and the two watches to Mr. Edwards without it being demanded. In fact no one knew she had the money until she said so and paid it over. It may be that she hoped that was the extent of her husband's wrong-doing and thought to settle the matter by giving up the plunder.

Meanwhile Mr. Edwards had notified the department and Inspector Wood came on at once. He traced Clegg through his spree at Houghton to the house where the marshal found him. The railroad employees were thoroughly questioned and all declared that John Clegg had not gone out of Houghton on any train. It was found that Clegg had during his spree gone into a barber shop and had his full beard removed and his mustache trimmed close. Even when apprised of this change in his appearance the railroad men were still positive that he had not left the country. A man was found who declared that he had seen Clegg about forty rods from the house of prostitution mentioned above, walking on the railroad track beside Portage Lake. There all trace was lost and the natural supposition was that Clegg, believing from the visit of the marshal that the game was up, had ended his vicious career by a plunge in the waters of Portage Lake. So completely was all trace of him lost that Inspector Wood was led by that and by facts learned as to his dissolute habits to adopt the theory of suicide and so reported to the department.

John Clegg, however, had no idea of ending his worthless existence by making a hole in the water. According to his own story, as told to Deputy Marshal Allen, he walked about ten rods farther down the track and then turned off to another house of shady reputation where he spent the night. The next day he quietly walked down to the South Shore depot and took the train for Nestoria. He changed cars and went to the Gogebic range and stayed in and about Hurley until his money began to give out. Then he headed southward and was finally recognized and run in by the Galena police. This is Clegg's own account of his wanderings since leaving Houghton and there is no particular reason to doubt its truth. He also told with considerable relish how he rode all the way from Houghton to Nestoria and some distance westward in the next seat to a certain Houghton county deputy sheriff who was in and out of the train at every station but never recognized Clegg. It seems rather curious that the Galena officers should have been able to recognize Clegg by description while the Houghton county officer and the railroad employes passed him by as a stranger and could not remember having seen him even when informed of the change in his appearance.

What Clegg did with the money he stole is not altogether certain but most of it was undoubtedly squandered on whisky and lewd women. He was not often seen drinking to excess in public but about eighty empty bottles found under the floor of a shed back of the Atlantic postoffice told a tale of much quiet soaking. That he had friends among the disreputable class at Houghton ready to protect and conceal him appears from his own story. In order to win the friendship of this class he must have left considerable stolen money in their dens of infamy.

As said before Clegg was a systematic thief. A letter from Mr. Edwards which Inspector Wood found waiting him here stated that the shortage was growing larger. He had just found where about Sept. 1 Clegg had sold a money order for $100, entered it on the record as $10 and pocketed $90. Three such cases discovered showed a total shortage of $130. This was what induced Inspector Wood to ask Commissioner Moore to raise Clegg's bail from $1,000, the amount fixed by Commissioner Hoyne at Chicago, to $2,000. Clegg was also collector at Atlantic of the Northern Michigan Building and Loan association of Hancock. In many cases he pocketed the installments paid him by shareholders and reported them delinquent. Then he stole numerous letters sent from the head office at Hancock to stir these alleged delinquents, which if delivered would have apprised the victimized shareholders that something was wrong. He also collected insurance premiums and reported the policies as lapsed, thus leaving people who had paid to have their property protected without any protection whatever.

Clegg is a nervous and red-faced little man. He was seen last night by a MINING JOURNAL reporter but declined to make any statement. A more mean and contemptible scoundrel than John Clegg, judged by his record, has not often been within the walls of the Marquette county jail. His stealings from the government must of course be made good by Mr. Edwards, who gave him a comfortable position and whose trust he betrayed. But he has also swindled out of small sums a number of poor people who have no recourse whatever. He robbed every one he could and stole wherever he thought he could escape detection. He has brought shame and sorrow upon his innocent children and upon a wife too good for so pitiful a wretch. He surely deserves every minute of the sentence he will undoubtedly get at the next term of the United States court.
