Bedford, Dec. 25.—Reports from various parts of this county indicate that yesterday's earthquake lasted eighteen or twenty seconds. In many places houses were shaken to such an extent as to seriously alarm the in-mates. The shock appears to have traveled in a southeasterly direction and was most perceptible to those per-sons living near the mountains.

THE RAJAH OF SARAWAK.

How the Son of an Eastern Clergyman Became an Eastern Potentate.

The life of the first rajah, Sir James Brooke, K. C. B., K. C. M. G., LL. D., reads like a romance such as Stevenson or Verne might write. His was a wild, reckless nature that in his youth made him dissatisfied with the quiet of his own English home and with the even tenor of the days about his father's vicarage. He entered the English army, and was dangerously wounded in leading a charge against a detach-and China. He wrote a valuable jour nal of his wanderings, and returned home fired with the thought of explor ing the then unknown islands of the Pacific. The sight of the millions of acres of rich, untilled land that were embraced within the boundaries of some of these islands populated by a race of peaceful, indolent beings, and claimed by no European power raised in his mind dreams of a great East Indian empire.

The death of his father left him with property worth $150,000. In spite of the protests of his friends, he very soon proceeded to fit out a small schooner, manned and armed it and sailed for Singapore, and thence to the northwest coast of Borneo, landing at Kuching, on the Sarawak river, in 1838. A field of conquest and a hope of empire at once dawned upon him. The province of Sarawak, a dependency of the sultan of Brunel, was governed by an old native rajah, whose throne was menaced by the fierce, head-hunting Dyaks of the interior. Brooke saw his chance and cast his fortunes with the weak but rightful ruler. After many marches with his little crew and an army of natives through the almost impenetrable rubber jungles and after many hard-fought battles the rebels were dislodged from their forts and order was restored. The young general then interposed between the combatants, and protected the defeated from the revenge of the victors, thereby win-ning the gratitude of the former and the confidence of both sides.

The sultan conceived a great liking for Brooke and, finding that his native rajah could not rule the province, he arranged that Brooke should become rajah of Sarawak as an independent

Upon his accession to power Rajah Brooke set about to reform abuses and build up the country. He abolished military marauding, did away with every form of slavery, established courts, missions and school houses, and waged fierce war against head hunting and piracy. Head hunting was a remarkable and extraordinary custom of the native Dyaks. They strove to secure heads to KITTANING, Pa., Dec. 25.—A fire this Robbers Hold Up a Train and Get Ten decorate their houses, much as the American Indian longed to go hunting for scalps. Wonderful Selenium Deposits Discovered in Utah.

If somebody should find a diamond as big as a football, his discovery would hardly be more unexpected than Utah, relating to a kind of crystals, however, far less precious than diamonds. The discovery referred to is that of a deposit of selenium found near the Fremont river in a mound-like elevation formed by the washing and wearing away of the clay and sand surrounding it.

Selenide crystals are formed from Selenide crystals are formed from the rare element selenium, which is related to sulphur, and was discovered in 1817 in the refuse of a sulphuric acid factory by the celebrated chemist, Berzelius.

"But, my dear, did you hear the joke they had on Mrs. Clark," exclaimed the first woman. just terrible. You must have heard about it, because it got in all the comic papers. I think it just awful the things they print in the papers anyway. The story was this: When Sir Edwin Arnold, the poet, came to Minneapolis, Mrs. Clark gave him a big reception. There was a great crowd there, and just in the midst of it Mrs. Clark turned to Sir Edwin and said: O. Sir Edwin, I have always wanted to meet you so much. THE CHRISTMAS STORM.

Christmas was ushered in and bowed out by a terrific snow storm. At noon Sunday the blizzard began and continned all night and yesterday and last night, piling snow up to and above the fence tops on many of the thoroughfares throughout the city. There have been a number of severe storms this winter, but the Christmas blizzard was the worst Negaunee has experienced to Friday night. date. All trains on both railroads were late yesterday, though all were drawn by two engines. The south-bound passenger on the Chicago & Northwestern road had hard work to get out of the road had hard work to get out of the lishpeming yard with two engines attached last evening. The early morning freight train spent over an hour trying freight train spent over an hour trying to get out of the snow drifts in the Ispeming yard and finally an extraengine had to be taken out of the round house to assist the one hauling the train. Shortly after noon yesterday a snow plow came up from Escanaba and returned late in the afternoon ahead of the passenger train. At Escanaba it is said that it rained all Sunday and yesterday, while something like a foot and a half of snow fell here.

The storm caused disappointment all around. Many who had arranged to visit friends or attend services at the were hes during the day or evening churecompelled to remain at home.

CHANCE TO HELP OURSELVES. To THE MINING JOURNAL: I notice an article in your paper of last Saturday advocating an extra session of the legislature for the purpose of authorizing the counties to issue bonds for the relief of their poor and destitute people. This seems to me a move in the right direction and should be considered by the different boards of supervisors and the people of this peninsula at

Charles E. Spencer was at one time

Mr. Spencer's knowledge of land values, of township tax-eating schemes and of all the tricks and manners of township boards in getting money to squander out of non-resident property owners was probably as great if not greater than that of any man in this peninsula. He could talk very clearly and entertainingly upon many subjects but taxes and taxation was his specialty and he furnished The Minise Journal with the material for several articles concerning certain needed reforms in real estate taxation that were quite widely copied.

their power to relieve our destitute miners but owing to the tack that the principal cities have all they can do to take care of their own poor we can not expect continued aid from them, while the futurers are generally close-fisted and not as liberal with donations as the city folks.

A colleague of mine from Detroit, who is now holding office under Mayor Pingree, writes me under date of the 14th inst: "We have about twelve thousand men out of work; our poor fund is exhausted, and I think it is about all we can do to take care of our own." He urges me to request the governor to call a special session to enable us to provide for our people.

Governor Rich writes me under date of the 18th inst.: "I have just issued a proclamation requesting systematic organization for relief for the miners. So far not much has been realized but I hope there will be in the near future. As the matter stands the calling of an extra session will be the last resort, or far not much has been realized but I hope there will be in the near future.
