Counsel for Defense Using Every Effort to Break Down Her Testimony.

HAD ONCE SAID HER HUSBAND WAS AN ANARCHIST.

It is Claimed That She Demanded Money From the Prosecution for Giving Her Testimony.

WAS SHE HIRED TO TESTIFY?

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Crowds surged through the corridors and attempted to gain entrance to the court room when Mrs. Andrew Foy today was to be cross-examined in the Coughlin trial. Ex-Judge Wing subjected the witness to a severe questioning. She was interrogated as to Coughlin's visit to her husband on the night of May 9 and admitted that she heard nothing suspicious in the conversation. Mrs. Foy was asked about Coughlin's visit on the next night and testified to having heard the defendant telling her husband about the search for Cronin's body. She repeated her story of the visit of May 12 when she claims that Coughlin said her husband was in danger and that even if he (Foy) was arrested she would be well cared for by Alexander Sullivan, etc. After a few more questions regarding subsequent visits ex-Judge Wing advanced a step towards the witness and asked impressively:

"What promises has the prosecution made to you for testifying?" Mrs. Foy had apparently anticipated the question and replied dramatically:

"Before God and man I swear the prosecution has not promised me anything." The attorney asked then:

"You don't love your husband, do you?"

"No, sir, I don't," she replied curtly. "I see the prosecution has filled your house with policemen lately."

"No, sir, my house is not full of policemen."

In reply to the next question Mrs. Foy admitted that her husband left her three weeks before policemen began guarding her house. She said she did not like Coughlin and was noticeably disconcerted when the attorney asked her if she did not at one time send her regards to him while he was in jail. Recovering herself, she said that was a joke. "Those were sarcastic regards," she said. A murmur of excitement ran through the court room when Judge Wing asked Mrs. Foy:

"Is it not a fact that you have accused your husband time and again of being the man who threw the anarchist bomb several years ago?"

The attorneys for the prosecution were instantly on their feet protesting against the question and shouting to the witness not to answer but she cried out excitedly:

"Before God, I never did. I never did."

"Now," went on Judge Wing, "did not you say that you would go down to Judge Grinnell and place your husband alongside of spies and Parsons by what you could tell of him?"

"No, sir," exclaimed Mrs. Foy despite the protests of the attorneys for the prosecution. Judge Wing then sprang a sensation by advancing to the witness with a letter in his hand and asking Mrs. Foy:

"Did you write that letter?" States Attorney Bottum sprang up in surprise. Against his protest the witness quickly took the letter and read it.

"Yes," she admitted reluctantly after a silence, "that looks like my writing."

"And did you mail that letter to Attorney Forrest?"

"I guess I did."

States Attorney Bottum wanted to have the letter read aloud at once but Judge Wing stated that he would introduce it in evidence later. Judge Wing then presented another letter and asked if it was not written by Foy. This also the witness admitted after considerable hesitation. Then the defense took up another subject and the excitement occasioned by the introduction of the letters had scarcely passed away when a fresh outbreak occurred. Judge Wing asked the question:

"Now, Mrs. Foy, did not the prosecution give you any money?"

"I object," interposed Attorney Bottum.

"Let her give the answer," cried a heavy voice from near the reporters' table. Every one in the court room turned in astonishment. Attorney Daniel Donahue of counsel for the defense was the first person to discover the source of the remark.

"Mr. Devoy will you please stand up," he said. It was then seen the remark had come from John Devoy, one of the members of the Cronin committee.

"Does the court command me to stand up," asked Mr. Devoy.

"Did you make the remark," asked Judge Tutthill.

"I did."

"You must not interrupt the trial, Mr. Devoy," ruled the judge mildly. Mr. Devoy apologized, explaining that he addressed his remark to Mr. Bottum. The defense was not satisfied with the mild rebuke the court had administered and suggested that he ought to be excluded from the court room. Judge Tutthill, however, decided that as a newspaper man and a member of the Cronin committee Mr. Devoy was entitled to a place in the court room. Mrs. Foy was questioned by Judge Wing as to whether she knew John Devoy, admitted that she was well acquainted with him. The defense then proceeded to lay the foundation for testimony tending to impeach Mrs. Foy.

"Do you know George A. Burgley, formerly a detective and working under ex-States Attorney Longenecker?" asked Judge Wing of the witness. Mrs.

Foy's manner changed perceptibly and she stammered that she thought she knew the man.

"Did he visit you in 1891?" The witness murmured something about "two or three visits." The first letter produced by Judge Wing and which Mrs. Foy admitted having written was obtained by the reporters at this point. It is as follows, marked "Strictly private, in haste":

Mr. Forrest: I see and hear of you going to Ottawa in October next. Well, I want to tell you that before that time Dr. Cronin's murder will be no longer a mystery as I am in full possession of all the facts about it and what is more, I am the wife of one of the chief conspirators and I know the principals in the cruel murder, also their names and have talked with the most of them, and I am going to make a sworn statement of all I know in a very short time unless I get some reward for it. I have suffered since that fatal night that I sat up waiting for the father of my children to come home in the morning and then he told me he was helping to remove a soul to eternity. His dirty story of spy and traitor would not suit me as it did lots of more ignorant people. I knew he was a better man than any of the scoundrels that killed him, which I can prove by their own actions. As for my husband, he has become a human monster; he has scarcely ever been a full night in his own house since the murder. He has become a drunkard and an outcast and I have gone through more care and suffering than I thought any human being could bear. He left the house on Saturday night and promised to come in a few hours but he came at half past five o'clock in the morning and he did the same last night, and he knows I won't sleep, no matter how long he is out and I am in very poor health and poor in pocket and every way. So I have made up my mind to put me to rest so at once for I have made up my mind and I am going to do as I say.

P. S.—If you wish to answer me put a personal in the paper, The Evening and Morning News, a friend of justice, and I will answer it.

No name is signed and the latter bears the date of June 28, 1892. The second letter is also unsigned, addressed to Mr. Forrest and dated Jan. 31, 1893. In it the writer says satisfaction must be had or all will be told and ends as follows:

"If you want to answer me, you can do so, but do it at once. Give Dan my regards."

After the presentation as evidence of the two letters both sides announced that they were through with Mrs. Foy and she left the stand.

Mrs. Louisa Hermann succeeded Mrs. Foy in the witness chair. She testified to having seen Patrick O'Sullivan at the Conklin residence on North Clark street on the morning after the alleged murder.

John O. Lindren, the son-in-law of the old Carlson couple, who own the famous cottage, testified to the rough and hasty painting of the cottage floor shortly after the murder is said to have been committed.

Tomorrow experts will testify regarding the similarity of the stains in the cottage which were not painted over and the bloody marks found in the trunk.

WINNEPEG, Man., Dec. 26.—The chief of police received a telegram on Monday from the state's attorney at Chicago requesting that D. S. McKinnon, clerk of the police station, be sent to Chicago, to give evidence in the Cronin murder trial. McKinnon left for Chicago this morning. He was a witness against Burke during the memorable trial in Chicago some years ago.

WAS THE CALL LEGAL?

Colorado's Governor Calls Extra Session of the Legislature.

DENVER, Dec. 26.—Governor Waite called an extra session of the legislature yesterday the 25th. As Christmas day is a legal holiday in this and all other states of the Union the question is being asked: Is the call legal and binding? The courts will probably be asked to decide the matter at once.

The Republican today calls Governor Waite a fool for calling the legislature together and asks that body to adjourn immediately after its assemblies.

DENVER, Dec. 26.—The Denver newspapers unite in the demand that the legislature shall immediately adjourn when it meets in special session in accordance with Governor Waite's call on Jan. 10.

COUNTERFEITER CAUGHT.

He Made Bad Money Out of Good Silver Tea Pots.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 26.—Harrison county has been flooded for the past three months with dangerous counterfeit silver dollars, halves and nickels. Today a leader of the gang was brought before Federal Commissioner Pollock at this place. Witness swore that he manufactured the spurious coin out of old silver tea pots and watch cases and his organized gang passed the stuff. He failed to give bond in the sum of $5,000. The officials expect more arrests to follow. A full outfit of dies and counterfeiters' tools was captured.

THIS MAN TAKES THE CAKE.

Wanted Policemen to Accompany Him While He Killed a Man.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—A man giving his name as Timothy Kane, aged thirty-five years, of 1776 Third avenue, called this morning at the East One Hundred and Fourth street police station. He announced that he was going to kill the Rev. Dr. Chas. P. Parkhurst and he wished two policemen to accompany him and arrest him after the deed. An examination as to his sanity will be made.

PUNISHMENT CAME SPEEDILY.

Murdered a Man and Was Soon After Killed in Turn.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 26.—John Williamson and Doc Adams had a drunken brawl at Ewart today. Williamson shot and killed Adams. Sheriff Davis attempted to arrest Williamson who resisted and shot at the officer. The officer returned the fire and Williamson fell dead.

CAPTURED THE CANNIBALS.

Man Eating Savages of Pentecost Island Sentenced to Imprisonment for Life.

FOUR AMERICAN SHAMEN WERE MURDERED BY THEM.

Bones of Many Human Victims Are Found Bleaching on the Sands at Pentecost Island.

THEY WILL DO NO MORE HARM.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—An officer of the British gunboat, Boomerang, writing from Sidney, N. S. W., gives an account of the punishment inflicted on the Pentecost island cannibals and the murder of four members of the crew of the American schooner Don Henry last September. The cannibals also murdered a portion of the crew of a French vessel. On learning these facts, the Boomerang and a French warship landed detachments of marines and defeated the cannibals in several engagements and burned their villages.

The French and British commanders also captured those directly implicated in the murders and they were all sentenced to imprisonment for life at the French convict settlement at Noumea. At Pentecost Island alone over thirty white men have been massacred and robbed and large quantities of human bones and other remains were found, indicating beyond a doubt that the cannibals had had other victims.

OBJECT TO "OCTROI" DUTIES.

Citizens of Sicily Resist Officers by Mob Violence.

PALERMO, Dec. 26.—The rioting against the Octroi duties at Lercara di Freddi continues. A crowd assembled before the mayors residence shouting "Down with the Octroi." The rioters assaulted the gendarmes with stones and hatchets. Troops were called out and fired upon the crowd and dispersed the rioters, after four people had been wounded. It is said that the riots are organized by people from the outside and that the local working people do not participate in them.

PALERMO, Dec. 26.—At Caltanissetta riots followed the arrest of a man who was charged by the police with exciting the inhabitants of the commune of Valvarena to rebel against the local authorities. The man struggled violently after being arrested by the gendarmes and called upon the people to rescue him. The gendarmes were roughly handled while attempting to escort their prisoner to the barracks and drew their revolvers and fired into the air. This enabled the gendarmes to reach the barracks but thousands of rioters attempted to storm the building and were repulsed by the officers. This repulse only served to still further enrage the people and they returned, set fire to the town hall, the Casino, the residences of the commissary of police and of the mayor and the telegraph office, postoffice, octroi bureau and to the police court, causing a large amount of damage.

RIGHT KIND OF CHARITY.

San Francisco Salvationists Fed the Poor on Christmas.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—The Salvation Army here attempted to carry Christmas cheer into San Francisco's darkest homes and gladdened the hearts of thousands in the city who have no homes or shelter. In the former dive on Grant avenue recently transformed into the Salvationist station tables were arranged to seat 450 people. In this place over 2,500 hungry men and women were given a Christmas dinner. Besides these over one thousand baskets, each containing tea, coffee, sugar, rice, sago, beans, milk, candies, fruit, soap, mustard, macaroni, butter, roast of mutton or beef, nuts and candies to the value of $250, were sent out to suffering families. For this work the Salvationists had collected a fund of about $8,000.

REMEMBERED THE POOR.

Duluth Bank Makes a Donation to Several Local Charities.

DULUTH, Dec. 26.—One of the local banks, the American Exchange, made a Christmas gift of $2,500 to half a dozen local charities, the Bethel and two hospitals. The gift was entirely unexpected and was voted by the directors Saturday. It is from the bank's usual annual dividend of 10 per cent.

PRESIDENT MAKES A JOURNEY.

He Went Down the Potomac Accompanied by Several Friends.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—There was no session of the cabinet today. The president was busy in preparation for departure from the city. He took a boat for a trip down the Potomac. His destination was kept a secret. The president was accompanied by Secretaries Gresham and Carlisle and Captain Robley D. Evans of the lighthouse board. They will enjoy duck shooting for several days and return the last of the week. Although there was no cabinet meeting a number of cabinet officers called on the president before the usual hour for cabinet meeting.

INSPECTING ALL BAGGAGE.

French Railway Officials Are Afraid of Dynamite.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—In consequence of threatening letters received by officials of the Western Railroad, announcing the writer's intention of blowing up several stations, the baggage of passengers is subjected to keen scrutiny and other precautions are taken to prevent an explosion. This announcement has caused alarm among the travelling public and is leading to the further enforcement of repressive measures against the anarchists.

MARQUETTE, MICH., DECEMBER 27

Entered as mailmatter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

A Boston paper notes that a member of the A. P. A. order at Fall River, Mass., has been expelled because he supported William Moran, a Catholic, for the legislature, and now he proposes to tell all he knows about the order and its methods. The tale will be an interesting one when it is finally unfolded, that is if the expelled member knows enough to tell it well. The general character of the membership of that vicious organization justifies a doubt on that point.

A CHANGE in the management of the Houghton County Progress has taken place by which Mr. E. P. Kibbee ceases to have connection with the paper and Mr. Tipton becomes its editor and business manager. As the paper announces that Mr. Kibbee has no authority to collect money on account for it and that receipts given by him will not be accepted as evidence of a settlement of claims against those who owe it, the presumption is warranted that the connection between Kibbee and his late associate was not amicably dissolved. Mr. Kibbee is a very capable newspaper man in some respects, but he has ways that are very trying to a person who may happen to be connected with him in business.

WE OBSERVE that the Escanaba Mirror is keeping up its fight on the pack of tax-eaters who keep an unyielding grip on Iron county. It isn't always that The Mirror selects objects for its terrific denunciations with such judgment but it has THE MINING JOURNAL'S entire sympathy in the assaults that is making on rotten officials of that unfortunate bailiwick. There is not a more rascally lot of boodlers in the whole state of Michigan than those who have fastened their tentacles on Iron county and are fattening on the substance of its tax-payers, and if The Mirror can do anything toward breaking their hold it will be rendering common decency and the people of that county an inestimable service.

THE Cleveland Plaindealer, which has been accustomed to express its gratification over Democratic victories by plastering its entire front page over with roosters of every size and breed, isn't as happy as it might be just now. Its woe is because of the Wilson tariff bill, of which it plaintively says:

In the name of common sense why should the Wilson bill become a law when ostensibly it was designed as a revenue bill and at the same time decreases the revenue at least $75,000,000 per year? What is that bill for if not for revenue? Certainly it is not a revenue bill when on its very face it reduces the revenue which it ought to increase. During the war we had income taxes. They were started for war purposes. We don't see any reason why war taxes under the tariff or war taxes under an income should be perpetuated or re-established. Better reform the tariff on the line of economical laws and not enlarge the free list. The tariff is a tax and taxes are for revenue, therefore tax foreign imports, especially those in competition with our own industries.

With the re-assembling of congress after the holiday vacation will come the tug of war on the Wilson tariff bill. Both the majority and minority reports on the measure have now been given to the public, and we all know what the Democrats have to say in defense of their tariff reduction propositions and their opponents against these. It is quite likely that the bill will pass the house substantially as introduced, but its fate in the senate is problematical, as the Democrats have but a bare majority in that body and several of the Democratic senators are not well disposed toward the administration, besides disapproving of the bill in its present form. Republicans can well afford to remain indifferent to the result, from a partisan point of view, for if the Democrats pass the bill they will destroy their chances of continuing in power in the nation in case it proves as destructive a measure as the leaders of the Republican party declare it to be, while if the Democrats fail to pass it they will be open to the charge of insincerity. If they meant what they said in the campaign of last year they ought to pass the bill at once, and if they did not they imposed shamefully on the people.

ALL IS NOT yet known about the Hawaiian difficulty, and so far as this paper is concerned it does not propose to waste space in discussing it further until there are some additional developments. It has indicated its belief as to the facts and its opinion on the course pursued by the president and his secretary of state, and there it proposes to rest until it has further data on which to base a final judgment. It is in accord in the position it has taken with some Republican papers and some of the opposite political persuasion, while others on both sides hold in opposition to it. If it is wrong that will be made to appear by and by and it will come down as gracefully as it may, and if it finds itself right it will look for those who are in the wrong to be equally honest and manly. Meanwhile the provisional government is in the saddle and ex-Minister Stevens, having become a celebrity, is in great demand and has just been secured as one of the prominent attractions for the Michigan club's annual banquet. But the world maintains its equilibrium just the same. There is no occasion, after all, for us to work ourselves into a hysterical condition over affairs in that "suburb of San Francisco blown out to sea"—some 2,000 miles.

THE United States Investor has this to say of the condition of the iron and steel markets and the outlook for these industries during the coming year:

The condition of the iron and steel markets is held to indicate the pulse of general business. While the activity in these lines is far behind that of last year, there have, nevertheless, been certain indications lately of a better business. We have heard of a New England railroad which has recently ordered six thousand tons of steel rails, to say nothing of the large order which the Pennsylvania has placed. The latter road is in the habit every year of contracting for a large amount of rails, and would be the least likely of almost any road in the country to withhold its annual order on account of hard times. But when smaller roads begin to place their orders more freely, it would look as if the demand for steel rails might before long attain considerable size. The rigid economies which most of the railroads of the country have been practicing during the past year will, we should think, necessitate large orders next year; and this, we should suppose, would be the case even were railroad traffic to remain at a low point. It is in this way that general business is likely to become native again. Commodities of an indispensable character will be purchased first, and the activity arising from this source will create new needs, which will make their influence felt throughout all the channels of trade.

DETROIT'S contumacious Polish priest, Kolasinski, has at last succeeded in getting the fine new church which he has built for the congregation that persists in sticking to him "blessed." The ceremony was performed on Christmas day, a bogus bishop named Villette, who hails from Wisconsin, officiating. There was no disturbance, though when the fake bishop began the ceremony of blessing the exterior of the church the crowd assembled about the edifice jeered and hissed in disapproval of the irregular proceeding. Kolasinski is a turbulent fellow, but he has quite a following among the more ignorant of the Polish population of Detroit and these have absolute faith in him. He has been cut off from the church, but still insists that he belongs to it and is fully authorized to exercise priestly functions. Men of his character make infinite trouble for their superiors whenever they choose a calling that brings them under authority, but there does not seem to be any way of reducing them to submission when they are religious teachers if they have the faculty of organizing and holding together a sufficient following to get up a church of their own, as Kolasinski has done. The better way is to let them and those whom they control work out their salvation, or the reverse of it, in their own way. Opposition but gives them strength.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

16 WORLD'S FAIR PHOTOS FOR ONE DIME.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway has made an arrangement with a first-class publishing house to furnish a series of beautiful World's Fair pictures of a large size at the nominal cost to the purchaser of only ten cents for a portfolio of sixteen illustrations. Nothing so handsome in reference to the World's Fair has before been published. The series would be worth at least $12 if the pictures were not published in such large quantities and we are therefore able to furnish these works of art for only ten cents. They will make a hand-some holiday gift.

Hand in your money to the nearest station ticket agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway and he will furnish the pictures and tell you more about the scheme. Geo. H. HEAFFORD, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill. (12-10-law.)

A New Pile Remedy Has created a sensation among physicians by its wonderful effects in speedily curing every form of Piles. It is called the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is cheap and simple to use, but nothing removes the disease so quickly, safely and surely. Any druggist will get it for you.

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years; I had lost sense of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get someone to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, my sense of smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh. Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Reudrill, Perry Co., O.

Vicious Dog Attacks a Twelve-Year-Old Boy and Lacerates His Arm Quite Severely.

RED JACKET.

Richard Oates returned Saturday evening from the Pacific coast. He stated to THE MINING JOURNAL reporter that the Everett real estate offered for sale here was just about as represented by Mr. Page; that while times are dull out there they are no duller than here.

A good sample of pure malicious mischief-making was the item which appeared in THE MINING JOURNAL concerning the Everett property. In that paper it was stated that Axel M. Page had been sent to Everett and said on his return that the lots that Charles Page is selling are over five miles away from the city of Everett.

The large ad which the Everett agent carries in The Conglomerate is without doubt its reason for defending Everett. The copper country reporter of THE MINING JOURNAL can furnish proofs of the statement attributed to Mr. Mayotte and has also a letter from a person residing at Houghton who is now at Everett in which he states that lots are selling there from $25 to $50; that times are exceedingly dull with no immediate prospects for a better condition of affairs.

The adjourned meeting called by Charles Kranz for organizing a co-operative meat market was held Friday evening. CALUMET VILLAGE. The twelve-year-old son of Edwin Richards was attacked Sunday by a large dog owned by John Rhinehardt. The dog got the boy down in the snow and grabbing him by the arm he shook him as a terrier would a rat. The blood flowed freely from the boy's wounds. When as-instance came the men had considerable difficulty in forcing the dog to let go. The dog was killed soon after by the owner.

HAZING A RIBBON DRUMMER.

How Valentine, Neb., Treated the First Commercial Traveler Seen There. "It was while I was stationed at Fort Niobrara," said Col. George Barry, "that the first drummer made his appearance in Valentine. He was a slim little fellow, and he seemed to have given a good deal of care to his personal adornment. He dropped into Valentine on one of the first trains that got through over the new road. He had a couple of fancy yellow grips that must have looked very pretty to him, for he lugged them with him when he went into Dutch George's saloon and called for a Manhattan cocktail. Yes, sir, he wanted a Manhattan cocktail. You ought to have seen Dutch George look at him. Then he winked a couple of times at the row of cowboys sitting along the side of the room and turned around and began to mix a lot of things together for dear life. The little drummer leaned one arm on the bar and looked round at the row of cowboys without seeming to see the chap that had edged up behind him. Just as Dutch George finished mixing whatever it was he had fixed up for the drummer there was a pistol shot, and one of the boys sitting at the side of the room gave a yell and fell out of his chair in a heap on the floor. A big six-shooter fell to the floor beside the little drummer and a little cloud of smoke rose between the drummer and the bar. I am telling you that there was a row. Those cowboys yelled like the devil and swore that the drummer had shot the fellow who had fallen out of the chair. Three or four of them pulled their guns and were for shooting the drummer right there, but one fellow proposed to lynch him, and that proposition went through with a whoop. "So they started to take the little chap out to hang him. Just as they got to the door of the saloon there was a shout that the sheriff was coming, and before anyone could say 'jack rabbit' the sheriff and another man were there with their six-shooters in their hands, demanding the prisoner in the name of the law. The little drummer was so relieved that he could have hugged the sheriff, and he began to try to talk again. The sheriff told him to shut up if he wanted to get out alive, and started with him for the door. But just as soon as his back was turned, one of the cowboys shouted: "Shoot him! Shoot him! Don't let him get away like that!" "The sheriff and his man swung round and whipped out their six-shooters again. "Keep back," he shouted. "I'll shoot the first fool that touches this man so full of holes he won't need a grave."

Undertaker August Krellwitz had quite an experience Sunday last. He left home at 8 o'clock in the morning to go with a coffin into the bush back of Otter Lake to get the body of a Finlander woman who had been lying dead out there for a week. Out of the total distance of fifty-two miles traveled he and the teamster had to walk about thirty-four miles, or about three-quarters of the distance. This was done in order to keep the horses from being played out, as the roads were in very bad condition. He did not reach home until 3 o'clock Monday morning, being out on the road nineteen hours. Both men and horses were pretty well fagged out when they reached home and Mr. Krellwitz says it was one of the hardest times he ever experienced.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day he was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by H. H. Stafford, Son & Co.

FEELS SURE OF VICTORY.

Brazilian Minister Mendonca Believes That the Rebel Admiral Will Be Defeated.

LITTLE GOVERNMENT DYNAMITE BOATS ABLY MANNED.

CRISIS APPARENTLY AT HAND.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Minister Mendonca of Brazil believes that a crisis in the Brazilian revolution is at hand and that the decisive stroke will be made this week. He says that the two great ironclads of the rebel commander Mello, and the flotilla of little torpedo craft, hastily improvised by President Peixoto, are rapidly nearing each other. The minister says that a battle is almost certain to occur before next Monday.

HE RECOGNIZES THAT THE LITTLE TORPEDO AND DYNAMITE BOATS ARE TREMENDOUSLY OVERMATCHED BY THE REBEL SHIPS BUT HE COUNTS MUCH ON THE ABILITY OF THE SMALL BOATS TO MANEUVER QUICKLY AND TO DISCHARGE THEIR NOVEL EXPLOSIVES.

Senor Mendonca is hopeful and confident that the Mello fleet will be defeated and that the Peixoto ships will then be able to turn attention to the other rebel admiral, De Gama, who is in Rio harbor. NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The United States cruiser New York left the Brooklyn navy yard today for Brazil. Numerous salutes were given as the ship proceeded down the bay.

THE PROMPTITUDE WITH WHICH THE NEW YORK WAS MADE READY FOR SEA AND THE FACT THAT THE WORK OF COALING HER WAS PUSHED ALL THROUGH CHRISTMAS LEADS TO THE CONCLUSION THAT THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY CONSIDERS HER PRESENCE AT RIO OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

He said this morning that no destination had been fixed for the Minotaur but it is extremely probable that she will also go to Rio as soon as she is in readiness for the trip. It is supposed that a fear of confusion in the Brazilian government and consequent danger from violence is what has caused the centering of a formidable naval force at Rio.

FEELS SURE OF VICTORY.

Brazilian Minister Mendonca Believes That the Rebel Admiral Will Be Defeated.

LITTLE GOVERNMENT DYNAMITE BOATS ABLY MANNED.

CRISIS APPARENTLY AT HAND.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Minister Mendonca of Brazil believes that a crisis in the Brazilian revolution is at hand and that the decisive stroke will be made this week. He says that the two great ironclads of the rebel commander Mello, and the flotilla of little torpedo craft, hastily improvised by President Peixoto, are rapidly nearing each other. The minister says that a battle is almost certain to occur before next Monday.

HE RECOGNIZES THAT THE LITTLE TORPEDO AND DYNAMITE BOATS ARE TREMENDOUSLY OVERMATCHED BY THE REBEL SHIPS BUT HE COUNTS MUCH ON THE ABILITY OF THE SMALL BOATS TO MANEUVER QUICKLY AND TO DISCHARGE THEIR NOVEL EXPLOSIVES.

Senor Mendonca is hopeful and confident that the Mello fleet will be defeated and that the Peixoto ships will then be able to turn attention to the other rebel admiral, De Gama, who is in Rio harbor. NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The United States cruiser New York left the Brooklyn navy yard today for Brazil. Numerous salutes were given as the ship proceeded down the bay.

THE PROMPTITUDE WITH WHICH THE NEW YORK WAS MADE READY FOR SEA AND THE FACT THAT THE WORK OF COALING HER WAS PUSHED ALL THROUGH CHRISTMAS LEADS TO THE CONCLUSION THAT THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY CONSIDERS HER PRESENCE AT RIO OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

He said this morning that no destination had been fixed for the Minotaur but it is extremely probable that she will also go to Rio as soon as she is in readiness for the trip. It is supposed that a fear of confusion in the Brazilian government and consequent danger from violence is what has caused the centering of a formidable naval force at Rio.

THE MECCA PILGRIMAGE.

Perils of a Journey Undertaken by Tens of Thousands Every Year. Fanaticism leads the millions of the Orient through feats of pilgrimage and penance that we of the western world shudder even to hear about. One of the perilous demonstrations of Islamism is the great pilgrimage to Mecca.

The inhabitants of Mecca live crowded together, and surround their homes with refuse and filth and foul the water supply. Among the religious ordinances which to the Mohammedans are commands is that of pilgrimage to Mecca. From Turkey from a belt of country extending eastward across Asia to the farthest confines of Malay, and from the whole of Africa, pilgrims set out every year, turning their steps toward Mecca, in obedience to this command. Some fall sick by the way, many die; from about 60,000 to over 100,000 each year attain their end; months and sometimes years have been devoted to the task, and sufferings and hardships undergone which it would be difficult to describe.

While Mecca may be well enough suited to the inhabitants in ordinary times, it is not in any way prepared for the strain which comes upon it during the annual pilgrimage, and if a disease such as cholera be introduced it straightway spreads like wildfire. The constant cause is the drinking of cholera polluted water.

Not long ago a cable dispatch told of a pilgrimage of 10,000 persons, of whom more than one-half never returned, having died by the way of cholera. The proceedings of the pilgrims and the way they live also tend to the spread of the disease. The march to Arafat, the night spent there in devotion or in the crowded coffee booths, the "stand" by the Hill of Mercy, the rush to Mina, the sacrifices, the fearful stench from the thousands of slaughtered animals, the tawaf or seven-fold circuit of the sanctuary, each of the many thousand pilgrims kissing the black stone as he passes, the blazing heat, the intolerable thirst, and the religious fervor which leads them to accept everything as holy which belongs to Mecca, all drive the unfortunate pilgrims to the consumption of the vilest fluids under the name of water.

One incident of the pilgrimage is the washing of the pilgrims at the reputed "Jagar's well" of Mecca, where it is supposed she drew water for her son Ishmael. At the best of times there is but little water in the well, and the pilgrims swarm around it. Every one wishes to drink of and to bathe in these reputed miraculous waters. Each pilgrim in turn, stripped to the waist, stands beside the well while a bucket of water is poured over him; of this he eagerly drinks as it flows from the bucket, the rest flowing over his naked body, soaking through his loin cloth and streaming back into the well to be used again. His place is immediately taken by another and another, and so on, each drinking the washings of the rest.

One day this year there were 999 deaths in Mecca, and from June 8 to June 25 there were 2,201 deaths, that is in seventeen days. When you consider what is done at this well alone these figures are not to be wondered at. When the pilgrimage is over the roadside for a dozen miles is strewn with the dead bodies of the faithful, killed by a draught of dirty water after all the difficulties and dangers the unfortunate people had overcome.—Chicago Herald.

How Gold is Found.

Gold is found, not in big, bright lumps, as you may suppose, but in dirty sand, which has only a slight yellow look to it to let you know there is gold in it. The biggest piece of gold that was ever found in one lump, was only as big as a walnut. It was called a nugget. All lumps of solid gold are called nuggets. Lumps of gold ore with sand in them and pieces of stone, are frequently found as big as a muskmelon; but they are not pure gold, and have to go through a great deal of preparation before they can be sold for gold. Finding gold, or mining, is one of the principal industries of Montana and Colorado. Little boys, not over ten years old, are often very lucky in finding the yellow nuggets, and sometimes a little lad will pick up a quart of them in a day in his little tin pail. As a general thing, washing the gold sand out of the dirt is a very slow and tiresome work, and not at all pleasant; but it is like hunting for field strawberries—sometimes you find a big berry, and then you forget how tired you are.—Drake's Magazine.

The Marquette City band will furnish music at the Casino rink this evening.

Miss Mary Cook of Columbus, O., spent Christmas here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Volk.

Mrs. J. M. Longyear has issued cards for a German Friday evening. Hughes' Ideal orchestra will furnish music.

Emil Bruce of Minneapolis, the successful bidder for the new City Hall, reached here yesterday to sign his contract.

Superintendent Retallic was prompted at work with snow plows and shovellers yesterday morning and the electric cars were soon making trips once more.

Marquette lodge, No. 101, E. & A. M., will install its newly-elected officers for the year 1894 this evening. Visiting brethren are cordially invited to be present.

The Christmas assembly at Fraternity Hall was the most largely attended of the season. Hughes' orchestra, augmented by Mr. Deekelmann, flutist, received many compliments.

The Trainers are making great preparations for their fifth annual ball at the Casino rink New Year's night and the attendance both from this city and from points along the line promise to be very large.

The funeral of the late Charles E. Spencer will be held from his late residence, 615 Pine street, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and will be in charge of Lake Superior commandery, No. 30, Knights Templar.

Chas. Colwell announces in another column that his restaurant will be kept open day and night. He will be glad to serve oysters in all styles and meals at all hours. His place of business is on Washington street, opposite the opera house block.

Le Cercle Francais de Egalite Politique gave a very pleasant and quite largely attended dancing reception in L'Huilier's Hall on Washington street. Hughes' orchestra furnished its always excellent music and a large number of young people and some older ones enjoyed themselves hugely until far into the small hours of the morning.

It is a question worthy of some consideration as to the best form in which to reproduce and preserve such features of the World's Fair buildings and exhibits as are worth preserving. To gather, shelter and properly display in so great profusion the results of the achievements of civilization, at a cost of fifty or sixty millions of dollars, only in a brief period, when the buildings are taken down and the exhibits removed, to lose it all, to have preserved no proper representation or description of the brilliant though fleeting spectacle, would be a serious mistake. Obvious, then, is but one way in which this can be done, and that is in the form of a book, print and pictures in about equal parts, neither so large as to be cumbersome, and yet large enough to do the subject full justice. Such is the plan of THE BOOK OF THE FAIR, to be issued in twenty-five parts of forty imperial folio pages each, by The Bancroft Company, Auditorium Building, Chicago. The most thorough and elaborate preparations were made by these publishers to produce what should be in the highest and best sense a work of art and of beauty, a book which should be at once beautiful and useful. The best processes were adopted and the best artists secured to illustrate the text, which is by Hubert Howe Bancroft. We have here, then, the history and description of the entire Exposition by an author of known character and repute, aided and adorned by the most beautiful pictures that can be produced. It is safe to say that in no other form could the great Exposition be so well presented and preserved. (12-27-11)

Mr. A. Deekelmann, solo flutist, with Hughes' Ideal orchestra, is prepared to receive a limited number of pupils. Address by card or call for particulars at Hughes' rooms, over Toles' drug store. (12-27-11)

Call at Hughes' rooms over Toles' drug store for private dancing lessons. The waltz a specialty. (12-27-11)

MANAGING FURNACES.

Light Good Rules to Observe in Controlling the Heat.

The first thing to do is 'to get the house thoroughly warmed. When it is heated to the desired temperature, it will require less coal to keep it warm than if constantly cooling and heating.

There is more economy in filling the firepot full of coal than in putting in only a small amount, because that burns away more readily.

Do not use a poker on the top of the fire. It is bad management in the use of hard coal. The grate in the furnace will remove the ashes and clinkers, thus allowing free passage for air through the fire.

In filling the furnace with coal the smokepipe damper should be opened and the ashpit door and slide closed, otherwise the smoke and gas will be forced out of the feed door.

When the rooms are heated, and there is a good fire in the furnace, shut it up as close as possible.

In the morning open all drafts, put in a small quantity of coal, let it burn thoroughly, then add fuel until full. Let it burn for a short time for the gas to be consumed before closing the dampers.

If the furnace heats quick and strong from a good draft, so that in warm weather there is too much heat, don't shake the grate, but allow it to clog with ashes-not under, but on top of the grate. Ashes then lessen combustion.

Never shut off all the registers at once. If it is desired to shut the registers, close those on the upper floors, as when the lower rooms and halls are heated the air finds its way to upper rooms.-Good Housekeeping.

Society in Alaska. Visitors to Sitka pronounce it not a bad thing at all to be a girl in Alaska society-for girls are a long way above par in the social swim. There are card parties and receptions, there are teas and dinners on the trig little gunboats, with men to preside at the urn and show how badly even the best of the sex do the things a woman does so gracefully. There are balls in the Russian castle on the hill, where in the old days the Muscovite governors brought their high-bred wives and held carnival through the long Alaskan winters.

Like the Japanese, in case of company, everybody borrows of everybody. The governor's wife is served from her own china at the captain's dinner, and the lieutenant's bride may eat from her own wedding-spoons at the paymaster's party, but there is less strife and envy and all uncharitableness than in social circles at the great centers of civilization, where every body is striving to outdo everybody else.-St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BURGLARY AT NEGAUNEE. Some One Who Wanted Christmas Gifts Paid T. M. Wells' Store a Nocturnal Call.

WEARY TRAMP OF A HURLEY MAN. Slumbered on a Couch of Snow--Northwestern Engine Derailed--Skating Race at the Adelphi.

STORE BURGLARIZED. On Tuesday night of last week a thief broke into T. M. Wells' store and carried away a number of articles, among these being several costly silk handkerchiefs, some chewing tobacco, several cans of sardines and a few other articles of more or less value.

Walked from Hurley. A man, name not learned, arrived here from Hurley, Wis., after having walked the entire distance. He was one of the unfortunates of that place who had been reduced to destitution. Becoming tired of living on charity with no possible chance of securing work he started for Escanaba, where he has friends residing. He boarded a freight train here, but when it arrived at Swanzey he was detected and put off. He remained at Swanzey over night and next morning started on his weary tramp again.

Took a Drappling Too Much. A young woman of disreputable character was found lying dead drunk in the snow on Jackson street yesterday morning about 8 o'clock. It appears that she was out on a spree during the night and in attempting to get home her jug became too heavy for her and she fell over in the snow and remained there until a couple of men came along and carried her to the city jail. She was evidently a stranger here, as no one appeared to know her name, although several were heard to say she called herself Grace Day and was an inmate of a disorderly house kept here during the summer. The authorities will probably give her an invitation to leave the town as soon as she sobers up.

The Engine Derailed. The head engine on the southbound passenger train on the Chicago & Northwestern road left the rails yesterday morning at Lathrop as the train was pulling in on the side track to allow the northbound train to pass. The front engine of the northbound train came in contact with the derailed one, causing slight damage to both. As it took some time to get the engine in place again the passengers were transferred from both trains and were delayed about two hours.

They Will Race. Fred Bates, Frank Muck, Ed Rodgers and Henry Williams will skate a one-mile race at the Adelphi roller rink next Saturday evening for a purse of $100 put up by themselves. They are all good skaters and the one who comes out ahead will have to hustle along at a pretty lively gait. The English Oak band will furnish music that night.

LOCAL LAONICS. Christ White returned to Red Jacket yesterday. M. Wollner celebrated his thirty-fifth birthday on Christmas. Dave Foley is down from Ironwood on a visit to his parents. T. M. Covert of Chicago were at the Breitung House yesterday. Hon. John Q. Adams and Captain John Jeffery arrived home from Detroit on Sunday. Apples are going up in price. They cost $6.50 a barrel now, or seventy-five cents per peck. Mr. and Mrs. James Ead of Red Jacket are in the city visiting Captain and Mrs. Bartle. The newly elected officers of Negaunee lodge No. 202 F. & A. M., will be installed tonight. John Freeman of Calumet, for many years a resident of Negaunee, is in the city visiting friends. George and Will Maas are home from Crystal Falls, spending the holidays with their parents. Tom Curley was down from Baraga on a visit to his parents on Christmas. He returned yesterday. Maurice Kelley of the Rolling Mill location, while walking through the alley between Moll's drug store and Muck's meat market on Sunday, fell and broke his leg. The South Shore's rotary snow plow was up from Marquette yesterday. During the forenoon it did considerable work at Eagle Mills and after throwing the snow right and left in the yard here for a while it went on to Ishpeming.

THE CORN DANCE. Seven Long and Weary Hours for the Enduring Pueblo Indians.

The men dancers have bunches of green and yellow parrot feathers fastened to the top of their waving raven hair, while around their necks are strings of beads made of shells, feldspar and turquoise. Their bodies are made to the waist, and are painted with a blue-white clay, sometimes merely in crude spots, while the legs and arms are frequently striped with the same or a different tone. Around the loins a Zuñi or Moqui woven breech-cloth embroidered in red and black is held in place by a white cotton girdle or sash, ending in balls and long strings waving with every movement. Below the knee masses of brilliant colored wool are knotted; over various colored and beaded moccasins are anklets of white and black stunk or goat fur; and hanging from the belt behind, a fox skin with the tail downward. Under broad armlets of tinted buckskin are sprigs of cedar; a bunch of the same is held in the left hand, while the right shakes a gourd rattle at every change of posture.

The dress of the women is a square of heavy dark blue wool, drawn over one shoulder and under the other, exposing part of the breast, while the sides are held together by ornamented silver pins. A long woven colored sash is wound around the waist. The legs are bare and notably fine; the feet small and beautifully formed. Their head-dress is decidedly peculiar. It is made of an oblong piece of board or dried buffalo-hide, notched at the top, with a T-shaped piece resembling the "Tau," the emblem of life of the ancient Egyptians, cut out of the center. It is painted a light green, with red and yellow stripes, and symbolic figures; on the sides and points are flecks of white eagle's down. The lower part is hollowed out to fit the head, and is held in place by thongs of buckskin fastened under the hair. Immense strings of shell and coral beads encircle the women's necks, and big Navajo silver rings or a crude turquoise hang as ear pendants. Many silver and copper bracelets dangle at their wrists as they wave the branches of evergreen from side to side in unison with the steps. Rich vermilion covers their cheeks and heightens their savage beauty. They are modest in demeanor, gracefully naive in movement, and rarely take their eyes off the ground during the dance.

The dancing was kept up for seven long hours; but there was never any shirking; they stamped as energetically the last hour as the first. Any sign of fatigue would be met with renewed vigor of the chanting chorus, while the drummer would reverse his drum and thump harder on the other head. The chorus huddled closer together, gesticulating seriously with their hands, as though to emphasize the meaning of their songs. At sundown they all filed solemnly into the church-yard, and knelt down while the image of the saint was carried inside. A volley from the guns, then the Indian character asserted itself in a wild race of men and women to the estufa, where they indulged in their first refreshment of the day. Feasting was kept up far into the night, as were bonfires throughout the Pueblo and on the church towers and walls.—Harper's Weekly.

LEARNING AND EDUCATION. A Distinction With a Difference Worth Noting.

There is something wrong somewhere in systems of education and morals. The criminal classes used to be ignorant. We were then assured that by opening schools we would close prisons, and by filling heads we be saved the unpleasant duty of chopping them off.

The facts do not seem to sustain the promises, and we are driven unwillingly to the conclusion that instruction is not a guarantee against immorality. Statistics show that crime has increased rather than decreased since the introduction of our finer and more elaborate methods of instruction.

There is a great difference between instruction and education. This should always be kept in mind when considering educational topics. Instruction gives one insight into that which is not understood. It leads into the mind from without. Education is quite the reverse. It is leading out of that which is in the mind, or rather the development of the inherent ego. Instruction is a means of doing this, but it is possible to stimulate and develop the undesirable qualities of the ego. The same instruction that makes a saint of a morally inclined ego might make a devil out of one that is evil inclined.

To develop the ego as found in the individual will result in developing about as much bad as good. In order, therefore, to get good results something more than instruction in the art of reading, mathematics, or the sciences, is necessary. The tastes, temperament and environment of the child must be taken into consideration. M. Rossignoux, of Paris, in discussing the educational methods in vogue in his own country, says: "If crime is egotism, the education of childhood should be carried on with a view to a large and fertile development of the disinterested sentiments which are in germ in every human soul, and the programmes of study should be elaborated with this aim. This can be done, I believe, without interfering in the least with studies of which the object is pure utility, by cultivating the esthetic and moral faculties of the child. It is possible to have in the primary class of the smallest village something which corresponds to what one properly called the humanities in secondary instruction, that is, to give the child a liberal education in the true sense of that term."—Erasmus Wilson, in Pittsburgh Gazette.

THE BISMARCK OF CHINA. A Character Sketch of Li Hung Chang, the Famed Viceroy.

In December, 1891, the London Chronicle printed a character sketch of Li Hung Chang, dated Tientsin, from the pen of its special correspondent, who had just interviewed the Chinese magnate, who is to all intents and purposes, the ruler of China. The reproduction of this pen portrait is of importance now that the relations between this country and the Chinese empire are getting somewhat strained. The correspondent writes:

"Li Hung Chang resides at Tientsin, which is about ninety miles from the capital, and is cut off from the south by the ice barrier of winter from the middle of December to the middle of March. His highness, or grace, or lordship, for Li is a nobleman of the new Chinese peerage, with the elastic rank of a baron or an earl, or a duke or a prince, is, or was, a remarkably fine-looking man, big of frame, bold of mien and of an almost handsome cast of countenance. He is not old and wrinkled, with a long, straggling gray mustache, and what the Chinese call a whisker on the chin, or what is known more generally as an imperial, which Li is fond of stroking. Bad teeth and dirty fingernails do not, however, add to his personal charms or commend him to European visitors. His voice is harsh, his glance too often being a sentence of deprecation. His excellency, finally, is a man of typhoon passions, and he swears like the proverbial trooper. He might pass for a soldier, even now, though his dimmed fire of his eye and sickness has generally impaired his frame. This famous heathen Chinese is a teetotaler. In fixing his official residence at Tientsin, Li Hung Chang showed a strain of that tact which throughout a long life has distinguished his excellency in the cultivation and management, so to speak, of his reputation.

"Little, however, is really known to the world of this ambitious Chinese minister. He may lack all the powers which he is careful to claim. He is strong because of his office, but he is stronger still because of his self-encumbrance. He has his rivals at court. The very able lady who is the power behind the throne is pretty well aware that Li as an enemy would be as dangerous as he is powerful as a friend. The leaders of what may be called the nationalist party look to Li to lead them when the hour to strike shall have arrived. They hold some conditional promise of the sort. Years ago Li Hung Chang was asked to place himself at the head of a new Chinese party. The object of this party was then as it is to-day, to replace the Manchu or Tartar dynasty by one distinctly Chinese. Li, while professing every sympathy with progress, pointed out that the two factions, the court faction and the popular faction were too evenly balanced to justify revolution. 'If you failed,' he said, 'my reputation would be destroyed, and I should die sullied with the name of traitor.'

"But though this master stroke of opportunism is a twenty-year-old story, Li Hung Chang has never ceased to be looked upon as the national leader of the revolutionary party. On the other hand, he has never done anything openly and officially to justify suspicion of his loyalty. He has served the empire faithfully. He is a Chinaman of the Chinese. He is, in fact, China. The missionaries sometimes look upon him as friendly towards their propaganda, but at heart he is nothing of the sort. He hates foreigners, and merely uses them as a means to an end. His motto is, 'China for the Chinese.' He would not openly quarrel with Europeans, but he steadily picks their brains and urges his subordinates to do the same. He cares nothing for religion, either native or foreign, and would live at peace with the missionaries, solely because he does not want to be bothered with the troubles of native fanaticism so long as it does not suit his purpose to have quarrels. The new nationalism itself is not especially friendly to foreigners. 'Li Hung Chang favors the introduction of western customs just to this extent. He believes in using the foreigners, while despising them like any good Chinaman. He is favorable to the introduction of railways and telegraphs and telephones and other new inventions, and grants concessions for the employment of European capital and ingenuity. But he will do this only so long as it may take the natives to do the work for themselves. Then he would drive the foreigners, English, French and German, into the sea. It may be interesting as an illustration of his understanding of European characteristics to state that his army was officered by Germans, his navy by Englishmen, and his public works were engineered by Frenchmen.—N. Y. World.

Black Dress Coats. Lord Lytton's novel of "Pelham" was written with the idea of counteracting the affectation of Byronicism which was then in vogue, and in this it to some degree succeeded, though only by substituting another affectation, that of Pelhamism, in its place. It is even said to have affected the fashion of dress, for in it Lady Francis Pelham says, in a letter to her son: "Apropos of the complexion, I did not like that blue coat you wore when last I saw you; you look best in black, which is a great compliment, for people must be very distinguished in appearance to do so." "All then coats worn for evening dress were of different colors, according to the fancy of the wearer, and the adoption of the now invariable black is said to have dated from the publication of "Pelham."—Notes and Queries.

The Active Microbe. "Just think," said Watts, impressively. "It takes twelve thousand microbes to form a procession an inch long."

"That information might amount to something," responded Potts, "if microbes were in the habit of forming processions instead of attending strictly to business."—Indianapolis Journal.

Asked for Information. Having landed upon the shores of the new world the intrepid colonists proceeded at once to turn the stubborn glebe and take other steps looking to the establishment of a permanent residence. And the rain descended and the sun shone hotly and the colonists reaped a great harvest of experience and other necessities of life in the wilderness. To the little village there came one day a denizen of the forest. It was the first denizen that had called and he naturally created a sensation. The red man looked pained when he perceived the evidence of industry before him. "How," he said, "Just watch us and you'll see," rejoined several of the settlers. Then the colonists with their posterity proceeded to wipe the aborigines from the face of the earth, approximately.

Thus it comes to pass that the red man of to-day does not say "how." He knows from experience without asking, N. Y. Tribune. "The repeal of the federal election laws will help to educate the colored man of the south," said Col. Seesh reflectively. "How so?" inquired the northern man with interest. "It will teach him," remarked the Colonel with evident conviction, "to keep away from the polls."—Detroit Tribune.

Just in Time. "I didn't want to keep you waiting, Mr. Westend, so I came down just as I was," said Miss Darlington, sweetly, as she entered the parlor. "O, what a whopper!" exclaimed her small brother. "You know you only had on—"

To her dismay, she discovered that no mattress had been placed beneath the canvas waves to ease her fall; but the fatal leap had to be made, and she struck the stage with a thud that was heard all over the house. "Oh, Lord!" she exclaimed, "the water is frozen!"

CONTRACT FOR WORK WILL BE SIGNED AT ONCE.

Improvement That Should Be Made at Park Cemetery Some Time Next Summer.

SOME SLIGHT CHANGES MADE.

There was an adjourned meeting of the common council last evening to consider the City Hall matter. The committee appointed to confer with Contractor Emil Bruce and the architects and agree on such changes as would bring the bid within $50,000 reported that changes in the specifications had been made on which Mr. Bruce would reduce his bid to $49,983. The mayor and controller were directed to enter into contract with Emil Bruce for the construction of the new City Hall at that price, the contract to be ratified and the contractor's bonds approved by the council.

In regard to alleged blockade of streets with snow thrown out by the South Shore railroad the street commissioner was directed to have the railroad company remove snow and keep crossings clear. The street committee was directed to confer with the management of the electric railway in regard to the removal of snow on the streets.

The council then adjourned until Thursday evening.

Is Needed Very Badly.

There is an improvement that should be made at Park cemetery this coming summer without fail. That is a receiving vault for the remains of those who pass away during the winter when the snow is deep upon the ground and in the spring when the roads are breaking up.

The cost need not be very great and such a structure would spare the relatives and friends of the dead much inconvenience. Other cities in these latitudes where the snows are deep and the winters are long have made such arrangements and have found them a great convenience. The shipping cemetery has a receiving vault and has found it money very well invested.

Often the dead is a member of some of the numerous fraternal societies, the members of which very naturally and properly desire to accompany the remains to the grave as a last tribute of respect and esteem to the departed brother. If they go on foot it is with considerable difficulty and some danger to themselves and if they go in carriages it is killing to the horses. Particularly is this true during the long and slow springs of this latitude when the snow is thawing and the roads of winter are breaking up. The due observance of the last rites becomes positively dangerous to the living under such circumstances. Funerals are also made unnecessarily expensive, for the livermen, with so much valuable horse-flesh put to this needless risk, must charge correspondingly. Then there is the undoubted fact that positive cruelty to helpless animals often results—a thing abhorrent to every humane person and forbidden by the laws of all civilized countries.

All these evils would be avoided with a proper and commodious receiving vault where the dead could be deposited until such time as the weather would permit final burial without inconvenience or discomfort. The usual services at the grave could be performed just the same or might, if the relatives so desired, be postponed until the final interment.

THE MINING JOURNAL suggests to Park Commissioner Smith that he get some plans and estimates for a suitable receiving vault and be ready when the proper time comes to go before the council and ask an appropriation for the purpose. It is also suggested that the aldermen do a little thinking on the subject so as to be ready to act when the time comes. From any point of view this is an improvement that should have been made some years ago and should not be delayed another year. The only objection is the expense. This need not be great and public convenience and health, not to mention the horses, would certainly be served by such a structure.

Vannier-Laurier.

Miss Artemise Vannier, eldest daughter of the late Joseph A. Vannier, was united in marriage last evening to Dr. Laurier. The ceremony was private, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, and occurred at 7 o'clock at the church of St. John the Baptist, Rev. Father Vermaire officiating. Mr. C. A. Laurier of Negaunee, brother of the groom, was present and a number of the bride's young lady friends learned the news in time to attend at the church and offer their congratulations. Dr. Laurier came here three or four months ago from Montreal and opened an office in the Harlow block. He has built up a good practice and is highly esteemed by all who know him.

Wants None of That in His'n.

At last The Escanaba Mirror has got around to say a pleasant word for a Marquette man, as witness this from its last issue:

The Detroit News broadly hints that Mayor N. M. Kaufman of Marquette would like to be governor of Michigan. A worse choice could easily be made. Mr. Kaufman is an enterprising, successful business man, and he has the ability to fill any position in the gift of the people. He is a Republican.

For all of which, thanks, but THE MINING JOURNAL is well enough acquainted with Mayor Kaufman's wishes to be able to assure its Escanaba contemporary that our mayor is not looking with longing eyes on the gubernatorial plum, nor any other political plum. All that he asks or desires of his many friends is that they permit him to finish out his term as mayor, and then devote his time to his own affairs, with a little fishing (in the proper season of course) and a little hunting (this also in season) on the side by way of recreation. There are no bees in Mayor Kaufman's bonnet nor wheels in his head. But he would make a mighty good governor just the same and The Mirror does its Democratic self credit by frankly admitting the fact, notwithstanding that "he is a Republican."

Death of John C. Lewis

John C. Lewis died at Traverse City last Saturday morning, aged sixty-nine years. He was born in New Jersey and came to Marquette in 1857. He was employed by the railroad company for many years as yardmaster and superintendent of docks and latterly was connected with various branches of the iron industry. He had a stroke of paralysis six years ago from which he never fully recovered and death resulted from vital exhaustion. The remains reached here yesterday and the funeral will be held today from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. A. E. Delf, 116 West Ohio street.

Superior Tent Election.

Superior Tent, No. 28, Knights of the Maccabees, held a largely attended review last night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Commander, James Patterson; lieutenant commander, John A. Clark; chaplain, W. A. Johnston; record keeper, Henry J. Holmes; finance keeper, Rayson Bennett; physician, James H. Dawson, M. D.; sergeant, Francis Finley; master-at-arms, U. S. Grant; first master of the guard, William D. McKie; second master of the guard, William Bashaw; sentinel, Soren Nelson; picket, Albert Hall. This tent now has 154 members in good standing and is one of the most flourishing beneficiary societies in the city. Despite the hard times applications for membership are quite numerous. The Knights of the Maccabees is by far the largest beneficiary order in Michigan.

Office Cat Feasted.

A communication signed "Taxpayers" and accusing Street Commissioner French of neglecting South Marquette sidewalks with his snow plow has been received at this office. As the "Taxpayers" neglected to sign their names the said communication has been fed to the office cat. It takes some people a long time to learn that no self-respecting newspaper prints unsigned communications. The names will be withheld if desired but the paper positively must know the source of the information. Sign all letters to newspapers with name and address—"not necessarily for publication, but as a guaranty of good faith."

"Ole Olson" Comes.

"Ole Olson" comes to the opera house New Year's matinee and night. Since here last it has had a thorough revising by Mr. James A. Heane, so well known in the dramatic world as the author of such highly successful dramas as "Hearts of Oak," "Margaret Fleming," "Drifting Apart," "Shore Acres," etc. The changes in "Ole Olson" make the play as strong in its sensational features as it has been heretofore in comedy. The greatest alteration, however, occurs in the third act, which has been entirely rewritten and is now one of the most dramatic scenes ever presented. Comedy is entirely obliterated from the act, it being the opinion of Mr. Heane that with so much high class comedy in the other acts the play would be much better balanced in its new form, and he is undoubtedly correct.

Supreme Court Docket.

Mr. Charles C. Hopkins, the clerk, has sent THE MINING JOURNAL a list of cases from the upper peninsula which appear on the next calendar of the supreme court. The court will convene Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1894. The list is as follows:

There is no one instrument, unless, indeed, it be a large pipe organ, capable of the variety of effects that are obtainable on the Aeolian. Unlike the pipe organ, however, the Aeolian is adapted to all classes of music; overtures and symphonies can be rendered on it with all the softness and delicacy of the flute and violin and cello and all the snap and brilliancy of the piano. PRICE WAS CUT DOWN.

Figures on New City Hall Are Brought Within the Appropriation.

CONTRACT FOR WORK WILL BE SIGNED AT ONCE.

Improvement That Should Be Made at Park Cemetery Some Time Next Summer.

SOME SLIGHT CHANGES MADE.

There was an adjourned meeting of the common council last evening to consider the City Hall matter. The committee appointed to confer with Contractor Emil Bruce and the architects and agree on such changes as would bring the bid within $50,000 reported that changes in the specifications had been made on which Mr. Bruce would reduce his bid to $49,983. The mayor and controller were directed to enter into contract with Emil Bruce for the construction of the new City Hall at that price, the contract to be ratified and the contractor's bonds approved by the council.

In regard to alleged blockade of streets with snow thrown out by the South Shore railroad the street commissioner was directed to have the railroad company remove snow and keep crossings clear. The street committee was directed to confer with the management of the electric railway in regard to the removal of snow on the streets.

The council then adjourned until Thursday evening.

Is Needed Very Badly.

There is an improvement that should be made at Park cemetery this coming summer without fail. That is a receiving vault for the remains of those who pass away during the winter when the snow is deep upon the ground and in the spring when the roads are breaking up. The cost need not be very great and such a structure would spare the relatives and friends of the dead much inconvenience. Other cities in these latitudes where the snows are deep and the winters are long have made such arrangements and have found them a great convenience. The Ishpeming cemetery has a receiving vault and has found it money very well invested.

Often the dead is a member of some of the numerous fraternal societies, the members of which very naturally and properly desire to accompany the remains to the grave as a last tribute of respect and esteem to the departed brother. If they go on foot it is with considerable difficulty and some danger to themselves and if they go in carriages it is killing to the horses. Particularly is this true during the long and slow springs of this latitude when the snow is thawing and the roads of winter are breaking up. The due observance of the last rites becomes positively dangerous to the living under such circumstances. Funerals are also made unnecessarily expensive, for the livermen, with so much valuable horse-flesh put to this needless risk, must charge correspondingly. Then there is the undoubted fact that positive cruelty to helpless animals often results—a thing abhorrent to every humane person and forbidden by the laws of all civilized countries.

All these evils would be avoided with a proper and commodious receiving vault where the dead could be deposited until such time as the weather would permit final burial without inconvenience or discomfort. The usual services at the grave could be performed just the same or might, if the relatives so desired, be postponed until the final interment.

THE MINING JOURNAL suggests to Park Commissioner Smith that he get some plans and estimates for a suitable receiving vault and be ready when the proper time comes to go before the council and ask an appropriation for the purpose. It is also suggested that the aldermen do a little thinking on the subject so as to be ready to act when the time comes. From any point of view this is an improvement that should have been made some years ago and should not be delayed another year. The only objection is the expense. This need not be great and public convenience and health, not to mention the horses, would certainly be served by such a structure.

Vannier-Laurier.

Miss Artemise Vannier, eldest daughter of the late Joseph A. Vannier, was united in marriage last evening to Dr. Laurier. The ceremony was private, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, and occurred at 7 o'clock at the church of St. John the Baptist, Rev. Father Vermaire officiating. Mr. C. A. Laurier of Negaunee, brother of the groom, was present and a number of the bride's young lady friends learned the news in time to attend at the church and offer their congratulations. Dr. Laurier came here three or four months ago from Montreal and opened an office in the Harlow block. He has built up a good practice and is highly esteemed by all who know him.

Wants None of That in His.

At last The Escanaba Mirror has got around to say a pleasant word for a Marquette man, as witness this from its last issue:

The Detroit News broadly hints that Mayor N. M. Kaufman of Marquette would like to be governor of Michigan. A worse choice could easily be made. Mr. Kaufman is an enterprising, successful business man, and he has the ability to fill any position in the gift of the people. He is a Republican.

For all of which, thanks, but THE MINING JOURNAL is well enough acquainted with Mayor Kaufman's wishes to be able to assure its Escanaba contemporary that our mayor is not looking with longing eyes on the gubernatorial plum, nor any other political plum. All that he asks or desires of his many friends is that they permit him to finish out his term as mayor, and then devote his time to his own affairs, with a little fishing (in the proper season of course) also a little hunting (this also in season) on the side by way of recreation. There are no bees in Mayor Kaufman's bonnet nor wheels in his head. But he would make a mighty good governor just the same and The Mirror does its Democratic self credit by frankly admitting the fact, notwithstanding that "he is a Republican."

Death of John C. Lewis.

John C. Lewis died at Traverse City last Saturday morning, aged sixty-nine years. He was born in New Jersey and came to Marquette in 1857. He was employed by the railroad company for many years as yardmaster and superintendent of docks and latterly was connected with various branches of the iron industry. He had a stroke of paralysis six years ago from which he never fully recovered and death resulted from vital exhaustion. The remains reached here yesterday and the funeral will be held today at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. A. E. Delf, 118 West Ohio street.

Superior Tent Election.

Commander, James Patterson; lieutenant commander, John A. Clark; chaplain, W. A. Johnston; record keeper, Henry J. Holmes; finance keeper, Rawson Bennett; physician, James H. Dawson, M. D.; sergeant, Francis Finley; master-at-arms, U. S. Grant; first master of the guard, William D. McKie; second master of the guard, William Bashaw; sentinel, Soren Nelson; picket, Albert Hall. This tent now has 154 members in good standing and is one of the most flourishing beneficiary societies in the city. Despite the hard times applications for membership are quite numerous. The Knights of the Maccabees is by far the largest beneficiary order in Michigan.

Office Cat Feasted.

A communication signed "Taxpayers" and accusing Street Commissioner French of neglecting South Marquette sidewalks with his snow plow has been received at this office. As the "Taxpayers" neglected to sign their names the said communication has been fed to the office cat. It takes some people a long time to learn that no self-respecting newspaper prints unsigned communications. The names will be withheld if desired but the paper positively must know the source of the information. Sign all letters to newspapers with name and address—"not necessarily for publication, but as a guaranty of good faith."

"Ole Olson" Coming.

"Ole Olson" comes to the opera house New Year's matinee and night. Since here last it has had a thorough revising by Mr. James A. Hearne, so well known in the dramatic world as the author of such highly successful dramas as "Hearts of Oak," "Margaret Fleming," "Drifting Apart," "Shore Acres," etc. The changes in "Ole Olson" make the play as strong in its sensational features as it has been heretofore in comedy. The greatest alteration, however, occurs in the third act, which has been entirely rewritten and is now one of the most dramatic scenes ever presented. Comedy is entirely obliterated from the act, it being the opinion of Mr. Hearne that with so much high class comedy in the other acts the play would be much better balanced in its new form, and he is undoubtedly correct.
