GLORIES IN HIS GUILT.

Breckinridge Will Run for Congress Even if Miss Pollard Wins

ALL DECENT MEN WILL VOTE AGAINST HIM.

Butterworth Shows His Client as a Horribly Depraved Creature Without Shame or Sense

SHUT HIM IN AN ASYLUM

FRANKFORD, Ky., April 12.—Personal friends of W. C. P. Breckinridge have received letters from him saying he proposes to run for congress whether Miss Pollard wins her suit against him or not.

BUTTERWORTH'S PLEA FOR VICE.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Major Butterworth resumed his argument in behalf of the defense in the Pollard-Breckinridge case this morning. He gave a good deal of time to reading and commenting on Miss Pollard's letters to Rhodes, especially her demands on him for money, and asked why the plaintiff's mother, now alive and well, was not called to prove her daughter's age and several other matters on which her testimony was important. He then proceeded to comment on Miss Pollard's testimony, pointing out minor discrepancies.

REHEARS HIS CLIENT'S SHARE.

As Butterworth proceeded with the dissection of the plaintiff's testimony he drew a picture of Breckinridge crouching helplessly at the woman's feet. He went on to say how unlikely it was that he could meet his mistress before the mould had gathered on the grave clothes of his beloved wife; that he had taken her to a bawdy house for two hours to convey to her the tender message that she was to follow in the footsteps of his wife. It implied that this woman of corrupt life who had held doubtful relations with Rhodes, who had three illegitimate children at sundry places and miscarriages of others, was to sit at his table in the place of his wife. That was the scene of all that was vicious and contemptible. This woman who had lived ten years without earning a cent as his mistress wanted money and nothing else. He believed she knew of the secret marriage in New York April 29.

READS HIS OWN LOVE-LETTERS.

The letters Breckinridge wrote to Miss Pollard after their alleged engagement in 1893 were produced by Butterworth and afforded considerable fun. Butterworth was unable to decipher them and declared the man who wrote such a hand should be punished. Attorney Stahl tackled them with the same result.

Breckinridge two or three times suggested, "Better let me read them" and was finally permitted to do so. He stood facing the jury and read his own tender epistles in his effective and mellow tones.

In conclusion Butterworth told the jury the inherent probabilities arising from the course of human nature were to be considered more deeply than the statements of witnesses. The question was not whether Breckinridge had violated any ordinance—human or divine—but whether these two parties had agreed that he was to become her husband and she his wife.

MARRIAGE PROMISE DENIED.

He denied the woman came to court to redress a great wrong. No wrong could be redressed that way. Her early life was not what it should have been but was what her letters showed her to be. No man could say that seduction was possible under the circumstances which had been portrayed here. He protested against such a standard being raised for virtue.

As for his client, no one knew through what mire that man had been dragged. Such was the penalty of sin. He did not want the jury to be carried away by the whisper that a verdict for defendant would be a ratification of his sin.

He asked them also not to commend a woman who had borne herself as this plaintiff had; not to elevate her for the degradation of him. Such a verdict would mean to girls that virtue was but a cloak to be thrown off or put on. American womanhood should be vindicated by the standard to which wives and mothers must be held. The court then adjourned.

APPEALED TO SATOLLI.

Bonaacum Case Will Be Further Aired in Civil Courts.

OMAHA, April 12.—The trial of Bishop Bonaacum of the Roman Catholic diocese of Lincoln was held today behind closed doors, was very short and simply paved the way for an appeal. Archbishop Hennessy presided and some fifty priests and nuns were present as witnesses. The vital question was whether the archbishop would consider the charges consecutively and in detail as the complainant requested. He declined to charge after charge and specification after specification was read but the archbishop declined to consider the principal ones and stated emphatically he would hear nothing about personal grievances. Exceptions were taken to all the archbishop's rulings and at the conclusion of the reading the complainant filed a general exception and appealed the case to Mr. Satolli.

So ends the third act in this celebrated case. It is not the last act by any means.

The complaining priests declare that if they do not get justice from Mr. Satolli the case will be carried to Rome. They also assert that the case will now be given full airing in the civil courts. As they have not been able to secure a hearing before Archbishop Hennessy they propose when the injunction case comes up at Nebraska City next week that the public shall know the inside facts.

FRANK CREWS TRIPLES CRIME. Murdered Employer and Wife and Then Killed Their Son.

COLLEGEVILLE, Tex., April 12.—Frank Crews, a farm hand, this morning near here mortally wounded Thomas Merrill, his employer, and cut Mrs. Merrill's throat when she came to her husband's assistance. Merrill died at 8 o'clock. He said Crews killed him as the result of a quarrel over wages.

After the murder Crews robbed Merrill of his money and watch. He then stole a horse and went to the house of Morgan Merrill, son of the murdered man, three miles away, and without a word of warning shot him down in the field.

The sheriff with six deputies left Gainesville this morning with a posse for the scene. The posse was increased to nearly six hundred here.

Crews crossed Red River into the Indian territory 3 o'clock this afternoon with the sheriff and posse one hour behind him. Father, mother and son were buried at the same time this evening.

HIS CHECK WAS CASHED.

It Had Six Barrals and Was Good for $2,500.

CRAWFORD, Neb., April 12.—While Albert Whipple, cashier of the Crawford Banking company, was alone in the bank at 3:40 this afternoon a stranger attired in cowboy garb entered and shoving a six-shooter in Whipple's face demanded money. Whipple gave up all the cash on the counter, amounting to about $2,500. The robber then compelled Whipple to enter the vault and locked him in, where he was found twenty minutes later by the president. Two men, one of whom answers the description given by Whipple, were noticed riding leisurely out of town a little before 4 o'clock. Several parties are out after the robbers.

LOCKOUT NOT GENERAL.

Less Than One-Sixth Estimated Number of Men Idle.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The lockout of the building trades today was not so general as was expected, not more than 10,000 men being thrown out of employment. The boss builders claimed 60,000 employes would be affected but there was lack of harmony among the contractors and many did not stop work. The men claim the movement is a complete failure and many boss builders are of the same opinion. Others say the lockout will become general before the close of the week.

WILL NOT BE IMPEACHED.

Congressional Committee Admits Jenkins' Action Was Legal.

PITTSBURG, April 12.—The congressional committee appointed to investigate the action of Judge Jenkins in this city today en route to Washington. Colonel Stone, who remained over, said that while Judge Jenkins certainly went too far in making such an order, the committee did not discover sufficient evidence to warrant a recommendation for his impeachment. The committee will in all probability recommend legislation that will cover such cases.

WILL BE OPEN EARLY.

St. Mary's River Navigation Will Begin Very Soon.

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 12.—(Special.)—Owing the heavy southeast gale followed by warm rains the past four days and the extremely warm weather today navigation will not open later than April 18. Blind River on Georgian Bay is open and Gladstone is expected to be open tomorrow. The tug Annie Clark has returned from Batchawana and reports all clear between here and White Fish.

MISS MORGAN MARRIED.

Pierpont Morgan's Daughter Weds W. Pierson Hamilton.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Society gathered at St. George's church this afternoon at the wedding of Miss Juliet Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, to W. Pierson Hamilton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William S. Rainford, assisted by Bishop Whipple of Minnesota.

CROSSING THE ATLANTIC.

Recent Tempest Has Moved Eastward on Steamer Route.

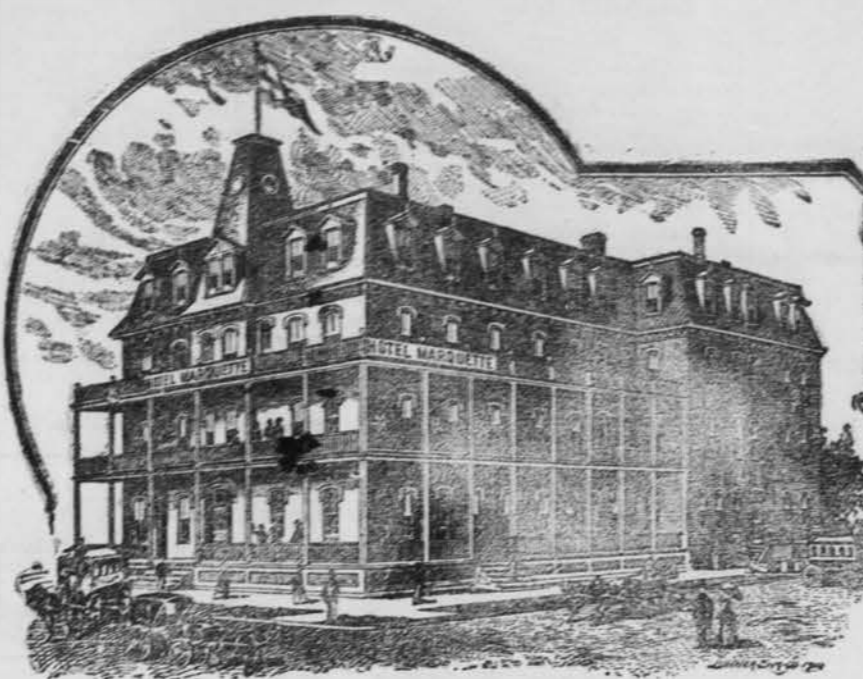

NEW YORK, April 12.—The storm of yesterday and day before has passed out to sea directly in the course of ocean steamers. Incoming vessels report terrible weather with very high seas outside. It is raining and growing thick off shore.

STRIKERS DEMORALIZED.

Their Leader a Fugitive and but Five Plants Idle.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 12.—The coke strikers are demoralized by the disappearance of Michael Barrett, the newly-elected president of their organization. A warrant is out for his arrest.

Corbett Sails for Europe. NEW YORK, April 12.—James J. Corbett sailed for Europe today on the Faerut Bismarck. He expressed confidence that his match with Jackson would come off.

FEMININE ATHLETICS. Diana Who Hunt, Fair Fishermen and Players of Golf, Tennis and Hockey.

A review of athletic sports and pastimes in which women are becoming prominent is most interesting in prophecy and most encouraging in prospect of the new and stronger womanhood of the future. There are women who stalk and shoot and fish, and there are others who make a profession of some particular game whose names at once remind us of a tennis court or golf ground. After Mrs. Tyacke, the bravest Diana of modern date, and one or two other English women who have shot the bears in the woodland, and the women who have stalked and killed the red deer, Stalking may be hard, rough work, requiring an unusual amount of endurance, but there are plenty of English women who possess the strength and delight in the brief stalking season. In this country a well-known huntswoman is Mrs. Will Allen Dromgoole, a writer well known to the Boston literary set, who has a cabin in the Tennessee mountains, with portieres and window hangings of fox and coon and bear skins and ornaments of antlers from deer she has shot herself. Many English women, too, are as good with a rod as with a rifle and the list is headed by the princess of Wales and her daughters, all of whom are good salmon fishers. The duchess of Fife has fished regularly on the Dee all the autumn with much success, having caught between thirty and forty salmon. They handle a heavy salmon rod well and to make a cast of some forty or fifty feet of line so that the fly shall alight on the water within a few inches of a desired spot requires a great amount of strength as well as much practice.

Lawn tennis a dozen years ago was the resource of every summer girl, but now in many country places in England the most deserted corner of the pleasure grounds is the lawn tennis court. "Society has ceased to flirt with lawn tennis." It may see the century out, but every year it will be played less by those who have no particular facility for it, and given over to the champions.

Golf has taken the place of tennis and it is capital exercise for sinews and muscles, is not extremely fatiguing, and in England can be played both in winter and summer. The game is played in a large grass-covered space with tiny balls and odd little hookeys or clubs, by means of which the ball is propelled over the ground. The art of driving these little balls from one hole in the ground to another is by no means as easy as it looks, but it is by no means impossible to the woman who does not lose her temper when the ball gets into the "bunker," and has the good sense to wear suitable and comfortable clothing. Golfing women are said to be more enthusiastic over their favorite game than half the men who play on the "links."

Hockey is another favorite game, particularly with English college girls, though it is rather rough. It is played on a smooth, level rectangle, with the players divided into groups occupying the two ends of the grounds. A stick with a thick knotted end is used to knock the ball from the opponents end of the line. The Thames has a ladies' "eight," too, which attracts considerable attention. The members of the crew are neatly attired in white, with ties and hat bands of leader cerise. They pull a light craft and their rowing is remarkably good, with the proper "time" and "body swing." Wellesley college girls, too, have a crew, well trained and doing pretty work with the oars, while every class has its chosen eight in training during the season. Interscholastic boat races between the women's colleges may be a feature of the twentieth century so near at hand, and which is already known as the woman's century.—N. Y. Sun.

The United States court of appeals has decided that the Western Union Telegraph Co. is as much a common carrier as railroad or express companies, and that its inter-state business is subject to the control of the interstate commission.

DEAD MEN'S FOOD IN YUCATAN. There Are Occasions When It Is Very Much Relished by the Living.

From remote times the Mayas have been accustomed to make offerings to the souls of the departed, particularly a certain pie that they call "food for the soul," says Mrs. Le Pilongem in Popular Science Monthly. The crust must be of yellow corn; the interior, tender chicken and small pieces of pork. These pies are wrapped in leaves of the banana tree and baked underground between hot stones. When done they are placed on the graves or hung from trees close by. Sometimes, after leaving them there for an hour or two, the living take home the pies and enjoy them, saying that the souls have already drawn from them all the ethereal part of the substance.

When among the ruins in the ancient city of Chichen Itza, we happened to be very hard pressed for food on All Saints' day, as on many other occasions, and knowing that the "feast of the dead" would be celebrated in a not very distant village, we allowed some of our men to go there and take their chance of enjoying a good meal.

In that they were most successful, the natives being at all times exceedingly hospitable, and never failing to invite those who approach their home to partake of what they have. But the men also thought of us. We had early taken to our hammocks, remembering the saying: "Qui dort, dine" (He who sleeps, eats). About two o'clock in the morning we were aroused by a man only just returned from the village. He had waited there till all were asleep, then made his way to the graveyard and gathered from a tree a fine fruit in the shape of a large pie. This he brought to us, wisely arguing that the embodied needed it more than the disembodied. The dead man's food was still wrapped in its banana leaf, and we were not sorry to avail ourselves of this chance to breakfast at two o'clock in the morning. No tender chicken was concealed within that particular crust, only a pig's foot with a few stray bristles on it, and a most liberal dose of red pepper, but hunger made it excellent.

The Naval Powers. An official report of the instantly available battle ships of the six great powers shows that of first-class vessels England has 15, France 9, Russia 3 and the Triple Alliance 10, of which 9 are Italian and 1 German. All the English vessels steam 16 1/2 knots and upward, 2 being 18 1/2; none of the French is over 16 1/2 knots; while 2 of the 3 Russians are under 10, the third reaching 17.8. In second-class ships England leads with 13, France has 9, Russia 4 and the Triple Alliance 11, of which Germany owns 7 and Austria 4. Here there is no such superiority of speed on the English side, three being under 13 knots, while no French vessel goes so low as that figure and all the Russians steam 14 knots and over.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

Of the entire number of English peerages only 5 go back as far as the thirteenth century. Of the 538 temporal peers 350 have been created during the present century, 196 during the past century, and only 92 trace their titles beyond the year 1700.

It used to be the custom in the Belgian parliament to supply not only the members but the reporters in the gallery with brandy and water ad libitum. Every member habitually spoke with a glass of brandy and water beside him and when he had finished another was brought.

"Plebiscite programmes" were a popular fad at concerts in Great Britain last winter. The audience at any one concert was invited to indicate on blanks attached to the programmes the works they would like to hear at the next concert. The decision was by the majority vote. The idea was original with the late Dr. von Bulow, and is said to be successful.

The weather in Australia during the past antipodean summer was unusually hot and oppressive. In Adelaide, during December, the thermometer several times registered over 100 degrees in the shade, and one day it climbed to 107 in the shade and 103 in the sun. In Melbourne the hundred notch reached more than once, and the scorching north winds was made the atmosphere exceedingly oppressive. The foregoing figures are from weather observatory readings, and probably do not represent by several degrees the temperature of the city streets.

The half-penny post card was not used in England till 1870, the year which saw also the reduction of the penny postage on newspapers to a half penny. But in the year before that an Austrian named Dr. Emanuel Herman, who is still alive, invented the post card, and it was introduced in Austria-Hungary. In 1873 it spread to Germany, and was adopted in 1880 by the international postal union. In Austria alone 100,000,000 cards are now used annually, the English post offices pass upward of 250,000,000, and the total for the whole world is no less than a milliard (1,000,000,000).

With the adoption of tinted stationery by people of refinement, an effort is being made in English circles to go still further and introduce colors in cards of invitation. It is not, however, received with much favor, even abroad. The shapes also threaten change, the cards being long and narrow, as in the time of Louis XVI, the envelopes to match. A wretched fancy is the new turkey-red note paper, exactly in the center of the page a fleur-de-lis embossed in white. The ink used upon it must also be white, and the seal the same. All these departures have a very brief stay, the elegance of cream or white stationery always rising up in protest at such innovations, sinning as they do against refined taste.

Free Employment Bureau.

One feature of the Benevolent Society about which very little has been said, is its efforts in getting employment for women either as domestics, clerks or in any other line for which they may find themselves adapted.

The addresses of women wishing employment may be found at the Society's headquarters, Y. M. C. A. rooms. Those who are in need of female help would consider their own interests as well as aid the needy, by consulting the Benevolent Society's register. There is no expense to either employer or employee, and the majority of those whose names appear on the register are known to be competent and trustworthy.

Last night in Masonic hall the last of the series of parties which have made many evenings of the past winter pleasant was held. It seemed as though each guest realized that the charming gatherings were at an end, as ordinary efforts at amusement were redoubled and there was a dash and whirl in every phase of the evening's enjoyment that denoted a determination to get all that was possible out of every moment. Hughes' orchestra furnished music as usual and Joe Mack prompted.

When You Write to the Queen.

The paper on which letters to Queen Victoria are written must not be folded. No communication which bears evidence of having been creased will ever fall into her majesty's own hands. The proper method is to write on thick, glossy white paper and to dispatch the missive in an envelope which fits it. Any folded communication never reaches the queen, for the simple reason that she won't look at it. All such letters are opened by the mistress of the robes, and, as a rule, their contents never get beyond her, or, if the letter is of importance, it is returned to the writer with directions how to forward it.

Weight and Cost of the First Cable.

The original 1858 cable weighed 93 pounds per mile and had a conductor of seven copper wires of 2 1/2 gauge. Price of deep sea wire per mile, $200; price of spun yarn and iron wire per mile, $265; cost of outside coating of tar and gutta-percha, 25¢ per mile; total cost per mile, $465. At $485 per mile the total cost of the 2,500 miles of deep sea wire was $1,212,500. To this add 25 miles of "shore end" wire, costing $1,450 per mile, and we find that the first ocean cable, exclusive of instruments, cost $1,250,000.

Mrs. A. M. Adams' opening will occur on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the present week. (4-13-94)

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

—Earthenware sleepers, the invention of Matsui Tokutaro, were recently experimented on at Shimbashi station, Japan. Fairly good results were obtained. It is claimed that the increased cost of earthenware sleepers is amply compensated by their freedom from decay.

—John Thacker, of Waterford, Va., being accidentally at Cincinnati, bought at a sale of unclaimed baggage a trunk in which he found property that proved to be that of a relative who had been missing for years, and the incident has led to the reunion of a long separated family.

—The nineteenth century will not end till midnight of Monday, December 31, 1900, although the old quarrel will probably be renewed as to what constitutes a century and when it winds up, and thousands will insist on the premature burial of the old century at midnight of December 31, 1899.

—Tenement houses in New York stand a chance of being abolished unless the owners keep them in repair, provide decent fire-escapes and have things about the house in decent shape. The new tenements will, according to the law that is being urged, accommodate a certain number of families and no more.

—"Hear, hear," is perhaps the most familiar interjection heard during debates in the house of commons, but how few members know the origin of the phrase. It will be a surprise to many to know that the earliest instance of its use is to be found in II Samuel, xx., 15: "Then cried a wise woman out of the city, 'Hear, hear!'"

—The West India migratory crab is the only creature that is born in the sea, matures in fresh water and passes its adult life on land. Once a year these creatures migrate in thousands from the uplands of Jamaica, deposit their larvae in the sea, then migrate to the rivers and streams, pass through a fresh water stage, after which they follow their parents to land until the time comes for them to return to the sea to lay their eggs.

—The most extraordinary biography in existence is neither written nor printed. It is painted. It contains the life and adventures of Charles Magne, a noble Venetian. Having been calumniated, he determined to set himself right in the eyes of his contemporaries, and employed Paul Veronese to paint his biography. The volume has eighteen pages of vellum; each has a large central picture, surrounded by ten smaller, each having its appropriate inscription, the whole recounting the most notable scenes in his life.

—It was the distinction of the Kearsarge to be known to more naval officers and sailors than almost any other actively-employed ship in the navy. Although she had begun to be old-fashioned while she was yet in her prime, she was a convenient and safe boat, with a good deal of room inside, fair speed and an excellent reputation as a sea-going ship. She was consequently almost constantly in commission and during her life of more than thirty years she must have housed several hundred officers and some thousands of men.

—Not a stone's throw above Delmonico's, in Broadway, New York, there is a sequestered resort of actors without outward sign. The place looks like a demure family grocery, where women can buy tea and pickles and sample raisins at their leisure. But its back room is a burst of voluptuous oil paintings, free lunch, cut glass and little side tables. Here you will be pretty sure to run against all the actors in town if you wait long enough, and lately the theatrical news-gatherers have made it their headquarters. It is quiet, crowded, unsuspected and Bohemian.

—Farmers in Maryland and Delaware slowly and unwillingly relinquish the idea of growing wheat and corn in competition with the west and half sorrowfully admit that their lands must in time come to form a market garden for the great cities of the Atlantic seaboard. There is an old-fashioned notion in Delaware and upon the eastern shore that it is more respectable to grow wheat in sixty-acre fields than half a dozen vegetables in small plots and the minute peasant farming of France, Belgium and Holland has no attractions for the occupants of three-hundred-acre farms.

—Charles D. Kubach, a machinist who lives at 2555 Elliott street, Baltimore, has secured a patent on a machine which metal-plates lumber. Mr. Kubach claims that the metal-plated wood has stood the tests of fire and will prevent the spread of flames in any structure where the framework is so protected. This metal protection is a piece of sheet steel that is drawn over the lumber like a glove, by means of machinery, rendering the space between the wood and the covering perfectly air-tight. The thickness of this covering is about that of writing paper, and can be manufactured and placed on lumber at less than one cent per square foot. This metal-plated lumber is not fire-proof, the inventor claims, but will be impervious to water and defy the havoc of rats.

She—Go on, Mr. Harkins.
He—Will, Miss Jones, you perhaps have not noticed that at times I have been constrained, uneasy, often awkward in your presence, that I have had something on my mind that I felt I must say to you.
(Softly) "Yes."

GET NEW BLOOD IN APRIL.

The Body a Machine that Cannot be Stopped for Repairs—Paine's Celery Compound Feeds Its Shattered Nerves, Purifies the Blood, Makes Refreshing Sleep Possible.

March winds and April showers sweep and scour the earth and clear the air of winter impurities, making it sweet and wholesome.

The same thing takes place in the body, the pores open and the blood that creeps in winter now rushes through the arteries in a fuller, stronger stream.

Now is the great season of purification, of new life, new hope, new ambition. It is the best time to get well. Spring is hopeful and the invalid gets well quicker when hopeful than when despondent.

Thousands of people throughout the country are this month taking Paine's celery compound—the great spring medicine that makes people well.

"What March does not kill may be done for by April," says an old adage. The nine weeks from February 1 to May 1 develop the hidden germs of disease inside the body and without. For health's sake, back yards, cellars, and the dark closets and corners must be cleaned out, and for health's sake everyone needs to take a spring medicine like Paine's celery compound; years have shown the wisdom of doing so.

April has always been set down as the best time to renovate impurities from the blood and to regulate the nervous system.

The formula for Paine's celery compound was given to the world by Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., while he was still active professor in Dartmouth medical school. A remarkable nerve food and blood purifier, it is the most valuable contribution to the world's progress that American college influence has sent forth.

Its power of restoring lives of countless men and women from feebleness and despair to strength and usefulness is known in every part of the country. It has added thousands of weak, tired-out, ailing women, who thought themselves doomed to be invalids for the rest of their days. Paine's celery compound cures thoroughly and finally rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, diseases of heart, liver and kidneys, and every form of nervous weakness. It cures as nature cures, by feeding the vital inmost parts of the body, the blood and nerves.

All the parts of the body are adjusted with the greatest alacrity, and a derangement of one affects the whole. We cannot stop this complicated mechanism for repairs, because we do not know the secret that would set it going again. The repairs must be made when it is in motion.

It is in sleep that the machine goes slowly, the heart beats less rapidly, the blood circulates less quickly, the nerves rest, the muscles relax, and each gains vigor in the only way it can—by sleep and rest. Paine's celery compound quiets and regulates the nerves by supplying the material for their repair, and the tired and exhausted man and woman, on the verge of breaking down, gets sleep and the means of recovery to health and strength.

All over the country Paine's celery compound is convincing overworked businessmen, anxious housekeepers, women behind counters, and in offices, school teachers and all who use the brain excessively, that the unqualified praise from physicians and others, who are careful of what they say, is none too strong for this great remedy that is making so many well and strong.

FIRST MEETING LAST EVENING AND WHAT WAS DONE.

Dramatic Club Gets a Bid from the Copper Country--Street Cars Running Again--Challenge Accepted.

CUT 'EM TO THE BONE. Negaunee's new common council met for its first session last evening and "played to a full house."

The mayor called the session to order and the council at once proceeded to business. THE MINING JOURNAL will attempt to give nothing more than a brief synopsis of the work done, owing to the late hour when the meeting adjourned.

H. B. Anderson was chosen marshal, at a salary of $60 per month, this being a reduction of $15 from what was paid last year. Frank A. Bell goes in as city attorney, but will get only $25 a month for his services, instead of the $27 paid him last year.

She Found the Cards.

An Ishpeming man who prides himself on being something of a seven-up player came to Negaunee yesterday and invited a couple of friends to play a social game. The Negauneeites accepted the invitation and as the trio sat down and called for the cards the Ishpemingite began telling of what a great player he was and how he always struck a snap when he came to Negaunee.

HOW SNAILS ARE RAISED.

A Hotel Keeper Says That Fortunes May Be Made in Raising Them.

"It is surprising," said the proprietor of a well-known uptown restaurant to a Tribune reporter a few days ago, "how many snails are eaten in this city. I remember well the first time we added them to our bill of fare, not many years ago. We cooked them day after day, displayed the fact in large letters on our bill of fare, but it was all in vain. The patrons of the house seemed afraid to try them. We lost considerable money in our efforts to introduce them to New York. At first they remained on our hands, and day after day we were obliged to throw our supply into the waste barrels to be carried away as food for animals. But it is different now. People seem to have overcome their prejudices, and snails in various forms are ordered so frequently that we have ceased to be surprised. I do not doubt at all that they will become a favorite dish among New Yorkers. Fortunes, in fact, may be made by their cultivation, and the enterprising Americans who begin farming them now will be certain of large incomes from the industry in a few years. It will then be unnecessary to import them, as we do now, almost exclusively. Many of the snails to be found in the restaurants of New York and on the tables of some private families are imported from France and Switzerland.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Feminine Fancies for the Girl Who Loves Pretty Things. How many pretty lamps are used nowadays and how lovely are the shades! Some of the new ones displayed are marvels indeed. They are made of many ruffles of silk muslin about a finger wide. Each ruffle is edged with narrow black lace. They have a narrow heading and overlap each other in a billowy fashion. The black and white ones are the most striking.

The cascade beginning at the front and ending at the hem of the petticoat in the back is a noticeable feature in the new dresses.

Boots are worn again for hard walking. They have neither pointed nor square toes, but rounded toes. Low heels, of course. The most popular height requires ten buttons. With these boots any hard roads or inclement weather can be braved with impunity. Cinderella shoes are considered very elegant for home wear. Black, with black stockings, or bronze, with stockings of the same shade.

A theater hat is made of ruby velvet with ears and trimmed with buckles and pins in rock crystal. Those who have real jeweled pins use them in their bonnets. Some capotes are of gold and silver lace, trimmed either with an aigrette or little tuft of feather tips, pink, red or cream. No strings on dress bonnets. A pretty hat made of soft felt, the brim turned up in irregular flutes, is ornamented with bows of pink satin, blue feathers and small jet ears.

New designs in greevades are more exquisite than ever before, and the patterns are large and floriated. One design imitates French moire and the water scrolls are defined by tiny spangles. The shot greevade which shades like the inside of an oyster shell, is the most exquisite of all.

SAW MILLS BEGIN CUTTING.

Burtis Plant Sets Ball Rolling With a Gang of Sixty Men.

SAWS WHIZZING MONTH SOONER THAN LAST YEAR.

Logs Will Be Brought by Rail Until Rafting Is Safe on Lake Superior.

MARRIED MEN PREFERRED.

The first board for the cutting season of 1894 fell from the saws in the Burtis mill yesterday morning, and if nothing unforeseen occurs they will continue untroubled until all the logs at command of the rapacious steel teeth are transformed into lumber, lath, shingles, etc. This is the earliest start of the saw mills here in years and nearly a month ahead of last season. Two weeks ago Mr. Burtis did not expect to get the saws running before the 15th but logs came in faster than he had counted and he deemed it best to start as soon as possible, not only as good business policy but on account of the men who were awaiting employment.

In engaging help yesterday Mr. Burtis gave preference to married men and by night had about sixty names on his pay roll, forty of which represented men of family. This means easier times for at least between two and three hundred persons in our city, many of whom found last winter particularly trying. It means more than this, for the lusty puff of the Burtis engines yesterday inspired new hope and confidence in many a breast where too much gloom has dwelt for months.

The logs with which the booms were filled at the time of beginning the cut were brought in by the South Shore road and by this route the supply will continue until Redy Bros. may begin rafting from the Yellow Dog river. If the weather does not again grow wintery rafts will start for Marquette before the end of this month. The number of logs to be cut by the Burtis plant this year is fully equal to that of last and will keep the mills running full time throughout the summer.

The Dead River Mill company expects to begin cutting Saturday or next Monday when the Dead River will be free from ice and ready for the drives. Neither mill is experiencing any difficulty in securing help. Mr. Burtis said he had at least 100 more applications yesterday than he could accommodate, and it was with a feeling of regret he saw them turn away to continue their weary and perhaps fruitless quest.

Almost Summerlike.

It may seem a little early to speak of a ramble along the beach, but several persons yesterday who could not resist the temptation of warm sunshine and balmy breezes—or absence of breezes—rambled down to the Hewitt avenue beach and found enough suggestions of spring to keep them there for several hours. Walking along the well-packed sand was as easy and almost as comfortable as during summer. Old Superior lay like a sea of oil, not a ripple marring its placid surface and only the faintest sign of motion visible when a tiny wave crept lazily a few inches over the pebbles and more lazily crawled back again.

Away out in the lake a flock of gulls were at play, their hoarse cries sounding almost pleasant, toned down by distance and the rare atmosphere. Like a speck on the horizon line could be seen the smoke from the "Theora" while nearer shore, yet too far away to allow any sound to reach the ear, gaily sped the Ethel J. toward harbor. On the beach two fishermen were busily engaged overhauling their boats and down near Picnic Rocks a crowd of urchins threw stones at a sign bearing the legend: "Any boy or person found trespassing here will be prosecuted by law." On the highest point of the first Picnic Rock stood a more venturesome couple of ramblers who had reached that spot without even dampening their shoes.

The pet bear at the life saving station was remembered and a visit found his brimship as frisky as a kitten after his long winter's sleep. His fur was glossy and sleek and he appeared in the very best of humor cheerily greeting both acquaintance and stranger alike. The pet coon was as full of mischief as ever and more of an adept at picking pockets. Taken all in all the day was ideal and those who dared to venture from the pavements and sidewalks into the pine woods or along the sandy beach were well repaid by bringing back sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks, placed there by the best of all spring medicines, fresh air, genial sunshine and brisk exercise.

Part Five Now on Hand.

Part 5 of Picturesque America has been received at THE MINING JOURNAL office and, with all back numbers, is ready for distribution to subscribers. Each part of this splendid work seems to increase in merit and beauty. To the majority of subscribers the numbers appear almost in the nature of a short trip through some world-famed beauty of this marvelous America, while Bryant's concise and graphic descriptive text acts as an intelligent guide pointing out the most salient features of the scenes visited and impressing them with historic reminiscences which greatly enhance their value to the entranced fancy traveler. But very few can afford to travel about this country purely to view its natural beauties but almost any person may manage to expend ten cents and clip three coupons from THE MINING JOURNAL with which to secure a part of the Picturesque America. That this is true is proved by the daily increasing demand for the work. At first less than twenty-five copies were ordered which were expected to more than supply the demand. Within a week the original order had been increased to more than 100 and has now reached a figure far beyond 500. This increase is chiefly the result of those having first subscribed showing their prize to neighbors and friends. Picturesque America sells directly on its merits, is a standard in art, a classic in descriptive literature and when complete will make one of the most valuable and interesting additions possible to the ordinary library.

Bring in your dimes and three coupons and get number 5. If you are behind in any of the other numbers, 1, 2, 3, or 4, you may now fill up the gap by applying at this office. It is not wise to delay in calling for these numbers as they go literally like "hot cakes."

Millinery Openings.

Yesterday was a gala occasion for Marquette shoppers. Some of the leading millinery establishments had announced it as the first of their spring opening days, and the Queen City's fair populace turned out as though moved by one impulse, to see what Dame Fashion had decreed they should wear during spring and summer months.

LaRoche made a most attractive and elaborate display. His store was filled from floor to ceiling with all the latest novelties and fancies from the leading fashion centers and many were the compliments showered upon him, not only on account of his excellent goods but also for their artistic disposition. His window dressing was a work of art. In the east window stood a magnificent basket of artificial flowers on a large mirror, presenting the appearance of a beautiful bouquet floating on a surface of purest water. The west window was embellished with a dainty display of baby's goods, presenting some of the finest fabrics in the market for the wee, wee folks. All day LaRoche's store was crowded with customers and the business done was a gratifying surprise. This season's styles appear to sell much more readily than those for several years past.

Two windows in the Harlow block facing Front street also attracted the eyes of all passers yesterday. A card in one of them announced Mrs. Adams' opening day. Inside the big store were displayed the many conceits designed to capture the fancy of women and excite the admiration of men. Mrs. Adams and her clerks were kept on the steady move all day and she considers this her most successful millinery opening in years. Everything about the store and windows was displayed with exquisite taste.

Must Behave Themselves.

The Queen City Lyceum League will hold its regular weekly meeting in the High School room tonight. An excellent program has been arranged, one of the items being a stirring debate, and the public is cordially invited to be present.

It is with deep regret the Lyceum finds itself compelled to take a course somewhat at variance with its usual methods. On account of the ungentlemanly behavior of several of the visitors at recent meetings the League has decided not to admit any young man or boy to the weekly entertainments unless upon the presentation of a ticket of admission. These tickets may be procured from any member of the League, providing the applicant is satisfactory. This action has been deemed necessary to preserve the customary good order prevailing at these Friday evening gatherings and to insure young women and well-disposed young men courteous treatment during the deliberations of the League.

Alderman Putnam's Departure.

J. W. Putnam, who for three years has had charge of the yards and shipping of the Dead River Mill company, will leave today for Alpena. From there he will go to Cleveland. It is expected he will shortly join interests with a prominent lumber manufacturer in the establishment of new yards. Mr. Putnam has several irons in the fire at present but this is likely the one he will decide to hammer. Mrs. Putnam will visit friends in Wisconsin until her husband gets settled in Cleveland. Friends of Mr. Putnam will deeply regret his departure. Since his location here he has taken a lively interest in all that concerned the advancement of Marquette and one year ago was elected alderman to represent the Eighth ward, a position which he has filled with fidelity and credit and which his departure will make vacant. Citizens of Alderman Putnam's stamp are not easily replaced and while wishing he had staid here THE MINING JOURNAL joins his many well-wishers in hoping his move may prove advantageous to himself.

Maccabee Anniversary.

The anniversary of the foundation of the Knights of the Maccabees occurs June 11 and it is a custom of the order to hold a celebration on or about that date. Superior tent No. 28, the oldest and largest of the three tents in this city, is making preparations for a grand ball on or about that date. Superior tent has over 150 members and, despite the hard times, is in a prosperous condition and has a good balance in the treasury. Much of the prosperity of this tent is due to the genuine spirit of fraternity exhibited among its members, as shown by the fact that in all the depression of the last few months not one member has been allowed to forfeit his insurance in the order. The precise date of the annual ball has not yet been arranged but it will be given early in June and all who attend are assured of a pleasant evening. Further particulars will be announced in due time.

We have just received and placed on our shelves a nice new stock of Millinery Goods in all the latest styles and fancies.

The ladies of Marquette and vicinity are cordially invited to attend our opening and examine our stock whether intending to make a purchase or not.
