SENATE DISCUSSES COXEY.

Perhaps Back-Number Body Re-izes Its Responsibility for Coxeyism.

COUNCIL BLUFFS PEOPLE PURCHASE PEACE.

Kelly's Tramps Complacently Agree to Behave as Long as They Shall Be Well Fed.

TALKED IN SECRET SESSION.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Four local sympathizers with the Coxey movement called upon the president this afternoon to request that Washington Barracks be thrown open for the accommodation of the Commonweal army during its stay in this city. The president said he would consider the matter.

SENATE DISCUSSES COXEY.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Coxey movement received its first recognition at the hands of the senate today. The question was brought up in executive session and was under consideration for an hour and a half. No formal action was taken and the matter was considered very irregularly.

Senator Harris, speaking for the committee on rules, said the committee had the question under consideration and after examination of the statutes had reached the conclusion that the laws now on the statute books made ample provision for the protection of the buildings and grounds. The committee had taken the necessary steps to see the laws executed.

CAMP-FOLLOWERS ARE FEARED.

The majority of those present expressed the view that no danger was to be apprehended except possibly from thieves and other hard characters who might take advantage of the presence of the Coxeyites and make trouble. The opinion was general that preparations should be made to look after such persons very closely.

The impression seemed general that the regularly organized police would be capable of executing the laws during the presence of the Coxeyites and it would not be necessary to make any show of armed force.

JACKSON IS WEAK-KNEED.

OMAHA, April 18.—Laboring men held a meeting and denounced the treatment of Kelly's army. The police broke up the meeting as dangerous. A similar meeting was held in Council Bluffs. The Omaha Commercial club through its officials has threatened to boycott railroads that refuse to carry the Commonwealers eastward. As a result of the indignation meeting at Council Bluffs Governor Jackson has ordered the militia to break camp around Kelly's army and return to Council Bluffs, leaving the Industrials free to pursue their journey on foot or by train as occasion offers.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., April 18.—A mass meeting was held this afternoon and the opera house was crowded. The meeting was addressed by some of the most influential citizens of Council Bluffs, among whom were Mayor Cleaver and Hon. H. M. Bussey, a prominent banker here and ex-congressman of the Ninth Iowa district. After the speeches an aid committee was appointed to solicit contributions and buy food for the army.

RAISED CASH FOR KELLY.

Chairman Bussey called for contributions of money from the audience. In the next minute a perfect stream of humanity was passing to the stage, handing up donations from five cents to $20. Silver fairly rained upon the stage from the galleries. The money received by Kelly today reached over $500. A committee of charitable women secured wagons and canvassed the city for clothing.

The militia is now stationed at the Union depot in this city and their withdrawal from the camp of Kelly's army causes no uneasiness as it is the universal opinion that so long as the men are not allowed to go hungry no trouble will ensue. Kelly has agreed to march east tomorrow morning. Seven wagons loaded with provisions furnished by the citizens here will follow him.

HUNGRY FOR WITNESS FEES.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., April 18.—The authorities are having much trouble with the second regiment of Los Angeles Commonwealers. In order to break up the regiment eight leaders under arrest were taken to Colton for trial on a charge of attempting to defraud the Southern Pacific out of fares. They were further charged with inciting riot. They pleaded not guilty, and demanded separate jury trials and each one subpoenaed every member of the army as a witness, thereby hoping to get all their comrades jobs at $2 a day during the trial of the eight different cases.

EASIER THAN WALKING.

ORLEANS ROADS, Va., April 18.—Coxey's army floated down the canal all right, stopping at Bell's lock for breakfast. Hancock was reached tonight, one day ahead of the schedule.

AFRAID OF ANARCHISTS

Even Ducal Wedding Not Safe from Their Outrages.

COBURG, April 18.—This city is in festival attire for the wedding of the Grand Duke of Hesse and Princess Victoria of Coburg. Great crowds are present from all parts of Europe. The weather is splendid and flags, flowers, bunting, triumphal arches and pictures of the princely couple are seen everywhere. This morning was given to continuous exchange visits between the many royal personages gathered in this city.

The greatest precautions are being taken to prevent any possible attempt on the lives of any of the royal visitors. In addition to the general detective forces, Queen Victoria, Emperor William, the Russian czar, the Prince of Wales and other royalties are attended by special body guards of their respective countries; The police are particularly vigilant as to the czar, and Emperor William, having received intimations of an anarchist plot against the life of the German emperor. The ducal schloss and all other buildings in which members of the royal families are quartered are heavily guarded night and day.

NO BATTLE-SHIPS THIS YEAR.

House Committee Reluctantly Admits Lack of Needed Cash.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The present and prospective naval strength of the United States in comparison with foreign powers is set forth in the report of the house committee on naval affairs presented today. Chairman Cummings' report says:

"The committee has reluctantly concluded not to recommend the construction of any new battle-ships because of the depleted condition of the treasury. It is urged, however, that there must be no halt in building up our new navy. The slight increase proposed by the committee will certainly not burden the country with taxation during the coming year and with renewed prosperity the work can be continued in the future without ever burdening the nation."

The report recommends the construction of three new torpedo boats and turning the Vesuvius into a torpedo cruiser. The report summarizes the items of appropriation for the new navy. The total is $25,380,966, which is an advance on last year, but a considerable decrease from the estimates. The main item decreased is $4,000,000 for armor plate, which is $2,500,000 less than the estimates.

BEATIFICATION OF D'AVILA.

Pope Sang Mass at St. Peter's for Spanish Pilgrims.

ROME, April 18.—Today was set apart for the beatification of Juan d'Avila Diego of Cadiz. Fifteen thousand pilgrims from Spain were in the city to witness the ceremonies, headed by fifteen bishops and many priests. St. Peter's was filled with pilgrims. The pope celebrated mass and then sat on his throne and listened to an address by the archbishop of Seville. The reply of His Holiness was in Spanish, read by Mgr. Delval. It referred to the unusual importance of the pilgrimage, eulogized the queen-regent of Spain and enjoined submission to the constituted powers. Then the people kneeled and the pope was borne among them, bestowing his blessing. There were nineteen cardinals at the audience, which lasted two and one-half hours.

ARE AFTER CARLISLE.

Can He Defy the Civil Service Law With Impunity?

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The course of Secretary Carlisle in dismissing certain Republican officials of the treasury who held their offices under the civil service laws is to be tested in the courts. Today Attorneys W. W. Millard and Richard Bell of this city applied to the supreme court of the District of Columbia for a mandamus compelling the secretary to reinstate Eugene F. Gadsis, over whose case there has been some spicy correspondence between the civil service commissioner and the secretary. Judge Bradley signed an order for the secretary to show cause Tuesday, April 24, why the mandamus should not be issued and the marshal served the notice on Secretary Carlisle.

'MARK TWAIN' ASSIGNS.

Finds Publishing Books Not So Profitable as Writing Them.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) and Frederick Hall, doing business as Charles L. Webster & Co., book sellers and publishers, made an assignment today for the benefit of creditors. The assignment was a complete surprise and is said to be on account of failure to obtain money on the firm expected to get to meet maturing obligations. Mr. Clemens is worth from $300,000 to $400,000 outside of his investments in the firm. Mr. Hall when seen today stated he could give no details of the firm's affairs at present, but when asked if the liabilities would reach $500,000 he said they would not amount to half that sum.

STILL AFTER SEIGNORAGE.

Meyer's Bill Also Provides for Three Per Cent Bonds.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The coinage committee met this morning. Mr. Meyer (La.) was present to urge his bill for coining the seignorage. He stated the measure had the approval and was in part suggested by Secretary Carlisle and in the judgment of the secretary would be signed by the president. He explained that the bill provided for coining the seignorage and amended the resumption act so that hereafter 3 per cent bonds could be issued instead of 4 1/2 and 5 per cents. The committee reached no conclusion.

THREE WELL DRILLERS KILLED.

Portable Boiler Used to Operate Their Machinery Exploded.

KEOKUK, Ia., April 18.—By the explosion of a portable boiler used to operate an artesian well drill three men were instantly killed and one fatally injured. The dead and injured are: JAMES STERRITT, PETER KEEFE, JOHN ROWAN, CHARLES JONES, fatally hurt.

Maney May Be Hanged.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The testimony for the prosecution in the trial of Lieutenant Maney for the killing of Captain Hedberg was continued today. Other witnesses of the tragedy repeated the story substantially as heretofore told.

POLISH RIOTERS SLAIN.

Mob of Strikers Attacked the Sheriff of Wayne County and Deputies.

TWO RIOTERS KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED.

Tried to Drive Off Men Employed on City Work—Sheriff Collins Badly Hurt.

LAW-BREAKERS GOT LEAD.

DETROIT, April 18.—Wayne county's sheriff lies in a precarious condition tonight, his body badly lacerated by the shovels of enraged rioters. Two Polish laborers are dead and the number injured is not yet known. These unfortunate conditions are the result of a conflict which occurred today between some four hundred Poles and Sheriff Collins and five deputies.

The riot was brought about by a difference of opinion over the wages to be paid laborers by the city water commissioners for digging trenches. No actual outbreak was anticipated but as a precaution Sheriff Collins and five deputies went to the scene to protect those who wished to work.

Shortly before noon the rioting began. A mob of Poles started to clean out the officers and the handful of laborers at work. The officers drew their revolvers and fired over the strikers' heads. The mob came on and the next volley was discharged into the rioters' ranks. Then the officers retreated, firing as they went. Still the mob followed, one man dealing the sheriff a serious blow on the head with a shovel. The other officers, workers and an Evening News reporter escaped, all being more or less pounded with shovels.

The mob then scattered, leaving the sheriff unconscious on the ground.

The dead and wounded are:

ANDREA KARNATZKE, shot dead.
POLE, name unknown, shot dead.
SHERIFF COLLINS, cut in head and leg and severe body bruises.
GEORGE CATHEY, city employe, many cuts and bruises.
UNKNOWN POLE, shot in back.
QUADRUPEL, shot in breast.
LAUREN KULWICKI, shot in hip.
TONY GERKENWICK, shot in thigh.
TURNKEY STYTSKAL.
W. E. THIX.
ANDREW ROBRING.
JOHN R. FISHER, reporter were all more or less hurt.
MICHAEL KANAFSKI, shot and will probably die.
DETECTIVE W. H. BORRIS, ribs broken.
JOE JARAWSKI, bullet wound in breast.

During the afternoon some twenty Poles were arrested, which has intensified the bitterness and this evening the situation is being vindictively discussed by crowds of Poles in various parts of the city. Extra officers are on duty to preserve the peace whatever may occur.

Another shooting affray took place this evening in the rear of the municipal court building. A group of Poles had congregated there and Deputy Sheriff Borneman recognized one of them as one of the rioters. He started to arrest the man when some one in the crowd fired a revolver, apparently at the officer, but hitting the Pole in the leg. At the hospital he gave his name as Tony Pabloski.

DEADLY OVERHEAD WIRES.

Two St. Louis Fireman Killed by Monopolistic Greed.

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—Two fireman lost their lives today and one was badly injured as a result of the overhead wire nuisance. While responding to an alarm from a burning stable two men became entangled in the wires which, melted by the heat of the flames, had parted and fallen to the ground. The men stepped on the wire while directing a stream. William Gannon was killed and Tom Dolan, former catcher for the St. Louis Browns, was probably fatally injured. Ben Shively was badly burned.

A MODERN BRINVILLIERS.

Antwerp Woman Charged With Murder of Three Relatives.

ANTWERP, April 18.—The police today arrested Mme. Jnialux, who belongs to one of the most prominent families in Antwerp. She is charged with being connected with the recent mysterious poisoning cases at Ghent, Antwerp and Brussels. The object of the poisoning is said to have been to obtain large sums of insurance money. Mme. Jnialux is charged with murdering her own sister, brother and husband's uncle during separate visits which the deceased persons made her.

Ten Guests of Hotel Hurt in a Fire Panic.

BANGOR, Me., April 18.—Fire started in the Merchants Hotel this morning. The flames went up through the four stories to the roof very quickly. The guests were panic stricken and many jumped from the windows. Ten persons were more or less injured by jumping from the windows but none seriously.

STICKNEY SUCCEEDS EGAN.

Sudden Change in Management of Chicago Great Western.

ST. PAUL, April 18.—Without warning J. M. Egan resigned as president and general manager of the Chicago Great Western railroad and A. B. Stickney was elected president in his place. Stickney's son Samuel succeeds Egan as general manager. It is understood the resignation was the outcome of some sudden difference of opinion with Stickney.

"You won't do for me!

You may be an excellent servant in many ways, but you say you don't use Pearlina for washing and cleaning—you can't be bright. My poor girl, soap takes up your time and wears out the things, with the rubbing; and those wretched washing-powders that you speak of are only poor imitations of Pearlina, and eat up the clothes. No, you're not bright enough for me." Well, the lady is bright, to say the least. Evidently she has had the best of teachers—experience. Have you? "Yes!"—then you use Pearlina. "No!"—then you had best begin at once. Ask some friend about Pearlina—take her experience.

SERPENT IN PARADISE.

Keweenaw County's Arcadia Has Actually Been Invaded by a Thief!

LARCENY CASE TO BE TRIED AT NEXT COURT.

One Bedard is Charged With Stealing $100 From Another Lumberman and Bound Over.

Prosecuting Attorney Gray of Keweenaw county arrived from Eagle River yesterday noon where he had been to attend the examination of a lumberman named Bedard, who stole $100 from John A. McDonald, another lumberman in Kingston's camps. The evidence against the prisoner was sufficient to have him bound over to appear at the next term of circuit court.

News was received here Monday evening of the death of Mrs. Michael Smith of Eagle Harbor. A telegram was sent from here to her daughter Miss Nellie, who is attending the State Normal school at Ypsilanti. This is the second time within a year that Miss Smith comes home in response to a death message. Last November her father died while she was away attending school. The funeral will be held Friday morning and the remains will be buried in the Eagle Harbor cemetery.

Manager W. J. Light of the Tamarack store left Tuesday noon for Ontonagon in response to a telegram informing him the death of his father-in-law, Mr. Sweet. Mrs. Light went to Ontonagon several days ago and will return with her husband after the funeral.

A meeting will be held Friday evening, April 20 at Olsen's Hall for the purpose of organizing a Bicycle club all interested in wheeling are invited to attend.

The funeral of Nathaniel, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nat White, was held from the Methodist church yesterday. The little fellow died Monday afternoon.

On Saturday April 25 the Junior Sons of St. George will give a necktie social. CALUMET.

Mr. E. L. Wright will supply the pulpit of the Calumet Congregational church next Sunday. In the morning he will preach a sermon in his own composition, entitled "Riches through Poverty." In the evening the subject will be "Frances Ridley Havergal, her Life and Hymns."

William Weber, a boy attending the miners in the Osceola, was injured quite severely yesterday morning by a rock falling on his head, inflicting a gash about four inches long from the top of the head to the forehead right through to the skull.

The contract for unloading coal for the Calumet & Hecla company was let at 11; cents a ton to the same parties who handled the coal last year. The loading of the mineral copper for shipment to the Buffalo Smelting works will be done by the same men.

Rev. H. C. Scofield, the new pastor of the Congregational church, is expected with his family about May 1 from Lodi, Ills.

Rev. C. C. Turner of the Methodist church leads the young men's meeting next Sunday.

The new stained glass windows have all been put in place in the Catholic church here. Rev. Fr. Sauroil, has waited patiently for them and now feels greatly pleased because the work of plastering and finishing the interior has gone on. The new windows are all memorial and have been donated of the church by the following persons and societies: Joseph Ethier, A. G. Kaufman, Eugene Rheauve Frank Astensi, Nicholas Reding, G. J. Hebers, J. A. Latreille, Ed. & J. Fehan, P. de N. Paison, J. Batiski, M. Jolie, R. Cud-dihy, Joseph Beauchamp, Ernest Record, Rev. Fr. Sauroil, Rev. Fr. Marceau, Choir of the Church, Hibernian Society, St. Jean Baptiste, Catholic Order of Foresters.

Supervisor Josepe Grezory returned yesterday from his winter sojourn in California.

The base ball enthusiasts are few so far this season. At the meeting held at the fire engine house Tuesday evening for the organization of a team only a few were present and not much was done. A team may be organized later on.

closed down is water tight. She will have two spars, schooner rigged and will carry foresail, mainsail, jib topsail and fore and main gaff topsails. The total area of the canvas carried will be between 1,300 and 1,400 feet. Her standing rigging will be galvanized wire throughout. A novel device for hoisting the center board is one of the best things on the boat and is something that no other yacht possesses, being an original idea of Mr. C. D. Sheldon. The center board is of cast iron and weighs 1,000 pounds. The cabin is especially arranged for comfort. On each side there are two berths to fold up on the Pullman car plan. There are two lockers, one a china closet fixed so that the dishes cannot shift. The cockpit is spacious and will hold a dozen people comfortably. Here are eleven lockers arranged for carrying tables, with one for a stove and another for pots and kettles built on the same plan as that for the dishes. The owners have spared neither pains nor expense to obtain comfort and will use the yacht in cruising and fishing. She is arranged for a party of four and a man to take care of the boat. She will draw with ballast about two feet. She has a ripsy windlass and patent folding anchor. Taken all in all the owners have the most comfortable and one of the best yachts on the lakes and may well feel proud of her. The painters will begin work on her in the early part of next week and she will be ready for use shortly after the opening of navigation.

Just previous to his retiring from the hotel business H. S. Cannon and one of the dining room girls had a heated discussion, which ended in the girl having him arrested for assault and battery. The case was tried before a jury in Justice Brandt's court Tuesday afternoon and ended in the jury finding Mr. Cannon not guilty. Attorney R. Skiff Sheldon defended.

Some neatly printed and very appropriate mottoes to be hung up in the new club house of the Onigaming Yacht club were seen yesterday. They are printed in the Chippewa language and were presented to the club by Francis Jaekler, light keeper of Huron Islands and brother of the late Father Jaekler.

The tug Maytham is now undergoing a thorough overhauling. Captain John Devaney will be at the wheel and William Kohler will be engineer.

Only two days more before the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium exhibition and concert at the Armory Opera house and a number of good seats are left for sale.

The Houghton Silver Cornet Band gives its annual dance at the Armory on the evening of May 3. The boys should have a large attendance.

The Sutherland Comedy company played to an enthusiastic audience at the Armory Opera house Tuesday evening. "Little Esther" is a whole show in herself.

Kutschied & Rule are the Houghton agents of the Ishpeming laundry. They intend sending their first wash out on Monday next.

J. F. Hambitzer returned yesterday from Mason, where he had been attending the Joachim trial.

George Allie and William Kohler have exchanged places, Allie going on the tug Sheldon and Kohler on the tug Maytham.

COLUMBUS WAS ACQUITTED.
Kinney on Trial for Assault—Other L'Anse Notes.

Circuit court convened Tuesday with Judge Hubbell presiding. The first case was People vs J. C. Columbus, assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder. E. J. Mapes of Marquette appeared for the defendant and the jury late yesterday afternoon found him not guilty.

The pending case is People vs A. A. Kinney (colored), larceny and assault upon one Katie Osberry, who was living with a Mr. Anderson at Baraga. Kinney heard that Katie had $1,000 in a trunk in her room and the supposition is that he started a fire in an outhouse in the immediate vicinity to draw out the people. Katie returned before Kinney found the treasure and with a loaded Billy was felled to the floor by a blow on the head. The assailant, however, was recognized by Katie upon her entrance and was promptly armed. The money had been sent to a bank two days previous. This same Kinney was porter three years ago on General Manager Fitch's private car and after his discharge was porter for a short time for the Marquette club. From Marquette he moved to Baraga, where he has since resided.

People vs Pat Clark for selling liquor without a license at Nestoria. Clark was before Judge Haire last fall on the same offense with three charges and was let off on a fine of $50 and promise not to continue the business. There are a couple of civil cases also on the docket.

Attorneys Hanscom, Mapes, Ball and Culver of Marquette are attending court this week.

The drama "The Private Secretary" will be produced on Saturday, April 28 in the opera house. This play is very spicy and full of interest from beginning to end. The leading characters are taken by Messrs. E. E. Halsey, E. A. Mach, S. T. Harris, D. Rowlands, R. C. Williams, J. Shea, L. J. Shepard, and the Misses Mary Andrews, Mary McKernan, Edith Williams and Hortense Orr.

The L'Anse Lumber company's saw mill started the season's cut on Monday. They have sufficient logs at the mill to run them a month or more when those at the head of the bay can be brought down. They also have crews out on the west branch of the Sturgeon and Silver rivers driving several million feet to be rafted to the mill during the season.

Carl Crebassa has had to discontinue his dancing school lessons owing to an advance made in the hall rental. This is very regretted for though Mr. Crebassa has not been responsible for his trouble he was affording an opportunity to many of learning the social art.

The entertainment in the Opera House given by the Y. P. S. C. E. was a very brilliant affair and a better one than some we pay to hear and see.

I. E. Moore, mill foreman of the L'Anse Lumber company, is now occupying the Welsh residence on Broad street. His family arrived Sunday.

John Hermann of Hermann's Jewelry store at Red Jacket, has secured the agency for that remarkable bicycle the "Waverley" made by the Indiana Bicycle company of Indianapolis. It is the handsome wheel in every respect and being sold at "up to date" prices and guaranteed by a reliable company as fine as any wheel made in America it will certainly make its way in the copper region as in other parts of the country and will prove a thorn to the old nonprogressive manufacturers. It has many good points of its own. Orders for three were sent in yesterday. Don't miss the Waverley when you want a bicycle.

APPEALS TO THE COURTS.

Great Northern Railway Asks Injunctions Against Interference by Strikers.

JUDGE SANBORN ISSUES RESTRAINING ORDER.

Strike Leaders Ordered to Show Cause. Two Trains Started From Fargo Under Guard.

WILL PUT ON NEW MEN. ST. PAUL, April 18.—The Great Northern has sworn out informations which will be filed in each United States district court in its territory asking for injunctions against its striking employees to prevent any interference with its business.

The claim is made that the strike interferes with interstate commerce. It is understood that the road will at once begin putting new men at work.

ST. PAUL, April 18.—The order for the men on the Great Northern to strike at Minneapolis has been issued. It at first read for 7 o'clock in the morning but later was changed to 1 o'clock. That means that the entire system will be tied up unless the restraining orders of the court can get it running at once.

FIRST INJUNCTION ISSUED. FARGO, N. D., April 18.—Judge Sanborn has issued a temporary injunction in the United States court, returnable April 27, restraining the Great Northern strikers from interfering with the moving of trains. An attempt will be made to run trains from Fargo to Grand Forks under the protection of United States marshals.

The temporary restraining order issued by Judge Sanborn calls for a hearing in this city April 27, at which time the leaders of the strike are to show cause why they should not be permanently restrained. The restraining order was turned over to his deputies by the United States marshal, and they went out in force on two trains today. No interference with those trains is yet reported although the men still continue to prevent other traffic along the line.

YANKTON, S. D., April 18.—The Great Northern strike reached Yankton this morning and no trains moved today. The entire strike of the men on this division of the road makes the tie-up of the Great Northern complete.

COUNTY OFFICERS SLIGHTED.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., April 18.—W. A. Morris, attorney for the Great Northern, conferred late this afternoon with the county officials with the object of securing their services in getting out several trains. The county officials refused to assist but said if violence were attempted warrants could be issued for assault, which was far as they could go. An attempt was made to make up a train for Wilmar but the strikers objected and the engine was returned to the round house. Another attempt will be made tonight with the United States marshal's assistance.

BUTTE, Mont., April 18.—The situation in the Great Northern strike is unchanged. Superintendent Currier of that road has been arrested at Great Falls by the United States marshal for refusing to carry the mails.

SLAIN BY JEALOUS HUSBANDS.

Shot Their Wives Dead and Then Killed Themselves.

MEMPHIS, Wis., April 18.—Hermann Krueger shot his wife dead on the street this afternoon and then put a bullet through his own head and died in the hospital two hours later. Krueger and his wife had some family troubles, Krueger being of a jealous disposition. A short time ago they sold their home, dividing the proceeds and agreeing to live apart. Today they were on the street about 3 o'clock and he met her with the above result.

OSKALOOSA, Ia., April 18.—George Croft, keeper of a billiard saloon, fatally shot his wife Etta this afternoon and then turned his revolver to his head and killed himself instantly. Croft had been leading a hard life and his wife had applied for a divorce.

JEALOUS INDIAN LOVER.

He Shot His Rival, the Squaw and Himself.

MOBILE, Ala., April 18.—The Apache Indian camp at Mount Vernon barracks furnished a double murder and suicide this afternoon. Hugh Seello, an Apache, shot and mortally wounded a female Apache prisoner named Belle and a comrade named Nahtokhugh. Seello then shot and instantly killed himself. Jealousy caused the affair.

INSANE FATHER'S CRIME.

He Hanged His Two Young Children and Himself.

GLENVILLE, W. Va., April 17.—Lloyd Rhodobough, a prosperous farmer, hanged his two children, aged two and five years respectively, and then took his own life. His wife was absent during the day and on her return found the bodies hanging from the rafters.

DISASTROUS SPRING FLOODS.

Great Damage Done and Many Lives Lost in Armenia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 18.—Many houses were undermined and collapsed, many lives were lost and large numbers of cattle drowned in the districts of Vaa and Erzeroum, in Armenia, by floods caused by melting snow. The snowfall continues.

ITALIAN GENERAL ARRESTED.

Is Charged With Being a Spy on French Maneuvers.

MONACO, April 18.—General Goggio of the Italian army has been arrested, charged with being a spy and watching the maneuvers of the French Alpine troops. Damaging documents are said to have been found on him.

Death of Mrs. Lathrop.

DETROIT, April 18.—Mrs. G. V. M. Lathrop, wife of ex-Minister to Russia Lathrop, died today, aged seventy-one years.

THE FOUNDER OF MONTE CARLO.

Traits of the Man Whose Peculiar Enterprise Reaped Thousands.

One evening in the days of the second empire a crowd of men were reading the evening paper in a salon in the Rue de Rivoli. "Ah," said one, breaking the silence, "so five millions are still wanted to finish the new opera house."

A silent listener took up a pen and filled in and signed a check for that amount without a word. By and by, when the new opera house was finished, that silent man was somehow the only person forgotten in the distribution of seats for the grand opening night.

Charles Monselet is responsible for this curious little anecdote, the hero of which was Francois Blanc, director of the Casino at Monte Carlo. Blanc was a man of vast ambition, a born financier and administrator, who might under certain conditions have been a Rothschild, but who lives in history as a mighty organizer of gambling enterprise, and was really one of the simplest of men. To see him in his brown overcoat, his gold spectacles half dropping off his nose, one would have taken him for a petty rentier, whose wildest dreams were of the construction of a little grotto in his little garden, with little plaster rabbits and a fountain, which, like Wemmick's, would almost wet the back of one's hand.

Before his Monte Carlo days he had been the guiding spirit in the direction of the Casino of Homburg. Benazet, according to his flatterers, was the Louis Quatorze of Baden-Baden. Blanc, who was impervious to flattery, might with equal justice have been called the Colbert of Homburg. A hard-headed, silent man of bourgeois exterior, a man without enthusiasm and weaknesses, who kept a lavish table and ate sparingly, who directed a huge gambling machine and permitted himself no more exciting dissipation than a quiet game of billiards after dinner. I have heard it said in the Tattersall family that old Dick, the founder of the historic "corner," never made a bet of more than a pair of gloves in his life.

So Francois Blanc rose superior to the attractions of his own table, despised treat-et-quarante, and was afraid of roulette. What he was not afraid of, however, was spending money. To compass his business ends he laid it out lavishly, and he might, so they say, have been credited with many acts of genuine benevolence and public spirit, whereof the story of the opera house of Paris may serve as an example.

After the war the glories of Homburg and Baden departed, and on their ruins rose Monte Carlo. Monte Carlo was the great, the crowning achievement of Francois Blanc's life—the desert cape, which by mere force of millions he turned into one of the most wonderful of the gardens of the Mediterranean littoral. But it was not done without great opposition. He made the fortune of the Nicols in spite of themselves. At every fresh opposition he simply opened his purse, and the golden shower fell in the sacred name of local interests. Mme. Blanc, the most excellent of wives, was a tower of strength to him.

Where questions of art and elegance came in hers was the directing spirit, and the good man, whose thoughts and talk were of figures and finance, was content that her taste should crown his work. It needed a hard head to withstand the attacks that were made upon him. Every day's post brought with it a hundred propositions and threats. They were people who had lost their money and demanded its return with fierce menaces; speculative and inventive people who proposed combinations; there were even temptations offered of the kind which assailed the sainted Anthony; pitiful supplications and warnings of impending suicides—place and date carefully specified, so that there should be no mistake.

Once, even at Monte Carlo, the Villa Blanc was actually assailed and two servants were seriously wounded in its defense. But the equanimity of Francois Blanc was equal to adventures. Threats, prayers, all temptations left him untouched; he likes best to stay in his own family circle, refusing all invitations, and indulging himself only with a good dinner, a bottle of Chateau Lafitte, a cigar, a chat about financial operations—which would sometimes excite him—and a game of billiards. The only outlet which he allowed for his irrepressible energy was a frequent change of abode. In one year he lived in Paris, Avignon, Monaco, Dieppe and Looche-les-Bains in Switzerland, where he died at last of asthma. A respectable man, as respectability goes, fond of his family, and a good citizen, but withal perhaps the best abused man in Europe and certainly the indirect cause of as much mischief as any man in Europe.—Fall Mall Gazette.

A Stepping-Stone to Higher Rank.

Dublin castle has been the official residence of the chief governor of Ireland since the beginning of Queen Elizabeth's reign; that is, for more than three hundred and thirty years. Nearly eighty different viceroys have ruled within its walls during that time, and not many with conspicuous success, except so far as advancing their own personal interests went, the Irish viceregal throne being generally a stepping-stone to a higher rank of its occupant. In late times Lord Wodehouse was created an earl, Lord Abercorn a duke and Lord Zetland a marquis. Lord Spencer refused a marquessate and Lord Londonderry accepted the garter, though he might possibly have preferred a dukedom.—London Truth.

Wanted to be Kicked.

Hardup (interrupting)—The cashier is out.

Caller—Very well; I'll call around some other time and pay it. Good day. And Hardup requested the office boy to kick him six times.—Philadelphia Record.

Consular and Diplomatic Bill Gives Chance to Review Ancient History.

WHO INVENTED THE QUORUM COUNTING PLAN?

Democrats Now Claim That Credit for J. Randolph Tucker of Virginia Back in 1880.

WASTING THE PEOPLE'S TIME.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—After the call of committees for reports the house went into committee of the whole on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill. The entire day was devoted to debate on the bill. The debate touched a wide variety of subjects and at times was brimful of interesting personalities. The Hawaiian policy of the present administration came in for a good share of attention. The appointment of Van Alen as minister to Italy provoked a very extended discussion. The Democrats in defending the appointment of Van Alen countered on the Harrison administration by detailing the history of the $400,000 campaign fund raised by ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker.

Later in the day Mr. Wise (Va.) took up the authorship of quorum-counting as parliamentary anti-filibustering expedient and quoted from The Record to show that the first proposition in this line was offered by J. Randolph Tucker (Va., Dem.) in 1880, when it was vigorously opposed by Mr. Reed. Mr. Walker (Mass.) met this attack on the ex-speaker's fame by citing The Record on Democratic opposition to the quorum-counting rule in the Fifty-first congress. Speaker Crisp leading the opposition. Mr. Grosvenor (O.) concluded the debate for the day with some remarks about the manner in which the Wilson bill had been battered beyond recognition in the senate. When Mr. Grosvenor finished the committee arose and the house adjourned.

STILL TALKING ON TARIFF.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—After the usual routine business Senator Morrill (Vt.) took the floor in opposition to the tariff bill and was listened to with close attention throughout. Senator Palmer introduced a bill repealing the state bank tax but prohibiting the issue of money by state banks or any other corporation or person except national banks. Senator Turpie followed in support of the tariff bill. Senator Cameron then took the floor in opposition to the bill. Then Senator Quay continued his speech begun Saturday. Before he finished Senator Harris moved an executive session and afterwards the senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Richard L. Newhall of Grand Rapids, Mich., has been appointed assistant United States attorney for the Western district of Michigan.

Forecast of the Weather.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—9 p. m.—The weather bureau reports the following as its forecast for the next twenty-four hours. For upper Michigan: Threatening weather with light rain; southeast winds increasing in force; cooler Thursday night.

Cholera Cases at Liege.

PARIS, April 18.—At the meeting of the committee of public hygiene today late bank tax but prohibiting the issue of money by state banks or any other corporation or person except national banks. Senator Turpie followed in support of the tariff bill. Senator Cameron then took the floor in opposition to the bill. Then Senator Quay continued his speech begun Saturday. Before he finished Senator Harris moved an executive session and afterwards the senate adjourned.

Some Queer Poisons in Tobacco.

Chemists say Turkish tobacco contains prussic acid and Cuban tobacco has another alkaloid called colidine, one-twentieth of a drop of which will kill a frog, giving the creature all the symptoms of paralysis. Experiments have proven that three drops of the liquor that accumulates in the bowl of the pipe will kill a rabbit in nine minutes. A drop of pure nicotine inserted near the conjunctiva of any small animal will kill it almost instantly; eight drops will kill a horse, giving him frightful convulsions. If one drop of the stuff would give a man convulsions one day it would take two the next, four on the third, etc., which shows how readily the system adapts itself to poison.

FOOD FOR THE INVALID

What It Should Be and a Few Directions for Preparing It.

In preparing food for an invalid we should make it an object not only to choose strengthening dishes, those which contain the most nutriment and at the same time are easily digested, but to have a change and tempt the appetite with dainty little surprises. For those who have occasion to plan the food to be served to the invalid suggestions often prove helpful, even though the recipes may not all be new.

Potato Surprise—Take a smooth, medium-sized potato, wash and cut the small end partly off, leaving just enough attached to form a little hinge. Scoop out part of the raw potato and fill with beef or mutton that has been prepared by removing all gristle and fat, chopped very fine and seasoned.

When filled tie the potato cover on and bake until tender. When done take from the oven, raise the cover, and if the meat looks dry turn over it a little dressing made with butter, water and flour, or, if there is any on hand, a little meat gravy. Serve in the skin and, as its name suggests, it will be a tempting surprise.

Or, for a change, simply bake the potato and when done cut off the little end and scoop out all the inside, season this with butter, salt and chopped celery, beat up fine and light, then refill the skin and serve.

Scraped Beef—This is simply beef gristle which all indigestible substances have been removed. Take a tender piece of beef, cut across the grain, scrape with a spoon until all the pulp is removed, make a fresh surface by cutting off the scraped part with a thin, sharp knife; proceed in this way until all the meat is reduced to a pulp. If necessary it may be eaten raw, spread very thin on slices of toast, or the pulp may be put in a hot frying pan with a little butter and allowed to barely cook through, stirring and turning constantly. A weak stomach will often retain scraped beef when it refuses all other solid foods.

Beef Extract—This is preferable to the much-abused beef tea. Select a good piece of meat, remove all the gristle and fat, cut into small squares, and put into a glass jar without water. Seal the jar and sink it into a kettle of cold water; let it come to a boil gradually, then boil five or six hours until the meat looks white and dry. Strain the extract and season. If too strong dilute with hot water or milk. In reheating extracts or broths put the liquid in an earthen dish and set in hot water.

Mutton Broth—This does not contain as much nourishment as beef extract, but is often relished for a change. Prepare by cutting the mutton into thin slices; add cold, salted water in the proportion of one quart of water to one pound of meat; let it simmer an hour and a half; then boil half an hour; strain through a cloth and season to taste. Crackers or stale bread cut into squares and browned in the oven may be served with beef or mutton broth.

Celery Toast—Cut a few stalks of celery into pieces an inch or two in length and cook in boiling water, slightly salted, until tender. Add a little milk and sufficient flour to thicken the liquor to the consistency of cream. Season with butter and salt and pour over thin slices of toasted bread; serve hot. Asparagus may also be cooked and served in the same way. Cooked celery is believed by many to be of great benefit in rheumatism.

Chicken Jelly—Put the chicken on to cook in two quarts of cold water and boil until the meat will shred and the liquor is reduced to a little less than a quart; spread a cloth over a colander and strain the liquor through it into an earthen dish; salt to taste and set away to cool. It should be skimmed once or twice while cooling. When cold you should have a clear, firm jelly, which is delicious served in slices or as a sandwich between thin buttered slices of bread or crackers. A dainty sandwich is made by trimming all the crust from a thin slice of fresh bread, which is spread with the jelly and rolled. If solid food can be eaten the chicken meat may be cut into small pieces and added to the liquor, being careful that all the skin and bones are first removed.—Chicago Times.

Queer Notion, But Good.

Those in search of novel luncheon dainties should try the peanut sandwich, which had its origin in Boston. Be sure the peanuts are freshly roasted. Chop fine and spread between slices of buttered bread cut very thin.

SISTERS OF NAPOLEON.

Fatality of the Wife of Murat and Her Gross Ingratitude.

Of the three sisters of Napoleon, says Pasquier in the recently published first volume of his "Memoirs," the eldest almost reigned in Tuscany under the title of grand duchess. She made herself beloved there and this fortunate province owed to her a gentle treatment denied all other countries then united with France. She has left a pleasant memory behind her, in spite of the irregularities of her private life, which she did not take sufficient care to conceal.

The Princess Pauline, wife of Prince Borghese, was perhaps the most beautiful woman of her time and she hardly dreamed of giving prominence to any other advantage than this one. She had been to Santo Domingo with her first husband, Gen. Leclerc. The sun of the tropics had, they do say, been astonished at the ardor of her dissipation. The fatigue consequent upon such an existence shattered her health, and for a long time she was carried about in a litter. In spite of her poor health, she was none the less beautiful.

It remains for me to speak of Caroline, the wife of Murat and queen of Naples, who bore a great resemblance to the emperor. Less beautiful than Pauline, although endowed with more seductive charms, she possessed the art, without being any more scrupulous than her sisters, of showing a greater respect for the proprieties; besides, all her tastes vanished in the presence of her ambition. She had found the Naples crown somewhat too small for her head and greatly coveted the Spanish one, but in the end she became resigned to her fate and wore with good grace the one which had fallen to her lot; it may even be said that she did so with no little of dignity.

She was insane enough to believe that her fortune could withstand the catastrophe which swept away that of Napoleon. In that extraordinary race the most sacred engagements, the deepest affections, went for nothing as soon as political combinations seemed to advise it. Nevertheless each one of its members possessed to the highest degree the family spirit. Caroline took a head in bringing about the downfall of her brother, to whom she owed all her grandeur. It is perhaps she who dealt him the final blow.—Chicago News.

Lieutenant Jacobs wishes to meet members of his separate squad in the Armory tonight at 8:30 o'clock. He would also like other members of the Rifles who may wish to join the squad to be present.

"I understand matters of controversy between the bosses and ore trimmers are in statu quo today," remarked a man to one of the aggrieved men yesterday. "Yes, I guess that's so," was the bewildered response.

The Swedish Crown society after its regular meeting Tuesday night opened wide its doors to friends of both sexes. The society has an orchestra of its own and shortly after 8 o'clock a crowd of merry-makers were enjoying themselves in the dance. Refreshments, served by the women, were enjoyed before the jolly party broke up.

Neighbors and friends of Mrs. F. W. Boesler, 416 Washington street, met at her home last night, making the twenty-eighth anniversary of her birth occasion for a pleasant surprise. The evening was spent in playing games, cards, etc., and at midnight the company sat down to a well-served supper, which helped to appropriately wind up the festivities.

Joseph Fay received word yesterday of the death of his niece, Mrs. Margaret Burns, and left in the afternoon for Manistee, where the funeral will take place Friday. Mrs. Burns was the wife of James A. Burns of Manistee.

For years she had been in poor health and about a month ago went to Milwaukee for treatment, where she died in a hospital. She was well-known throughout this county.

The big steam derrick used in placing the heavy foundation stones for the new city hall, which fell Tuesday night, will not be put up again, as its duties were nearly over anyway. The remainder of the large base stones may now be easily slid into place with the aid of the small hand derricks which will be used in laying the curved stone walls. The first course of the foundation is now about half laid and Mr. Klarquist expects to make a good showing by the end of the week.

Mrs. L. C. Palmer entertained the Baptist Aid society at her home yesterday afternoon. The guests were entertained with tableaux readings and vocal and instrumental music. One of the features was a guessing contest.

In a small box were placed about eighty different articles and each guest was asked to make a list of articles which might be inside. The person guessing correctly the greatest number was awarded a prize. The customary amount of society sewing was done during the entertainment.

DREW THE LINE AT DUKES.

A Madman Who Gave Just Enough Latitude to His Intended Victim's Prayer.

A story is told by the Million of a railway traveler who had the misfortune to find himself alone in a compartment with a lunatic, the train not being timed to stop for a couple of hours, and no means existing for communication with the guard. The lunatic appeared to be a sensible man enough when the train started, but soon betrayed his mental aberration by complaining that the carriage was "too heavy," and attempting to lighten it by casting all the loose packages out of the window. Having cleared the compartment, he announced to his alarmed companion that he must follow his baggage. A struggle with a man endowed with maniacal strength would have been a hopeless affair, so the proposed victim temporized. He asked to be allowed to say a prayer, to which the lunatic readily agreed.

"I wish to pray for others besides myself," says the traveler. "I cannot omit the royal family."

Permission gained, the traveler prayed aloud for every royal personage he could think of, however remotely connected with the British dynasty; but time was waning, and even the "Almanach de Gotha" has an end.

"You really must go out now," said the madman, as the breathless speaker paused with a last despairing effort to recall another name; "you have prayed for every one of them."

"But we have forgotten the house of peers!" cried the victim, with fresh hope; "you cannot insist on leaving them out altogether. At least, let me pray for the dukes."

"Only for the dukes, then," said the madman, reluctantly.

But this delay saved the traveler, for before this final beadroll was exhausted the train had reached the station and he could call for assistance.

SCHOOLS TO BE EXAMINED.

Professors Demmon and Pettie of the State University will be in Negaunee today for the purpose of examining our public schools.

Yesterday Professor Demmon visited the schools at Ishpeming and last week the schools of the copper country were examined by both gentlemen.

A Birthday Surprise. A number of the young friends of Miss Clara Heyn, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Heyn, gathered at her parents' home last evening.

Secured Judgments. Peter Talio and A. Willett of Negaunee and Thomas Gaynor and Alfonso Lafount of Ishpeming, together with several others who brought suit against Ramquist & Plean of this city for wages earned last winter, secured judgments in the courts of Justices Carey's and Jones Monday.

He Is Thankful. City Treasurer Benjamin Richards desires to publicly express his sincere thanks to his friends and the citizens of Negaunee generally for his reelection to the trusteeship.

In Township Clerk. At the recent election of Atkinson township in Iron county Frank O. Rockwell, late of Negaunee, was elected clerk.

Gone to Italy. Pietro Marietti, Stefana Marietta and Maurice Bortonio and his wife left yesterday for their native homes in Italy. They have resided in Negaunee for the past four or five years and made their homes at the Cambria mine location.

LOCAL LAONICS. R. G. Quinn returned from Chicago yesterday.

Mrs. P. B. Kirkwood went to Sault Ste. Marie yesterday on a two weeks' visit to her son.

Mrs. James Hodge left Monday on a visit to friends in England. She will be absent several months.

P. B. Kirkwood has his parrot down at his store. The bird is quite talkative and takes special notice of children.

Michael O'Leary, who was prostrated with paralysis Monday night, was somewhat better yesterday, but he is still dangerously ill.

The St. Ignace train on the South Shore road arrives here about fifteen minutes later than formerly, as also does the Chicago & Northwestern train from the south. The two trains meet here.

Yesterday J. L. McClear received a telegram from his parents' home in the lower part of the state announcing the serious illness of his father. He left for there as soon as possible after receiving the sad message.

Joseph Quinn has gone to Detroit. It is said that he will not return and that he will locate permanently at that or some other city in the lower part of the state. In case he does not come back the council will appoint a man to fill his place on the county board as supervisor from the Third ward.

The production of "Crawford's Claim" Tuesday night was a success financially as well as in other respects. The members of the club were well pleased with the reception given them. The members of the company No. 2 and their ladies attended the performance in a body at the company's expense.

THE WESTERN EXPRESS.

Why Its Delay Caused a Happy Married Couple.

"Love her, mother," said Guion Esterhall. "He was not, in a general way, much of a talker. Consequently, when he spoke, his words had the weight of sense and rarity. But Mrs. Esterhall, the fine old lady who sat erect before the clear, sea-coal fire, was too much excited to consider all this.

"The wife of my son, Guion," said she, "should be a lady, born and bred—not one of those girls who have had to fight the world until all gentleness, grace and unselfishness are ground out of them. No, I can never give my consent."

The young man smiled slightly. "Mother," said he, "the diamond itself hardly possesses its true financial value until the facets are ground with much friction."

"Humph!" said Mrs. Esterhall. "No one is talking of diamonds." "I may bring her to see you, mother?" Mrs. Esterhall snook her head.

"I have no desire to receive her," said she. "But, Guy, here are the tickets for Henry Irving to-night. Carrie Chippendale has promised to accompany me—of course, you will be on hand at half-past seven to be our escort?"

"If you wish it, mother." The old lady smiled to herself when Guion was gone. "A little management," she thought, "a little judicious flattery, and I will get over this boyish fancy of his. The idea of a shop girl for my daughter-in-law—for Mrs. Guion Esterhall! I think the lad must have taken leave of his senses!"

And in her secret heart she rejoiced with an exceeding great rejoicing when Miss Chippendale arrived that evening, in a pale-blue moire gown, cut decollete, with a glittering necklace around her perfect white throat, and a bunch of hothouse roses in her corsage.

"If we are to have a private box," said Miss Chippendale, buttoning the seventeenth button of her glove, "one may as well go in full dress, don't you know?"

"My dear, you are looking lovely," said Mrs. Esterhall, approvingly. Miss Chippendale was a sort of human camellia japonica—fair, graceful and serene—with big, expressionless blue eyes, cherry-red lips, flax-gold hair, drawn in fluffy curls over her forehead, and an unchanging society smile perpetually hovering around her lips. She had been highly educated, and she was destined by her parents to make a brilliant match. The Chippendales belonged to the aristocracy—that is to say, they had never done any work and had always spent a great deal of money. And Mrs. Esterhall had decided that Carrie Chippendale was the very wife for her son.

She went shopping the next day, to match a shade of Berlin wool, to buy some lace flounces and to decide on new postures for her drawing-room down at Esterhall manor. At one or two o'clock she experienced, not hunger, but a lady-like sensation that "sweet restoration."

"I will go into Mariocotta's," she thought. Mariocotta's was full, as it generally was at that time of day; but presently the old lady succeeded in obtaining a seat in a curtained angle, where the waiter took her order for a chicken salad and a cup of tea. Just then she heard a clear, low voice on the other side of the drapery, as a party settled themselves to a table—Miss Chippendale's soft, well-modulated tones.

"Oh, yes, Irving was very fine," said Carrie. "Oysters, please—a box-set for one and fritters for two and three cups of Vienna chocolate, nicely frothed, water—but all the same, I nearly died of ennui. The old lady is the most dreadful bore you ever knew, and Guy is a regular prig. Handsome, you know, and very talented, of course; but one don't want to be on full-dress parade as to one's brains the whole time. He isn't half as nice as Freddie Fortune—only poor dear Fred hasn't a cent to bless himself with, and papa looks thunderous at me whenever he calls. But once I'm married, it—"

A chorus of well-bred giggling interrupted Carrie's words. Mrs. Esterhall rose hurriedly from her seat, grasped her gloves and eyeglasses and made all haste out of the restaurant. When the waiter came with the chicken-salad and the tea he found his customer gone. The unconscious Miss Chippendale and her friends enjoyed their Vienna chocolate and oyster fritters very much indeed.

Mrs. Esterhall decided to return to the manor at once. Carrie Chippendale's graceful treachery had affected her more than she had deemed possible; and, leaving a hastily written note to explain to Guion that she had altered her plans, she took the late express, which reached Clevedon Junction nine, there connecting with a branch train for Esterhall station. She was traveling alone, as her maid remained to pack up the last things and follow her the next day.

There had been a heavy snow-fall, the night had settled down dark and tempestuous, and the train was running behind time. At last it came to a full stop. Mrs. Esterhall started from a doze and looked anxiously around her.

"Ten o'clock!" some one said, consulting a watch. "Why, conductor, we are due at Clevedon at five minutes before nine!"

"Yes, I know, sir," spoke the official, "but the road is all blocked, and the western express is overdue at this point. We're waiting here for the signal to move on."

"And what's to keep us from waiting all night?" petulantly inquired the old gentleman.

"Nothing, sir—unless the western express is heard from."

Mrs. Esterhall began to be a little frightened. "Conductor," said she, "is there any danger of a collision?"

"No, ma'am—not as long as we're on this side of the switch."

"Isn't there a dining car attached to this train?" "No, ma'am—this isn't the through express, but I hope we shall not be detained here much longer," the conductor cheerfully added.

Slowly the minutes dragged themselves by, gradually lengthening into hours. The passengers gathered in knots and whispered. One or two of the more adventurous spirits got out, peered into the darkness, flicked only by the driven snow, and then got in again, with the customary uncomplimentary comments on the railway management. Mrs. Esterhall was nervous and unaccustomed to travel. She began to cry softly behind her veil.

"Ah," she thought, "if ever I live to get safe home again, I'll stay there. I'll never tempt Providence more, on these night roads."

Across the aisle two young girls were seated—the one pale-faced and rather plain, as Mrs. Esterhall had already noticed by the light of the cluster of lamps under which they were seated; the other a brilliant young brunette, with soft hazel eyes, peachy cheeks, and wavy dark-brown hair, brushed carelessly back from a low, broad forehead. Between the latter rose, and, coming to Mrs. Esterhall's side, asked in a soft, sympathetic voice: "Are you ill, madam?"

"No—no," stammered the old lady, quite forgetful of her society dignity. "Only I am so faint and weary. I expected to dine at home, long before this hour; and I took almost nothing to eat—before I started."

"I have some nice, homemade chicken sandwiches in my bag," suggested the pretty girl. "My aunt insisted on my taking them, although I dined heartily before leaving home; and I have a little alcohol lamp with every convenience for making a good, strong cup of tea as well. If you will allow me to prepare it for you—"

Mrs. Esterhall was a genuine tea maniac. A new brightness came into her eyes at this suggestion. "You are very kind," said she. "But you will want it yourself."

"No," smiled the girl. "I don't care for tea. But my kind old aunt would put the things in. Now I am glad that she did so."

In five minutes Mrs. Esterhall had eaten and drunk and felt infinitely refreshed. How it happened she did not pause to question herself, but she presently found herself reclining comfortably, with her head on a pillow improvised out of the folded blanket shawl that belonged to the young girl; and, mingled with her drowsy reflections, came the soft, low murmurs of the sweet-eyed brunette, who had changed her seat and that of her companion to the one directly back of Mrs. Esterhall, and was talking almost in a whisper.

"No, I am not going back; and I do not intend to communicate my address to anyone."

"Not even to him?" "No, not even to him." "But he loves you, dear." "Yes; and that is the very reason I am determined to create no dissension between him and his friends. Perhaps he will forget me."

"He will never do that." "But at least I shall feel that I have done my duty," said the hazel-eyed girl, firmly. "I shall love him to the end of his days, but I shall not have ruined his future."

"And all this," cried the companion, "out of deference to the whims of an old woman whom you have never seen!"

"Out of deference to his mother, Alice," gently corrected the first speaker.

"What a quixotic notion!" dreamily mused Mrs. Esterhall. "But she has an excellent idea of duty, this dark-eyed little girl!"

"That is you, all over, Effie!" said the friend. "You are always effacing yourself in favor of some one else. Here you are giving all your tea and sandwiches to a person you have never heard of, abandoning your seat to a poor little woman with a crying baby, because it is a trifle nearer the stove, and to cap everything, giving up the man you love and who loves you, because—"

"Because it is my duty," said Effie. "Please, Alice, don't let us discuss the matter any longer. It is because I love Guy that I am willing to sacrifice everything for his sake."

"Guy! Bless my soul! Guy!" thought Mrs. Esterhall, sitting suddenly up. "But, of course, there are other Guys than mine in the world."

Just then there was a tremble of the frozen ground under them, a roar and rattle of lighted cars past them.

"The western express at last!" shouted the choleric old gentleman, bobbing up in his seat like an india-rubber ball. "All abo-o-ard!" bawled the conductor, with a twitch at the bell-rope; and on moved the train at last, creaking and groaning like some monster-serpent in pain. Mrs. Esterhall leaned over the back of the seat, toward the hazel-eyed girl.

"My dear," said she, between the throbs of the engine, "is it Guion Esterhall that you are speaking of?"

The girl started and colored. She could not repress a cry of surprise. "Yes, I thought so. Come over here and sit by me. I am his mother, and I want to talk to you."

HON. PETER'S IRON REMARKS

At Washington In the Interest of Our Mining Industries.

WOODSMAN LOSES HIS LIFE IN YELLOW DOG RIVER.

Alexander Stewart While Starting a Log Drive is Thrown Into the River and Drowned.

MORE POWER TO HIS ELBOW.

Peter White, who has been some time in Washington looking after matters closely connected with the general prosperity of the Queen City, as well as his own personal interests, appears to have granted the Detroit Evening News correspondent a lengthy interview if the columns of that paper may be taken at face value. The News man refers to Mr. White as "the jolliest old 'McKinleyized' Democrat of them all" and says he has begun that movement for protection to American iron ore which was foreshadowed when he signed a petition to Senator McMillan some days ago.

He feels pretty sure that the senate amendment of forty cents a ton will stick, but he wants to be certain of it. So, as a precautionary measure against something awful happening in the inevitable conference committee, he is going to give the national legislators a little needed enlightenment on iron and how she is mined in the northern peninsula of Michigan.

"What we ought to have," said Mr. White, who at least keeps good-natured, even if his stock of patience is running low, "is a tariff of at least fifty cents a ton. Still, we'll try and get along with forty cents, if that's all we can get, and we hope that the senate amendment fixing it at that amount will be promptly agreed to by the house. Forty cents during the coming season is really a proportionately greater amount of protection than seventy-five cents duty was four or five years ago. Without going back to the time, not so many years ago, when high-grade Bessemer ores were selling for $12 and even $15, we can take the price at the close of the last decade. The ores were then selling at $3.50 to $6.50 per ton. A specific duty of seventy-five cents would be equal to an ad valorem duty of about 8 per cent. on the price in American markets of $6 per ton. Now, these same ores are selling at $2.75 to $3. At the same ad valorem rate of duty, foreign ore could come in now at about twenty-four cents on each ton. Forty cents, however, isn't too much. It should be remembered that there is probably the same general fall in prices, and the same opportunity to employ improved mining processes in Cuba as this country, while labor, still an important item with us, is very much lower there."

After showing the correspondent that projects to work iron ore much nearer the mines than has yet been attempted, are being very seriously considered by owners of mining property, Mr. White concludes:

"So you see the business depression which has fallen with such crushing force on the upper peninsula, may result in some permanent benefit in the end. While nature has been most kind to our section, she has been less kind in some respects than to other portions of the country. She placed coal in proximity to iron deposits in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Alabama and elsewhere, but in the upper peninsula the iron deposits alone. Now, instead of shipping all the ore to the vicinity of the coal fields to be manufactured, it is proposed to ship the coal to the iron country and there establish important iron working plants. This plan is now advanced with especial reference to utilizing certain low-grade ores found in abundance, but which it has been found wholly unprofitable heretofore to ship. Of course this has been the dream of upper peninsula people for years past, but it now seems likely to be realized in part. The scheme originated during the World's Fair, and Sam Brady of Detroit knows more about it than anyone else. Persons have been found in West Virginia who will supply coal and coke at a very advantageous rate. There never was a time when the venture could be inaugurated under more favorable circumstances. No one ever knew a time when freight rates were so low, and contracts can be made with boats to carry coke on return trips up the lakes at prices which would have seemed simply ridiculous a season or two ago."

"Is your new scheme likely to be put into effect right off?" Mr. White was asked.

"I think something will be done in this direction during this very season. It is proposed to take these low grade ores, lean in actual iron, reduce them, and manufacture in the upper peninsula the coarser varieties of iron work, structural iron used in building, certain portions of mill machinery and all the cheaper sorts of castings. The cheaper varieties of stoves may also be made. There is a great market for their products in the northwest, and freights from Ohio and Pennsylvania will be saved by making them in the upper peninsula. Instead of depending on the Ohio and Pennsylvania manufacturers for a market for our ores, at prices which they fix, we will be creating a market for a portion of our product right at home. Large plants will, of course, be required in carrying out our plan. They will be located near the lake shore, perhaps at Marquette or a few miles above that city."

Eggers Will Bind Them.

When you get your volume of Picturesque America complete it is quite natural to suppose you will want it bound in a good substantial manner. You may also have some files of World's Fair portfolios, and other art works about your library and be figuring on what you will do with them so as to keep them clean and intact.

Right here C. E. Eggers the book binder, whose office may be found on the second floor of THE MINING JOURNAL building, steps forward, makes his bow and states that he is just the person to help you out of your difficulty. He will bind sets of these different works at $2 a volume and gives you a pressing invitation to call and examine samples of the class of binding he does at this price. Eggers can bind anything from an almanac to an encyclopedia but his pet hold is art and high class binding.

Drowned at Yellow Dog.

Yesterday afternoon a wagon covered with mud drove up to Brown's undertaking establishment in Washington street. Two men who accompanied it got down, lifted something wrapped in a cloth out of the box and carried it down to the basement. Here the mysterious package was found to be the body of a man who, the morning previous, had lost his life in the Yellow Dog river.

Justice Crary was notified of the arrival of the body and at once set about an inquest. The health officer made a post mortem examination in the undertaking rooms but found no evidence that the deceased had received his death in any other manner than that of drowning. A jury consisting of A. P. Emmons, Peter Bystrom, Timothy Maney, Joel Gillett and Carl Hall was empanelled and during the inquest held in Justice Crary's court room learned the following story:

Deceased, who was known as Alexander Stewart, had started out with a gang of men from Rely Bros. camp, Monday morning, to begin the first log run down the Yellow Dog. Stewart knew little or nothing about the dangers of running and managed to get too near a big pile of skidded logs which broke from their fastenings and knocked him into the chilly waters of the river. From the way he acted as he came to the surface it is supposed he was slightly stunned by one of the logs. He attempted in a feeble way to keep himself up and once or twice succeeded in grasping a floating log, but would soon lose his hold. Thus he floated down the swift running river for nearly a mile when he sank and did not rise again. Those of the men who had seen the accident followed the man down the stream endeavoring to render assistance but failed in getting near him.

As soon as it was assured Stewart had drowned, some of the camp men hurried to the dam and let off the water. The body was recovered about 2 o'clock that afternoon and started for Marquette at daybreak yesterday.

Alexander Stewart was a man about twenty-five years of age, of medium build and not over quick in his movements. He was at one time a fireman on one of Gillett's tugs but for the past two winters has worked in the woods for Rely Bros. At the Hayden House here he was registered as "Alexander Stewart" and "Alexander Stewart Wilson" once from Toronto, Canada, and once from Chicago. So far as known he had no relatives in this part of the country and was unmarried. The remains will be buried in the city cemetery today.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was in keeping with the foregoing facts.
