Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

A block of over six thousand shares of Chapin stock was sold at public auction in Milwaukee one day last week for ten cents a share.

There is no disguising the fact that Jim Hill has an ugly strike on his hands, but there is plenty of sand in Jim's craw and the strikers will have to fight hard for victory if they win it.

Ashland has a mayor who has ideas of a new and novel character regarding the prerogatives of his office.

Congress could fool the "industrial" armies that are moving Washingtonward nicely and at the same time to do the country a great service in one way—by adjourning.

Very little stock need be taken in the statement that Hon. M. V. Montgomery will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor this year.

The "red flag" business. Those miners at Iron Mountain who paraded the streets the other day carrying a red flag and demanding that the state shall take measures to maintain them while they are out of work did their own cause infinite injury by their foolish demonstration.

The mob that paraded the streets with red flags flying was made up of men injured to hardship and suffering. They have felt the pinch of poverty for a year. They were seeking further relief from a source already overtaxed and nearly exhausted.

The mob forced a commissioner to quit town, leaving his office to another who immediately began issuing poor orders to the desperate men whose families are without food and fuel.

We offer one hundred dollars reward for any case of catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

red flags are carried at the head of a procession composed of vicious and ignorant foreigners it may be doubted whether the generous-hearted Americans will be eager to bestow their money for charity.

LOOKING BETTER. The management of a group of mines on the Gogebic range is reported to have effected a sale of 100,000 tons of ore, and several of the mines in the group will resume active mining operations immediately.

On this range the East Negaunee mines, now controlled by Corrigan, Ives & Co., will probably ship 300,000 tons of ore during the season.

The Iron Trade Review reports several sales of 10,000 and 15,000 lots as having been made last week at the same prices made in the larger sales reported some time ago.

Taking everything into consideration, the market may be regarded as somewhat favorable, although irregularity in prices crops up once in awhile, and discourages those who have been looking for a steady upward movement.

HOW IS THIS? The State Republican of Lansing had this in a recent issue: Speaking of the dirty little trick played upon Lansing by some of the members of the state military board, The Marquette Mining Journal offers as a solution of that action that "it is possible that after taking second thought on it the board did not deem it wise to subject the boys to the influences in and about Lansing which have exerted such a demoralizing effect on so many of our law-makers and other public officials."

It is true that several of the best citizens of Marquette have come to this city from Lansing, but may not their removal have been induced by their desire to get a safe distance between them and demoralizing influences which they had observed in existence there?

But, joking aside, the military board gave Lansing a rather dirty deal in the encampment matter—almost as dirty as the state board of corrections and charities gave Marquette and the rest of the upper peninsula in locating the insane asylum for this district.

A LEAP IN THE DARK.

The Wonderful Escape of the Rider from Certain Death. The greatest leap in the dark ever made by horse and rider, from which the latter survived to tell the tale, was that made by a young officer, afterward known as Maj.-Gen. W. Yorke Moore.

The soldier, after several vain attempts to persuade his horse to proceed (as the colonel thought) straight toward home, ultimately put the animal at almost full speed, violently spurring its sides the while.

On recovery from the shock, Moore sent an artist to make a drawing of the spot and engineer to survey the place. The drop was considerably more than half the height of St. Peter's and double the height of the duke of York's column at the bottom of Regent street.

Taking a Mean Advantage. "What do you do when your wife gets at you for coming home late?" asked the first deaf and dumb man. "Turn out the gas," responded the other.—Life.

APPROVED LIQUOR BONDS.

Council Paves Way for Saloon Licenses and Appoints Census Enumerator.

AN ALMOST FATAL CASE OF SELF-MEDICATION.

Young Woman Takes Cyanide of Potassium in Mistake for Peppermint Water—Barely Saved.

WILL LAY CORNER STONE.

The city council met in special session Saturday, the chief object being approval of liquor dealers' bonds and appointment of census enumerator and assistants. Almost the entire board was present, the new city dads, Aldermen Holley, Rosetter, Sherman and Tobin, looking quite at home in the seats so recently occupied by their predecessors. The reading of minutes was dispensed with and the call read, after which the solons settled down to steady business.

After passing through the necessary inspection the following liquor bonds were approved: Dealers and saloonists—Peter Boyer, sarettes, L. Riedinger and F. Bending; John Plattenberg, William Coles and C. Meeske; Rothschild & Bending, M. Vierling and L. Vierling; Euclid Lajeunesse, Joseph Bolduc and F. Bending; Charles E. L'Hullier, A. Manthei and F. Bending; Martin Higgins, F.O'Hegan and Patrick Sullivan; George Grieninger, A. Manthei and Wilhelmine Erb; John Selander, J. P. Werner and F. Bending; John Connor, C. Meeske and F. Bending; Anderson & Johnson, A. Manthei and John F. Mack; Frel Bros., F. Frel and P. F. Frel; Joseph Nies, E. L. Kellan and C. Meeske; John Marleau, George Sorell and G. Meeske; John Harrington, J. C. Fassbender Sr., and C. Meeske; Bart I. Waldo, W. R. Wright and W. Stewart; Antoine Zamon, George Wagner and F. C. Glocke; Henne Bros., C. Meeske and E. Duquette; Morris Lavasseur, E. (Front street store), William O'Meara and M. E. Asire; Dwyer Bros. (Washington street store), William O'Meara and M. E. Asire; George Rublein, C. Herlick and F. Bending; Bush & Ketchum, J. C. Fassbender, Jr., and J. P. Werner; Druggists—F. H. Desjardins & Co., J. M. Wilkinson and S. E. Byrne; Stafford & Co., V. B. Cochran and W. S. Hill; Frank Pendill, P. Frel and A. H. Palmer; Edward Farnum (Toles), O. G. Youngquist and J. H. Dawson.

The recorder asked permission to read a petition signed by about seventy citizens praying that no license be granted the saloon at the corner of Third and Prospect streets on the ground that there was direct communication between it and a disorderly house upstairs and that the saloon furnished liquor to the house after legal hours and on Sunday. On motion of Alderman Hennessey, and after some discussion, the council decided to accept within the limits of the special call and the petition was not received. It will probably come up at the next meeting.

The following appointments were made to take the census: W. A. Ross, enumerator and J. H. Hopkins, W. A. Jellison and F. R. Herlich assistants. A committee appointed to apportion the city into census districts reported as follows: First district, First and Second wards; second district, Third and Fourth wards; third district, Fifth and Sixth wards; fourth district, Seventh and Eighth wards.

This concluded the regular business and the council adjourned. An informal meeting immediately followed during which the laying of a corner stone for the new city hall was freely discussed. It was the sense of the aldermen that such a ceremony should take place and Aldermen Vandenberg, Hennessey and Brown, with the president as chairman, were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Close Shave With Death.
A striking instance of familiarity breeding contempt happened in Toles' drug store Saturday morning. The familiarity was of an unconscious growth and the consequent contempt of nearly fatal results.

At 3 o'clock Miss Jennie Sands, day operator in the Postal Telegraph office, reached her desk, in the drug store, and not feeling well, requested Mr. Farnum to give her a dose of peppermint water. The bottle containing the requested medicine was brought into the dispensing department and placed at one end of the counter. Miss Sands then decided she would wait a short time before taking the dose, and went up stairs. While Mr. Farnum was busy waiting on a customer, Miss Sands returned and, as she no doubt supposed, helped herself to the peppermint. She at once complained to Mr. Farnum that the taste of the medicine was peculiar. This led him to investigate when, to his horror, he found the young woman had taken a dose of a solution of cyanide of potassium—one of the most deadly poisons handled by the druggist. Instructing Miss Sands to begin drinking water freely, Mr. Farnum seized a bottle of ipecac and barely succeeded in having the young woman swallow a liberal dose when she fell unconscious in his arms. Mr. Farnum was alone at the time and had to drag the helpless woman to the telephone when he summoned medical aid. Drs. Dawson and Youngquist responded promptly and began efforts to combat if possible the swift and deadly action of the poison. Half an hour after the serious blunder Miss Sands was almost dead. Respiration and pulse were only faintly perceptible and the eyeballs might be touched without causing any twitching. Although all hope appeared at an end the physicians never for a moment relaxed their efforts and shortly after 11 o'clock—more than three hours after the poison was taken—the patient feebly opened her eyes and medical science had won the victory in the fierce contest with death.

Miss Sands was taken to her home and kept on improving until evening, when the physicians considered her out of danger. Last night she was still improving and is not likely to experience any serious after effects as the result of her unobservant self-medication.

The Mining Journal representative, who is not an entire stranger to drug store methods, called on Mr. Farnum Saturday and after looking carefully at the surroundings and hearing the facts saw clearly that the mistake was solely the young woman's fault. The druggist was not in the slightest particular to blame. The incident simply adds to the often repeated advice that no person not thoroughly versed in drugs or medicine should ever administer a dose from a shop bottle or package either to himself or others.

Trimmed by the Trimmers.
It is no longer a matter of speculation as to whether the bosses or union trimmers will win the contest which for two weeks past has gone on between them. The fact that 109 union men Saturday trimmed the first two boats that left this season trimmed at all, and that Messrs. McPartland and O'Meara had nothing to do with it, would seem a signal victory for the trimmers.

When the Newyago with her consort Checotah reached harbor early Saturday morning, the South Shore officials decided to take the matter in hand and see if the boats could not be trimmed without unnecessary delay. Several leaders among the men were summoned to the general manager's office about 8 o'clock and the situation was placed squarely before them. Just what arguments may have been used is not definitely known, but a large procession of trimmers, armed with picks and shovels, was soon filing along No. 4 dock and in a few hours the boats were trimmed and cleared for Tonawanda. The men would not state what they got for trimming, but THE MINING JOURNAL was assured that the amount was an improvement on the price offered by the bosses. The men selected their own foreman and all appeared to go merrily forward. The trimmers did not seem to care so much about the rate paid as for the fact that they trimmed the first boats and had a good prospect of doing so throughout the season.

Yesterday the steamer Cherokee and consort Chippewa, V. H. Ketchum and consorts Becker and Moonlight, Polson and consorts Nelson and Mitchell; and steamer Hadley loaded with ore and were trimmed by the union men. It was a pleasing sight to see the long rows of trimmers cheerily vending their way from boat to boat, and every comment overheard was full of satisfaction at the apparently happy outcome.

The bosses had a conference with Captain Mack, of the Ketchum, chairman of the Lake Carriers' committee, which received the bids for trimming, yesterday morning. The captain assured Messrs. McPartland and O'Meara he would do all he could to adjust matters in keeping with the original contract but from conversations had with them yesterday the bosses seem to look upon the matter as settled. They consider the odds against them too great and that further fighting would only result disastrously to both sides.

So ends what a few days ago gave promise of developing one of the most unpleasant local labor episodes in recent years. While many may regret that a satisfactory arrangement was not arrived at between the bosses and men no one not directly interested in the matter will bewail the fact that our trimmers are once more at work earning all they can as a result of their hard work.

South Marquette Blaze.
Fire last night did several hundred dollars damage to the saloon, dwelling and furniture of John Connor, Lake street, close to the gas company's works. An alarm from box twelve sounded about eight o'clock and notwithstanding the long distance the firemen were on hand in good time and did excellent service, saving most of the building and keeping the flames closely confined.

The blaze is said to have started from the explosion of a kerosene lamp which hung in the hallway. The lamp fell from its fastening, setting fire to the carpets. The flames quickly captured two rooms on one side of the hall, entirely ruining the furniture and making a good sized hole in the roof. They crept overhead into another part of the house on the second floor and took a jaunt diagonally to the opposite side of the big hall down stairs, causing the firemen considerable trouble to keep track of them.

The house is insured for $1,200 and the furniture for $600, both policies held by Call & Co. The damage to the furniture could not easily be estimated but to the building, aside from that caused by water, the loss will reach about $200.
