WAS TURPIE DRUNK?

That Seems Most Reasonable Explanation of His Most Unseemly Outbreak.

VIGILIOUS PERSONAL ATTACK UPON ALDRICH.

Latter Alludes to Indiana Senator's Condition and Properly Declines to Make Any Reply.

FLOOD OF VIRULENT ABUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The time of the senate today was occupied with spicy colloquies between Democratic and Republican leaders on the question why no better progress is being made with the tariff bill and on the amendments to be offered which would change the character of the bill. Mr. Voorhees finally said impressively: "I desire to say right here, no matter what rumors may be floating in the air, that the income tax will stay in this bill."

Two minutes afterwards an incident occurred which created a profound sensation. All the Democrats were more or less irritated by the prodding from the other side and this feeling was directed principally against Mr. Aldrich, who was maneuvering the opposition. Mr. Turpie got the floor and made a direct assault on Mr. Aldrich, the like of which has not been heard in the senate chamber for years.

Mr. Turpie declared three monstrous untruths characterized the opposition: three gross and palpable lies of inconceivable mendacity. The first of those untruths was that a new bill was being prepared by the secretary of the treasury. The second was that three or three hundred amendments, it did not matter which, were to be presented. The third was that the bill reported from the finance committee was not the bill to be passed.

"All these assertions have been energetically denied by four Democratic members of the finance committee. And yet," continued Mr. Turpie, raising his hand aloft and stretching it towards Mr. Aldrich, "the senator from Rhode Island comes in here and says he still believes they are true. There could be no sharper issue of veracity. I prefer to believe and I do believe the senators on this side and I disbelieve the senator—no I will not say 'the senator'—disbelieve the disingenuous unit on the other side who asserts the contrary and who is the author of these reports that are being circulated here and in the newspaper press. Who claims their paternity? The senator from Rhode Island."

"I recollect the predecessor of the honorable senator from Rhode Island," Mr. Turpie continued with biting irony, referring to the Senator Aldrich of 1890 as a different individual from the Senator Aldrich of today. "But even he could not then have been the author of these three untruths. He might have been a drug clerk and was familiar with that line of business and with other lines as a wholesale grocer. We who were here will never forget the writhing of his distinguished countenance, his enormous development of cheek that extended from ear to ear and from chin to forehead. We will never forget his articular appendages that scraped the dome of the Capitol. How can the present senator from Rhode Island hope to rival his predecessor in that hate of truth and in that love of falsehood that has always characterized the champions of protection?"

When Mr. Turpie sat down there was a rush upon the chamber. Every one was amazed at the personal character of the attack upon Mr. Aldrich. Then all eyes turned on the Rhode Island senator as he arose slowly. "In the position the senator from Indiana now takes," he said slowly and deliberately, "he speaks for no one but himself. Under other circumstances and conditions I do not believe he would have made the speech he has made." Mr. Aldrich then took his seat and the incident closed without another word. Mr. Quay then took the floor and resumed his speech began some weeks ago and at 5:50 the senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The house today in committee of the whole considered the army appropriation bill. When the committee rose the bill with amendments was reported to the house and passed. The house then adjourned.

POOR OPINION OF COXEYITES.

Thinks They Would Not Do Work If They Had Chance.

MILWAUKEE, April 30.—"The adjective industrial, as applied to General Coxey's army, is about as appropriate an appellation as a white blackbird," said Rev. George H. Ide in a sermon on "Shifting Responsibilities," in Grand avenue Congregational church yesterday morning. "What is Coxey doing," he continued. "Marching to Washington to demand of congress on the steps of the Capitol several hundred million dollars to furnish employment for the industrial or Commonwealth army. Even if congress took the petitioners at their word and acceded to their request, it would be found that very of them would care to work."

Mr. Ide began his sermon with a quotation from the thirty-second chapter of Exodus, telling of the reply of Aaron to Moses when the latter reproached him for permitting the children of Israel to fall into the worship of the golden calf during his absence. The nature of Aaron's offense, Dr. Ide said, was his attempt to shift responsibility when he could have prevented the apostasy of the people if he had done his duty. He said the commonest thing in the world is for people to shift responsibility on some one else's shoulders and to look upon their own mistakes as other people's fault. Aaron blamed society with his own shortcoming by telling Moses: "Thou knowest the people; they are set on mischief." It was the same thing in our own day, when it was an every-day occurrence to hear people laying the blame for their troubles upon society.

WARRING ON WOMEN.

Ashland's Striking Ore Handlers Use Cowardly Tactics.

ASHLAND, Wis., April 30.—The striking ore handlers are beginning to persecute the wives and families of the men who are working under protection on the docks. A poor and destitute laborer named Burley began work on the docks Friday. Last night union men called on his wife and threatened her and her husband with bodily harm if he did not quit work. The woman was badly frightened and sought shelter at the dock. A gang of twenty-four strikers met Burley on his way from work and he was compelled to seek safety in the house of a friend until the police came and escorted him home.

The strikers surrounded the police and rescued two of their number who had been arrested and were being taken to the jail. The men had made threats of violence to the officers and even went so far as to begin an assault when two men were arrested. The policemen were overpowered by superior numbers and the two men under arrest made good their escape and are now in hiding.

WARNING TO RIOTERS.

ASHLAND, Wis., April 30.—The receivers of the Wisconsin Central today issued a manifesto warning rioters from interfering with the property of the company or its men at the ore docks and promising to prosecute those who do not heed the warning. They also announced that work would be resumed tomorrow.

DISPLAY AT SALON IMPROVED.

Considerable Share of Meritorious Paintings Due to Americans.

PARIS, April 30.—At the old salon, which opens this week, it is evident that members of the Society of French Artists have been put upon their mettle by the successes of their rivals of the Champs-de-Mars. The consequence is that the salon of 1894 contains a better display of pictures than have been brought together for several years before at the Palais de l'Industrie. As usual, though, there are a good many canvasses exhibited, which, in charity to the public and to the artists, ought to be turned with their faces to the walls. The admission of these wretched daubs proves that favoritism still holds a place in the councils of the salon jury and that it suffices to be the pupil of some well-known artist in order to get the worst pot boilers hung.

The most notable feature of the salon is, perhaps, the large number of scenes from the life of Napoleon, while it will be noticed by everybody that an even larger proportion of meritorious works than at the Champs-de-Mars is due to Americans.

IMPALED ON A GAS JET.

Frightful Death of Boy Who Slid Down Banisters.

CHICAGO, April 30.—William Tosokowski, eight years old, lived with his parents at 1185 Milwaukee avenue on the fourth floor. He attempted to slide down a winding banister to the first floor. He had reached the third landing when he lost his balance and fell to the first floor, a distance of thirty feet. He struck on a gas jet which projects from the stairway and the sharp piece of iron pierced his abdomen and inflicted a deep and ragged wound.

The little fellow had strength enough to get to his feet and stagger to the sidewalk, where his screams for his mother attracted the attention of Mrs. Tosokowski, who was in a front room of a top flat when she heard the child's cries. She almost fell down a flight of stairs in her haste to reach her son. She got to the sidewalk in time to be recognized by the little sufferer as he held out his hands on seeing her and became unconscious. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where he died soon after.

SEYMOUR KILLED BY HIS SON.

Sturgis, Mich. Boy Compelled to Shoot in Self-Defense.

STURGIS, Mich., April 30.—Jay Seymour was shot and instantly killed by his son at his home in Burr Oak at 11 o'clock last night. He had been drinking and returned home and began to break up the furniture, kicking out the windows and otherwise destroying things. His sixteen year old son, who was alone with him in the house, tried to pacify him, when he knocked his son down and began to pound him. The boy secured a revolver and shot him, one ball striking him in the mouth and one in the right breast, which produced instant death. Seymour was about forty-eight years of age and leaves a widow and several children. He had taken the Keeley cure, but had returned to drinking again.

INTIMIDATED BY TRAMPS.

Driven from a Burlington Train After a Fight.

BURLINGTON, Ia., April 30.—Yesterday when freight train 76, east-bound on the Burlington road, reached East Ottumwa, a force of twenty-five tramps took possession of an empty freight car and refused to be dislodged. When the train men attempted to cut out the car they were confronted with revolvers. Superintendent Levey of this city was telegraphed and ordered the conductor to carry the men to Fairfield, where the police, after a brief struggle, cut the car out and left the men on a sidetrack. The tramps say they will take possession of another train.

F. B. STOCKBRIDGE DEAD.

Michigan's Senior Senator Passes Away Suddenly at His Nephew's House.

HAD BEEN SICK BUT END WAS UNEXPECTED.

Frank Hutton, Noted Journalist of Washington and Elsewhere, Has Also Passed Away.

VACANCY IN THE SENATE.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Senator Francis B. Stockbridge of Michigan died suddenly at the residence of his nephew, J. S. Houghteling, this evening. He expired while seated in a chair in his sleeping room. Three weeks ago Senator and Mrs. Stockbridge came to Chicago from their home in Kalamazoo, Mich., intending to visit the California Mid-Winter Fair after spending a couple of days at the home of their nephew. The senator while preparing for the California trip was suddenly attacked with stomach troubles and suffered acute pains near the heart. A few days afterwards the senator decided to abandon the trip to California and to return to his Michigan home as his condition would not permit him to travel. The return home, however, was postponed as the senator improved in health so slowly.

At 7 o'clock this evening a change for the worse took place and the members of the family were hastily summoned. Within a few minutes after Mrs. Stockbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Houghteling had reached him the senator breathed his last. While he has been very ill it was at no time thought that his condition was dangerous and his death was entirely unlooked for. A combination of heart and stomach troubles is announced as the cause of death.

Francis Brown Stockbridge was born at Bath, Me., April 9, 1828. He was educated at Bath academy and was a clerk in Boston from 1842 to 1847, when he became a lumber dealer at Chicago. In 1854 he removed to Saugatuck, Mich., and engaged in the manufacture of lumber, which he continued until 1874. In 1883 he removed to Kalamazoo, where he has since resided. With O. R. Johnson as a partner he has been heavily engaged in lumbering operations in the upper peninsula, was largely interested in silver mining and in southern pine. He was a representative in the Michigan legislature in 1869-70 and a senator in 1871-72. He was a Whig in politics, but became a Republican in 1854. He declined the position of minister to Holland in 1867. He also served as colonel in the Michigan National Guard. For some years he has been largely engaged in the breeding of fine horses with S. A. Brown and owned a large stock farm near Kalamazoo. He was elected United States senator in 1887 and was reelected in 1893.

FRANK HUTTON IS GONE.

That Noted Journalist and Politician Has Passed Away.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Frank Hutton, editor of the Washington Post, died at 4:30 this afternoon. Details of funeral arrangements are not yet fully completed but it has been decided that the interment shall be in Rock Creek cemetery Thursday. Mrs. Hutton, Richard Hutton, the only child, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins and John D. O'Connor, Mr. Hutton's confidential secretary, and Dr. Sewers were present at the end.

Frank Hutton was born at Cambridge, O., April 28, 1846. His father, Richard Hutton, removed to Cadiz, O., in 1854, where he published the Republican. Frank entered the office of his father's paper at the age of eleven, learned the printer's trade and became foreman and local editor. When the civil war broke out he enlisted in the 98th Ohio Infantry and was commissioned first lieutenant in 1864. After the war he went to Mt. Pleasant, Ia., edited The Journal there in 1869-74 and then removed to Burlington, Ia., and purchased an interest in The Hawkeye. He was postmaster at Burlington for a few years prior to 1881, when President Arthur appointed him assistant postmaster general. In October, 1884, on Judge Gresham's return to the federal bench, Mr. Hutton was promoted to be postmaster general. At the close of President Arthur's administration he went to Chicago and became editor of The Mail. He returned to Washington about 1887 and became editor of The Post.

CHARGES OF JURY BRIBING.

Arthur Rhys Wants a Judgment for $25,000 Set Aside.

SIoux CITY, Ia., April 30.—Arthur Rhys, by his attorneys, has commenced an action to set aside a $25,000 judgment obtained against him by Walter Strange, a commission man, and E. H. Stone, a banker, on the ground that the jurors bribed members of the jury, furnished some jurors with money to bribe others and hired men to influence the jurors. Some of the jurors will testify in support of the allegations. If the accusations are established criminal prosecutions will certainly follow. The statutes provide a penalty of from one year and $1,000 fine to ten years imprisonment for all persons guilty of offering, giving or receiving bribes.

BANKER HAUGHEY MAY TELL.

Ex-President of the Indianapolis National Bank to Testify.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 30.—The government's attorneys intimate that Theodore P. Haughey, ex-president of the Indianapolis National Bank, has consented to go on the witness stand and testify against the Coffins and Reed, whose trial will begin again Tuesday. Mr. Haughey has already pleaded guilty and it is understood that he has been led to believe that his sentence will be made as short as possible if he will tell his story unreservedly. The trial of Jurymen Armstrong and Stannard, the "go-between" in the attempt at jury corruption, will take place tomorrow.

LAKE LINDEN.

Justice Brule empaneled a coroner's jury on Sunday morning to hold an inquest on the body of Joseph Remillard, who was found dead in a creek a short distance from his home. The jurors were Norbert Sarazin, T. Marcelen, S. Debuque, Peter Bonville, Guy Dubuque, and Elise Chateaufort. The verdict of the jurors was "accidental drowning." The particulars as accurately as they could be obtained are that Remillard left town with a horse and buggy about 6:30 o'clock for his farm about ten miles from here. He was accompanied by Mr. Chateaufort, who resides about three miles nearer to Lake Linden. Remillard was somewhat intoxicated and drove rather fast and recklessly when he left town. When they arrived at Chateaufort's farm the latter got out and went home and nothing more was known about Remillard until his body was found by some persons going to church. Remillard was a bachelor and somewhat eccentric in his habits.

HOUGHTON.

At the opening of circuit court Monday morning Fred Krause pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery. Judge Habel then began sentencing the prisoners, making an appropriate address to each. The sentences were as follows: Wm. Meyers, alias Doc Carter, keeping house of ill fame, five years in the Marquette branch prison; John E. Johnson, keeping house of ill fame, two and a half years in the Marquette branch prison; Charles Anderson, assault, with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder, two years in the Marquette branch prison; Fred Krause and Wm. Goulette, robbery, three years each in the Marquette branch prison; Elias Orava, robbery, ten years in the Marquette branch prison; Thos. B. Martin, forgery, $100 and costs or three months in the county jail. Court then adjourned until 2 o'clock, when the civil calendar was taken up.

F. W. Kroll's "ad" in this issue states that he is carrying the finest line of fishing and sporting goods in the county and is selling them at hard times prices. Those in need of anything in that line will do well to call and inspect his stock.

The charge against Charles Wern preferred by John Mead for cruelty to animals was called by Justice Brand yesterday morning but was again adjourned, this time sine die, on account of the impossibility of the prosecuting attorney being able to be present for a few days.

Reserved seats are now on sale at Ruhl & Barry's drug store for the Rice, Wolford & Sheridan company's appearance at the Armory on May 7, 8 and 9. Popular prices will prevail, fifteen, twenty-five and reserved seats thirty-five cents.

Thursday evening occurs the annual ball of the Houghton Silver Cornet band and everybody should turn out. The band is badly in need of funds and those who cannot attend should buy tickets.

Company F and its friends go into Red Jacket tonight to play "The Confederate Spy" in a crowded house; all the seats having been sold in advance.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—In China the name Chang is pronounced "Jong," with the long sound on the "o." This may account for the nickname "John" as applied to Chinamen.

—The Chinese believe that the original man was a creature half god and half man, and that his color came about from bathing in a river of liquid gold.

—The marriage laws in Australia have become so strict that a marriage there has been declared void because the bride had deceived the husband by stating that she was fifteen years younger than her age.

—The oldest piece of wrought iron in existence is believed to be a roughly-fashioned sickle blade found by Belzoni in Karnak near Thebes. It was imbedded in the mortar under the base of the Sphinx, and on that account is known as the "Sickle of the Sphinx," and is believed to be nearly 4,000 years old.

—Some high prices were realized for postage stamps at a four days' sale in London recently. A Madrid two reals brought $100; a Geneva double stamp, $110; a Cape of Good Hope error penny stamp, blue, $210, and a Canada 12-penny, black, $250. The proceeds of the entire sale amounted to about $13,000.

The number in 1882 was 3,559; in 1891, 4,207, and in 1890, 3,389. Of the 3,341 vessels using the canal last year, 2,362 were English, 260 German, 174 Dutch, and but 160 French.

PHENOMENA OF THE EQUINOX.

Popular Beliefs and Theories of the Influence Exerted.

There is a popular belief that the weather at the time the sun crosses the line is an indication of the weather that may be expected for the next three months. According to this, for the next ninety days Chicagoans may expect a warm temperature, with overcast skies and frequent mists. Being asked if there was any foundation for this popular belief Prof. Elias Colbert said:

"The notion is centuries old, that the state of the weather at the time the sun crosses the line is an indication of the weather that may be expected in that neighborhood for the next sixty or ninety days. Some people think that the influence extends to the next solitary passenger; others that the influence cannot be depended on for more than one-half or two-thirds of that time. A smaller number of people think that an equal amount of importance should be attached to the state of the weather at the autumnal equinox in September, and it may be confidently stated as a fact that more than one coal merchant of this city regularly takes the weather at this time into account in making up his mind as to the quantity of coal he shall order to meet the wants of his customers during the coming months.

Scientific men who have made meteorology a study do not think the idea of such a connection is warranted. Some of them scout at the notion as being evidently absurd when we remember that weather phenomena are continually flowing in waves around the earth; hence, that when the wind is in the north at one place it will be in the south in another place a few score miles distant on the other side of the area of low barometer, and similarly that variations of temperature with a change from clearing to clouding atmosphere, and the reverse, are merely shifting phenomena. Hence the conditions noted for any particular place ought not to be regarded as an index of future conditions here; in fact it would be more philosophical to expect contrasted conditions as, for instance, a clearing up of skies following cloudiness or a lower temperature, due to northerly winds, following the reverse condition, owing to the passage of a storm area over the place under consideration.

The idea may be thought to have a little foundation in the fact that the trade wind system, the middle of which averages near the middle of the tropics, is continuously shifting back and forth with the changing declination of the sun; that is, as the sun advances northward from December to June, the middle of the trade wind system shifts northward and moves back in a southerly direction during the other six months of the year. Of course it is easy to reason that the shifting back and forth of that comparatively steady flow of wind in the tropical regions alternately pushes and draws northward or southward the more variable atmospheric currents of the temperate zones, and thus shifts or causes to vary the areas over which the storm centers move in temperate latitudes, but there is a lack of philosophy in the idea of any special shift occurring at the moment that the sun is in the equinoxes—that is, passing across the plane of the earth's equator. In fact, it has been pointed out that owing to the irregular distribution of land and water on the earth's surface the average position of the medial line of the trade wind system is two or three degrees north of the equator, a position the sun does not reach until six or seven days after the equinox in spring, while it reaches it six or seven days before the time of the autumnal equinox, so that if any indications could be drawn from the southward and northward movements of the sun it would be more rational to take them for the latter dates than the former ones. This theoretical reasoning is favored by the observed fact that our spring equinoctial storms average the last week in March, while those of autumn average about the middle of September.—Chicago Tribune.

Home Adornments.

Lacustrina or the long narrow stripe of woodwork which comes in various widths and designs, wreaths, festoons, cupids, flowers, etc., is invaluable for furnishing off articles of furniture of home manufacture. It can be enamelled, stained, gilded or bronzed and gives a set of home-made bookshelves or a corner cabinet a neat and handsome finish when they would otherwise look botched and amateurish. With a little help from the men of her family or a little skill in carpentering of her own a woman without much money may have a charming toilet table and many other things which would be beyond the reach of her purse if she had to buy them ready-made. A delightful toilet table may be made of a small kitchen table with the corners rounded off—the only difficult part of its construction—or a plain pine table may be made with broomstick legs and a round cornered board of the required size. Cover the top of this board with cambric of any light tint desired, and tack around the edge a curtain of the same, just full enough to hang easily. Over this should be tacked dotted swiss or fine thin cheese cloth, or printed lawn, the design being the same delicate tint of the cambric. The top should be plain, the curtain gathered neatly full or plaited in box plaits and finished at the top with a ruffle five or six inches deep.—Philadelphia Press.

A seaman was fined at Birmingham, England, for interfering with the comfort of railway passengers. He stepped out of an express train while it was traveling fifty miles an hour and wandered along the footboard. One lady, who stopped the train, was greatly alarmed at seeing his face appear before the window of her carriage.

Employer—"Why were you dismissed from your last place?" Servant—"Because just once I got drunk." Employer—"How long were you employed there?" Servant—"One day!"—Fliegende Blätter.

SLEEP OUT DOORS AND LOAF ABOUT CITY.

Mayor Hillis of Des Moines Evidently Lacks Sense and Is Badly Scared by Kellyites.

DELUDED COMMONWEALERS.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Brightwood park, where Coxeys' army is stopping, has been named "Camp Washington" but it has more of the characteristics of Valley Forge.

Last night an opposition army numbering fifteen men went into camp on the edge of the suburban village of Takoma.

Carl Brown this afternoon said Coxeys and himself had been arranging for the grand parade and demonstration which is scheduled to take place tomorrow morning.

It is stated tonight that Coxeys will proceed with his demonstrations tomorrow until stopped by the officers of the law.

Des Moines, April 30.—Denunciations by the labor unions of their action in handling the Kellyites and continued growth of sentiment favorable to Kelly has kept the city officials in a state of turmoil all day.

Kelly is undisturbed by the excitement. He again declared he would not walk out of town and said he expected to have a train Wednesday.

General Superintendent Egan of the Great Western served notice tonight on the mayor, chief of police, governor and district marshal that rumors that the Kellyites would steal a train were absurd and calling for protection for the road's property.

HELENA, Mont., April 30.—Hogan's army, numbering 350, arrived here on a special train in charge of soldiers from Fort Keogh.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 30.—District Judge Bellinger ordered the discharge of the Portland contingent of the Industrial army, charged with contempt of court in violating the injunction restraining them from interfering with the property of the Union Pacific.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 30.—Carter with his band of unemployed, claiming to number 550, started this afternoon on the march to Washington.

COLUMBUS, O., April 30.—The Galvin wing of the Industrials left Columbus tonight on the Burlington & Ohio for Benwood, Va.

DENVER, April 30.—Ten thousand men are said to be already enrolled in the Coxeys' army reserve in Colorado. The force in Denver numbers 1,300.

Men Will Not Arbitrate and Company Will Not Yield.

St. Paul, April 30.—President Debs of the American Railway union is more confident and President Hill of the Great Northern is more determined tonight than at any time since the strike began.

Stream Was Checked but Backed Up Water Finally Breaks Through With Terrific Effect.

TWELVE LIVES WERE LOST.

QUEBEC, April 30.—News is received from St. Albans, forty miles west, that a plateau one hundred feet above the river St. Anne and a mile in length, with farm houses and inhabitants, has slid into the river.

Additional news from St. Anne says the banks of the river, which are composed of clay and are one hundred and fifty feet high, caved in, blocking up the natural channel for a distance of five miles and to the depth of seventy feet, making the water rise one hundred feet above the earth walls that are supposed to hold it back.

The walls were not strong enough to check the fury of the stream and with a terrible roar and rush the water came down upon the unprotected villages, carrying away bridges, houses and lumber booms.

The people of the surrounding districts are panic-stricken and on account of the altered condition of the country it is difficult to reach the scene.

SMUGGLING ENCOURAGED.

Customs Officials Who Are Too Lazy to Examine Travelers' Trunks.

One of the most humorous phases of passing through the custom house is connected with the fact that its officials often seem to reserve their gravest displeasure for the very honest people.

"You have nothing in it—nothing, signora?" asked the officer.

"Yes, I have," was my unexpected reply. "It is just here on top."

I opened the trunk and displayed my ancient goods. The train whistled, officials grunted, people jostled past us and glared at me.

"How is this? Just now at the last moment and the train ready to go. How is this?"

One man was weighing the goods, another pointing a pen in his hand, and half a dozen looking on.

"Why is this?" repeated the chief officer. "Why do you declare this at the very last moment?"

"Perhaps it would have been better if I had not declared it at all," I said, in my suavest tones.

"But to come at the last moment." "Surely it is not for my pleasure, Mr. Officer, that you ransacked my trunks," I reminded him.

Then he looked at me with the air of childlike helplessness so characteristic of Italians.

"But there is no time now to look over your other baggage and see what else you have."

"I put this on top and declared it," I said. "There is nothing else, I assure you. But be tranquil; next time I pass the frontier I will smuggle everything and declare nothing. I promise never to put you to so much trouble again."

A quiver of a smile crossed his lips, but he growled: "But the train is waiting."

"Yes," I replied, "and it must still wait until you are pleased to return my goods and allow me to relock my trunk."

The end of it all was that I was bowed out of the office after paying one dollar duty on a four-dollar piece of goods.

MEXICAN BRICK LAYERS.

A United States Soldier Gives Them a Few Instructions.

Capt. J. B. Kenly, in his "Memoirs of a Maryland Volunteer," describes with evident satisfaction a little scene in the city of Alapa during the Mexican war.

It was not uncommon, says Capt. Kenly, to see an American soldier mending his boots alongside of a Mexican shoemaker, or a carpenter in uniform working at the same bench with a Mexican mechanic.

One day the captain noticed a soldier looking with great interest at some native masons laying brick. They were at work upon a platform elevated perhaps a dozen feet from the ground, up to which a man was carrying mortar upon his head on a square board instead of a hod.

The masons stood immediately in front of the wall they were constructing, placed each brick separately on its bed, used a plumb-line, square, etc., to see that each brick was correctly aligned, and occupied as much time in laying half a dozen bricks as an American mechanic would use in laying a hundred.

"Captain," said the soldier, "may I go up and show those men how to work?"

"Certainly, if you are a bricklayer." He mounted the platform, one of the Mexicans gave him his trowel, and he went to work, the Mexicans looking on with the greatest interest and admiration. No doubt they profited by the lesson.

SAVAGE IDEAS OF PORTRAITS.

A Peculiar Phase of the Superstition of Barbarians.

If we suppose such a material relation between the image and the object, it becomes evident that the savage should depict himself in the same way toward the image, and the object and the image. From his point of view the object and the object it represents are in close relation, and in acting upon the one he would be acting in the same way upon the other.

Proofs are numerous to demonstrate the importance which savages attribute to this mode of action on the original.

Waitz tells, following Denham, that it was dangerous in ascertain tribe of West Africa to paint the portraits of natives, because they were afraid that a part of their soul would pass, by some necromancy, into the image.

Sir John Lubbock notices the fear of their portrait entertained by savages—and the more like the portrait, the greater the danger to the original was supposed to be.

Dr. Kane got rid of the Indians one day when they were making themselves troublesome to him by beginning to paint their portraits. Catlin relates an incident, at the same time and place, of his drawing the profile of a chief named Matochiga, when the Indians around him seemed all at once very much moved.

"Why did you not draw the other half of his face?" they asked. "Matochiga was never ashamed to look a white man in the face." Matochiga did not appear to have taken offense till then, when one of the Indians came up to him and, laughing, said: "The Englishman knows very well that you are only half a man, and he has only drawn half of your face because the other is worth nothing."

A fatal quarrel followed this expression, and Matochiga was killed by a bullet which struck him on the side of the face that had not been drawn.—Lazar Popoff, in Popular Science Monthly.

THE DUCHESS' REGIMENT.

How Her Grace of Gordon Raised a Regiment of Highland Laddies.

Near the close of the last century rumors of a French invasion alarmed Great Britain and roused military ardor to such an extent as to lead to fresh regiments being raised.

In one of a series of interesting sketches by Hon. Mrs. Armitage, of "British Mansions and the Mistresses Past and Present," recently published in Tinsley's Magazine, the raising by the famous duchess of Gordon of the battalion of Gordon Highlanders, which has since held such a distinguished place in British military annals, is thus described:

The duchess of Gordon is said to have had a wager with the prince regent as to which of them would first raise a battalion and the fair lady referred to herself the power of offering a reward even more attractive than the king's shilling.

"At all events, the duchess and Lord Huntly started off on their errand, and between them soon raised the required number of men. The mother and son frequented every fair in the country side, begging the fine young Highlanders to come forward in support of king and country and to enlist in her regiment, and, when all other arguments had failed, rumor stated that a kiss from the beautiful duchess won the doubtful recruit."

"She soon announced to headquarters the formation of a regiment, and entered into all the negotiations with the military authorities in a most businesslike manner, reporting that the whole regiment were Highlanders save thirty-five. Lord Huntly was given the first command of this corps, then and ever since known as the Ninety-second or Gordon Highlanders, and wearing the tartan of the clan."

While Mr. T. J. Richey of Altona, Mo., was traveling in Kansas he was taken violently ill with cholera morbus. He called at a drug store to get some medicine and the druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy so highly he concluded to try it. The result was immediate relief, and a few doses cured him completely. It is made for bowel complaint and nothing else. It never fails. For sale by H. H. Stafford & Co.

IS GREATER THAN ROYALTY ITSELF.

CLOUDS ARE ROLLING BY,

Another Ishpeming Mine Grows Weary of Continued Inactivity.

AND RESUMES WORK WITH A FAIR FORCE OF MINERS.

"Setters" Experience a Set-back—Pearce Playing in Great Luck—A Show Coming.

THIS IS GOOD NEWS.

Work at the old Lake Argonne mine will be resumed today. It is the intention of the management to give places to about two hundred men within the next few weeks. About one-half of that number will be taken on today. The remainder will be engaged as the work progresses and there is room for them.

Men from other places coming here expecting to find work will be disappointed, as the old hands will be given the preference. There are yet many more men than there is work for here. Should every mine in the place start up there would be no trouble in finding men enough in Ishpeming to operate them all. Quite a number of men who have been working in the woods during the winter are now here waiting for an opportunity to find employment at the mines.

Called a Special Meeting.

Charles A. Peterson of Ironwood, president of the board of trustees of the Scandinavian society of the Northwest, which includes all the Scandinavian orders in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, has called a special meeting of the board, to be held at Ironwood on the 16th inst.

It has been suggested that the society's annual reunion, which is to be held at West Superior next month, be postponed on account of the hard times. Ishpeming has two members, Messrs. F. J. Egan and Ed Johnson, on the board of trustees. Mr. Egan will attend the meeting, but Mr. Johnson is not certain that he will be present. It is quite likely that the board will decide to abandon the reunion this year and give West Superior the benefit next year.

Pulled from the "Setters"

The Baraga baseball club has secured the services of Tom Lynn and Joseph Gingress, two of the Setter club's players, for the coming season. Gingress is captain of the "Setters" and plays first base and change catcher, while Lynn is a pitcher. The boys have been engaged to do the battery work. In these two players the Baraga team undoubtedly has the best battery in the upper peninsula. Lynn has no equal as a twirler in this section and Gingress is an excellent all-round player. They have secured work in the sawmill at Baraga and will be compensated for their ball playing besides.

The "Setters" still have another battery and the loss of these two players will hardly cause the team to disband, as others will be taken in to fill their places.

Pearce's Luck.

Harry F. Pearce, superintendent of the Negaunee & Ishpeming Street Railway line, is considered one of the luckiest men in the county. Saturday night, as was noted in yesterday's paper, he won a fine new bicycle worth $135 at a drawing in this city. While the drawing was in progress here F. M. Beney of Negaunee was disposing of a horse, buggy, cutter, road cart, two robes, two blankets, two sets of harness, a saddle and complete barn outfit in a similar way. Pearce also held the lucky number that won these, both drawings—as far as the price of the tickets was concerned—costing him less than $1. Beney's outfit is worth fully $200. Pearce intends keeping it, but will either send the bicycle to his brother at St. Paul or sell it here.

A Few Specialties.

Tibor, the grocer, offers a fine assortment of dried fruits as his specialties for this week, a few of which he mentions in today's MINING JOURNAL. As for fruit of any kind Tibor is never found holding second place as a dealer. His stock is up to date at all seasons of the year and his prices are always reasonable. He handles none but the finest goods in the market in groceries as well as fruits. He has had a long experience in the grocery business and understands the needs of his patrons.

"His Nibs" Coming.

Although booked and billed on rather short notice the Nibbe Burlesque company will appear at the City Opera House in Ishpeming Thursday evening of this week. The company has been playing upper peninsula towns for the past three weeks, but, owing to the illness of its agent, the date was not arranged for, nor the paper sent here, until yesterday. The entertainment is said to be a novel one.

Fred Hammer's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Fred Hammer was held Sunday afternoon under the direction of the Scandinavian society. The marching column was headed by the City band and a large number of the members were in line. Funeral services were conducted at the Norwegian Lutheran church.

That Meeting of the Unemployed at Negaunee Sunday So Proved.

SEVERAL HUNDRED MEN TURNED OUT BUT NO SPEAKER CAME.

Successful Temperance Meetings—The Dagos Dynamiting Fish—Pleasure Boat Launched.

THEY MET TO NO PURPOSE.

Saturday afternoon bills were distributed about town calling a meeting of the unemployed men of Negaunee to be held on the Teal Lake bluff Sunday afternoon.

Killing Fish With Dynamite.

A number of Italians who live near the Buffalo mine were seen killing fish in Partridge creek between the section house and Partridge switch Sunday.

They used dynamite. They are not only killing the fish, but they are destroying the stream, as the sides have been blasted and caved in at several places.

The fish are plentiful there, as they are now coming up the stream from Goose lake. There are brook trout among them.

The Italians do their shooting early in the morning, as they are afraid some one may see them if they attempt it during the day.

Something should be done to stop them.

Launched Their Boat.

F. D. Hall, Joseph Winter, Duncan McLeod and W. A. Mass launched their boat on Teal Lake Saturday.

The boat has been repainted and improved generally and the boys have christened it the "Onota." Walter Kroze's sailboat is still here and will be launched in a few days.

LOCAL LAONICUS.

The regular monthly session of the city council will be held Thursday evening.

C. A. Laurier will not conduct his saloon business here next year. He closed his doors last night.

J. C. Hudson has accepted a place at Ishpeming as bookkeeper for Sellwood & Co. He will remove his family to the Hematite City in the near future.

Special services will be held every afternoon and evening this week at the Presbyterian church. They will be conducted by Rev. Jacobs of Ishpeming and Rev. Forbes of this city.

J. A. Richards, the plumber, received a carload of sewer pipe from below yesterday. Mr. Richards makes a specialty of sewer connections and is prepared to do all kinds of work in that line.

He keeps a complete line of plumbers' goods at his place on Pioneer avenue.

Superintendent Pearce of the street railway line won the horse, buggy, cutter, harness and other horse furniture disposed of Saturday night by F. M. Beney. Harry did the right thing by the boys Saturday night. Cigars were distributed quite freely in both cities.

Messrs. Robinson and Scott, Ishpeming members of Charles Towne Post Grand Army of the Republic, were in the city yesterday endeavoring to get the Negaunee Dramatic club to produce "Crawford's Claim" at Ishpeming for the benefit of the post on the evening of Decoration Day, May 30.

OUR BOYS.

When our boys wore knickerbockers, And we girls wore pinafores, I remember how we fancied They'd unlocked all wisdom's stores.

Later, when they went to college, And returned in uniform, We all thought that naught so splendid 'E'er was seen in human form.

When they told their college stories, When they sang their college pieces, Where, we thought, was ever music, Where were voices like to these?

But we did not say so freely, As in childish days of yore; Yet I think perhaps the ladies Sought our good opinion more.

Ah, those happy days are over! Yet, you men and women grown; Yet we hold with faith unflinching 'There is no crowd like our own.

Time has brought us separation, But, when spirits loving are, Hearts are very near together, Be our bodies near or far.

As of old, we still share fully In their sorrows and their joys, And this prayer is often offered: "The All-Father bless our boys!"

THE FINDING OF GOLD.

How the Precious Metal Was Discovered in California.

Volumes have been written about the discovery of gold in California and stories without number are told of when it happened.

As a matter of fact, the existence of the precious metal seems to have been known to the Indians and the pious Spanish padres long before the Americans conquered the land; but, even granting that Marshall's was the first find that was heralded to the world at large, and that the date thereof was January 24, 1848, even then the accounts of that discovery have been jumbled and twisted in such innumerable ways that it would seem that all chroniclers of the interesting event were beguiled by its dazzling splendors into the romantic realms of fiction.

The men who worked for Sutter on the old Coloma mill have nearly all found uncontested claims, and are resting therein forever; but up at the '49 mining camp at the Midwinter fair is an elderly one-legged Mormon, named James S. Brown, who is the only living man who was present when Marshall washed the yellow grains in the camp dough pan; and he is the man who first tested those flaky scales with fire, and, going forth from the shanty to where the men were at work on the mill race, was the first to cry: "Boys, here's gold!"

James Brown is sixty-five years old now. In 1848 he was a lusty youth of not yet twenty summers. He had two legs then. It was only a quarter of a century ago that he lost the other at a bear hunt.

"I am the oldest miner alive in California to-day," said he. "I don't mean that I am the oldest in years, because I am only sixty-five, and there are many men here to-day who have worked in the early days and are now much older than me. But I was the first miner. I was with Marshall when he first discovered gold in January, 1848, and I was the first man to know about it. The story is an old one. It was at Capt. Sutter's mill on the American river, which we were building. Marshall, who was a wheelwright by trade, was in charge of the work. He was a particular friend of mine, but there were nearly one hundred of us working on the millrace at the time. He had been reading books about gold and mines and things, and I remember very well his coming to me one day and talking about quartz and bedrock and similar matters, and telling me that he thought there was gold in the country.

"You see, we had come upon the rock when we were digging the race and were afraid that it would interfere with our making an even channel for the water. Then it was that Marshall came to me and told me about the books he had been reading, and on the afternoon of the 23d of January, 1848, he determined to do a little prospecting. He asked me to bring him the pan. It was a common, ordinary pan that he baked bread in and the like. He spent all the afternoon with that pan trying to find gold, but he hadn't got anything by supper.

The next morning early he started out with the pan again. We boys were excavating in the ditch when he came up from the hole where he was working and told us he had found some mineral. He had it in his hat; a whole lot of little flake-like scales. They were all small bits, and all scaly, and they wasn't sure what they were. He handed the hat to me, and I took one of the flakes and bit it. I could tell by biting it that it was gold, but, of course, I wasn't sure. So I took it into the cabin, where a log fire was burning, and I tested it in the fire to see if it would melt. But it wouldn't melt, and then I knew it was gold, sure. Then I came out with it to where the men were working, and, 'Boys,' said I, 'it is gold!'

"That was the first announcement of the discovery of gold in California, and I was the first man to test the metal and the first man to proclaim it."

It is needless to say that neither Brown nor Marshall nor any of those other mill builders at Coloma was looking for or expecting gold in those days. As a matter of fact, they were working with the vaguest hope of ever receiving any monetary consideration for their labor. As the old pioneer very tersely and pathetically puts it: "Old Capt. Sutter owes me one hundred dollars in cold cash yet for the work I put in on that mill race, and I know I'll never get it, seeing as he is dead."

"But we had no kick coming, because we had agreed to accept cattle, horses and grub in part payment for our work. Moreover, we picked up enough gold before we left the place to square our accounts with the captain's Coloma enterprise.

JAMMED CLEAR TO THE ROOF

"The Smugglers" Captures Biggest Opera House Audience on Record.

ORE TRIMMERS WILL WORK FOR TWO AND A HALF CENTS.

Disagreement Settled by South Shore Road Which Will in Future Control All Trimming.

RICE KNOWS HIS BUSINESS.

The Marquette Opera house last night enjoyed the somewhat unusual luxury of having not only every seat filled but as much of the aisles as safety would permit. Aside from those who had been fortunate enough to reserve seats or arrive in time to get those unreserved, groups stood around each entry and behind the rear parquette chairs. It was the largest audience ever in the opera house since its building and to the Rice, Wolford & Sheridan dramatic company must be given the credit of assembling so many people. Other companies have been here and offered the people of Marquette almost every inducement to come out and see what they had to give but to this organization must be awarded the palm for thorough success in matters of persuasion.

In speaking of the piece presented last night—"The Smugglers" by Gus Wolford—it should be kept in mind that the highest price of admission was only thirty-five cents and the character of the play purely scenic and melodramatic. To form a just estimate of the production it must be compared with its class and on such a basis it may be safely pronounced a success. The question is not whether one, two or three of the audience prefer or fancy melodrama, but if, when placed beside other popular priced melodramas, Rice, Wolford & Sheridan's repertoire compares favorably with them? It is THE MINING JOURNAL'S candid opinion that it does.

"The Smugglers" was offered purely as a dramatic attraction which would prove a scenic success and it not only did this but to a considerable degree proved also a dramatic success. The story is clear and the situation not impossible and the company, in the main, handles it satisfactorily. The different stage settings last night presented an entire absence of that clank trap so common with the ordinary traveling companies. There was a simulation of reality about each feature that lent a decided piquancy to the unraveling of the plot. Considering the number of changes demanded by the play the waits were not over long and the audience showed its interest by not growing impatient during any of the intervals of the five acts. The twenty-two sets of scenes carried by the company was bought less than two months ago and it takes some time to get them into trim for easy handling.

Of the cast not a little might be said. The strongest characterization was that of Bill Hicks, the smuggler, presented in a decidedly clever manner by Lawrence Holmes. His work developed, particularly during the third act, the only purely dramatic features of the play, and elicited from the audience hearty approval. His facial expression was excellent, his enunciation careful and his entire development of the unlovely character, good. Fred Walton, who first appeared with the company last night, made an acceptable Jack Hardy, not overdoing his part and winning his share of favor from his judges, the audience. Gus Wolford as Conrad Geismeyer kept his hearers in roars of laughter by his natural depiction of a son of Germany and W. J. Deming, also a new member of the company, as the Irishman, Dennis O'Rourke, added his quota to the humorous features of the piece. Charles Barrington did some careful doubling but showed to best advantage as Bob Gleason, the convict, although as Steph Lyndon his work was sufficiently robust to meet the requirements. Rose Arlington was capable in her presentation of the ups and downs of the heroine, Edith Lyndon, and Fannie Oden was a saucy and pleasing Polly Watts.

If laughter means amusement and applause is a mark of approval, then the audience which witnessed the appearance of this company, was well satisfied with the manner in which its members made their first bow to the Marquette public. It is a conservative summing up to say that the company kept full faith with the public, gave a show much superior to many others of its class—and even to some claiming superiority—and is in every particular worthy of liberal patronage.

Tonight the bill will be "The Train Wreckers," a story of the big railway strike of some years ago. Every scenic feature of the play will be new and some startling incidents are promised. The prices will remain the same and the seats are already going like hot cakes. Visit Bigelow's early today and reserve yours.

Tomorrow afternoon a special matinee will be given when "Mystic Mountain" will be the offering. Tomorrow night the play will be "Underground," a mining drama.

Will Trim All Summer.

Speculation is certainly now at an end. The trimmers' troubles are settled for the season on the following terms: The South Shore road takes charge of the trimming. The price paid will be two and one-half cents a ton and the men will select their own foremen, who will get but one share of the division, not two as formerly. The South Shore will collect for trimming and pay the men when the job is done. Placards will be posted at the ore shipping office stating name of vessel and amount of ore carried so that the men may see without any difficulty just the number of tons trimmed and the amount earned. There was pretty strong talk among the men a few days ago about standing out for a three cent a ton rate, but better judgment seems to have prevailed and they have very wisely taken the rate offered, considering that they have gained victory enough in getting the trimming to do at all.

Mr. McPartland was talked with yesterday about the outcome and expressed himself as through fighting. He said further opposition would do no good and might only injure the prospects of the men as well as any chances of a readjustment the bosses might have. Mr. McPartland's position was dignified and free from the slightest rancor. He spoke of the men kindly and did not appear to attach any blame to them for taking the position they did. He asserted that he had always dealt squarely with his men and while regretting the differences which have arisen hoped they would ultimately result to the good of all concerned.

Now that the matter is satisfactorily adjusted and the men at work it may be noted that while the trimmers, in the main, conducted their opposition to the proposal of the bosses with considerable forbearance and judgment, Mr. McPartland's stand throughout has been characterized by discretion, good temper and an absence of ill will toward his opponents.

Lake Superior in Hunks.

The most hustled man in town yesterday was Manager Kelsey of the Lake Superior Ice company. The sudden warm spell almost caught him on the hip, but he rallied with his customary agility, countered with a knock-out blow in the shape of big wagons loaded with crystal fridgity and managed to meet every demand before sunset.

It was by no means an easy task to look after this old and reliable company's big business yesterday. So many persons who have been putting off making ice contracts for the summer suddenly realized they needed something cooler than the weather about their houses and places of business and as a consequence the telephone of the company at Werner's store kept up a constant ringing. Real, old simon pure Lake Superior, in convenient chunks, is what this company offers and it presents a scale of prices in another part of this issue which all requiring ice would do well to study carefully.

The case of the people against Murphy, Joyce, McGann and VanRemoortel, charged with serious assault on William O'Meara, came up before Justice Crary yesterday forenoon. The greater portion of the time until noon was spent in an examination of witnesses by the prosecuting attorney to decide whether or not the people had a case. When an affirmative conclusion was reached, a continuance was asked by Judge Brown, attorney for the defendants, as he had to attend supreme court at Lansing. The court granted a continuance until Saturday morning next at 10:30 o'clock.

The case against Mr. O'Meara preferred by Murphy, one of the defendants in the other case, was also continued.

The promptness and certainty of its cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping coughs, and is the most effective remedy known for these diseases. Mr. C. B. Main of Union City, Pa., says: "I have a great sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I warrant every bottle and have never heard of one failing to give entire satisfaction. 50 cent bottles for sale by H. H. Stafford & Co."

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have been using it for about two years—four bottles in all—as occasion required, and always keep a bottle of it in my home. I believe I know a good thing when I get hold of it, and Pain Balm is the best liniment I have ever met with. W. B. Denny, dairyman, New Lexington, Ohio, 50 cent bottles for sale by H. H. Stafford & Co.
