CLEVELAND COMPLACENT.

Thinks Silver Agitation in Europe Fully Justifies His Steady Policy.

OTHER NATIONS COMING INTO LINE ON SILVER.

Senator Sherman Takes the Same View of Recent Developments of Bimetallic Sentiment.

HIS SILVER POLICY JUSTIFIED.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The agitation in Europe and notably in England in favor of the rehabilitation of silver as a money metal is observed with the greatest satisfaction by the administration, for it is regarded as a strong confirmation of the correctness of the principle to which President Cleveland has so steadfastly adhered through thick and thin and sometimes at the apparent risk of his own popularity with his party.

The president's theory was that by suspending further efforts to maintain unaided the integrity as a money metal of the vast silver circulation the United States would cause the European nations to feel the need of a larger circulating medium and to share at least with the United States the hardships of the monetary stringency. Therefore the movement now in progress in England, Germany and France is regarded by the administration people as an evidence of the successful working of the president's policy.

Probably some kind of an agreement might be reached now, but according to the view taken in financial quarters here it probably would not realize the desire to put silver on a perfect equality with gold and it is thought it would postpone indefinitely that restoration. Therefore it is probable that this government will pursue a conservative course, declining to take the initiative again in view of the fruitless conferences already held, and bide its time until the European powers and particularly Great Britain are prepared to invite the United States to join in a conference which shall have before it some distinct proposition looking to the rehabilitation of silver with sufficient power lodged in its members to ensure some practicable outcome.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S IDEAS. WASHINGTON, May 2.—Senator Sherman in speaking today of the London bimetallic convention said: "There is no division of sentiment among conservative people as to the necessity of regarding silver as one of the moneys of the country. The only question we discuss in congress is whether we can have coinage of silver without demonetizing gold."

"While I have always opposed the free coinage of silver I have none the less desired that silver should be used to the utmost extent possible as a money metal, providing only it would not place us on the single standard of silver and drive gold from the country. My own opinion is that it is better to recognize at once as the fact that it is apparent, on account of the vast increase in the production of silver, that the ratio should be based upon the present relative market value of silver and gold."

SENATOR TELLER'S HOPES.

Senator Teller said: "As to the effect of the telegram sent to the London meeting by Senator Sherman and other senators who have not been known as silver men, I think the telegram will encourage bimetallicism in Europe by showing that even those who oppose the free coinage of silver have come to recognize the necessity of the double standard. It will be seen from this that while differences of opinion may exist among Americans as to how we shall secure the full use of silver as standard money, none exist as to the necessity of using both gold and silver on terms of mint equality."

A cablegram signed by senators who vote for the repeal of the Sherman silver purchase act was sent to the International Bimetallic conference in London today, favoring the free coinage of gold and silver by international agreement.

SENATORS' MESSAGE CHERISHED.

LONDON, May 3.—The International Bimetallic conference resumed its sessions today. A paper was read by Sir William Houldsworth on the effects on various classes of population of the fall in the general level of prices.

Mr. Thery, one of the French delegates, warmly urged the establishment of an International Bimetallic league. The proposal was cordially supported and it is generally believed will be carried into effect.

At the opening of the conference today ex-Lord Mayor Evans, who presided, read a cable message from Washington signed by a number of United States senators expressing sympathy with the movement to promote the restoration of silver by international agreement. The message was received with prolonged cheering.

WHOLE CITY MOURNED.

Very Large Attendance at Senator Stockbridge's Funeral.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., May 3.—Kalamazoo was filled with distinguished citizens of Michigan and other states today to attend the funeral of Senator Stockbridge. Besides the congressional funeral committee there were present Governor Rich and the heads of all the state departments and delegations from Detroit, Grand Rapids and elsewhere. From 10 o'clock to noon the public was permitted to view the remains at the Stockbridge mansion.

Services were held at St. Luke's church at 4 o'clock. They consisted of the regular Episcopal service without eulogies. The pall bearers were members of the local G. A. R. post and eight intimate friends of the dead senator acted as honorary pallbearers. Fifty carriages filled with relatives, friends and business and official associates followed the remains to the grave. Most of the factories of the city closed and insignia of mourning were seen everywhere.

FRANK HATTON'S FUNERAL.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The funeral of Editor Frank Hatton of the Washington Post took place this afternoon from his late residence in Hillier place. The burial service was read by Bishop Hurst and the interment was at Rock Creek cemetery. A distinguished company attended the services.

TROOPS ON THE MESABA.

Rioting Finlanders Somewhat Subdued by Sight of Bayonets.

DULUTH, May 3.—Fifteen hundred miners are on the Mesaba range. A magazine was broken open last night and fourteen kegs of powder and some dynamite stolen.

Sheriff Sharkey and Adjutant General Muhlenburg left for Virginia this morning, followed by Company A of the state militia on a special train, sending the militia to Virginia in response to dispatches asking for aid at once. Seven hundred men are congregated there. Most of the strikers are Finlanders employed at common labor. They demand $1.50 per day. They have been getting $1.25.

The strikers were considerably surprised when the troops arrived and conducted themselves peaceably all day, with the exception of hooting militiamen as they formed in line.

Sheriff Sharkey endeavored to get the trouble at the Franklin mine settled by arbitration tonight but the effect was unsuccessful. An attempt will be made to resume work at the mine in the morning.

Sheriff Sharkey at 9 p. m. received a telegram asking him to go to Mountain Iron at once as rioting was in progress there.

CLEVELAND RIOTS ARE OVER.

CLEVELAND, May 3.—The city rested under military protection last night. Between eight and nine hundred men were sleeping on their arms at the various armories. At daybreak the full force of police was distributed to points where trouble was likely. As the day progressed they kept everybody moving and allowed no crowds to gather at any point. At one or two places small brawls occurred but nothing at all serious.

COKEERS RIOTING AGAIN.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 3.—The coke strikers raised the Fort Hill plant this morning and drove the workmen out. A number of men were badly beaten. Mobs are marching through the region and other raids are feared. The excitement is greater than at any time since the strike began.

SETTLING THE COAL STRIKE.

Convention of Miners and Operators at Cleveland Called.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—Representative coal operators of the Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania fields are here considering the advisability of a conference with the representatives of the miners with a view to ending the strike. The result was a call issued by a committee appointed by the meeting for a national convention of operators and miners to be held at Cleveland at 2 p. m. May 15. The call is signed by President McBride and Secretary McBryde for the miners and by the operators by W. H. Holcomb of Illinois, J. Smith Talley of Indiana, J. P. Morton of Ohio and F. Robbins of Pennsylvania. The question of wages was not discussed at the conference, the main subject being cooperation.

DWINDLING GOLD RESERVE.

Large Shipments in Prospect and Reserve Below Limit.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Disquieting news has been received at the treasury from New York concerning gold exportations. The rates of foreign exchange continue firm and large shipments are looked for. Reports say that at least $5,000,000 will be withdrawn for export at that point Saturday with probabilities that this sum will be greatly exceeded. The sum mentioned will reduce the government reserve to $92,000,000.

PERSIAN NONARCH ASHORE.

Went on in Clear Weather and With Smooth Water.

New York, May 3.—The steamer Persian Monarch went aground in clear weather and smooth water at 9:30 last night off Eastport. Captain Bristow says it was because her rudder broke. One of the firemen, however, says the rudder did not break till after she grounded. The vessel lies easy and is in no present danger. She has thirty passengers. Tugs have been sent to her assistance.

KOHLISAT SELLS OUT.

Three Years Enough of Newspaper Publishing for Him.

CHICAGO, May 3.—H. H. Kohlsaat, for three years publisher of the Chicago Inter-Ocean and proprietor of a majority of the stock, today disposed of his entire interest to William Penn Nixon, who has been editor of the paper for more than eighteen years. The gentlemen are warm friends but in some points were not agreed as to the management of the paper. It is understood that Mr. Kohlsaat received about $400,000 for his interest.

Forecast of the Weather.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—9 p. m.—The weather bureau reports the following as its forecast for the next twenty-four hours. For upper Michigan: Partly cloudy; warmer; southwest winds.

Strike Ordered by Close Vote.

OTTUMWA, Ia., May 3.—The miners' convention at Albia by a vote of 65 to 55 has ordered a strike which will take out 9,000 men.

KELLY'S MEN DISCOURAGED.

Industrial Army Quite Likely to Break Up in Des Moines.

FREE TRAIN POSITIVELY REFUSED TO KELLYITES.

Desertions Are Increasing and General Scatter Is Quite Likely to Result Very Soon.

MUST WORK OR GO HUNGRY.

DES MOINES, May 3.—Kelly's army is in desperate straits. There is little hope of securing a train. Starvation stares them in the face.

The much-discussed workingmen's demonstration today was a flat failure as to numbers. At the start this morning only thirty men were in line. They marched headed by General Weaver and on their way to the capitol increased to about one hundred.

When an audience was gained with Governor Jackson, Weaver acted as spokesman. He declared the pacific intentions of the people, but they wanted to inquire whether there was not some means by which the executive could get the army out of town. The people feared if not sent forward they would disband here and glut the labor market. Several others spoke in the same strain and asked Governor Jackson to demand transportation of the railroads.

RAILROADS WANT FULL FAIR.

The governor in reply read the requests he had made on all the roads for transportation for Kelly's men and their refusals to carry them for less than full fare. The governor added he would lay the matter before the council of state. The only hope he saw was to raise funds to carry the army to the Mississippi river, whence if Kelly would consent he might be able to secure boats to take the army by water to Cincinnati.

At this point James Meredith, a local labor leader, became anarchistic and demanded that the railroads be compelled to furnish a train. He was promptly squelched by the delegation, which quietly left. Governor Jackson says he has an offer by a Mississippi river boat line which renders the plan proposed by him feasible.

KELLY MUCH SUBDUED.

Kelly when told of the governor's plan said he would gladly accept it. It would land him much nearer Washington and he felt sure he could manage to get the rest of the way. The efforts of the state officers will now be directed to carrying out these plans.

Many of the army had nothing but bread for breakfast this morning and only 200 pounds of meat could be secured for dinner. The citizens committee hopes by hard work to get enough food to last over tomorrow.

Henry Brown, a member of the army, attempted suicide by cutting his throat this morning. He will probably recover.

KELLYITES ARE DESERTING.

There seemed small hope tonight that Kelly's army would secure transportation out of Des Moines and as the greater part of the men assert positively that they will walk no farther the authorities anticipate the breaking up of the army here.

Governor Jackson spent the day in endeavoring to secure a train to the Mississippi with a view of sending the industrial down the river and up the Ohio by boat but had little success. Kelly's men are discouraged over the prospect and many have quietly left during the last two days. Some recruits have been secured, the army tonight numbering 1,350 exclusive of officers and "angels."

Kelly today received from Mayor Bemis of Omaha $70 and an encouraging letter.

STOLE ANOTHER TRAIN.

TACOMA, Wash., May 3.—Three hundred of the 1,000 industrial encamped at Puyallup marched up the track eastward this evening. Congregating near Olney they seized the fast east-bound Northern Pacific freight train and are now climbing the grade into the Cascade mountains. The balance of the army at Puyallup has been ordered to march on double quick time under General Cartwell up the track, where an effort will be made to hold the train until they arrive. Marshal Drake was notified and will leave at once with a force of deputies in pursuit. Probably the militia will follow.

DESERTIONS ARE NUMEROUS.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Coxey spent most of the morning trying to get the Ivy city track for his army. Meantime the Commonweathers are trying to pass time as pleasantly as possible. There are several showmen among them and they gave a minstrel entertainment this morning. Desertions from the army are becoming numerous.

ANOTHER SHOCK FELT.

Shattered Buildings Levelled but No Lives Were Lost.

ATPENS, May 3.—Another severe shock of earthquake was felt in nearly all the districts which previously suffered last night. The shock completed the destruction of many buildings damaged by former disturbances. There was no loss of life.

In Memory of Koskiusko.

CHICAGO, May 3.—The Polish societies today celebrated the hundredth anniversary of Koskiusko. Over eight thousand men were in the procession. Commemorative exercises were held in Battery D.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS. OFFICIAL. A special meeting of the common council of the city of Marquette was held in the council room on Saturday, the 28th day of April, A. D., 1894, President Pearl presiding.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with. There were present Aldermen Brown, Hennessey, Hoch, Homsher, Holley, Jamerson, Moore, Mullally, Pearl, Rosetter, Sherman, Tobin and Vandenberg.

The recorder read the call for the special meeting of the council at this time, stating its object, and presented affidavit of service of notice of said meeting, showing due and timely notice on all of the aldermen of this city, which was duly filed.

The president stated the object of the meeting, as the call stated, was to consider the liquor bonds, and appoint a census enumerator and assistants.

Moved by Alderman Hennessey, supported and carried, that all of the liquor bonds to be presented be approved in a body, unless there are objections to any of them.

Five names were then presented for the position of census enumerators, or assistants, for taking the census this year. Moved by Alderman Hennessey, supported and carried, that William A. Ross be appointed census enumerator for the city.

Moved by Alderman Brown, supported and carried, that there be three assistants. Thereupon Henry J. Hopkins, Frederick L. Herlich and William A. Jellison were appointed assistant census enumerators.

On motion the chair appointed a committee of three to divide the district, consisting of Aldermen Hennessey, Mullally and Holley.

A short recess was then taken. After recess the said committee reported and presented the following resolution: Resolved, That the city be divided into four enumeration districts as follows: First enumeration, First and Second wards.

Second enumeration, Third and Fourth wards. Third enumeration, Fifth and Sixth wards. Fourth enumeration, Seventh and Eighth wards.

HILL THE ONLY KICKER.

Democratic Senatorial Caucus Approves Tariff Bill With One Dissenting Vote.

THAT ONE VOTE WAS CAST BY DAVID B. HILL.

Mr. Toole Murphy Was Absent and Is Quite Likely to Follow His Chief.

THIRTY-SEVEN TO ONE. WASHINGTON, May 3.—By a vote of 37 to 1, six Democrats being absent, the Democratic senators in caucus today adopted a resolution agreeing to support the tariff bill of the finance committee, including the compromise amendments, that were agreed upon.

The six absent senators were: Mills, Murphy, Lindsay, Irby, Butler and Gibson. The only one senator in whose absence there might be any significance are Murphy and Mills, the understanding being that all the others are in accord with any bill supported by the majority of Democratic senators.

The conferences that have been going on among the Democratic senators for two weeks have given the leaders information how different senators stood but they wanted official caucus action upon what had been agreed to in the conference room. The roll was called in order to place all on record. Thirty-seven senators voted in favor of the resolution and one, Senator Hill, against it.

QUAY'S SERIAL STORY.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The senate after some unimportant business went into executive session and postponed action on the Chinese treaty till next Monday. When the doors reopened the tariff bill was taken up.

Mr. Quay then resumed the speech he has been delivering in serial story form for the last two weeks. After speaking some time he moved to go into executive session. The motion was lost and the hour set for the Democratic caucus having arrived the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

T. C. Benedict of New York was confirmed as public printer.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The time of the house today was taken up in consideration of the river and harbor bill. Speeches were made by Messrs. Cannon, Woodcock, Ellis, Hepburn and Kay and without action the house adjourned.

STOOD THE TEST.

The Startling Experience of a Parisian Armorer.

An amusing story has been going the rounds of the French papers respecting a general whose recent dueling exploits have excited some amazement both in England and on the continent.

The worthy brave is said to be possessed of an extraordinary coat of mail. One day, as the story goes, the general sent for a clever artisan in Paris and demanded of him whether he could engage to make a coat of mail, to be worn under the ordinary dress, which should be absolutely bullet proof.

The man promised to do as requested, naming nineteen thousand francs as the price for it. The bargain was speedily concluded, and in due time the article was brought round to the general's house. The general took it up, carefully examined it, and, turning to the man, told him to put it on. The man did as he was bid.

"As you guarantee the efficacy of your coat, you will have, I presume, no objection to my testing it," dryly remarked the general; and before the astonished artisan could protest he took a brace of pistols and discharged them.

Half dead with fear, the man stood the fire, and, to the great credit of his workmanship, with complete impunity. But the general was not content with one trial. He fired another pistol at the back of the man, and afterwards discharged a fowling piece at him with similar effect, or rather, non-effect.

He also tried to pierce the coat with a sword. The gallant general was so delighted with his new garment that he handed the artisan two checks for nineteen thousand francs, the first being the sum agreed on, and the second check in compensation for the fright he had given him.

A Queer Philopona Present. Going the rounds in a pretty story about Rosa Bonheur. Some time ago a Russian grand duke was visiting Paris and chanced to dine in her company.

They got on very well, and at dessert they ate philopona together—that is to say, they shared a double almond. But the duke, when next day they met, forgot to say "philopona," and lost the bet. He asked the artist what present he should give her and she added, laughingly: "Any animal that would do to paint: something pretty, you know." The duke smiled and departed. Nothing more was heard of him and the lady had quite forgotten the affair, when some months afterward, the royal forfeit arrived—to wit, three enormous polar bears.

EPILOGUE OF THE WORLD'S FAIR

The French Government Proposes to Decorate the Exhibitors.

The epilogue of the Chicago world's fair is being played out in Paris just now. After having first soothed the injured feelings of French exhibitors by a rain of bronze medals that were impartially ladled out to all the French section the French government has made a formal application to the chamber of deputies to distribute twenty-five crosses of officers of the legion of honor and 128 rosettes of chevaliers of the legion of honor to the still perturbed exhibitors.

The government, according to a Paris letter in the Philadelphia Telegraph, sets forth in its application to the chamber of deputies that nearly 4,000 exhibitors figured in the French section, and that the French display in Chicago was the most brilliant this nation has yet made in a foreign land. Without counting the $90,000 voted by the state for the decoration of the French section the exhibitors themselves had clubbed together and raised by private subscription half a million of dollars to add to the general decorations in Manufactures hall, and in that hall alone over $5,000,000, and moreover, by common consent, the French share of the world's fair was voted one of the most successful exhibits there. So much effort deserved reward. Unhappily the American jury was organized in haste and very late in the day, and its exactions were such that the French government could only withdraw from competition and declare that the French section declined all awards.

On the other hand, the financial crisis which is still convulsing the United States broke out in the middle of June, scarcely a fortnight after the opening of the world's fair, and precluded the sales on which exhibitors had counted. Therefore the government concludes that the participants in the success of the French section, having received neither the benefits of official rewards nor yet of financial advantages, it behooves France herself to show her gratitude towards her people who, without gaining anything by so doing, had so valiantly demonstrated her artistic and industrial superiority before the great continent which is so soon to be thrown open to free European exportation. One of the highest grade of crosses of the legion of honor is destined to Rosa Bonheur, whose pictures made such a sensation in Chicago, and whose resolute refusal to exhibit in Paris of late years has debarred her from further recompenses than those she has already acquired.

Sarah Grand Says That He Has Grown Monotonous and Cheap.

But, where are our men, asks Sarah Grand, of "Heavenly Twins" fame, in the North American Review. Where is the chivalry, the truth and affection, the earnest purpose, the plain living, high thinking and noble self-sacrifice that make a man? We look in vain among the bulk of our writers even for appreciation of these qualities. With the younger men all that is usually cultivated is that flippant smartness which is synonymous with cheapness. There is such a want of wit among them, too, such a lack of variety, such monotony of threadbare subjects worked to death! Their "comic" papers subsist upon repetitions of these three venerable jests—the mother-in-law, somebody drunk, and an edifying deception successfully practiced by an unfaithful husband or wife. As they have nothing true, so they have nothing new to give us, nothing either to expand the heart or move us to happy mirth.

Their ideas of beauty threaten always to be satisfied with the ballet-dancer's legs, pretty things enough in their way, but not worth mentioning as an aid to the moral, intellectual and physical strength that make a man. They are sadly deficient in imagination, too; that old fallacy to which they cling, that because an evil thing has always been, therefore it must always continue, is as much the result of want of imagination as of the man's trick of evading the responsibility of seeing right done in any matter that does not immediately affect his personal comfort.

But there is one thing the younger men are especially good at, and that is giving their opinion; this they do to each other's admiration until they verily believe it to be worth something. Yet they do not even know where we are in the history of the world.

ROYAL YOUNG ATHLETES.

The Kaiser's Young Sons Being Carefully Trained to Be Good Soldiers.

The six little princes of Germany are all great athletes. They go through exercises which are calculated to develop and strengthen the muscles and do everything to make them grow into strong men and fine soldiers—which is their father's greatest ambition for them. The crown prince is a slim blonde boy of twelve, who has already entered the army and has his first degree. The youngest boy is five years old, and, according to the Philadelphia Times, is the handsomest of the royal princes. His name is Oscar, Frederick, the second prince, who was named for his much beloved grandfather, is also a fine-looking boy. Crown Prince Wilhelm is the plainest and most delicate looking of the royal children. The new baby, Wilhelmina Maria Augusta Leopoldine (and a few other names, too), is a very ordinary-looking baby, not half as pretty as your little baby brother or sister. Wilhelmina has very little hair on her round little head, a decided pug nose and a very long and Gaelic upper lip, but at present, being the only lady in the family, she is the belle of the palace. The young princes all ride, skate, dance and swim well and so far have occupied very few hours of their days in the schoolroom. They are all rather musical and are very fond of having schoolroom theatricals, as well as visiting the theater, which means their father's private performances.

HARRISON IN THE FIELD.

Ex-President Is a Candidate for the Presidential Nomination in 1896.

REFUSES TO DISAVOW NEW'S UTTERANCES.

Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette Announces Candidacy in Editorial Paragraph Approved By Him.

BENJAMIN'S BOOM LAUNCHED.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The Commercial Gazette printed today an interview with ex-President Harrison in which he refused to deny the interview with Harry S. New as to his candidacy for renomination. This was deemed very significant but the editor of that paper spent some time with Mr. Harrison today and tomorrow The Commercial Gazette will contain the following editorial:

"Harrison's presidential boom appears to have been well and permanently launched by the visit of the distinguished Hoosier to Cincinnati. There is no use to beat about the bush any longer. The popular hold of General Harrison upon American citizens makes palpable the fact that they may as well begin to consider his name in connection with the nomination in 1896."

The close relations of Manager Perry Hatch and Editor Woodward with Mr. Harrison and the fact that they spent most of the day with him leaves no doubt about this being an official announcement. Mr. Woodward in fact states that it is an official declaration.

A REMARKABLE DIAMOND.

Two and a Quarter Inches Long and Worth Two Thousand Pounds.

A large diamond was recently found in the De Beers Consolidated mines at Kimberly, South Africa, by a native, says the Jewelers Weekly. It was in two pieces, one weighing nineteen and a half carats and the other twenty-five and a half carats. The remarkable feature of the stone is its shape, as with the two pieces joined, it measures two and a fourth inches long, one inch broad and three-fourths of an inch thick.

It is crystallized more in the form of ordinary quartz, except that, instead of being hexagonal, it is of the prismatic form, having only three sides. At one end—the base—it has a flat cleavage plane on the slant, and there is no doubt that, to make it a perfect crystal, there is another piece about three-quarters of an inch long that should be added to it, and which may yet be found in the sorting.

At the other end, or top, it comes to a blunt point, and it is this piece that was broken off. It is of a light-brown color. To anyone not thoroughly acquainted with rough diamonds it would appear a piece of brown quartz, as the cleaved or broken end naturally forms the base of the quartz formation, as if it had grown on the rock. The coating is more like that of the river diamonds. It is valued at two thousand pounds.

A Poor Rule.

An officer and a lawyer talking of a disastrous battle, the former was lamenting the number of brave soldiers who fell on the occasion, when the lawyer observed that "those who live by the sword must expect to die by the sword." "By a similar rule," answered the officer, "those who live by the law must expect to die by the law."

DID HIM A GOOD TURN.

Had His Friend Arrested, But It Saved His Money.

They were talking about scattering seeds of kindness, doing good turns and things of that sort. "About the best turn I ever did a fellow," remarked one of the circle, "was to get him arrested."

"Everybody looked incredulous, and one young man remarked sentimentally that he hoped the conversation was not going to be turned into a jest. "I am not jesting; I mean just what I say," was the response in a somewhat nettled tone, "and if you will let me spin my yarn without interruption you can judge whether it was a good turn or not."

"I have a friend whom I will call Tom for the good and sufficient reason that that isn't his name. When Tom is sober he is a quiet and well-behaved gentleman who will take any amount of pains to avoid a row; but when he gets drunk, which I regret to say he does two or three times a year, he's worse than a Kansas cyclone on a tear. Well, I met him one evening coming out of a saloon chock full of fight and whisky."

"I did my best to play the good Samaritan role with him. I tried to get him into a cab. No, he wouldn't get into a cab unless he first licked the cab-driver. In fact, he wouldn't go home under any consideration unless he had first had a set-to with somebody, and he intimated that if I didn't find him a victim he would take it out of me."

"It would have been a very easy matter to drop him, but I didn't want to do that because I knew that he had cashed a check for one hundred and fifty dollars that day, and that if he were left to his fate he would surely fall into the hands of somebody who would 'go through him.' It chanced that there were a couple of policemen across the street. I summoned one of them."

"'Officer,' I said, 'this man is drunk and disorderly, and has threatened to assault me, and I want you to arrest him.'"

"With the assistance of the other policeman he was dragged to the nearest police station, where my charge against him was formally entered on the blotter. Then he was searched and one hundred and twenty-five dollars—what remained of the check he had cashed—was taken out of his pockets, and he was turned in a police cell to cool off and get sober."

"He was arraigned next morning in Jefferson Market police court, where I withdrew the charge against him and he was, of course, discharged. He was sober enough then to recognize the fact that his arrest had been the means of saving his money for him and he was eternally grateful. Now he goes around with a card in his pocket bearing the inscription:

"If any good Samaritan finds me drunk he will confer a great favor on me by summoning a policeman and having me arrested."

"The safest place for a drunken man with a pocketful of money is a police cell."

And they all agreed that he had done the man a good turn.—N. Y. Herald.

TOO ARTISTIC TO HAGGLE.

Worth's Haughty Reply to a Patron Who Questioned His Prices.

Every man has his price, though it is, in the case of renowned persons, occasionally high. No one knows this better than Worth, the man milliner, as any person who wears his creations can vouch for. A good story is told by the Philadelphia Times of how one misguided woman ventured to remonstrate with him because he charged her six hundred dollars for a dress which, at first sight seems to ordinary people an expensive gown.

"The goods," said the lady, "could be bought for one hundred dollars, and surely the work of making up would be well paid for with twenty-five dollars more."

"Madam," said the outraged tailor, "go to M. Constant, the painter, and say to him: 'Here is a canvas and colors, value one dollar. Paint me a picture on that canvas with these paints and I will pay you thirty-three and one-third cents.' What would be the answer?" "Madam, this is no payment for an artist! No, but I say more. If you think my terms are too high keep the dress and pay me nothing. Art does not descend to the pettiness of haggling."

History does not record the lady's reply.

TRAPPING BIRDS.

Recollections of the Wild Life of an Indian Boy.

I am sorry to say that we were merciless toward the birds. We often took their eggs and young ones. A companion and I once had a singular experience in this way. We were accustomed to catch in our hands young geese and ducks during the summer. While thus engaged we happened to find a crane's nest. Of course, we were delighted with our good luck. But, as it was already midsummer, the young cranes, two in number, were rather large, and they were a little way from the nest; we also observed that the two old cranes were in a swampy place, quite near by; but as it was molting time, we did not suppose that they would venture on dry land. So we proceeded to chase the young birds; but they were fleet runners, and it took us some time to catch up with them. Meanwhile the parent birds had heard the cries of their little ones, and came to their rescue. They were chasing us while we followed the young ones. It was a perilous encounter! Our strong bows gained the victory in a hand-to-hand battle with the angry cranes, but after that we scarcely ever hunted a crane's nest. Almost all birds make some resistance when their eggs or young are taken, but very few will attack man fearlessly. Our devices for trapping small animals were rude, but were often successful. For instance, we used to gather up a peck or so of large, sharp-pointed burs, and scatter them on the rabbit's furrow-like path. Of course in the morning we would find the little fellow sitting quietly on his track unable to move, for the burs stuck to his feet.—Charles Alexander Eastman, in St. Nicholas.

PAINT cracks.—It

often costs more to prepare a house for repainting that has been painted in the first place with cheap ready-mixed paints, than it would to have painted it twice with strictly pure white lead, ground in pure linseed oil.

Strictly Pure White Lead

forms a permanent base for repainting and never has to be burned or scoured off on account of scaling or cracking. It is always smooth and clean. To be sure of getting strictly pure white lead, purchase any of the following brands:

- "Morley," "Shipman," "Southern," "Red Seal," "Collier," "Fehrmaster."

For Colors.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 50-cent keg of lead and mix your own paints. It is true and accurate in matching shades, and shows the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.

Send us a postal card and get our book on white and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

ABOUT SAUCES.

A French Cook's Treatise Upon His Chosen Art and Profession.

"Man has created the culinary art; he does not eat like an animal, he breakfasts, dines and sups." With this quotation the author of a very serious French treatise upon cooking begins his book. It is particularly eloquent on the subject of sauces. "Cooks recognize four great sauces," he says. "These are the foundations of all others. They are Spanish, Veloute, Bechamel and German. The Spanish and Veloute were known in the seventeenth century, and were modified in the eighteenth by the great masters (cooks) and by Careme, the Raphael of the kitchen."

"The Spanish is composed of juices extracted from a mixture of ham, veal, chicken and mutton. Veloute is similar, but is not colored. Bechamel is Veloute to which cream has been added, and the German sauce is Veloute to which yolks of eggs have been added."

After telling how to prepare these, the author discusses the "Theory of Sauces." Certain writers, it seems, have condemned the use of thickening of browned butter and flour in meat sauces. He contradicts them emphatically, and quotes Careme, who says, severely: "Now, I ask the writers of these ridiculous books in what respect butter mixed with flour is corrosive and innoxious? But of what consequence are these ignorant men? Let them blunder on; let them continue to disgrace their profession."

"Sooner or later an enlightened practitioner will arrive, one who will unveil the evil of charlatanism. He will avenge science, and will cause them to disappear from the face of the earth."

Floral Love Letters.

When the petals of the great aurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot, which develops in a few hours. This fact is taken advantage of by a lover, who pulls a magnolia flower, and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp-pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes visible and remains so.

While Mr. T. J. Richey of Altona, Mo., was traveling in Kansas he was taken violently ill with cholera morbus. He called at a drug store to get some medicine and the druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy so highly he concluded to try it. The result was immediate relief, and a few doses cured him completely. It is made for bowel complaint and nothing else. It never fails. For sale by H. H. Stafford & Co.

Two of a kind.
How Bremner and Sommers Assisted Each Other.
"I am in trouble," said Bremner to his friend Sommers, "and I want you to help me out."
"Financial?" asked Sommers, with a slight contracting of the eyebrows.
"Of course, worse than that, a good deal."
"I didn't know that anything could be worse in these panicky times. What is it?"
"I have a friend," said Bremner, "or a man who thinks himself my friend, and whom, for certain reasons, I wish to shake off, but he refuses to be shaken. Now, you are a resourceful man, and may be able to give me a hint. I have tried everything with Snaggs—everything short of positive insult—and all to no purpose."
"Is that the matter with him?" asked Sommers.
"The matter is this. He has a boy seven years old, or thereabouts, and he always persists in talking of the lad; in fact, he can't talk about anything else, and imagines everyone as deeply interested as himself. I have nothing at all against the boy; he is a good enough commonplace little fellow, like all the rest of them. I never see any difference in boys myself, they all seem equally objectionable. But Snaggs talks to our house, sits down, and comes about his boy, what he does and what he says, until I am nearly driven crazy. I hope you can suggest something for my relief."
"Let me suggest," said Sommers, "that you take Snaggs to the state of Michigan, U. S. A., and kill him."
"Why to Michigan?" queried Bremner.
"Of course, simply because they don't hang for murder there, and any penalty short of hanging should be cheerfully borne to get rid of a man like Snaggs."
"I didn't know you were acquainted with him," said Bremner excitedly.
"I'm not, but I am afflicted in the same way myself."
"Nonsense!" cried Bremner. "I never even heard you mention your children."
"I mean that I am afflicted with a friend like Snaggs. It's a daughter in his case. His name is Gregory. I am even worse off than you are, for his only daughter is but five years old. You are two years ahead of me. By and by the boy will reach years of discretion, and he will get there quicker than Gregory's girl."
"Isn't it a little bit of a pity," Bremner answered gloomily, "girls grow up so much faster than boys do."
"But they never reach years of discretion, you know."
"I don't believe any son of Snaggs will, at any rate. But, I say, Sommers, an idea strikes me. Why not introduce Snaggs and Gregory to each other?"
"That wouldn't be a bad plan," replied Sommers, cheerfully, "and then we might bet on them. I'll back my man to be the greater bore."
"Sure wouldn't be any use in betting," said Bremner, "for if your man is as bad as mine, it could only end in a draw."
"Bring your man around and we'll test the case."
"Shall I bring Snaggs to your house to-morrow night, then?" asked Bremner.
"Yes, and if you're in for a bet, I'm your victim. I have great faith in Gregory, and would like to have a little stake on him."
"Is a serious subject with me," replied Bremner.
"Of, very well then, I'll expect you to-morrow night about eight o'clock, though I suspect your man is not half so capable a bore as mine."
It was a few minutes before 8 o'clock when Gregory pressed the electric bell at the Sommers' residence. Sommers heard him talking to Mrs. Sommers in the hall, saying, "Oh, yes, thank you, she is quite well. I'll tell you something funny that she said today to her mother." Sommers groaned, and helped himself to a quantity of the stimulant provided for his guests. The next moment Gregory appeared, smiling, and Sommers greeted him with well-worn cordiality. Very soon the bell rang again, and a few minutes later Bremner was introducing Snaggs to the two sitting in the smoking room. "Beastly weather, this," said Gregory to the newcomers. "I don't mind the weather myself, but when a man has children he is compelled to think of it." "Have you children?" asked Snaggs, with apparent interest. "I've got a little boy myself, but he doesn't mind the weather in the least."
"I shouldn't say children," replied Gregory. "I have one little girl, and she is only five years old, but wonderfully knowing for her age, and this weather is so bad that she misses her walk with her mamma. We never trust her out with a nurse, you know."
"Was saying," broke in Snaggs, "that I have a little boy myself; he is seven, and he goes out in all sorts of weather. I don't believe in coddling children. And that reminds me of a clever thing he said to me this morning. He always comes a little piece of the way with me when I start for the office; he—

"Ah, yes," interrupted Gregory; "but girls are delicate little creatures, and have to be taken care of."
"Quite so," agreed Snaggs. "I admit that there are disadvantages about girls that boys are quite free from."
"Disadvantages?" cried Gregory.
"You don't mean to say that a great clumsy boy is to be compared with a girl any day, big or little, than a boy?"
"Of course, everyone to his taste," said Snaggs, loftily. "By the way, Bremner, did I tell you what my boy said, the other day, when I took him to have his hair cut?"
"Of course, yes," said Gregory, enthusiastically.
"Tell it to us, Snaggs."
"Girls," put in Gregory, "don't have to have their hair cut. My little girl has the most beautiful head of golden hair you ever saw. You've seen it, Sommers; everyone turns to look at her when she walks out with her mother."
"Humph," said Snaggs, with ill-concealed contempt. "I was saying that I took my boy to have his hair cut, and it was the first time that he had ever been in a barber's shop. A man was being shaved and his face was all over lather. Without a word the boy drew his hand from mine and bolted for home, running so fast that I didn't overtake him until he was at the door."
"Did you do that for you, young rascal?" said Gregory.
"Of course, papa," he answered, "if my face is going to break out all like that I don't want to have my hair cut."
"Funny, wasn't it?" He thought the lather was the result of the hair-cutting. He's awfully quick at reasoning, that boy."
"Of course, it seems to me that he didn't reason to a very correct conclusion. Now, my little girl was having a dress fitted the other day, and she asked the dressmaker where the dress orchard was. She thought that dresses grew on trees."
"I must confess that I can't see much reason about that," said Snaggs, spitefully, "if you are giving it as an instance of reasoning, as against what my boy said of the man at the barber's."
"Reasoning?" hotly replied Gregory. "I never said anything about reasoning. It was poetical. She said she thought that dresses grew on trees, and that ribbons were the blossoms. She told me so herself. And then another time, she and her mother were conversing—
"Of course, I'll have to excuse me," said Snaggs rising. "I remember now that I have an appointment at the club. I forgot it, Bremner, when I promised to come here with you."
"Of course, don't go yet," said Bremner; "tell us the story about what the boy said to the organ grinder."
"Ah, yes," replied Snaggs eagerly, apparently forgetting his appointment in the joy of narration. "Mr. Sommers didn't hear that one, did he? Well, one day an organ grinder stopped in front of our house—
"I don't wish to interrupt," put in Gregory, also rising, "but I promised Mrs. Gregory that I would be home almost directly. I merely came over, Sommers, to tell you that I couldn't stay to-night."
"Of course, well," said Bremner and Bremner, simultaneously rising and holding out their hands, "if you really must go, why not mind, I suppose."
"I am very glad to have made your acquaintance, Mr. Gregory," said Bremner, as he shook hands and he added: "I wish you would come over some night and see me. My friend, Mr. Snaggs here, often pops in, and we will all get better acquainted."
"Of course, Mr. Snaggs, drop in and see me," said Bremner, "you will be nearly always sure of meeting Gregory here. Come in often and have a chat. I have a lot of boys myself, and I like to hear about them."
"Thank you, Mr. Gregory, you are a blanked idiot," said Snaggs to Bremner a few days after; "and I give you notice that if he comes to your house, I won't."
And as Gregory said almost the same thing to Sommers, let us hope that the acid of one neutralizes the alkali of the other.—Robert Barr, in Detroit Free Press.

AND YOU'LL REMEMBER ME.
One evening as the sun went down
Among the golden hills,
And when shadows, soft and brown,
Crept over vales and hills,
I watched the dusky bats swing
Down the dusky air,
Harkening, I heard a maiden sing:
'And you'll remember me.'
"Who other lips and other hearts,"
Came drifting through the trees;
"Thy language whose excess imports,"
Was borne upon the breeze;
Ahi love is sweet and hope is strong,
And life is summer's eek,
A woman's soul is in her song:
'And you'll remember me.'
Still rippling from the throbbing throat,
With joy akin to pain,
There seemed a tear in every note,
A sob in every strain;
Soft as the twilight shadows creep
Across the lullulae sea,
The singer sang her love to sleep:
With: "You'll remember me."

DANGER IN THE BRIDAL TOURS.
The Medical Aspects of the Case Presented to Those About to Marry.
The custom which obtains so generally of taking a fatiguing journey as a part of the nuptials is regarded by high authority as one of the barbarisms of civilization. Let us illustrate the injurious physical tendencies by a typical case. During extremely cold weather there occurs a wedding, which, from the standing of the parties, attracts some attention. The happy couple, we are told, are off for their wedding trip to a still more frigid section of country. Though conscious of danger and discomfort, to some extent, which is greatly increased by their inexperience in traveling, they cheerfully assume the risk and responsibility, as to all married couples a bridal tour seems to be considered as absolutely essential to give the marital union an importance without which it would, in their opinion, be unromantic and but a partial marriage. The tour causes fatigue, exposure and excitement, making regularity of life impossible; in fact, the act involves the reverse of all that the rules of health and physiology require. Again, it constantly happens in the case of both sexes that a slight indisposition, which passed unnoticed in the hurry of preparation, is aggravated to a serious and even fatal extent by the excitement, exposure and neglect on a wedding tour. No man, for instance, would think of postponing his marriage on account of a slight cold. If he stayed at home afterward and took care of himself it would pass away like other slight colds, but often on the bridal tour the malady develops into a chronic disease. A prominent physician recently said to a writer for the Troy Times: Many cases of brides and bridegrooms in my professional experience came under my observation dying of typhoid fever just after a wedding trip, which had caused the early symptoms to be misunderstood and neglected. A few weeks since a healthy and vigorous young man, just returned from a bridal tour, died of typhoid fever in Troy, his sickness being superinduced, presumably by the fatigue and exposure incident to the journey. It will thus be seen that the medical aspect of a bridal tour is sufficiently important and the risk incurred sufficiently great to cause the wedded pair, if they wish to be actuated by impulses of reason and prudence rather than by the dictates of custom, to pause before they undergo the trials of a wedding journey.

ISHPEMING'S NEW COUNCIL.

It Held a Strictly Business Session Wednesday Evening.

REPORT OF THE HONORABLE BODY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Amusements at Union Park on the Afternoon of Memorial Day—Church Entertainment.

A LIVELY COUNCIL SESSION.

The regular session of the city council Wednesday evening was unusually lively. Mayor Johnston presided and a full board of aldermen, with the exception of Alderman Gaboury, was in attendance.

The minutes of the preceding regular and of a special meeting were read and approved.

A communication from Charles Towne post of the Grand Army of the Republic inviting the council to participate in the Memorial Day exercises was read. On motion of Alderman Clancey it was accepted.

A petition from residents on Spruce street asking that certain repairs be made on that thoroughfare was presented and was referred to the street committee. Claims against the city were read and were referred to the proper committee. The liquor bonds of Pope & Billings, Thoney Bros., Alfred Swanson, Ed Hassenger, M. Hult, Manley & Mutton, Charles Crowley and Nicholas Losselyong were presented and were referred to the committee on bonds and sureties. The bond of the poundmaster and the marshal were also read and were referred to the same committee.

Alderman Paull, from the claims and accounts committee, reported favorably on bills amounting to $108.51. On motion, the report was adopted.

Alderman Sterling, from the finance committee, reported favorably on the following liquor dealers' bonds: John P. Outhwaite, J. J. Voelker, Thomas Flannigan, P. H. Donahoe, Simmons & Richards, M. B. Toutloff, Peter Munson, Joseph Remillard, Manley & Mutton, E. Lavigne, S. West, G. Olson and J. A. Voelker.

The bond of H. Harwood, druggist, and those of the poundmaster and police constables were read and were referred.

Alderman Storey, from the committee on buildings, grounds and insurance, reported favorably on the petition of William Murdock, who asks for permission to erect a peanut stand, 8x10 feet in size, on the city square. The stand must be erected on the west side of the fountain. The report was adopted. Alderman Storey also reported that his committee had examined the city buildings and had found some of them in need of repairs. The roof of the north wing of No. 1 engine house was leaking and needed repairing; new self-closing doors were necessary and the kitchen needs calcimining. The upper floor of No. 4 hose house, needs cleaning and the windows of the city hall should be overhauled. The report was adopted.

Alderman Clancey, from the health committee, presented bills contracted on account of the small-pox patients and recommended their payment. Mrs. Moyle's bill, amounting to $900, was for furniture, beds, bedding and carpets destroyed; Joseph Wanick's bill for labor was $52.50, less $26.53 for board and sundries; Jacob Dampier's claim for rent was $25.50 and William Nichol's milk bill was $6.16. Health Officer Barnett was present and stated that the bills were correct and reasonable and that he could furnish an itemized account of furniture destroyed, etc., if desired. The report was adopted.

Alderman Dawson, from the street lighting committee, reported that the Negaunee & Ishpeming street Railway & Electric Light company had agreed to furnish light on the moonlight schedule for $7.75 per month or $10 per month according to last year's contract. After some discussion the committee was granted further time to consider the matter. Alderman Mahjannu, from the finance committee, asked that the committee be given until Saturday night to complete its report with reference to the salaries of city employees. The request was granted. The reports of the chief of police, the police magistrate and the poundmaster were read and were referred to proper committee.

Alderman Verran moved that the recorder be instructed to look up the records of the council as to its action relative to having an arc light placed at the corner of Superior and South Third streets. The motion prevailed. Alderman Burt moved that the superintendent of public works be asked to furnish a bond in the sum of $10,000. Several of the aldermen were of the opinion that the amount named was excessive. After some discussion Mr. Gibbs, the superintendent, who was present at the meeting, stated that when he took the position he gave a bond to the board of public works in the sum of $1,500, with R. Maxwell and Ole Walseth as sureties, and that the bond is still on file in the office of the board. On motion of Alderman Reed the motion was tabled.

Six ballots for census enumerator were taken, resulting in the election of Andrew Sandberg. There were nine applicants for the place. Three assistants, W. L. Webster, J. N. St. Clair and William Walters, were also elected. Mayor Johnston called the council's attention to the condition of the old cemetery and recommended that steps be taken to put the fence, etc., in repair. The cemetery committee was instructed to have a barb wire fence built around the property and the city attorney was directed to ascertain whether the city or township owned the land occupied by the cemetery.

Alderman Hayes moved that saloons be compelled to close at 9 p. m. every night in accordance with the state law. The motion was supported by Alderman Burt. City Attorney Potter stated that the city could regulate the closing of saloons. The motion was lost. The council then adjourned.

Success speaks volumes. Geo Moebis & Co's cigars are the best sellers. [5-23-94]

Sport at Union Park.

There will be amusements at Union Park on Decoration Day, May 30. In view of the exercises to be held in Ishpeming under auspices of Charles Towne post, Grand Army of the Republic, on that day many visitors from other towns of the peninsula will be here and the people of Ishpeming will be out in large numbers besides. The amusements at the park will be under the management of local parties who have already begun making preparations for event. It is the intention to have bicycle and horse racing, a base ball game and other sports. The exercises and parade by the Grand Army and the other societies of the city will be held during the forenoon and will be completed before the amusements begin at the park in the afternoon.

Church Entertainment.

The National Methodist church choir will give a musical entertainment at the Division street Methodist church tomorrow evening. An interesting program has been arranged and a pleasing entertainment is assured. An admission of ten cents will be charged and all who attend will be made welcome.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Religious services were held at St. John's church yesterday morning and evening.

Mrs. C. H. Hall returned from her winter's sojourn at Lake Maitland, Fla., Wednesday.

Hart Grigg and Miss Bessie Boase, of the Lake Angeline, were united in marriage last evening.

The Michigan Mining school students who are in the city have begun work at the Lake Angeline mine.

Rev. J. H. Greene, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, has been in the copper country the past few days.

Swan West moved his saloon business from Mrs. Asgaard's to John Nolan's building on Cleveland avenue yesterday.

John Delbridge and Miss Dora Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin of Cleveland avenue, will be married next Thursday.

H. Harwood is still taking orders for "Picturesque America." Bring him your dimes and coupons and secure any part, from one to seven.

The Nibbe Baroque company arrived here from down the line yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and gave a performance here last evening.

The city council will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening to hear the report of the committee on salaries with reference to the pay of city employees during the ensuing year.

M. B. Borowitz, who has been conducting a boarding house and saloon business on East Pearl street, has moved into Andrew Rock's building, Hageman's old stand, on First street.

August A. Bergler, who left here last fall for the Illinois coal district, got back yesterday. He says work is difficult to get in the coal regions just now. He had been idle for some time before leaving there.

Hamilton Stewart's spirited delivery horse got the better of the driver yesterday morning and made a very lively dash through Main street from the store to the center of Strawberry hill, where the driver succeeded in getting him under control.

John Cole, of 703 North Fourth street, has a very neat collection of specimens that he is desirous of selling, as he intends moving elsewhere at an early date. Specimens from various parts of the country are among the collection. He will sell them at a very low figure.

HE WAS A "SUCKER."

Bald-Headed Man from the Country Disappointed in the Opera.

The man sitting next to him noticed that the bald-headed person with the red necktie was getting decidedly nervous.

Presently, in the middle of a magnificent quintet, the bald-headed man turned round and said:

"Say!"

"Well!" was the reply, accompanied by a hardly concealed frown. A lover of opera hates interruption as Satan loves good.

"What kind of a show is this, anyway?"

"This? Why, this is— The singing was so beautiful just then that he stopped and whispered "Hush—Sh!"

The other went on: "Ain't there no comic song coming along presently?"

For answer there was a shake of the head.

"Nobody get into a sawmill and escape by the skin of his teeth?"

"No."

"No horse race?"

"No."

"When does the song-and-dance act come on? Say, ain't there any laughs in this thing, anywhere? Gee, but I reckon I struck the wrong gate altogether! I come in town to-day and asked a feller what was the best show in town and he told me this was it. And I've been sitting here an hour and they ain't done a thing but shout and weep and run around like beetles trying to turn right side up. 'Tain't like any show ever I seen! Whatever is it, anyway?"

But the other man had moved away to where he could hear the music without interruption. The bald-headed man halted an usher.

"Any Amozons' march in this?" he asked. The usher shook his head.

"Any Midway Plaisance dancing?"

"No!"

"Well, then, blame the luck," said the bald-headed man, reaching for his hat. "I guess I'm a sucker!"—Chicago Tribune.

ELEANOR'S TRIUMPH.

A Profitable Lesson for Many Young Graduates.

"A carriage, and white satin slippers, pearl-colored kid gloves above the elbow, a fan and a bouquet--I must have all those, mother, if I am to be graduated with the other girls."

Mother lifted a tired face from her sewing. Eleanor was too self-absorbed to notice it, but mother was looking ill as well as tired.

"Mother," said Eleanor, pleadingly, "you will manage it somehow, won't you, dear?"

All through her eighteen years Eleanor had been used to seeing mother contrive to bring order out of confusion, straighten tangled skeins, perform what looked almost impossible.

Still mother was silent. An inscrutable expression, hardening and aging the quiet face, had stolen over her at the allusion to father, the easy-going, amiable, impetuous man, whom everybody loved, and whose children, thanks to his wife's tact, did not suspect his weakness.

A conflict was going on in the mother's mind, such a conflict as only mothers similarly situated can understand.

"Can you tell me," she inquired, "the name, and give me some account of, a young girl who was dressed very simply, and sat modestly in the background, although she bore off a half dozen prizes?"

So from the root of Eleanor's self-denial blossomed the fragrant flower of her success. Her duties at Mrs. Armstrong's proved to be very congenial, while brief hours and frequent holidays left her much time to devote to the assistance of the dear ones at home.

And Eleanor, with a pale face and a quivering lip, took up her Everyday Text Book, to read, through a mist of gathering tears, this verse, which seemed to speak to her with an angel's voice.

The color came into Eleanor's cheek, for the thought in her heart had been: "Oh! why are we not rich? Why must we always be poor, and kept down by having to count every penny?"

Well, nobody could have a good name who built up her daily life on false pretences as a foundation, and loving favor would not lead a girl to add a feather's weight of care to the load of an anxious mother.

She lay awake a long time, the silent tears stealing down her cheek until her pillow was quite wet. But she was so still that Puss slept peacefully, never suspecting Eleanor's tumult of feeling.

Eleanor went to school the next morning with her mind made up, and she was not one to change it, once she had arrived at a decision.

Contrary to Eleanor's anticipations, this statement produced no effect whatever. Two or three of the more fashionable girls looked annoyed, and one or two of Eleanor's intimate friends glanced at her with sympathy.

The bell sounded, and recess was over. Tasks were taken up as usual. Eleanor did not know it, but her quiet courage had been a real relief to several timid girls, who had been dreading the expense of commencement, without daring to stem what they supposed to be public opinion and take an independent course.

And Eleanor was repaid for her sacrifice of personal vanity when she saw the mother face light up, and felt the dear arms around her that evening.

"It would not have been, mother darling, if I hadn't been a selfish creature, who is ashamed of herself for being such a baby."

A few weeks later, at the close of the commencement exercises, a very elegant and distinguished-looking woman, who had recently returned from abroad, approached the president of Eleanor's college.

"Can you tell me," she inquired, "the name, and give me some account of, a young girl who was dressed very simply, and sat modestly in the background, although she bore off a half dozen prizes?"

So from the root of Eleanor's self-denial blossomed the fragrant flower of her success. Her duties at Mrs. Armstrong's proved to be very congenial, while brief hours and frequent holidays left her much time to devote to the assistance of the dear ones at home.

NO SMALL-POX IN OUR'S.

Board of Health Unanimously Indorses Health Officer's Position.

PEERLESS MUST NOT TOUCH AT ANY CITY DOCK.

Will Sail This Morning to a Point Removed from the City and Be Fumigated.

PATIENT WILL BE CARED FOR.

The city council met in special session yesterday afternoon in its capacity as board of health and by the following resolution fully endorsed the action of the health officer of the previous day:

Whereas, It is reported to the board of health of the city of Marquette by the health officer of said city that a case of small-pox is aboard the steamer Peerless within our harbor, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the steamer Peerless be not allowed to land with passengers or freight or to touch any dock within the city of Marquette by further order of this board. And that no such communication be had between such vessel and the shore or any other vessel in the harbor except by permission of the health officer and under such regulations as he may prescribe.

In the absence of City Attorney Sherwood A. B. Eldredge was requested to act and give a legal opinion on the situation and defining the powers of the health board in the premises. Mr. Eldredge said in substance that the board had full authority under the statutes to deal with this or any other case or cases of contagious diseases which might come under its jurisdiction. The board had power to quarantine if it saw fit. It might remove the patient or otherwise care properly for him. He could see no reason why the boat might not leave the harbor, excepting that the state board had ordered its detention. The board also has power to press a house or houses into service for purposes of isolation if it could not secure them in any other way. The board's powers are largely discretionary. The chief objection to detaining the boat here is lack of harbor accommodation. The board should keep in view humane considerations, but should not scruple to first consider the welfare of the greatest number. This point should be fully considered before bringing the patient ashore here.

Following Mr. Eldredge's opinion Aldermen Sherman, Moore and Holley with the health officer were instructed to confer with the owners of the boat on their arrival and see what the company proposed to do, after which the board adjourned until 7 o'clock.

Shortly before 6 o'clock Messrs. Austrian and Spencer, representing the owners, reached the city. They had come as far as Negaunee by rail and driven down from there. The committee met them immediately on their arrival and a conference was held in Spear's office. When the board reconvened at 7:30 Dr. Harkins stated the result of the conference after first briefly detailing the history of the case.

He stated the owners wished the board to take charge of the patient, properly disinfect the vessel and grant a bill of health so that she might proceed on her way. This the health officer advised should be done, but said he would strongly advise against the patient or any of the freight landing here and he would only grant a conditional bill of health. This was practically the decision of the board. It was decided that the resolution of the afternoon should be strictly adhered to and the health officer was instructed to see that its provisions were fully carried out. The matter occasioned considerable discussion but the final decision was unanimous.

This settled the matter so far as the health board was concerned. After the meeting Health Officer Harkins and Marine Surgeon Youngquist met Messrs. Austrian and Spencer and came to an arrangement for the removal of the patient and a thorough disinfection of the vessel. At daybreak this morning the Peerless will leave quarantine in charge of Drs. Youngquist and Harkins and proceed to a spot distant from the city which has been secured. Here the patient will be landed and provided with all necessary comforts, physicians, nurses, etc. Last night disinfecting material was taken on board and the boat will be fully fumigated. She will then return and discharge her cargo.

The vessel owners have rented the building for the patient's reception and will meet the other necessary expenses. The company has acted in a very fair and satisfactory manner and has greatly aided the local board in arriving at such an eminently gratifying solution of the pressing difficulty.

Sutton Slowly Sinking.

When seen by a MINING JOURNAL reporter late last night Elijah Sutton, who attempted suicide Wednesday morning, appeared to have grown much weaker. The paralysis in the right side was more pronounced and the face had begun to assume a livid hue.

Through the day he had several shivering attacks some of them almost approaching convulsions. During these the right side was the most agitated but the wounded man did not seem to suffer a particle. He only partook of a little milk as nourishment and seemed to wish it more as drink than food. Certain of his actions during the day seemed to indicate partial consciousness although such is hardly possible. He made apparent attempts to assist in the removal of his shirt during a change and fastened his remaining eye steadily on his attendants, but this was only momentary and was most likely involuntary.

Peter Bystrom, one of the dock men, said yesterday that Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock Sutton asked him to go to a neighboring saloon and take a drink. While holding their glasses Sutton asked Bystrom to drink hearty because there would be one man less on the dock after that day. Bystrom asked who it would be and Sutton answered he purposed leaving himself. Bystrom, supposing he meant to leave for another position, drank his health and wished him success.

The cartridges were bought at Spencer's and at the time of purchasing them Sutton showed a revolver, asking if it was any good. He also displayed a gun to the young man in the dock office, requesting his opinion as to its reliability. These incidents would tend to show that Sutton contemplated an attempt on his own life for some days before actually doing the rash deed.

It is the opinion of the attending physicians that he may live twenty-four or thirty-six hours but scarcely longer and life may cease at any moment, but that he cannot possibly recover. He is simply a living dead man now. It was also learned yesterday that Sutton has a wife and family some place in Canada but has not lived with them for years.

The Legitimate Drama.

Not only the leading dramatic offering of this season but of the past few years will be the appearance of the eminent tragedian, Thomas W. Keene, at the Marquette Opera House Wednesday and Thursday evenings, May 9 and 10. Wednesday night he will play his masterpiece, "Richard III," and Thursday evening appear as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice." The sale of seats for both plays will begin at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the opera house box office. At noon the plans will be transferred to Bigelow's news stand, where seats may be reserved until 7 o'clock of the evening of the play. Seats may be secured for both evenings if so desired. The following prices will prevail: Boxes, seats, $1.50; divan seats, $1.25; orchestra chairs, $1; balcony seats, seventy-five cents.

Twelve years' service constantly engaged in portraying the leading characters in the Shakespearean dramas, certainly gives Mr. Keene a strong claim to popularity and consideration, and wide recognition by the most eminent American critics secures for him a place in the dramatic history of this country among the most illustrious of our tragic actors. It is years since he made his debut as a tragic actor in "Richard III." He, from the night of his debut, has verified the most sanguine prophecies made by his admirers. He secured public favor at once. He has done so by hard work and patient study. He has overcome the natural opposition to all new exponents of classic roles and the admirers of his originality and vigor have sealed from hundreds into the thousands in every city in this country.

Settlers Get Preference.

Another decision has been handed down by the commissioner of the land office at Washington revising a ruling of the local office and reaffirming the principle that the settler on a homestead has claims prior to a mere filer of an application. The matter referred to was the several cases of George, Henry and Charles Reichel against Robert Barry and Joseph J. Brown and concerned the right to homesteads in Section 17, township 50 north, range 28 west.

The facts in the case are briefly as follows: About ten days prior to November 22, 1892, the three brothers, claimants, settled on the homesteads defined and put up cabins, partly furnishing them. Then they hustled to Marquette and when they presented their applications at the land office found that Robert Barry and Joseph J. Brown had filed on the same day before them. They contested the applications of the defendants and claimed priority through settlement. This the local office would not consider and an appeal was taken to the general office which has resulted in favor of the settlers.

This is the second case of the same nature so decided within a few months, clearly showing that the commissioner is inclined to give preference when settlement forms a basis to a homestead claim. Peters & Shaull were attorneys for Brown, Clark & Pearl for Barry and S. E. Byrne for the Reichels.

First Game of Ball.

The local stalwarts, the Union Stars and Rivals, will play the first game of ball of the season Sunday next at the fair grounds. The boys have been getting in trim for the past two weeks and purpose putting up a pretty stiff game of ball. The Union Stars' battery will be Downs and Donovan and the Rivals' Price and Martin. Admission will be fifteen cents, grand stand five and ten cents, ladies free.
