GRAY AND HOAR SCRAP.

Hoar Makes Charges Against Tariff Reformers Which Gray Hotly Resents.

THE WAY OF THE COMPROMISER IS HARD.

Republican Senators Adhere to Policy of Delay in Vain Hope of Beating Bill.

GET THE AGONY OVER!

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Senator Gordon introduced a joint resolution authorizing the secretaries of war and navy to donate to the Columbian Liberty bell committee, old cannons, muskets, swords, etc., to be cast into Liberty bells for the use of the public schools.

The credentials of Mr. Gear, senator-elect from Iowa, were presented by Mr. Allison, but a question as to the form of the papers being raised, they were laid on the table.

Mr. Allen's resolution to investigate the alleged clubbing of Coxeyites on the Capitol grounds went over till tomorrow.

The tariff bill was taken up, and Mr. Hoar addressed the senate at length in opposition to the bill. Mr. Hoar concluded by declaring that the Democratic senators who should support the compromise bill agreed upon by the Democratic caucus would violate the Constitution and their oaths of office.

GRAY ATTACKS HOAR.

This statement brought Mr. Gray to his feet. He demanded to know what the Massachusetts senator meant by such a charge—a charge which was unworthy the endorsement of any senator. Mr. Hoar waved the Delaware senator aside, refusing to yield, but Mr. Gray would not be put off. He insisted upon an explanation.

"Very well," said Mr. Hoar. "I cannot be intimidated by a little bluster, but I will explain. I meant to say that for the Democratic senator who subscribed to the doctrine of the Chicago platform, that a tariff for protection was robbery, who went to the people affirming his allegiance to that platform, and who now comes here seeking and obtaining protective duties—I mean to say for such a senator there is no escape from the logical conclusion that he violates both his senatorial oath and the Constitution."

Mr. Gray called Mr. Hoar to order and asked a ruling upon the point that such language as the Massachusetts senator had used was unparliamentary. Mr. Gallinger, who was in the chair, overruled the point of order.

When Hoar had completed his speech Mr. Gray arose, still flushed with anger, and said the culmination of McKinleyism was characterized in debate by the wild statements and assertions of the advocates of a system that wrought so much ruin to the country. They threw aside all restraints of speech and dealt in the rhetoric of the slums. They cast foul aspersions on those who sought to do their duty to country and party. Today in the speech of the senator from Massachusetts the decorum of debate was violated but the language he indulged in only showed the straits to which he had been put.

HOAR ANSWERS GRAY.

Mr. Hoar, replying, said the senator from Delaware had been too severe in his condemnation of the McKinley law and he stood here on the floor advocating a measure dotted and crowded all over with protection. If protection was unconstitutional and robbery this was a wicked thing to do. Why did he not tell the senate in extenuation of his cause why he had put a protective tariff on sugar?

"I do not propose to put a protective duty on sugar," ejaculated Mr. Gray from his seat. "Can the senator not understand the difference between a protective and a revenue duty?"

An audible titter ran around the Republican side at this retort. Mr. Hoar insisted that the attempt to show increases in duties for revenue purposes and not for protection was simply an evasion.

When Mr. Hoar took his seat Mr. Palmer felt called upon to defend himself from several of the insinuations of Mr. Hoar's remarks. As far as he was concerned he declared that half a loaf was better than no loaf at all. If he could not get in a measure framed by his Democratic colleagues all he desired he would take what he could get. Mr. Quay resumed the speech he has been delivering since April 15. At 4:45 p. m., on motion of Mr. Mills, the senate went into executive session.

ANTI-OPTION BOBS UP.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Mr. Hatch from the committee on agriculture reported his anti-option bill. In committee of the whole the bill making appropriation for a new site for the government printing office was considered. A number of amendments and substitutes were offered to the first section of the bill, providing for the purchase of a site, but the only one which finally came out of the melee was the resolution of Mr. Holman to refer the question to a commission to consist of the committee on public buildings and grounds with instructions to select a site on grounds now owned by the government. The naval appropriation bill was called up and briefly explained in some of its parts by Mr. Cummings but the house adjourned before he concluded his remarks.

REPUBLICANS STILL HOPEFUL.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The failure of the senate to take up the Chinese treaty in executive session again today was due to the fact that the tariff managers declined to yield more time for discussion of the subject. Senators Aldrich and Allison, who are regarded as in charge of the Republican side of the tariff bill, today said to Senator Harris that they were in a position to state that for the present the Republicans would observe the understanding in force before the suspension of the tariff debate to allow the Democrats to bring in a compromise bill. Mr. Harris, acting for the Democrats, agreed to the proposition with the stipulation that speech-making should proceed in a business-like manner and that there should be no dilatory motions.

This agreement is likely to be broken at almost any time. The Democrats are beginning to complain that some speeches made on the Republican side are longer than need be and to intimate that if their opponents do not soon manifest a disposition to shorten their speeches they will give them more hours daily in which to make them.

ARE DEMOCRATS UNITED?

The true reason for the reticence among Republicans as to their intentions is found in the fact that they are not absolutely satisfied as to the strength of the compromise bill. They still cling to the idea that a sufficient number of Democratic senators will repudiate the bill to insure its defeat and they do not care to yield as long as this possibility exists. They are also discussing the advisability of holding out indefinitely against the bill in case they find they are in the minority.

Leading senators are chary today about expressing themselves upon the revised tariff bill. Most Democrats who would talk were in favor of the bill. Senators Mills, Berry and Paulaner conferred with the house members during the day concerning the tariff situation. The feeling of opposition to the amendments is very marked among the Democratic members of the house, as they regard the changes as a step toward protection and as a retreat from the revenue reform lines of the Wilson bill. On the Republican side of the house there is much sarcastic comment.

SHOULD RAILWAYS POOL?

Majority of State Commissioners' Committee Say "Yes"

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The sixth annual convention of state railroad commissioners met today at the rooms of the interstate commerce commission. The most important feature of the day's proceedings was the presentation of the majority and minority reports of the committee appointed at the last convention to consider the pooling of freights and the division of earnings. The majority report insists that if Section 5 of the interstate commerce act, which prohibits pooling, is repealed and freedom given to railway companies to pool or otherwise divide their earnings, compensatory rates will more generally be maintained; competing points; that the labor of the interstate commission in enforcing the law will be lessened and its authority better respected, because it would enlist in its support a very large proportion of the railway service that is now by force of self-preservation compelled to antagonize both the law and the commission. The report urges the repeal of Section 5 and points out other defects in the law which it declares can be remedied by legislation.

The minority report says Section 5 should not be repealed but should be so amended as to include in its provisions all net earnings from whatever source derived.

CONVICTS HAD DYNAMITE.

Bold Plot to Break Out of the State Prison at Jackson.

GUARD HORNING ATTACKED IN THE CORRIDOR.

Attempt to Light Fuse Attached to Sticks of Dynamite is Discovers and Stopped.

WHERE DID IT COME FROM?

JACKSON, Mich., May 8.—A determined attempt was made last night to blow up the state prison with dynamite. But for the prompt action of Deputy Warden Northrup and Guards Horning and Murphy it would have succeeded.

Some 150 convicts from the west cell block had been out attending their literary society. On their return just before entering their cells Guard Horning was attacked by one of the convicts. A lively struggle ensued, participated in by three convicts and three officers.

While two convicts were struggling with the guards the third sprang into a window and attempted to light a fuse attached to four sticks of dynamite. He was restrained and the prisoners locked up.

The principals in the affair are Edward Huntley, sent from Detroit for twenty years for burglary, who was shot through the lower portion of the abdomen while attempting to escape a year and a half ago; John Demarn, sent from Grand Rapids on a fifteen year sentence for murder in the second degree, and Arthur Lawrence, colored, sent from Eaton county for ten years for burglary.

Warden Chamberlain believes other convicts were interested in the affair. Where the dynamite came from is a mystery. The entertainment which was to have been held in the prison tonight was declared off. It is believed that this is because the officials think many other convicts were implicated in the plot for escaping and they suspected an attempted outbreak.

A slip of paper was found in the convicts' dining room on which was written: "Lawrence, the d—d fool. If he'd waited till today we'd all be free or in h—l."

Entered as mailmatter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

They have gone from state saloons to straight prohibition in South Carolina, under a decision of the supreme court of that state just handed down. This is "out of the frying pan into the fire" with a vengeance for the booze absorbers of that unhappy commonwealth.

Those industrial armies lack cohesiveness. While the novelty of the thing lasted and the "grab" came in freely the tramps held together fairly well, but now that the public is growing tired of the show and supplies are running short they are beginning to desert and "take to the woods" on their individual account. The whole business has been a huge farce, from start to finish, and the public has had enough of it.

Quiet reigns on the Mesaba once more, the strike there having subsided and the men having returned to work at the old rate of wages at all the mines except Corrigan's, which has closed down to remain idle for an indefinite interval. This is a bad year for strikes in the iron districts. The mine owners are not so anxious to keep on producing ore as they might be if it could be sold at a figure that would leave them a reasonable profit.

A rumor is current in Washington, according to the Detroit Journal's correspondent there, that the appointment of Patton to succeed Stockbridge indicates that Governor Rich will be a candidate for the senatorship himself when the next legislature meets. It is not probable that the governor has any such intention. He wants another term as governor, undoubtedly, but that is unquestionably the measure of his ambition at present, and that desire of his seems in a fair way to be gratified.

Breckinridge is not going to find it so easy to reconcile the people of his district to the idea of having a self-confessed debauchee as their representative in congress after all, it seems. His supporters have been very loud in their protestations of fidelity and made noise enough to create the impression at the start that he would have hardly any opposition, but the sober sense of the bulk of his constituents may be relied on to save the nation from the disgrace of having him re-elected to a seat in congress. It would be a shame to the whole country to have him returned and would fix on his district an unfaceable stigma to send him back to Washington as its representative.

SOUND SILVER DOCTRINE.

Explaining his participation in sending a message of sympathy to the bi-metallic conference London, Senator Sherman says:

While I have always opposed the free coinage of silver, I have none the less desired that silver should be used to the utmost extent possible as a money metal, providing only that it would not place us on a single standard of silver and drive gold from the country, gold being the recognized standard in monetary transactions with all the chief commercial nations.

There should be no trouble in understanding the position of Senator Sherman and those who, with him, stand out against having our government engage in the free and unlimited coinage of silver while the leading commercial nations of the old world adhere to a gold standard. They are not actuated by unfriendliness to silver, but perceive how the policy advocated by the free silver lunatics would affect us in a business way and are endeavoring to avert the disaster to our interests that would attend on the adoption of free coinage of the white metal by this country on any ratio of coinage as between that metal and gold which our government alone might establish.

They are better friends of silver than the so-called silver men themselves, for they are working for an arrangement that will secure the recognition and use of silver the world over on a stable basis, whereas the silver men are endeavoring to secure the adoption of a policy by our government that would do us infinite harm as a nation without improving the status of silver as a coinage metal in the least.

If we should do as the silver men wish we would drive gold out of the country, and then would arise a clamor for the demonetization of silver that the government would be compelled to give heed to, and it would follow that the condition of silver would be impaired instead of bettered through the work of its unwise champions.

If the people will but be patient this silver question will settle itself. It will do that as rolled water does—all the sooner by letting it alone.

COMPULSORY SERVICE.

There is very general approval of the finding of the Boatner committee on the action of Judge Jenkins in enjoining striking employes of the Northern Pacific railway from quitting work on that road. The committee found that while the judge cannot be impeached for issuing the injunction, it being evident that he was not corruptly influenced, he was wrong in endeavoring to use the power of the law to restrain the men from striking. It was a right of the men employed on the road to quit its service when they chose, and the injunction to restrain them from doing this was improperly issued.

The committee's position is well taken. But if men in the employ of a railway, or any other corporation, or of an individual or firm, can quit work when they please is not the converse proposition equally tenable and reasonable, that the employing concern, whether corporation or firm or the enterprise of an individual, has the right to hire and discharge whom it chooses without interference from anybody?

It would seem but fair that if employes can quit when they please, and this is hardly to be disputed, employes ought to be allowed to discharge those whom they do not desire to retain in their service and replace them with men to whom they are willing to entrust their work. But this right is denied by organized labor, which insists that only certain classes of men shall be eligible to employment in certain lines of work, and that these shall not be liable to discharge except under rules established by the labor organizations themselves and in the framing and adoption of which the employer has no voice.

Workmen should not forget that no arrangement of working conditions that is not fair to both sides will be permanent. The universal desire is to see labor treated fairly, but when it demands more for itself than it is willing to concede to its employers it is asking too much, and more than an enlightened public sentiment will consent to see it accorded.

The use of natural gas has, according to the report of Special Agent Weeks, been gradually declining since its grand spurt in 1892. The only state in which its use for manufacturing purposes increased in 1893 is Indiana. While the supply is far below the demand in other large gas fields, it is declared to be well sustained in Indiana. The reported number of feet of pipe laid increased during the year to 11,969,657 in Pennsylvania, 5,730,373 in Indiana, and 1,404,938 in Ohio. The largest production of the gas in Pennsylvania was $13,222,375 in 1888, since when it has fallen to $6,488,639. Ohio showed the largest falling off in production. In 1892 the amount was $2,136,000, while in 1893 it went down to $1,510,000. The total value of natural gas consumed in the country in 1893 was $14,348,250, against $14,850,714 in 1888. The greatest value of the gas consumed in any one year was $22,610,875 in 1888. From that time there has been a gradual decline, with an aggregate of about $8,300,000 less for last year than 1888. Natural gas is now found in commercial quantities outside of the three states named in New York, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, West Virginia, Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, Utah, Tennessee and Wisconsin.—Age of Steel.

With natural gas falling as a source of cheap fuel supply there must come a gradual removal to other points of the manufacturing industries located at places where they were built up by the advantage which this fuel gave them to locations nearer the market where their products find consumption. This is particularly true of iron and steel manufactures, in which Pennsylvania has enjoyed a pre-eminence in no small degree due to the supply of gas within her borders. When coal and coke are the fuel to be used that and the other states where natural gas has been in use for years as a fuel for manufacturing purposes will not have their old-time advantage over the Lake Superior region as a location for these industries and they will begin to come our way. This region is destined to be the seat of vast iron and steel industries, as well as an ore-producing field, in time, and THE MINING JOURNAL confidently believes that the time when this will be in near at hand.

SOLOMON AND HIS FAMILY.

He Was Only a White Rat, But a Genius in His Way.

Solomon was a white rat who lived in an artist's studio in New York. He received his name because of his wisdom and his solemn face.

Solomon was as trustworthy as a dog. He refrained from nibbling the curtains and rich stuffs that were scattered about the studio, and was most particular not to take cheese or rich cake up on the sofa, where he was allowed to play and sleep when his paws were clean.

Now it so happened that a friend of Solomon's mistress had some rats—a father and mother and seven children. One night a stray cat found her way to their cage and ate up the old rats.

Solomon's mistress agreed to adopt them, and the cage was taken into her rooms.

Solomon stared, and then went cautiously up to the newcomers. He soon showed signs of joy at their arrival, and immediately took the little rats under his protection. He called them to him and coaxed them to snuggle down by his side, as their mother would have done.

When they were allowed to run about he watched them and taught them where they might go and where they were not to go, running after any wild youngster who strayed behind screens or meddled with what he ought not to touch.

Only one of the seven orphans turned out a genius, but all of them became respectable rats, and a great credit to Solomon.

The genius of the family one day came upon a guitar lying on the sofa, and, running up to it, made the strings sound. The music pleased him so much that after his discovery he frequently went in search of the instrument and scamped back and forth over the strings to his own great delight and to the amusement of all who saw him.

CENTRAL ASIAN DESERTS.

Nature There is Without Attractions of Any Kind Whatever.

Mr. W. Woodville Rockhill describes in the Century his attempt to cross Tibet. His picture of a portion of the country he traversed is not alluring.

Life in the Central Asian deserts is rough indeed, he says. "Nature is without attractions of any kind; it is bleak and repelling; never a tree is seen, and scarcely a flower, except for a month or two in the year. Probably the Arctic regions alone offer a more meager flora. One sees only coarse grass, or bare, gravel-strewn ground of a reddish tinge. In the most favored valleys, and near some brackish lakelets, are occasionally seen bunches of long black-haired yaks, antelopes, or wild asses. A stray hare or wolf runs across the trail; a shieldrake or eagle flies slowly off at one's approach. Were it not for the wild yaks, travel across this great plateau would be impossible, for dry yak-dung is the only fuel to be found. Such a murrain destroy the lyre-horned antelope, traveling, except along two frequented trails, would become unfeasible. Violet winds sweep the country daily, carrying with them dense clouds of alkaline dust, which parch and crack the skin and blind the eyes. When it is not blowing, it is snowing, hailing or raining. Bogs, marshes and sandy wastes, cut at short distances by low ranges of mountains rarely rising above the line of perpetual snow (though, be it remembered, the lowest valleys are at a greater elevation above the sea than the summit of Mont Blanc), are the characteristics of the bleak country which we had to cross before the inhabited regions of Tibet could be reached."

STUPID AND SELFISH. A Pasha's Observations of Life in His Native Country.

Marianne North quotes, in her 'Further Recollections of a Happy Life,' some amusing instances of Turkish stupidity, told her by a pasha in military command at Beirut. He said that he had once accepted an offer of breakfast from a rich man who thought the ways of the world and knew himself quite a Frenchman. The servants spread a clean tablecloth on the ground; then they brought a handsome inlaid table, which they laid on the tablecloth, but upside down, with its legs in the air. A tray of good things followed, and this was balanced on the tops of the legs. Another old Turk who was shown a fine portrait said only: "Yes, it is like, but is not the embroidery on the back of his coat equally beautiful? Why did they not paint that in, too?"

Another, seeing a piano, asked what that great box was for. His hostess sat down and began to play to him. "Mashallah!" he exclaimed, and after deep reflection announced that that woman must be worth at least sixty thousand piasters.

One day the pasha saw an old gentleman looking quite inconsolable, and was told that he had just lost a beautiful and favorite daughter. He attempted to comfort the man, but the father only replied: "Yes, she was most precious, of infinite value, fool that I was, I refused fifty thousand piasters for her only last month. Now she is gone, and it is too late!"

THE SEX OF RABBITS. Does the common hare or rabbit change its sex with the season? I know that this seems like asking a very foolish question, but if you will investigate the matter you will find that there is something in it after all. Lyly, the English dramatist, in his 'Midas,' says: "Hares we cannot be, because they are male one year and female the next." Toppell's 'History of Four-Footed Beasts' bears out a similar idea, and most of the ancient writers on natural history give us to understand that hares are bisexual. I have often heard old hunters claim that no man ever saw a male hare in summer or a female in winter!

ALL TIRED OUT.

Stomach Like Lead—Sleep Restless. Heavy Head.

You Need Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Probably nine-tenths of the people of the United States are more or less troubled with indigestion. Indigestion and the conditions following it are the cause of more than half of the bad feeling in the world. The body is very much like a machine. It is a sort of human grist mill. Runs along all right as long as it's treated right—as long as you grind only such things as are proper.

Put stones in the grist mill and it either stops or breaks. May be if they are small stones they will go through, but they damage the mill.

Most of us are careless—more careless with our digestive organs than anything else. And the digestive organs are more important to our happiness or unhappiness than anything else is.

We won't try to crush rocks in a grist mill, but we do try to digest indigestible things.

The human machine is elastic. It can help itself some, but it don't do everything. Give your stomach half a chance and you'll never be real sick.

At the first intimation of digestive disorders, take a few of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You needn't take every many. The good effect will be felt at once. Use the tablets judiciously. You can eat what you like, it won't hurt you.

They digest the food and make such chemical changes in it as to render it easily digestible in the natural way.

No matter whether you are slightly troubled or whether you have dyspepsia in its most aggravated form, the Tablets will put you in perfect order and keep you so.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are made by the Stuart Chemical company, Marshall, Mich., and sold by all druggists at fifty cents per package.

AN ARTFUL DODGER.

The Loo's Immediateness in Getting Under Cover.

Every treatise upon loons dwells admirably upon their wonderful powers of self-protection, says a writer in the Boston Transcript. There is no denying that all loons ever hatched up to date have been "artful dodgers" in a relative degree. The question is often raised whether they are quick enough to dodge a bullet. I once had a guide who drew a distinction quite too fine, as I thought. He claimed that a loon could see the flash of a percussion cap at the breach of a muzzle-loading piece, and could dodge, but admitted that with the rifle loaded like all modern ones, at the breach, no loon could escape a shot rightly aimed. For my part, I do not believe the interval of time between the fire at the two ends of the barrel to be measurable by eyes of birds or men, or anything short of a chronograph. As to the question, however, it is possible to reason with tolerable confidence. We know the speed of a rifle bullet. Call it fourteen hundred feet a second. Imagine your loon at that distance, or nearer. Then reflect how slowly a bird's head must move to use up more than a second in dropping a few inches under water. Gravity alone would carry it further than that. It is easy to believe that if the wary bird happens to be looking toward the hunter, the rifle flash suggests danger. A half second would give ample time to dodge, provided the action begin promptly. It is safe to say that it takes a loon's weight in lead to kill him, and we may call it settled that if a loon does not dodge a bullet, at least the lead goes down in the same hole in the water.

HE FELT HURT. The Old Gentleman Didn't Like to Be the Innocent Cause of Sarcasm.

On a Michigan avenue car the other day a woman had a baby about a year old on her lap, and next on her right sat an oldish man, who was evidently fond of babies. The child looked at him and he smiled and chuckled in return, says the Detroit Free Press. He was getting along finely, when all of a sudden the kid puckered his lips and began to howl.

"There, there. Don't cry, my precious lamb," said the mother, in soothing tones.

"Seems to be afraid of me," observed the man.

"Yes, sir, he do, and I can't make it out. I had him out in the country last week, and he saw hogs and horses and cows right along and never seemed to care about 'em."

A giddy young woman across the aisle began to giggle and a man standing up and hanging to a strap uttered a gruff "Haw, haw, haw!" and slapped his leg. The old man flushed up and looked hurt in his feelings, and seeing another giggle and another haw! haw! on the way he rose up and went out on the platform and said to the conductor:

"This is about the tenth time I've been insulted on this road this year, and the next hyena that does it is going to get both eyes knocked into one!"

CRANK COXEY CONVICTED.

May Be Fined $200 or Sent to Jail for Four Months.

JURY FINDS THE COMMONWEAL CHIEFS GUILTY.

Coxey and Browne Convicted on Two Charges and Christopher Columbus Jones on One.

MARTYR DODGE FAILED.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The trial of Coxey, Browne and Jones was resumed this morning, Congressman Pence of Colorado made an argument in behalf of the prisoners, setting forth their peaceful mission, and asked their acquittal. He was followed by District Attorney Birney for the prosecution. Judge Miller at the conclusion of the arguments charged the jury, impressing on their minds that there was no other issue before them than whether the defendants violated the law by seeking to collect a crowd on the Capitol grounds.

The jury retired at 1 p. m. At 3:30 p. m. the jury returned into court and requested Judge Miller to read the instructions for the defense to them again, after which they retired. Shortly afterwards the jury returned into court with a verdict finding all three defendants guilty of carrying a banner in the Capitol grounds. On the second charge, that of walking on the grass of the Capitol grounds, Coxey and Browne were found guilty and Jones not guilty.

A motion was entered for a new trial. Judge Miller gave the defendants' attorney four days to file the formal papers for a new trial and arrest of judgment. Then the judge made inquiries about bail and Frank and William, well-known wholesale grocer, signed bonds of $500 for each of the three convicted Commonwealthers.

STILL POSING AS MARTYRS. Coxey left the room on the arm of his wife. He said it was evident that his prosecution was not on account of what he had done but because of the principles in behalf of which he acted.

Carl Browne remarked: "I am surprised at the conviction of Brother Coxey because he was plainly acquitted by the evidence of any technical violation of the statutes. For my own part, I expected to be convicted." Two weeks may elapse, during which the trio will be free on bail, before the nation for a new trial will be argued and decided. The penalty provided by law is the same for each offense, a fine not to exceed $100 and imprisonment in jail for not more than sixty days, or both in the discretion of the court. Accordingly the maximum punishment which may be meted out to Coxey and Browne is $200 and 120 days while Christopher Columbus Jones is subject to $100 and sixty days.

SWEETLAND MARCHES TO JAIL. NEW YORK, May 8.—Fifty-nine of the sixty Coxeyites who form Sweetland's Connecticut division arrived at People's party headquarters tonight. Superintendent Byrnes made them abandon the march in a body from the Harlem river to East Tenth street and to make matters worse they had no commanding officer, for Sweetland was arrested by Captain Thompson of the Tremont station and locked up for the night. Sweetland insisted on his rights as citizen and wanted to fly the American flag but was run in for disorderly conduct just the same. The utmost indignation was exhibited by members of the People's party. A meeting of the state committee was at once held and resolutions expressive of great indignation was passed. The Central Labor union passed similar resolutions.

RANDALL IS IN JAIL. LAPORTE, Ind., May 8.—Randall's Chicago army and the seceders under Sullivan arrived here before noon. They were met at the city limits by the sheriff and posse and ordered to march around the city. Sullivan acquiesced but Randall insisted on entering town. He and his entire staff were arrested and are now in jail awaiting trial. Meanwhile the army is in camp three miles east of town awaiting the result. About one hundred Commonwealthers deserted today and it is doubtful if the crowd will hold together the week out. Sullivan's seceders passed on around the city without making trouble and are now in St. Joseph county on their way to South Bend.

COXEYITES STEAL A TRAIN. PUEBLO, Colo., May 8.—While a Rio Grande engine was taking coal it was suddenly surrounded by fifteen men under one Sanders, who came in Saturday. The Coxeyites took the engine and ran the locomotive down to the Missouri Pacific yards, where six coal cars had been left a short time before. The whole mob boarded the cars and attaching the stolen engine started east on the Missouri Pacific at a lively gait. Four miles out they met an engine coming in. The engineer reversed and kept ahead of the rioters. The latter stopped their train at Boone and took coal and water. The engines passed Nepespa going fifty miles an hour. The superintendent has an engine and car overturned in a cut at Olney so that the runaways can get no further than that point and may experience a derailment. A train started from Pueblo at 10 o'clock with deputy marshals and thirty other officers to overtake the rioters. The seizure has prevented the movement of the United States mails.

REILY SAILS TODAY. DES MOINES, Ia., May 8.—Kelly's boats are all completed and 9 o'clock tomorrow morning is fixed as the time for the start down the river. The army has food for three days. Oskaloosa will send today 1,000 loaves of bread with meat and coffee. The army is in better spirits than for several days.

CAN THE SEVERED HEAD THINK?

It Would Seem Not from These Experiments.

Does the head of a decapitated person have any of the sensations of life after being severed from the body? You may or may not have thought of this before; at any rate it is without doubt the most interesting question in the whole range of physiology, says the St. Louis Republic. From the very nature of such cases we will probably never know whether there is the least ray of memory, reflection or real sensibility surviving in the brain of man after the head falls from the block, but it is only natural that we should investigate the matter as fully as the circumstances will permit.

Some may remember a curious article printed in the latter part of 1889 entitled "A Dead Eye That Winked." In it were given the details of a remarkable experiment made by Surgeon Velpeau, the Paris prison physician, on one Dr. de la Pommerais, who suffered death by the guillotine. Just before his execution he arranged with Velpeau that if the latter would pick up his severed head, he (Pommerais) would, if it should be possible for him to do so, wink three times at the surgeon as a sign that, although he could not speak, the faculties of thought, feeling and sight were still in active operation. The account gives a picture of the scene when Surgeon Velpeau grasped the bleeding head and shouted in the ear: "Pommerais, can you thrice close your right eye while the left remains open?" The stolid surgeon, familiar as he was with blood-curdling sights, was almost frozen with horror when he saw the right lid slowly fall, while the left eye looked fixedly at him. "Again!" he cried, but the lid only quivered, all sensibility having left the head forever.

The above and similar stories have excited the minds of investigators and much attention has been given the matter during the last five years. Dr. Loye, another Paris savant, has been at the head of the French experimenters. They have decapitated hundreds of poor dumb brutes, mostly dogs, and the net result of their investigations seems to be that consciousness disappears immediately after decapitation. In the language of the learned scientists, "both portions of the animal or man so decapitated are instantly put in a state of rapid asphyxia." This seems altogether likely, but the question now arises: "Is consciousness in such cases only suspended and would it be revived if it were possible to replace the head so that it would occupy the same physiological position which it did before being separated from the body?"

THE PEST OF FLIES.

Man's Life Rendered Miserable by the Troublesome Insects.

The bee is but one of several plagues that have to be set off per contra in the ledger of Terai joys. The fly is another—that common nuisance which infests the Terai country as an entomological anomaly—i. e., a house fly where houses there are none.

Wherever in those regions the camp of man is pitched, there do these dipterous insects—these minimized harpies—swarm.

At night they are only moderately active, but when the day has warmed a little they fill the air with their discordant buzzing, and every teacup, milk jug or other possible receptacle with their bodies. The only way of eating a breakfast in their company, says Blackwood's Magazine, is to take that meal in an inclosure of mosquito netting, and even then hundreds of them contrive to effect an entrance, and, being inside, dispute each mouthful between the plate or cup and lip.

Then there are sand flies, whose dimensions are such as preclude exclusion by any material that will admit the air, and whose stings are as aggravating as those of mosquitoes. And, finally, there is an insect that, as an amateur entomologist, I call the eye-fly—an insect that attacks one during the heat of the day, and particularly when one is open-eyed for tiger, with the set purpose of getting into one's eye.

That villainous insect does not sting; it is satisfied with committing suicide, when the consequence is inflammation to the eye that crushes out its useless life, and it persists, in spite of frequent repulse, in finding a grave there. It is a nuisance when it dodges about within a foot of one's face, aiming now at one eye, now at the other. It is painfully so when it perishes triumphantly.

HE DIDN'T LIKE COONS.

A northern visitor in Florida recently asked a native negro as to the character of the sub-tropical racoon, and this was the reply: "Coons is a mighty en'ous leetle animal, but Ah doan' lak coons, an' Ah tell yo' why. One Ah ketcht a leetle coon an' Ah tuk 'im home, Ah did. Ah lef 'im in de house what Ah went aont in de ya'd, an' w'en Ah come back dat leetle coon had foun' de m'lasses jug. Ah watcht 'im, an' dere he sat a-puttin' his leetle han' daown in de jug, an' a-drawin' it up, an' a-swipin' it across his mouf. Den he'd lick off his whiskers, an' he'd put his leetle han' down in de jug, an' he'd draw it up agin, an' he'd swipe it across his mouf agin. He kep' dat up twel he had all de m'lasses he wanted. Den he jes' jump upon de baad an' he walk right across de pillows, he did. No, Ah doan' lak coons, Ah doan'."

A Mohave Superstition.

The Mohave Indians of the far west have one curious superstition that is supposed to be of comparatively recent origin. They refuse to eat the flesh of the beaver, and declare that whose eats beaver's flesh will have a swollen neck. An agent who has lived for some time among the Mohaves conjectures that some of the Indians must have eaten the flesh of beavers poisoned for their skins, and died with swollen necks. The memory has been handed down through the tribe, and no Mohave eats beaver's flesh since that day.

CANNOT GRANT LICENSES.

Last State of South Carolina Kickers Is Worse Than The First.

Objected to State Selling Liquor and Now No One Can Sell It Legally.

DRY SPELL IS THREATENED.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 8.—The dispensary law now gives way to rigid prohibition according to the decision of the supreme court today granting an injunction restraining the city council of Florence from granting liquor licenses. The decision is on the ground that there is no authority under the state law by which anybody is permitted to grant licenses, and further, the dispensary law having been declared unconstitutional, the previous law forbidding the sale of liquor without a license remains in force.

SOME ODD CUSTOMS.

Similarity of Hawaiian Usages to Those of the Hebrews.

The manner of disposing of the dead in the Hawaiian islands is also in accord with the Hebrew custom, says a writer in Lippincott's. The body was embalmed and covered with a glutinous substance or wash, to seal effectually the pores of the skin and exclude all air. The body was then deposited in the side of a precipice. The practice of immolating one or more wives of a chief was carried on to a considerable extent in the Hawaiian group in earlier days. As a manifestation of love and attachment, the wives of a chief would voluntarily die, which act was called moepua, companionship in sleep. This practice on the peculiar institutions called cities of refuge, or Pun-honua, which were found to have obtained prominence among the Hawaiians, and which have been quoted as another instance of Hebrew influence upon the customs and culture of the islanders. The cities of refuge, however, were not peculiar to the Hebrews. They existed in the time of ancient Greece. We read of the temple of Ceres at Hermione, in Argolis, which was a similar institution, and there were numerous others, both there and elsewhere, where the Cushite influence had modified the customs and molded the cults of the people on its own pattern.

GREENLAND BIRD SKINS.

The Peculiar Methods Employed by the Esquimaux in Preparing Them.

To the Esquimaux woman, says Dr. Nansen, the mouth is like a third hand, especially in the preparation of skins, which is a very considerable part of her work. As a consequence the front teeth of the older women are often worn away to the merest stumps. The Esquimaux method of preparing bird skins is extremely peculiar and therefore interesting, and is thus described: The first step is carefully to dry the feathers; then the skins are turned inside out, and the layer of fat is scraped away as thoroughly as possible with a mussel shell or a spoon, and is eaten, being esteemed a great delicacy. Then the skins are hung up under the roof to dry.

After a few days the last remnants of fat are removed from them by means of chewing; then they are dried again, washed in warm water with soda and soap three times over, then rinsed out in very cold water, pressed, and hung up for the final drying. If the feathers are to be removed so that only the down is left, as, for example, in the case of the eider duck, they are plucked out when the skin is half-dry. Then it is thoroughly dried and cut up, and so is ready for use.

The chewing is a very remarkable process. The operator takes the dry skin, almost dripping with fat and chews away at one spot till all the fat is sucked out and the skin is soft and white; then the chewing area is slowly widened, the skin gradually retreating farther and farther into the mouth, until it disappears entirely, to be spat out again at last with every particle of fat chewed away.

This industry is for the most part carried on by the women and children, and is very highly relished by reason of the quantity of fat it enables them to absorb. In times of scarcity, the men are often glad enough to be allowed to do their share. It is an strange scene that is presented when one enters a house and finds the whole population thus engaged in chewing, each with a skin in his mouth. The peculiar excellence of the Greenland bird-skin is due to this process.

RIGHT TO SHOOT BURGLARS.

Some Late Court Decisions About the Defense of Property.

The right of a householder to shoot at a fleeing burglar has been discussed recently in several newspapers and legal periodicals.

A correspondent of the London Times says he saw burglars escaping from his house after stealing some plate, and he fired two shots after them. Later in the night he met one of the burglars and secured some of the stolen silver. He would then have shot at the burglar running away with the remaining booty if he had not left his revolver at home.

The correspondent afterward doubted whether he had the legal right to use his weapon when the burglar was running away, and he consulted two or three judges who were his friends. He was advised that he might shoot a burglar fleeing in the dark to prevent his escape from arrest.

In an English court recently a householder was tried for assault on the complaint of a self-confessed burglar, whom he discovered in his kitchen and whom he shot in the body. The burglar in his testimony appeared to think that the householder took an unfair advantage in firing from a dark room into the kitchen, where the thief was pursuing his occupation by candlelight. The judge, however, directed an acquittal.

The Pennsylvania supreme court has reversed the conviction of manslaughter in the case of a Waynesburg citizen who shot and killed a thief as he was leaving his stable. The burglar had stolen a part of a set of harness from the stable on a previous night, and had promised to deliver the rest of it to an intending purchaser, and so returned to the stable to complete the theft.

The citizen called on the thief to stop, and fired a shot in the air. The thief turned and seized the householder, who then again discharged the revolver, inflicting a fatal wound.

A Pennsylvania jury on some peculiar theory convicted the defendant, but the supreme court intimated that he had a right to pursue and arrest the thief.

GREENLAND BIRD SKINS.

The Peculiar Methods Employed by the Esquimaux in Preparing Them.

To the Esquimaux woman, says Dr. Nansen, the mouth is like a third hand, especially in the preparation of skins, which is a very considerable part of her work. As a consequence the front teeth of the older women are often worn away to the merest stumps. The Esquimaux method of preparing bird skins is extremely peculiar and therefore interesting, and is thus described: The first step is carefully to dry the feathers; then the skins are turned inside out, and the layer of fat is scraped away as thoroughly as possible with a mussel shell or a spoon, and is eaten, being esteemed a great delicacy. Then the skins are hung up under the roof to dry.

After a few days the last remnants of fat are removed from them by means of chewing; then they are dried again, washed in warm water with soda and soap three times over, then rinsed out in very cold water, pressed, and hung up for the final drying. If the feathers are to be removed so that only the down is left, as, for example, in the case of the eider duck, they are plucked out when the skin is half-dry. Then it is thoroughly dried and cut up, and so is ready for use.

The chewing is a very remarkable process. The operator takes the dry skin, almost dripping with fat and chews away at one spot till all the fat is sucked out and the skin is soft and white; then the chewing area is slowly widened, the skin gradually retreating farther and farther into the mouth, until it disappears entirely, to be spat out again at last with every particle of fat chewed away.

HOW LICORICE IS GROWN.

The Plant Becomes Fully Grown in About Four Years.

As grown in Pontefract, England, where three hundred acres are under cultivation, the plants are grown in rows and attain a proper size in about four years. If allowed to grow five years the root is tough and woody. During the last two or three years, being small, potatoes and vegetables can be grown between the rows, and these are of a superior sort, as the licorice ground is heavily manured. The roots extend downward from four to six feet, and as they are dug up by hand the expense is quite an item. The digging takes place in September. The roots are stored in a cool place or packed in hand. They are next trimmed of all superfluous shoots and fibers, which are ground into powder, while the root proper is used for its juice. The buds and runners of the plant are saved, as it is from these that new roots are grown and not from seed.

SOCIAL PRIVILEGES.

What "Gentlemen" Are Permitted to Do in Europe.

They Need Not Pay Tradesmen's Bills, But They Must Play Cards Fairly—Some Queer Notions of Honor Among the "Bloods."

There are many things which it appears a gentleman may do nowadays in Europe without incurring the loss of his right to that designation by society or forfeiting what the latter regards as his "honor," says a writer in the New York Tribune. Thus he may avoid paying his creditors, provided they are tradespeople or friends, who, instead of being content with his plight, have accepted the additional security of a promissory note. Indeed, the passing of any paper between creditor and debtor is held to remove the obligation from the list of debts of honor and places it among the so-called "tradesmen's debts," the nonpayment of which involves no loss of "gentilhommerie" or of "honor." Debts of honor, that is to say, loans based merely upon verbal obligations and bets, must be paid at all cost, according to the ethics governing the "code of honor," even if the debtor has to obtain the money by means of methods which verge not only upon the dishonorable, but even on the criminal. It is for this reason that we sometimes hear of young men going to the length of stealing their mother's jewels or forging the name of their nearest and dearest relatives, as did the eldest son of an English peer the other day, for the sake of paying their debts of honor, failing which, they can no longer hope to retain the social status of a gentleman. One has heard of men committing suicide, like young Count Aloys Hardegg a few weeks since at Vienna, and the last marquis of Hastings, years ago in London, because they were unable to pay their "debts of honor," but one has never heard of a gentleman taking his own life because he could not pay his tailor.

Connection with a divorce suit, far from detracting from the "status of a gentleman," is, on the contrary, rather a feather in his cap, excepting in cases where the co-respondent prefers to speak the truth and acknowledge his guilt rather than perjure himself in the witness box "like a gentleman." The most mortal of all sins in the eyes of society, the one that entails above everything else the forfeiture of the title of gentleman and of all honor is unfair play at cards; and it is no secret that the majority of the great families in Europe would infinitely prefer to have a murderer among their relatives than a man convicted of the offense which resulted in the social ostracism of Sir William Gordon Cumming, of the duke of Roxburgh's son-in-law, George Russell, and of Major, Hon. Walter Harbord, brother of Lord Suffolk. These, perhaps are the principal things which a "gentleman" and "a man of honor" may and may not do according to the tenets of old world society. The latter may be summed up in brief as the payment of debts of honor, reticence with regard to all "affaires de coeur" and playing fairly at cards. Provided a man does not break these three commandments he may commit every other sin with impunity, and if only he be of gentle birth his shortcomings will be regarded merely in the light of venal eccentricities.

H O L C Entertainment.
There is a society of young folks in Marquette which meets at regular intervals under the high-sounding title of "Horace Greeley Literary Club." Its members bear the rank of knights and ladies and last night met at the home of Mr. Long, Michigan street, and gave their first entertainment, presenting the following program:

Address..... By the President.
Piano solo..... Lady Mary Rose.
Recitation..... Lady Norma Rose.
Piano solo..... Sir Floyd Hamill.
Essay..... Sir Walter Johnson.
Vocal solo..... Lady Kitty Cuppernull.

Recitation..... Lady Eva Desjardins.
Piano solo..... Lady Norma Rose.
Recitation..... Sir John Vannier.
Duet..... Lady Eva Desjardins and Lady Kitty Cuppernull.
Vocal solo..... Lady Mary Rose.

After the program came a debate on, resolved, "That woman requires a better education than man." The affirmative was spiritedly led by Lady Mary Rose and as energetically opposed by Sir Leo Rose. The decision was in favor of the negative but the affirmative leader has not yielded her point yet. The club was organized last September and has been very successful from twelve to about fifteen years in age and are as chock full of enthusiasm as though they were three times as old and discussed national issues instead of abstract questions.

Right Up to Date.
THE MINING JOURNAL is now connected by wire direct with Chicago, and receives all its telegraphic dispatches in the editorial rooms. The Postal Telegraph company, now handling the dispatches, has its operator at THE MINING JOURNAL key and he finds time during the night to attend to an occasional regular message. Business and traveling men may keep this in mind should they have occasion to send a late message. The new arrangement is a big improvement in many ways over the old one of sending telegraphic copy from the company's regular office.

MEXICO'S LOST CITY.

The Remarkable Discovery of a Prospecting Miner.

While Rambling Through the Wilds of the Durango Mountains the Prospector Happens Upon the Deserted Town.

The finding of a ruined and deserted city recently among the wilds of the Durango mountains by Malvern W. Cressworth, an English mining man, has had the effect of renewing the interest in the lost city long known to exist somewhere in northern central Mexico, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The claim made that Mr. Cressworth is the first man to see the city is perhaps erroneous, as it is pretty well known to have been discovered by Jose Barresa, a Mexican, over half a century ago, while the Indians of the Sierra Madres have long referred to such a city in their traditions. On the strength of Barresa's statements three different parties have been outfitted in late years from San Dimas, a mining camp on the west side of the range, in the effort to locate the deserted city which the Mexican said it contained.

The story of Barresa, who was alive up to a few years ago, is that when a young man of twenty-five years of age he was imprisoned in the carcel in the city of Durango on the charge of cattle-stealing. Whether guilty or not he declined to say, but at any rate he succeeded in making his escape from jail and fled to the mountain wilds of the north in the effort to reach his old home at San Dimas. The Sierra Madres in the state of Durango are among the wildest mountains in the world and are almost impassable. The fugitive soon became lost and for many days wandered in an almost demented condition over the rugged fastnesses. One day in coming out upon a precipitous bluff looking down into a deep valley he saw far below him what appeared to be a populous city. After great difficulty he succeeded in descending the precipitous wall which hemmed in the settlement from the outside world, but found, to his amazement, not an inhabitant in sight. Exploring the city, he found the houses deserted and the courts of the dwellings grown up with rank weeds and tropical plants. Exploring further, he found signs which told him that the city had been deserted or its people swept suddenly out of existence while pursuing the ordinary vocations of life. The place could easily be recognized as an old Spanish mining town by the works which remained, and, going into the old mills and arrastras, he found large stores of silver ore left while in the process of being worked.

The discoverer took samples of his ore and after many more days of wandering finally found his way to San Dimas, where he had the samples assayed. They proved to be very rich in silver, with some gold, and the story told by the Mexican created large interest. A party, with Barresa as its guide, soon set out to locate the place and seek it of its riches. But as the mountains were without trails and the country in general one of the roughest in the world he was unable to again find the place, the trail to which was at least very obscure and intricate. Two other attempts to find the hidden city under the direction of the Mexican were made in later years, but were no more successful than the first. As there was every reason to believe the story many of the associates of Barresa, who lived to be over ninety years old, at various times have essayed to rediscover the ancient city and its workings. Many of them have come to grief and have never been heard of since trying to unravel the mystery of the Sierras.

Richard E. Chism, of the City of Mexico, a well-known mining man and at present editor of the Mexican Miner, was personally acquainted with Barresa when he was an old man, and says there can be little doubt that the late find made is but an accidental discovery of what has been searched for through many years. Mr. Chism is entirely familiar with the country in a general way and says the Spaniards three hundred years ago had large mines worked by native slaves in the region. If the fresh efforts which will be shortly made to locate the city succeed in their purpose he thinks some of the richest silver mines in the republic will probably be reopened to the light and to work.

Reindeer in Alaska.
General Agent Sheldon Jackson has made a special report to the president concerning the introduction of Siberian reindeer into Alaska by the government. The plan is pronounced thoroughly successful, though slow progress has been made owing to lack of sufficient appropriations. During last summer 127 reindeer were purchased in Siberia, 124 of which were safely landed at the station. This made a total of 340 in September. Herds of 100 reindeer each have been given to four mission stations; and distribution to various other stations will follow as the herd increases. The statements that the superstition of the Siberian natives would prevent the purchase of live reindeer, that deer could not survive transportation, that it is impossible for them to thrive in Alaska, and that the Alaskan dogs would scatter and destroy them, has been disproved by experience.

The Terrible Ship Worm.
The testudo navalis, or ship worm, has caused the loss of more vessels than were ever destroyed in war. In tropical countries this worm penetrates the timber of vessels and eats away the wood until there is only a shell left, which will crumble at a slight blow. Large beams, apparently sound, after removal from vessels after the outside crust has been broken have been pulled to pieces by the fingers. During the last century an East Indiaman, docked in London, crumbled to pieces when the supports were placed underneath and the water removed.

WHAT IT IS and WHAT IT DOES

IF YOU HAVE THE PILES, NO MATTER HOW BAD, IT WILL CURE YOU.

THE GEM PILE REMEDY is the discovery of a man who for many years had suffered with a most stubborn case of piles, and who had tried many remedies without avail. He brought about a permanent cure by the use of the Gem Treatment, and since curing himself, has cured every one who has come to him with this painful malady, for treatment. The Gem Treatment is entirely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It is not repulsive; neither does it interrupt any person in the pursuit of his employment. There are no restrictions as to diet or habits. A cure is guaranteed in every case, no matter how long the patient may have been a sufferer, nor how serious the malady is. If you are a sufferer from piles, try a box. Instructions for using in every box. PRICE, $1.00 PER BOX.

IS WANTED AT ESCANABA.

The Man Who Got Hurt While Stealing a Ride on the Railway in Demand There.

AN OFFICER COMES TO ISHPEMING FOR HIM.

Annual Memorial Day Observance - Fire Department Meeting - Work at the Winthrop.

ALMOST KILLED THE HORSE.

Deputy Sheriff Alexander Roberts of Delta county was in Ishpeming Monday afternoon in search of two lumbermen who had hired a horse at an Escanaba livery barn last Saturday morning and had not yet returned it. One of the men is the fellow who tried to steal a ride on a Chicago & Northwestern north-bound freight at Lathrop Monday morning and fell between the cars, receiving an injury to his foot, an account of which was given in yesterday's paper. This man gave his name to the police authorities here as Thomas Murray, but the deputy sheriff says his name is Thomas Miller.

When Miller and his chum engaged the rig they started for Gladstone, where they became intoxicated. They remained there until some time Sunday morning. On their trip back to Escanaba they lost their way and at 7 o'clock Sunday morning they arrived at Brampton. They had driven the horse very hard and the poor beast was hardly able to walk when they reached there. It was then the pair decided to come to Ishpeming, as they knew if they returned to Escanaba they would be arrested for abusing the animal.

From Brampton they started the horse along the railroad track and drove it until it could go no further, when they left it standing alongside the track and continued their journey on foot. At Lathrop they both boarded the train and had not Miller met with the accident that befell him later he undoubtedly would have escaped arrest. When the train hands found Miller with his foot injured they took him into the caboose and treated him kindly. His partner kept in hiding and stuck to the train until it reached Negaunee, when he got off and has not since been seen.

The yarn Miller told the railroad employees and the police authorities was not very straight. He said he was an entire stranger in this section and that he did not know anyone this side of Escanaba; that his object in coming here was to secure work on the Dead River Mill company's drive. Deputy Sheriff Roberts says Miller's home has been at Lathrop for some time past and that he and his chum were at Escanaba on a spree. Miller will pay for the horse and buggy or serve a term in jail for his cruelty to the nag.

The "Unknowns" Organized.

The baseball aggregation styling itself the "Unknowns" which was organized here last season for the sole purpose of playing the Dexter-Greenwood team, is perfecting arrangements for a series of games with the Dexter boys. The team is composed of several excellent players who retired with honor several seasons since and a few others who never before played the game.

In view of the good times the boys had last season in their contests with the Dexter team they are quite anxious to play that team again and have accepted an invitation to visit Dexter next Sunday. Mike Johnson, who knows nothing about baseball, more than that he has two sons playing in the team, is the manager and has contributed largely to the purchase of new uniforms for the boys. Mike is a great entertainer and throws his house open to the "Unknowns" and their friends when they visit him. There are about fifteen players, including the substitutes, in the team.

Changes in the Team.

Dan McCarty and Thomas Cooney, second baseman and short stop, respectively, of the "Setters" baseball team, have gone to Ontonagon and will play with that team this summer. They will be given work there and will remain there permanently if they are successful in securing steady work. They are both fine ball players. This makes five of the "Setters" old team who have gone up the road. Their places have been filled by members of the "Union" team and it is thought the club will be fully as strong this season as last, as the places of all those who have left are being filled by good players. Jerry Sliney has joined the "Setters." George Shepherd, who played with the "Unions" last year and recently signed with the "Setters" will go to Baraga this week. He will play third base and change pitcher. Manager Sinclair is bound to keep the "Setters" together despite the inroads the towns above here are making on his team.

At the Winthrop.

Some thirty or forty men are working at the Winthrop mine stripping the lean ore deposit in one of the open pits which was abandoned some years ago. The skiproad being put into the pit will be completed about the 25th inst., when hoisting will be started. Napoleon Biley is building the skiproad and is making good progress with the work. The ore obtained in this pit is very low in iron, but there is a demand for it at present.

On the Old Ball Grounds.

The public demonstration on Memorial Day under auspices of Charles Towne Post, G. A. R., will be held on the vacant grounds south of the Co-operative society block, formerly the old baseball grounds. A stand will be erected, from which the oration will be delivered and where the musical exercises will take place at the conclusion of the parade and visit to the cemetery. On Sunday, May 27, Charles Towne Post will attend memorial services at the Methodist church in Negaunee. Last year memorial services were held here.

and E. B. Howard, will sing at the entertainment in the evening at the City Opera house. The male quartette from Negaunee may take part in the program. This, of course, will be in addition to the drama, "Crawford's Claim."

Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the Ishpeming fire department will be held next Saturday evening at 7:15 for the purpose of considering the invitation of Charles Towne Post, G. A. R., to participate in the Memorial Day exercises on the 30th inst. at Ishpeming. It is quite likely that the invitation will be accepted, as the firemen have always turned out on Decoration Day in years past.

Trepanning by Prehistoric Man.

Not only the medical world, but the laity also, have been highly interested by the evidence adduced by Prof. Horsley in a lecture the other day, proving that prehistoric man in the stone age frequently performed the dangerous and delicate operation of trepanning. He had found sixty skulls in collections of these relics, on which the operation had undoubtedly been performed. In one case it had been done by drilling a series of small holes, probably with a bone implement, and then breaking small partitions and so releasing a piece of bone. Another operation seems to have been performed with a flint saw. A third method was scraping. This discovery is the most important proof yet discovered of the high intelligence of the unrecorded races.

The Blue Above.

If there was no dust haze above us the sky would be black. That is, we would be looking into the blackness of a limitless space. When in fine, clear weather, we have a deep, rich blue above us it is caused by a haze. The particles in the haze of the heavens correspond with those of the tube in the koinoscope, and the blue color is caused by the light shining through a depth of fine haze.

Try our fine blackberry for medicinal purposes. It is all right. P. H. DONAHOE.

Do you know where to get the finest California brandy in town? Why at P. H. Donahoe's, of course.

They Will Wed. Cards announcing the marriage of John F. Allison, operator at the Chicago & Northwestern depot here, and Miss Ida Sundberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sundberg, have been issued.

DEFINITION OF A TENOR.

Von Bulow regarded such a singer as an Illness, Not a Man.

As a conductor he simply worked marvels, even with an indifferent orchestra, and this is the performance he perhaps enjoyed most; he would compare his conducting to his piano forte playing, and say at the end of a concert, provided he was satisfied: "This is the finest Beethoven I have played on."

It will be remembered how some two or three years ago the German emperor in the course of a speech referred rather rudely to the "grumblers" (Nogler) at the existing regime, and advised all such to shake off the dust of the Vaterland's soil.

He took it also musically out of Count Hochberg when that amiable despot had him turned out of the Berlin opera house. It was at a piano-forte recital at the Singacademie, where, by way of a prelude, Bulow just played the first few bars of Tigris's aria, "Se vuol ballare, Sig. Contino."

It became the use of the "Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," but my stomach was so very weak that it seemed to aggravate the nausea and I could not continue it.

Old Nancy. History of an Illicit Still Which Has Been Operated for Thirty Years.

The capture of an illicit still operated near Sinking mountain by Deputy Collector Brown recalls a story of long-continued defiance of law. The still was bought in New Haven in 1858 and was put to use on the plantation of the late George Dye.

With the restoration of United States authority "Old Nancy" became contraband. Revenue prisoners brought before United States commissioners would tell about how "Old Nancy" was prospering, but try as they would the officers never could capture the still.

THE GREAT LAKES. How the Five Inland Seas First Received Their Names.

The first discoverers of Lake Ontario gave it the name "Saint Louis"; another party of travelers called it "Frontenac," after the great pioneer.

Lake Huron was named after the famous Indian tribe that lived upon its borders. Hennepin in 1698 called it "Karegonndi." In Washington's journal it is mentioned as "Onatoghli," or "Huron."

Lake Michigan was for many years called "Lake Illinois," from the tribe of Indians who lived near it. In 1719 the pioneer Senev gave it the present name of Michigan, and this was ratified by Charlevoix in 1744.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have been using it for about two years--four bottles in all--as occasion required, and always keep a bottle of it in my home. I believe I know a good thing when I get hold of it, and Pain Balm is the best liniment I have ever met with.

There is no excuse for any man to appear in society with a grizzly beard since the introduction of Buckingham's Dye, which colors natural brown or black.

HOW TO GROW FLESHY.

It is a Question of Food and Nothing Else.

AND EASILY UNDERSTOOD. A Clear and Simple Explanation of the Entire Subject Drawn From Nature.

If we want to learn about this we must study nature. Let us look at the lower animals. The pig contains more fat in proportion to its weight than any other animal. What food does it eat? Starchy food. It can digest its food. The animals that eat starchy food are the heaviest in the world, as witness the elephant, the rhinoceros, the horse, the steer, etc.

But digestion. That is often the trouble. Anemics and dyspeptics cannot properly digest starchy food. It causes pain, eructations and distress. By eating starchy food that has been artificially digested, you can overcome this trouble. Paskola is such a food.

The specialists who first prepared Paskola made it of starch because they knew that starch is the only food that fattens. They made it of fruit because fruit is naturally healthy, and because the fruit of which Paskola is prepared, contains ferments which help to digest other food.

They thought Paskola would be a good food for thin people, but they little thought it would be such a wonderful success as it has become. What it does for one person, always makes ten more by it. It cures dyspepsia.

PORTSMOUTH, Va., March 7, 1894. The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade St., New York.

GENTLEMEN: I have for more than three years been afflicted with a very weak stomach, the most distressing symptom of which was a dreadful nausea after eating. In many cases I lost my meals entirely, especially breakfast, as my stomach was weaker in the mornings than at other times. I have had a great many doctors of different cities prescribe for me, but none of them gave me any permanent relief.

ELBERTON, Ga., April 6, 1894. The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade St., New York.

GENTLEMEN: Your sample of Paskola came safely to hand. I did not give it to others but took it myself. Was from home while taking it and did not work but it is all you claim it to be, a flesh maker, aid in digesting other diets and not only a food but very pleasant to take. With thanks I am Most respectfully, D. P. BELL, M. D.

Paskola may be obtained of any reputable druggist. A pamphlet on food and digestion will be mailed free, on application to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade street, New York.

STILL FORGING AHEAD.

Annual Meeting of the Marquette Building & Loan Association.

OLD BOARD OF DIRECTORS IS UNANIMOUSLY RETAINED.

Peerless Will Receive Bill of Health Today—She Will Probably Clear Before Night.

PLENTY OF CASH TO LOAN.

The Marquette Building & Loan association concluded its sixth year with its annual meeting last night. That the shareholders are extremely well satisfied with the conduct of the association is shown by the fact that every director was re-elected by acclamation. There was a good attendance of shareholders in person and a majority of the 4,847 shares was represented in person or by proxy. In the absence of the president, D. H. Ball, the first vice president, J. E. Sherman, presided.

W. W. Osband, who was elected a director by the board soon after the last annual meeting to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. A. Vanier, was elected unanimously to succeed himself for the remaining year of the unexpired term. Messrs. D. H. Ball, and James E. Sherman, Dr. E. C. Markham and Messrs. James M. Wilkinson and M. E. Asire were elected directors for two years to succeed themselves, all by acclamation. The members of the board who hold over are Peter White, V. B. Cochran, E. B. Palmer and James Wallace. About half of the ten directors have been on the board since the foundation of the association.

The report of the auditing committee for the fourth quarter of the sixth year was presented. The report shows that the association has received on installments $129,964.81 and has earned in interest $33,057.33. Losses aggregating $30,929.44 have been repaid. The total receipts have been $909,917.19. The cash on hand April 23 (when the last quarterly report was made up) was $9,699.42. The receipts for May make the cash on hand over $12,000. The association has present assets of $170,438.18. Its liabilities are of course the same, as it is a purely mutual concern. Its profits to date have been $48,433.73. It has loans outstanding, secured by first mortgage on real estate, of $148,492.44 and loans on its own stock of $10,329.68. Its gross expenses in handling an aggregate of $209,917.19 received through six years, have been only $8,040.34 and the net expenses have been only $7,322.57. This is less than 2 1/2 per cent. for six years and but little over an average of 1/2 per cent. for each year. In fact it has cost this association an average of less than six mills on the dollar each year to transact its large and increasing business. This low rate of expense of course arises from the fact that the association is purely co-operative. The directors give their services freely and the only expenses are the moderate salary paid the secretary—four cents per quarter on each share in force—and the necessary cost of running the office.

The only difficulty with the Marquette Building & Loan association just now is that it has more money than it can find safe investment for at the terms it has been making. There is every reason to believe that the demand for loans may soon increase but the stockholders last night deemed it wise to have this question of idle capital considered and appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Sidney Adams, G. D. Smith and Ernest Rankin to confer with the directors and propose such changes in the by-laws as would tend to make the loans of the association more attractive to borrowers. The annual meeting then took a recess until Tuesday evening, June 5, at which time the committee above named will present its report.

Meanwhile those who contemplate building or who can offer good real estate security should bear in mind that the association has money to lend on easy terms.

Peerless Leaves Quarantine.

The board of health will issue a bill of health to the quarantined steamer Peerless this morning and she will probably clear for up the lake ports during the day. The health officer reports all on board in good health and every sign of contagion gone. It was also reported that the patient at Thoney's quarry pest house showed signs of improvement yesterday and hopes of his recovery are now entertained.

Joseph Austrian of the Leopold & Austrian line, who is here looking after the interests of the Peerless, made an emphatic denial to THE MINING JOURNAL last night of the report published in Monday's evening papers that there was small pox on the steamer City of Duluth. Mr. Austrian said this boat had discharged her cargo Monday in Chicago and cleared for Benton Harbor with a clear bill of health. Why such an utterly false report should have gone out Mr. Austrian was at loss to know. It was bad enough to have one boat of the line tied up in quarantine for a sufficient cause without careless newspaper reporters lying about the others. It does seem as though the Leopold & Austrian line had experienced enough annoyance and expense without having the additional chagrin of hearing false reports about the condition of the boats free from suspicion. The health officer, Dr. Harkin, desires that all bills incident to the quarantine of the Peerless be sent direct to him for endorsement. This will be necessary in order to have them paid.

Invitations Are Out.

The committee on ceremonies for the laying of the city hall corner stone, yesterday sent out invitations to twenty-nine local societies to participate in the demonstration of Monday next, and the list is not yet completed. Should any organization, through an oversight, not receive the committee's invitation it is requested it may look on this as such and consider itself one of the invited. The committee will make every effort to not miss any lodge or other organization no matter what its pretensions may be.

The invitations to be issued by the council were printed yesterday and are an excellent specimen of the printer's art. They will be sent out at once to up-the-road city officials and aldermen. The committee also wishes the business places to show their appreciation of the occasion by closing during the ceremony of laying the stone. This would give all an opportunity to attend and lend a becoming dignity to an event marking the city's excellent advance.

Marquette or Houghton?

A few days ago THE MINING JOURNAL's copper country correspondent mentioned that the Knights of Pythias of that region had instructed their delegates to the grand lodge—which meets in a few days at Benton Harbor—to work tooth and nail to get the next meeting of this body for the upper peninsula. The item also stated that the copper country Pythians claimed a majority of the delegates were favorable to Houghton getting the meeting providing the grand lodge can be persuaded to visit the upper peninsula.

The same action was taken by Marquette Pythians but they very wisely refrained from giving their delegates any open directions to work for Marquette or any other place in the peninsula, as they evidently deemed such action would be premature and apt to work adversely to the hopes of all. If the grand lodge is persuaded to select some place in the upper peninsula as next meeting point it will be because the upper peninsula delegates not only pull together but swing a considerable number of outside delegates to their side. If they start out with divided interests and pulling against each other nothing but defeat will repay their efforts. This was apparently the view taken of the matter by the local Pythians when they guarded against establishing prejudice by giving particular instructions to their delegates.

When the upper peninsula delegates meet in caucus to discuss the matter, the chief question should be, which place in the upper peninsula would be most likely to tempt the grand lodge to pay us a visit. If Houghton offers the greatest inducements to the tourist and visitor then select that city but if Marquette presents the strongest features of interest then let the Queen City be the selection. It will require the combined efforts of the upper peninsula delegates to bring the grand lodge our way and the sooner this is realized and the most suitable point selected the better for the wishes of upper Michigan Pythians. Everything may be gained by united effort; nothing can be gained by a divided delegation. The vital question is, which place shall be worked for, Marquette or Houghton?

Will Not Build a Vault.

A special committee of the board of supervisors met yesterday forenoon in the court house to consider the matter of building a vault for the storage of abstracts and county records. The fire-proof space heretofore at the disposal of the county clerk has become inadequate for the accommodation of county papers and the board found it necessary to make some provision as soon as possible.

Some members of the committee, and not a few of the supervisors, were strongly of the opinion that a good, commodious vault should be built suitable for the storage of all documents which if lost would cause the county great inconvenience. There was, however, a strong disposition against any outlay at present that could be dispensed with, and there appeared to also be not a little opposition to making any valuable additions to the existing county buildings. These two elements combined in the committee yesterday and resulted in a decision to report adversely to the building of a vault and recommended changes in the rooms now devoted to storing probate court records and papers so as to accommodate in addition the abstracts.

One of the partitions will be moved making a room one side of which will be taken up with abstracts and the opposite side with probate court records provided with locked cabinets. This change will not cost more than $100 or $150 and may be easily done. The committee will submit the foregoing to the full board and action will probably soon be taken.

For Memorial Day.

At a meeting of Albert Jackson post, No. 300, G. A. R., held Monday night Captain Blanchard, C. Moore and E. M. Watson were appointed a committee to arrange for a proper observance of Memorial Day. Captain Blanchard is chairman and his office in the Nester block will be headquarters for arrangements.

The committee wishes in this manner to cordially invite all civic societies to take part in the exercises usual on such occasions and requests that such as feel disposed will notify Captain Blanchard as soon as possible so as to receive their place in the parade. This is to be considered a general invitation and is so issued that no organization may be overlooked.

The children of the public schools are also requested to make preparations for taking part as in the past. The committee wishes to see every pupil in Marquette in line carrying flowers and lending their own peculiar charm to the proceedings. Two good speakers will be provided and suitable music for the meeting, which will be held in the opera house after the exercises at the cemetery. It is requested that all willing to assist in any way will notify Captain Blanchard. The G. A. R. local post purposes making the coming Memorial Day one of the best observed of any in its history and calls on every good citizen to help all he possibly can.

CARD OF THANKS.

I take occasion, on the eve of my return home, to thank the many kind people of Marquette who have extended me assistance and consolation during my sad stay in this city. I will take with me a lasting remembrance of their kindness.
