TELLER'S GREAT AMBITION.

Believed the Colorado Senator Is Looking for Third Party Nomination.

TARIFF AND SILVER TO SMASH OLD PARTIES.

Republican Senators Expect Test Vote On Tariff Bill to Come on Sugar Schedule.

NO LONGER A REPUBLICAN

WASHINGTON, May 20.—There is any amount of quiet talk in Washington just now that Senator Teller has a well-developed case of presidential fever. The Colorado silverite is said to be trimming all his legislative sails so as to capture the presidency in 1896. It is said that he anticipates that both old parties will go to smash, so to speak, on the silver and tariff issues. Teller has practically deserted the Republicans in the present tariff fight, and a doubtless had a purpose in view in doing so. Certain Republicans are unkind enough to say that Teller is figuring to be some Democratic nominee in 1896 on a silver and low tariff platform. It is probable, however, and his friends admit this, that Teller has hopes of carrying several western and southern states on the silver issue and secure the nomination and election in 1896. Of course he will fail of election.

STATE OF THE TARIFF ROW.

Another week of the tariff fight in the senate has drawn to a close without any apparent change in the situation. The Democratic leaders believe they have scored one or two points during the past week, but the Republicans do not seem to be at all worried over the so-called victories of their opponents. Those on the Republican side appear to be just as eager to use all honorable means to defeat the bill. If the Republicans stand solidly together the enactment of a new tariff law is a long ways off. This is the opinion of conservative men who are keeping close watch upon every new development in the contest. There is sure to be a battle royal, but before the Democrats can win they will have to settle many difficulties on their side of the chamber if the bill ever passes as it now stands. A bitter fight will be waged against its most important schedules by a big faction of dissatisfied Democrats in the house when the measure comes back to that end of the Capitol.

TEST VOTE ON SUGAR.

Republican senators who in the beginning manifested a disposition to antagonize every item in the tariff bill, and who suddenly changed their tactics Thursday, have not abandoned their fight on the bill as their course Friday in letting so many paragraphs go without challenge has led some to believe, but the change in method was made for two purposes. They felt that they had gone a little too far in pressing their objections by declining to let any of the amendments go in without debate and had aroused the antagonism of the Democrats to a greater extent than they had intended, and they concluded that nothing could be gained by provoking friends of the bill to extreme measures. They have not, however, changed their purpose of opposing many of the more radical changes which the bill makes in the existing law, and it is probable that they will consume enough time on these to compensate for the time they might put in on all of the amendments. It is also probable that they are willing that a test question should be reached and it is believed that the sugar schedule is expected to furnish the test. All the indications are that the sugar schedule will be reached this week. The debate on this schedule promises to be sensational, and some of the Republican senators have expressed the opinion that the schedule will prove the weakest link in the tariff chain.

THOSE BRIBERY CHARGES.

The special committee to investigate the charges of bribery in the senate held a meeting yesterday for the purpose of preliminary organization and to take steps as to the summoning of witnesses and the employment of a stenographer and clerk. At the close of the meeting Mr. Gray stated that the committee had decided to hold its first meeting on Monday, beginning at 10 o'clock. The first work will be upon the alleged attempt to bribe Senators Hunton and Kyle. The senators named, Senator Hunton's son, Senator Kyle's private secretary and C. W. Buttz, who has been presented as the man who undertook to bribe the senators, will be summoned. The committee did not decide upon any course of proceeding with reference to the alleged operations of the sugar trust, leaving the details of that branch of the industry to be taken up when the first part of it shall have been concluded. The investigation will be conducted behind closed doors. The chairman is to be authorized from day to day to give out for publication the purport of the testimony.

FOOLISH YOUNG WOMAN.

Nellie Huntley Shot Herself Because of a Lover's Quarrel.
HOLLAND, Mich., May 20.—Nellie Huntley shot herself in the side with her brother's shotgun at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and died a few minutes later. She was the daughter of James Huntley, president of the Ottawa Furniture company, and but twenty years of age. He is wealthy, and the family are prominent socially. Arthur Van Dusen, son of Postmaster J. G. Van Dusen, has been paying her attentions for some time, and was believed to be her accepted lover. Friday they had a misunderstanding which made her very unhappy. Yesterday she wrote him a note stating that when he received it she would be no more, and for him to notify her friends to look for her body in the big tank at home. She mailed the letter herself at noon and returned home.

Her mother noted her nervousness during the afternoon and though she insisted that she was not sick her mother sent her to bed, thus making it impossible to drown herself in the tank as planned, so she slipped in and secured her brother's shotgun from his room, loaded it and pulled the trigger with her toe, shooting herself in the left side.

KANE IS CAUGHT AGAIN.

Escaped from Jackson in a Cinder Wagon in 1886.

JACKSON, Mich., May 20.—In 1886 Cornelius Kane was sent to prison from Detroit on a ten-year sentence for burglary. Eight months later he escaped from the prison in a very clever way. Probably with the connivance of the driver of a team Kane concealed himself in a load of cinders and was thus enabled to ride to the dumping ground, where the stuff was unloaded on the bank of the river, some distance outside the prison wall. He made good his escape and was not heard of again until a few days ago. From an article in a western paper published some days ago Warden Chamberlain and the officers discovered that Kane was under arrest at Dallas, Tex., for a minor offense. A requisition was procured and Sheriff Peek and a prison officer left for Texas for Kane. Kane was employed in the box shop and had been chosen to remain in the prison and serve he would now be a free man. As it is, he will have to serve nearly ten years on his return.

MORE TROUBLE FOR WAITE.

Ousted Penitentiary Commissioners Will Fight Him to the Last.

DENVER, May 20.—It appears that in removing Penitentiary Commissioners Reynolds, Chamberlain and Boettcher, Governor Waite has inaugurated another political war. Commissioner Reynolds says the understanding between the members is that they will take all legal means to defeat the governor's aim and will not give up until the highest court has decided against them. Governor Waite has not yet appointed a new board. It is reported, that anticipating trouble, Warden McLister has the penitentiary in a state of defense and is prepared to stand a long siege. The governor is also having much trouble with his own fire and police boards and is preparing to remove them.

PITTSBURG FACTORIES CLOSE.

Shortage of Coal the Cause—Operators Full of Fight.

PITTSBURG, May 20.—The Pittsburgh railroad coal operators who attended the Cleveland conference returned in a decided belligerent humor and it is likely the great coal strike will be prosecuted to the end. To decide upon what course is best, Secretary R. J. Bailey has called a special meeting of all railroad operators of this section Monday. A formal meeting of all coal operators of western Pennsylvania has also been called. Owing to the coal strike the Pittsburgh wire works was closed, throwing 450 men out of work. Three furnaces in the Carnegie plant were blown out yesterday, throwing out 550 men. The Duquesne forge at Rankin closed down last evening and 200 men are idle.

BAN ON FUNERAL PARADES.

Council of State Decides They May Be Prohibited.

PARIS, May 20.—For some time past a dispute has existed and caused much bad feeling between the priests of St. Denis and the mayor of that town. The mayor recently took objection to the elaborate display made by the priests of St. Denis in the funeral processions, and warned the priests that the display must cease. The council of state was called upon to decide the dispute. Decision was rendered today, the council of state holding that funeral processions in which religious emblems are displayed may be prohibited by the mayor if the latter is of the opinion that such a display is likely to cause public disturbance.

ATTACKED BY A MOB.

Three Land-Seekers Roughly Handled and Driven from Town.

TOWER, Minn., May 20.—Harry Mee, one of the most prominent land attorneys of Duluth; W. L. Morrison, an explorer, and W. H. Cook were run out of town yesterday by a large mob of men who are claimants to land. The three men were about to start for the woods, and the crowd made a break for them at the boat landing. Cook drew a revolver and walked through them. Ropes were thrown about the necks of Morrison and Mee. They were kicked and beaten and then were led to the train, placed on board and told never to show their faces in Tower again.

HISTORIC TREE GONE.

Ottowood at the Scene of the Fort Dearborn Massacre.

CHICAGO, May 20.—One result of the storm was the destruction of the old ottowood tree which stood on Eighteenth street and in the shade of which the terrible Fort Dearborn massacre was perpetrated by the Indians Aug. 15, 1812.

Seventeen Year Locusts in Missouri.

BONNE TERRE, Mo., May 20.—Every bush in this vicinity swarms with seventeen year locusts. Reports from other localities indicate that they cover a large area.

Bomb for the Guillotine.

LONDON, May 20.—A dispatch from Paris says the police have discovered a plot to explode a bomb in the building in which the guillotine is stored.

PINGREE TALKS PLAINLY.

Says Republican Party Must Break Away from Corporations and Millionaires.

OTHERWISE ITS DEFEAT IN 1896 IS CERTAIN.

Pays His Respects to Senator McMillan, Governor Rich and Other Prominent Party Leaders.

HIS POLITICAL PREDICTION.

DETROIT, May 20.—Mayor Pingree of this city is well known for his fearless and/or in saying just what he thinks of public matters and public men. The Evening News of this city prints the following story of a recent declaration of his upon Republican politics in Michigan which whether true or not is highly characteristic.

"One noon not more than a week ago Mayor Pingree and a dozen or more Detroit Republicans of note were smoking their after lunch cigars in one of the lounging rooms at the Michigan club. The conversation was on political issues and the prospects for the Republicans winning in the national election in 1896. Several of the gentlemen gave off-hand but encouraging opinions. Then Mr. Pingree spoke:

"'Oh, yes, we'll win, in your mind,' Mr. Pingree said, sarcastically. 'Jim McMillan will deliver the vote of the Republican party to whoever the Republicans nominate, I suppose. Just as he's going to deliver the legislature to himself when he comes up for a second term as senator next winter. Jim's brother millionaires will deliver the votes of other states.

"'Millionaires and corporations are running this country. They elect presidents and buy their way into the senate. The Republican party is ruled by them. They are grinding the masses. They put their creatures into all grades of office. Even the supreme courts are run by them. John Rich would never have been elected governor if Millionaire Jim McMillan hadn't put him there. But the masses are going to rise soon and crush the millionaires and the corporations.

"'Look at the way congress is monkeying with the tariff. I tell you we'll have to go to Washington and clean up all out of the Capitol if they don't do something pretty quick. The masses won't put up with their monkeying much longer.

"'I'll make a prediction that if the Republican party don't free itself from the rule of the millionaires and corporations it will be defeated worse in '96 than it was in '92. The masses will nominate a candidate of their own and you Republican fellers and the Democrats will both be whipped clean out of your boots. We won't have supreme judges in Michigan then drawing $7,000 a year to keep such men as Jack Speed in office.'"

BONAOCUM VS CORBETT.

Judge Chapman Denies the Motion to Dissolve the Injunction.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., May 20.—The decision of Judge Chapman in the famous injunction case of Bishop Bonaocum of the Lincoln diocese, against Father Corbett of Palmyra, was handed down yesterday. On the motion made by Father Corbett to vacate the injunction, Judge Chapman decided that the pleadings present a sharp and distinct issue of fact, the determination of which will require an examination of the discipline and canons of the Catholic church, as well as evidence upon the question as to whether the complaining bishop agreed with his superiors to suspend his authority over the defendant. He denies the ruling asked for by the defendant and says the authority is all in favor of the jurisdiction of the civil court. In cases in which civil rights rights are abridged or denied, the law of the land is above and superior to all ecclesiastical tribunals. That part of the injunction forbidding the defendant to occupy the parsonage at Palmyra was modified. The case will be tried in this city June 6.

FRAUD AT THE POLLS.

Indictments Against Chicago Aldermen, Policemen and Poll Officers.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Two aldermen, three police officers and four judges and clerks of election were indicted by the special grand jury yesterday for violation of the election laws. The men indicted are: Alderman John McGillen, interfering with voters; Alderman John J. Coughlin, various violations of the election laws; Officer John McGovern, Officer Dennis Dillon and Officer Hugo Malinowsky, refusing to preserve order at the polls; O. W. Willis, Alonzo E. Lee, Albert Lee, William S. Darrow, clerks and judges of elections. Other indictments of various city officials are expected to follow.

ILLINOIS GERRYMANDER.

Judge Holds It Is Matter for Supreme Court to Decide.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 20.—Judge Bookwater yesterday afternoon gave his decision in the suit brought to test the constitutionality of the apportionment of the state. He dismissed the complaint, not on the issues involved, but because of his opinion that a trial court should not pass upon so grave a question, in view of the fact that the supreme court had not yet passed upon the question at issue. He therefore dismissed the case for want of equity. W. J. Calhoun asked and was granted an appeal to the supreme court on filing the bond of a complainant in the sum of $200.

IF THE protected manufacturers, whose names are not given and whose identity is as mythical as their dollars, had so great an interest in perpetuating the McKinley bill, why did they not contribute more freely to the Republican campaign fund? inquires the Grand Rapids Herald, apropos the charge that large sums have been offered senators to get their votes against the tariff bill now before congress.

The Chicago and Milwaukee papers are scoring the life saving crews at these points unmercifully for the cowardice and inefficiency they displayed as life savers when their services were urgently called for during the gale last week which wrecked so many vessels and caused a large loss of life along the west shore of Lake Michigan.

MANISTIQUE'S new paper, The Democrat, has made its initial bow to the public, and the first number has found its way to The Mining Journal's table. Bob Wright, who has made considerable of a reputation by his "Pete Pareau" letters, has editorial charge of the venture.

It is simply a question of the money loaner as against the money borrower, asserts the Kalamazoo Gazette, speaking of the proposal to have the mints of this country thrown open for the free coinage of silver.

The Wisconsin board of normal school regents held a meeting late last week at which action was taken that deprives Superior of the normal school which the regents several months ago voted to have established at that city.

A copy of the Butte, Montana Daily Miner, dated the 14th inst. gives THE MINING JOURNAL the first news it has had for some time of its former chief, Governor Swineford, of whom it has this editorial mention: Ex-Governor Swineford of Alaska, who has been on the sick list in Montana for a brief period, but whose visit with Butte friends yesterday was brightened by the old fire and intellectual vitality which has made his name a household word in Michigan, is one of the most admirable characters in political life.

cal life; for twenty years he has opened every campaign—and many a "small bottle"—in his Michigan district: is an editorial writer of force and grace; an orator of fluency and magnetism and a Democrat whose every fibre thrills with loyalty to the principles of Jefferson and Jackson.

He is deserving and would greatly strengthen the ticket.—Iron Mountain Range-Tribune. If Mr. Wilkinson desires it there is no doubt of his nomination for the office he now holds. He has already given such demonstration of his capacity for good service in administering the office that his retention in it is a duty the party owes the state if he is willing to serve as custodian of its public funds for the ensuing two years.

A REPORT comes from Washington to the effect that Senator Teller has presidential aspirations and is shaping his course in congress so as to strengthen his chances of being nominated on the Populist ticket in 1896.

ORE SALES AND LAKE FREIGHTS. The Cleveland Iron Trade Review of last week has this relative to the effect of the coal miners' strike on the ore market:

Every day the coal strike is prolonged means, of course, that much curtailment of the tonnage of Lake Superior ores smelted in Central Western furnaces. The question of interest to sellers of iron ore is whether this will find compensation in the increased furnace activity that promises to follow the strike.

"IMPORTANT IF TRUE" The Milwaukee Sentinel has this pithy editorial under the caption quoted: The following assertion respecting the power of the government is made by the Atlanta Constitution, a leading Democratic organ of the south: "There are a great many things the government cannot do, but there is one thing it can and does do, and that is to create money, and, among all other articles and commodities and creations of law, money possesses this unique quality—exchangeability for all other commodities.

Such a government should not only cease taxing its people, but supply every citizen with what money he needs. Why should men be obliged to toil and toil to obtain money with which to supply themselves and families with food, clothing and shelter when we have a government of the people, by the people and for the people, which possesses the power of creating money and imparting to it regardless of the value of the substance of which it is composed, the quality of exchangeability for all other commodities?

Production of gold and silver has always had a remarkable influence on the trade and prices of the commercial world.

It was lost from the pocket, melted up into plate, or exported to the densely populated regions of Asia, or the whole stock was diminished by the minute wear and tear on each coin.

For many centuries after the fall of the Roman empire gold production, as well as that of silver, ceased almost entirely.

At last, in 1847, well in season for the revival of the world's commercial industry, came the discovery of the great California gold mines.

The results were most remarkable. Africa's gold production in 1887 was valued at less than three-quarters of a million dollars.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me so much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does.

There will be a choir social at the club house, East Houghton, on Tuesday evening next.

The case of Archie Ruelle against the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, which has been on trial in the circuit court for four days, terminated Saturday evening.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me so much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does.

disorder of being infected with any such disease, to be sent back to the place whence he or she came, or to be sent to such pest house or hospital; to cause any resident of the city infected with any such disease to be removed to such pest house or hospital, if the health officer and two other physicians, including the attending physician of the sick person, if he shall have reason to believe that the removal of such person is necessary for the public health, provided it can be done with safety to the patient; to remove from the city and destroy any furniture, wearing apparel or goods, ware or merchandise, or other articles of property of any kind which shall be suspected of being tainted or infected with any pestilence or which shall be, or be likely to pass into such a state as to generate any contagious disease; to require the occupants of any dwelling house, store, shop or any other building in which there shall be any person sick with any contagious or infectious disease, to put up and maintain in a conspicuous place on the front of said dwelling house, store, shop or other building, a card or sign to be furnished by the board, on which shall be written or printed in large letters the name of the contagious or infectious disease from which this person so sick may be suffering; and in case of the neglect or refusal of any person to comply with such requirement to remove the patient therein to the pest house or hospital, and to do all acts which they shall deem necessary and expedient for the preservation of health, and suppression of disease in the city and to carry into effect and execute the powers hereby granted.

Sec. 3. The owner, driver, conductor, master or person in charge of any stage, steamboat, vessel, railroad car or other public conveyance, which shall enter the city, having on board any person sick of malignant or infectious disease, shall within two hours after the arrival of such sick person, report in writing the fact, with the name of such person and the house or place where he has been taken down in the city, to the mayor or some member of the board of health.

Sec. 4. No person shall knowingly bring or procure, or cause to be brought into the city, any property of any kind, tainted or infected with any malignant fever, or pestilential or infectious disease.

Sec. 5. Every keeper of a hotel, inn, boarding house or lodging house in the city, who has in his house at any time any sick traveler, stranger or strangers, shall report the fact, and name of the person, in writing, within six hours after he comes to the city, to the mayor or some member of the board of health, and every physician in the city shall report under his hand to one of the officers above named, the name, residence and disease of every patient whom he shall have visited such patient.

Sec. 6. No person having the small pox or varioloid, or other contagious disease shall go about the city; and all persons having small pox, varioloid or other contagious disease, are hereby required to be kept closely confined within their respective dwellings or places of abode, and no person who has been confined by such disease, shall leave his or her place of abode and go about the city, until he or she is furnished with a certificate by the health officer, that it can be done without communicating the disease.

Sec. 7. Each member of the board of health shall, upon discovering any person who, in his opinion, is infected with a malignant or infectious disease, promptly notify the health officer of said board.

Sec. 8. It shall be the duty of said board, immediately upon receiving such notice, to take steps to prevent the spread of such disease, in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, and they shall, as far as practicable, remove all infected persons to the pest house.

Sec. 9. Such board shall not provide assistance or necessaries for any infected person at his, her or their residence, unless such person cannot be removed to the pest house, under the provisions of this ordinance, and such board shall only in such cases furnish assistance, and necessaries for those actually sick or infected; in case any member of the same family, not sick or infected, shall be in want of provisions or assistance, it shall be the duty of such board of health to notify the director of the poor thereof, but such board shall not have any power to furnish such persons with provisions or other necessaries, except medicines as a preventive of disease.

Sec. 10. All bills for necessaries furnished by order of such board of health shall be sworn to, and shall be presented to the controller, audited and paid, in the same manner as other bills against the city of Marquette; and in case it is intended, and is proper, to present such bill to the county of Marquette for payment, then the board of health, through its chairman, shall certify to the said county that the person himself, in whose behalf the bill has been made, his parents or other person who may be liable for his support, is unable to pay the same.

Sec. 11. Any failure to comply with, or violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, the fine not to exceed $100, nor the imprisonment more than three months. All ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent or in any way contravening the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed.

From Mr. Pryor's Standpoint.

It does not appear a safe or wise thing for a land-lubber to presume to lightly speak of the methods and exploits of those who go down to the sea in ships, especially if they are small ships. Saturday morning THE MINING JOURNAL—acting under a general expression of opinion by sailors, fishermen, deckhands and common, everyday landmen—took the liberty of saying that Henry Pryor and his assistant's trip from Stannard Rock Thursday in a small open sailboat, was hazardous and the safe arrival here lucky. The object of the item was to show the pluck and skill of the two men and to add to the general features of the storm. Mr. Pryor, however, took a different view of the matter from that of the average reader and was pleased to call on THE MINING JOURNAL Saturday morning and ask that the article be corrected. He said there was no luck about sailing a boat, that when they left Stannard light the lake was perfectly calm, that they reached the harbor as dry as though they had stepped from an oven and that they considered the trip one of the most ordinary of their lives and perfectly free from danger.

THE MINING JOURNAL gives Mr. Pryor's estimate of the trip with pleasure, but fears it cannot persuade those who saw the small, black, open boat, pitching and tossing as it heaved this port, from holding to their first expressed opinion that the journey was a perilous and unpleasant one. Of course, this may be only a land-lubber's view of the matter.

MARINE MATTERS.

PASSED THE CANAL.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., May 20.—Up—Peck, Livingston, 7; Alberta, 10; Wilson, 3; 136; 105, 5; Kelly and consorts, 6.

PORTAGE LAKE.

The attempt to release the schooner Hattie, from her position on the beach northwest of the ship canal piers, has not been successful. She has not been abandoned yet as the owners still feel hopeful of getting the vessel afloat.

The steambarge P. S. Marsh and consort Little Jake, lumber laden, passed down Saturday.

The propeller Idaho cleared Saturday with a cargo of refined copper for Buffalo.

INTERESTING MARINE ITEMS.

The Marine Record says: "The Lake Superior record work last season seems to have been earned by the Minnesota Steamship company (Pickands, Mather & Co.) Cleveland, O., the Matoa covering a distance of 42,939 miles, and the Mariposa of the same line topping the record by transporting an aggregate of 87,700 tons. The Selwyn Eddy, built by the Detroit Dry Dock company, came through St. Mary's Falls canal on the limited draft allowed there with a cargo of 3,686 net tons, and the whaleback tow barge Sagamore followed her record with 3,322 net tons.

The schooner Aberdeen overloaded yesterday and found it necessary to take out several carloads of ore before she might clear in safety. The ore had become soaked with water, making it much heavier than usual.

In the race for the consorts of the Ketchum Saturday, in which the Benham came to such grief, the tug Maytham was more fortunate by bringing the schooners into port.

A new smoke stack will be made for the tug Benham by the South Shore boiler shops today. It will only be a day or two till the damage is repaired.

There was a big fleet of lumber laden vessels lying near the breakwater yesterday waiting for the wind to go down.

The City of New Baltimore will sail this morning on her regular trip to Huron Bay and intermediate ports. She will touch at the Portage this trip as a special feature.

CHART OF LAKE CURRENTS.

Mark W. Harrington, chief of the weather bureau at Washington, has prepared a series of charts with necessary descriptive reading matter and data, showing the great lake currents as decided by floating bottles put in the water at different points. The work is issued as bulletin B of the department of agriculture, weather bureau, and represents a great amount of painstaking care and calculation. A chart of each lake is given showing the course of the floating bottles and also a chart of the combined lakes defining probable currents. The work represents investigations covering the years 1892 and 1893 and while incomplete, still shows a clear way to fuller and more satisfactory investigation along the same lines.

Invitations are out for the Rifles' military hop which is to be given in the Armory Friday evening next.

Mrs. Wilson was called here from Appleton, Wis., yesterday owing to the illness of her father, Dr. Hopkins.

Mayor Kaufman and party sailed from Liverpool for New York Saturday and are expected home about June 1.

The funeral of Mrs. A. B. Johnson will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the home of her father, F. W. Boesler.

Mrs. J. M. Smith and sister, Mrs. Burrows, who have spent the past two months visiting friends in California, returned Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Dawson have returned from Galveston, Tex., where the doctor was attending the convention of Railway Surgeons of America.

Members of Oak Lodge, No. 368, Sons of St. George, are requested to meet at the hall tonight at 8 o'clock to consider business of importance.

Bailey, the photographer, succeeded in getting a good view of the ceremonies of laying the city hall corner stone and has made some excellent prints. Most of the faces in the fore part of the picture show up very distinctly.

Workmen are busy putting Presque Isle park in shape for the summer. In the lower cleared portions dead leaves are being raked up and buried and interesting shows a very fine crop of grass as the result of last fall's seeding. A repetition of planting would likely produce a fine and rich greensward.

APRIL FOOL DAY.

Uncertainty Regarding the Origin of the Custom of Playing Tricks.

The custom of sending one on a bootless errand or otherwise "April fooling" him on the first day of that month is very ancient; yet it cannot truthfully be said that anyone is equal to the task of tracing it to its origin. Some antiquarians profess to believe it a survival of the travesty of sending the Saviour hither and thither, first from Annas to Caiaphas and then to Pilate and Herod. The opinion is strengthened by the fact that during the middle ages that very scene in Christ's life was made the subject of one of the Easter "Miracle Plays" enacted on the chief streets of London and other English cities of the first class. Even though the above opinion has received the sanction of Brande, Moore and Hone, it is not at all unlikely that it is really a relic of some old heathen festival, such as the Huli festival of the Hindus or the Roman "Feast of Fools." The custom, whatever its origin, of playing tricks and pranks of all kinds on the first day of April is universal throughout Europe, and is also practiced in many other countries and under various names. It is a curious fact that the Hindu Huli festival, where April fool tricks of all sorts are played, is held on the night of the 31st of March, and the orgies are not discontinued until sunrise on the morning of April 1.

The official reports show that no baking powder received an award over the Royal at the Chicago World's Fair.

The judge of awards on baking powder, Dr. H. W. Wiley, writes that the claim of another company to having received the highest award is false; that no such award was given to it.

The Royal Baking powder is the purest and strongest baking powder made, and has received the highest award at every fair, wherever exhibited in competition with others.

The promptness and certainty of its cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping coughs, and is the most effective remedy known for these diseases. Mr. C. B. Main of Union City, Pa., says: "I have a great sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I warrant every bottle and have never heard of one failing to give entire satisfaction. 50 cent bottles for sale by H. H. Stafford & Co."

After all the World's Fair portfolios are published and tossed aside to be forgotten, there will remain the Bancroft company's "Book of the Fair" as the only thorough and complete history of the great event. No other work handles the great fair in detail and in proper sequence, nor gives a history of the fair as this work. It is after all the souvenir book of the fair. Each succeeding volume is as complete and interesting as the first. It is published by the Bancroft company, Auditorium Building, Chicago.

TENDERLY LAID TO REST.

Funeral of the Late Alfred M. Gibbs at Ishpeming Yesterday.

SEVEN HUNDRED MEN IN LINE ESCORT REMAINS TO GRAVE.

Scandinavian Society in This District Decides to Postpone Its Annual Celebration One Year.

CONSIGNED TO EARTH.

The funeral of the late Alfred W. Gibbs yesterday afternoon was one of the largest ever held in Ishpeming. At half-past one the Ishpeming fire department, accompanied by the Negaunee fire department, marched from the department headquarters on First street to the A. O. U. W. Hall, at the corner of Main and Pearl streets. Here they were joined by Ishpeming lodge, No. 113, A. O. U. W., of this city and Cui Bono lodge, No. 112, of Negaunee and Hematite camp, No. 1128 Modern Woodmen of America, of Ishpeming, and Lake Superior camp of the same order of Negaunee. In addition to the members of the lodges named there were also several visitors from neighboring towns noticed in the line of march, among them being about thirty members of Marquette lodge of the A. O. U. W., who arrived here at 12:30 by special train. After forming in line on Main and Pearl streets the marching column, about seven hundred strong, moved north on Main street, to Ridge, thence to the late home of the deceased.

The societies formed two lines along Ridge street and at 2 o'clock the casket bearing the remains were conveyed from the house to the hearse. It was unusually fine. The A. O. U. W. contributed one of the handsomest floral designs, emblematic of the order, ever seen here. It was fully four feet in height. The base was a large pillow on which was the word "Brother." Above this was a shield of red and white carnations, with the letters "A. O. U. W." in the center. The upper portion was an anchor. The flowers were lilies, tube roses, carnations, etc.

The Modern Woodmen's floral tribute consisted of a large pillow of carnations, tube roses and lilies. In the center were the words "A. W. Gibbs, Our Council, M. W. of A."

Hose and Hook & Ladder companies No. 1 presented a large and beautiful fireman's hat, on the front of which was a bugle made of red roses. Below this were the letters "I. F. D."

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tibor's offering was a large cross of ferns and carnations and Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Mills contributed a large bouquet of white carnations. The basket was surrounded by a wreath of smilax. The schoolmates of Allie Gibbs, eldest son of the deceased, contributed a large pyramid of flowers built of pansies, forget-me-nots, geraniums and May flowers.

At St. John's church special preparations had been made to receive the large gathering that attended the religious services. Rev. A. Keul, the pastor, officiated and the services were solemn and impressive. The societies all accompanied the remains to their last resting place in the Ishpeming cemetery, where they were given interment.

The relatives of the deceased mentioned in Friday's issue of THE MINING JOURNAL arrived here in time to attend the obsequies.

Won't Celebrate This Year.

Fred J. Eggan, treasurer of the grand lodge of the Scandinavian society of this district, which comprises Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, returned Saturday from Ironwood, where a special meeting of the board of trustees was held Wednesday and Thursday. The object of the meeting was to decide whether the grand lodge will hold its annual celebration this year or not. Owing to the financial depression it was concluded to postpone the reunion for one year. It will take place next year at Superior, where it would have been held this year in June had not a postponement been deemed advisable. Mr. Eggan was promoted from the office of treasurer to that of vice president of the grand lodge. Torsten Egen of Bessemer was elected treasurer to succeed Mr. Eggan.

On Thursday the Ironwood lodge entertained the grand officers and trustees in a very hospitable manner. A parade was given during the day and in the evening a concert, ball and banquet followed. Mr. Eggan enjoyed the occasion very much.

Alumni Reception.

At the meeting of the Ishpeming High School Alumni association at the High school Friday evening it was decided to give a reception and dance on the evening of commencement day. There will be no invitations sent out this year, but the public generally will be invited to attend. Tickets, including refreshments served by the members of the association, will be fifty cents. They can be purchased at Tibor's drug store a week or two prior to the reception.

The association has a membership of about sixty. About one-half of the members reside here.

Special to Marquette.

Members of Sir Humphrey Davey lodge Sons of St. George who intend going to Marquette next Wednesday evening to visit the lodge there are requested to hand in their names to William Andrews, George Tucker, Captain James Trebilcock, John Magrur or Nels J. Robbins, before this evening at 7:30 o'clock. If a sufficient number to guarantee $25 can be secured from Ishpeming and Negaunee a special train will run, leaving here immediately after supper and returning after the meeting.

The Rice, Wolford & Sheridan Dramatic company concluded its three night and matinee engagement here Saturday night with "Underground," playing to a fair-sized gathering. The company pleased the theater-goers very much and did a good business here despite the hard times.

Miss Ella Martyn has resigned as teacher here, to take effect at the close

TIBOR

THE GROCER.

If not those going down will have to make the trip on the regular train, leaving here at 2:30 p. m. and returning at 2:25 a. m. On the regular a special rate of fifty cents for the round trip has been secured.

Artistic Pictures.

The pictorial printing now to be seen everywhere throughout the city bears comparative testimony to the excellence of the performances given by the Al G. Field Columbian minstrels. Whether notes are genuine or not is judged by the perfection of their printing; minstrels should be judged the same way—none are genuine but those who put out good bills. The Al G. Field minstrels will appear at the City Opera House on Wednesday, May 23. Reserved seats are now on sale at Tibor's.

Are You Going Fishing?

"When you go fishing don't forget to take along a package of Mosquitoream," says William Pengelase. During the past week Mr. Pengelase has placed this preparation in every drug store in Marquette county and will soon go to the copper country with a supply. As a protection against mosquitoes or flies of any kind the mosquitoream leads them all. See advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Miss Minnie Sullivan returned Saturday from an extended visit to Chicago.

Part nine of Picturesque America can now be had at Harwood's drug store.

Nicholas Losseloyng has reduced the price of Ashland best flour to $1.25 per barrel.

Mrs. H. H. Mildon and her daughter Nellie arrived home Saturday from an extended visit to Chicago.

Al Smith, the barber, won the bicycle raffle off Saturday night by C. A. Violet and the cigars went the rounds.

Reserved seat tickets for Al G. Field's Columbian minstrels, the largest company of its kind in the world, are now on sale at Tibor's drug store.

C. D. Cole, the photographer, took a photo of the flowers surrounding the casket of the late A. W. Gibbs at his late home on Ridge street yesterday morning.

Stephen Simmons, the confectioner, opened his ice cream parlors yesterday. He has had his place neatly decorated and has just put in a new stock of fine candies. Steve is doing a good business.

The ball game between the Settlers of this city and the Rivals of Marquette which was advertised to take place at Union Park yesterday was postponed on account of the funeral of the late Alfred W. Gibbs.

Invitations for "Our Boys" dance at the Knights of Pythias Hall on the 29th inst. have been issued. The Twin City orchestra, assisted by C. J. Hancock, the Marquette trap drummer, will furnish the music. Tickets will be fifty cents per couple.

Four Ishpeming teachers, the Misses Traver, Martyn, Reeves and Hester, accompanied by Captain Sineox of the Lake Angeline mine, went through the East End mine Saturday afternoon. The ladies enjoyed their visit underground very much.

The Rice, Wolford & Sheridan Dramatic company concluded its three night and matinee engagement here Saturday night with "Underground," playing to a fair-sized gathering. The company pleased the theater-goers very much and did a good business here despite the hard times.

Miss Ella Martyn has resigned as teacher here, to take effect at the close of the term. She has taken a similar position at Sauk Centre, Minn., and will teach in the fifth grade, one grade higher than that taught by her here. Miss Martyn has held a room here for six years and is a very capable teacher.

THE WILDERNESS OF CEYLON.

A Dead Elephant Supposed to Be Sacred to Buddha.

We were in the absolute wilderness of upland Ceylon, where the virgin beauty and freshness of nature unspoiled by man instills a new sensation into every soul which vibrates to her mysterious voice, says Cornhill Magazine. The rolling green patenas are cut off sheer and straight from the encircling belts of jungle as though measured off by human hands, a striking feature of these elevated regions which has never been satisfactorily explained. The mountain ranges which inclose the grassy plains are clothed from base to summit with primeval forest, heavily draped with moss which forms a green fringe, hanging from every bough.

An appalling loneliness broods over the scene, no song of bird stirs the silence, and the deathlike hush which reigns over the gloomy forest is unbroken even by the rustle of a leaf, for noon is the midnight of the tropics and the black depths of the haunted jungle are wrapped in spellbound sleep. At nightfall the lithe cheetah glides stealthily through the shadows and crouches for his prey among the crowding trees. The branching antlers of the elk rise above the tangled undergrowth and the moose deer browses in the shade of the mossy boughs along which the wildest creeps, while the savage boar roots among the fallen leaves.

When the rising moon illuminates the lonely landscape, herds of wild elephants emerge from the dark jungle and roam over the vast expanse of desolate country which still renders the interior of Ceylon almost an unknown land. The elephant grass, which breaks the uniformity of the undulating plain with rustling sheaves of long green spears, is the forage for which the stragglers of the herd scour the patenas, and many Cingalese superstitions linger round this elevated tableland.

The recent spoor of an elephant marks our track and ceases at a deep pool known to be a favorite drinking place of the wild animals which haunt the jungle. A dead elephant frequently perambulates the Elk plains. He is supposed to be sacred to Buddha, and, therefore, invulnerable, no sportsman having hitherto succeeded in piercing his hide—a fact probably due to the great age of the animal.

Belgian Marriage Licenses.

A recent enactment in Belgium has made it obligatory for brides to have their marriage licenses or "marriage lines," as they call them in that land of ferns and dikes, gorgeously bound in gilt-edge morocco. This is considerably done—on, in other words, done for a consideration—by the municipalities, who have now taken to binding up a quantity of more or less useful information with the documents. There is a summary of the Belgian marriage laws, a rough and ready leaf on the treatment of children, and a table with spaces for a catalogue of the issue of the marriage. The table contains room for twelve children to be entered, so this may be taken as a gentle hint that that number is the extreme limit tolerated by Belgian burghers in a well-conducted family.

An Importunate Tenant.

Naturalists have of late taken a good deal of interest in a creature, member of the fish tribe, that lives upon the products of the industry of others. This associate or dependent at a certain stage of its existence goes out to seek a home, and finding a suitable prospect, it lies in wait for the opportunity to take possession. When the larger fish opens its mouth, the slender little donzelle, as it is called, thrusts its tail between the jaws of its new landlord, and then remains perfectly quiet while the mouth closes. When it again opens the donzelle moves in still further, until it has secured its quarters, when it settles down to a contented if somewhat monotonous existence in the digestive canal of its chosen victim. There it helps itself to the choicest morsels, and that, too, without even saying "by your leave."

To Make the Job Complete.

"I wish you would see what is the matter with this," said the customer, handing his watch across the show-case. "It has stopped. Perhaps there's a hair tangled up in the balance wheel."

The jeweler opened it, screwed his eyeglass into place, and made the customer's horrible grimace at the helpless watch.

"A hair?" he said. "There's a lock of 'em."

READY FOR ACTION.

A Man-of-War Just Prior to an Engagement with the Enemy.

Every man was at his station for battle; every preparation was made. Although several minutes would still elapse before the action began, bustle and movement had ceased. In silence and suspense, with quickened breath, the onset was awaited.

A contingent of firemen, water-tenders and coal-heavers in each fire room performed its duties with a precision unvarying and mechanical. Stripped to the waist, with muscles knotted on arms and shoulders, these grimy, stalwart men handled slice-bar, rake and shovel, or dragged from the bowels of the bunkers fresh supplies of fuel. They were safe from shot and shell, but they also were denied all knowledge of passing events. The battle might rage over them and about them without conveying any intimation of the fortunes of the day.

Shells might shriek and tear through the decks above, dismantling guns, maiming and killing scores of men, yet nothing would reach them except muffled and distorted sounds. In the beginning, when the enemy was first sighted and the ship put under full speed, they were informed by their comrades on deck of the progress of events. Even after the call to stations for battle vague and undecided rumors found their way to the regions below; but after the forced draught was put on, and all hatches closed, they were cut off as effectually from all further knowledge as if buried in the catacombs. Silent and intent they toiled, the blazing furnaces in front of them, a tangled mass of pipes and connections over their heads. The whir of the forced-draught fans made a monotonous accompaniment to the metallic clash of furnace doors and shovels, the electric light fell upon their glistening shoulders and cast strong shadows on their rugged faces, as with suspense magnified by ignorance and unrelieved by excitement they did their part.

The main engines worked with steady rhythmic stroke. On the platforms, at the reversing gear, at every valve and throttle, were stationed men to make immediate response to every command, to meet an emergency with appropriate action. The oilers moved here and there, filling cups, feeling and examining every journal, rod, and crank. Cadets were placed at the voice-tubes and annunciators to remain in constant communication with the conning tower. Everywhere, and in charge of all, the veteran chief engineer moved, a principal assistant in charge of each engine, and another in charge of the fire-rooms. Upon him was the responsibility of maintaining seventeen knots until the issue of battle was decided, and his sharp critical eye, as it fell upon his engines and his men, was filled with the gravity of the occasion.

The engineer's division was protected from shell, but not from two other dreaded weapons—the ram and torpedo. A whitehead striking below the armor belt might burst with tremendous force through double bottom and coal-bunkers, or a grinding steel prow, backed by the momentum of thousands of tons, might crash irresistibly through armor, beams and machinery to the very heart and vitals of the ship. These were possible disasters, which might not even be threatened, and which, if threatened, might be avoided by coolness and skill in manœuvring; but they would be destructive, perhaps overwhelming, if they did occur.

The men at the guns were sure to have a certain proportion of death and wounds from bullets and shells. Those below would escape this danger, and probably other dangers; but there was always the chance of a catastrophe.

The "powder division" provided ammunition and controlled the hoists which conveyed shell and powder to the guns of the battery. In the magazines and shell-rooms, far below the water-line, on the lower flats, and at successive stations, men stood to guide the shells, both great and small, and the cylinders of powder from the depths of the ship to the turrets and fighting decks. This division also, although in close touch with the active business of fighting, would not have an actual part in it, except in the extreme case of calling in all hands to repel an enemy who was gaining possession of the decks—an exigency not likely to occur in modern naval battles. Below the berth-deck its members were completely protected by the ship's heaviest armor, and upon the berth-deck they were partially protected by the lighter side armor extending above the belt. The torpedo rooms, four in number, were protected by light armor. One of them was aft and one forward, with fixed tubes, discharging their torpedoes in line with the keel. The other two were on the quarters, their tubes ranging forward to the turrets.

A crew in each room adjusted the torpedoes, put on its fighting head, and upon placing it in the tube attached its percussion fuse. The torpedoes could be discharged from the several rooms or from the conning tower. The ship carried twelve; three for each tube. With a speed of thirty knots these torpedoes would run 500 yards—the limit of distance at which they would be employed between moving vessels—in thirty seconds.

The crews of the eight and twelve-inch rifles were assembled in the turrets, grouped about their guns, and straining their eyes at the approaching foe. Time and again their glances were cast upon every preparation and every fitting to render doubly sure the assurance that the moment of need would find nothing unheeded or forgotten. Cutlasses and revolvers were belted on, rifles were placed near at hand, and the silence was unbroken save now and then by a hushed, whispered comment on the appearance and speed of the enemy, her battery, and vulnerable points.

At the lighter guns stood the sailors in smaller groups. A part of the marine guard was stationed here, the remainder assigned as sharpshooters. All men not actually needed for service of the guns engaged were directed to remain in the shelter of the barbettes and turrets. There was to be no dramatic sacrifice of life. Before the fight was many minutes old there would be vacancies enough to give every man a chance to show his nerve and pluck. The officers of divisions walked to and fro or leaned upon their swords, with frequent glances ahead and at the captain on the bridge.

On one of the flats below the protective deck the surgeon's amputating table was laid, his glistening instruments arranged in neat precision; buckets of water, sponges, and bandages at hand, all spotless and clean, but soon to be deluged by red blood then flowing through the veins of vigorous men. Tourmiquets were distributed through the division to men instructed in their use, and in a hatchway were rigged a cot and tackle to gently lower the wounded men below. In hospital garb, with white coats and aprons and bared arms, the surgeon and his assistants awaited the beginning of their labors.

Now pacing the bridge with rapid, nervous steps, studying his antagonist through his binoculars, the captain of the Farragut seemed absorbed in anxious thought. Doubtless he was rehearsing lessons long since studied, the varying tactics and opportunities of a marine duel, and wondering what unforeseen situation the one now opening might present. The time had not yet come to enter the conning tower, and perhaps, indeed, the gallant sailor would scarcely enter it at all, preferring, in the fierce excitement of battle, danger and a broader field of vision to comparative safety and a restricted view. It had long been doubted if a captain within the conning tower could properly fight his ship.

The navigator was in the tower, quartermaster at the wheel, petty officers at the engine signals. In the bullet-proof turret at each end of the bridge a young officer kept the telescopes of the range-finder directed upon the approaching ship. The ranges were recorded in the conning tower and a dial in each turret and division kept gun captains constantly informed.—Lieut. S. A. Stanton, U. S. N., in Harper's Magazine.

A TRUE PHILANTHROPY.

The Rare Results of the Lives of Two Noble Men.

There is a rich man who makes a practice of rescuing every year a poor boy from the slums of New York, and of transplanting him to a comfortable home either east or west.

There is a society that does this work on a large scale by organized agencies, but this benevolent man prefers to interest himself personally in the paths of neglected child life in a great city.

He keeps a boy under his eyes for weeks before he decides to aid him in getting on in the world. Sometimes he has several candidates on trial at once, and he studies their characters with painstaking care.

When he is convinced that there is good stuff in the boy, and that there are no vicious traits which will render the experiment hazardous, he offers to help him.

The boy is fitted out with a new suit of clothes, and is sent to another city or to the country, and is placed in a family where he will be carefully watched over, provided with steady employment, and trained for a life of usefulness.

The good man receives reports from the boys' new friends, and corresponds with them regularly himself. Not infrequently he visits them in their homes to find out how they are doing.

His interest and pride in their progress and success could hardly be greater if they were his own children. When they have opportunities of buying small farms and settling down, or for going into business for themselves, he becomes their banker, advancing money to them on mortgages, or benefits them in other ways.

A similar work was carried on by Gen. Gordon when he was superintending the Thames defenses at Gravesend, during the interval between his Chinese and Nile campaigns.

He rescued boys from the streets and after clothing them, kept them for weeks in his own house. He established a school for neglected children in his home, and taught the classes himself. His house fairly swarmed with poor children, and had its hospital wards as well as its school-rooms.

For many of these poor boys he obtained berths on vessels, and bespoke for them good treatment from the officers. He called them his sea-kids, and corresponded with them, giving them good advice and encouragement.

Visitors at his house noticed a large map of the world hanging over his mantelpiece, with pins stuck into it here and there. Those pins represented the sea-kids.

Whenever he received a letter from a boy at sea, it was his habit to take out a pin and insert it at the port where the letter was written. In this way he kept track of the boys as they sailed the seas. Whenever he glanced at the map he could tell how many of his loyal youngsters were afloat, and where each of them was at the last writing.

These men have done their work silently and without observation. They won the boys' hearts, saved them from degradation, developed in them true manhood. Such men ennoble humanity, and are the pioneers of a higher civilization.—Youth's Companion.
