ITS PRINCIPLE DECLARED.

Gorman Says Bill Is Framed for Revenue With Incidental Protection.

COMPROMISE POLICY AT LAST MADE KNOWN.

Teller Gets Test Vote and Democrats Present Unbroken Front for the Pending Measure.

PLATFORM IS DISCARDED.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Mr. Gorman's speech was the feature of today's session of the senate. Messrs. Gorman and Brice have been credited by the opposition with the joint authorship of the compromise amendments which consolidated the Democratic side and Mr. Gorman especially has been subjected to much criticism both in and out of the senate.

His speech today, replying in a measure to the attacks that have been made upon him, explaining the necessity for compromise and defining the theory upon which the modified bill now before the senate was constructed, attracted intense interest.

Mr. Gorman's statement that the majority of the senate would support the compromise bill was put to the test by Mr. Teller, whose purpose was to "smoke out" any latent opposition on the Democratic side.

DEMOCRATIC FRONT UNBROKEN.

The motion to lay the tariff bill on the table created some consternation on both sides. The bells rang and pages scurried to drum up every available senator in order that the full strength might be polled on the test vote. Mr. Butler (Dem. S. C.) was in the barber's chair when the messenger found him and came in with only one side of his face shaved.

The roll call was watched with intense interest and Mr. Gorman's statement was justified by the vote, as the motion to lay the tariff bill on the table was met by an unbroken Democratic front.

Both Hill and Irby, whose positions have been the subject of gossip from time to time, voted with their Democratic associates, as did the three Populists, including Mr. Pepper.

GORMAN'S EXPLANATION.

Senator Gorman, pale from recent illness, took the floor on the tariff bill. He rehearsed the dissensions in the Democratic party and other difficulties in framing the tariff bill, but declared the bill had not been unduly delayed. It was the last of September when the president signed the McKinley bill.

The Wilson bill was reported before its effect on industries could be judged. It was imperfect. It increased the treasury deficit. Yet there was an effort to force the senate to accept it as it stood on peril of being charged with betrayal of party promises.

The senate had always perfected tariff bills and was a co-ordinate body not bound to blindly ratify the action of the house. All this demand for haste had resulted in undigested work by the senate finance committee in the effort to respond to it. The result was a bill which had no chance for a moment of passing.

"INCIDENTAL PROTECTION."

This situation was met, however, by a measure of tariff reform which merited and he believed would receive the endorsement of both houses, the signature of the president and the approval of the Democratic party. He declared the bill to be constructed on the Democratic theory of "tariff for revenue with incidental protection," following strictly the course marked out by President Cleveland in his letter of acceptance.

If the people feared this course would bring financial disaster they would not have elected him (Cleveland). It was not free trade but it was a longer step toward freer trade than the Mills bill or the tariff act of 1883.

DIFFERENCE IN WAGES.

This bill was not protection for protection's sake but discriminated between raw materials and manufactured articles to the full extent of the difference between European and American wages.

It was Democratic, just, wise, business-like and prudent. It was not perfect but would prove the most advantageous tariff legislation since the Republican party existed. No trust had dictated any part of the bill. Justice to Louisiana required the retention of the sugar bounty. The sugar trust thrived under the Republican tariff. It remained to be seen if it would thrive under this.

He deplored the income tax feature but must recognize the earnestness of colleagues who favored trying it and letting the people decide. Mr. Gorman was applauded from the galleries and congratulated by the Democrats at the close of his speech.

TEST VOTE IS TAKEN.

To test the sense of the Democratic majority and see if the pending tariff bill was the bill which they intended to pass, Mr. Teller moved to lay the bill on the table. The motion was defeated on strict party lines, 28 to 38. Hill voted against the motion with the Democrats. The vote in detail on Teller's motion to lay the tariff bill on the table was as follows:

Yeas—Aldrich, Allison, Cameron, Chandler, Davis, Dolph, Dubois, Frye, Gallinger, Hall, Hansbrough, Hawley, Higgins, Hoar, Lodge, McMillan, Mansfield, Mitchell (Ore.), Morrill, Patton, Pettigrew, Platt, Power, Quay, Sherman, Shoup, Squire, Teller.—28.

Nays—Allen, Bate, Berry, Blackburn, Blanchard, Butler, Caffery, Camden, Cockrell, Coke, Daniel, Faulkner, George, Gibson, Gordon, Gorman, Gray, Harris, Hill, Hunton, Irby, Jarvis, Jones (Ark.), Kyle, Lindsay, Martin, Mills, Morgan, Murphy, Palmer, Pasco, Pepper, Pugh, Ransom, Smith, Voorhees, Walsh, White.—38.

Pairs were as follows—Democrats being given first—Brice and Wolcott, Call and Proctor, Mitchell (Wis.) and Carey, McPherson and Cullom, McLaurin and Dixon, Velas and Jones (Nev.), Roach and Perkins, Turpie and Wilson, Vest and Washburn, Stewart (Pop. Nev.) was absent and unpaired.

Mr. Aldrich then took the floor in reply to Mr. Gorman. He expressed regret that the Maryland senator had not gone more into detail in review of the history of the bill. Since May 7 the Republicans had been trying to ascertain the principle underlying this bill and now for the first time learned from Mr. Gorman that a bill was to be made discriminating in favor of American labor and substituting President Cleveland's letter of acceptance of 1892, as interpreted by Mr. Gorman, for the Chicago platform of 1892.

The rates fixed today were as follows: Railway bars, T rails, etc., 7-30 cent per pound; black taggers iron between 10 and 30 wire gauge, 7-10 cent per pound; between 20 and 25 wire gauge, 8-10 cent; thinner than 25 wire gauge, 1-10 cent per pound; iron and steel plates coated with zinc or other metals except tin or terne plates, 1/4 cent more than the rates in the preceding paragraph; sheet iron or steel polished, 1/4 cent per pound.

At 5:30 the senate went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

TAYLOR GETS HIS JOB.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Charles H. J. Taylor, the colored Kansas man over whose confirmation to be recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia there has been a lively row in the senate, was confirmed at today's executive session, the vote standing 34 to 15. No speeches were made except a few remarks by Hill to the effect that the Democratic platform on the subject of home rule should be observed.

The senate also confirmed the nomination of Charles E. Johnson to be postmaster at Portwater, Mich.

Representative Baker (Kan.) introduced a resolution to appoint Sidney G. Cook of Harrington, Kan., a member of the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

BLAMES A DEAD MAN.

Buttz Says Harris Offered $1,000 to Learn How Populists Stood.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—C. W. Buttz, accused of attempting to bribe senators to vote against the tariff bill, was before the investigating committee today. He gave the committee the name of E. E. Holman, a claim attorney of this city, as one who could throw light upon the whole transaction so far as he (Buttz) was concerned. Holman was summoned and his testimony furnished the key to Buttz's explanation of his course in the whole transaction.

When he emerged from the committee room Holman said in regard to the proceedings there: "I can say nothing but the story that I was the principal in the bribery affair is without foundation. It was through pure accident that I chanced to know anything of the matter and it came about through my happening to be in the office of Major Harris one day when Buttz came in. Harris was a lobbyist and the talk drifted to the tariff."

"I think I know," said Major Harris, "where I could make $25,000 or $30,000 a year how the Populist senators would vote on the tariff bill." Then turning to Buttz he remarked, "You are just the man to learn that fact and I will give you $1,000 to find out for me. I heard this conversation and I suppose that is the reason why I was summoned. I had no connection with the attempt at bribery or lobbying on this bill."

Holman also said that Harris, who made the proposition to Buttz, died on the 11th of last April and he (Holman) was the only witness to this conversation between Harris and Buttz.

Buttz's testimony was devoted largely to an explanation of his absence from the city yesterday. He denied again that he had made any direct proposition to bribe Senator Kyle and stated that his only purpose in approaching him was to learn how he would vote.

Senator Gray said he knew no other witnesses to call and that a report would be prepared as soon as possible and submitted to the senate.

DUTIES ARE LOWER.

Senate Reduces Them from McKinley Law Except on Sugar.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The treasury experts have completed the calculation of equivalent ad valorem duties under the McKinley act, the senate compromise tariff bill and the house bill. It shows, taking everything in the bill, that the McKinley law averaged 49.58 per cent, the senate bill 36.79 per cent and the house bill 35.53 per cent. The percentages on some of the leading articles, in the order above named, range as follows:

Metals and manufactures of—58.43—34.26—35.06.
Wood and manufactures of—32.66—22.82—29.94.
Sugar—14.55—30.59—28.43.
Tobacco and manufactures of 117.82—105.95—91.58.

Agricultural products and provisions—33.21—23.62—21.58.
Spirits, wines and other beverages—69.90—58.95—60.79.
Cotton manufactures—55.25—40.92—38.45.
Wool and manufactures of—98.62—41.13—39.75.

DEMOCRATIC FOOLISHNESS.

"STATESMAN" ENLOE WANTS IT ABOLISHED.

Chairman De Forest Believes the President Will Veto the Bill if This Folly Prevails.

MARCHING TO THE REAR.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Democratic onslaught on the civil service commission which started yesterday in committee of the whole was resumed today. Several times during the day the question was disposed of only to break out a moment later in another place.

The appropriation for the commissioners and clerks of the civil service bureau having been stricken out yesterday, the next paragraph, providing for the transfer to the civil service commission of clerks from the departments, was stricken from the bill today.

The house refused to strike out, however, the appropriation of $6,000 for the traveling expenses of civil service examiners.

Another amendment made to the bill gives the secretary of the treasury discretion in the temporary appointment of clerks to wind up the accounts of divisions proposed to be abolished instead of taking them from the classified service.

Prior to going into committee of the whole the house passed the senate bill amending the act to provide for the sale of the remainder of the reservation of the Otoe and Missouri Indians in Nebraska and Kansas. The house adjourned at 5:05 after getting half way through the legislative bill.

MAY STRIKE A VETO.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Chairman De Forest (Dem.) of the civil service committee of the house says: "I am not surprised at the vote to cut off the appropriations for the civil service commission. I have noticed a strong tendency that way for some time. It is probable the allowance for the commission will be cut off on the yeas and may vote yet to be taken. I doubt, however, if the senate will agree thus to cripple the commission. If it does I do not believe the president will sign the legislative bill, although it will be a perplexing problem to have to veto the entire appropriation bill for paying public officers in order to save this one commission."

Representative Enloe (Dem.) has introduced a bill to repeal the civil service act.

The action of the house in refusing to appropriate money for the three civil service commissioners by no means deprives Messrs. Proctor, Lyman and Roosevelt of their positions, even if it is followed by the senate. In the act creating the commission it is stipulated that there shall be three commissioners at certain fixed salaries and this act still remains in force. It seems the intention of certain house Democrats to make the act ineffective but the mere failure to appropriate money does not accomplish that end.

Mr. Sayers, chairman of the appropriation committee, says the commissioners could appeal to the court of claims for the salaries fixed by law should congress fail to provide the money for expenses in carrying on their work. For this reason Mr. Enloe (Dem.) introduced his resolution to abolish the commission by repealing the act establishing it.

COURT MARTIAL OF MANEY.

Council Says Acquittal in Civil Court Bars Present Proceedings.

ST. PAUL, May 23.—The court martial of Lieutenant Maney on charges growing out of the killing of Captain Hedberg at Fort Sheridan, Chicago, began this morning at Fort Snelling. Colonel Mason, commanding Fort Snelling, is president of the court and twelve other well-known officers compose the court. There are several charges, all summed up in the general charge, "conduct prejudicial to discipline." The counsel for Maney argued that his client's acquittal in the civil court at Chicago was a bar to the present trial.

MAXWELL CANNOT TESTIFY.

OMAHA, May 23.—Lieutenant Marcus Maxwell, wanted as witness in the Maney court martial at Fort Snelling, is under arrest at Fort Omaha by order of the secretary of war on charge of duplicating his pay accounts, with instruction not to allow him to go to Fort Snelling till after his own trial. The court martial has convened and is waiting the arrival of affidavits.

The secretary's report shows that during the past year 1,111 missionaries have been under appointment, the largest number ever reported. HAD NO RELATIVES HERE.

So He Made Negaunee's German Aid Society His Legatee.

HOW LANDLORD SEAS MADE PEACE WITH HIS BOARDERS.

Contemplated Street Improvements—Of Interest to Teachers—Father Langner Leaves Today.

BENEFIT FOR OUR AID SOCIETY.

Charles Warner died yesterday morning at 7 o'clock at the home of Erick Pelto, on Tobin street. He had been ill only three weeks. The cause of his death was dropsy. Mr. Warner was well known in Negaunee and though he has not a single relative in the city, nor yet in this country, so far as is known by anyone here, he had many friends who mourn his demise.

A few days before death claimed him Mr. Warner made a will, leaving his farm near Negaunee, with all the stock thereon and other property of more or less value, to the local German Aid society, of which he was a member. In this order his life was insured for something like $400. This amount will also be turned over to the society. During his illness he was nursed by the members of the lodge and their services and kindness were so appreciated by the dying man that he concluded to reward them by leaving the society his earthly belongings.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. John's Episcopal church. Rev. Robert Wood, the pastor, will conduct the services.

For the Teachers.

The following, from the general school laws of Michigan, relative to third grade certificates, is of interest to teachers here, as the school board has adopted a resolution in accordance with its provisions:

The certificates of the third grade shall be divided into two classes, known as A and B. Third grade certificates of class A shall be granted only to persons who have taught successfully and continuously for at least three years next preceding the examination in primary departments of graded schools. And the certificates of this class shall entitle the holder to teach in primary departments of graded schools only. Third grade certificates of class B shall be granted to persons who have taught in any school of the country in which it shall be granted for one year; but no more than three certificates of this class shall be granted to the same person. Provided, that the county commissioner shall have power, upon personal examination satisfactory to himself or herself, to grant certificates which shall license the holder to teach in a specified district for which it shall be granted, but such certificate shall not continue in force beyond the time of the next public examination and in no case shall a second special certificate be granted to the same person and it shall not in any way exempt the teacher from a full examination.

Gave Them the Slip.

It is said that several of the Breitung House boarders walked in almost an inch of rice on the floor of the parlors and in the corridor of the hotel Tuesday evening before they tumbled to what had transpired during the afternoon. The boys were all led to believe that the happy nuptial event was to take place the following day, consequently the bride and groom had departed for their home before they knew of the wedding. Mr. Seass took the blame all on his own shoulders and when confronted by the boarders he simply threw open his cigar case and told them to help themselves. The first time Mr. Redfern comes to town it is safe to say his friends will more than "smile on him."

Drives to Be Improved.

Street Commissioner Harrington will begin laying gravel on Main and Cass streets in a few days. These are the most important residence streets in the city and both are excellent summer drives. Main street leads to the cemetery and there is no finer thoroughfare in the country than this. There are handsome shade trees on either side of the street and it is much admired for its beauty.

It is Mr. Harrington's intention to also do some needed work on Iron street. The condition of the street near the railroad crossing is not quite satisfactory and this, as well as all other defective spots, will be looked after.

Leaves Today.

Rev. Langner, pastor of St. Paul's church, will leave for New York this morning. On Tuesday a committee of priests from the copper country called on him and bade him goodbye, but not until they had left him another well-filled purse as a token of their regard. Rev. Langner is one of the oldest priests in the upper peninsula. He has been in this region nearly twenty-five years. He will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination at his old home in his native country across the water.

LOCAL LAOCINIUS.

Clark Kirkpatrick was in from Palmer yesterday. T. J. Atkinson of Atkinson, Mich., is here visiting his father-in-law, James F. Foley.

L. S. Richards, a veterinary dental surgeon of Oshkosh, Wis., is at Sharon's livery barn. Casper Kratz, the smallest man in Marquette county, is the happy father of a baby girl.

There was real sunshine here for a short time yesterday afternoon, the first in ten days. Frank Rockwell left for Atkinson yesterday afternoon. He was here attending the Redfern-Seass nuptials.

A. O. Jopling of Marquette was in Negaunee visiting Austin Farrel, consulting engineer of the Iron-Cliffs company, yesterday.

Peter Bessola, who was injured at the Calumet & Hecla mine a few days ago, was well known to his countrymen in Negaunee. He lived here for several years prior to his removal to Calumet. While here he worked at the Queen mine.

John R. David, conductor on the South Shore line between Sault Ste. Marie and Soo Junction, was in the city visiting relatives yesterday.

There will be a social dance at Paralla's hall tonight. It will be given by the young folks. The price of tickets will be twenty-five cents per couple.

T. Kieren of Mexico, formerly of Negaunee, is in the city visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Kieren is now a conductor on a railroad in Mexico. A few weeks ago he received slight injuries and has not been on duty since. He will resume his run when he returns to Mexico.

THE LAW AND THE DOG.

Two Interesting Decisions of Questions in Massachusetts Courts.

If one interferes with two dogs that are fighting and is bitten by one of them he cannot recover damages unless he shows that he was in the exercise of due care. The full bench of the supreme court lately so held, according to the Boston Transcript, in the case of Artemus Hodgson against Charles H. Hodgson and William T. Tapley. The three parties live in Dedham. The plaintiff was out riding, accompanied by his two dogs. A shepherd dog owned by the defendant followed the carriage and got into a fight with one of the plaintiff's dogs. He went up to the dogs and seized the defendant's dog, when it turned on him and bit his hand. The suit was brought under public statutes, chapter 102, section 95, and the plaintiff claimed he was not obliged to prove at the trial that he was in the exercise of due care. The court holds that he was and says: "In the case at bar the plaintiff voluntarily submitted himself to danger and we have no doubt that the ruling of the court below was right."

Another dog-bite case to call for an expounding of the law is that of Jesse O. Boulester, of Rockville, against Charles W. Parsons, of Walpole. The bite in this case was inflicted upon a horse, which died in consequence and the plaintiff sued for his loss. The plaintiff's brother was driving an express wagon, drawn by a pair of horses, along a country road; and in the rear of this wagon was another horse attached to a single wagon. The defendant's dog ran out of his master's yard and bit the horse attached to the single vehicle.

The defendant contended it was negligence on the part of the plaintiff to lead a horse harnessed in a wagon behind as was this one, and thereupon the plaintiff requested the court to instruct the jury in substance as follows: "A man has a right to lead a horse in the way and manner described, and the mere fact that he was leading a horse is not such evidence of negligence as would preclude the plaintiff from recovering in this action for the bite of the dog." The judge at the trial refused so to rule, and submitted the question to the jury whether the method of traveling adopted was negligent and was such as to induce an attack by the dog. The jury found for the defendant, and to the refusal of the court to rule as above the plaintiff excepted.

The full court sustains the plaintiff's exceptions and says: "We are of opinion that the ruling requested should have been given in substance. While the doctrine of contributing negligence has been often said to apply to an action on the public statutes, chapter 102, section 95, and we have no doubt it does apply where the plaintiff incites or provokes a dog, and it may be in other cases, the doctrine has no application to the case at bar. The leading of a horse behind a wagon was simply a condition and not in any sense a contributing cause of the injury. * * * To hold that the question whether leading a horse behind a wagon should be submitted to the jury as evidence of negligence on the part of the plaintiff in inducing an attack by a dog, would render it necessary to submit to the jury the question whether or not the color of the horse or of the wagon, or of the clothes of the driver might have had an effect on the dog. The law does not pay this respect to the characteristics or prejudices of dogs."

NATURE'S PYROTECHNICS.

The West Indies Is the Place to See Them at Their Best.

The phenomenon known as lightning, followed by a rolling, reverberating report, recognized as thunder, is common to a wide zone of the earth, but it is not generally known that there are localities where the vivid flashes and the deafening peals are incessant. The most notable of these continuous lightning districts, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch, is on the eastern coast of the island of San Domingo, a leading member of the group of the West Indies. It is not meant that the lightning is here continuous the year round, but that, with the commencement of the rainy season, comes this zigzag feature of electric illumination, which is then continuous day and night for weeks. The storm center is not continuously local, but shifts over a considerable area, and, as thunder is seldom heard over a greater distance than eight miles, and the lightning in the night will illuminate so as to be seen thirty miles, there may be days in some localities where the twinkling of the sky is a continuous succession while the rolling reports are absent. Then again come days and nights when the electric artillery is piercing in its detonations; and especially is this the case when two separate local cloud centers, join, as it were, in an electric duel, and, as sometimes occurs, a third participant appears to add to the elemental warfare. Then there is a blazing sky with blinding vividness and stunning peals that seem to pin the listener to the earth. Long before the echoes can die away come others, until the auricular mechanism seems hammered into chaos.

THE MARIPOSA "WHALE."

Some Great Exploits of a Giant California Hunter.

His Fame to Be Perpetuated by a Monument—Stronger Than Sandow and More Dextrous Than Corbett.

Steps are being taken in Fresno to erect a monument to Asberry Willis, the famed Mariposa giant, who used to whip bears single-handed and who could lift more than Sandow, and was altogether more formidable in his way than Corbett.

He was the most famous of all California's strong men, and was probably the most phenomenal man in his successes as a hunter ever known on the Pacific coast. Asberry died over a dozen years ago, and his body lies in a rocky defile near the edge of King's Canyon. The determination on the part of some California pioneers to build a monument to his memory has caused many remarkable stories of his prowess to be related. His phenomenal strength, coupled with his exploits in the Sierras, are fresh in the minds of the Argonauts.

Asberry was born in Mariposa county, and at the age of seventeen years stood six feet four inches in his stocking feet, and was at once entitled to and received the sobriquet of the "Butterfly Whale." The word "butterfly" was the translation of Mariposa, which in the Spanish means butterfly. The name was originally bestowed to the country because of the very large number of curious butterflies there. The "Whale" was exceedingly fond of adventure in the wild mountains about him. He was of fine physique, proportionately built, and with eyes as sharp as an eagle's. His hair and beard were as black as a raven's wing, and he always wore quantities of both.

This man was always accompanied by two companions, whom he designated as "Old Hell-in-the-Brush" and "Heart Deep." The former was a magnificent London twist rifle-bore gun, which carried an ounce ball. It weighed eighteen pounds, and was an old-fashioned muzzle loader, but never in any way went back on the owner. It was known to him by the "Butterfly Whale." "Heart Deep" was a huge double-edged steel dirk weighing eleven pounds, which the "Whale" wielded as easily as the average man would a penknife.

On one occasion, while on a hunting trip on the south fork of King's river, he came to a meadow and concluded to fence off a little of it for the use of his mustangs. He and the single companion with him began felling the trees. By some misadventure one of the trees fell in a different direction from what was expected, and caught the friend of the giant, crushing him to the earth. It had been a very lofty tree, was two feet thick, where it caught the unfortunate man, and was almost as heavy as lead. But the "Whale" was equal to the emergency. Concentrating all his giant strength, he lifted the trunk from the crushed and bleeding form. The man soon died of his injuries, but his last hours were much easier by reason of the feat of his giant friend. Many other feats of strength were performed by him at different times. His lifting power was nine times his own weight, or eighteen hundred pounds.

One of his most phenomenal feats of strength, combined with his great presence of mind in time of danger, was illustrated while he was on the middle fork of King's river prospecting for gold. Just before dusk one evening he espied a six-months-old grizzly, weighing fully two hundred pounds, on a shelving ledge of rock asleep. The "Whale" said he would capture the beautiful thing alive, and began to steal up on it. His companion, Lewis, advised him that he had better stop it, but the "Whale" said he would enjoy the fun. At this Lewis climbed a tree to be out of any possible scrimmage. The giant advanced cautiously up to the edge of the ledge and grasped the young grizzly by his hind feet. The bear woke, was astonished, and for the first time in its life summoned all its young strength in a desperate battle. It chanced that the edge of the bowlder on which the "Whale" stood was sloping, and he could not get a firm foothold. A fearful struggle ensued, and at length both bear and man rolled off into the copse of yerbabuena and fern. The brute was powerful and set up a yelling. This called the mother, a huge grizzly, only a few rods away, from the brush. She came twenty feet at a bound, growling terribly, and with eyes blazing like fire. Lewis, from his perch in the tree, tried to shoot her and fired several times. In rolling over with the bear the "Whale" had come up on top. He realized immediately his precarious position, and, grabbing the cub by its heels, swung it with prodigious force, by a powerful swing of his great arms, against the giant grizzly. Its head struck the fiery brute square in the mouth, and his bruised and bleeding form dropped from his back. Quicker than it would be possible to tell it the "Whale" jumped to the fore and buried the eleven pounds of steel of "Heart Deep" in the vitals of the old bear, killing her immediately. Lewis clambered down from his tree and looked in vain for marks of his bullets. He had not hit the bear at all. "Heart Deep" alone had done the work.

The giant Mariposa only met one enemy to which he was forced to succumb. Mountain fever at last seized his powerful frame, his mind departed, and soon the reaper wrapped his thick, mysterious mantle of eternity about him. On the left bank of the deep and somber King river canyon beneath a few feet of granite soil and the shade of a wide-spreading juniper, wrapped in his hunting garb, unwept, uncomplained and unsung, except in local tradition, lies the hero of Mariposa, and above his grave is only this inscription:
