CRUSHED UNDER A TRAIN.

Five Bodies Found Buried Under the Wreck of a Freight Train.

EXPRESS TRAIN DELIBERATELY WRECKED IN INDIANA.

Pullman Sleepers Loaded With Passengers Escape by a Miracle and Only Two Persons Killed.

FOUND BY THE WRECKING CREW.
 WOODSTOCK, Ill., Sept. 30.—Early this morning a freight train bound for Chicago on the Chicago & Northwestern road was wrecked at Grover's Crossing, about one mile west of here. A car jumped its trucks and landed on its side, derailing several other cars. The engine immediately came to this place for assistance and when the wrecking crew reached the spot the voice of a man was heard calling for help. His hand protruded from beneath the debris. The car under which he lay was loaded with green planks and the lumber was removed as rapidly as possible, when five dead bodies were discovered besides a man seriously injured and a boy badly shaken up. The dead are:

BERT LITTLE, Freeport, Ills.
TYRELL DAVIS, Mount Morris, Ill.
UNKNOWN BOY, Lincoln, Neb.
UNKNOWN BOY, residence unknown.
UNKNOWN MAN, said to be known as "Milwaukee Eddie."
 The injured are:
JOSEPH GRADY, Fall River, Mass., leg broken, back injured and left wrist chewed by one of the boys in his death struggle who was pinned against Brady by the lumber.
SAM NEWMAN, twelve years old, Freeport, Ills.
 Newman and two little Freeport lads thirteen years old ran away from home a month ago and were stealing a ride on the train.

THEY ESCAPED LUCKILY.

Car Split into Kindling Wood but Passengers Were Unhurt.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 30.—Train No. 42 on the Wabash railroad was wrecked this morning at Maumee, a small town twelve miles south. The accident was the result of a well-laid plan to ditch the entire train. Happily the heavy Pullmans miraculously kept the track and the mail and baggage cars, though badly wrecked, did not contain any victims. The killed are:

F. N. SMITH, engineer, Toledo.
A. H. DAY, fireman, Toledo, fatally injured.
 The slightly injured are:
CHARLES HOLLAND, Toledo.
J. J. PROVOST, Toledo.
J. W. KRAMER, Disko, Ind.
 The last three were small clerks who were more or less bruised but not seriously. The wreck was planned to occur at the west end of a long siding just beyond Maumee station. The track at the lower part of the switch target was removed and the switch partly thrown. The target indicated a clear track but as soon as the engine struck the switch it leaped into the air and fell toward the ditch and turned completely over. The trucks of the mail cars followed the engine but the cars themselves went in the opposite direction. Under them were found later the dead body of Engineer Smith and Fireman Day, the latter suffering from a fractured skull, which will prove fatal.

At the time of the accident the train was running at regular speed and it is considered a miracle that more lives were not lost. The postal cars were torn entirely from the tracks and were laying side by side. Express and baggage cars were literally reduced to splinters, yet the occupants escaped unhurt. There were several passengers in the combination smoker which was wrecked beyond repair yet not a scratch could be shown by any of them. The passengers in the Pullman were only made aware of the accident by the severe jolting which they experienced. Wrecking trains from Toledo and Fort Wayne, Ind., were immediately sent to the scene and the main track closed for travel for the evening.

ENTOMBED FIFTY-FOUR HOURS.

Four Pennsylvania Coal Miners Rescued From Death.

CARBONDALE, Sept. 30.—John J. Fanning, William B. Mitchell, George Barney and Andrew Klashesky, four miners entombed in the slope of the Northwest Coal company Thursday, were rescued at a late hour last night all alive and well and do not seem much the worse for their long imprisonment. As soon as an opening was made refreshments were passed through to the prisoners and their hunger and thirst was satisfied before they reached the surface. The men went without light and food for fifty-four hours. They procured water from a miniature well they dug in the cell. In consequence of having been so long in darkness Fanning, when taken out of the shaft was unable to see a lamp held two feet away from him. None of the men could remember whether or not they had slept. There was great rejoicing when the men were brought to the surface and escorted to their homes.

KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

Murder Supposed to Have Been Done by Discharged Workmen.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 30.—Joseph Gestle, a well-to-do local stone contractor, was found on an outlying street slowly bleeding to death. When he was accidentally stumbled over by a boy all the wounded man could say was, "They said they would kill me and they have nearly done it." Gestle, who holds several building contracts in the SALE OF POLICE PROTECTION.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Sensational testimony has been brought out in connection with the war of the Civic federation on gamblers and gambling in Chicago. Evidence has been submitted that Mayor John P. Hopkins has accepted money from keepers of gambling houses in exchange for police protection of gaming resorts. Two attempts, it is also shown today, have been made to assassinate the judge before whom the gambling cases are brought and from whom the gambling fraternity knows it can expect no mercy when a jury pronounces them guilty.

It is said another body than the grand jury and the civic federation will explode a big bomb in the anti-gambling agitation. The Trade and Labor assembly, it is reported, is to start a crusade against high-toned gambling. The board of trade, it is said, is to be attacked and Washington park race track is also a place where rich people bet their money. Club waiters, it is claimed, will reveal secrets, and card games on Michigan boulevard as well as on Clark street will be given publicity. During the investigation today Detective Matt Pinkerton swore that he had positive evidence showing that Mayor Hopkins had received money from the gamblers. Mr. Pinkerton said the money was given by the gamblers with the understanding that they were not to be interfered with. The matter was not gone into thoroughly, but will be made the subject of further investigation.

WERE KILLED AND ROBBED.

Old Vets Draw Pensions and Go on a Spree.

DAYTON, O., Sept. 30.—Friday was pension day at the Soldiers' Home and the veterans were paid $150,000. A limited number of them visited dives in the vicinity of the institution Saturday and were robbed. This morning two old soldiers were found robbed and murdered, their bodies lying in the public road and their pockets turned inside out. Their names were Adolphus Cargan Cob, Cornell's legion of Maryland, and John Barrett of the navy. The city police and detectives have fifty suspects locked up. A number of veterans are still missing from the home but will turn up all right.

NEW TREATY RATIFIED.

China and United States Complete Negotiations on Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Notification has been given to the government in an informal way of a ratification by the Chinese government of a new treaty between the United States and China which was negotiated by Secretary of State Gresham and the Chinese minister, Yang Yu, and ratified by the senate on the part of the United States. Only the formal exchange of ratifications between the department of state and the minister is to be transacted to make the treaty a law governing the relations of the two powers and this ceremony will doubtless take place within a month.

Chinese Take Advantage of Geary Law to Go Home.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 30.—Since the enactment of the Geary law many Chinese have gone to Arizona from Mexico for the purpose of securing transportation to their native land at the expense of the United States government. The exclusion law provides that in the discretion of the court the Chinese found unlawfully in the United States may be imprisoned at hard labor for not more than one year and then deported. It is likely that hereafter the Chinese convicted on this charge will be given the full benefit of the law.

GENERAL A. M. WEST DEAD.

Was Candidate for Vice President on Greenback Ticket.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 30.—General A. M. West, candidate for vice president on the Greenback labor ticket with Benjamin F. Butler, died at Holly Springs, Miss., today. General West was the first president of the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans railway (now Illinois Central) and was the pioneer railroad builder in the south.

TWO MORE BODIES FOUND.

Victims of Forest Fires Discovered Near Hinckley.

HINCKLEY, Minn., Sept. 30.—Two bodies were found by the people today. One was found in a marsh north of town. A breast pin and other articles showed where the woman fell. Tiny beads and the remains of a small body told of a baby's death west of the village near Paulson's residence. Until a hundred more are found the full story of the great Hinckley fire will never be told.

ACCEPTS THE CHALLENGE.

Nebraska's Senatorial Candidates Will Have a Joint Debate.

OMAHA, Sept. 30.—Hon. John M. Thurston accepted the challenge of Congressman W. J. Bryan to a joint debate in Nebraska. Both are candidates for the United States senate. Bryan is for silver and Thurston is opposed and the debate will be along this line.

Prominent Educator Dead.

OLIVET, Mich., Sept. 30.—Joseph Estabrook, principal of the normal department of Olivet college, died today of atrophy of the liver. Professor Estabrook was one of the most prominent educators in Michigan.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Sensational testimony has been brought out in connection with the war of the Civic federation on gamblers and gambling in Chicago. Evidence has been submitted that Mayor John P. Two attempts, it is also shown today, have been made to assassinate the judge before whom the gambling cases are brought and from whom the gambling fraternity knows it can expect no mercy when a jury pronounces them guilty.

Mr. Pinkerton said the money was given by the gamblers with the understanding that they were not to be interfered with. The matter was not gone into thoroughly, but will be made the subject of further investigation.

It was reported that not only two but several attempts have recently been made on the life of Judge Brentano, who in his judicial capacity has ordered the destruction of paraphernalia taken in raids upon gambling halls. In one instance, it is said, he was fired upon in his bedchamber. The bullets came from across the way. There is no clue to the would-be assassin. The grand jury returned its final report today, finding twenty indictments against owners of property used for gambling rooms. Several prominent people were among those indicted, among these J. Irving Pierce, proprietor of the Sherman House; Owen F. Aldis, the well-known capitalist, and James R. Todd, a wealthy real estate dealer. The grand jury will be reconvened and the investigation carried on backed by the Civic federation. In addition to the property owners about fifty men were indicted, charged with keeping gambling houses. Among those indicted was George V. Hankins, owner of the new Harlem race track and his business partner, William Wightman.

TIN-PLATE PLANTS CLOSE.

Manufacturers and Workers Disagree on Subject of Wages.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—Last night all the tin-plate plants in the country were closed down, and there is no indication as to when they will again be put in operation. There is a wide difference between the manufacturers and workers on the subject of wages, and the latter insist that notwithstanding the reduction of the duty the wages agreed upon in June can be paid the balance of the scale year. Two important reasons are given for the action taken by the Manufacturers' association. One is that the closing of the factories is being done to discourage prospective builders of tin-plate plants. There are at least ten in course of erection in the United States, while manufacturers of tin-plate machinery are enlarging their works. It was decided to put up some of these factories after it was known that the cut in the duty would be 1 cent per pound. Another reason given by the manufacturers is that under Secretary Carlisle's ruling 40,000,000 pounds of tin-plate now in bond can be put on the market on Monday by paying the new tariff of 1.2 cents per pound. This will fill all the demands for some time to come. On the other hand, the workmen assert that the shutdown is merely a scheme of the manufacturers to compel their employes to work for less wages.

BUILT FOR THE CHINESE.

Suspected China Owns New Warship Built in England.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—There is strong suspicion in certain circles here that the Chilean cruiser Blanco Encalada, which was completed on the Tyne this week will be turned over to a Chinese crew as soon as she reaches the high seas October 9. The Chinese steamship Chin Wo arrived at Liverpool yesterday with a very large number of Chinese on board. It is said these men are intended as a crew to the Chilean warship and the transfer will be carried out as suggested, unless the British authorities interfere.

IF MR. MARCUS PETERSON would write a book about the salary amendment frauds giving the facts as he knows them, instead of giving the public a work of fiction with the "frauds" as its subject and himself as one of the heroes, there would be more of a desire to purchase and peruse it. The people have had all of the kind of fiction Marcus dishes up that they have any appetite for.

MR. WILSON, putative sire of the tariff bill known by his name, (which didn't pass), is now abroad, enjoying with great gusto the prominence and popularity that his unfortunate legislative bantling gives him among the "blawsted furnurers." He was dined by a lot of his English admirers the other day, and improved to the utmost that opportunity to recommend himself to his hosts by saying unpatriotic things about his own country. Mr. Wilson is said to be a learned man and eloquent speaker, but he hasn't learned one thing that would be of service to him as a politician, and that is the wisdom of keeping his mouth shut when he has nothing sensible to say. He might get some valuable pointers in that particular from the representative from this district, who could go to England a score of times without making as much trouble for his party at home as Wilson did in the course of a single speech at the banquet given him by his British friends.

OUR PULLIST contemporary at Calumet, The Conglomerate (a most fitting name, by the way, for a Pullist organ), takes THE MINING JOURNAL to task for having accepted as of any value the report of the interstate commerce commission as to the feasibility and advisability of government ownership of railroads. The Conglomerate then proceeds to tear the report of the commission, which was rather against the proposition that the government should own and operate the railway lines, to pieces. In the course of its article it declares that "if the government doesn't own the railroads soon the railroads will own the government," and then points to the fact that "two hundred and twenty-five railroads of this country are run by United States courts today" as evidence that government operation of railroads is not so difficult a matter. As the roads being operated by receivers under direction of the courts are in the hands of the courts because of their insolvency, the fact cited by The Conglomerate would tend to show that there is not any immediate danger of the railways getting so rich out of their traffic that they will soon be able to "own the government." Government ownership of the roads may be a good thing, but THE MINING JOURNAL confesses that it has not gone deeply enough into a study of the question to be able to give an opinion of any value on it, but the preponderance of testimony seems to be against the wisdom of having Uncle Sam go into the railway business. He has a tolerably large contract on his hands now to govern this great republic and keep it in order, without embarking in lines of private enterprise. It may be, however, that the Populists are right on this point. If so they will be afforded an opportunity to get that issue before the people and set them right on it when others of more pressing importance are disposed of, but not until then.

THE ORE AND PIG IRON MARKET. We quote from the last number of the Iron Trade Review of Cleveland: Shipments of ore have been keeping up a fair pace of late, notwithstanding the firmness of freight at the figures last quoted. The week has shown that in spite of a continuing light movement of grain, tonnage is not plentiful and the surprise has been that boats have not been found as fast as wanted. The effect of the recent storm in delaying boats has been noticed in the past few days. Shippers are paying eighty-five cents from the head of the lake with Escanaba fifty cents and Marquette seventy cents. The aim of ore shippers is to get down as soon as possible what ore is to be moved, this season and vesselmen count on firm rates from this time out. A significant sale of the past week was one of 15,000 tons of ore of one of the best grades of Mesaba at fifteen cents advance over the figure at which the bulk of this mine's output was sold. We hear also of two sales of 10,000 tons each of non-Bessemer ores, one of them from a well known Marquette range mine. These indicate that furnacemen who have postponed buying as long as possible realize that to get the benefit of direct shipment from vessel to furnace purchases cannot longer be put off. The disagreement in views that generally precedes a run of buying is apparent, and the probabilities are that the next ten days will witness some good transactions. There are reports at Pittsburgh of offers below $11.25, delivered there, and one sale of 1,000 tons was made by a valley furnace at that figure the past week. A few valley furnaces are looking about with a view to placing their product, on the expiration of contracts now nearly discharged. The present rate of consumption would indicate that there will be no piling up of iron. The theory of furnacemen is that the lull of the past two weeks is due to the fact that leading steel works are receiving all the iron they need on their old contracts, and that it does not indicate any pronounced disparity between production and the requirements reasonably to be expected. What a furnace will do on deliveries through the year, with a firm offer of $10.45 at furnace, will develop, doubtless, within the coming week. The quality of coke received by furnaces for several weeks past has made the cost of production higher than usual, but there has been some improvement in the past week. Coke cost is a more complex calculation than usual, since some furnaces are getting shipments under two or three contracts, at prices ranging from ninety cents to $1.50. The market for foundry iron shows little change in prices; the prevailing tone is a trifle weaker. A like condition is noted as to mill iron.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW OF IT.

The Detroit Evening News editorially says of the congressional situation in this district created by Mr. Culver's retirement from the position of receiver of the land office and candidacy for congress in its issue of Saturday:

Rush Culver's resignation as receiver of the land office at Marquette is one of the few dramatic incidents which the campaign has developed up to date. He throws up his office to emphasize his belief in the enormous injustice inflicted by Hoke Smith, Mr. Culver's official superior, in a far-fetched construction of law for the benefit of a land monopoly and against the claims of homesteaders. Mr. Culver has been so long identified with the homesteaders' cause that his candidacy for congress, announced in connection with his resignation as receiver, will be followed with interest by every one who has given the land question in this state the study its importance warrants. The state as a whole is not concerned as to the identity of the individuals who own the land. The real point in the case is the desirability of splitting up, so far as may be possible under present conditions, the vast land possessions concentrated in the hands of a few and getting it into smaller holdings. It is to be regretted that Mr. Culver's candidacy is inaugurated under such inauspicious circumstances. The general Democratic spathy renders the outlook discouraging in so strong a Republican district as the Twelfth. His Republican rival is identified with most of the things to which Mr. Culver is opposed. With the issue thus distinctly drawn there might seem some little state concern in the retirement of a man who has during three terms as congressman shown little qualification for his job and who now relies on his barrel to not only elect him a fourth time, but to make him an illogical and rather preposterous candidate for the United States senate.

The harsh and unflattering allusion of The News to the senatorial aspirations of Mr. Stephenson may be taken as indicating that the latter's ambition to capture Patton's seat in the United States senate will not receive much encouragement from Senator McMillan. For The News is very close to the senior senator from this state, and is very careful not to cross his wishes in any way. Still, that paper might have refrained from characterizing Mr. Stephenson as "an illogical and rather preposterous" candidate for the senatorship that he is so eager to secure. That is too unkind. Mr. McMillan's afternoon organ at Detroit should bear in mind that the senator may need some votes himself when his case will come before the legislature next winter, and that its hard words for "Our Sam" will make him no friends among the latter's adherents in this district.

MR. CULVER'S CANDIDACY.

Our friend Griffey of the Neegaunee Herald seeks to connect the resignation of Mr. Culver as receiver of the land office here with the movement to make him the nominee for congress on the Democratic ticket in this district. In justice to Mr. Culver THE MINING JOURNAL feels constrained to explain that he announced that he would resign the receivership immediately upon learning of the decision of the secretary of the interior in the Amassa Dailey homestead case, and that his friends tried to dissuade him from taking that step so earnestly that he withheld his resignation for several days in deference to their wishes. But the longer he considered the matter the more he became convinced that he could not continue to hold office under Mr. Smith's administration of the interior department without justifying himself and bringing his sincerity under grave suspicion, as the settlers affected by the decision had been his clients for a long time prior to his appointment as receiver, and the Dailey case had been argued by him before the secretary as their attorney before he was made receiver of the land office at Marquette. If he would hold on to his office it would place him in an embarrassing position, as he would be open to the suspicion of having abandoned the fight for his homestead clients to obtain an office under the secretary whose decision knocked them out. There was really only one honorable and manly thing for him to do, and he did it of his own accord and against the urging of many of his warmest friends, uninfluenced by any ulterior motive.

The movement to put him in the field as a congressional candidate found its inspiration in his act in resigning the receivership, and sprang up after it had become generally known that he had determined to retire from his position as receiver. He is not seeking the nomination that it is now proposed to give him, and feels that to accept it will involve considerable of a sacrifice on his part, but he will take it and make the run if the candidate of his party for congress when it meets here Tuesday. There are some voters in this district who are just as anxious to have Rush Culver go to congress as the editor of The Iron Herald and some others are to have Sam Stephenson given a fourth term. Will not our amiable friend of The Iron Herald concede that they have a right to get him a nomination and vote for him if they so desire? Mr. Stephenson may be a very valuable representative for certain interests in the district, but there are many who believe that their interests would have a more loyal and efficient champion in Mr. Culver, and it is the privilege of these to elect him if they can.

A FRUITLESS ROBBERY.

The Thief Loses the Money He Had Stolen.

An Express Messenger Who Was Imprisoned Two Years Turns Out to be Innocent of the Crime.

"The robbery of the keg of gold that was shipped to French bankers from New York on the steamer La Touraine, and the loss of which was not discovered until the rest of the consignment reached its destination," said Henry T. Cranmer, of St. Louis, to a New York Recorder man recently, "reminds me of the loss of a money package once by the Wells-Fargo Express company on the Northern Pacific road. Between seven and eight thousand dollars in bills were sent by a depositor of Tom Cruse's banking house in Helena, Mont., to a correspondent in St. Louis. The package was placed in the express safe, together with other valuable bundles, and when Omaha was reached, where a transfer of the stuff was made, the parcel of bills was missing. An investigation resulted and the express messenger was arrested. He insisted that he was innocent and could not account for the loss. His guilt appeared to be so palpable that every means known outside of processes of the law was used in an attempt to make him make a confession, but without avail. He was sent to the penitentiary for two years, and protested his innocence as vehemently when he came out as he did when he went in. Seven or eight months after the messenger was released the Northern Pacific company decided to change the numerous small trestles along its main stem into culverts. A party of surveyors were making the preliminary measurement of such work and when the axeman was clearing away some underbrush at the side of a small creek one day, so the surveyor could operate his level, he picked up a miledward package that had evidently been lost from a passing train on the road. Without taking into consideration the express company's labels and seals, which even long exposure had not effaced from the bundle, the surveying party opened it, and there was the long-missing money that had been sent from Helena to St. Louis. The facts were reported, and another investigation was put on foot, with a view of relieving the express messenger from the suspicion that still clung to him. He was informed of the discovery of the money and requested to make some explanation of its loss. He still insisted that he had nothing to do with the loss of the package and knew nothing of it. He said that he had received the safe from the company in Helena and had kept it in the condition in which it was given to him until they reached Omaha. He remembered, however, that another Wells-Fargo man, who had been sent down the road from Helena to meet a car, was in the express car while it was running near the point where the package was discovered. This man had been promoted to quite a prominent position in one of the Wells-Fargo districts and was immediately charged with being responsible for the loss of the package. When pushed into a corner he confessed that he had used his knowledge of the combination of the safe and had stolen the package and thrown it out of the door of the car after opening the safe, and he naively remarked that he had spent six months looking for it without success. Only powerful friends prevented his prosecution and conviction. It may be said, however, that he did as far as he was financially able to reimburse the messenger who had suffered for his crime, and that the latter was given a better place than he had held before by the express company.

A WABBLING AXIS.

The Earth's Center Shifts Every Year Causes Climatic Changes.

We do not refer to the long-known shifting of the direction of the axis of the earth, which produces the so-called "Procession of the Equinoxes." This does not in the least affect the position of the pole upon the surface of the earth, while that which we have in mind is an actual traveling of the pole over the ground, and is due to a slight change of the position of the axis within the globe itself. This, of course, manifests itself by a minute change both in the latitude of observatories and in the direction of meridian lines. If the pole of the earth approach Berlin, the latitude of Berlin is necessarily increased and at the same time the latitude of Honolulu, on the other side of the earth, is correspondingly diminished. The fact that such a thing is really happening was first clearly brought out in 1880 in Germany, and ever since the subject has greatly interested the astronomical world. All recent latitude observations made by methods of precision confirm the fact, and within a few months Scoboloff has shown that the azimuthal observations upon the Pulkoda meridian marks between 1880 and 1887 tell the same story. The latest results of Chandler, based upon a very thorough discussion of several thousand observations made at seventeen different observatories, between 1840 and 1893, and combined with earlier series at Greenwich by Pond, between 1820 and 1830, and by Bradley about the middle of the last century, show that this month is unexpectedly regular. It seems to be made up of two superposed revolutions of the pole from west to east; one with a period of just a year, in a circle of about thirty feet in diameter, and the other in a circle of similar size, but with a period of 428 days. As a consequence of this combination of motions, the actual displacement varies greatly. Once in about seven years the two practically destroy each other; and the pole remains for a time nearly stationary (as in 1880), while at intermediate epochs (as in 1890), it describes a sort of circle fully sixty feet in diameter. It hardly need be said that a motion so slight becomes sensible only in observations of the last degree of precision, but its discovery has already explained certain important anomalies and apparent errors in work of that class. As regards the cause of this peculiar motion the theory is still more or less obscure. There can be little doubt, however, that the annual component is due, in part at least, as Lord Kelvin long ago suggested, to the course of the season—to the winter's deposit of snow and ice upon the northern continents and its later return to the ocean. As to the 428-day revolution this seems to be a veritable "wobble," such as is produced by striking a spinning top. The "blow" may perhaps consist in the annual disturbance just referred to; but the matter is not yet wholly clear.—Cosmopolitan.

THE SHOCK OF BIG GUNS.

Unpleasant Sensations Produced by Their Reports.

The man who has never been in close proximity to a one hundred-ton gun when it is fired can have little conception of the noise and vibration, said a retired naval officer to a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter. Partly by courtesy and partly by chance I was on the Thunderer at the siege of Alexandria some twelve or thirteen years ago. Two sets of advice were given me as to how to act when the big guns were fired. Old experienced seamen can stand the shock by raising on their toes the moment the word is given to fire. The majority of people, however, find it necessary, in order to preserve their ear drums from perforation, to lie down, resting most of the weight on their hands and toes. Even with this precaution the sensation is most unpleasant until one gets used to it. Even with the comparatively small guns in general use in our navy, the concussion on board a ship when a shot is fired is very annoying, but the enormous guns used so generally in European navies are a source of terrible danger to the crew as well as the enemy, and I doubt if they could possibly be used in a hand-to-hand encounter, useful as they are for destroying distant ports.

Germany's Pigeon Service.

Germany has for years possessed the most efficient pigeon service in Europe. At Strasburg there are six hundred birds, at Metz six hundred, at Thorn one thousand, and they are kept by the hundreds at other centers, such as Mainz, Cologne, Kiel and Danzig. The whole frontier is connected by pigeon post with the military headquarters and with towns in the interior. The service is supported by an appropriation of about nine thousand dollars a year. The practical use of the pigeon post was fully demonstrated at the siege of Paris in 1870. Since then it has become a recognized part of the military organization of all European countries except Great Britain. Russia has now on her Polish frontier alone three thousand birds, and appropriates yearly ten thousand dollars for pigeons. The French appropriation is twice as large.

TIPS FOR THE QUEEN.

They Are Called Perquisites, But She Gets Them Just the Same.

Queen Victoria gets more tips than any other functionary in Great Britain, and, what is more, she insists on getting her them. Of course they are not called tips. They are called perquisites, but it is all the same. An exacting, writing in the New York Tribune says that among the most curious of them is her right to every whole or sturgeon captured on the coast of the united kingdom and brought to land. Both of these perquisites date back to the days of the Norman kings and it appears that in the case of the whole the monsters were divided between the sovereign and his consort, the queen taking the head in order that herward might be replenished with the whalebone needed for the stiffening of her royal garments.

Another of the queen's backsheesh is a certain number of magnificent Cashmere shawls, which are dispatched to her every year from the kingdom of Cashmere. They vary in value, as a rule, from three hundred to twelve hundred dollars apiece and the queen is accustomed to present one of them as a wedding present to every young girl of the aristocracy or in whose future she is in any way interested. Every tailor holding a patent of "Purveyor to her Majesty," if he conforms to ancient tradition and usage, should present her with a silver needle each year. Another class of royal purveyors is called upon to present annually to her a table cloth, while from other sources she is entitled to an annual contribution of such varied tips as white doves, white hares, curried turkeys, scarlet hosiery, nightcaps, knives, laces and crossbows. Moreover, at the coronation the lord of the manor of Addington must present to the sovereign a "dish of pottage" composed of "almond milk, brown of capons, sugar, spices, chickens parpoiled and chopped." At the same ceremony the lord of the manor of Haydon is obliged by virtue of his tenure from the crown to present the monarch with a towel, the lord of the manor of Workshop giving the sovereign a "right-handed glove." These are only a few of the various backsheesh to which Queen Victoria is entitled by tradition and usage.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Sixteen Hungry Boys Filled with Pie in Dickens' Pieshop.

An exchange tells the following story of the pieshop in London before which Charles Dickens used to stand when, as a child, he trudged in a blacking factory. Every day, on the way to and from his work, he paused to receive the viands with his eyes, and sometimes he pressed his tongue to the window-pane, as if by so doing he got a taste of the good things which were "a near and yet so far." An American railroad man who admires Dickens hunted up his pieshop when in London in order to gratify his curiosity, and his sentiment. It proved to be a mere box of a place in a poor quarter of the city, but the original business was still carried on there. As the traveler peered into the shadowy interior, a voice was heard at his elbow: "Please, sir, will you buy me a weak pie?"

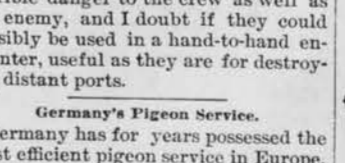

The owner of the voice was a small, bearded person, with whom a pie of veal, or anything else of a "hearty" nature, would have agreed right well. "How many boys do you think this shop will hold?" asked the American. "I dunno. About fifteen or sixteen. I should think." "Well, go and get fifteen boys, and bring them back here." "The boy studied the man's face for a moment, as if to make sure that he was in the enjoyment of his senses, and then with a yell hurried into a side street. Hardly a minute elapsed before he returned at the head of a procession of sixteen gamins, of assorted sizes, unanimous in appetite and hope. This ragged battalion assembled close behind its benefactor and followed him into the shop, where he announced that he was going to give all the boys all the pie they wanted. They wanted a great deal, as it proved; their capacity for "veal pie" was something marvelous. But their benefactor was as good as his word, and sixteen happy and satisfied boys left the shop singing his praise.

Ship Rats.

Every vessel that floats has as part of her company a family of rats. They travel the world over, on both steam and sailing craft, but seldom make more than one voyage on the bulk carriers, as the cargo causes among them a distemper which not only junes the lungs of the rats but also changes the color of their hair.

It Is His Pleasure.

To tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was troubled with neuralgia in my face and with dizziness and weakness of the eyes. I had tried many remedies, but nothing gave me any relief. I was told that I should try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I bought a bottle and used it for a few days, and I felt a great improvement. I used it for a week, and I was cured. I am now perfectly well and happy. I can now see and work as well as ever. I am now perfectly well and happy. I can now see and work as well as ever. I am now perfectly well and happy. I can now see and work as well as ever.

TOO MUCH TYPHOID. Calumet Health Authorities Might Investigate Causes With Considerable Advantage. NEW ADDITION PLATTED TO CALUMET VILLAGE. Plenty of Choice for Voters in This Fall's Election—Four Tickets in the Field.

CALUMET. Miss Martha Larson of the Calumet location died Saturday morning of typhoid fever and was buried Sunday. The number of cases of this disease here is entirely too large. There is a nigger in the fence somewhere in the sanitary arrangements. Typhoid fever is a disease of filth—not necessarily filthy habits on the part of the victim—but filth in the shape of polluted water, infected milk or vegetables, garbage and decaying vegetation, sewer gas and like abominations. The board of health could investigate the matter exhaustively to the benefit of the public.

The night shift gang of trammers went out Friday evening out of sympathy with the day shift men, who struck on account of the alleged harsh treatment and bad language of Shift Boss Edward Waters. There has been no disorder and there is every prospect that the trouble will be settled peacefully today. Bateman's forthcoming excursion to Huron county promises to be as largely attended as its predecessors. It is certainly wise for prospective purchasers of farms to look the ground over themselves before buying, and Mr. Bateman's taking all buyers or investigators to the place itself shows that he has no desire to sell lands the buyer knows nothing of.

Perry Mayo, candidate for lieutenant governor on the "middle of the road" ticket, spoke to a large meeting Friday night. Mr. Mayo is a hard-headed old granger from southern Michigan with considerably more horse sense in his cranium than the average Populist. Lost, strayed or stolen; one promising young free delivery system; was last heard of a year ago; is supposed to be in hiding in Washington. Liberal reward for information of whereabouts or return to Paul W. Grierson, Calumet.

Champ Kehoe and Ed Shepherd have arranged for a little go, to be pulled off within a week or so, for the championship of the adjacent locality and a purse of $400. Rev. C. H. Stephen Tobin and Miss Emma Jury were married Friday evening at the residence of the bride's parents. William John Thomas of this place and Miss May Davy of Dodgeville, Wis., were wedded Thursday evening at the residence of the groom's parents. Your hotel bill paid. (9-24-6d)

CALUMET VILLAGE. A forty-acre addition to Calumet Village will be platted in the near future and lots will soon be on the market. THE MINING JOURNAL in making the first announcement of this fact violates no confidence in stating that lots will be sold at very low figures, exceptionally good values, all things considered. People from the iron country who have seen lots a mile or more out of town in a place half the size of Calumet sold for two or three times the price asked for lots here under similar circumstances are at a loss to understand how the local soreheads figure out that the public is being swindled. Or do the local soreheads grunt simply because it is their nature to?

RED JACKET. A Prohibition county convention will be held at the opera house Saturday afternoon or evening of this week. The multiplicity of tickets in the field should enable every voter to make satisfactory choice of candidates this fall. The "isms" are all represented and the same old sterling patriots of the Republican and Democratic camps are once more imploring all to save the imperiled country by voting the straight county ticket, thus ensuring peace and prosperity to all concerned for two years more.

LAKE LINDEN. The Congregational Lake Superior association's fall meeting was held here Friday and Saturday. The clergymen of the district were all present and the meeting was enlivened by the attendance of many of the laity, both ladies and gentlemen participating in the exercises. The meeting was voted a decided success by all present.

"There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." At the Republican county convention at Red Jacket, Wednesday the chairman of the Lake Linden delegation had a ballot prepared for William Walls. Had it been cast he would have received enough votes to nominate. It would have gone into the teller's hat but for the Lake Linden candidate for the treasurership, who asked the home delegation to cast just that one more ballot for him, which was done. On the next ballot the Lake Linden vote did not cut much figure either way and Fremod got the plum.

PINK MINK JUSTICE. Stories from the Marsh Country Round about Winamac, Ind. Comfort A. Freemaen's Unique Manner of Disposing of His Cases—Some Stories That Are Told To-Day of the Verdicts Rendered.

When Pulaski county was first settled, in 1838, a class of Indian traders and stock thieves overran the county and terrorized the law-abiding pioneers till forbearance ceased to be a virtue with them, and they met in a mass convention and nominated and elected Comfort A. Freemaen their justice of the Peace. "Squire Freemaen," says a Chicago Tribune correspondent, possessed but a slight idea of what the state statutes contained, therefore his justice court was run upon the appearance and character of the charges preferred; as the "squire" termed it: "Common horse sense and general principles in evidence." He held his court under a cluster of plum trees that was thickly covered with grapevines. A stump of a tree he used as a table. The jury used a hewed log for their seats; the spectators used the most convenient spots on the ground. Early reminiscences, as told by the old settlers, say that in the early part of 1840 Wilhelm Restrux's cow wandered far away from her pasture field of water lilies and cattails and no trace of her whereabouts was to be found until the following spring, when a worthless character and land squatter by the name of McTurle had the cow in his possession and refused to give her up. Mr. Restrux replied the cow, and evidence during the trial was in favor of Mr. Restrux, and the court so decided. The justice of the peace, while in the act of entering his verdict upon his docket, overheard McTurle remarking: "Nothing been sed 'bout that calf." The court was astonished, and, walking up to him, seized him by the throat. "Say, you cow thief, give up that calf or I'll pound niggerheads out of you." The calf was given up.

Charles Blackstone, being charged with stealing a slab-sided, razor-back hog, the evidence was against him, and the court instructed his bailiff to apply fifty lashes to the convicted man's back. Upon adjournment of the court the bailiff went out to find a good ox gad, and during his absence the attorney for Blackstone filed a hearing for a new trial. The court agreed to hear the argument and adjourned for dinner. In the meantime the bailiff returned and escorted the prisoner into the timber and carried out the court's instructions, and Blackstone, not understanding a motion for a new trial was to be heard, entered not a word of protest against the whipping received and went back to the court, which was then in session. His attorney was pleading for a new trial. Blackstone did not understand this, and exclaimed: "Great snakes, squire, I have had one whaling!" The court was astonished, and said: "Yank that drunken cuss out of here and pound a bucket of grease out of him." His attorney protested, and the court threatened then to tar and feather the attorney if he "didn't shut up." In the meantime Mr. Blackstone received the second whipping, and was returned to the court. He found his attorney in a heated controversy with the court. Mr. Blackstone fell upon his knees and pleaded the court to make that lawyer "shut up" or he "would be hanged for that hog yet, and the wild fern would wave over his grave by the Pink Mink." The court awakened to the fact that something was wrong, and proceeded to kick the bailiff out of the room.

The partridge season opens today and the fowls will be abandoned temporarily for the bush and the shotgun. Some big bags of game and some bigger stories are looked for Wednesday.

A Wonderful Clock. It is a Veritable Marvel in Mechanical Execution. A most marvelous clock has been made by a Black Forest maker and sold for four thousand dollars. Besides doing everything that most clocks do in the matter of time and calendar, says the Jeweler's Weekly, it shows the time in Berlin, St. Petersburg, Madaira, Shanghai, Calcutta, Montreal, San Francisco, Melbourne and Greenwich. Every evening at eight a young man invites the company to vespers in an electrically illuminated chapel, where a young woman plays the "Maiden's Prayer."

On New Year's eve two trumpeters announce the flight of the old year and the advent of the new. In May a cuckoo comes out, in June a quail, in October a pheasant appears to be shot down by a typical British sportsman, who proceeds to bag his game. At daybreak the sun rises and some bells play a German air, entitled "Theobus, Awake." On the night of the full moon they play another air, entitled "Sweet and Tranquil Luna." There are other features too numerous to mention.

SENATE DISTRICT CONVENTION. A Democratic convention for the 31st senate district will be held at the North-western Hotel, in the city of Hancock, on Friday, the 5th day of October, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for state senator to be supported by the Democratic electors of the district in the coming election. The counties composing the district will be entitled to one delegate for each 300 votes, or moiety thereof, cast for governor in the last general election.

Yet to-day, in consequence of this trivial error in orthography, he is an honored citizen of the Pink Mink regions. Kelly and Lane became involved in a heated controversy over a "yaller hound," and Kelly had Lane arrested to keep the peace. "Squire Freemaen was in trouble how he should draw up the papers. After a thorough search a form was found in the statute under the head "Vagrant Act." The words appeared in brackets. (John Doe and Richard Roe.) The squire was in a quandry what to do, and called in his next best friend to help him out. His friend insisted that "William Kelly and George Lane" was proper, but the squire stuck to it that "John Doe and Richard Roe" was proper, and no argument would convince him otherwise, and his docket reads: "(John Doe and Richard Roe) are vagrants and shall be committed to jail until fines and costs are paid. Kelly vs. Lane paid their fines."

BOUGHT BY ENGLISHMEN.

Fifty Paper and Pulp Mills on Fox River Sold to English Syndicate.

TEN MILLION DOLLARS IS THE PRICE PAID.

Central Office to Be Located in Chicago Will Handle All Business for the Syndicate.

ARE NOW AFTER OTHER MILLS.

APPLETON, Wis., Sept. 30.—The greatest syndicate deal since the purchase of the American breweries by English capitalists has just been concluded and unless something unforeseen occurs all the paper and pulp mills on Fox river will pass into the hands of an English syndicate on April 1. It is learned from parties interested in the sale that every paper and pulp maker on Fox river, with two exceptions, has signed a contract giving options on all mills, machinery, water rights, leases and other properties. The option is good for six months from October 1. The two firms who have not yet signed have agreed to do so Monday. The reason for the delay is to gain time to complete schedules of the properties, which must be attached to the options when delivered to the syndicate in London.

The properties involved in the deal include twenty-nine paper and twenty-one pulp mills, situated at Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Combined Locks and Depere, along Fox river for a distance of twenty-five miles. The value of these plants is estimated at $10,000,000. The daily production when run to their normal capacity amounts to 1,300 miles of paper in a sheet seventy-six inches wide and 300 tons of pulp. The value of the product is about $50,000 daily. The terms of the options provide that the value of the plants be reckoned on the basis of the actual cost of mills and machinery, the present value of the water rights and leases and the earning capacity of the mills as shown by past business records. The payment for the properties is to be half cash and half in three-year notes to be secured by mortgages on the mills and power.

The deal has been worked up by Frank Butterworth of Chicago, acting as agent for an English syndicate, composed of some of the leading financiers of London. The project has been on foot several weeks. When first made public it met with considerable opposition. It was charged that Butterworth was acting entirely for himself; that he would get as many options as possible and then peddle them on the money market. Inquiry in England by interested parties exploded this theory and showed Butterworth to be acting for a thoroughly organized syndicate with unlimited backing. This fact established, the owners took hold of the project with full confidence and the deal has been pushed to success. The original plan provided for the control of all the plants in the state. It is believed that they, the Fox river plants, which comprise three-fourths of the industry have been secured, the plants of the Wisconsin river and other districts, valued at $5,000,000, will also sell.

Little change will be made in the management of the business under the new proprietors. The present active owners are to be retained as managers, as also are all heads of departments in the mechanical portion of the mills. The greatest change will be in the clerical departments. An office will be established at Chicago in which the business of all the mills will be transacted. An immense warehouse will also be established there from which all sales and shipments will be made. In this way the cost of marketing the product of the fifty mills will be reduced to a small fraction of the present cost.

ENFORCING EXCISE LAW.

New York Police Force Compel a Dry Sunday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It was an exceptionally dry Sunday in New York today. The saloons in every portion of the city were tightly closed. The streets were full of patrolmen and roundsmen in citizens clothing and district sergeants and roundsmen attached to the offices of inspectors were especially vigilant in making arrests overlooked by other members of the force. The total number of arrests for violation of the excise law for the twenty-four hours at midday were 240, by far the largest ever made in a single day.

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED.

Was Wanted to Testify for Her Husband in Court Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Ella C. Oldberg, wife of John G. Oldberg, disappeared from home Saturday morning and the detectives are unable to find her. She was to have been the principal witness in the prosecution tomorrow by her husband of Major Alex Russell of the pension bureau, who is said to have forged Oldberg's name to deeds of trust under which his property was sold and to have induced Mrs. Oldberg to sign them. It is thought she went away of her own free will, or under coercion, to avoid the trial. Mr. Oldberg thinks she is insane.

SHORT AND DECISIVE.

Nicaraguan Civil War Will Be Won by the Brains.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—The Associated Press correspondent at Bluefields, Nicaragua, under date of Sept. 24 says Jose Madriz, minister of foreign affairs, who has been in Bluefields on behalf of President Zelaya, has been suddenly deposed from office and on Sept. 18 left for Managua. The threatened revolution between the two parties as far as can be learned has not yet made its formal appearance. When the civil war does come it will be short and the conservative party which is composed of the brains of Nicaragua will once more be in power. Affairs at Bluefields are still unsettled but nothing is threatening.

CHINESE WARRIORS.

Practicing with Bows and Arrows—Bomb Shells Filled with Mud.

Rev. W. E. Crocker, who went from Louisville as a Chinese missionary, writes of the war in China as follows, says the Louisville Courier-Journal: "Just outside the city of Ching Chow Fu is a garrison of Tartar soldiers. As I walked on the wall one day I saw some bows and arrows! Just think, bows and arrows in this day of repeating rifles and Krupp guns! "The government of China is not Chinese, but Tartar. Over three hundred years ago a Chinaman by the name of Li drove the last emperor of the Ming dynasty from his throne in Peking. This emperor was sent beyond the great Chinese wall to the nation of fierce Tartars, who lived in tents and engaged in much war. The Tartar king came down and drove out Mr. Li, and instead of reinstating the rightful emperor, took the throne himself. He ordered the Chinese men to shave the front part of their heads and plait their hair into a cue, and the women to unbind theirs. The men obeyed, the women did not. The Tartar women do not bind their feet, and the court ladies and most of the soldiers' wives are Tartars. So really China is a subject nation to an outside power. There is very little connection between the government and the people. The present emperor has just recently come of age and some think that he will be favorable to many reforms in China. He is studying English, and has intercourse with the representatives from foreign governments. China has no conscience, and until the name of Jesus shall teach them to have a conscience no kind of reform or advance in science can help them. They have fine silver mines, fine gold mines, fine old wells, fine resources as yet untouched, and it is impossible to utilize them until China can depend on a Chinaman to do his duty conscientiously.

"Dr. Crawford was telling how in the war with France several years ago, a shell was shot from a Chinese gun into a French ship, and they expected an explosion which would seriously injure the vessel. It did not explode. They got skilled men to extract the dangerous shell from the timbers of the ship, and after much care, the shell was taken out and carefully opened, to be found filled with mud! The wily Chinamen, having no conscience, extracted the powder, sold it and put in the mud."

VILLAGE LIFE IN MEXICO.

A Humdrum Existence with But Few Attractions.

A glance about the streets reveals a great monotony of color and outline, writes T. J. Hughes, in the Chautauquan. Unbroken lines of one story houses form narrow, dirty, gutterlike streets. The yards and gardens which make, with their semitropical trees and plants, delightful interior courts, whose abundant foliage hides the houses of the village at a distant view, are now themselves concealed, and everything looks barren and desolate. The only relief is the plaza with the cool and delightful shade of thickly-planted orange, banana and palm trees.

The ancient appearance of houses and streets is more like what one would expect to find in Jerusalem than in a nineteenth century republic. Oriental features are everywhere common—women carrying immense water jars, passing to and fro; sleepy-eyed, lazy donkeys loaded with cane until nothing but their ears are in sight, prodded along by the sharp-pointed sticks of merciless masters; dirty, ragged and often naked children wallowing in the dust; and great-wheeled, ancient-looking ox-carts, with immense loads, women, burros, children, carts, straggling along in the middle of the street. The muddy waters of the Rio Grande separates us from a people more different from ourselves than many across the waters.

Life among the young folks is of but few attractions to one who has experienced its enjoyments in the United States. All innocent amusements practiced by us are unknown. There are no parties, no reading circles, no public gatherings of young people. No means are employed to bring the sexes together to enjoy each other's society, the young man not even being permitted to visit his sweetheart at her home.

Where Do Looking-Glasses Go?

What becomes of the looking-glasses? The annual manufactures in Europe at the present time is about eighteen hundred and fifty square yards of looking-glass. Can it be that to their destruction much of the ill-luck of the race is due? Glass mirrors are supposed to have been first used in Sion, and were very expensive for a long time after their introduction. A letter written in 1673 says that even if mirrors had been manufactured in France at that time only the king would have been rich enough to have one. In ancient times polished metals were used, and grand ladies gave their mirrors in charge of slaves to be kept bright enough to faithfully reproduce the charms of their owners.

Her Face Her Fortune.

Queen Victoria's newest maid of honor, Miss Majendie, owes her entrance to royal favor to a curious bit of chance. She happened to be singing in a church choir one day when the queen was present at Divine services and her majesty was so greatly pleased with the fresh sweetness of the girl's face and voice that she invited her to fill the place coveted by the young girls of the English aristocracy. The offer was the last thing Miss Majendie herself expected.

Literal Snakes in the Wine.

Snakes and lizards have hitherto been generally regarded as the effect rather than the cause of stimulants. According, however, to the official report drawn up by the British consul at Palchoi and submitted to the English parliament, an immense quantity of dried lizards have, during the last two years, been shipped from that Chinese port for use in the adulteration of wines in Europe and America.

WAS KILLED BY COCAINE.

Overdose of Cocaine Administered at the Hands of a Quack Causes Death.

SACRIFICED HER LIFE ON THE ALTAR OF BEAUTY.

The Two Operators Who Administered the Drug Were Placed Under Arrest Pending An Investigation.

DEATH CAUSED BY ACCIDENT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Belle White, the twenty-three-year old daughter of Benjamin S. White, a wealthy lumber dealer, died at Wood's hotel this morning while under treatment for removal of facial blemishes. Death was caused, it is supposed by the use of cocaine to deaden pain caused by the application of an electrical current which constituted the mode of treatment. The operator was Dr. Sophie Santa, assisted by Aliza James, Dr. Santa's business partner. In one hand Dr. Santa held the electrical needle and in the other a sponge saturated with a 4 per cent. solution of cocaine, which she applied at intervals to deaden the intense pain caused by the needle.

She had almost completed the treatment when Miss White gasped for breath and before the operator could assist her she slid from the chair to the floor dead. Aid was hastily summoned and restoratives applied but without avail, the young woman having died almost instantly. Dr. Tallman, the only physician called, arrived too late to be of any assistance and as the people in the room where the dead girl lay acted in rather a strange manner he informed the police and Dr. Santa with her assistants were locked up until the exact cause of the young woman's death was known. There is no thought, however, that the death was the result of anything but accident. Miss White's father is the business partner of Don J. Leathers, the well known capitalist of Grand Rapids, Mich.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 30.—The body of an unknown woman whose head had been beaten almost to a pulp was found today in the bushes near Scituate. The woman was of middle age and was fashionably dressed. It is believed she was murdered in Providence and her body conveyed in a carriage to the place where it was found.

Yachtsman Gould's Plans.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—George J. Gould has decided not to send the "Vigilant" to the Mediterranean this winter, although he will cruise in those waters on board his steam yacht Atalanta.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

An honest Pennsylvania farmer recently saw an advertisement in a paper saying that for ten dollars the advertiser would tell how to keep butter from getting strong. The farmer promptly sent the money, and at once received the reply: "Eat it."

Gen. A. J. Pleasanton, of Washington and Philadelphia, who was the promoter of the blue-glass cure of twenty years ago and is still known as "Blue Glass," is in his eighty-sixth year. It has been the general's unvarying rule for years never to go out of doors, even in the driest of weather, without wearing heavy over-shoes, and to this precaution he attributes his grand old age.

In London, in the time of George the Fourth, there was an athletic and dashing military man, Maj. Bracebridge by name and title, who, when he found his powers waning, retired to his country house and seldom showed himself in society. Many years later he had occasion to go up to London, and there met a lady who had known him in his younger years. "Dear me!" she exclaimed, "aren't you Maj. Bracebridge?" "No, madam," he answered, "but I was once."

On the question whether the late Sir James Mackenzie, of Glenmuick, was a domiciled Scotsman depends the disposal of a sum of about three hundred and fifty thousand pounds. If he was Scotch the money is to accumulate until an heir of his entailed estate attains the age of twenty-four, the property being settled upon his grandson, a boy of fourteen. If the domicile was English, the amount will be divided among his next of kin, in the same manner as if he had died intestate.

Senora Candelaria, who is said to be one hundred and nine years old, is the last survivor of the Alamo. She was in the fort during the twelve days from February 23 to March 6, 1836, when one hundred and seventy-seven Texas Americans held it against six thousand Mexicans. Senora Candelaria asserts that she was supporting the head of Col. Bowie, who lay ill in the fort, when the Mexicans rushed in and killed him and wounded her. Her life began under the dominion of Spain, and she has seen five flags float over Texas. Her home is near San Antonio.

Mrs. Beatrice Potter Webb, who is said to have inspired William Black to write "Sunrise," and to have suggested the "Princess Casamassima" to Henry James, is probably the richest and most beautiful woman in the socialist ranks. She comes of a wealthy and intellectual family and was educated by Herbert Spencer, but instead of devoting herself to society, she joined the socialists, tried work in different shops, wrote such vigorous articles on "sweetening" that parliament took up the matter, and at last married Mr. Sidney Webb. They are now trying to live in the East End lodgings on about three hundred pounds a year.

The engineer of a wheezy little steamboat running on the Caloosahatchee river in southern Florida is an ex-confederate who was second engineer on the Alabama, but was transferred to another privateer just before the destruction of the former. The old man has not voted or exercised any other official act of citizenship since the early 'sixties," because the out-laws carried against the officers of Alabama by President Lincoln's proclamation declaring the ship a pirate and her officers outlaws has never been removed. In other words he is, according to his own account, one of the few unreconstructed confederates still living.

A STONE SHIP.

The Mysterious Formation Seen on the Pacific Coast.

The mystery of the strange bark that three ship captains have reported stranded on a reef fifteen miles west of the Straits of Le Maire, with all masts and rigging standing, seems to be solved. A few days ago, says the San Francisco Call, a vessel reached London and reported having passed within a short distance of the deserted bark, and interest was renewed in the three-reported stranded vessel. All agreed in saying it was an iron ship, and most likely of German construction. It was bark rigged, and had black painted portholes. Shipping and insurance men have been trying to determine the name of the wrecked bark, but without success. No vessel of its description has been anywhere in the vicinity of the Horn, and none is overdue at any port that would pass within thousands of miles of the spot.

It is not likely that it could be taken for the Crown of Italy, which ran on a reef in the Straits of Le Maire about two and a half years ago. It was a full-rigged ship, and when it struck most of her masts went by the board. A few days afterward the sea was strewn with wreckage, and nothing was again seen of the wreck. A few days ago the British ship, Cedric the Saxon, arrived in port from Swansea, and it passed close to the spot where the mysterious bark has been seen. Capt. Rees tells a story which further clarifies matters. He says the so-called bark is nothing but a rock, although its resemblance to a ship is so striking that he made an entry in his log to the effect that a ship was stranded, with all the rigging intact. He says that he was out fifteen miles when he first saw it, and was sure it was a wreck.

As he approached it he found it was a huge rock sticking out of the water. It was only about half a mile away, but even then its resemblance to a bark with painted ports was so striking that all hands had to be called for an opinion. The puzzle to the sea captains who have rounded the Horn dozens of times is that the strange rock has never been seen before.

GENTLEMAN BROWN.

A Benevolent Dog Who Cared for His Vagrant Brothers.

Brown was simply a large dog, who was so strong, so fearless, so intelligent, and so active in affairs that he was considered the champion of the town. He could thrash any dog round about and always did it when it was necessary.

But he was extremely kind and benevolent. He showed great kindness to tramp dogs and protected many a wretched little vagabond and saw him safely out of the town in a good condition. One day he brought a specially bad specimen home with him. He came into the house and into the dining-room, where the family were at dinner, the wretched little tramp dog at his heels.

He looked up at his master, wagged his tail, asking for something to eat. A plate of food was set down and the little dog snatched at it ravenously. Brown seemed to think that was all right. When the little dog was through he asked for another plateful and had his own dinner.

He kept the little dog for quite awhile, always permitting him to eat first. At night he took the dog into his kennel, himself sleeping on the outside.

For occasion of festivity a curtain of flowers makes a most charming decoration. Fish net can be easily arranged for a foundation of this sort of drapery. A curtain of mignonette and rosebuds would look very beautiful and would make the dining-room at a "pink" luncheon a vision long to be remembered. —Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

SKILLED IN SOFT PHRASES.

The Honest Tramp Who Had Never Seen Better Days or Better Surroundings.

The tramp, whom the lady of the house had admitted to the kitchen table and was giving a dinner of her own cooking, was such a pleasant-looking fellow that she became quite interested in him. After busying about awhile she ventured into conversation, says the Detroit Free Press.

"You have not always been in this business, have you?" she asked. "No, madam," he replied briefly. "Ah, I thought so. You have seen better days, then?"

He looked at the fine piece of pie and big glass of cold milk set down on the table for him to finish on, and laid down his knife and fork. "If you mean by better days, madam," he said, "that I have not always been a tramp, I will reply 'Yes,' but if you mean by better days that I have ever had pleasanter surroundings than the present, or that I have surrounded pleasanter things, and he blushed. "I will say emphatically that I have not," and the good woman was so pleased that she almost wanted to take him as a permanent boarder.

He Was Too Easy.

Chief-Justice Richardson, of New Hampshire, was ready to abandon one of his own rulings, if argument had convinced him that it was not tenable—a readiness not relished by some lawyers. That great lawyer, Jeremiah Mason, was once pressing a point on the judge with his usual force. "Brother Mason," said the judge, "the impression of the court is in your favor." "Yes," retorted Mason, "but I want your honor to stick!"

NAPOLEON FOND OF HOMER.

He Thought the Poet Was the Encyclopedia of His Time.

The emperor, says Figaro, admired Homer in every way, and thus expressed himself on the subject: "The Iliad, as much as Genesis and the Bible, is the sign and token of its time. Homer in his work is poet, orator, legislator, geographer and theologian; he is the encyclopedist of his time. Homer is infinitely. Father Hardouin had the temerity to impugn this sacred monument of antiquity and to attribute it to a monk of the tenth century, an impertinent imbecility. Never have I been struck with his beauties as now (1816), and the sensations which he aroused in me confirm the justice of the approbation accorded to him by the whole world. What strikes me especially in reading the pages of his work is the grossness of the customs as compared with the elevation of the thought of the epoch. We see heroes killing their own beef, preparing it with their own hands, and yet pronouncing discourses of rare eloquence and worthy of a high civilization. In the Odyssey I greatly disapprove of the combat of Ius against Ulysses on the threshold of his own palace, both disguised as beggars. I consider this episode wretched, coarse, unbecoming and unworthy of a king. * * * And then, after having eliminated everything that I find objectionable, I feel what still affects me, I put myself in his place, I am seized with the fear of being beaten by a common fellow. It is not given to every prince, to every general, to have the shoulders of his guards or of his grenadiers, to convert himself into a street porter at will.

"The good Homer remedies all this by making his heroes so many colossi; but this is not the case with us. What chance would we have if we still lived in the happy days in which physical strength was the real scepter? It would come to this, that Novarras, my valet, who waits upon us, would be king over us all. We must agree, then, that civilization does everything for the mind, and favors it exclusively at the expense of the body."

CURTAINS OF FLOWERS.

They Form Effective, if Perishable, Summer Decorations. The country house without flowers loses half its charm. They not only add to the effect of the room where they are arranged, says the New York World, but give that refreshing touch so essential to the ideal country home. A porch is much more inviting if vine-covered, and big china or brass bowls filled with growing ferns are good to look upon. The long, green grasses are particularly adapted to the country house. Long-stemmed daisies and field lilies never look better than when their stems are visible through the green glass and their heads nod above its colored surface.

Bowls of colored glass are also charming when filled with wild flowers. One should always occupy a place of prominence in the guest room. Clover blossoms fresh from the field look well and are particularly adapted to the country house. Long-stemmed daisies and field lilies never look better than when their stems are visible through the green glass and their heads nod above its colored surface.

Clover blossoms fresh from the field look well and are particularly adapted to the country house. Long-stemmed daisies and field lilies never look better than when their stems are visible through the green glass and their heads nod above its colored surface.

Bowls of colored glass are also charming when filled with wild flowers. One should always occupy a place of prominence in the guest room. SCHOOL BOYS PLAY BALL.

An Ishpeming Team and One from Negaunee Meet at Union Park.

AN INTERESTING GAME ENDS IN A DRAW.

An Anniversary Event—A Sad Death. Church and Temperance Society Affairs.

HONORS WERE EASY.

That athletic sports will become a popular feature in the Ishpeming and Negaunee schools is evident from the interest manifested in the game of baseball between nine composed of high school pupils from each city at the Union park grounds Saturday afternoon. A better game has not been played at the grounds there in some time. The boys, many of the girls and several of the teachers, including superintendents and principals, were out in force. At the close of the game the excitement grew so intense that the adult spectators, as well as the boys and girls, seemed to have lost their heads.

When the game began the teams agreed to play seven innings. The Negaunee boys had the better of their opponents at the start but in the sixth inning the Ishpeming lads began to find the ball and succeeded in piling up six runs to their credit before the side was retired, coming within two of tying the score. In the last inning the Negaunee team was given a "goose egg," some very clever work being done by the local team in that inning. When the Ishpeming "heavy-weights" came to bat in the last inning Thompson took Foley's place as pitcher and Sullivan went behind the bat in place of Miller for the Negaunees, the old battery being pretty thoroughly fagged out. Despite the change the Hematites pounded out two runs, which tied the score, making it 14 and 14. When the side was retired it appears some of the players were of the impression that the Negaunees were one run ahead and during the excitement that followed the boys got so badly tangled up that they forgot all about inquiring how the score stood and left the field amid great cheering. Along toward evening the members of the local team were convinced that the score was a tie and some of them asked THE MINING JOURNAL to call the game a draw. As the "official" scorer could not be found Saturday evening there still seems to be some doubt as to what the score was.

There was some very clever playing on both sides. Tim Nolan, at second base and Conroy, the sixty-pound twirler for the local nine, did some exceedingly fine playing. The Negaunees had an advantage over the Ishpeming in size, and they were better hitters on an average. R. G. Quinn of Negaunee umpired the game and gave general satisfaction.

The boys are very desirous of playing another game before cold weather sets in but it is not probable that this can be done. However, both teams are going to practice as much as possible this fall in order to get a good start for next spring. Foot ball teams will be organized at once, and other athletic exercises will be indulged in during the winter. Baseball and football teams will be provided with the appliances needed for playing the games properly. The superintendents of the schools are taking an interest in athletics and will see that the boys are properly trained. Some interesting contests between the Twin City schools may be looked for next season.

The program prepared for the eleventh anniversary of the Young People's society of the Swedish Lutheran church, which will take place at the church next Wednesday evening, will be rendered in English. In former years the annual entertainments of this society have been given in the Young People's hall, but owing to the large attendance at the last meeting the church will be used this year. Those who attend will certainly be well entertained, as a very pleasing program has been prepared for the event. The admission will be twenty-five cents.

SHOTS FROM THE CLOUDS.

The Ingeniously Contrived Cannon at the Top of Gibraltar.

Up above, where the signal station is, and where no one, not even an officer in uniform not engaged on the works, is allowed to go, are the real fortifications. What looks like a rock is a monster gun painted gray, or a tree hides the mouth of another. And in this forbidden territory are great cannon, which are worked from the lowest ramparts.

These are the present triumphs of Gibraltar.

Before they came the clouds which shut out the sight of the rock as well as the rest of the world from its summit rendered the great pieces of artillery there as useless in bad weather as they are harmless in times of peace. The very elements threatened to war against the English, and a shower of rain or a veering wind might have altered the fortunes of a battle. But a clever man named Watkins has invented a position finder, by means of which those on the lowest ramparts, well out of the clouds, can aim the great guns on the summit of a vessel unseen by the gunners lost in the mist above, and by electricity fire a shot from a gun half a mile above them so that it will strike an object many miles off at sea.

It will be a very strange sensation to the captain of such a vessel when he finds her bombarded by shells that belch forth from a drifting cloud.

The rock is undermined and tunneled throughout, and food and provisions are stored away in it to last a siege of seven years. Telephones and telegraphs, signal stations for flagging, search lights, and other such devilish inventions have been planted on every point, and only the governor himself knows what other modern improvements have been introduced into the bowels of this mountain or distributed behind bits of landscape gardening on its surface. It will never be attacked, for the reason that the American people are the only people clever enough to invent a way of taking it, and they are too clever to attempt an impossible thing. "The Rulers of the Mediterranean," by Richard H. Davis.

AND CHOSE A SOLID CULVER DELEGATION.

INSTRUCTED FOR CULVER. The Democratic county convention for the selection of fifteen delegates to represent the county in the congressional convention for the Twelfth district, which will meet at Marquette tomorrow afternoon, was held at the Breitung House Saturday afternoon.

There was a good attendance of delegates from the cities and townships of the county and a more harmonious convention was never held in the county.

On motion of J. L. McClellan, all delegates present were accorded seats in the convention without the formality of examining their credentials.

On motion of Mr. McClellan, a committee to report fifteen delegates to attend the congressional convention was selected by the chair, as follows: J. L. McClellan, D. McViechie, Joseph Fay, E. M. Moore and Thomas J. Dandon.

A resolution was offered by A. Desjardins instructing the delegation to support Rush Culver for the congressional nomination and to use all honorable means to procure his nomination.

After tendering a vote of thanks to the officers of the convention for the satisfactory manner in which they had discharged their duties and also to Landlord Seass for courtesies extended, the convention adjourned.

There was only one thing to do, and I did it to perfection, that was to stand perfectly still and let the bears go about their business.

There I stood in perfectly plain sight, but they did not see me. They were walking fast, and I had a capital opportunity to observe their mode of travel.

As soon as they were out of sight I hastened to assure myself that I was still alive, and to wipe the sweat from my face.

I was very much affected by an incident that occurred during our visit at the Rosebud agency in South Dakota, said Representative W. S. Holman the other day, recalling a tour of investigation which, as chairman of a house committee, he once made among the Indians.

Unobserved I watched the meeting between mother and daughter. There was none of the ordinary exhibitions of parental or childish affection.

WON THEIR LAST GAME WITH A CRIPPLED TEAM

Marquette Boys Found Weak, the Great Champion Pitcher to the Tune of Fourteen Runs.

DOO HARTY TO BE INTERESTING

The baseball game of the upper peninsula for the last time over Marquette and the boys called it to the end in yesterday's game. The championship question is now settled beyond dispute, unless some other country club claims the honor without cause. Arrangements were finally completed with the Ontonagon to play two games here Sunday and that team arrived last night morning, reinforced on its way by catcher Barnes and Goodman, two of the leading players from that matter. The morning game was presented by rain but despite a cloudy sky and strong cold wind a good sized crowd of enthusiasts turned out in the afternoon.

The rivals took the field in a early crippled condition, their star pitcher and one other line player being from one side to play the game, but for all that the boys went in to win if possible. In the first two innings the visiting team scored two runs while the Marquette scored two runs. In the third the visitors began to warm up and better Marquette's left hand pitcher, Ross Egan, under fire, although they would not have made the number of runs they did had it not been for some costly errors of the Marquette. In the fifth inning the young favorite, Pat Smith, was induced to go in the box for Marquette, although he had just been from a sick bed and was still unwell. Then began a repetition of the game the Marquette played with the Baraga. The score stood 3 to 2 in favor of the visitors and so that they added but one more run during the remaining five innings.

By the sixth inning the Marquette were thoroughly acquainted with Pitcher Macke of the Ontonagon and began to warm up the outfielders in a way that gratified the hearts of most of the spectators. One after another they reaped the whirlwind of the diamond and then chased around the bases until they had run up seven runs and secured a lead of two, which they kept to the end. From that time on Marquette's star pitcher, Ross Egan, who had been so far out over under field has made the round of the bases and was within two feet of the home plate before the ball reached the diamond. And that was the only score made by the visitors after young Smith went into the box. With a crippled team the Marquette broke the hearts of the Ontonagon, who came to Marquette reinforced by outside players. What would have been left of the visitors had the home team been in its usual condition? Macke, the visiting pitcher, is an old league player and has the reputation of holding down any club that ever faced him. He pitched against the Marquette league team and they couldn't touch him. But the Marquette, among their other good qualities as ball players, are hard hitters and they illustrated to Mr. Macke yesterday that while he might do things teams he can't do them.

Following is the score: Ontonagon, 3 0 2 0 0 0 0 1-20; Marquette, 3 0 2 0 0 7 0 2-14. BARAGA HAVE WHEELED. BARAGA, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.] Baraga defeated Hancock today, score, 8 to 1. Baraga has lost five games out of twenty and is ready to play Marquette for $500 at Union Park or $600 at Baraga. We still claim the championship of the upper peninsula. Regarding the above claim of the upper peninsula championship, Baraga played for that honor here Sept. 13 and 15 and lost both games to the Marquette. This was the agreement and no question has been raised over it, until now Baraga's claim and bluff come too late.

The Marquette Sanatorium. Dr. E. C. Markham of this city has always believed that a physician's highest duty is to keep people well rather than to cure them when sick. For that reason he has always taken a great interest in sanatorium work, which is educative in its nature and aims not only to cure people of their ailments but to teach them how to live so as to avoid disease.

On these lines and beginning in a modest way the Marquette Sanatorium at the corner of Ridge and High streets has been organized and erected. The result is an institution on the cottage plan, designed on thoroughly modern and scientific lines, to which patients resorting outside may come for treatment and diet. With this purpose in view a building has been erected, handsomely finished in hard woods and containing a complete hydropathic outfit for baths of all sorts, Turkish, Russian, Roman, vapor and electric, with all appliances for the administration of electricity and standard machines for mechanical massage, Swedish movements, etc. The institution is in charge of Russell Case Markham, M. D., and Mary Louise Markham, M. D., as superintendents. L. Paul Anderson, M. G., late of the Royal Central Institute at Stockholm, Sweden, is in charge of mechano-hydro-electro-therapeutic massage, Swedish movements, baths and other hydropathic treatment. Miss Martha Mark, late of Grace Hospital, Detroit, and of the noted Home Sanatorium is back here and in charge of the ladies' department. In addition to this resident staff the following eminent specialists are consulting physicians in whom cases will be referred or who will come in call or at stated times as may be arranged. Dr. F. Stearn, M. D., Surgeon—professor of Principles and Practice of Surgery in the Hahnemann college and Hospital Chicago; E. C. Allen, M. D., Therapist Diseases—Dean of the Bermy Medical college and Hospital of Chicago and professor of Surgery, Medicine and the Operation J. H. Buffum, Eye and Ear—professor of Ophthalmology and Otorhinology in the Chicago Homeopathic college, Ophthalmic and Aural Surgeon in the Central Homeopathic Hospital; E. H. Stearn, M. D., General Medicine—Fellow, Mich.; Thomas C. Denton, M. D., Ph. D., Diseases of the Chest, Children and Gynecology—president of the National Homeopathic college of Chicago, ex-president of the American Health Resort association and professor of General Medicine and Diseases of the Chest in the National Homeopathic college of Chicago; E. H. Baker, M. D., Medical and Surgical Diseases of Women in the Hahnemann college and Hospital of Chicago; Sheldon Lewis, M. D., Gynecologist—professor of Gynecology in the Hahnemann college and Hospital of Chicago; E. E. Fellows, M. D., Diseases of Women—professor of Theory and Practice of Medicine and Medical Jurisprudence in the Hahnemann college and Hospital of Chicago.

A prominent medical thinker and writer has said: "It is safe to predict that there is a great future before institutions organized on the sanatorium plan, which will work on scientific and professional lines, so as to command the respect of the profession, and which will keep abreast of advanced lines of progress in the development of medicine. Thousands of cases which after years of drifting about among physicians are given up as incurable, may be restored to health by a few months of 'health training' in a well-conducted sanatorium. The success of the treatment of certain classes of invalids in properly managed institutions is coming to be generally recognized, and the need of institutions of this sort is each year becoming more and more felt. It is a recognition of the generally acknowledged truths outlined in the foregoing paragraphs that the Marquette Sanatorium has been organized. Its equipment, already briefly described, is complete in every detail and the principles and methods are of the highest order and are advised by a corps of physicians of national reputation. The institution of medicine and the maximum of common sense is the underlying principle of the institution. The unsurpassed climate of Marquette, entirely free from malaria, with its pine-covered and breezy air, in which one can breathe without fatigue, and picturesque scenery to charm the eye and mind, give to the Marquette Sanatorium unsurpassed surroundings in which to undertake the restoration of invalids to health.

As already stated, the institutions start with complete equipment but in a modest way and begin to grow as to the over and the advantages of the climate of this region which becomes more widely known. To the people of the upper peninsula it offers facilities for treatment which they have heretofore been compelled to travel long distances and undergo great expense to obtain.

Marcus Peterson's Book. Marcus Peterson, the original and only, well-known throughout this peninsula and more or less mixed up with the salaries amendment fraud, has written a political romance of the "Looking Backward" order in which Governor Kith and Auditor General Turner are roasted and Messrs. Joshim, Hamblitzer, Berry and the versatile author himself are defeated. No copies have as yet reached this city but Eganow has some on the way. Both author and publisher have seemingly forgotten to send any copies up into this part of the world for review but the following details are gathered from the Detroit papers: The title is, "A Modern Despotism: a True Story of American Political Life in 1893." The book turns strictly upon the recent election frauds. The fiction characters in the book are Joseph Hamblitzer, one of the heroes supposed to be ex-State Treasurer Hamblitzer; Charles Morris, another hero, supposed to be Marcus Peterson; Mr. Boncomb, supposed to be Prosecuting Attorney Gardner; Mr. Harris, supposed to be ex-Land Commissioner Berry; Oscar Johnson, supposed to be ex-Secretary of State Joshim; and the heavy villain of the story, John T. Graball, supposed to be Governor Kith. Auditor General Turner is also supposed to be one of the heavy villains of the story. In an interview Mr. Peterson said to a Detroit Tribune reporter in reference to the book: "It is a political novel and my idea in writing it was to make a political story. Like all novels it had to have a plot around which the incidents must gather themselves. The salaries amendment, owing to my being drawn into the matter much against my will and with no idea of how the returns were raised, was, of course, uppermost in my mind. I believe the presentation of Joshim, Hamblitzer and Berry to have been the result of a huge conspiracy to injure the members of the canvassing board. They made an error, I acknowledge, but that they were guilty of any crime I do not believe. I do not think that any one interested in having the amendments passed had anything to do with raising the returns. It was done by others who had an ulterior motive in view. This motive, I believe was the downing of the board. In this novel I seek to show how, in my opinion, the matter was brought about. I had many persons in view when engaged in writing the book and my readers must find out for themselves the different characters represented."
