DEMOCRATS TO BLAME.

Ex-President Harrison Says They Caused the Hard Times.

HAD PROMISED A GREAT WAVE OF PROSPERITY.

Having Failed They Claim Panics Are Periodical and That This is a Periodical Panic.

GENERAL HARRISON ON TOUR.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 19.—Providence seemed to be in a better mood this morning than last Friday when General Harrison started on his southern Indiana trip. Today the sun shone and the air was balmy. Noblesville was the first stop and an enormous crowd was in waiting. General Harrison said in part:

"There seems to be indications this year that the people have made up their minds that a party administering the affairs of the nation has something to do with the business prospects of the people. I think our Democratic friends admitted this in the last campaign. They assured you that Democratic success would mean the bringing of a great wave of prosperity. Now that things have turned out so differently from what they prophesied they are making excuses. I heard some of them say that panics were periodical and that this is a periodical panic. Political parties and political managers ought to deal fairly with the people."

Short stops were made at Cicero and Arkatra, where enthusiastic demonstrations were made. At Tipton an enthusiastic throng applauded General Harrison as he stepped on the platform. He spoke as follows:

"We have had hard times and the hardness has touched every one. This condition came following upon a period of the highest prosperity and the beginning of it was coincident in time with the success of the Democratic party. The Democratic party entered on control of the government, completely in all branches, for the first time since the war with a platform declaration that they were going to revolutionize the tariff policy of this country. So the country has stood from that day to this on a position of expectancy, waiting to see whether the tariff legislation would proceed on such lines as would enable the people to conduct the business in which they have been engaged. They tell us times are improving. I hope they are. The Democratic party has been without experience in governmental management and the question now is whether we shall allow them to go on with their tinkering."

The special train arrived at Kokomo at 11:25 and was met by another great crowd. Here he said in substance: "The Republican party had been in charge of this government since 1861, never wholly out of power. But two years ago the people gave the Democratic party full sway for the first time since Buchanan's administration. You all know when they took charge of the government our people were enjoying a very high level of prosperity. "The Republican party had reared a great structure, giving shelter and prosperity to a great and happy population. Our Democratic friends said when we got into charge we are going to take the house down; we are not going to attempt to remodel it but we are going to take it down to the ground. The roof came off when the people understood the Chicago platform to be written into law. All our people—workmen and manufacturers—all had to move out. Such of them as had tents went under shelter of canvas but a great many of them did not have tents and they camped under the trees and there they have been ever since."

The greatest meeting of the day was at Marion. Eight hundred veterans from the national soldiers' home greeted their comrade as he reached the platform. In the crowd there was also a large number of glass workers, who quit work in a body, and with two brass bands marched to hear the ex-president speak. General Harrison spoke there about thirty minutes, dwelling on features of the tariff law enacted by the Democrats. He was heartily and enthusiastically applauded. From Marion General Harrison went to Fort Wayne, but stopped enroute at Bluffton and Deatur, where meetings had been arranged.

HIS FORT WAYNE ADDRESS.
After a day of phenomenal audiences General Harrison arrived at Fort Wayne to find a crowd that exceeded anything he had previously seen on this or his last week's trip. The ex-president was escorted immediately after reaching the hotel to a balcony, from which he spoke to a crowd of fully 5,000. This speech was outside the schedule, arranged especially for the benefit of the farmers who could not stay for the night meetings. At 8 o'clock he was escorted to the skating rink, in which 6,000 had sandwiched themselves to hear the great Indianan. When he entered the hall the great building shook with applause. Hon. Charles D. Everett, chairman of the county committee, introduced General Harrison. He said in substance: "I find there is very general agreement now among Republicans and Democrats upon two propositions. One is that we had a very wide and disastrous panic in which all our people shared; the second, that one party or the other—Democratic or Republican—are in a considerable measure responsible to the people for the evil times. We had, and are still in the shadow of, a very evil time. There are one or two features of this panic I want to talk to you about. In the first place I want to say that in my opinion it is not one of those panics which sometimes come from overtrading and overspeculation. If it had been we would have seen the necessary incidents in the collection of notes and foreclosures of mortgages all over the country.

"When this panic began we had more money in circulation than we had for many years. They indicted us first for having too much in the treasury and now they say we left too little. My point is that the money in circulation was largely increased and so it could not have been lack of money that brought the panic on. It was not lack of confidence on the part of the people of the money in circulation. It was the lack of confidence of the men who had the money and went to the bank to get it. Presently the people got over their fear of banks and they brought the money back. But the banks could not make any use of it. Nobody wanted it. There was no business being done. All our banks were filled with money belonging to people who did not want to use it.

"What was this expectation of evil, this dread of catastrophe, which came upon the people of this country and which is still more or less upon them? It was the uncertainty the Democratic success of 1892 introduced. The Democrats said they were going to destroy the protective system. From that time to this the people just stood wondering, fearing, dreading what might be done on that question." There was great applause when the speaker concluded.

GRANT FOR MAYOR.

Many Men Select Head of Their City Ticket.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Hugh J. Grant was named as the Tammany candidate for mayor, vice Nathan Strauss, withdrawn, at a meeting of the executive committee in Tammany Hall this afternoon. The mayor had said in the morning he would not accept the nomination but he changed his mind after a long conference. He made it a condition of his accepting, however, that candidates now on the ticket whom he regarded as injudicious should be removed. It was announced that a new platform had been prepared expressly for Mr. Grant. A letter from Strauss, written today, was read at the committee meeting withdrawing as the mayoralty candidate and stating that his reasons were embodied in a letter to the Democratic candidate for governor, a copy of which he enclosed. The following is Strauss' letter to Hill: "Dear Sir—Trust you have declined to allow your name to be placed on any other ticket in this county than the regular Democratic ticket upon which my name appears. I expect to stand as the candidate of the Democratic party for mayor but I shall positively decline to run if you overthrow the political standing of the Democratic party in this county by permitting your name to appear on the ticket with the Republican candidate for mayor."

TALKS AT NEW ORLEANS.

Governor McKinley Now on His Way to That City.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 19.—Governor McKinley reached here this evening on a special train enroute to New Orleans, where he goes to deliver an address under the auspices of the Louisiana Republican committee. The special train was met at the station by a committee of citizens of Chattanooga. Governor McKinley left the car and addressed a crowd of about four thousand people from the front platform of the depot. He spoke nearly twenty minutes and was warmly applauded by the large and appreciative audience. After five minutes of handshaking the governor and his party drew out of the Central station on the regular train for New Orleans, and will reach there at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

TRAIN HELD UP.

Four Men Rob Express Car on the Texas Pacific.

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Oct. 19.—A report reached here this afternoon that the west-bound passenger train on the Texas Pacific railroad was held up and robbed by four men near Gordon. At a point about two miles this side of Gordon four men approached the section gang and forced them to obstruct the road, flag the train as it approached and when the train stopped the bandits forced the express messenger to open the door of the express car. They also forced the section men to go into the car with a sledge hammer and try to batter the combination of the express safe but efforts to open safe were unfruitful. The safe contained $30,000 to pay off the Pacific Coal company's men. The messengers' way safe was battered open and what money there was in it taken by the robbers. The amount secured is estimated anywhere between $500 to $5,000. The passenger and mail cars were not molested by the robbers. No shots were fired during the robbery and it is considered one of the boldest train robberies recorded in the country for a long time. Posses are out after them and there is some hope of capturing the robbers.

WILL HAVE TO GO BACK.

Judge Dismissed Writ of Habeas Corpus in Howard Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Judge Lacombe in the United States court this morning dismissed the writ of habeas corpus in the case of J. J. Howard, Levi P. Morton's coachman. Under the ruling Howard will have to go back to England.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—An Associated Press telegram from New York giving the substance of Judge Lacombe's decision in the case of Howard, Morton's imported coachman, was shown to Secretary Carlisle. He said if Howard so desired he would give him a hearing, but as to the decision itself the secretary declined to express an opinion until he had seen its text.

THE CZAR NOW DYING.

All Hope Gone of Imperial Sufferer Ever Rising from Bed.

CERTAIN TESTIMONY THAT END IS ALMOST NEAR.

Churches Throughout Russia Holding Special Services for the Recovery of His Majesty.

CANNOT LIVE MUCH LONGER.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The last of the red tape that is always drawn around the truth by diplomacy was broken today when M. De Staal, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, admitted to a representative of the Associated Press that telegrams received at the embassy preclude any hope that the imperial sufferer would ever again rise from his bed. It is this not sufficient, the flight of the court officials, forced and hurried journeys of members of the Russian imperial family across Europe, the alarm of various courts, shivering bourses and prayers offered up in churches are certain testimony of the fact that the czar is dying.

No grave are the issues depending upon the czar's life that even the people of Russia are obliged to be satisfied with curt office bulletins so meagre as to suggest in every carefully chosen word the theory of the worst. This was the reading by the bourses, to which the London stock market furnished a prompt echo. Dispatches received from St. Petersburg report that the city tonight wears its usual aspect except that crowds of people are in every street grouped about the places where the bulletins are posted.

Today the churches throughout Russia held special services for the recovery of his majesty. In St. Petersburg the highest officials joined in signing petitions to God to save the czar. In the Russian church in Paris services were also held and attended by President Casimir Perier, the staff of the Russian embassy, Prime Minister Dupuy and many other notables.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 19.—A bulletin issued at Livadia at 10 o'clock tonight says that the czar passed Thursday night almost without sleep. His majesty rose this morning as usual. His general weakness and action of his heart are unchanged. The edema of the feet which previously appeared have increased. His general condition is unchanged. The bulletin was signed by five doctors in attendance upon his majesty.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 20.—12:30 a. m.—Further news from Livadia is anxiously awaited. All kinds of conflicting rumors are afloat. It is impossible to learn anything in official quarters beyond bulletins. Several Russian journals have hurriedly sent special correspondents to Livadia. Grave fears are expressed that Princess Alix will arrive at Yalta too late to allow of her marriage to the czarowitz taking place before the czar's death.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Private advices indicate that the condition of the czar is hopeless and the end near. The news causes a most profound sensation.

VIOLATED COMMERCE LAW

Nelson Morris and Others Indicted by Federal Grand Jury.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The federal grand jury made its final report of the rebates alleged to have been paid by the Santa Fe railroad in violation of the interstate commerce law today and returned six indictments against officials of the road and shippers who it is claimed have received rebates. One man indicted was Joseph W. Rhinehart, ex-president of the company, and one of the shippers against whom a true bill was returned was Nelson Morris, the well-known packer. By the same indictment with Rhinehart was John O. Hanley, general freight traffic agent of the road, who resigned two weeks ago. The names of the other persons included in the indictments were not disclosed and will not be until the warrants are served. It is generally believed, however, that Isaac Thompson, a shipper of Kansas City, G. H. Hammond of Hammond, Ind., and a clerk in the employ of the Atchison road who is alleged to have made out the rebates. No warrants for the indicted officials and shippers were issued today but will be made tomorrow.

Small savings make great fortunes. No economy so helpful as that attained by using Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

BOYS OF '76 HONORED.

Monument Erected to Their Memory Unveiled at Tarrytown.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The memory of Revolutionary heroes was honored here today by the unveiling of a handsome monument to the memory of the seventy-six soldiers from Tarrytown who fought in the war for independence. Today was the one hundred and thirteenth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. A national salute was fired by United States cruisers Dolphin and Cincinnati, which were lying in the Hudson off Tarrytown. The monument was unveiled by the Sons of Revolution. Judge Mills delivered the oration.

RUSH CULVER replies in an adjoining column to C. G. Griffey's charges. His reply is to the point and needs no comment.

GOOD NATURE and good manners pay in politics as well as in business. It seems hard for some men to learn the above truism.

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found a communication signed by some seventy homesteaders in reply to the scandalous charges made by C. G. Griffey against Rush Culver. The communication speaks for itself in no uncertain tones.

THE political pot is now boiling furiously and will continue to boil until election day. THE MINING JOURNAL much regrets the disposition displayed by some of its contemporaries to resort to mud-slinging. Calm discussion of the issues involved, is much better and in the long run much more conducive to party success.

SETS A GOOD EXAMPLE.

On another page will be found an extended interview with Lord Brassey, the principal owner of the Michigan Land & Iron company, announcing a new and very liberal policy for that corporation. In fact Lord Brassey has taken affairs into his own hands, has turned out the old Boston management, which was content to sit idle, draw dividends and do nothing for the development of this country, and has determined to do what he can to convert this wilderness to civilization.

It is not very creditable to the other great land-owning corporations of this peninsula that a foreigner should thus set the example to Americans in a public-spirited movement. Lord Brassey has wisely determined to show the people of this region that, despite the fact that his residence is on the other side of the Atlantic, he takes an interest in their welfare and progress. The lands of the Michigan Land & Iron company are to be thrown open to settlers on the most favorable terms.

Lord Brassey rightly understands the responsibilities and obligations of great wealth. He rightly believes that the man who employs his wealth in productive enterprises, in turning the forest into farms, in helping other men to acquire homes for their children, is worthy the title of public benefactor. The results for which he hopes cannot be obtained in a day, but if his far-reaching and public-spirited plans are carried out as he intends, the name of Thomas Brassey will be spoken along Lake Superior's shores with respect and admiration, not only by this but by succeeding generations.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTER.

This may be a Republican year but the independent voter is going to cut considerable figure just the same. Party ties are sitting more loosely than ever before and more men are doing their own thinking on matters political than has been the case for years. In this county there can be found on every hand men who are declaring their intention of scratching their tickets, of exercising an independent judgment regardless of party lines. The political managers were never more at sea than now. They are awaking to an uncomfortable realization of the fact that it is no longer possible to pull the voters to the polls and induce to vote for a yellow dog if only he be the regular nominee.

All these are hopeful signs. The foundation of free government lies in the willingness of the people to think for themselves upon public questions. The more people there are who will wear no party's collar, who will swear by the words of no master, the better the chances for clean and honest government. The independent voter is a solid fact that must give all ringsters and machine drivers pause when seeking to dictate the people's choice. The influence of the independent voter is already seen in the superior decency and cleanliness of political contests as compared with those of a few years back. This influence is destined to increase and, voiced by the independent press, to become a power in the land.

With this general sentiment of independence is coming an increased power of perception as to the real issues involved in political contests. More and more are men perceiving that the tariff cuts no figure in local affairs, that a belief in free trade does not disqualify a man to be sheriff, that an adherence to the theory of a single gold standard does not affect his competence to fill office of country treasurer, that the merits of a candidate for any local office are not affected by his views upon national issues. Understanding of the division between national issues and local concerns is growing more clear and distinct and more men are refusing to consider their personal belief in a tariff on iron ore a sufficient reason for voting for an incompetent Republican in preference to a competent Democrat. And the reverse of this is equally true. This growth of independent sentiment is a matter for rejoicing to every good citizen and real lover of his country. The more men who will take a real and live interest in politics and at the same time will refuse to allow the dictates of any party leader to overcome their own convictions the harder becomes the lot and the less the power of the party boss, the ringster and the professional politician. All this is certainly a consummation most devoutly to be wished. When the votes are counted next month the effects of this increased spirit of independence will be seen and great will be the mourning of some of the professionals.

EDITOR GRIFFEY'S CHARGES

Rush Culver Will Make Him Prove Them in Court.

TO THE MINING JOURNAL.—Concerning the utterances of the Negaunee Iron Herald, I will state that I am now engaged in a political campaign and have no time to spend in a newspaper controversy. The last two issues of that paper have, however, contained statements concerning me which are absolutely untrue and I desire to state that after the first one appeared I placed the matter in the hands of an attorney in this city with a view of commencing an action for criminal libel against the editor of said paper. It is my intention to afford Mr. Griffey the opportunity he craves of proving the truth of the charges he has made. There has been no delay on my part in placing the matter in the hands of my attorney and there shall be no delay on my part in bringing the action. It is also my intention to bring a civil action in this case. The public understands very well that this matter cannot be settled in the newspapers. This attack was made simply to influence the result of the pending election. The controversy will be settled in due time in the courts. RUSH CULVER. MARQUETTE, Oct. 19.

After Scarlet fever

My little son Lemuel, was left with a gathering in his head and a large swelling on one side of his head which caused his head to be drawn over towards his own shoulder. This continued for some time, and all we could do until the doctor's medicine we could give him, were of no use. But we began to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking only one bottle he was perfectly cured, and has been in good health ever since. My faith in Hood's

LAKE LINDEN.

A pulsometer is being put in place at the Osceola mill. The apparatus is practically a vacuum stream pump, and is largely used in breweries and manufacturing for elevating liquids. Its simplicity and freedom from breakage are its chief recommendations. The machine being put in here is guaranteed to raise 2,500,000 gallons of water, carrying 250 tons of sand, every twenty-four hours to a height of 6 1/2 feet.

The "sludge" coming out of the artesian well being bored by the Calumet & Hecla company just at the trestle leading to the mill beside the street is of a bright red color, denoting that the drill is passing through thick beds of very fine redstone. The well is now 330 feet deep.

Court Golden Eagle, Ancient Order of Foresters of America, will give an entertainment at the School hall this evening.

Registration for Torch Lake township is set for Saturday, Nov. 3, the office of the registration board is district No. 1, near at McDonald's livery stable, and for district No. 2 at the office of the Portage Entry Redstone company on Saturday, Oct. 27. The polling place of district No. 1 will be in Ryan's building, Grover.

Mr. J. H. Wilson of The Times denies that he is a candidate for the position recently vacated by Mr. Rush Culver. The office would take him away from home and is not desired for that reason.

Rev. C. H. Scottford will give a lecture, illustrated by numerous stereoscopic views, at the Congregational church next Tuesday evening. It will be the first of a series and will have as its subject the "Origin of the Republic."

HOUGHTON.

The editor of the Houghton Gazette seeks a little cheap fame by "denouncing" the publication of the item relating to the rumored sale of the Huron mine as sensational, and moralizes thereupon in his own invidious manner. The editor of The Gazette need not fear that his sheet will ever become sensational; ancient history rarely creates any great sensation when printed. The rumor about the Huron was given by THE MINING JOURNAL for what it was worth—no more, no less. It was explicitly stated that the story was not authentic and that the local agent of the Atlantic denied all knowledge of any such transfer. The editor of The Gazette should consult an oculist for his case of strabismus.

The board of registration of Portage township will be in session at the fire hall from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday Nov. 3. The registration for the village will take place there, and also for Hurontown, which is precinct No. 2 of Portage township.

After their summer vacation the members of Columbia Lodge No. 44, Knights of Pythias, have again set down to work. Their meeting Thursday night was largely attended, visitors being present from Calumet, Lake Linden, Iron Mountain and other lodges. There was work in the second rank and a pleasant time all around.

Congressman Burrows has promised to deliver a speech in the copper country, but the date and place have not yet been selected. Announcement of the time and place will be made next week.

J. H. D. Stevens of Ironwood, once a resident of Houghton, is billed to speak at the Quincy, Atlantic, Kearsarge and other mining locations in the interests of the Republican party.

Rev. Mr. Walker of Hancock will conduct services in the Methodist church this morning and the evening service will be omitted, Rev. E. W. Frazer being still unable to officiate.

Simon Behan, clerk of the police force at West Superior, is visiting his parents here.

The funeral of Mrs. William Furniss of Hurontown took place Thursday. Judge Peck and Congressman Stephenson will appear at the Armory Monday evening.

HANCOCK.

Owing to Rev. Mr. Walker having arranged to conduct services Sunday morning at Houghton Dr. A. C. Lane will speak from the pulpit of the local Methodist church Sunday morning and Mr. Walker will conduct the evening services as usual.

Mr. George F. Miller of the smelting works will be married on Tuesday next at the residence of the bride's parents, 79 Adams street, Detroit, to Miss Alvina Staperfenne. Mr. George H. Nicholls will leave for Detroit tomorrow to act as best man.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, Rev. J. Edward Reilly will deliver one of his illustrated lectures under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of this place at St. Patrick's Hall. Subject, "The Emerald Isle." The tickets are fifty cents and can be reserved at the association building on and after today. Over one hundred views are shown with a powerful calcium light, the lecture lasting about an hour and a half.

"Drudgery and its Culture" will be the subject T. Wills, Jr., will speak upon at the Y. M. C. A. chapel tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the regular men's meeting. He will give two recitations also and Mrs. F. J. Boyd of Dollar Bay will sing a solo. All men and boys are welcome to come.

CALUMET.

J. H. Joslin, who opened a candy kitchen here a few weeks ago, states that on Saturday last his sales were larger here than during an average week in Ishpeming. Without doubt Red Jacket is the banner business town of the upper peninsula.

Mr. C. A. Stringer of Hancock will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow on "The Perils of Young Men."

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad will sell excursion tickets to Duluth and Superior and return for $5 from this point on Friday and Saturday next, good for return on Wednesday following. Tickets will be for sale at the Red Jacket, Calumet and Osceola stations.

Even among the Mexicans modern cooking methods are making rapid progress. Dr. Price's Baking Powder is sold across the Rio Grande.

DEEDS OF DARING.

Heroic Acts Which Have Rang Throughout the World.

One of the traditions of Boston is that at the anti-slavery meetings, held before the war, eloquence was so common that no orator, not even Wendell Phillips, could thrill the audience, unless his speech was exceptionally brilliant. A similar remark may be made of soldiers and their brave deeds. So common is courage to them that they are thrilled only by an extraordinary deed of daring.

Some years ago an English ship, the Birkenhead, filled with women, children and soldiers, struck a hidden rock and began to sink. The boats could not save all, and though the coast was near, the intervening water abounded with sharks.

At the command of their colonel, the soldiers formed in line to die. They saw the boats loaded with women and children go off; but at "parade rest" they stood on the deck, whilst, inch by inch, the drowning ship sank low.

Still under steadfast men. The civilized world was thrilled by the brave deed; but the foremost soldier of the day, Wellington, while heartily praising the discipline of the battalion, said not a word of their courage. That, from the military point of view, was what would be expected of British soldiers. But their discipline, by which they were enabled to stand in rising, surging waters, without flinching and in unbroken ranks, until drowned—that was worthy of a commander's praise.

While the mutinous Sepoys were attacking Gen. Wheeler's entrenchments at Cawnpore, a shot from their batteries blew up the contents of a two-wheeled cart, loaded with cartridges. It also set fire to the woodwork of the cart, which was standing in the place where the English ammunition was stored.

Both the mutineers and the English say that if the fire was not extinguished there would soon be a most disastrous explosion. The Sepoy batteries, therefore, poured in a deadly stream of round shot, to prevent the English from putting out the flames. A young lieutenant, Delafosse, unmoved by the concentrated fire of shot, threw himself under the blazing carriage, tore away the burning wood with his hands, and throwing earth upon the blazing brands, stifled the fire before it could spread to the ammunition.

That was the sort of deed which stirred British lungs to hurrah and British generals to praise in official reports. It is for such deeds that the Iron Cross of Germany, the French cross of the Legion of Honor, or the Victoria cross of England are given. Each of these decorations marks the fact that a soldier has distinguished himself above his brave comrades—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

WHAT BURGOO IS.

A Mixture of Many Ingredients—How It Is Prepared.

"What is 'burgoo'?" Why 'burgoo' is one of the oldest Kentucky dishes in existence. No one knows who first made 'burgoo,' nor does anyone know where or how it got its name. But 'burgoo' is an ancient dish in Kentucky, for it was made there way before Henry Clay wore knee breeches.

'Burgoo' is an out-of-doors creation, and massive pots of it have simmered over a hot fire in the open at many political gatherings for years in Kentucky. 'Burgoo' is made this wise: A big caldron is placed in position ready for the fire in the open air, some red pepper pods are put in the bottom, then potatoes, tomatoes and corn are added; then a half dozen nicely dressed prairie chickens are thrown into the pot and also a half dozen of the fattest farm yard chickens are added; then a couple dozen soft shelled crabs and three or four young squirrels are thrown on the heap.

Enough clear spring or well water is poured into the caldron to barely float the varied contents and then the fire is started. It must be allowed to simmer slowly for six hours, and an old superstition is that it must be stirred with a hickory stick in order to give it the best flavor. A hickory stick is best, and, therefore, is always used, but any other stick would not alter the flavor. When it is nearly done then it is flavored to suit the taste. It is not well done until the meats are thoroughly shredded.

"But when a big pot of 'burgoo' is done—um! go 'way, children! One can imagine his soul floating off on the delicious aroma."—St. Louis Republic.

—A Way Out of the Difficulty.—Young Saleswoman in a Japanese Store (anxious to suit her pronunciation to the tastes of her customers)—"Did you say you wished a vase, a vase or a vase." Young Business Man (too much in a hurry for fine distinctions)—"No, thank you, I'll take a jar."—Brooklyn Eagle.

BEAUTY AND BUSINESS.

They Will Not Mix Any More Than Will Oil and Water.

An Instance in Which a Pretty Woman Stenographer Thoroughly Disorganized a Staid and Methodical Office Force.

Does a pretty face help the industrial woman? That was the question under discussion a few nights ago among a party of men seated at a table on a roof garden, and between the sips of ginger ale, cobbler and punches there were some pertinent remarks interjected, says The New York Herald.

"Certainly it does," argued the young man, with an air of conviction that failed to impress anyone but himself. "Who wants to see an ugly or even homely face every time he looks up from his desk. I don't, and no other man does, and it's not pleasant to have one's thoughts broken up when dictating letters by a plain, angular typewriter saying: 'Excuse me, will you please repeat?' One can forgive even that when a pretty face smiles at you as you upward gaze."

"I, too, like bright, attractive women about an office," said another. "Of course it helps a woman. When did beauty ever fail to gain a place or fail to get more salary out of a man?"

This last sentiment was from the lips of a man who married his typewriter for love, and not for the beauty of her face or form.

"Well, I'll tell you a little experience," broke in the treasurer of a well-known bank note company. "It's a good joke on our president, too, and will illustrate the point in question. We were short-handed in the office and wanted another stenographer. As usual, we had examined dozens of women for the position, but none filled the bill.

"Finally there appeared a young woman who would attract attention anywhere—not that she was dressy, for her hair was plain but trim—but simply by the beauty of her face.

"Now, I am not a believer in beauty about an office. It has an attractive force that breeds trouble among the men clerks. But she seemed so anxious for the place and her references were so good that I decided to leave the matter to the president. He talked with her, but, being a careful married man, had his doubts about the wisdom of engaging her, but the pretty face was too strong for even his conservatism.

"So he mumbled: 'I do like to see a pretty face, even in business hours,' and she was engaged and reported next morning. She was a little slow, but we thought it was because she was strange to the office. The second day there was no improvement and the next likewise.

"Then came a rush of correspondence. Miss Beauty was founded. She failed miserably to do her work, but neither of us could find it in his heart to rebuke her; the pleading eyes of violet hue set in a face so fair were safeguards against the well-merited reproof that a girl of less personal attraction would have received with promptitude. But the end came in about a week. We had occasion to write a letter to a rival concern and at the same time to a new customer, submitting designs for a very large order.

"By this time our bookkeeper was badly smitten on Miss Beauty and they were going to some entertainment together. At all events, she mixed those letters up and we lost our order and got credit from our rivals for being grossly careless, all because two old men had been impressed with a pretty face.

"The girl? O, yes. We gave her a letter saying she had worked for us, but you can't get anything inside that proof now but a plain, matter-of-fact typewriter. The president wouldn't look at Cleopatra if she came in, and the bookkeeper—well, he shuts his eyes when he rides on the elevated for very fear of beauty."

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

It Put a Sick Man's Family to a Great Deal of Useless Expense.

"There are two things that I will never do again," said a physician the other day. "Commit myself by giving an opinion in regard to the death of a patient and advancing money to defray funeral expenses. I swore off on these two things years ago. When I first started I was so tender-hearted that every time I was asked by the anxious friends of a patient if I thought death imminent I always responded that the patient had a very slight chance to get well. I suppose most physicians err more in giving opinions as to death than any other. One case I had determined me never to prognosticate death again. A member of a prominent Irish family was very sick with fever. His relatives asked me candidly what I thought of the case. Without knowing the consequences, I told them he would die in twenty-four hours. The family sent for the priest, had him shaved and even ordered refreshments for the wake. To my surprise the patient persisted in getting well, which so disappointed his friends that they never forgave me, and never have sent for me since, thinking I did not understand my business."

Locusts in Madagascar.

Madagascar is visited every year with a plague of locusts, which does a vast amount of damage to the crops; but it is an ill-wind that blows nobody good, and so these insects are highly esteemed as food by the natives. The locusts fly within two or three feet of the ground, and, on the approach of a swarm, the people rush out of their huts and strike them down with flat baskets. Then the women and children gather them up from the ground in sacks, where they are divested of wings and legs by a severe shaking up. These extremities are carefully winnowed out, the bodies dried in the sun or fried in fat, and then packed in sacks for food or sold in the markets.

WOUNDED WHILE HUNTING.

Olof By Seriously Injured Near Floodwood by Accidental Discharge of Gun.

BULLET PASSED THROUGH HIS WRIST AND SIDE.

Although Losing Much Blood He Pluckily Rides to Ishpeming to Have His Wounds Dressed.

RECEIVED A DOUBLE WOUND.

While out hunting on Thursday about thirty miles from Ishpeming near Floodwood, together with John Sodergren and John Sanson of this city, Olof By of the Stoneville location, accidentally shot himself. They had not been out more than a half hour (having arrived there the previous night) when the accident occurred. When they left the camp Sanson started out in one direction while By and Sodergren went off in another. The latter had never been in that vicinity before, and for that reason remained with By, as he had traversed the woods there before. By was some fifty feet ahead of Sodergren and being undecided which direction he would take stood on a log waiting for his partner to catch up. He held his rifle, a heavy Winchester, in his left hand with the muzzle pointing upward, and the stalk resting on the log. As Sodergren came up he proceeded to cross the log when By, in stepping down accidentally struck the hammer of the rifle against the side of the log, instantly discharging the gun. The bullet passed through the wrist of the right hand and entered the lower part of his right side and came out in the upper part of the breast.

The wound in his wrist at first attracted By's attention and not until the blood began to run down his clothes did he realize that the bullet had also passed through his breast. On opening his shirts he found the bullet in his garments. Without losing any time the injured man and his partner tied up the wounds as best they could with their handkerchiefs and at once started back to camp. When they arrived there they used their pillow cases, towels, etc., in bandaging the injuries. After bringing off several shots endeavoring to attract Sanson's attention, but without success, they hitched up their horse and started for Ishpeming. They arrived here at 4 o'clock, having been on the road eight hours. The roads were very rough and could not be traveled over at a very high rate of speed. While enroute By lost a great amount of blood but he remained cool and kept up his courage most astonishingly and when he arrived at the hospital he got out of the rig and walked around as though nothing unusual had happened. After the wounds were attended to he went to a Mr. Hall's home on North Third street, where he is being cared for.

Yesterday afternoon James Farm, of Stoneville, who is familiar with the country where the three men were hunting, went out in search of Sanson, who no doubt wondered when he returned to camp later in the day, what had become of his partners, they having left in their anxiety to get to town as quickly as possible, without leaving a note telling him where they had gone. By is a young, strong man and will soon be around again as usual.

A Delightful Musical.

The musical given last evening at the Delf residence by the pupils of Miss Alice Ropes under the direction of that accomplished instructor was a very pleasant affair and was largely attended by the relatives and friends of those taking part. The following excellent program was rendered:

- "On the Meadow".....Lichner
(a) "At the Spring".....O'Neill
(b) "Santa Claus".....Nurnberg
Lillis Lombard.

- (a) "La Styrienne".....Burgmuller
(b) "Mazurka".....Lichner
Lola Gibbs.

- (a) "The Bird and the Rose".....A. E. Borrocks
Miss Cramer.

- "Thou Art So Near".....Merz
Leigh Swift.

- (a) "A Curious Story".....Schumann
Edith Wright.

- "The Song of the Brook".....Warren
Elsie Johnson.

- "Spinning Song".....Litloff
Maud Nelson.

- "Rory Darlin'".....Hope Temple
Miss Cramer.

- "Shower of Pearls".....Osborne
Edith Wright.

- (a) "The Entrance" from
"Forest Scenes".....Schumann
(b) "Traumeri" ("Tender
Dreams").....Schumann
Maud Nelson.

"The Forest Scenes" being the most pleasing and poetical of Schumann's works. In "The Entrance" we have the indistinct and shadowy effect of the sunlight shining through the leaves; the half depressing gloom of the forest; the dark moments where very little is to be seen.

- "Les Frenches" (Symphonic Poem), Liszt
(Arranged for four hands).
Sophie St. Clair and Miss Ropes.

Don't be afraid to eat hot biscuit when cooked with Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

Must Be Presented at the Door. The invitations for the entertainment to be given next Tuesday evening under the auspices of Ishpeming lodge No. 113 A. O. U. W., when Grand Recorder W. Warner Wilson will be present, were sent out yesterday. Receivers of cards must present them at the door on being admitted. Besides an address on the order and its work by Mr. Wilson an interesting musical and literary program will be rendered. The ideal orchestra will be in attendance and some of the best talent in the city will take part in the exercises. Those who attend are assured a rare treat. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of John S. Mennie, Timothy McNamara, Henry Routhier, Thomas M. Trembath and William T. Cole.

In a Special Car. Joseph Sellwood, with his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Morrow and Miss Ophie Sellwood, and the former's little son and Miss Greatsinger, daughter of President Greatsinger of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, arrived in the city in a private car yesterday morning. They will return today or tomorrow, as soon as Mr. Sellwood completes the business he came here to transact. Mr. Sellwood and his family have met many of their old friends and acquaintances since their arrival in the city.

Will Open the Campaign. J. H. D. Stevens of Ironwood and C. R. Chisholm of Chicago, both of whom have been in Ishpeming the past few days, will open the campaign in the interest of the Republican party at Michigamme tonight. It is quite possible that these two speakers will make a tour of the upper peninsula together during the next two weeks, although definite arrangements to that end have not yet been announced.

Thanksgiving Supper. The Ishpeming Temple of Honor society will give a supper and entertainment at the Temple of Honor hall on East Division street on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29. The entertainment will consist of a musical and literary program. Committees to arrange matters pertaining to the affair have been appointed. The charge for the supper as well as the entertainment, will be moderate and within the reach of all.

As an enemy of comfort dyspepsia has no equal. It is banished by food cooked with Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

Dancing Club Will Reorganize. He Is Not a Populist. ISHPERING, Mich., Oct. 18, 1894. Mr. Edwin D. Cox, Chairman Populist County Committee, Marquette, Michigan.

DEAR SIR:—I see by THE MINING JOURNAL that T. W. Durham of Ishpeming was nominated for one of the circuit court commissioners at the Populist county convention held in Marquette on the 16th instant.

As there is no other person of that name living in Ishpeming, I infer that I am the person meant.

I have never voted anything but the Republican ticket in my life, and in these times when our mines and factories are largely idle, our laborers wages so depressed as to seem to approach the European standard, and our business depressed, while our banks are overflowing with money seeking profitable investment, I deem it especially incumbent upon every American who loves his own country better than Europe, to give his best efforts to secure the success of the Republican party, and further the policy of a sound currency and protection to American labor under which our country grew and prospered for thirty years as no other country has grown and prospered in the history of the world.

I therefore respectfully request that my name be withdrawn from the Populist ticket and not printed thereon.

Very respectfully, T. W. DURHAM.

ARGENTINE'S FINANCES.

The Mere Interest on Its Debt Exceeds Its Total Income.

The Argentine Republic, like our own, is a federal one, consisting of fourteen autonomous states. At the present time, says the New York Post, the republic is bankrupt, and thirteen of its constituent states are in the same condition. Its population of 4,500,000 averages but four inhabitants to the square mile, 1,500,000 occupying the single province of Buenos Ayres, but the various employees of the national and state governments number 50,000, not including persons employed by the different municipalities. In several of the state governments the entire revenue is not equal to the interest upon their debts, and in several the payment of salaries appears to exhaust the entire income. Even in the case of the national government the salary account requires about one-third of the total revenue. If the revenue of the fourteen states be added together they amount to about $10,000,000, which is $500,000 less than the interest due on their external indebtedness, to say nothing of their internal obligations.

The revenue of the national government is estimated to be about $35,000,000, and it is claimed that the expenditure is less than this. The obligations, however, amount to some $250,000,000 or $300,000,000, the interest upon which would exhaust half the revenues were it not so applied. Obligations that do not bear interest, chiefly in the shape of paper money passing at one-third its face value, are perhaps equal in amount to the bonded debt. Many of the states appear to be making no attempt to pay their creditors. Some, as well as the general government, have made compositions in which the chief ingredients are delays and promises, although there is a modicum of performance.

Why the Aspen Quivers.

It is the pretty Christian legend that the aspen quivers with shame because from its wood the cross was made. Observers of nature have discovered, however, the quivering of aspen leaves is due to the fact that the leaf stalk is flat on the sides and so thin about the middle that the slightest breath of wind sets all the leaves a-wagging horizontally.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, was called Jolus Pitt, from a jest made about him by Lord Chesterfield.

Gabriel Hanotaux, the new French minister of foreign affairs, is but little over forty. He has made a specialty of the relations of the French in Africa and to the Congo state, and his ideal of French statesmanship is said to be embodied in Cardinal Richelieu.

Elijah Bryan, of Nevada, Mo., has still in his possession an old flintlock rifle with which he helped to defend the homes of settlers in Charles county, Missouri, against the raids of Black Hawk's warriors.

Mr. Bryan, who has never been out of the state, is related to Daniel Boone. He is in his 95th year.

Senator Caffery, of Louisiana, thinks hand-shaking is a senseless thing, and refuses to practice it. When a stranger is introduced to Caffery, he, of course, stretches out his hand in greeting, but the Louisiana senator pays no attention to it, and the man has to draw it back. For years he has observed this custom.

Fran Cosima Wagner, of Bayreuth, widow of the composer, is causing much comment by her growing eccentricities. She recently composed five poems in honor of her son Siegfried's five dogs. On Siegfried's birthday she gave a reception, and after the guests had assembled she called in the dogs and had her five poems recited and sung for their benefit.

The Empress Elizabeth, of Austria, possesses a collection of jewels probably surpassed alone by that of the empress of Russia. Besides the family gems, which are passed on from one empress to the next, the empress possesses a collection of jewels which have been presented to her by the emperor and foreign princes, valued at four million or five million marks.

There died recently in Madrid Don F. Madrazo, one of the most gifted artists in Spain. He had reached the biblical limit in age. Among his most famous pictures are "Godfrey of Bouillon Proclaimed King of Jerusalem," painted in 1839; "Marie Christine as a Nun at the Bed of Ferdinand VII.," "Women at the Sepulcher of Christ," and many portraits of Spanish aristocrats. There is great regret in Spain at his death.

A well-known divine of Boston was also president of a railroad. He had occasion to go out into the railroad one day, and witnessed the unloading of a carload of rails. The men were pitching them over in a careless manner, and he remonstrated with the workmen. One of the men gently told him to go to hades. "Oh, shame!" said the ex-clergyman; "that's the last place you ought to send me to."

"Faix, I think you are right," replied the workman; "there's no doubt but it will be the last place you'll go to."

"I consider it a delightful thing to do, and at the same time a very delicate way of putting it," said a New York man of moderate means, "for my laundryman to put in my bundle of clean clothes, without comment, the circular of a shirt-repairing establishment; for most of my shirts certainly do need repairs, some of them to such an extent, indeed, that practically they need rebuilding."

Learn from this circular that new neckbands are put in for so much, new collars for so much, and new bosoms, wristbands, and cuffs for so much. I observe only two omissions in this list, sleeves and bodies; and it is to a place where these are supplied also that some of my shirts would need to be sent. I can scarcely imagine, however, that there is such a place, for I suppose the line must be drawn somewhere."

It is the pretty Christian legend that the aspen quivers with shame because from its wood the cross was made. Observers of nature have discovered, however, the quivering of aspen leaves is due to the fact that the leaf stalk is flat on the sides and so thin about the middle that the slightest breath of wind sets all the leaves a-wagging horizontally. A single leaf plucked off and taken by the end of the leaf stalk between the thumb and forefinger admirably illustrates the peculiarity of the aspen.—N. Y. Sun.

An Expensive Notion.—The Postmaster—"This book is prepaid at letter rates, what's the reason?" The Postmaster—"The author is so stuck on his own work that he would not allow it to be sent out as second-class matter."

EARLY USE OF OXEN.

They Preceded the Horse in Agricultural Labor.

The help which our bovine servants render us by the power which they exert in traction, as in drawing plows, sleds or wagons, appears to have been first rendered long after their introduction to the ways of man.

The first of these uses in which the drawing strength of these animals was made serviceable appears to have been in the work of plowing. In primitive days and with primitive tools, hand delving was a sore task.

The inventive genius who first contrived to overturn the earth by means of the forked limb of a tree, shaped in the semblance of a plow and drawn by oxen, began a great revolution in the art of agriculture. To this unknown genius we may award a place among the benefactors of mankind, quite as distinguished as that which is occupied by the equally unknown inventors of the arts of making fires or of smelting ores.

After the experience with the strength of oxen had been won from the work of plowing it was easy to pass to the other grades of their employment where they were made to draw carriages.

Next after the contribution which the kindred of the bulls have made by their strength we must set that which has come from their milk. Although this substance can be obtained in small quantities from several other domesticated animals, the species of the genus Bos alone have yielded it in sufficient quantities greatly to affect the development of man.

It is difficult to measure the importance of the addition to the diet, both of savage and civilized people, which milk affords. It is a fact well known to physiologists that in its simple form this substance is a complete food, capable when taken alone of sustaining life and insuring a full development of the body.

A large supply of Dr. Price's Baking Powder was recently shipped to Cape Colony and the Transvaal, South Africa. Its fame is world wide.

STATUES OF LITERATEURS.

Twenty-Five Notables to Be Honored in the New Congressional Library.

The new congressional library, which is now nearing completion, is to be decorated with statues of twenty-five men who have been famous in literary work. Mr. Spofford, the librarian, was authorized to make the selection.

The great reading-room is the most conspicuous feature of the interior. Its plan of decoration makes provision for eight groups, illustrating the several forms of the literary art, and under the emblematical designs are niches for sixteen statues.

The subjects for these Mr. Spofford has selected as follows: Poetry, Homer and Shakespeare; art, Angelo and Beethoven; science, Newton and Henry; history, Herodotus and Gibbon; philosophy, Plato and Bacon; commerce, Columbus and Fulton; law, Solon and Blackstone, and religion, Moses and St. Paul.

On the exterior of the building are niches for nine busts, and the subjects selected for these are Franklin, Demosthenes, Dante, Irving, Macaulay, Sir Walter Scott, Emerson, Hawthorne and Goethe.

The work of producing these statues and busts has been intrusted to a committee, consisting of J. Q. A. Ward, Augustus St. Gaudens, and Mr. Adams, who are to assign each subject to the sculptor they think will be able to do it best. The committee is responsible for the results and has power to approve or disapprove the models. Gen. Casey, the chief of engineers, who has control of the construction of the buildings, has placed the entire matter in their hands, with Mr. Spofford as literary critic.

The extraordinary shattering and destructive effects of the modern small-bore and hard-iced rifle bullet is illustrated by the result of some experiments recently carried out at Zwickau, when twelve soldiers of Saxon infantry were ordered to fire volleys from a distance of three hundred meters at a brick wall about two and a half meters high and about forty centimeters thick. After the ninth volley the wall was simply a shattered heap of ruins.

SIGNING THE DECLARATION.

Bothersome Flies Expedited the Important Proceeding.

Jefferson was fond of telling a story which illustrates in a forcible manner the importance that absurdly insignificant matters may sometimes assume, says the Philadelphia Press.

When the deliberative body that gave the world the declaration of independence were conducted in a hall close to which was situated a livery stable.

The weather was warm, and from the stable came swarms of flies that lighted on the legs of the honorable members, and biting through the thin silk stockings then in fashion, gave infinite annoyance. It was no uncommon sight, said Jefferson, to see a member making a speech with a large handkerchief in hand and pausing at every moment to thrash the flies from his thinly-protected calves.

The opinion of the body was not unanimous in favor of the document, and, under other circumstances, discussion might have been prolonged for days, if not weeks, but the flies were intolerable. Efforts were made to find another hall free from the pests, but in vain.

As the weather became warmer the flies grew worse, and the flapping of handkerchiefs was heard all over the hall as an accompaniment to the voices of the speakers. In despair, at last some one suggested that matters be hurried so that the body might adjourn and get away from the flies. There were a few mild protests, but no one heeded them, the immortal declaration was hurriedly copied, and, with handkerchiefs in hand, fighting the flies as they came, the members hastened up to the table to sign the authentic copy and leave the flies in the lurch.

Had it not been for the livery stable and its inmates there is no telling when the document would have been completed, but it certainly would not have been signed on the Fourth.

The Chinese and Japanese armies are not so well supplied as our own. In the American army and navy Dr. Price's Baking Powder is constantly in use.

PHYSICIANS' FAT FEES.

Royalty Pays Well When the Doctor Becomes Necessary.

Some of the fees paid by royalty have been eminently befitting the giver and taker. The late physician to the Prince of Wales received for four weeks' attendance at Sandringham, during the illness of his distinguished patient from typhoid fever, not only the usual title of baronet, but a fee of £10,000.

Sir Morell Mackenzie is reported to have received more than twice this amount for his treatment of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany. Dimdale, a prominent practitioner of London, in 1702, was called thence to St. Petersburg to vaccinate the Empress Catherine II., for which he received not only the equivalent of $50,000, but an extra $100,000 for traveling expenses, the title of baron and a life pension of $3,500 yearly. His royal highness the Nawab of Rampur, India, recently paid an English army surgeon £50,000 for a three months' occasional attendance in an ordinary attack of rheumatism.

The late Sir Andrew Clark, Gladstone's physician, often charged $1,000 for running down from London to Liverpool, and the late Sir William Gull commanded equally high rates for similar services.

A Russian surgeon charged this amount for his treatment of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany. Dimdale, a prominent practitioner of London, in 1702, was called thence to St. Petersburg to vaccinate the Empress Catherine II., for which he received not only the equivalent of $50,000, but an extra $100,000 for traveling expenses, the title of baron and a life pension of $3,500 yearly.

Dr. PIERCE'S

Golden Medical DISCOVERY

Cures Ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of Consumption, in all its Earlier Stages.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted.

Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. Address for Book, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

LIBERAL POLICY ADOPTED.

Lord Brassey's Visit Causes Revolution in Michigan Land & Iron Company.

WILL ENCOURAGE SETTLEMENT OF LANDS.

Offered for Sale on Long Time and Easy Terms With Advances of Money.

TO DEVELOP THE COUNTRY.

The visit of Lord Brassey, the principal owner of the Michigan Land & Iron company, has produced a revolution in the policy of that corporation which promises to be greatly beneficial to the development of this region. Lord Brassey proposes to offer the lands of the company for sale on long time and easy payments at a low rate of interest to men who desire to open up farms and acquire homes. He also proposes to make advances of money to settlers for the purpose of erecting dwellings and clearing the lands on the same easy terms. Such is, in brief, the policy which Lord Brassey outlined to a MINING JOURNAL reporter yesterday evening, which has been fully determined upon and which will go into effect at once.

"I should say by way of introduction and in order that you may understand my personal feeling upon the subject," said Lord Brassey to THE MINING JOURNAL man, "that when I succeeded to my late father and thus came into the control of large means, both my father's example and my own inclination were to use those means in the development of new fields and in conduct of productive enterprises. My father, as you may perhaps know, led a life of incessant activity. His own means and all he could borrow were engaged in enterprises employing large numbers of men and opening up new lines of industry. I think I have always tried to remember the responsibilities and duties of wealth and have, to the best of my ability, proceeded on the theory that a rich man who used his means judiciously in the promotion of public works and in the development of new countries might honestly feel that he had done something to the benefit of his fellow men. I might, as some do, have simply contented myself with the soundest and safest investments I could find, that would give me no trouble, but such a course I have always considered almost as bad a use of money as reckless extravagance or foolish speculation. A good investment benefits both the investor and the community; a bad investment resulting in disaster, hurts both.

"With these ideas in my head some fifteen years ago I was induced to purchase these lands in Michigan. The property was then in the hands of certain men in Boston who had found the money to build the railway to Houghton. The matter was presented in a two-fold light, as a good investment ultimately and especially because of the minerals supposed to be in the lands; also as assisting to open up and develop a new country. The result was that I bought the lands, sending over $2,000,000 in British gold to pay for them. The lands have hitherto been unproductive of minerals in paying quantities. A small income has been derived from pine but that will shortly be exhausted. We have now resolved on a large policy of agricultural development. We propose to convert the forests into farms. I am satisfied both from the reports received and from personal examination that over one-half of these lands are of excellent quality for farming.

"The policy determined upon is in brief this: We will offer the lands for sale on twenty years time with interest on the deferred payments at 3 1/2 per cent. If the purchaser desires we will also advance a reasonable amount to put up necessary buildings and to clear, say ten acres of land. In other words, we will put up the buildings ourselves and will pay the settler the cost of clearing, say ten acres, and let these advances stand as a part of the purchase price at the same rate of interest. I want to give any industrious man a chance to get a home on these lands. Thus at the final liquidation we trust that our successors may have the satisfaction of knowing that a large expenditure from an outside source has been instrumental in settling a considerable tract of country and if they can ultimately recover the amount now locked up in this property, having in the meantime received a low rate of interest, they must rest satisfied.

"I have always been a warm friend of the United States," continued Lord Brassey "and I feel a deep interest in Marquette and this region. The results which I hope to accomplish with this property can not be reached in a day. I cannot hope to live to see the final outcome. But I hope to be remembered as one who did what he could for the development of this region and to aid its people in turning this wilderness into homes."

It may be mentioned in this connection that Lord Brassey has entirely changed the former Boston management of the Michigan Land & Iron company and has put in men who sympathize with his views. Mr. Horatio Seymour will continue to be the local representative of the company and will be fully empowered to carry out Lord Brassey's ideas. Mr. C. B. Tedcastle of Seattle, Wash., who is now here, will have a general supervision of affairs and will make occasional visits here.

THE MINING JOURNAL reporter found Lord Brassey to have a very clear and lucid idea of the situation in this region. Had he been able to give the affairs of the corporation his personal attention a few years sooner there is no doubt that much strife and bitterness of feeling would have been saved. He intended to come over last year but being offered the chairmanship of the royal commission to investigate the opium traffic in India felt compelled to go there instead. As he put the question himself:

"I felt that my private interests must yield to the call of public duty and so I went to India instead of coming to America."

Too much must not be expected at once from this new policy of the Michigan Land & Iron company, for a development of the magnitude proposed by Lord Brassey must take time. But this new and liberal policy goes into effect at once.

Lord Brassey impressed THE MINING JOURNAL reporter as a man of great and evident sincerity in his thought and utterance. The policy which he has adopted in regard to these lands will certainly entitle him to the respect and admiration of the people as a man who tries to use his great wealth wisely and well.

Was Adjudged Insane.

For some time past W. S. Rutherford, a young man about thirty-five years of age, has been acting in a very strange manner and has attracted the notice of his friends on more than one occasion. He has always borne an enviable reputation for honesty, but of late has developed a mania for articles of almost every description that do not belong to him. Anything loose about a store would attract his attention and he would endeavor to purloin it. But his particular penchant was mince meat and can, jar, or any other receptacle containing that commodity, was sure to disappear when he was around. He became eccentric in other particulars to such a degree that doubts as to his sanity arose and culminated in complaint being made and an investigation ordered by Judge Clifton. Yesterday he was adjudged insane by the court, after undergoing an examination by physicians, and remanded to the county jail. He will be taken to the Traverse City asylum for treatment in the near future. Mr. Rutherford was for years an employe in the South Shore railroad shops, but this summer worked some time at the powder mill.

Samuel's Good Manners.

Hon. S. M. Stephenson, present congressman from this district and hoping for a re-election, passed through the city yesterday on his way west. It so happens that Mr. Rush Culver, his opponent, had never met Mr. Stephenson and B. S. Kaufman, being aware of this fact, offered to introduce him to the Menominee statesman. It also happened that a MINING JOURNAL reporter was in the vicinity and heard the conversation of the two candidates.

"Have you got your potatoes all dug," asked Stephenson with an evident sneer when Mr. Culver was introduced.

"Yes, pretty much; how about yours, and are they sound or rotten," retorted Mr. Culver.

"All sound and lots of them," returned Stephenson, in the same supercilious and offensive manner.

"Well, I have heard of people measuring potatoes before they were grown," said Mr. Culver and turning upon his heel left the presence of the Honorable Samuel.

THE MINING JOURNAL reporter did not seek an interview with Mr. Stephenson, not caring to be insulted as Mr. Culver had been, but heard him remark to a political sympathizer:

"I am not doing anything in this election. I don't have to go legging it all over the district to get votes. That MINING JOURNAL is making votes for me right along, and don't you forget it."

Much edified by this display of good manners as exemplified by the Honorable Samuel after six years in Washington, THE MINING JOURNAL man retired and the train pulled out.

Quite An Attraction.

If it were possible to fill the building where the Swedish church fair is being held more closely with people than it was Thursday evening it was done last night. Every nook and corner of the room was packed to its utmost capacity and every person present seemed bent on having the best possible time. After one night's practice the young ladies have become quite expert at selling chances on articles of unknown value and lucky is the man who escapes with a penny in his pocket. The Bethany orchestra of Ishpeming was present and rendered several very fine selections. Yesterday's MINING JOURNAL stated that the Marquette Ideal orchestra furnished the music Thursday evening. It was the Marquette City band, but the complimentary remarks made will apply to the latter as well. This evening will be the last of the fair and the congregation is preparing for a great time. The Bethany band of Ishpeming will be present and during the evening the winners of prizes will also be announced. It will be well worth attending.

Without a liberal supply of Dr. Price's Baking Powder no modern cooking school is adequately equipped.

Presbyterian Services.

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the Rev. D. B. Spencer will preach on "The Weakness of Good Men." The offering in the morning will be for the work among the Freedmen. The evening will be devoted to the Seventh anniversary meeting of the Christian Endeavor society. No dull statistics, but brief talks by bright people will be the order of the hour. It is expected that the venerable Dr. Bonar, who organized the society, will be present and make a short address at the close. This service will be at 7:30 p. m. There is a welcome here for all, citizens and strangers. The choir will sing: "Christian, The Moon Breaks Sweetly O'er Thee," Shelby; "My Shepherd," Sartl; "Savior When Night Involves the Skies," Shelby; "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own," Mendelssohn.

Rivals vs. Setters.

Arrangements have been completed for one more game of ball on the Marquette grounds this season. The Setters of Ishpeming will be in Marquette Sunday to play an exhibition game with the Rivals. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock sharp. The batteries will be as follows: Rivals, Smith and Rivers; Setters, Pascoe and Navins. The Setters is a very nice ball club and will make it interesting for the Rivals and promises to be a game well worth attending. One week from Sunday the Rivals will play the Setters at Union Park.
