MARQUETTE, MICH., OCTOBER 27.

Entered as second-class of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

The city hall is rapidly nearing completion and is a building of which the city may well be proud. It is a monument to Mayor Kaufman's administration which the people will have before them for many years.

There will be a rehearing of the celebrated Amasa Daly case before Secretary Hoke Smith at Washington today. Hon. Don M. Dickinson appears in behalf of Daly and the settlers and is very confident of securing a reversal of the famous "innocent purchaser" decision.

Mr. Matthew D. Crawford, the Democratic candidate for clerk and register, has the Mining Journal's sympathy. The Negaunee Iron Herald has convicted Mr. Crawford of the same offense of which Edmund Burke, in one of his greatest speeches, admitted he had been convicted—"of the atrocious crime of being a young man."

The Mining Journal regrets to observe that many of its weekly contemporaries in this peninsula continue to follow the antique method of writing news matter in accordance with partisan prejudice. What is gained by lying about the attendance or the applause or the arguments at an opposition political meeting when hundreds of people know that you are lying? A local paper can only hope to influence votes in its local field and known lies have no effect except to irritate the opposition and stir it up to greater efforts.

These are not very propitious times for rabid partisanship and newspapers which indulge in mud-slinging, lying and misrepresentation of those with whose ideas they do not agree are behind the times. Courtesy and fairness pays in politics as well as in all other departments of human activity.

The movement to secure proper game laws is growing all over the peninsula and if the agitation is kept up should result in much good. The one thing needful is for the members of the legislature from this section to get together and agree on the terms of the law which they want passed. The weight of opinion seems to be that the proper time for the open season is Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. But the precise dates are not nearly so important as a good strong provision with heavy penalties against the shipment of deer. The express companies are not going to buck against that sort of a law for a single minute. It is often very hard to secure evidence to convict a man who kills a deer illegally but it is very easy to convict the carrier who transports it illegally and the law would be almost self-enforcing. It is the market shooters who are exterminating the game and the only way to choke them off is to compel every hunter to travel with his own venison. Such a provision would work no hardship to the man who hunts for sport and recreation and it would squelch the pot hunters very effectually.

The Democrats of this county seem to have put up a pretty good ticket this year. Even the rabid Griffey is not able to find fault with it, but in an extended review and comparison admits that all the Democratic candidates are able and honest men—except Mr. Crawford, who is too young to be sure about. Yet the sapient Griffey argues that because the Republican ticket is Republican therefore every Republican should vote it. The text of this delirance by the oracular Griffey is an article in a recent issue of this paper calling attention to the fact that no political issue whatever is involved in the county contests and advising voters to cast their ballots for the best man regardless of politics. Both parties in this county are fortunate in having able and honest candidates. Therefore THE MINING JOURNAL again advises voters to forget that one set is called "Republican" and the other set "Democratic," to exercise their private judgment and to vote for the best men, regardless of party. Some of these candidates are more competent than others. Some are more deserving of public favor than others. The most competent and deserving should have the offices.

AS TO THE MCKINLEY LAW. Editor Griffey's wires are crossed—his trolley is off and despite all his protestations of blind and abject partisanship he is not following his party leaders. The constant burden of Griffey's song is "restore the McKinley law and good times." Now curiously enough the policy which Griffey advocates is one to which the Republican leaders of national repute decline to commit themselves. Thomas B. Reed, who was speaker of the house when the McKinley bill was passed, criticized that measure quite savagely in his Ann Arbor interview. Senator Cullom of Illinois, who voted for the McKinley law, was recently asked at a public meeting whether, if the Republican party were returned to power and he (Cullom) were sent back to the senate, the McKinley law was to be re-enacted. Mr. Cullom hemmed and hawed and tried to evade the question but being finally forced to answer said that the Republicans would undoubtedly make some changes in the McKinley act. Even McKinley himself has admitted that there might be some flaws in his congressional monument. So it goes all along the line and so every Republican leader of prominence has admitted that modifications in the McKinley law are necessary.

The fact is that the McKinley act was a pretty good one in some respects but in others it was not legitimate protection but simply protectionism run mad. It was the bulwark behind which the sugar trust grew to such strength that it was able to defy the American people. It robbed the whole people of millions of dollars for the benefit and profit of a few hundred sugar planters in Louisiana. It did not benefit the people of this peninsula one cent's worth in any direction and its outrageous wool and woolen schedules made the coat worn by every poor man on Lake Superior cost more money. These were some of the bad things about the McKinley law. It did not make good times in this region for the price of iron ore continued to decline and also the rate of wages as soon as it got fairly into effect.

THE MINING JOURNAL has always believed in a reasonable and proper degree of protection and for two reasons—because it is profitable to have the greatest possible diversity of industries and is expedient to have this nation as economically independent as possible. It is sheer nonsense to talk about a high tariff making high wages—which has been and is the principal argument of the partisan wind-jammers. A high tariff may for a short time and in a particular industry make high wages but its ultimate and very rapid effect is to make wages lower in that industry than before. This arises from the fact that the artificial profits given to any particular industry by a high tariff attract more men into that industry than are needed. In consequence competition becomes sharper and sharper until it becomes a life-and-death struggle between men who have their whole fortunes involved. The result is that the wage-worker in an unduly protected industry is ground between the upper millstone of over-production and the nether millstone of competition and wages are cut to the starvation point and stay there.

There are a number of drugs used in medicine which are extremely dangerous and even quickly fatal unless administered with the utmost caution. So it is with the policy of protection. Properly and reasonably applied it is a valuable stimulant to industry and strengthens the nation by making it self-centered and independent. But in excess its effects are most disastrous. The nation which takes protection to excess is like the man who uses morphine to excess. He soon comes to believe that he cannot do without the drug and demands it in continually larger doses. The plain truth is that the people of the United States, the nation being in peril, began to take protection as a necessary medicine. It was described by the physicians who prescribed it as only a war-measure. But appetite grew by what it fed upon and although by 1880 all the great leaders of the Republican party declared that the time had come to reduce the tariff, yet the protected interests managed so to bedevil congress that it was raised instead.

Then began what can only be described as a debauch of protectionism. The tariff went higher and higher and the struggle for and against protection grew more and more bitter. The efforts of the protection-sodden tribe culminated in the McKinley act and then came the explosion. The conservative and patriotic Democrats stood in 1888 just about where Garfield and other patriotic and reasonable Republicans stood in 1880. But the question, originally one of ways and means, of revenue and business, had been converted into a partisan issue. Hence came all the recent gigantic political struggles and the consequent depression of business.

The policy of protection, in its legitimate and proper use, has not been responsible for the recent hard times. But the abuse of that policy, its carrying to extremes, its excess, complicated with foolish currency legislation, have in large measure caused the evils from which the country is but beginning to recover. It is a perfectly safe prediction that the McKinley bill will never be re-enacted and that tariffs will tend to go lower rather than higher. And this will take place no matter which party shall control the national government for the four years after 1896.

THE Most remarkable cures of scrofula on record have been accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is unequalled for diseases of the blood.

THE ISLE OF MAN. Its Ancient Customs, Its Government, and Its Talloest Cats.

The Isle of Man is only thirty-three miles long and twelve wide, so that it is not great labor to get over it, and as two railroads run—one north to south, and the other east to west—you can see how easy it is to the visitor.

The Isle of Man, while belonging to the British Crown, is neither English, Scotch, Irish, nor Welsh, but is a separate country, with a home-rule government, and a language of its own; but yet with great loyalty to the imperial government and devoted to Queen Victoria, for everywhere you go you see pictures of the royal family.

There is one feature of special interest in reference to the laws, and that is that all laws passed by the house of keys are sent for the royal assent, and when that has been secured then the law must be formally read in the English and Manx languages on Tynwald hill in the open air, where the council and the keys united form a Tynwald court, before they become laws.

The coat of arms of this isle is three legs of a man in a circle. The motto, inscribed on the shield, is: "Whitersoever thrown, I shall stand." The Manxmen apparently rather enjoy the three-legged crest, for everywhere you turn your face, whether at a steamboat, a railroad, a coach, a flag or on the windows of the stores, there you see the three legs.

I had read of the Manx cats without tails and thought it a joke; but, sure enough, the cats here are without tails, and I saw several without that graceful member.

"The Man From Maine." The Manx language, like the ancient language of Ireland, is fast passing away, and in a generation it will be one of the dead languages, enjoyed only by scholars.

A CHATELAINE DICTIONARY. Fifteen Thousand Words in the Space of a Locket.

A popular prize just now for card parties or for souvenirs is the tiny chateleine dictionary. The trinket is finding rapid sale at present, not only for such purposes as named, but because of the individual recognition of the real value of the little article.

"Keeps His Memory Alive." Mrs. Weed—Until a woman marries again she never can forget her first husband.

"I saw on a truck the other day," said a New York man, "a safe that was wrapped up in paper; it was obviously for local delivery, and wrapped up so that it wouldn't get scratched or marred in any way; but it seemed curious, nevertheless, to see a package that weighed a ton or two done up in paper."

The Land Where Men Decay. Mrs. Lynn Linton thinks that the peasantry of Ireland and France, where she has observed them, are suffering greatly from the decline of the squirearchy or landlordism.

The Champion Idiot. "I had a real nice time out on the farm," said the girl with the peeled nose. "Funny thing happened one day. I put on Mrs. Mayrick's sunbonnet—one of those old-fashioned tunnels, about two feet deep, you know. Then I casually remarked to that Chollie Sapp, who was stopping at the same house, that it was almost deep enough for two people to hide in. And then—'No, he didn't. The idiot. So I packed up an ax and came back to town.'"—Cincinnati Tribune.

A Game of Bluff. "Young man," said Mabel's father, "if you don't go away from here I shall call the dog."

MARVELOUS RESULTS. From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersen, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in its work, and highly satisfactory in results."

Theatre-goers will recognize the above portraits as those of a young actress, of whom the world already knows much, and is destined to know more. FOOTBALL THIS AFTERNOON.

The Marquette and Negaunee High School Elevens Meet in Their First Battle.

THIRD ANNUAL BANQUET OF QUEEN CITY LYCEUM LEAGUE

Frank Sayen Again Within Prison Walls—Political Announcements. Church Services Tomorrow.

DON'T MISS THE SPORT.

Football under Rugby rules and played by teams which are coached by men who have been noted players in one of the greatest universities of the west will make its debut this afternoon at the fair grounds before Marquette lovers of athletics and it is to be hoped that both teams will be nerved for the struggle by the presence of a large and enthusiastic concourse of spectators for football without enthusiasm would not be recognizable.

The team which will center the field for the Marquette High school will miss the counsel and experience of its coach, E. W. MacPherran who is in Chicago on business, but E. C. Wilkinson will endeavor to fill the breach to the best of his ability. The opposing teams and positions will be as follows:

MARQUETTE H. S. Negaunee H. S.
 Jay Spear.....left tackle.....Seas
 B. Goodman.....center.....Lenier
 Geo. Hodgkins.....right guard.....McNeil
 Harry Eastman.....right tackle.....Barasa
 Joe Busch.....right end.....Houle
 Geo. Conklin.....quarter back.....Krogman
 Jno. Nelson.....P. half back.....Foley
 Raoul Primeau.....H. half back.....Sullivan
 Fred Price.....full back.....Thorenson

Professor Krogman, who plays with the eleven representing his school is a noted Michigan University player and will undoubtedly cause the Marquette youngsters some trouble. Perry Pennington and Orrie Brown are the Marquette substitutes, Pennington having lamed his shoulder in practice and so being unable to play his usual position. The game will be called at 2:30 and the admission will be 25 cents.

Third Annual Banquet.

The members of the Queen City Lyceum league, No. 989, had a banquet at the high school last evening in honor of the third anniversary of the organization here. An elaborate spread, including oysters, roast beef, sandwiches, pie, fruit and chocolate was rounded off with ice cream and cake served by Heppner, three of the high school young ladies, Miss Emily Watson, Miss Margie Everett and Miss Martha Clark, volunteering as waitresses for this occasion only.

After due attention to the spread the president of the league, Selden Cray, acting as toastmaster, called for the following responses, some of which were very neat:

- The Present Occasion.....
 Alvin Swift.
 A Long Absence from the League.....
 Floyd Green.
 What I Expect the Lyceum to do for Me (The Latest Initiative).....
 Lee Martin.
 Queen City Lyceum.....
 Football and the Lyceum.....
 Geo. Getz.
 The Era Upon Which We Are Entering.....
 Albert Holley.

The jolly evening was brought to an early close in order to allow the football players to get a long night's rest for today's contest at the fair grounds but all voted the affair one of the most enjoyable in the league's history.

Again In Durance Vile.

Frank Sayen was lodged within the walls of the branch state prison again Thursday night, having been recaptured late Thursday afternoon near Rock River by D. M. Parker, one of the prison guards. Sayen had been tracked as far as Ootwa where all trace of him was lost. Munising and Au Train were closely guarded and finally Mr. Parker, took the afternoon west-bound train intending to beat back again to see if the escaped convict had doubled on his pursuers. In looking out of the car window as the train neared Rock River he saw the top of a man's head peering over a log. He immediately determined to leave the train at Rock River, and turning back with two men to assist him soon spotted out his man. When discovered Sayen made a dash for liberty and Parker fired two shots to intimidate him. He then called out to him to surrender or the next shot would break his leg and at this Sayen weakened. In telling his experience Sayen said that he made detours about all the stations, but in getting around Au Train he got lost in the woods at night and finally struck the track again way west of Au Train instead of east as he had intended. This accounted for his being found where he was.

The faint, sweet odor of apple blossoms is not more delicate than pastry into which Dr. Price's Baking Powder enters.

Ernest Palmer's Funeral.

All members of the Queen City Text, K. O. T. M., are requested to meet at K. O. T. M. hall at 1:30 p. m. Sunday to attend the funeral of the late Sir Knight Ernest E. Palmer. All members of Superior and Pere Marquette tents are cordially invited to join in the last rites. The funeral will be held from the house at 2:30 p. m. with interment at Park cemetery.

Political Meetings.

Theron P. Keator, the tramp printer orator, will address the people of Marquette on the political issues of the day at the Casino on Monday evening next at 7:30 o'clock. The noted Indian is an eloquent and forcible speaker and his brand of Republicanism is of the most stalwart type. His speeches throughout the west in this campaign have been received with the greatest favor and he can be depended upon to open the Republican campaign here in a manner which will wake the boys up all along the line. The Prohibition party is also alive to the fact that Marquette has as yet been reached by only the faintest ripple from this campaign and as a result their nominee on the state ticket for superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Harvey B. Hatch, announces that on Thursday next there will be a big Prohibition rally at Salvation Army hall, the principal address of the evening being delivered by Hon. George R. Malone of Lansing. Mr. Malone is a very clear and convincing speaker and those who heard him here two years ago will be very glad of another opportunity to listen to him. Remember the date, Thursday, Nov. 1, Salvation Army hall.

Sunday Services.

There will be the usual services at St. Paul's church tomorrow. Early communion at 8 a. m.; morning service at 10:30 a. m.; Sunday school at 12 m. and evening prayer at 7:30 p. m.

There will be preaching morning and evening tomorrow at the First Baptist church by Rev. W. E. Feeman of Lima, O. All are very cordially invited to attend the services. The music by the choir will be as follows:

- MORNING.
 "Te Deum".....Buck
 "Art Thou Weary".....Buck
EVENING.
 "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night".....Schnecker
 "The Mellow Eve".....Hoben
 At the Presbyterian church Mr. Spencer will speak in the morning on "God Making a Revelation." In the evening the subject will be "Fashions in Religion."

The choir will render the following musical program:
MORNING.

EVENING.

 Offertory, "Come Unto Him".....Leslie
 Miss Gaffney.

Strangers in the city and all not belonging elsewhere are cordially invited to worship with this people.

On Sunday Also.

Over four hundred tickets were sold along the line for the South Shore's excursion to Duluth. On the train leaving last night was a full sleeper from the copper country while every place in the regular sleeper was taken at this end, about seventy-five leaving from Marquette alone. To take care of the overflow the railroad management announces that instead of limiting the sale of the excursion tickets to Friday and Saturday they will remain on sale tomorrow also, good to return Oct. 31, the fare for the round trip being only $4.50.

Light as sea foam is cake made with Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, By reason of the infirmities of this mortal body there has departed from among us an esteemed and beloved Brother Knight, after an illness peculiarly painful, and under circumstances that can but call forth the warmest sympathies of stranger and friend alike, and

Whereas, Our brother was a man whose integrity and sincerity secured for him the highest respect of all who had to do with him, whether in the daily avocations of life, the social circle, the work of the church or the associations of political life, therefore Resolved, That we, the members of Iron Cross lodge No. 106, Knights of Pythias, who were bound to him by vows of fraternity, do feel an especial loss and bereavement in the death of Knight Joseph P. Bray. We had, during our association with him, peculiarly favorable opportunities for noting the ideal character to which he aspired; for judging of his unswerving loyalty to what was revealed to him as his duty, and the sincerity of his convictions, motives and purposes was never open to the shadow of a doubt. We feel that we are ourselves the better for having known him and his irreproachable conduct we accept as an example worthy to be followed. To the widow and to the orphans, who are left to mourn a kind husband and a wise father, we offer all of consolation that weak human hearts can bestow, commending them to the Great Universal Chancellor for that comfort which alone can restore peace to the troubled heart and heal the wounds inflicted by the sickle of the grim Reaper. And it is our petition that with them we may reunite with the husband, father and brother in the Castle Hall of the Celestial Knights, where heartaches are unknown and where eternal rest is the reward of faithful discharge of duty here below. And be it

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this lodge and a copy of them be published in THE DAILY MINING JOURNAL.
