INTERVIEWS THE PRESIDENT
Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Calls on President Cleveland.

IS IN HEARTY SYMPATHY WITH THE CAMPAIGN.
Although Disappointed in the Tariff Bill the President Believes It Will Relieve the People.

HE ENCOURAGED THE GOOD WORK
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Senator Faulkner, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, today made a statement with reference to his recent call upon the president at which the political situation was talked over:

"As chairman of the congressional committee I called on the president and had a very pleasant interview with him. I conveyed all the information I had in reference to the congressional contest throughout the country and the prospects of the Democratic party in the various states. Our conversation was confined to the outlook in the pending congressional elections and I found the president as always in previous conversations regarding the interests of the Democratic party, manifesting the deepest concern in the information I communicated to him and in the hope I expressed for our success in maintaining a Democratic majority in congress. He clearly indicated he was satisfied with the direction given the campaign by the congressional committee, in earnestly and intelligently bringing before the voters the results of the Democratic action in an endeavor by congress to redeem Democratic pledges.

"Of course we all recognize the fact that Cleveland hoped for the passage of a revenue measure more in accordance with his views of the pledges of the party in its declaration at Chicago. But, as he has already stated, what has been done will certainly lighten many of the tariff burdens that now rest heavily upon the people, and he seemed to fully approve of the course of the committee in drawing a contrast between the onerous and burdensome exactions of the McKinley bill and reductions made by existing laws. He approves fully the presentation by the committee, as shown in its campaign books as well as in other literature, the difference in the condition of the treasury under his former administration and that of his successor, Harrison, and the deplorable condition of the treasury when turned over to him by his predecessor.

"You can rest assured I express my honest judgment when I say that from my conversation with the president no man takes a deeper interest in the success of the Democratic party in the present campaign and in the anxiety of the committee for the return of a Democratic majority to the Fifty-fourth congress than President Cleveland."

The patrons of Dr. Price's Baking Powder having tested its merits comprehend its value.

HELD ROUSING MEETING.
Six Thousand Democrats Hear Vice President Stevenson.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Despite the pouring rain six thousand Democrats crowded the Auditorium tonight to hear the leaders of their party discuss the political issues of the campaign. It was the largest gathering of local Democrats held during the entire campaign and was addressed by some of the most prominent men in the party in Illinois. Judge Lambert Tree presided and in opening the meeting delivered an address which was greeted with great applause. Corporation Counsel Rublin of Chicago followed, both he and Tree confining their remarks to the tariff. Vice President Stevenson was next introduced and was received with loud and long applause as he arose.

He announced that he brought the Democrats of northern Illinois cheering news of the strength of the party in the central and southern portions of the state and good news from New York, where he confidently predicted Hill would be successful. He declared the party had kept full faith with the people and had fulfilled all its pledges to the latter. He said the action of the planters in Louisiana in turning Republican was because that party had given them a bounty of $12,000,000 a year and when the Democratic party discontinued the bounty the planters turned to the party which had given them the money. He declared that the condition of the country was better now than it has been under the McKinley law and spoke at length in favor of the Wilson bill. He closed with a strong appeal to the voters of Illinois to see the Democratic party kept in power and finished his speech amid tremendous applause.

Hon. Wm. R. Morrison was then introduced and spoke on the tariff citing statistics to show that the country was more prosperous under the Democratic protection system of the Republican party. He declared the prosperity of the country under the Republican party was not because of, but in spite of protection. The country he said produced more manufactured goods than the needs of the people required and the only way to dispose of the surplus was to open up the markets of the world to the American manufacturer.

Franklin MacVeagh followed and was greeted with great applause. He declared the Democratic party won a great victory in the last campaign but it had not definitely secured to the people what it had promised to secure—tariff reform. He urged his hearers to see on next Tuesday that the party be kept in power so it could finish the work it had begun and bring to the nation the blessings of free trade and reform. At the conclusion of MacVeagh's speech the meeting adjourned.

DENOUNCES CLEVELAND.
Illinois' Crazy Governor Again Breaks Loose in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Governor Altgeld addressed a Democratic mass meeting tonight at Pulaski Hall and paid his respects to President Cleveland in vigorous language. He said:

"In the labor disturbances last summer the executive branch of our federal government assumed unheard-of power by sending troops into this state when there was no necessity for them. There was a preconcerted plan to use the federal power of the government for the protection of corporations. Last summer we were told for the first time that the president has power to send troops into any city or into a thousand cities at any time he chooses. Now if this construction of the constitution is to stand there is no difference between this government than that of the czar of Russia.

"But you say the troops were sent by a Democratic president. He was elected by the Democratic party but every act of his since he was elected has shown that instead of being imbued with Democratic principles he is imbued with the idea of taking care of the rich at the expense of the poor. The Democratic party advocated the principle of local self government a hundred years before the president was heard of and it will uphold them long after his name is forgotten and before the close of the nineteenth century the stars and stripes will wave over a people that will not have the clutch of a federal court around its neck."

THRONED TO HEAR HIM.
Senator Hill Addresses a Vast Audience in Auburn.

AUBURN, N. N., Nov. 2.—Senator Hill's meeting here tonight was the largest political demonstration in the history of this county. Over four thousand people heard the senator speak in Genesee rink and twice as many people crowded the streets outside.

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 2.—The Democratic campaign closed tonight with a meeting at the opera house where fifteen hundred people listened to tariff and silver speeches by ex-Governor Boies, R. F. Dale, candidate for secretary of state, and S. H. Bashor, candidate for congress from this district. The speeches were well received.

DENIES THE CHARGES.
The Illegal Registration Case in California Becoming Interesting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The case against Register of Voters Evans and the 6,000 men who are said to be illegally registered was called in Judge Wallace's court today. Evans denies that any persons are illegally registered. John Curtin was called as a witness but refused to appear. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest for contempt of court. It is charged that Stillwells suit in behalf of non-partisans and Democrats was not brought in good faith as Register Evans declares no attempt has been made to purge the rolls of the six thousand alleged voters before suit was brought. The attorneys for the prosecution declared they are in earnest and will push the case to the end. A large force of clerks is at work making out warrants and it is said every one of the six thousand will be arrested if he attempts to vote on election day.

THREE MEMBERS ABSENT.
There Was a Slim Attendance at Yesterday's Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—There were three absentees from today's cabinet meeting. Secretary Gresham and Postmaster General Bissel being confined to their homes by severe colds and Secretary Smith being self-quarantined. No final and definite conclusion has yet been reached by Secretary Carlisle regarding Morton's resignation but the indications are that a decision will be announced tomorrow. The probabilities are the decision will make a new precedent for the treasury department and will permit Howard to remain in the United States.

Hard times have increased the sales of Dr. Price's Baking Powder. The increase shows that consumers have an eye, not to the quality of its work alone, but to the great saving it insures by reason of its superior strength.

ON MYSTERIOUS MISSION.
England's Squadron in the Pacific Sent to War Rendezvous.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 2.—The British steamer Arthur is being hurriedly prepared for sea and at 10 o'clock tomorrow will sail for the south. Admiral Stevenson declined to receive newspaper men or to divulge anything. Beyond himself and secretary not a man on the ship knows anything about her destination. Acapulco is a war rendezvous for the squadron in the Pacific and it is there all the fleet that can be reached by cable are ordered to report. The Champion left for there Thursday night and the Arthur will also proceed there. The ship is heavily coaled and supplied.

LIMA, Nov. 2.—The report that the Peruvian insurgents had made an attack upon the British consulate at Callao and captured the consul and killed his wife and daughter is untrue.

VICTORY FOR HOMESTEADERS
Famous Amasa Daly Homestead Case Will Be Prosecuted in the Courts.

INDICATES VIRTUAL REVERSAL OF FORMER DECISION.
Don M. Dickinson Resumes His Arguments in Homestead Cases With Every Prospect of Success.

NOW IN THE SUPREME COURT.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The secretary of the interior has decided to refer the questions involved in the Amasa Daly case to the courts. The attorney general of the United States yesterday received from Secretary Smith a formal request for the prosecution of the government case in the western district of Michigan, in which Willard Kingsley is special counsel for the government, involving all the questions pending in the Daly case. The communication of the secretary of the interior to the attorney general says:

"The questions of law passed upon in this case (Amasa Daly) are also involved in the case pending in the federal court instituted by the government through the attorney general. I desire to request that the decision of the interior department in the Daly case is not allowed in any way to interfere with the prosecution of the suit by the United States to a decree. The question must be decided by the courts. It is important to all the interests that they should be separately decided and I understand that through this suit they may be determined with the least possible delay. Besides, the conclusions reached in the Amasa Daly case by this department are not free from serious doubt. I cannot claim a fixed and clear opinion as to their accuracy."

This decision is deemed here a virtual reversal of the decision of the interior department heretofore rendered as it disclaims exclusive jurisdiction of the questions involved and the courts have decided all the questions the other way and in favor of the settlers. In the homestead cases pending in the supreme court of the United States Don M. Dickinson resumed the argument for the settlers today and the impression here is that the decision of Justice Jackson and Justice Brown, which was in favor of the settlers in the court below, will be sustained by the supreme court.

EXTENDED UNTIL MONDAY.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The time for the hearing of the homestead cases in the United States court has been extended until Monday. Great interest is shown here in the outcome of the cases. The general conviction is that Hon. Don M. Dickinson will win his long and gallant fight for the homesteaders.

SPEECH TOOK WELL.
C. F. Sundstrom Speaks to Democratic Audience at Menominee.

MENOMINEE, Mich., Nov. 2.—[Special]—C. F. Sundstrom addressed a Democratic meeting here last evening. The audience was not large owing to adverse circumstances but very enthusiastic. The speaker made many happy hits which were greatly appreciated. Mr. Sundstrom favorably impressed our people and must be doing good work throughout the district.

THE FIRST PROCLAMATION.
New Czar Publishes His First Manifesto to His Subjects.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 2.—The Official Gazette this morning publishes the first proclamation of Czar Nicholas II in which, after formally communicating to the nation the news of the death of his father says: "May the knowledge console you that our grief is the grief of our entire beloved nation and may the nation not forget that the strength and firmness of Russia lies in its unity and unbounded devotion to us. In this sad solemn hour when we ascend the throne of the Russian empire the czarism of Poland and the grand duchy of Finland are indissolubly linked with it. We however remember the legacy left us by our lamented father and, imbued with it in the presence of the most high, take the vow to make our sole aim the development of the power and glory of our beloved Russia and the happiness of all our faithful subjects."

The manifesto concludes by commanding that the oath of allegiance be given to him and to his heir apparent, his brother, Grand Duke George, who will be czarowitz until God shall bless with a son the union which he is about to enter with Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt. The accession of the new czar is being celebrated as a festival throughout the city, this event taking precedence over the mourning ceremonies.

Why does real economy prescribe the use of Dr. Price's Baking Powder? Because it is stronger, purer and more wholesome than any other.

COAL MINERS STRIKE
Iowa Miners Ask for an Advance in Their Wages.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 2.—What promises to develop into a big strike in the Des Moines district was inaugurated tonight when sixty coal miners of the Clifton Heights mines laid down their tools and refused to work until the operators conceded an advance of ten cents per ton. The news comes from Evans, near Oskaloosa, that negro miners are on their way to Des Moines to take the vacant places. The white miners declare the negroes will not be permitted to work.

DAILY CASE REVERSED.

Secretary Hoke Smith of the interior department yesterday reversed his famous "innocent purchaser" decision in the Amasa Daily case. For this pleasing consummation the people of the upper peninsula have to thank Rush Culver and Hon. Don. M. Dickinson. They have fought for the rights of the homesteaders early and late and their efforts have been crowned with success. Of course the contest is not over, but an important victory has been won. The people of the upper peninsula will have next Tuesday an opportunity to express their thanks to Mr. Culver at the ballot box, and unless all signs fall they will not be slow in showing their gratitude to him for his unselfish and untiring efforts in their behalf.

Everything that has transpired since the rendering of this "innocent purchaser" decision has gone to show that the secretary of the interior was deceived, either by the counsel for the defendant corporation or by the legal officer of his department who actually reviewed the evidence and heard the arguments and prepared the decision which the secretary signed. Of course it is well known that the secretary does not, because he cannot, personally make the decision in one-tenth of these land cases. Most of them involve only well-settled principles and the decision, though reviewed and signed by the secretary, is in reality prepared by some assistant. Such was the fact in this Amasa Daily case. Now that the efforts of Mr. Culver and Mr. Dickinson have led Secretary Smith to go into the matter personally he quickly corrects the error which had been made and does justice to the homesteaders of this region.

As THE MINING JOURNAL has said before, a vote for Mr. Culver means that this fight shall go on until every acre of land wrongfully held or unearned by the great corporations of this peninsula shall be restored to the public domain. A vote for Mr. Stephenson means that the man who casts it is satisfied with the present conditions in this district. No one desires to take from those corporations a foot of land which is rightly theirs. But every good citizen should wish to see restored to the people all unearned and wrongfully held lands.

The land question is by far the most important one in this district at this time. The people have it in their power to express their opinion most decisively upon that issue in this election. The triumph of Mr. Culver will be the signal for renewed and resistless effort to obtain for the people all their rights in the lands of this peninsula. The election of Mr. Stephenson will indicate to the law-officers of the national government that the people of this district are really indifferent to this land-grabbing of which they have been talking so much. Here is the question for every voter to put to himself as he goes to the polls next Tuesday:

"Am I on the side of the people or on the side of the corporations?"

If he is on the side of the people he will drop in a ballot for Rush Culver.

DETROIT seems to be the Charleston of Methodism just now. For some years a contest has been going on in that church for and against the admission of women as delegates to the general conference. At its last session that body decided to admit female delegates hereafter unless three-quarters of the ministers and two-thirds of the laity should vote against such admission, and instructed the congregations to take a vote on the subject in October and November of this year. Now the Central Methodist church of Detroit defies the mandate of the general conference and refuses to take any vote on the subject. These church quarrels are more amusing than instructive, but it is certainly strange to see Methodists, whose church government is so highly centralized and who have generally supported policies of centralization in worldly affairs, take such an attitude of rebellion toward their central government.

HAVE WAKED UP.

The appended letter from Mr. Benjamin Vosper to THE MINING JOURNAL shows the administration at Washington is very much awake to the conditions in this peninsula and that the great homestead controversy here is at last attracting the attention it deserves. Mr. Vosper is well known in this section in connection with land litigation and his letter is of great interest to all interested in those controversies. He writes as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31, 1894.

To THE MINING JOURNAL—I thought it might be of interest to the numerous readers of your paper to know of the status in the courts and department of the homestead cases and the attitude of the administration in relation thereto.

The secretary of the interior did not take up the motion for a re-hearing in the Daily case at the date assigned therefore, because of the small-pox scare and the previous exposure of the assistant attorney general for that department to the contagion. But the secretary has, however, addressed a letter to the attorney general, urging his department to proceed with dispatch in the suit in equity involving the title to the homestead lands claimed by the Michigan Land & Iron company, which action on its part clearly forecloses his ruling on the application for re-hearing and virtually assures the reversal of the decision in that case (the Amasa Daily case).

I had the honor, in company with Mr. Dickinson, of calling upon the president this morning. The president noticeably evinced a keen interest in the struggle of the homesteaders in northern Michigan by making numerous inquiries about the progress of the cases pending in the courts and the department involving their rights and expressed his regret that the small-pox scare had deterred the secretary from taking up and disposing of the questions involved in the re-hearing, to which Mr. Dickinson made the characteristic reply:

"I would willingly have had the small-pox if the secretary had taken up the motion and reversed the former decision."

The president smilingly responded: "That is just like you, Mr. Dickinson."

It is doubtful if the cases in the supreme court will be reached for argument before Monday next. The court has intimated that by reason of the importance of the case counsel will not be restricted by the rules as to time in the presentation of the cases.

Judge Jackson, who heard the motion for a new trial, is not upon the bench this term, being confined by his home by serious illness. The bar are looking for a most forcible argument from Mr. Dickinson. It will be an effort worthy of his great heart and matchless zeal for the rights of the settlers in northern Michigan.

BENJAMIN VOSPER.

THAT FIFTY DOLLAR CHECK.

There is a great deal still unexplained about that $50 check which Mr. S. M. Stephenson, in the kindness of his heart, sent to C. E. Cameron of Baraga. Here is Cameron's alleged letter asking for the loan, exactly as published in the Negaunee Iron Herald last week:

BARAGA, MICH., Oct. 13, 1894.
Hon. Samuel Stephenson, Menominee, Mich.

DEAR SIR—To make a long story short, I need your assistance or I will lose $5,000 after fighting it three years. My homestead contest took place in Marquette last June and they have just completed writing up testimony and sent me the bill for same amounting to $50, and I have not got it neither can I get it here as the money is so tight. I was over to L'Anse yesterday but had no success. Lots of my friends would loan it to me if they had it, for they do not want me to lose a good claim worth that amount. If you will loan it to me I will secure you by chattel mortgage and note for six months, and by that time I will have time to earn it and support my family. Kindly answer and oblige. Yours respectfully,
C. E. CAMERON.

It will be noted that Cameron's letter above is dated Oct. 13, while the check now in Mr. Culver's possession is dated Oct. 19. The question thus naturally arises how Mr. Stephenson could have foreseen that Cameron would ask for the loan and make out his check two days before the latter's letter would reach him, allowing only one day for transmission through the mails from Baraga to Menominee.

This is puzzling enough but now comes the Houghton Gazette and makes confusion twice confounded. In its issue of yesterday that paper publishes a series of letters, an interview with Cameron and an affidavit by the latter. Cameron's letter asking for the loan is, strangely enough, not given, but the following letter from Mr. Stephenson is:

MENOMINEE, Mich., Oct. 4, 1894.
C. E. CAMERON, Esq., Baraga, Mich.

DEAR SIR:—In your favor of the 3rd inst. is at hand. You will say that if you will send me your note for $50 for six months with interest at 7 per cent, payable at the First National Bank of this city, I will send the money as you request. Better have some of your friends in L'Anse endorse the note.

I note your remarks as to Culver getting quite a number of Republican votes. In view of the record made by the Democrats thus far in their administration the Republican who would desert his party and vote the Democratic ticket has, in my judgment, very little principle.

I expect to be in your county sometime this month accompanied by a good speaker. Who is the chairman of your county committee?

Hoping to see Baraga county in line with a Republican majority this fall I remain, very truly yours,
S. M. STEPHENSON.

Now one might infer from this last document that the Iron Herald blundered when it gave Oct. 13 as the date of Cameron's letter and that Oct. 3 was the true date. But Mr. Stephenson's letter shows plainly that he cannot be answering Cameron's letter as given in the Iron Herald. There are no political allusions in Cameron's letter as printed by the Iron Herald and yet Stephenson says: "I note your remarks as to Culver, etc."

The Houghton Gazette follows the letter last quoted with this paragraph, introducing Mr. Stephenson's letter which enclosed the check, and which it then gives:

"On October 10th Mr. Cameron wrote Mr. Stephenson, enclosing his note for $50, and on the 13th received the following letter from Mr. Stephenson, enclosing his check for $50:"

MENOMINEE, Mich., Oct. 12th, 1894.
Charles E. Cameron, Esq., Baraga, Mich.

DEAR SIR—Your letter of the 10th inst. with note, has been received, and I send you herewith check for $50. Please acknowledge receipt.

I regret very much that circumstances are such that I cannot possibly make arrangements to stop at Baraga during the campaign as I had previously intended. I have a large number of places to go, and as the time is so short before election, I have been compelled to omit the names of several places from the list which I first prepared.

I shall, therefore, have to depend entirely upon yourself and other friends to see to it that my interests are not neglected in your section.

Very truly yours,
S. M. STEPHENSON.

This last letter proves that Mr. Stephenson made no mistake when he dated his check Oct. 13, whatever might have been Cameron's blunders as to dates. But it also shows very clearly indeed that Cameron's letter, as published in the Iron Herald, is either very badly garbled or a sheer fabrication. Yet this very letter the Iron Herald says it received from R. E. Jennings, Mr. Stephenson's private secretary, by Mr. Stephenson's instructions.

Cameron's alleged letters of Oct. 3 and Oct. 10, which the Houghton Gazette strangely omits to publish, are evidently those which would throw most light on this peculiar transaction. The Houghton Gazette says: "On Oct. 10 Mr. Cameron wrote Mr. Stephenson, enclosing his note for $50." Jennings, in his note to the Iron Herald, enclosing Cameron's alleged letter of Oct. 13: "Mr. Stephenson speaks of two letters, but this is the only one I find. When Cameron sent his note I think he merely enclosed it in an envelope."

Why do not the Houghton Gazette, or the Negaunee Iron Herald, or some of the other Stephenson organs, publish Cameron's letters of Oct. 3 and Oct. 10, and why has the Iron Herald tried to palm off upon the public the evidently garbled or fabricated letter from Cameron of Oct. 13? And since the Iron Herald certifies, by publishing a note from Mr. Jennings enclosing it, that the garbled or fabricated Cameron letter of Oct. 13 was sent to it by Mr. Stephenson's order, the question now arises: Who garbled or fabricated that same Cameron letter of Oct. 13? And what did Cameron actually write in his alleged letters of Oct. 3 and Oct. 10? Did Cameron put his request for the loan on the business and charitable basis alleged in his letter of Oct. 13? Or did he ask it on the ground of political services rendered or to be rendered?

Another point: Mr. Stephenson in his remarks here the other night said that he did not know the politics of the man who asked for the loan. He said this privately as well as publicly. Yet in the interview with Cameron in the Houghton Gazette—an interview backed by an affidavit—appears this passage:

Mr. Cameron, has Mr. Stephenson ever loaned you any money before?
Yes, sir.
I believe it was in the spring of 1889. Did you give him a note for that loan?
No, it was just a verbal transaction.

In view of the fact that Mr. Stephenson knew Cameron well enough as far back as 1889 to lend him money on a verbal promise it is certainly remarkable that he should assert that he knows nothing of Cameron's politics now.

From the above one or two things are pretty clear:

1. Cameron asked for the loan on the ground of political services rendered or to be rendered to Mr. Stephenson. The first letter from Mr. Stephenson, quoted above, shows that plainly that such was the case.

2. The letter from Cameron to Stephenson published in the Iron Herald is either grossly garbled or a sheer fabrication and the responsibility for this garbling or fabrication is plainly brought home to Mr. Stephenson or his private secretary, for whose acts Mr. Stephenson is responsible.

3. An effort has been made by suppression or evasion of the facts on the part of Mr. Stephenson, or his adherents, or both, to conceal the real nature of the transaction.

The question now is whether the people wish to vote for a man who uses money in this way to secure his election to congress. It might also be asked whether Mr. Stephenson would have been so generous had not an election been pending.

CATARRHAL DYSPEPSIA.
A Discouraged Invalid Restored to Health and Happiness.

Catarrh of the stomach causes a condition known as dyspepsia or indigestion. It usually results from catarrh in the throat, but sometimes occurs in people who have never had catarrh elsewhere. The symptoms of dyspepsia are: Liver complaint, biliousness, sour stomach, water-brash, bloating after eating, constipation, piles, and in many cases low spirits, dizzy head, sympathetic heart palpitation, pain, indigestion and looseness of the bowels.

Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin, taking according to directions on the bottle, will cure every one. The following is a specimen of the letters received from patients.

O. S. McQuillan, Spring Hill, Ia., writes: "Four years ago last fall my stomach, without any previous warning, refused to perform its functions and I soon lost strength. During this time food was forced through my stomach by using cathartics. With flesh wasted away, strength exhausted so that it took all my energy to even get into a bath tub, hopes all gone, I began to take Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin, following free advice which Dr. Hartman gave me. In a short time I could eat nourishing food in the pines, kidney trouble and constipation disappeared. Flesh, strength and a splendid appetite returned and I went to work."

A THANKSGIVING BEAR.

Night Hunt in a Canoe—Two Ducks and One Bear.

The homes of the Duncans and Taylors were situated near the Little Red, a swift stream that flowed through a region but little opened as yet and still inhabited by the animals of the west.

Indeed, bear roamed at will through the dense canebreaks, and not infrequently made reprisals on the scattered settlers. Wolves, too, abounded in the region, and in winter their long dismal howling made the cold nights hideous.

The Duncan and Taylor boys—Roy and Phil—had been companions from childhood, and when their parents settled in the new country they were in their element, as they could roam the woods, or paddle down the Little Red, every now and then picking up a bear or turkey with their trusty rifles.

It was not long before they became known as the best young Nimrods in the whole district, and whenever they started on a hunt it was taken for granted that they would return with a well-filled bag.

One of their favorite methods of bagging wild game was by the fire-hunt, and these adventures generally took place on the river. They would set up their torch in the canoe, and while paddling up stream, or floating with the current, would by its light see the eyes of the bear or deer on shore, and a shot was pretty sure to bring down the fascinated targets.

The night before Thanksgiving Phil Taylor strolled over to the Duncan homestead with a proposition almost sure to find favor with his young companion. This was nothing less than a fire-hunt on the river for the purpose, as Phil expressed it, "bagging a Thanksgiving bear."

"We can float past the big brakes near the bend," said he, as he laid his proposition before Roy. "Tom Hunter, who came through there the other day, saw lots of fresh signs, and we may be able to get a big one for tomorrow's feast."

Taken with the prospect of some exciting adventure, Roy at once acquiesced, and the two boys began to prepare for the fire-hunt. The canoe was dragged forth and the pine knots for the torch gathered and made ready. A torch of pine knots, if fashioned properly, will throw a fierce glare for many rods over the water, and animals will come to the shore and gaze at it, fascinated, as it were, until the merriment of the hunter in the canoe terminates their careers.

The young hunters of the Little Red waited with some impatience for night-fall, and when the hour came they launched their canoe and sprang into it. The torch had been placed in the stern of the boat, and Phil, who was to have the first shot, took his seat underneath it, in such a position that the light, streaming over him and from behind, would throw its radiance along the shore, thus revealing the gleaming eyes of wolf or bear, but without the glare dazzling his own eyes.

In some places the river was dangerous on account of unseen rocks, over which the water boiled like a cauldron, while in others canoeing was perfectly safe; but the boys knew the stream well and had paddled it on many occasions after dark. Taking along the shore, drove the light bark into the middle of the river, while Phil under the torch watched the tall canoes that lined the edge and tried to catch the first sight of game.

The night was calmly beautiful, and the paddles made no noise in the water as the canoe swept down stream. As they neared the bend where they expected to catch sight of a living target Phil and Roy increased their watchfulness. All at once the paddles in Roy's supple hands seemed to rest, and he glanced at his companion. Phil at the same moment had seen what had caught Roy's eye.

On the right, where the tall canes seemed to seek the solitude of the stars, gleamed a pair of intense eyes, very close together, and near the ground.

"It is old Ephraim," whispered Phil, as he moved his rifle and leaned forward for a better look. "We have found our Thanksgiving bear at last!"

The canoe had reached a quieter place in the current and Roy had brought it to anchor there.

"Don't miss him," he said to Phil. "In all my life I never saw eyes shine so. I believe I can make out the outlines of the bear's head."

Slowly, with a cool hunter's deliberation, Phil lifted the rifle to his shoulder, and while he watched the shining eyes, Roy seemed to hold his breath. The crack of the weapon awoke the echoes along the shore, and as the smoke lifted both boys leaned forward with eagerness and looked toward the shore.

"You missed him!" cried Roy. "No. Look yonder! The old fellow has tumbled into the water and is in the death struggle. Quick! Row toward him before the eddy sucks him in. We snail lose the bear if we are not careful!"

Roy needed no urging to force the canoe through the water toward the spot where something was splashing among the rocks, and Phil, who had reloaded, was watching for another shot, as he saw that the bear was desperately wounded, though not yet quite conquered.

As the canoe neared the spot there was a sudden plunge on the part of the animal, and the huge bulk vanished for a moment.

"Lost!" exclaimed Roy. Before Phil could reply, something dark and wet rose almost underneath the frail canoe, and the next moment he saw the taffrail in the grip of a bear. The great paws, looking doubly formidable in the unsteady light of the torch, with the weight of the bear, threatened to overturn the boat, and the ugly head with wide mouth bleeding from the boy's shot, was enough to send chills of terror to the Nimrods' hearts.

WELCOMED AT THE STATION.

Ex-President Harrison Met at the Albany Depot by Five Thousand People.

RAILWAY TRACKS BLOCKADED BY THE PEOPLE.

The Ex-President Speaks Words of High Praise for Morton and Gently Ross's the Democrats.

CROWD WAS BEYOND CONTROL.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Five thousand people jostled and pushed and defied the police in such a manner in the Union station this afternoon that all control of them was lost and the officers were obliged to simply stand by and aid the women, who unluckily got into the crush, or to clear the tracks when the train approached.

Not only was the platform and yard crowded with people but the roof sheds were black and when the train stopped men and boys climbed on top of the cars. Ex-President Harrison was applauded and cheered when he stepped out upon the platform and it took several minutes before he could speak.

He touched briefly upon local issues and then eulogized ex-Vice President Morton. He then referred to the hard times and said: "The Democrats proved themselves not good managers of the people's affairs and are afraid to face the people, but the people are fixing that all right; they are turning their backs to the Democratic party."

The Democratic party is not experienced enough to manage the nation's affairs. They have not had control of the government since 1861 and since they have been called upon to control it it is as if Christopher Columbus were called upon to command a trans-atlantic steamer.

General Harrison's reception reached immense dimensions this evening at a Republican ratification meeting at Harmonia Hall.

On his return to Ashtabula where he spoke this afternoon the governor spoke at a number of small towns where stops were made. Tonight he spoke at Akron to a crowd of 6,000.

PRICE OF PRODUCE HIGHER.

Corn and Wheat Show a Slight Increase Over Market of Last Week.

EXPORTS OF GRAIN MAKING A GRADUAL INCREASE.

Prices of Woolen Goods Very Low and the Demand is Disappointing to the Manufacturers.

DUNN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The volume of production was well maintained though smaller than last year and 1893 and in one or two branches it has increased. Breadstuffs are a little higher and no material decline appears during the week in manufactured products.

Corn advanced four cents yet pork and hogs are somewhat lower with lard about the same. Wheat is three-fourth of a cent higher for spot and a cent for December, although western receipts were only 4,587,670 bushels for the week against 6,503,171 last year, and Atlantic exports increased to 696,596 bushels against 740,596 last year.

Cotton is again lower, spot being $5.75 with receipts heavy. In the iron industry the chief activity is in structural work, bridge and other plates. While the demand for sheets has somewhat diminished bar and wire are showing improvement and nails are weaker.

MAN-EATERS OF THE PACIFIC.

Sharks That Are the Dread of the California Fishermen.

The true man-eater shark as taken on the Pacific coast is known only as a man-eater. The shovel-nosed sharks are sand sharks, too cowardly to attack even a yellow dog. The thirty-four foot shark, captured by some fishermen, of the true man-eater variety (carchodon carcharus), seemed brave enough and savage enough to attack anything within its reach. The monster's mouth was wide, the teeth long and sharp, with an inward incline. The stomach would hold a full-grown man easily and a good deal besides.

The fish became entangled in a net off Point Loma. Two boats attacked the vicious creature and finally succeeded in punching an iron into its vitals. The side of one boat was stove in by a blow forcible enough to knock one fisherman overboard.

These sharks, says the New York Tribune, have been known to attack a small boat, upset it and eat the crew. A man-eater over forty-two feet long has been reported below San Diego. The natives are said to live in fear of this awful fish, which already has the record of having eaten six men. It has been shot frequently. The water about it has been discolored with blood.

Yet the shark still lives. The tiger shark is as ferocious as the man-eater. Another large shark hereabouts is the basking shark. It is taken measuring fifteen to forty feet in length. The skin of one thirty-two feet long is at Stanford University museum. It was captured last March. This skin alone weighs over fifteen hundred pounds, while the shark's liver produced one hundred and eighty gallons of oil.

These sharks, however, are sluggish, lazy and do not bite people. Their gill-rakers are on the whale model. When entangled in a net they frequently suffocate, as the net restricts the gills.

California fishermen do not consider five-foot sharks of much account when from San Diego wharves black sea bass are caught six to eight feet long, weighing three hundred to five hundred pounds. Such fish are common. They are taken on shark hooks and clotheslines. When hooked the fish is allowed to swim about the bay towing a two-inch plank. When he is exhausted the line is hauled in and the fish killed with an ax.

COST OF THE CRIMEAN WAR.

John Bull Paid an Enormous Price to Keep Russia Out of Turkey.

On July 12, 1856, the Crimea was finally evacuated by the British forces after the war of over two years, says Spare Moments. All the remaining stores and the establishments having been embarked, a company of the Fiftieth British regiment was posted outside the town of Balaklava to receive the Russian troops, and on their approach marched in with the Russian gird, which was composed of about fifty mounted Cossacks and a similar number of Cossack infantry. The usual salute took place, the Russians placed sentinels where they wished, and the English troops marched on board H. M. S. Algiers. Gen. Sir William John Codrington, chief in command of the forces in the Crimea, and who died in 1884, embarked with his personal staff at the same time. During this war the British lost 3,500 killed in action or died from their wounds; 4,244 of cholera, and nearly 16,000 who succumbed to other diseases, making a total of 23,744, of whom 270 were officers, and besides these 2,873 were disabled. The loss of French allies was estimated at 63,500 men, while the loss of the Russians on the opposite side was reckoned as high as 500,000 men. The war added to the British national debt over $200,000,000. Notwithstanding the enormous amount expended Britain asked from Russia no pecuniary compensation, nor gained one inch of land; but the defeat of the Russians kept them out of Constantinople and made the way to India and the east clear. The memoirs of Earl Russell show that it would have secured for the Turkish empire much internal benefit if the French had been as disinterested as the British, and not required in that case some territory for themselves.

MAN-EATERS OF THE PACIFIC.

Sharks That Are the Dread of the California Fishermen.

The true man-eater shark as taken on the Pacific coast is known only as a man-eater. The shovel-nosed sharks are sand sharks, too cowardly to attack even a yellow dog. The thirty-four foot shark, captured by some fishermen, of the true man-eater variety (carchodon carcharus), seemed brave enough and savage enough to attack anything within its reach. The monster's mouth was wide, the teeth long and sharp, with an inward incline. The stomach would hold a full-grown man easily and a good deal besides.

The fish became entangled in a net off Point Loma. Two boats attacked the vicious creature and finally succeeded in punching an iron into its vitals. The side of one boat was stove in by a blow forcible enough to knock one fisherman overboard.

These sharks, says the New York Tribune, have been known to attack a small boat, upset it and eat the crew. A man-eater over forty-two feet long has been reported below San Diego. The natives are said to live in fear of this awful fish, which already has the record of having eaten six men. It has been shot frequently. The water about it has been discolored with blood.

Yet the shark still lives. The tiger shark is as ferocious as the man-eater. Another large shark hereabouts is the basking shark. It is taken measuring fifteen to forty feet in length. The skin of one thirty-two feet long is at Stanford University museum. It was captured last March. This skin alone weighs over fifteen hundred pounds, while the shark's liver produced one hundred and eighty gallons of oil.

These sharks, however, are sluggish, lazy and do not bite people. Their gill-rakers are on the whale model. When entangled in a net they frequently suffocate, as the net restricts the gills.

California fishermen do not consider five-foot sharks of much account when from San Diego wharves black sea bass are caught six to eight feet long, weighing three hundred to five hundred pounds. Such fish are common. They are taken on shark hooks and clotheslines. When hooked the fish is allowed to swim about the bay towing a two-inch plank. When he is exhausted the line is hauled in and the fish killed with an ax.

COST OF THE CRIMEAN WAR.

John Bull Paid an Enormous Price to Keep Russia Out of Turkey.

On July 12, 1856, the Crimea was finally evacuated by the British forces after the war of over two years, says Spare Moments. All the remaining stores and the establishments having been embarked, a company of the Fiftieth British regiment was posted outside the town of Balaklava to receive the Russian troops, and on their approach marched in with the Russian gird, which was composed of about fifty mounted Cossacks and a similar number of Cossack infantry. The usual salute took place, the Russians placed sentinels where they wished, and the English troops marched on board H. M. S. Algiers. Gen. Sir William John Codrington, chief in command of the forces in the Crimea, and who died in 1884, embarked with his personal staff at the same time. During this war the British lost 3,500 killed in action or died from their wounds; 4,244 of cholera, and nearly 16,000 who succumbed to other diseases, making a total of 23,744, of whom 270 were officers, and besides these 2,873 were disabled. The loss of French allies was estimated at 63,500 men, while the loss of the Russians on the opposite side was reckoned as high as 500,000 men. The war added to the British national debt over $200,000,000. Notwithstanding the enormous amount expended Britain asked from Russia no pecuniary compensation, nor gained one inch of land; but the defeat of the Russians kept them out of Constantinople and made the way to India and the east clear. The memoirs of Earl Russell show that it would have secured for the Turkish empire much internal benefit if the French had been as disinterested as the British, and not required in that case some territory for themselves.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

WAS IT SUICIDE?

A Homeless Cur Which Found No Sympathy in the Wicked City of Gotham.

He would probably have responded to any old name with a waggle of his stumpy tail. He was a chummy little cur if encouraged, but as he slunk around the corner of Eighty-first street into Central park west late one Sunday night, says the New York Sun, two fresh wounds on his back indicated that his friendly advances had been repulsed. Somebody had struck or kicked him and his body was quivering with pain. He was unattached, hungry, and weak, but he had hopes.

A boy came down the street and made a strike at him with a stick. The dog drew back into the doorway of an apartment house and stood there thinking it over. He sniffed the air weakly and found in it no suggestion of food. Then, with a little whine, he nursed his wounds. A man came out of the door, and finding a scraggy-looking cur blocking his way, kicked him to one side and walked up town. The dog picked himself up. Perhaps he would have better luck next time, so he just loafed around. He attempted to tag behind a passerby as if he belonged and just as he was regaining his self-respect the man turned around and said: "Get out, you cur." The dog stopped short.

He watched the man until he turned down a side street. Then the dog walked back to his corner still hoping. When a young woman with her escort passed him he was a wise dog and he got up a little appealing bark. The young woman bent over and said: "Why, you poor, lonesome little dog. And when she patted him on the head his stubby little tail wagged hard and his eyes brightened. This was the sympathy he had been looking for. He fell in behind and followed his newly-acquired friend to an apartment house half a dozen blocks up the street. Several times the woman turned around and addressed a remark to him, and she called him "doggie" because she hadn't known him long enough to give him a name. She probably would attend to that after she had fed him. As his two friends entered the apartment house they evidently forgot him, for the door was closed in his face. They would remember him when he barked, so he made a noise. Then he whined a little and waited.

An open English avenue car was coming down grade at a rapid pace, and a party of picnicers in it were singing. The dog walked out to the curb and watched the well-lighted car approach. Possibly the lights and the noise dazzled him as he was crossing the track. As the car bowed by there was a wild kiyi under the horses' hoofs and the wheels rolled over something. The conductor went back to investigate. "Only a dog," he said, as he rang to go ahead, "and he's dead for fair. What I don't understand is why, with the whole street free, he should permit himself to be run over."

Merit is best brought out by the test of competition. That is why Dr. Price's Baking Powder surpassed all others at the World's Columbian Exposition.

The products of dainty cake, flaky biscuit, superior short cake, wonderful griddle-cakes, incomparable pie-crusts, made with Dr. Price's Baking Powder are supremely gratifying to all who would live well.

ON A CHERRY STONE.

A Talented Convict Carves His Petition for a Pardon.

Gies Berger, the actor and newspaper man, has a picture in calligraphy that has a remarkable history. It is in size thirty by forty-two inches and is the work of Joseph Loew, the most noted counterfeiter that the Austrian government ever knew.

When an application is made for a pardon in Austria the red tape policy of that country compels the applicant to address the emperor with all his titles. Emperor Ferdinand had about forty titles. Loew engraved all of these names, together with his petition for a pardon, on a cherry stone.

The letters were so fine that it required the aid of a powerful microscope to decipher them. One day when the emperor visited the prison Loew in person presented a cherry stone to the emperor and told him what it contained. The emperor made an examination and was so amazed at the work that he gave him an unconditional pardon. Not only did he pardon him, but gave him a position as a detective to trail down counterfeiters.

Loew was a well-informed man in all the arts and specialties of counterfeiters, and in less than two years after his pardon he ran to earth almost every counterfeiter in Austria, and died a few years ago covered with detective honors. The picture, although made fifty years ago, is in a remarkable state of preservation.

The Mystery of Thunder.

Thunder, as far as its consideration by intelligent human beings is concerned, is among the oldest of the natural phenomena, and yet it is the least understood. According to one authority on such subjects, M. Hirn, it is caused by the separated columns of air rushing together after being separated by the electro flash, the main report being the actual contact of such divided sections of atmosphere. An Ohio scientist has suggested something entirely different. He says: "Is it not possible that the 'crackling' of thunder, one of the stock puzzles for centuries, is really caused by the conversion of gases into water by the action of the electric flash or blaze? The fact that each sharp peal of thunder is followed by a suddenly increased downpour of rain goes to prove that something has caused the rapid conversion of gases or vapor into water."

ROASTED OLD PARTIES.

Populist Orators Fail to Arouse Much Enthusiasm at Ishpeming.

GOOD ATTENDANCE BUT SPARSE APPLAUSE.

Mayor Anderson of Ironwood and Messrs. Cox and Arner of Marquette the Talkers.

THE POPULIST MEETING.

A large crowd attended the Populist rally Thursday night and the meeting was pronounced the best in point of attendance yet held in this section by that party. Every chair in the hall was occupied and quite a few men stood in the aisle near the door. The meeting was called to order by Edwin Cox of Marquette, who also gave the opening address. Mr. Cox occupied the platform for about an hour, during which time he covered considerable ground.

He said he disliked to talk on tariff issues, as the two old parties were forever filling the voters full of that. If it wasn't one kind of a tariff it was another and so it has been as long as he could remember. He denounced the tariff as a blind issue, discussed by the Republican and Democratic parties only as a means of catching votes. Mr. Cox related his experience as a Democrat, to which party he belonged until a year ago, when he realized that he had been going wrong all the days of his life. He now thanked his Maker that he was on the right road.

Mr. Cox's denunciation of the old parties was expressed in very strong terms and his remarks in expressing his hatred for their principles were rather amusing and seemed to be enjoyed by the majority of those present. Mr. Cox is evidently sincere in his belief of the Populist doctrines and is as fearless as man can be in expressing his opinion. He spoke at some length on the money question and related some interesting things regarding the money in use in older times. He is well posted on money matters and his remarks with reference to the currency of today as well as in years past were heartily received. In closing his discourse Mr. Cox made a very strong plea to the voters to cast their ballots for the candidates on the People's party ticket.

Mr. E. B. Arner followed Mr. Cox. He spoke for three-quarters of an hour. His remarks being confined principally to the Populist platform, which he endeavored to convince his auditors contained principles the most beneficial to the masses of the people. He referred quite frequently to the speech recently delivered in Chicago by William McKinley, claiming that certain parts of that gentleman's address were based on facts relating to the Populist platform. Mr. Arner has studied the Populist platform from one end to the other and is thoroughly posted with relation to its make-up and succeeded in presenting his arguments so that they were understood by all.

Mayor Anderson of Ironwood followed Mr. Arner. In opening his address he spoke briefly on matters relating to the Populist party and reviewed some of the remarks of the speakers who preceded him. He related some of the incidents of the Ironwood strike and in doing so censured Governor Norrie and the management of the Norrie mine in very strong terms. Mr. Anderson lays no claim to oratory, consequently he did not tire the audience with a lengthy speech, having concluded his remarks in less than fifteen minutes. Although the meeting was largely attended it was not a very enthusiastic one, as the majority of those present were not in sympathy with the speakers, consequently it was a hard matter for the latter to bring out applause. Mr. Anderson left yesterday for the copper country, where he spoke last night.

The Last Rally.

The Republicans of this city will have the last rally of the present campaign next Monday evening, when Hon. T. B. Dunstan of Hancock will be the principal speaker. Mr. Dunstan is said to be a very entertaining talker and no doubt will be interesting as well as instructive. There will be music in attendance and all are invited to attend.

C. R. Chindblom of Chicago, who addressed the Swedish voters of the city last evening, was greeted by a fair house. Mr. Chindblom is a very fair talker and judging from the frequent applause he succeeded in pleasing his auditors. The City band furnished music for the occasion. Mr. Chindblom is booked for a talk at Marquette tonight and he will wind up the campaign at Menominee Monday night.

By its superb qualities Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder has become incomparably the household favorite.

Bride and Groom Sernaded.

Howard Pascoe and Miss Emma Rogers were united in marriage Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers, North Main street, Rev. J. T. Joslin, pastor of the Division street Methodist church, tying the nuptial knot. In the evening, immediately after supper, the newly wedded pair were serenaded by the Lake Superior band which remained at the house until midnight. A large number of friends also called during the evening and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. In going through town between 12 and 1 o'clock, the band played a lively march and succeeded in awakening many of the residents in the center of the city.

BUTTED EACH OTHER.

How Two Negroes in Slavery Days Tried to Settle a Trifling Dispute.

"One of the most novel conflicts I ever saw between two belligerents of the human race," said Milo Stafford, of New Orleans, to a writer for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "took place between two negroes on my plantation a few years before the war. A dispute had arisen between them over the possession of an old pair of trousers, and they were just on the point of beginning hostilities when I arrived at a point where I could take in the scene without being observed by them. I suppose most people would call it brutal, but I determined to let them go ahead and pound one another for awhile, thinking the matter might just as well be settled between them then and there, as I knew if I interfered they would have it out at some future time. I was not prepared, however, for the mode of warfare they selected. Immediately they clasped their arms around each other and began butting their heads together like a pair of sheep. That they were in dead earnest was evinced by the terrific force of the blows, which sounded as loud as a well executed clap of the hands. There was no attempt at boxing, only butting, and so effectually was it performed that in a very short time the heads of both antagonists were covered with blood. After continuing the fight for about five minutes both broke away and sat down to rest and recover their breath preparatory to renewing the encounter, as neither signified his willingness to give up. Thinking that the affair had gone far enough I stepped from where I had been concealed and demanded that they patch up their differences in a more peaceable way, and warned them that if any renewal of hostilities occurred they would be summarily dealt with. This warning had the desired effect and half an hour later I saw them working side by side, chatting with each other cordially, as if their recent fight had no place even in their memories."

Berthelot, the French chemist, thinks that perfect food can be made from coal, air and water. He holds this opinion because the constituents of food are carbon, oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen. When his prophecy is verified hunger will be unknown. Until then no food can be so delicious and wholesome as that prepared with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

WHY PEOPLE WORSHIP GOLD.

'Tis a Belle of Barbarism and Has No Basis in Actual Value.

Men are accustomed to regard gold as the epitome of wealth; to associate it with ease and luxury; to consider it the apotheosis of security and power, says William Penn, Jr., in Blue and Gray. This is merely a relic of barbaric ages, when monetary science was unknown and bits of the rare metals, coined or uncoined, were the particular possessions of kings and conquerors. This popular ascription of inherent value to the yellow metal, this silly notion that it by some means possesses a regal right to rule the commerce of the world, is so ingrained in human nature that most men recoil in dismay when it is suggested that its use as money may be entirely discontinued. While silver shared the throne with gold it, too, was held in as much and sometimes in greater reverence; but when, in 1873, concerted action condemned the white metal to take its place with corn and cotton and all the other subjects of the golden king, the power of gold was doubled and made absolute. Too many who regard gold as a ruler by inherent right forget that, during the long struggle for supremacy, silver was more than once within an ace of ending her rival to the ranks, but at the end the gold power triumphed. Had the result been reversed the advocates of "honest" money might now be filled with horror at the thought of "fifty-cent dollars" of gold instead of silver.

People who are influenced by this ancient form of gold idolatry would do well to consider that it is a god of their own creation, whose power may and should be cut off whenever it becomes oppressive.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

ARTIFICIAL DIGESTION.

Your reporter, among others, was recently requested to witness an experiment at the New York laboratory of the Pre-Digested Food company. It seems that the digestive properties of Paskola, their new food, have been questioned in some quarters, and it was important that the matter should be definitely settled once and for all.

Both jars were now warmed to the temperature of the body, and thus kept for two hours. At the end of this time the jars were removed from the dainty little oven in which they had stood, when lo! and behold, we found that whereas the contents of one of them had undergone no change whatever, the food in the other, which had been added the Paskola, had literally dissolved like so much sugar, and a clear, limpid solution was the result.

SIXTH CARRIER NEEDED.

Fully Half the City Gets Imperfect Delivery Service Under Present Conditions.

WM. P. MAY WANTS HIS LIBERTY AND WILL GET IT.

The Marquette Athletic Club—Two Political Meetings Tonight—Will Sing in a Marquette Choir.

ACTION IS ALREADY PENDING.

From many parts of the city complaint is heard that there is only one delivery of the mails and that very late in the afternoon. In investigating these complaints THE MINING JOURNAL interviewed Postmaster Midlam and learned that the cause of the trouble was an insufficient number of carriers, this fact making it necessary to leave a very large portion of the city with only one delivery a day and that late.

Of the five carriers No. 1 gets up as far as Arch street on his first trip, to Hewitt avenue on his second and then clear to the fair grounds on his last trip out. No. 2 gets down as far as the Standard Oil company's office on his first trip, to Genesee and Division streets on his second and to the limit of his territory on the third, doing Shaw's store and the stone quarry then. No. 3 does the business houses on his first trip out, gets up to Arch street on his second and covers his territory on the third. No. 4 does his business houses first, gets over the central part of his route on his second trip and then covers his territory on the last, the same being true of No. 5. Hence it will be seen at once that large and important portions of the city have only one delivery per day, such being the case with all the North Third street stores and business establishments, the polygonal works, Shaw's store, the stone quarry office, etc.

The average weight of mail delivered by the carriers daily is 350 pounds, an average of 70 pounds each. When the widely extended territory covered by some of the routes is considered this is too much, especially when the long winter up here with its attendant hard walking is considered. As the carrier's day is limited by law to eight hours and as the postmaster is forbidden to allow a carrier to work overtime even at his own volition it is evident that frequently a carrier is unable to cover his whole route in a day. The law about overtime was passed because of the big grist of claims submitted by carriers for extra time, claims that are even now in process of adjudication.

The small number of carriers makes it impossible for the postmaster to put out many street boxes, the carriers not having time to collect over widely extended routes. For this reason there is not a single letter box north of Hewitt avenue, leaving two wards out in the cold altogether. Postmaster Midlam recognizes the injustice and is doing his best to remedy it. He has already applied to the department for an additional carrier and if he receives favorable action in Washington he will put a man on a new route which will cover the northern part of the city from the cemetery to the lake. The other five could then all move south and all the routes could be adjusted so that every part of the city would have two deliveries a day. The proper thing for a city so widely spread as is Marquette would be one mounted carrier. A number of cities no larger than Marquette or at least doing no larger business have a mounted carrier and this postoffice with its annual business of $18,000 should have one. In all events the department should put on another carrier here and give all the people a fair show. The principal mail for Marquette comes from Chicago and arrives at 10:30 a. m. Prompt deliveries mean that letters can be answered in time for the mail leaving at 3:05 p. m., something that is clearly impossible for those who do not get their mail until 5 o'clock or after. The people are entitled to better service and it is to be hoped that the department will not delay longer but will make a favorable decision.

Sixty-two more biscuit can be made with a pound can of Dr. Price's Baking Powder than with any other kind.

Marquette Athletic Club.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Marquette Athletic club the following officers were elected: President, P. J. Delf; vice president, J. G. Kreig; finance secretary, J. H. Hoar; corresponding secretary, C. G. Johnson; treasurer, F. W. Constance. There will be a junior class started the first of next week for boys under the age of fifteen, the class being under the supervision of Mr. Fred Price, who will prove a first class instructor. Boys desiring to enter this class should see the president of the club and make arrangements with him.

Business men who would like to start a gymnasium class are invited to see the president and arrange days and hours best suited to them. There will also be an evening class started, and those wishing to enter will please be on hand next Monday night at 8:30. The object of the club is to run these rooms in first class order and try to please everyone who becomes a member. New apparatus will be put in as the board of directors see they can afford it. The membership has reached the large number of 250 and the club expects to have a grand opening within the next two weeks.

Political Meetings.

Professor C. E. Clindblom of Chicago will deliver an address at the Casino this evening in advocacy of Republican candidates and principles. Professor Clindblom will speak in Swedish and has the reputation of being an entertaining and instructive political speaker. The Scandinavian residents of Marquette and vicinity are cordially invited to be present at this evening's meeting. On Monday evening the Populists of Marquette will hold a rally in Fraternity Hall at which local speakers will hold forth while there is a possibility also of reinforcements from outside. This will be the first opportunity the voters of Marquette have had of hearing the doctrines of the new party enunciated from the platform.

Will Sing in Marquette.

To those who have heard Miss Alice Cramer's beautiful contralto voice it will afford pleasure to know that she has been engaged as a regular member of the Presbyterian church choir. Her musical education has been thorough and as she possesses a fine natural voice and employs a good method her performance is highly artistic and pleasing. If she is as efficient in her teaching of music as in her performance her studio should not lack for pupils. Miss Cramer is assistant principal of the Ishpeming High school but has a studio in the Wilkinson block in this city, at which she meets pupils on Saturdays.

A Peculiar Case.

A prisoner from the branch state prison was brought before Judge Stone yesterday on habeas corpus proceedings instituted by W. S. Hill and the facts brought to light in the hearing all go to make a very peculiar case. William P. May, the prisoner, was sent up from St. Ignace in 1890 by a justice of the peace for three months for larceny. He served his time and is now back again on a charge of forgery, coming from Cheboygan this time. The law allows a prisoner five days in a month for good behavior when serving a first sentence but only two days when serving a second. Under the five-day rule May's present term expired Oct. 24, under the two-day rule it would not expire until February.

Now May through his attorney sets up the claim that his first imprisonment was wholly illegal, hence this term is of right a first term and entitles him to five days per month for good behavior instead of two. The first imprisonment is claimed to have been illegal because a justice of the peace is not empowered under the law to sentence a man to state prison for larceny. A special statute gave justices the power to sentence to the upper peninsula branch state prison in this city for "disorderly conduct" and the statute went on to define what could be classed under this term, among other things being the possession of stolen goods, a blow aimed at "fences." It was lawful for the St. Ignace justice to send May up under this statute if he were merely found with stolen goods in his possession but it was not lawful for him to impose a prison sentence for larceny, that coming within the province of the circuit judge.

The commitment under which May was lodged in prison here was therefore clearly illegal on the face of it and Warden Tompkins should have refused to receive the man while even when the facts of the case are taken into account the imprisonment was illegal. The result of yesterday's hearing was that Judge Stone returned May to prison until Monday in order to give time to clear up a shadow of doubt thrown upon the wording of the commitment by Warden Van Evera. A certified copy of the record of the case has been telegraphed for and upon its arrival there is no doubt of the prisoner's release while in case the St. Ignace justice refuses to send on a copy of his record May will be released Monday in all events, Judge Stone holding the commitment of 1890 to be clearly illegal on its face.

The next step in the case will at once suggest itself. May having served three months in prison under an illegal sentence will commence action for damages for false imprisonment against the justice who caused his imprisonment, the case holding against others as well.

Dainty as a pretty maiden, delicate as a rare perfume, delicious as a fresh plucked fruit is the food cooked with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

Sunday Services.

Next Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church Rev. D. B. Spencer will preach on "Progress by Defeat." In the evening there will be an election sermon on the subject "The Christian as a Citizen." A cordial invitation is extended to all strangers and residents of the city to find a church home at this place.
