MARQUETTE, MICH., NOVEMBER 23. Entered as second class matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

AUDITOR GENERAL TURNER is letting quite a number of the clerks in his department go, there being no work for them. It is safe to be economical now, the election being over.

With two candidates in the field for the speakership and two for the debatable United States senatorship this district will lose both. The members-elect of the legislature from the district should determine which candidate for each position they will unitedly support, and the others cannot well refuse to abide by their decision.

The Mesaba mines will this coming winter and spring employ fifty thousand more men than a year ago, according to a correspondent's estimate, says the Superior Telegram. And how many steam shovels? That would be a larger number of men than ever before found employment at one time in all the mines of all the ranges on Lake Superior.

NEWSPAPERS that never suggest anything for the guidance of the parties to which they belong and never criticize anything these may do are of very little value to their parties or the communities where they are published. The newspaper that wins is the one that does some good in the world, not the "through-thick-and-thin" party organ, which merely voices the opinions of the party bosses and has no higher ambition than to win and fatten on party patronage.

If WALKER at all resembles the atrocious portrait of him which appeared in the Menominee Herald of a late date it would be a crime against the district for the representatives from this peninsula to put him forward as their choice for the speakership. But even though he be not so ill-looking as The Herald's portrait of him would make appear, what a "softy" he must be to rush into print with his picture in the expectation that he is thereby going to improve his chances for the position he is seeking!

THE LATEST charge against President Cleveland is that he is worth $6,000,000. A week ago it was but $2,000,000, a few days later it climbed to $4,000,000, and now it has, it is to be hoped, struck high water mark at $6,000,000. Mr. Cleveland is getting rich with marvellous rapidity. At the rate he has struck he would own the whole country by the end of his term if he could maintain it, and could easily re-elect himself if he desired a third term and could find as capable a manager as Matt Quay to conduct his campaign.

IT APPEARS from reports published in the eastern papers that the New York national banks have been drawing gold out of the sub-treasury for a long time, preparatory to taking the government bonds, the issue of which they were thereby forcing. One of these banks had withdrawn $100,000 in gold every other day for months. These are the institutions to which it is now sought to give control of the country's supply of currency.—Milwaukee News.

Yes, but the proposition comes from the bankers' associations, or persons connected with the government who are working in the interest of the banks. The people have had quite enough of bank manipulation of our finances.

MR. WILKINSON got a larger vote in Wayne county than Governor Rich, a flattering evidence of the appreciation of his work as state treasurer, since his appointment to that office, on the part of the solid business men of Michigan's metropolis. The vote cast for Mr. Wilkinson shows that he was an element of strength to the ticket. He ran considerably ahead of Stephenson in this district—but, for that matter, so did every candidate on the ticket. That, too, despite the fact that none of the candidates for state offices made a personal canvass, while Stephenson went through the district working up support for himself with the assistance of paid speakers, a check-book and a couple of well filled "grips" that he watched closely whenever it became necessary for a railway porter to lay hands on them.

DR. CHARLES S. PARKHURST, the sturdy New York divine whose brave fight for the purification of municipal government in the great metropolis resulted in the overthrow of Tammany, is out in a letter denouncing Platt. He says Platt is worse than Croker, and that the people of New York did not vote for an exchange of political bosses in the late election, but for genuine reform in the government of the city—something that he plainly says they would be as little likely to get under a Platt regime as under that which has just been overthrown at the polls. From the tenor of his remarks it is evident that Dr. Parkhurst is just as ready to fight Platt as he was to do battle against Croker and the powerful organization that he controlled. The Republicans of New York will have to be careful how they use their victory or its fruits may turn to ashes on their lips, for the people have got to thinking and they are determined to have honest government, no matter how many bosses they have to dethrone or how many coalitions of spoilsmen they may have to break up to get it.

It is asserted that President Cleveland will recommend in his forthcoming message radical changes in the financial system, and that he will favor having the banks given the power, under due restrictions, to issue paper notes for the purpose of supplying the country with its paper currency. Such a scheme would encounter popular disapproval and its advocacy by the president would lose him the confidence of many of those who are still believers in the soundness of his judgment and the rectitude of his motives. It will be time enough to criticize the president's recommendations, however, after it is known just what they are. The papers opposed to him are not likely to be well informed regarding his intentions, and it may be that they are mis-stating what he will recommend in advance of the delivery of his message with malignant purpose.

FINDS THEM APATHETIC. The treasurer of the national bimetallic league, Mr. John L. Johnson, complains in a published interview that the people have shown a singular want of interest in the cause of silver coinage, and declares that unless the masses manifest a stronger desire for the rehabilitation of silver as a coinage metal it will be a long time before bimetallicism will again become a fixed policy in this country.

The apathy comes from a growing conviction among the people that if the free and unlimited coinage of silver were to be authorized its principal beneficiaries would be the owners of silver mines and the few communities immediately dependent on the mines for their prosperity. Under the financial system now in vogue we have given the east an immense advantage over all other sections of the United States. It would not be wise to graft on that system one which would result in the inordinate enrichment of another set of men in another section of the union by enabling them to use the government mints to turn sixty cents' worth of the silver they dig out of their mines into good legal tender dollars, with which they could pay their debts and buy other people's property.

The financial reform that the country stands in need of is something very different than that. What we need is a sound and stable paper currency, issued direct by the government, and in sufficient volume to make the nation's supply of money adequate to the demands of its vast and rapidly increasing trade and industries.

With that there should be a more liberal policy toward silver, and the largest possible use of that metal for coinage purposes. Given the two and we will have steady prosperity. Gold will take care of itself. The yellow metal needs no favoring legislation.

AN ENORMOUS VINE. one That Grows in England and Bears Two Thousand Bunches of Grapes.

While in the public mind the great vine at Hampton Court palace is esteemed the most remarkable, even that is excelled in dimensions by the still greater vine at Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Park, says the London Daily News.

This is growing at Mauresa house, Roehampton, in a viney two hundred and twenty-four feet long by eleven feet wide.

The vine was planted by the present gardener, Mr. Davis, as a cutting, onto a wall outside more than thirty years ago.

The value of the crop, estimated at two shillings per pound-which is as good grapes go, perhaps not a high figure-would be one hundred and twelve pounds sterling.

Probably no other tree of any kind in the kingdom could produce such a sum in fruit annually.

AMERICAN WILL RETIRE.

Western Express Company Will Succeed It Upon the South Shore.

IS BACKED BY THE RAILROADS INTERESTED.

President Van Horne of Canadian Pacific Talks on That and Other Railroad Matters.

RATES WILL NOT BE HIGHER.

The American Express company, which for several years has transacted the express business over the South Shore and Soo lines, will retire from those roads on or about Jan. 1 and will be succeeded by the Western Express company, a corporation organized under the laws of Wisconsin and owned by the railroad companies named. The reason assigned for the change is that the American Express company is unwilling to pay the rental which the railroad companies believe the privilege to be worth. Further than this it is the policy of the two roads named to take as far as possible traffic of all descriptions into their own hands and thus obtain the profits arising therefrom, instead of allowing them to go to an outside concern. That the change will be made is definitely settled and the details are now being worked out. It is authoritatively promised that under the new arrangement express rates will not only be no higher but may be lower and that every facility now afforded will be continued and extended.

The report has been current for some time that a change of this sort was likely to occur and it was known that the matter would be fully settled at conferences recently held at Montreal and New York by the higher officials of the Canadian Pacific, South Shore and Soo lines. General Manager Fitch returned yesterday from the east with Sir William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific, and THE MINING JOURNAL is authorized by them to announce the facts as stated. President Van Horne and party reached here from Chicago about noon yesterday and were met here by Comptroller J. D. Ogden of the Canadian Pacific. The afternoon was spent at the offices of the South Shore and in looking about the city. A MINING JOURNAL reporter yesterday afternoon found President Van Horne and General Manager Fitch together and asked about the new express arrangements, as a matter in which the people of this region felt much interest.

"Mr. Underwood, the general manager of the Soo line," said Mr. Fitch, "and myself have organized the Western Express company to take up and carry on the express business on the two roads at the expiration of the present contract with the American Express company. The stock of the Western Express company is owned entirely by the two railroad companies and its responsibility is guaranteed by them. The American Express company is not willing to pay what the railroads think the privilege of doing this business is worth and for that reason its contract will not be renewed. That is the sum and substance of the whole matter."

"If the people do not think the responsibility of the Western Express company, backed by these two railroad companies, is sufficient," said President Van Horne, "it is perhaps enough to say that it is also guaranteed by the Canadian Pacific company. As regards the people along the South Shore road the position may be stated thus: The Western Express company is backed by the South Shore Railroad company and the South Shore is not going to break until the Canadian Pacific breaks. I merely state the general facts; Mr. Fitch can tell you more about the details. The matter is in his hands and Mr. Underwood's."

Then Sir William diverged upon the general subject of these auxiliary corporations and their relations to the railroads. "The American railroad, or most of them," he said, "have let these outside corporations take the cream of their business too long. The express, telegraph, sleeping car, grain elevator and similar concerns have taken the cream and have left only the skim milk for the railroads."

"Look at our experience on the Canadian Pacific. From these five items of express, telegraphs, sleeping cars, grain elevators and lake steamers we are able to pay the entire interest on our bonded debt. We carry on all these lines of business ourselves. They are simply departments of the railroad service and whatever profits there may be in them the railroad gets. And by this concentration of business we are able to perform all these various services as cheaply if not cheaper than they could be performed by outside corporations."

"The people along the lines of these two railroads need not be afraid of any advance in express rates to or from any part of the world. The rates will be no higher and I rather think they may be lower. The interests of the railroad companies and of the people of this peninsula are identical and those who use the express service will suffer no loss or hardship by the new arrangement."

The reporter asked as to the prospects of the extension of the Duluth & Winnipeg, thus completing the transcontinental route on the south side of Lake Superior.

"That is all mixed up at present," said Sir William. "The Duluth & Winnipeg is in the hands of a receiver and will have to be reorganized. Until that muddle is settled and the times get a little better nothing can be done toward completing the line. But that will all come around in a year or two. For that matter we now have a transcontinental line south of the lake by way of Minneapolis."

"What do you think of the prospects of a revival of business," asked the reporter.

"I do not look for much before next September. The railroads have never in my knowledge had so hard an experience as now. We are just holding on by our eyelids and hoping for better things. The south seems in pretty fair shape and the east is not badly off but in the central west the railroads have been hit very hard. I only hope that things will not be worse before they are better."

The express business under the new deal will be in charge of Mr. W. A. Stout, who has had many years' experience with the Pacific, United States and Dominion Express companies. President Van Horne and party left for Montreal at 4:45 this morning.

Tomb on Tuten.

There was a new meat market started at Iron Mountain recently by a man who had no previous experience in the business. The other day a patron dropped in to order a steak for dinner and while waiting for it got into a chat with the proprietor. He enquired how the latter was getting along in business.

"Very well indeed—first rate in fact," responded the dealer in meats. "You didn't know anything about it before you started this shop, did you?" said the enquiring customer.

"Not a thing, never sold a pound of meat in my life before," was the answer. "But I am getting on to the tricks of the trade just the same. Say, I made a great sale yesterday."

"How was that?" "Well, I had a big Wisconsin rooster that had been hung outside for a sign until it had lost some of its original toughness, so I brought it in and hung it in the shop, intending to give it to some poor person with a good set of teeth. Along came a newspaper chap who ran a paper here. 'How much do you want for that turkey,' says he. 'I named a low price and he took it. I expect he is eating away at it yet.'"

"I guess you'll make a go of the meat business," remarked the customer as he took his steak and thoughtfully pursued his way home.

Died from Natural Causes.

Dr. Youngquist and Harkin reported to the coroner's jury that Andrew G. Carlson, whose death while out cutting wood was related in yesterday's issue, had died of apoplexy. The physicians found the facts so plain that they deemed an autopsy unnecessary. The jury returned a verdict of "death from natural causes" in accordance with the facts as stated.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the house, 623 North Third street, to the Swedish Lutheran church, where religious services will be held, with interment in Park cemetery. The Scandinavian societies of which the dead was a member will meet at Fraternity Hall at 1 o'clock and attend the funeral in a body.

City Hall Furniture.

The committee in charge of the furnishing of the new City Hall has completed its work and invites bids on the job. Everything has been cut out of the list not absolutely required and the old furniture now on hand will be used as far as possible. It has also been determined not to seat the assembly hall on the third floor at present. The schedule of furniture required is now in the hands of the city controller and can be seen or copies obtained by parties interested or desiring to make bids on the job.
