CZAR NICHOLAS MARRIED.

The Young Ruler of Russia and Princess Alix United in Marriage.

CEREMONY CELEBRATED WITH REGAL SPLENDOR.

The Populace of St. Petersburg Displays Great Enthusiasm at the Marriage of the Czar.

FROM MOURNING TO REJOICING.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 26.—With all the pomp and show befitting such an occasion Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt today became the wife of Czar Nicholas II. The royal party met at Malachite hall, in the winter palace, where the bridal procession was formed. At its head were the court functionaries and then came the czarina escorted by the king of Denmark, her father. The czar and Princess Alix came next, followed by the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the imperial and royal families, another batch of court officials bringing up the rear. The procession slowly traversed the concert hall, Nicholas hall, Fore hall, Petrovsky hall (in which stands the throne of Peter the Great) and the hall of the court of arms.

The bridal procession then found itself in the plectany room which adjoins the church. In this room remained the majority of the officials and members of the lesser nobility, only the imperial family and social guests and indispensable functionaries passing into the small chapel which was a most gorgeous little light room, glittering with gold and stucco work. The costumes of the chapel were dazzling. The bride's dress was white richly embroidered with gold and on her head was the usual kokoshnik was a small crown of diamonds. The bride's mantle was of purple velvet lined with ermine. The czar wore the uniform of the famous Red Hussars of the guard with a dog-man suspended from his right shoulder. When all the wedding guests were assembled the marriage ceremony was carried out according to the rites of the Greek church. At the conclusion of the ceremony the czar and his bride approached the dowager czarina to greet and thank her. She embraced her son and his wife after which they were embraced and kissed by the king of Denmark and their other relatives. Everybody was moved and the bride was in tears. The czar was very pale and visibly affected.

The wedding procession then reformed and the guests re-entered their carriages. The bells in all the churches were merrily pealing the wedding chimes and above all could be heard the distant booming of cannon from the fortress and other places. On the return drive the imperial carriage stopped before the cathedral of Kazan in order to allow the newly wedded pair to invoke the blessing of the Almighty. The czar and czarina were received by the metropolitan of St. Petersburg and the high clergy bearing a cross and holy water. A te deum was celebrated inside the cathedral, the metropolitan proper praying the Almighty to bless the czar and czarina and guide them in their paths of duty. When the czar reappeared on the cathedral steps after the religious ceremonies within and kissed the miraculous image of Our Lady Kazan the enthusiasm of the people was beyond all description. The brilliancy of the spectacle at this moment was enhanced by a sudden burst of sunshine from the clouds which had hitherto darkened the city. The immense crowd present cheered themselves hoarse as the czar and czarina reentered the carriage and returned to Antichoff palace. In honor of the czar's wedding forty thousand poor people of this city will dine today at the expense of the czar.

The newly wedded pair arrived at Antichoff palace and were received and welcomed by the dowager czarina who had preceded them for this purpose. Later the czar and czarina, accompanied by Grand Duchess Olga, a young sister of the czar, appeared at a window of the palace overlooking Newski prospect. Here they stood for fifteen minutes bowing repeatedly in response to the acclamations of the multitude gathered outside the palace. The czar issued a manifesto tonight. His majesty in honor of his marriage remits various debts to the crown. He also wholly remits arrears of taxes and fines and mitigates or shortens sentences of imprisonment and the prosecution for treason of offenders who have remained undisclosed for fifteen years will be abandoned. Amnesty is granted to participants in the Polish rebellion of 1863 and they will be permitted to reside anywhere in Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Chronicle's St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs: "In the imperial manifesto scarcely anything is left untouched. It is a comprehensive document, breathing benevolence in every line. It grants the greatest amnesty accorded by Russia for half a century, with the exception of the liberation of the serfs. Pie-crust made with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is simply superb.

PACKERS ARE KICKING.

They Object to an Advance in Railroad Rates

OMAHA, Nov. 26.—A meeting of the Missouri river packers in Omaha several weeks since has resulted in the issuance of a protest against the proposed advanced rates by railroads on packing house products and live hogs to Missouri river and Chicago. The protest was issued today. It says the packers were willing under ordinary circumstances to have the revenues of western lines increased by advanced rates on both the product and live stock, provided the proper parity is maintained between packing and live stock centers, but owing to the peculiar circumstances the present is a most inopportune time. This year, owing to the scarcity of good hogs, the packers on the Missouri river are competing among themselves for supplies, in consequence of which they are paying pretty nearly Chicago prices for hogs.

SEELEY IS OUT OF SIGHT.

No Trace of New York Defaulter to Be Found.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The doors of the National Shoe & Leather bank opened this morning as usual. One of its directors said the bank was ready to meet any test of its insolvency which the depositors might see fit to put to it. No trace has yet been secured of Seeley. The sons of the late Frederick Baker, Seeley's alleged accomplice, declare the charges against their father unfounded, that he had no account at the bank; but the bank officials declare he has had an account with them for thirty years. It is understood they are taking measures to recoup themselves to some extent at least from Baker's estate.

The family of Frederick Baker, the alleged accomplice of Bookkeeper Seeley, had arranged that the funeral of the dead man should take place Wednesday but a postponement is likely to be necessary. The coroner insists that an autopsy be held. There is a theory that an autopsy will reveal the presence of poison in the internal organs, which would in part explain the fact of the body being afloat so soon after death. It now becomes a question as to whether the estate of which Baker was trustee or executor have not suffered by his peculations. Augustus Kagel, one of the heirs of the estate of Gottlieb Kagel, reported today that sixty-five shares of the Chatham National bank belonging to the estate had been transferred without his knowledge.

Business at the Shoe and Leather bank was conducted in the usual manner all day and the receipts and disbursements evinced no extraordinary condition. The bank officials are going to pay considerable attention to the late Baker's life insurance policy. They say they are convinced the Baker family will be made to see the justice of the bank's claim against the property and look for a restitution as ample as the Bakers can make.

ITALY MAKES A BLUFF.

She Threatens to Send a Hostile Fleet Against Brazil.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 26.—Italy has decided to send a fleet against this country on account of Brazil's refusal to arbitrate the pending question. Though the action of the government is universally approved President Morass will prepare a new proposition to Italy. The United States may be asked to arbitrate on the part of Brazil. The Brazilian fleet has sailed with sealed orders, but it is understood it is to punish Admiral DaGama who now has 8,000 men. It is reported the Monarchists propose rising all over the country. Troublesome times are predicted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Nothing is known officially here of the reported trouble between Italy and Brazil, but it is known from an unofficial source that the two governments have been at odds for nearly a year owing to the demand made by the Italian government for an indemnity for the maltreatment of a number of Italian subjects and the destruction of their property in the course of riots in Rio. As nearly as can be gathered the question at issue is one of the amount of indemnity rather than principle. This is not the first time Italy was reported to have threatened a naval demonstration and it is assumed the threat is renewed this time owing to the belief that Brazil is in a disturbed condition as a result of the change of presidency and that the new government may be more easily influenced to any step to preserve the country from outward attack. But from last reports the new Brazilian government is in a much better position to resist any unjust demand than has been generally supposed.

ARE TO BE HUNTED DOWN

United States Marshals After Cook Gang With Winchester.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Nov. 26.—Marshal Crump returned from Washington and left immediately for Muskogee, I. T., where he is today holding a conference with Marshal McAlister, with a view to concerted action against the outlaws. The understanding is that the Cook gang is to be wiped out with Winchester's at once at the cost of the government.

A report was received from Wagoner that seven outlaws attempted to hold up a freight train at Bragg station but the engineer refused to stop. The cab and caboose were riddled with bullets but no one was hurt. The passenger train was expected to be held up and preparations were made for a fight but the train came through without molestation.

FORT GIBSON, I. T., Nov. 26.—It is known that Bill Cook, the leader of the Cook gang, is wounded in the hip and lying at the house of a friend not far from Tahlequah, but the exact location cannot be learned.

"There's no such word as fail" in baking with Dr. Price's peerless powder.

THE ROBBERS ESCAPED

Bank Robbers Chased Out of Town by Citizens.

MONTICELLO, Minn., Nov. 26.—This town was greatly excited last night over an attempt to rob the Citizens' State bank. The robbers succeeded in gaining an entrance to the vault by blowing off the lock but were scared away before they succeeded in forcing the door of the time lock safe. The citizens gave chase but the robbers succeeded in escaping.

AMERICAN PAPERS BARRED.

Newspapers of the United States Will Not Be Admitted Into Turkey.

ARMENIAN ATROCITIES WERE TOO FREELY DISCUSSED

United States Powerless to Assist Armenians as They are Protected by European Powers.

CANNOT STAND THE ROASTING

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 26.—An edict has been issued prohibiting the entry of every American newspaper into Turkey on account of the attitude of the American press on the Armenian question.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Superintendent Brooks, of the foreign mail service, says it is an agreement by all the nations in the Universal Postal union that any nation can exclude any mail which the government deems detrimental to its interests. At the state department no question was raised as to the authority of the Turkish government to take the action indicated. Each government is properly apprehensive that the free circulation of American newspapers abounding with articles relating to the Armenian outrages and the reports of meetings held by the Armenians in the United States protesting against these atrocities may stir up open rebellion in unaffected provinces.

So far as the Armenians are concerned our government can do nothing for them, no matter how much disposed it may be to alleviate the misfortunes of these native Christians. The great European powers are bound by treaty to protect them and they will unquestionably resist any interference by the United States in the line of suggestions as to their duty in the matter. So the resolutions which are being directed to the president by sympathetic mass meetings held in various cities are likely, to be of no avail save perhaps to direct the attention of the civilized world to the misdeeds of the Armenians.

HELD INDIGNATION MEETING.

Boston Audience Passes Resolutions Condemning Armenian Outrages.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—An audience which crowded "The Cradle of Liberty" to its doors, made up mostly of Armenians, but which was attended by a large number of Americans, gathered at Faneuil Hall tonight to hold an indignation meeting over the treatment of Armenians by the representatives of the Turkish government. Among the speakers were many representative citizens as well as leading clergymen of Boston. Governor Greenhalge, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Hon. Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Rev. Francis E. Clark, Rev. Thomas H. Vanness, Dr. Samuel E. Gumbart and Colonel Albert Clark made addresses appealing to the English people to right this enormous wrong.

The resolutions adopted recite that whereas it was the report of the American commission of inquiry that first convinced Gladstone of the truth of Bulgarian atrocities, this meeting do earnestly petition his excellency, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, to instruct our minister at Constantinople to investigate the matter either by sending to the spot such persons as he may choose or by joining in the commission sent by the united European powers. The resolutions then proceeded with an appeal to the great powers, and especially to Great Britain, for an immediate enforcement of the sixty-first article of the treaty of Berlin.

THE LIST IS SWELLING

Further Information Given Regarding Massacre of Armenians.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—Further information as to the massacres of Armenians near Bitlis, Turkey, was received by Secretary Gailson of the United Friends of Armenia. One letter is dated Bitlis, Sept. 25, 1894, and gives the information received from the region back of Mosul that forty-eight villages are said to have been wholly blotted out. The number massacred reaches between 5,000 and 10,000. Another letter dated Constantinople, Oct. 31, states that twenty-seven villages were annihilated in Sassium and 6,000 men, women and children massacred by the troops and Kurds.

AN INVINCIBLE COMBINATION—THE PURITY, STRENGTH AND WHOLESOMENESS OF DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER.

LOSS GROWING LARGER

Chinese Loss at Fall of Port Arthur Quite Heavy.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 26.—It is now stated the Chinese loss at the battle of Port Arthur was 3,000 men. Another account says that during the hottest fighting a portion of the Chinese forces fled to the warships that had been held in readiness for embarking the troops in event of the position becoming untenable. The Japanese squadron fired upon and sank two of the warships.

ROME, Nov. 26.—An official dispatch from Tokio, Japan, intimates that as soon as China makes peace proposals Japan will accept the good offices of the United States in the negotiations.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 26.—It is officially stated that Japan will allow the American ministers at Tokio and Peking to submit any proposals for peace China may make.

Overdue Steamer Arrives.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—The American line steamship India from Liverpool, a week overdue, arrived tonight much to the relief of those who had relatives and friends on board.

FOR THE SUPREME BENCH. It has long been a desire of the people of this district to have Hon. Daniel H. Ball of this city elected to a seat on the supreme bench of Michigan.

Now, however, there is an opportunity to have that desire of the people of this peninsula gratified. A successor to Associate Justice John W. McGrath is to be chosen next spring, and it goes without saying that the choice of the Republican party for the place will be the choice of the people of the state when they come to express their preference at the polls.

Of Mr. Ball's qualifications as a jurist it is not necessary for THE MINING JOURNAL to speak at length. He stands in the front rank of his profession in the state, and could time and again have had the position of circuit judge in this district if he would have consented to serve in that capacity.

Mr. Ball will undoubtedly have the support of the representatives from this district in the Republican convention. That is due him. But he should have more, for he is the best fitted aspirant for a seat on the supreme bench whose name has yet been brought out in connection with the Republican nomination.

APPROXIMATION OF PRICES.

The current number of The Age of Steel has this article on the subject of the approximation of the selling prices of iron and steel manufactures in this country to those of foreign countries with which we come in competition in the markets of the world.

The report that an Alabama iron foundry has secured a $370,000 contract from the Japanese government for iron pipe to be used in building water works at Tokio, and that some Baltimore cotton mills have a contract for 300,000 yards of cotton duck from the same source, has aroused considerable interest.

In an interview with David I. Field, of the Freeman Wire and Iron company, East St. Louis, among other facts bearing on the same subject, he said: "For the last ten to twelve months American manufacturers of various forms of iron and steel have been disposing English and German competitors of markets in Latin America which the latter had previously held."

When it is remembered that every step of this aggressive movement has been made in the face of determined opposition, and in a hand to hand struggle with close competition, the reasons of success are obvious. We have reached a point where our manufacturing industries can compete in prices as in merits of product with all or most competitors.

ARBITRATION OF LABOR DISPUTES.

There is a growing conviction that the state must formally recognize arbitration as the proper method of bringing labor disputes to a settlement, and should provide the legal machinery for that purpose.

For settling deplorable disputes between employer and workmen it is my opinion that arbitration is the means most hopeful of effective results. Courts of arbitration have been established in France, and the work accomplished has been very satisfactory.

The report of the commission appointed by the president to inquire into and report on the causes of the great railroad strike last summer ought to satisfy the most skeptical that some better method of dealing with labor troubles than that ordinarily employed should be devised and put in operation.

When labor revolted riots occurred and the military had to be called in to maintain order and protect life and property. Labor met with a defeat in consequence, while the original promoters of the difficulty scored a victory.

But the cause of the trouble remains active, and unless it is removed there will be repetitions of the disturbance of business with resultant bloodshed that occurred last summer. We ought to be able to devise a means of remedying the evil that gives us such undesirable contentions, with the increasing ill feeling between labor and the employers of labor that they breed.

There now begins to be talk at Washington about the advisability of having provision made for the appointment of a non-partisan monetary commission which shall be charged with the duty of investigating the nature and workings of our financial system and recommending to congress legislation for its improvement based on the findings of the commission.

Impudence seems to be the leading characteristic with the weasel in his relations with man. Perhaps the creature has confidence that his long, slender body can always be snatched away into safety before the ordinary human being can do him harm.

CHOLERA IN CHINA.

The Result of Neglect of the Sanitary Regulations. European Doctors Helpless to Enforce Modern Methods of Prevention on Account of Existing Superstitions.

Many details of the great plague in Canton and Hong Kong are interesting as showing the attitude of the natives toward foreign doctors and the difficulty of enforcing the simplest sanitary regulations. From all accounts, had the European doctors been permitted at the outset to enforce a house-to-house inspection, the death list would never have risen above fifty a day and the disease would have been restricted to Hong Kong.

As it is, says a Shanghai letter in the New York Sun, cases of the deadly disease are appearing in all the neighboring country places, and it is apparent that victims of the plague may be found at any time in Shanghai or other ports that have close connection with Hong Kong.

In regard to the origin of the disease there is no question that the present plague appeared in severe form in Yunnan last winter. It has been known there for several seasons. It was carried to Canton in March by traders. The disease is not a new one, as it has appeared from time to time in Persia and Arabia between 1853 and 1878.

China has not been visited by a great plague for many years, but there is good authority for the statement that the plague which ravaged Europe in the fourteenth century broke out in China.

The medical returns from Hong Kong show that the present is the true plague. All the symptoms are those described by medical experts who have seen the disease raging among Moslem pilgrims to Mecca. It is an acute fever, accompanied by evidences of blood poisoning. The glands of the armpit and the groin swell up, and abscesses and carbuncles frequently appear; there are hemorrhages under the skin and from some of the organs. The strength of the patient oozes away, and in a few hours the disease is often fatal.

Why the disease excites so much terror is because there have been few opportunities for carefully studying it. The Russian doctors who studied the plague at Astrakhan came to the conclusion that it was propagated by microbes.

One physician at Hong Kong attributes its spread to a purely vegetable poison which arises from the earth and proves fatal first to the small domestic animals which are nearest to the ground. Whatever be the cause, it is certain that the rat, which so frequently burrows in the ground, was the first victim of the plague in both Canton and Hong Kong. Thousands were found dead before a single human being was attacked. Then cats and dogs suffered, and finally men and women.

The story that the plague was spread by the Chinese eating rats is not very plausible. Of course, the eating of infected rats may have aided in the spread of the disease, but the infection was brought from Yunnan by caravans of traders, and everything which the victims had used became a source of contagion. The moist climate of the seacoast also helps the spread of the disease.

In Hong Kong it was by a mere matter of accident that the European authorities learned of the disease, as the natives carefully concealed the spread of the contagion. One Chinese minister is the sanitary board. Lau Wai Cheu proved to be hard-headed. He insisted upon having patients sent from the great native hospital of Jung Wah to the European Hygeia, and then, after examination, to the hulks in the harbor. This was done for a few days. Then the feeling among the Chinese became so bitter that the procedure had to be abandoned.

Placards were brought to Hong Kong from Canton, which reveal the deadly suspicion of all foreign means of treatment. These placards warned all people not to go to Hong Kong nor to permit their wives and children to go, because they would fall victims to the foreign doctors, who were chopping up all sick persons in order to make medicine out of their eyes and bones. No amount of explanation has yet sufficed to eradicate the deep-seated suspicion that all foreign doctors are on a still hunt for the eyes of dead Chinese.

The people cannot understand that European medicine does not value certain parts of a body for medicine, because their own physicians, who are mainly quacks, insist that by eating certain parts of the bodies of animals one may secure the best qualities of those animals. They cling to this belief, and therefore such absurd stories as those of Christian missionaries killing native children to secure their eyes find ready credence.

No Boarders in the Palace. One of the ladies of Hampton Court palace recently undertook to increase her income by taking boarders. The lord chamberlain was therefore obliged to point out that while rooms at Hampton court may be temporarily lent with the queen's consent, and there is no objection to relatives or friends contributing to the expenses of the ladies while on a bona-fide visit, the queen draws a line at attempts to make pecuniary profit out of her hospitality.

He Was a Cobbler. Stambouloff, the Bulgarian ex-minister, was in his younger days apprenticed to a cobbler. On becoming prime minister he appointed his former master, the cobbler, prefect of police at Sofia as a mark of respect for his just and unerring severity and his remarkable talent for flogging.

EXECUTION OF EMILE FARCY.

He Walked Calmly to His Death After a Last Waltz. It was during the Franco-Chinese war that Emile Farcy, war correspondent of La France, was executed, says the New York Press. Farcy was detailed to accompany the army commanded by Gen. Fergemol, a martinet in the strictest sense of the word.

The general insisted upon Farcy signing an agreement not to forward any dispatches without submitting them to the military authorities, but the correspondent protested when he affixed his signature to the paper and this aroused the general's suspicions. Next day Farcy was placed under espionage and before night dispatches surreptitiously sent by him were seized. They contained many criticisms of the military and Farcy was at once arrested and taken to the general's headquarters.

Against the correspondent's protest the dispatches were read and he was summarily tried by court-martial. Farcy declined to defend himself and the entire proceedings did not last more than half an hour. The sentence was short: "Emile Farcy, having been found guilty as charged, is condemned to be shot at six in the morning."

It was then midnight, and he was taken to the capital city of the province, which was the general headquarters of the French army in Tonquin. The party with the prisoner in charge arrived there at half-past five. As they passed the residence of the governor general the correspondent observed from the lights in the windows and the sounds of music that a ball was in progress. When the lieutenant in charge asked Farcy if he would like to have a priest sent for he said: "No, but I should like to go to the ball. I should be glad if I could have one more waltz before I die."

The governor was informed of the correspondent's request and granted it. The official's own daughter, being selected as the partner for the journalist's last waltz. At six o'clock the lieutenant touched the correspondent's arm. "The file is waiting," said the soldier. "Let us go," said the journalist. Then he saluted the dancers and ten minutes later his skull was crushed with rifle balls. Farcy would not allow his eyes to be bandaged and himself gave the word to fire.

SCARED HER INTO SPEECH. This Engaging Woman Was Deaf and Dumb Until Caught Off Her Guard. A prepossessing middle-aged woman walked into the office of a well-known firm of railroad lawyers on Williams street the other day and drifted over to where the junior partner sat. She had court-plaster and other trifling articles to sell for ten cents and showed at the same time a card on which was written: "I am deaf and dumb."

The lawyer was interested, says the New York World, for the woman had a sad face and seemed eminently respectable. So he wrote on a pad: "Any children?" and she in the same manner answered: "Yes." To the question: "How many?" the reply was: "Six," emphasized by a mournful shake of the head. She acknowledged in writing that her husband was dead. When her address was asked for she was rather slow in putting it on paper, and when it came to references she wrote, with a good deal of deliberation: "John Davis."

"Where does he live?" was the next question, to which the woman wrote no reply, but indicated with her hand a point on the horizon that might have meant Jersey or heaven. "Great Scott! You don't mean to say you know Davis?" shouted the lawyer, jumping to his feet. "Yes, I do," answered the woman, taken off her guard by the vehemence of the speaker.

They looked at one another for a moment and then the lawyer called an office boy and told him to show her the street by the way of the stairs, eight long flights.

Tired and nervous, my food did not digest easily. In fact I was in poor health generally. I had to sleep propped up in bed to breathe easily at night. I had the grip and afterwards a severe cough. I found relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have taken seven bottles and can eat what I please, sleep soundly and feel rested unless I overwork. LONG WAYS FROM DEAD.

Law and Order League of Red Jacket Is Still Showing Fight.

IS AFTER THE MARSHAL'S AND SHERIFF'S SCALPS.

All Violations of the Sunday Closing Law Will Be Looked After by the League.

Calumet. The Law and Order league of Red Jacket has not laid down and died as it usually is the case with such associations when it has been proven by experience on the part of the active members that it is easier to denounce evils than to remedy them.

Mr. Ward does not deny that the law is violated every Sunday or that he is the counsel gets on his track there is no question about it. The fight will be watched with much interest in all parts of the state. Meantime, the lower peninsula papers that are holding up Calumet as a modern Sodom or Gomorrah will find more wickedness in any lower peninsula town of equal size that can be found here.

Presiding Elder J. E. Whalen of the Soo preached Sunday morning at Osceola, in the afternoon at Kearsarge and in the evening at Tamarack, to large congregations each time. A VICTORY FOR PASKOLA.

It Receives the Official Endorsement of Eminent Experts and a Jury of Representative Citizens.

The suit brought by Ohio's food commissioner against a Cincinnati druggist for selling Paskola on the ground that it was nothing but glucose resulted in a great victory for Paskola and a verdict against the state.

This verdict disposes of the malicious attack that has been made against Paskola by interested rivals and suits have now been brought against the proprietors of a well-known emulsion of cod liver oil for having given wide circulation to a false formula and other misrepresentations regarding it.

The animus of this attack will be better understood when it is stated that Paskola is being largely used in the place of cod liver oil.

RULER OF THE NAVY.

Secretary Herbert Has Powers Which Cannot Be Gainsaid.

"There is one man in the United States who has more power than the president and all the federal courts combined," said a naval officer recently. "The secretary of the navy is the man. His power over officers of the navy is autocratic. He can without the aid of a court fine an officer all the way from four hundred to four thousand a year, according to his rank, and simply in the whim of the secretary."

"Now suppose a rear admiral is ordered to the command of the fleet in the North Atlantic. The secretary of the navy proposes to visit the fleet. He is received on board the flagship with all the honors due his station, and the admiral does his best in the way of entertainment. Suppose again, when the secretary sits down to dine at the admiral's table he finds that a cheap brand of American wine is served instead of his accustomed Chateau Yquem. The secretary determines to resent this indignity. He goes ashore and decides to relieve an admiral who knows nothing of the first principles of hospitality. He issues an order detaching the admiral and placing him on waiting orders. Then on the following day he determines to punish him still further. He calls in the chief of the bureau of navigation and directs that Admiral Bowline be given an indefinite furlough. That means that instead of drawing six thousand dollars a year as he was yesterday, the late admiral of the North Atlantic finds his income suddenly reduced to two thousand dollars, and all because he has offended the ruler of the navy in some slight matter.

"Cannot the admiral appeal? Certainly not. There is none to whom he can cry out. The president has no power to review the decisions of the secretary of the navy in matters of this kind. This is an extreme case, of course, but it would not be difficult to point out where lieutenants have had their pay cut from two thousand six hundred dollars to nine hundred dollars by a secretary who had a grudge."

"Heh? What d'ye mean?" asked Mr. Kerr-Muggen.

"Why, weren't you looking at the sunset?"

"The sunset! Well, no, not just exactly. But now that you mention it, it does look fine, don't it? Looks a good deal like a meerschaum pipe just after it's begun to color!"—Youth's Companion.

The Coming Struggle. Boy—Pop you'd better get me a bicycle, and buy one for yourself, too, if you don't want to get left. Pop (a politician)—What's got into you?

"Look out for the B. P. A., that's all."

"Eh? What's that?"

THE COWBOY'S LASSO.

With It He is Almost as Good a Marksman as with the Rifle.

The cowboys of New Mexico, Texas and Arizona are all skilled in the art of using the lasso," said a Santa Fe man recently. "I used to be in the ranching line myself, and once thought I could throw a rope as straight as any man living. But that was before I had mixed to any extent with the Mexicans. As good as the American cowboys are, they can't hold a candle to a greaser when it comes to the roping business. They can do things with hemp that no other mortals can ever hope to accomplish. As the Australian stands out pre-eminently in throwing the boomerang, so does the ignorant son of the 'land of God and liberty' exceed all other men in this one accomplishment."

"A Mexican will chase a steer at full speed, and while he guides his bronco with one hand whirl his rope with unerring aim with the other, and it isn't once in a thousand times that the noose will fail to catch just where the rider meant. A favorite trick with them is to stick a lot of long-handled knives in the ground close together within the limits of a narrow circle and bet with outsiders that they can ride past at racehorse speed and pick up any one of the knives designated with a rope. They are good marksmen with the rifle, too, but in this regard the cowboys are fully their peers."—Washington Post.

THRIFTY KANSAS INDIANS.

Well-Tilled Farms of the Pottawatomies Upon Their Fertile Reservation.

The government will soon arrange for the opening of the surplus lands in the old Pottawatomie Indian reservation in Jackson county, Kan., says the New York Sun. Four years ago the government gave the remnant of the Pottawatomie tribe now living on the old reservation till the present time in which to select their lands, and the greater part of them have done so. It now remains for the government to set aside for the others as much land as the law provides for, and open the remainder, about 35,000 acres, for actual settlers.

The Pottawatomie reservation originally embraced a large part of Pottawatomie and Jackson counties, and the entire tribe, now numbering about 75, were located thereon. Soon after the settlement of Kansas a large part of the tribe sold to the government their interest in the reservation and took a small but fine reservation in the Indian territory. There are about 29,000 acres and 235 Indians remaining in Jackson county, and the majority of these Indians are more so in name than in either blood or habits. Many of them have long ago selected their lands and have them in the very highest state of cultivation.

Some of the finest orchards and the best farm houses in the state are to be found in that reservation. Their land is the finest between the Mississippi and the Rocky mountains. This year, when there is not a third of a corn crop in the state, these Indians will have fifty bushels of fine corn to the acre. Instead of spending his time at the corner grocery, talking "feenance" and helping "reform" the country, as have most of the whites, the Indian has been tilling his corn, and is now gaining his reward.

THE STRONG POINT about the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla is that they are permanent. They start from the solid foundation—Pure Blood.

THOUGHT IT WAS CARSO.

Ever since Donato Carso was arrested for assaulting a young lady on the street one evening a short time ago many of the women living in the outskirts of the city are a little timid about coming to town after nightfall. A young lady who resides at the Salisbury location was returning from town an evening recently. She noticed before she had gone very far beyond Division street that a man was following her. She instantly reached the conclusion that it was Carso, and although the man was almost a block behind her fears led her to imagine that he was only a few yards away. She looked around occasionally and gradually kept increasing her gait. The man noticed that the girl was walking with unusual rapidity, so he also increased his pace and managed to gain on her. When within a few blocks of her home the girl began to run. Her pursuer also started to run and was soon close behind her. Fearing that she could not reach home in time to escape the horrid man she dodged into one of her neighbors' yards and made a desperate plunge for the door, which flew open before her. She was just about exhausted and it was some time before she could find breath enough to explain that she had been pursued by Carso.

The man of the house immediately started out to find and chastise the girl's pursuer. Rushing through the gate with that purpose he met the girl's brother coming in and laughing heartily. That explained it all. It was he who had followed his sister from town, just to test her courage. The young man hasn't been able to induce his sister to give him any pie or cake since, and being fond of good things to eat he begins to feel that the joke has a serious side to it. She also declares that he shan't have a mouthful of turkey on Thanksgiving day, in return for his smartness.

Organized at Champion.

C. J. Byrns instituted a camp of Modern Woodmen at Champion Saturday evening with a charter membership of twenty-eight. The camp was named "Walker," in honor of Dr. R. S. Walker, its medical examiner and worthy adviser. The camp is officered as follows: Venerable consul, Halmer Lewis; worthy adviser, Dr. R. S. Walker; banker, James McNevis; clerk, Harry Eave; escort, O. N. Durand; watchman, A. J. Trevarthen; sentry, George Huber, Jr.; physician, Dr. S. Walker; managers, Esai Rochon, Alphonse Legendre and Archie Abbott; delegate to state camp, Thomas H. Wallade; Alternate, Alphonse Legendre.

Mr. Byrns intended beginning work establishing camps of the order on the Menominee range last week, but being assured that there was material for camps at Champion and Republic he decided to put them in at these places before going to Iron Mountain. He will spend this week at Republic.

Three of 'Em.

Rev. J. F. Borg, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, married three couples—one from Negaunee and two from this city—Saturday. Otto Lindstrom and Miss Emma Helena Anderson were the happy pair from Negaunee. The other couples united were John Stallberg and Miss Ellen Anderson and Frank Theodore Strand and Miss Josephina W. Lindberg.

Rapid Sawing.

The saw in F. Braastad & Co.'s wood sheds is run by an electric motor, which was put in operation Saturday. The power is obtained from the electric light station of the Negaunee & Ishpeming street railway company. The saw will cut fifty cords of wood per day, provided the men can handle that quantity. A trial run was made Saturday and seven cords in two cuts was turned over in one hour.

Union Services.

Union services will be held for the Presbyterian and English Methodist congregations on Thanksgiving, commencing at 10:30 o'clock, at the Division street Methodist church. Rev. C. D. Jacobs of the Presbyterian church will preach the sermon. This will be Mr. Jacob's last sermon in Ishpeming, for the present at least, as he intends leaving that afternoon or Friday for Hillsdale, his new field of labor.

Has a Contract at Ewen.

Peter Adolph, the liveryman, has taken a contract to haul logs from the woods to the railroad track at Ewen this winter and will send five of his teams to that place this week. The logs are all skidded ready to load. Mr. Adolph has had five teams and several men at work in the woods about ten miles north of Ishpeming for several weeks. He is cutting and getting out logging and other mining timber for the Cleveland Lake shaft.

Professor Peter Latz, city chemist of Indianapolis, says: "I can recommend Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder to every housekeeper as pure, wholesome and effective."

New Marshal in Charge.

John Carlson, Ishpeming's new chief of police, went on duty yesterday morning. He at first intended not to take charge until after the next meeting of the council, but owing to the fact that the night force is without a head (Nolan being on day duty since Pater-son's removal) Mayor Johnson decided that it would be well to have Mr. Carlson go on duty at once, so that Nolan could resume his duty.

Marshal Carlson has changed the night officers' beats. Instead of having them patrol certain streets for a stated distance they must hereafter cover a certain number of blocks each. The change is an important one, as the officers will now be compelled to patrol the back streets and alleys more frequently than formerly. They will also be changed from one beat to another once or twice a month. They all took new beats last night.

The victory of Dr. Price's Baking Powder at the Chicago and Midwinter fairs is a legitimate triumph for the best boon ever given to the housewives of this country.

A WIZARD'S FEAST.

Queer Surprise That Chinese Hosts Perpetrate on Their Guests.

"I once attended a swell Chinese banquet, and was not a little surprised at the way in which some of the delicacies were served," said Walter F. Logan, of Sacramento, Cal., at the La Clede recently. "After we had discussed the most substantial portion of the repast and dessert was being served, oranges were placed before each guest, the skins of which had apparently not been broken, yet from which the pulp had in some mysterious manner been removed and four or five different kinds of jelly substituted in its place.

"The guests expressed a good deal of astonishment as to how such an operation had been accomplished, but their amazement was only increased when a dish of eggs, the shells of which appeared to be perfectly whole, was placed upon the table. Examination showed the contents of the eggs had been removed and the shells filled with nuts and candy.

"Our host smilingly refused to tell us how such wonderful results had been accomplished, and we left the house completely mystified."

Wars and rumors of wars do not decrease the sales of Dr. Price's Baking Powder. They show a constant growth in every clime.

Didn't Want Her Lopsided.

Down in Mississippi not so very long ago there was a young dandy who bore the classic name of Scipio, and was the happy possessor of two mules who rejoiced in the appellations Sam Jones and Mary, and so dearly did he cherish the brutes that one day when he met a girl named Mary he fell in love with the dusky maiden for no other reason, as he admitted, than that she bore the same cognomen as the off mule, and they decided to wed. Sam, he wanted to do the thing up right and give the bride a present, so he went one day to the little country store, and, after examining the entire stock, he purchased two hoopskirts and took them back to the girl. She was delighted, but pretty soon she said: "Look heah, Scipio, what furd' you get two er dese heah lupes fud'?" "Why, honey," responded Scipio, "I didn't want 'er l' lopsided!" "Whus'at? Lopsided? Umph!" "Shooh, honey. I got one fur the right laig, and and fur de left."

"Well, yeh shooh did get 'em big enough," was Mary's reply, and the controversy was ended.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Worst Part of It.

A Boston gentleman who, upon his return from the country, found that his city house had been entered during his absence, and his heavy overcoat, among other things, had been appropriated, was talking of the theft the other day. "I do not mind the mere loss of the coat," he said, "but I do decidedly hate to think of the comfort the thief has in prospect when the winter winds begin to blow."—Boston Budget.

THE MUSCULAR SYSTEM

of every weary, thin or thin blooded person does its work with constant difficulty and fatigue. They feel "worn," or tired out, "run-down" or nervous.

Feeble people who are dyspeptic, find that exercise, after a meal is sure to cause lessened power to digest food—because there is so little blood, and what there is, is carried off from the gastric organs to the muscles. What is needed is plenty of blood, and that of the right kind. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood, and to gain in blood is nearly always to gain in wholesome flesh up to the healthy standard.

Every one should have a certain surplus of flesh to meet the emergencies of sickness; to resist the attack of consumption, grip, malaria and fevers. Thin blooded people are always getting sick, and none of the organs of the body can get along without the food they require for work, which is pure blood. To gain and to keep strength and flesh is the secret of health, usefulness and happiness. With new blood and refreshed nerves a confident feeling of returning health comes also.

Nervous manifestations, such as sleeplessness, nervous debility and nervous prostration are in nine cases out of ten "the cry of the starved nerves for food." If you feed the nerves on pure rich blood the nervous symptoms will cease. It is bad practice to put the nerves to sleep with so-called calery mixtures, coca compounds or malt extracts, which is needed is a blood maker. The "Discovery" is composed of vegetable ingredients which have an especial effect upon the stomach, liver, and blood making glands. For the cure of dyspepsia, indigestion, liver complaint, weakened vitality, and for young, pale people, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be equaled. Thousands have testified to its merits.

A PARABLE. Summer is gone, the butterflies are dead; The little birds fly southward, one by one; No longer elm and maple widely spread; Their boughs of emerald 'neath the shining sun.

NEATLY PLANNED. I had just reached my office after lunch one miserably wet day last November, when a visitor was announced.

When we reached dessert and Mrs. Engstrom had left the table, I led the conversation round to the burglary, and induced the captain to give his version. I waited till he had finished, and then, looking at him steadily, said: "Now, isn't it rather a curious thing, Capt. Olyer, that you should fall over the wires when they were quite three feet away?"

Engstrom stared at me, and the captain did not answer till he had drank a glass of wine. "What do you mean, sir?" he asked at last.

"I mean," I replied, still watching him keenly, "was it not a curious thing that you should be tripped by blades of grass? And is it not curious also, I went on, mercifully, 'that your servant, or rather your accomplice, should be standing under the bedroom window here at the same time he was in London?'"

"The captain sat dazed and pale and motionless, though his hands trembled, and Dr. Engstrom gasped out: 'Mr. De Warre, whatever are you suggesting?'"

"I found a lantern, and we searched the grounds and the surrounding roads. We found nothing, save a ladder under one of the windows, and a small brooch which the thief or thieves had dropped. No suspicious-looking person had been seen in the village or at the station, and the two policemen who came could do nothing beyond looking wise. I called at the police station this morning, but they have no clue, nor is it likely they will have one. All I have learned from them is that they believe that two were engaged in the affair from the footmarks."

"It will be too dark by the time we could reach Lyndhurst to investigate," I said, "but I will come on by the first train in the morning." "I wish you to promise me one thing, not to mention to anyone the object of my visit. Call me a fellow director or anything you like."

I found Mr. Engstrom at the station the next morning with a dog cart. I forbore to talk on the subject of my visit save to ask one question. "Why did you keep such a valuable necklace at home, Mr. Engstrom?" "I kept it in the Safe Deposit in Chancery lane," he answered, "and only brought it home Saturday because my wife wanted it at the county ball tomorrow night."

up, brought them again. It was fine but strong wire, fastened to the ground by small iron pegs. "Are the wires in the exact place?" "I put the pegs in the very holes," replied the gardener. "You can see the holes yourself, sir."

Next examined the window where the burglars had entered from the outside, and then entering the house I went upstairs and with the help of the maid examined the bedroom. The maid said, as "master was so particular about fresh air." Next I inspected the footstep, a matter of some difficulty, considering the number of people who had been there since. But finally I traced them across a flower bed into the shrubbery, where they were quite distinct. Only one person had passed there, and I came to the conclusion the sapient police had evolved two robbers from their inner consciousness.

On getting back I had a pleasant half hour in the billiard room with Mr. Engstrom. Capt. Olyer returned just in time for dinner, and I was only introduced to him as we entered the dining-room. He was faultlessly got up, of well-made figure and handsome features, bearing large traces of dissipation. As for his speech, he had an invincible objection to the letter "r," and carefully avoided its use.

When we reached dessert and Mrs. Engstrom had left the table, I led the conversation round to the burglary, and induced the captain to give his version. I waited till he had finished, and then, looking at him steadily, said: "Now, isn't it rather a curious thing, Capt. Olyer, that you should fall over the wires when they were quite three feet away?"

HE WAS A BUSY MAN. But Some How or Other He Didn't Prosper in Life. "Yes, I suppose you may call Eben a successful man. He does a good business, but in my mind he isn't prosperous."

"Well," returned her sister, "it seems to me everything he touches comes out just right. He's the busiest man in town." "That's just it," retorted Mrs. Tracy. "He's busy and he succeeds in his doings, but that isn't prospering—not as I understand it. You see," she continued, "when we were first married he leased the little woollen mill down on the stream, and we got along first-rate. He wasn't overbusy, and we used to ride round together every afternoon and have lots of company and good times."

"But he began to make money and buy more wool, and more mills to take care of it and more storehouses to put it in, until it takes about all his time to get from one mill to the other. Sometimes I see him on a Sunday, but he is generally busy resting up to start again. He's about as much a slave as if he was chained in a galley."

"Well, perhaps so, but it all goes to buy more wool. If anybody hankers for lots of wool in this world, that's one thing. Eben has any amount of wool, but when it comes to getting the real solid goodness out of life and enjoying it, he's forgotten how to do it. Really, as I look at it, Eben is the most unprosperous man in town."

CITY HALL IS FINISHED.

That Is to Say the Building Proper Is Done and Ready.

LIGHTS AND FURNITURE ARE YET TO GO IN.

Architect and Builder Have Done Well and City May Be Proud of Her Home.

THE NEW HOUSE COMPLETE.

The City Hall is done as far as Contractor Bruce's work is concerned. The lights and furniture are still to be put in but otherwise the building is practically completed and a very handsome building it is. Of course there are a few minor details still unfinished, such as the railing on the steps, but the rubbish is all cleaned out and the people can now see what they have obtained for their money. The general impression must be that the money has been made to go a long way and that the city has obtained a large amount of building for the cash invested.

The external features of the building are so familiar that no description at this time is necessary. The main entrance opens into a broad hall running through the structure, handsomely finished in carved oak. The staircase, of very pretty design, is in the same wood. This main corridor has a floor of colored tiles. Under the main stair is a drinking fountain of white marble and silver. On the east side, beginning from the front, are the mayor's offices (two rooms), the recorder's office and the police court. From the latter a private stair leads to the jail below. The mayor's and recorder's offices are finished in red birch and the court room in oak. The latter is a provision for the future, there being in the present city charter no authority for a police magistrate. On the west side, again beginning from the front, are the controller's offices (two rooms), the treasurer's office and the offices (three rooms) of the water and electric light boards. The latter suite has a public room in common with separate cashier's windows into the two private offices. These rooms are also finished in red birch. The recorder, treasurer and water board have commodious vaults and all the offices have ample cloak and toilet rooms.

The basement is reached by a stairway under the main stairs from the main corridor, by a door from the alley on the west and another in to the boiler room. Under the mayor's and recorder's offices are large store rooms, rough finished and with cement floors. Under the police court is the boiler room with two return flue boilers, so arranged that either or both can be used. On the west side of the basement on the Washington street front are the marshal's office and a room for the patrolmen. Behind these is the jail, consisting of an ante-room and two cell rooms. In the men's department are six steel cells with plate sides and barred fronts. The space under the water board's vault is utilized for a bath room. The women's department lies under the rear of the main corridor and has one separate cell at the inner corner. Both of the cell rooms have external light and air.

On the east side of the second floor are the health office, the street commissioner's office and the city engineer's rooms. The latter has a very spacious drafting room well adapted to his needs. Part of these rooms are finished in red birch and the others in Norway pine. Under the gallery of the council chamber at the southwest corner of the building are the city attorney's offices and a cloak room. The council chamber is the gem of the building, with its lofty ceiling and its three great west windows. Its gallery is reached by a door of the main stairs and in its rear are three committee rooms. The council chamber is all in white, being the only room in the building not finished in natural woods. The locks and hinges of the doors are oxidized bronze and the gallery rail and light fixtures of bright brass. It is evident now, although the carpet and desks are not yet in, that this apartment will be very handsome.

The great assembly hall fills the space under the roof east of the council chamber and the full depth of the building. One corner is cut out by the stairs and a gallery fills the space across the front. The stage is made with a sounding board ceiling and of course is only designed for speaking. It is reached from two small retiring rooms on each side. The space over the committee rooms behind the council chamber is utilized for a large store room. From the gallery of the assembly hall a stairway leads to the belvedere on the roof, from which a fine view of the city can be obtained. The building is heated throughout by steam and lighted by electricity, compound fixtures being put in so that gas can be used when desired. The building is a credit to Marquette and a monument to its designers, Messrs. Lovejoy & Demar, and to its builders, Emil Bruce and his subcontractors.

"How shall the press the people's rights maintain?" Never better than by advertising Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

The Masonic Dances.
The committee in charge of the Masonic series of dancing receptions, consisting of Messrs. Delf, Gooding, Osband, Truscott and Mitchell, has announced the following dates for the ten parties to be given: Dec. 7 and 21, Jan. 4 and 18, Feb. 1 and 15, March 1, 15 and 29 and April 11. It will be observed that all the parties fall upon Friday evening except the last. The series will be conducted on the same plan as those of the last three seasons as to refreshments, etc.

Clean Your Sidewalks!
Complaints are coming from all over town about people who never shovel the snow off their sidewalks. There is some doubt as to the present powers of the city in this matter but there is little doubt that the council could, if so disposed, require all persons to shovel off the snow just as it requires them to keep sidewalks repaired. The residents along Ridge and Arch streets are kicking particularly hard, their special grievance being against the school board. Director Cochran said the board had always hired a man to keep the walks around the High school clean but that he was not generally set to work before Dec. 1.

If there is anything that aggravates the average citizens it is to have his own walk clean and his neighbors pay no attention to theirs. It is suggested from several quarters that certain householders who complain of lack of exercise and join gymnasiums to get it might save money and improve their health by shoveling the snow off their walks.

Ready for Thanksgiving.
Hathway & Peters have in the big window of their Palace meat market in the Nester block a most appetizing display of Thanksgiving turkeys. The sight is provocative of appetite and calls the imagination forward to the time when these pallid fowls shall be served brown and smoking with all the surroundings and trimmings that go to make up the traditional dinner of the great American holiday. And there are other things in store besides turkeys, and lovers of good eating will do well to inspect the stock.

Need Not File in Person.
Some of the upper peninsula papers have wrongly inferred from an item recently published in these columns regarding the Ontonagon & Brule lands recently restored that persons desiring to file on them must come to the land office in person. The lands will be open for entry at 10 o'clock in the morning of January 10 and it is simply a case of first come, first served. Applications can be made by mail, but as no application can be made prior to the day and hour named those desiring the lands will do well to appear and file in person.

The war in the orient is nothing to the war waged on impure baking powders by Dr. Price's. It is driving them from the field every day.

The Machinists Ball.
The dance to be given tomorrow evening by the Machinists promises to be a grand success in every way. The boys have already sold a great many tickets and are engaged evenings in trimming up Armory Hall for the occasion. The ladies of the Locomotive Firemen, who are to give the supper, are making great preparations for that evening and all who desire can get a good supper in the dining hall at fifty cents per couple.
