HARVARD BEATEN AGAIN.

The Pennsylvania University Football Eleven Finds the Harvard Team Easy Victims.

CRIMSON FLAG LOWERED BEFORE THE RED AND BLUE.

Many University Football Teams Spend Their Thanksgiving Fighting on the Field of Glory.

HARVARD PLAYED IN HARD LUCK. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—Pennsylvania, 18; Harvard, 4. That is the score by which the wearers of the red and blue today trampled the beautiful silken flag of crimson into the dust. It was a grand victory and one that has a world of meaning to the sturdy sons of old Pennsylvania. It places a new star in the football arena and undoubtedly gives Pennsylvania the championship on the gridiron for 1894.

When the crowd began to gather at the grounds there was a grand crush. So dense was the throng that many were still outside the gates at 2 o'clock when the play should have been started, so that to enable them to have an equal chance with the early comers the game was not started promptly on the hour.

The same ill luck that followed Harvard in the game with Yale Saturday seemed to pursue her today. C. Brewer, Fairchild and Emmons being forced to retire during the first half. The only point scored in the first half was won from Harvard. Pennsylvania's stock took a big boom during the intermission and many were the predictions of a red and blue victory.

At 3:35 when the two teams made their appearance for the second half deafening cheers greeted both elevens. Pennsylvania made a touch down in six minutes after the play began and a goal was kicked. Score: Pennsylvania, 8; Harvard, 0. Pennsylvania was not long in making another touch down.

Score: Pennsylvania, 12; Harvard, 0. Pierce play followed and Harvard soon scored, making a touch down but missed the goal. Score: Pennsylvania, 12; Harvard, 4. After some more lively playing Pennsylvania carried the ball over for a touch down and a goal was kicked, making the score stand Pennsylvania, 18; Harvard, 4. The game was called at 4:55 with the ball on Harvard's forty-five yard line. The final score was 18 to 4 in favor of Pennsylvania.

ENDED IN A QUARREL. ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Fully 3,500 people shivered, danced and yelled themselves hoarse this afternoon at the football game between the Cornell team and Lehigh. The game ended in a dispute over what the Cornell men claimed to be a fair touchdown. Lehigh's supporters said Cornell did not win the touchdown and left the field, refusing to play any further, when Referee Young declared the touchdown a legitimate one. The game was awarded to the Ithaca eleven by a score of 10 to 0.

WERE EASY VICTIMS. OMAHA, Nov. 29.—Nebraska university clearly outclassed the Iowa university eleven in today's game. Offensive play for Nebraska was perfect and at no time were their opponents strong enough to fully develop the defensive strength of the visitors. By winning today's game and Missouri's loss leaves the interstate university championship a tie between Nebraska and Missouri. The score was: Nebraska, 30; Iowa, 0. KANSAS UNIVERSITY WINS.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 29.—Fully ten thousand people today saw the Kansas university eleven snatch from the eleven of Missouri university their chance of securing the western intercollegiate pennant. The score was Kansas, 18; Missouri, 12.

NOW TIES ANN ARBOR. CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—The Adelbert college eleven defeated the Case school eleven today in a well played game by a score of 24 to 0. This victory gives Adelbert the championship of Ohio and makes that eleven a tie with the Ann Arbor eleven for the college championship of the west.

WON BY CLOSE SCORE. CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—In the football match today between the universities of Chicago and Michigan the latter won by a score of 6 to 4. The final small score in Michigan's favor was surely a surprise to the crowd, as it had been expected the Ann Arbor boys would bury the Chicagoans under a heavy score. The play was hot from the start.

KOLB LEAVES FOR MONTGOMERY. Will Probably Hold a Mock Inaugural Near Montgomery.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 29.—Reuben F. Kolb, the thrice defeated Populist candidate for governor, left for Montgomery with a small body guard this morning. He stated before leaving that he will be inaugurated at Montgomery Saturday at the same time as Governor Oates. He says he proposes to do nothing unlawful. He expects to meet several thousand of his followers and counsel with them as to further proceedings looking to a dual government. Three thousand state troops will be in attendance with loaded guns to meet Kolb's followers who have been secretly instructed by some hot-headed leaders to go ahead. Kolb will not be molested unless he commits some over act interpretable as treason. If he does he will be arrested.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Secretary Herbert returned from Alabama and says there will be no trouble in Alabama as the result of the manifesto published by Kolb who asserts he intends to be inaugurated as governor. "There is no show of force," said the secretary, "and the affair is gotten up by Kolb who is seeking notoriety and means nothing more. There will not be a gun fired. Kolb may have himself inaugurated at some point near Montgomery but he will not even attract a large crowd to see him go through the theatricals."

WAS MISUNDERSTOOD. Ensland Merely Refused to Recognize a Decree by Nicaragua.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—It is semi-officially stated that Great Britain's note to Nicaragua only intimated that Great Britain could not recognize the validity of certain decrees recently issued by the Nicaraguan government. This has already been explained to the government of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Before taking further action in the new Bluefields trouble the state department will wait to hear from Ambassador Bayard, who has been charged to inquire into the matter at London. There is no foundation for a war scare at this time for it is extremely improbable that the British officers in Nicaragua would pursue a course likely to lead to a hostile clash with the settlement of the disputes regarding the Mosquito reservation must be reopened and a diplomatic warfare must be conducted by Mr. Bayard with the British foreign office and meanwhile affairs at Bluefields will remain statu quo.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—General Barrios, the special envoy of the government of Nicaragua to Great Britain in connection with the settlement of the disputes regarding the Mosquito territory, Nicaragua will be received in audience by the queen on Friday. General Barrios declared today that everything was tranquil on the Mosquito coast. The government has no information regarding any trouble about the Mosquito territory. The officials add that Mr. Gosling, the British minister to Nicaragua, has not sent for a warship to protect British interests at Bluefields.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The action of Great Britain with reference to the Mosquito territory has aroused some inquiry relative to the status of the Nicaragua canal bill in congress and as to the prospects of its favorable consideration during the approaching session. General Catchings was asked today what he thought of the prospect of the bill. He said: "The house had not yet had an opportunity to materially consider the canal question and had not made up its mind on it. It is too big a problem for a session as short as that which is approaching, consequently I do not believe we shall solve the canal problem this winter."

MAY HAVE MET FOUL PLAY. Two Married Brothers Disappear from Their Denver Homes.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 29.—Oct. 29, Clarence and James Moulton, two brothers, left their homes and since then have not been heard from. Their wives are unable to account for their absence and have sent officers to Haverhill, Mass., where the Moultons formerly lived, in an endeavor to find a trace of them but their friends at Haverhill have seen nothing of them. May 19 last the two brothers married two sisters in Denver. The circumstances surrounding the case are most peculiar and there seems to be ground for suspecting that the brothers met with foul play.

WILL TRY TO PASS BILLS. Supplementary Tariff Bills May be Passed by the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Senator Jones of Arkansas, a member of the finance committee, said today that he had no doubt there would be an earnest effort on the part of the Democratic members of the finance committee to get the senate to consider the supplementary tariff bills concerning sugar, coal and iron at the forthcoming session. He said he for one should advocate that the bills as reported by the finance committee should be taken up and passed if possible.

AMERICA UNREDEEMED. Political Inquiry the Stumbling Block to Good Government.

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Prof. George D. Herron of Iowa arraigned America for its political inquiry at the Thanksgiving session of the "School for the Kingdom" today. He said the nation failed in its mission as a "Witness of the power and wisdom of Christ unto the political salvation of the world; and it must awaken from its blind fatalism or it cannot receive the salvation and glory of a Christian state."

BANDITS BEATEN OFF. Brave Rock Island Train Crew Prevents a Hold-Up.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—The Oklahoma City correspondent of the Post-Dispatch wires a story to that paper that news has reached the city of a bold attempt to rob a Rock Island train at a point twelve miles south of El Reno. The would-be robbers were beaten off, however, by the train crews and the report says several of them were killed. No particulars are given.

THREE CHILDREN CREMATED. House Catches Fire While the Mother is Away at Work.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 29.—Three small children, two boys and a girl of Mrs. W. K. Walters' were burned to death this morning while their mother was away from home at work. She had locked them in.

Was Buried Quietly. VANZIN, Nov. 29.—The funeral services of Princess Bismarck were held this morning in strict privacy.

SANK UNDER THE WAVES.

A Valuable Portion of Tacoma's Water Front Disappears in Puget Sound.

TWO THOUSAND FEET OF DOCKAGE IS SUBMERGED.

Recent Heavy Rains Have Weakened the Strong Supports Which Give Way Under Immense Strain.

SWALLOWED BY PUGET SOUND. TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 29.—With a loud rumble and a jar that shook the city two thousand feet of land along Tacoma's water front suddenly sank from sight last night and the water of Puget sound now covers the spot where yesterday towered a high embankment. It is supposed that this was caused by a tidal wave or earthquake. Several persons are supposed to have been carried down to their deaths by the landslide.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 29.—Investigation proves conclusively that last night's great landslide was caused by neither a tidal wave nor an earthquake. Just outside the Northern Pacific dock the bank slopes into deep water at an angle of 45 degrees. At a great expense the railroad put in solid docks and made land supported on the water side by a rock wall built against piling driven into the mud. This was not strong enough to bear the immense pressure and when the high bank further up was made loose by the recent rains the outer edge of the dock began to divide and finally gave way, precipitating into deep water one of the most valuable portions of the water front.

The submerged strip is 1,500 feet long and 200 feet in width. Two persons were killed: Emma Stubbs, the fifteen-year-old step-daughter of H. H. Alger, the boat house proprietor, and John Hansson, the night watchman, who was carried down with the engine house containing the boiler and pumps. The Sound freight warehouse went down in the crash. The safe contained $3,400 in cash and valuable papers worth $18,000. A diver was telegraphed for to search for it. The damage to shipping and other losses are estimated at $13,000.

SUGAR REFINERIES CLOSE. An Order Which Will Affect Fifty Thousand Employees.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Orders were issued today from the headquarters of the American sugar refinery in Wall street to shut down all refineries in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. The closing of the sugar works will affect 50,000 operatives. President H. O. Hayemeyer said today: "The sugar business has been bad for some months past. We have been hoping against hope all along, and tried to weather the period of depression, trusting that business might improve and that we would soon be able to run our works to their full capacity, but everything was against us. The last congress is responsible for the present situation and if they pass the free sugar bill at Washington as it is reported that they will, they will kill the sugar industry completely. We must have enough profit to cover the bald expenses of carrying on sugar refining or else go out of business completely. We cannot compete with the wages paid in Europe."

FAILED TO OPEN THE SAFE. Burglars Perform a Bungling Job on an Iowa Bank.

LAMONT, Ia., Nov. 29.—Burglars forced the rear door of the Commercial bank and blew open the vault doors, cracked the safe and so damaged the time lock on the burglar proof safe that it failed to work, but without gaining an entrance. The day cash box set on a chest containing about $150 which with some jewelry placed there for safe keeping the value of which is not given, is missing. It is not known at what hour the entrance was made but it is supposed to have been near morning. A brace and several drills, a short steel crowbar, a package of charcoal, powder belows and a tube with a wet blanket were left behind. Some of the tools were identified as the property of Jos. Robinson, a backsmith located in the same block. The bank building is of solid brick walls one story high. The circumstances attending the case as regards the method is similar in detail to that of two years ago and lead to the conviction that the deprecators are not strangers, neither adepts in their work. A reward of $350 is offered for the detection and conviction of the robbers.

CANNOT BE REACHED. Samuel Seeley Is Reported to Have Gone to Canada.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The search for Samuel C. Seeley, the fugitive bookkeeper of the Shoe & Leather bank, was continued today. Lawyer Frank C. Angel, to whom Seeley confessed his crime, has made the practical admission that his client is in Canada and added that according to the Revised Statutes of the United States he cannot be extradited from that country.

Will Attend Cabinet Meeting. WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Private Secretary Thurber says President Cleveland is much better today and expects to be at the White House tomorrow and to attend the cabinet meeting.

CALUMET LIGHT GUARDS GIVE SUCCESSFUL BALL. Rev. J. Edward Reilly Lectures at Houghton Armory Dec. 4—Firemen's Ball Well Attended.

The annual ball of the Light Guards given on Wednesday evening at the Armory was in every respect up to the high standard of its predecessors and was the means of furnishing a very pleasant evening—not to say night—to several hundred young people.

The monthly meeting of the Portage Lake branch of the Michigan Liquor Dealers Protective Association was held here Tuesday afternoon.

The Epworth league of the Calumet Methodist church gave "The Old Dessert-Tree" at the church parlors Thursday evening to an appreciative audience. It is probable that the success of the first entertainment will lead to a number of others during the winter.

A concert was given at the School hall, Calumet, Thursday evening for the benefit of Christ church at which some excellent local talent, including the Fifth regiment band, took part.

A mass meeting of all parties interested in Y. M. C. A. work is called for Sunday evening next at the Congregational church. The meeting will practically be a session of the ways and means committee and all persons interested in the welfare of the association are earnestly requested to be present.

Captain Thomas Buzzo, formerly of Calumet, is now superintendent of the Alice mine at Butte, Mont.

W. A. Leavitt, Jr., will leave today for Philadelphia, where he takes a place as draughtsman with a large machine building firm of the Quaker City.

The last entertainment of the Star course, given under the auspices of St. Agnes' guild of Trinity Episcopal church, will take place at the parlors on Tuesday evening, Dec. 4. It will be a lecture illustrated by a variety of handsome stereoscopic views, by Rev. J. Edward Reilly of Hancock. Seats can be secured at Kroll's in Houghton, or at Scott's in Hancock, for the lecture. Mr. Reilly and his illustrated lectures are almost too well known in the Portage Lake towns to require commendation from THE MINING JOURNAL, but if there are any who have not listened to the lecture, they will never regret attending. The lecture and the views are both original and of deep interest.

Members of Columbia lodge, No. 144, and invited friends danced at the hall of the lodge in the Hartman block last night. The attendance was just sufficient to properly fill the hall without crowding and the evening was heartily enjoyed by the members and guests.

C. A. Mayworm, who is endeavoring to arrange for an excursion theater party to attend the season of grand opera given by the Marie Tavyra Opera company at the Lyceum in Duluth on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, has received a number of inquiries regarding the proposed trip. If twenty-five people can be found to attend a special rate of $6 for the round trip will be given by the South Shore company and by telegraphing ahead for seats for the entire party will be secured near together. On Monday evening "Il Trovatore," and on Tuesday evening "Carmen" and on Wednesday evening "Lohengrin" will be presented. Seats will cost $1.50, $1.00 and seventy-five cents, while at the Wednesday afternoon matinee a double bill will be presented, "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be given, with seats at seventy-five, fifty and twenty-five cents. Those who purpose going should communicate with Mr. Mayworm at once. It is important that he should know who is going by Friday evening or not later than Saturday morning.

The special train to Calumet Wednesday night was well loaded with members of the local military company and their sweethearts. The ball was pronounced a huge success by the Houghton delegation.

The Portage Lake Rugby football team, composed of young men from both of the Portage Lake towns, has been unsuccessful in securing a match for Thanksgiving and will disband for the winter unless some provision can be made for turning the association into a toboggan club. The club will be organized next season and will probably be heard from as it contains some very good material.

A VICTORY FOR PASKOLA. It Receives the Official Endorsement of Eminent Experts and a Jury of Representative Citizens.

The suit brought by Ohio's food commissioner against a Cincinnati druggist for selling Paskola on the ground that it was nothing but glucose resulted in a great victory for Paskola and a verdict against the state.

This verdict disposes of the malicious attack that has been made against Paskola by interested rivals and suits have now been brought against the proprietors of a well-known emulsion of cod liver oil for having given wide circulation to a false formula and other misrepresentations regarding it.

The verdict of this attack will be the better understood when it is stated that Paskola is being largely used in the place of cod liver oil.

A Peculiar Discovery Recently Made by Contractors Digging a Gas Well. A cave of enormous proportions has been discovered in the eastern part of Delaware county, Ind., says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The discovery was a very peculiar one. Samuel McPherson, a gas-well contractor, had a set of men putting down a well near Selma, east of Muncie. The drill was down about one hundred feet when it entered space, much to the amazement of the men at the top end of the rope. They commenced to let out rope, and down, down, and the drill slid off to one side and continued on down at an angle. The men worked for hours attempting to penetrate the second earth and continue down to Trenton rock. The contractor had several sections of pipe placed together and let down, but they swung in space. He then tried to partially fill the hole, which would give him a base to work on and prevent the drill from sliding off. Several cords of wood and a dozen wagon loads of boulders were sent down and completely lost.

A horrible stench escapes from the hole, making it almost impossible to remain near the opening. The supposition is that there is an extensive opening some place in that vicinity and that the cavern is a rendezvous for wild animals. For years, hogs, cattle, horses and sheep have mysteriously disappeared from points in this vicinity, and it is thought that they have been dragged into this cavern and the horrible odor comes from their decayed remains. Contractor McPherson's men have been working three days trying to get the drill started in the bottom of the cavern and they will probably give up the task. Others who do not entertain the idea that there is an extensive opening think that the cave was a retreat for the Indians and that many relics would be found which will be investigated and, in all probability, a hole large enough for the entrance of a man will be made and the interior will be visited. Several months ago a cave similar to this one, except that the bottom was not slanting, was discovered by drillers while putting down a gas well near Bluffton. The drillers are of the opinion that the two are connected, and if so the famous Mammoth cave of Kentucky will be a minute affair, the discoveries being made forty miles apart. One aged farmer says that he intends selling his farm and move from that section of the country, as he fears that in a very short time the earth will drop and fill up the cavern, and then their farms will be a sea and they will all be drowned. Many others are excited in this manner.

A Patriot's Petticoat. And How It Helped to Drive Off the British Soldiers.

In a letter to the New York Times David S. Turner, of New Dorp, S. L., says: "During the war of 1812, when Commodore Hardy attacked Stonington, the people there had no military defense except one old cannon which had been used for firing salutes. At Groton, on the bank of the Thames, opposite to New London, lived Mrs. Bailey in her own house, in the full vigor of womanhood and patriotism for her country, who, learning of the attack, immediately mounted her horse and started for that place to take part in the fray. Upon her arrival there the fight to prevent the landing of the Hardy force had already commenced, in which the old cannon was playing a conspicuous part, but soon it was found that the old gun must be given up for want of cartridges or material to make them. It was at this critical moment that Mrs. Bailey arrived, and, upon understanding the matter, gave instant notice that she could supply the needful, and then and there she was soon worked into cartridges. The old gun was kept at work, and Commodore Hardy's force went back to the fleet to report progress.

"When Gen. Jackson was president and made his tour through New England he crossed the river at New London, made a call upon Mrs. Bailey at her Groton home and gave her a cordial handshaking and his hearty congratulation upon her courageous and patriotic action upon the occasion of the battle of Stonington."

PORT ARTHUR PILLAGED.

Japanese Troops Plunder the Captured Town and Murder the Inmates.

LI HUNG CHANG CHARGED WITH CORRUPTION.

Memorial Addressed to the King Charges the Grand Chancellor With Malfeasance in Office.

SOLDIERS BECOME BUTCHERS.

CHU FOO, Nov. 29.—Chinese fugitives who have arrived here state that the Japanese sacked Port Arthur, shooting every one, old and young, and that pillage and murder were supreme for three days. They add that the dead were barbarously mutilated, their hands, noses and ears being chopped off, and say that other nameless atrocities were committed. No resistance was offered by the people, but Japanese soldiers scoured the country for days and killed all the Chinese they could find. The fugitives also say that the streets of Port Arthur, as well as the harbor, were filled with dead bodies.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 29.—A sensation has been caused here by a memorial of the throne, signed by more than one hundred and twenty high officials, impeaching Li Hung Chang, grand chancellor of China, and charging him with corruption, peculation and deception.

It was but a few days since that the emperor despoiled Li Hung Chang of his titles and positions but permitted him to perform the functions of his office for the time being. The chancellor felt the disgrace so keenly that he was rumored he had committed suicide.

The memorial presented today charges that Li Hung Chang rejoiced at the Japanese victories and prevented the Chinese from achieving success. He is said to have represented that China was prepared for war where he knew the contrary was the case. Li Hung Chang is also said to be implicated with Prince Kung, the emperor's uncle and president of the Tsung Li Yamen and president of the admiralty, who was recently appointed dictator, and with the Tsoai Wu and the commander of the Chinese forces at Port Arthur. These three officials are said by the signers of the memorial to be guilty of high treason and of selling state secrets and war material to the enemy. They are further charged with investing money in Japan, with harboring treasonable designs against the Chinese empire and with conspiring to procure the overthrow of China. The memorial demands the instant punishment and dismissal of all concerned in the conspiracy.

Li Hung Chang was born Feb. 16, 1823, in the province of Anu-Huei. In 1860 he cooperated with General Gordon in suppressing the Tae-Ping rebellion, being then the governor of the Thian-Sin province. He was created viceroy of the United Counties in May, 1865. In the following year he was appointed minister plenipotentiary and in 1867 viceroy of Hoang-Kuang. One year later he became grand chancellor. After the Tien-Tsin massacre in 1870 he was despoiled of his titles, but in 1872 the emperor restored him to favor and to the office of grand chancellor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The steamer Oceanic brought over a dozen missionaries from various parts of China. Among them was Dr. H. Blodgett of the American board of foreign missionaries, who has been engaged in missionary work in the Orient for forty years. He does not believe there is any danger to missionaries or other foreigners in China and returning for a holiday. He says the murder of Wylie was an act of violence. The Chinese, he says, considered Port Arthur impregnable. It was as strongly fortified as ingenuity could suggest. He believes the Japanese will capture Peking although the troops must march thirty days to reach the Chinese capital. The capture of Port Arthur will give easy transportation to Japanese troops. The ultimate aim of the Japanese is to acquire more territory.

A naval officer who came over on the Oceanic says never in any war has such patriotism been shown as that evinced by the Japanese. Rich and poor have contributed to the war fund and enrolled themselves as members of the Red Cross society, in the ranks of which are royal princes and nobles. The society has hospitals in every part of the empire and has done fine work on the field of battle.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A dispatch to the Times from Tien Tsin says Manchuria is in an unsettled condition. There is a general exodus of the inhabitants. Steamers from New Chung and the railway from Shan Han Kwaa to Tien Tsin carry hundreds of refugees. Alarm is being caused by disbanding or retreating Chinese soldiers. Robbery is prevalent outside and is now extending within the great wall. Ordinary traffic is suspended. Fugitive peasants are hurrying to the English settlements for safety.

RUN DOWN AND SUNK.

Six Lives Lost Off Boston on a Fishing Schooner.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The fishing schooner Gracie H. Benson was sunk in a collision with the steamer Reading of the Philadelphia & Reading line at the entrance of Boston harbor early yesterday. Six of the Benson's crew were drowned.

The schooner arrived yesterday with a full cargo of fish and, after unloading, sailed at midnight for Provincetown. Captain John Harvender, one of the rescued, tells the following story of the collision:

"We were proceeding out of the channel with a fair wind. When about half way from Boston light and Bug light the steamer Reading, with the barge Suffolk in tow, loomed up before us. We endeavored to tack to get across the steamer's bow and out of danger but she showed no signs of stopping and crashed into the Benson on the port side just abaft the main rigging. Our vessel filled and sank in less than two minutes."

The names of those drowned are as follows: EDWIN HARVENDER, aged nineteen, nephew of the captain. FRED MERRITT, aged thirty-four, Digby, N. S. JOHN RINK, aged forty, single. WM. NEWCOMB, aged twenty-five, single. FRED BONNER, aged twenty, single. St. Peter, N. S. AUGUST —, Portuguese, (surname unknown).

A New Material.

Wood-stone, or xyloolith, is a manufactured material that is believed to have very many uses. It is made of calcined magnesite and fine sawdust and treated with chemicals. When first mixed, and before the paste has had time to set, it is made into sheets and put under a pressure of one thousand pounds to the square inch. It is saturated with linseed oil and dried, thus making it more impervious to moisture. It is used as a building material and bears a pressure of about three hundred pounds to the square inch. It is made in sheets from one-quarter of an inch to an inch and a half in thickness. As a flooring material it is very highly spoken of.—N. Y. Ledger.

OTHER TEAM NARROWLY ESCAPE.

SOUTH BRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 29.—This place was the scene of an awful calamity today resulting in the instant death of three young men, fatally injuring one and seriously injuring twelve others. The South Bridge football eleven was scheduled to play a game with the eleven of the Worcester Polytechnic institute here and were passing over the tracks of the New York and New England railroad on their way to the grounds in a large bus when the vehicle was struck by a passenger engine.

The wagon was demolished and the occupants scattered in every direction, three members of the eleven being killed outright. Some were thrown into the air to descend many feet away, maimed and with bones broken, while others went down under the wheels and were ground into a mangled and bleeding mass of flesh with but slight resemblance to human forms. The dead are CHARLES GAUTHRIER, VICTOR NELSON, JOSEPH COOK.

Of the others injured slight hopes are entertained for the recovery of A. E. Hughes, W. J. Bursaw and Andrew Baxter. The bus containing the Worcester eleven only escaped by a miracle.

Some of the Tribes That Are Located in British Columbia.

Siwash is a name which has been made generally applicable to all of the west-coast Indians from Puget sound to Alaska. These Indians are divided into a great number of tribes, differing in language, manners, and modern traditions, though in their older traditions there is such a striking similarity as to indicate beyond a doubt that they have sprung from a common source. If one were to attempt to trace the origin of these tribes, says the Toronto Globe, he would find that apparently the country now occupied by them had in other days been peopled by an older and in all probability an inferior race, with whom the ancestors of the present generation had mingled; but at a point on the Queen Charlotte islands there is a line beyond which the older tribes had evidently come into contact with a later and superior infusion. Among the Hidas on the Queen Charlotte islands is found a fine race of men. In their physical make-up they are large and powerfully built; they are somewhat lighter in color than their southern neighbors, and more intelligent; their mythology is more complicated, but more carefully wrought out, and they excel in their art of wood-working and carving. Coming south from the Queen Charlotte group, it is found that the influence of the older and inferior race is more and more strongly impressed upon the tribes, and a gradual deterioration continues, with a few interruptions, right down to Vancouver island, where a very ordinary type of aborigine is found. From all that can be traced in their mythology, in their peculiar methods of thought, and in some instances, in their tribal traditions, it is reasonable to suppose that the ancestors of the Hidas drifted across the Pacific ocean, most probably from Japan, and found lodgment on the islands now occupied by their descendants. These involuntary invaders had found an inferior class of natives, with whom they had commingled until the distinction between them had been obliterated and a new tribe had been formed. That this supposition is probably the correct one is shown by the fact that within comparatively recent times Japanese vessels have been blown out of their course and drifted upon the North American coast.

That the Queen Charlotte group has not been the only harbor of refuge for these storm-tossed mariners of old is probable, for among some of the tribes farther south, even down as far as the powerful Bella Coola, there are found evidences of superiority which can only be attributed to a commingling of the Japanese, though with intermediate weaknesses between these points and points north and south, showing that they had received a fresh infusion from without at particular places. In the seventies a Japanese junk in distress was picked up as far south as the lower end of Vancouver island and towed into Victoria harbor. Words similar in pronunciation and meaning are found in the Japanese and tribal languages, and there is a striking similarity in the general physical outline of the two peoples.

Strange Oversight.

A writer in the Scottish Review, speaking of the proverbial carelessness of Scotchmen about small matters, tells the following anecdote by way of illustration: The queen was on one of her periodical journeys through Scotland, and the royal train was timed to stop for luncheon at a certain thorough station. Mr. G., who lived not far away, and who had a famous hot-house, improved the opportunity to send her majesty a basket of his choicest grapes. In due course he received a letter of acknowledgment, expressing the royal appreciation of the gift, and complimenting the donor upon the fineness of his fruit. The gentleman was pleased, of course, and feeling sure that his head gardener would be greatly interested in the letter, he read it to him. The gardener listened gravely, but his only comment was: "She disna say anything about sending back the basket."

FANCY WOOD IS DANGEROUS.

Naval Officers Take Warning from Hapless Vessels in the Yalu Battle.

The details of the great naval battle at the mouth of the Yalu river as laid before the public in the Associated Press dispatches have been of great interest to naval officers. This engagement is bound to have an effect on naval construction in at least one feature. It is noted by the naval experts that the heaviest losses in the fight were caused by fire, and at least three of the vessels engaged were in flames during the fight, caused by the explosion of small shells from the secondary batteries. That steel ships should prove to be combustible was regarded as an extraordinary fact, calling for explanation and correction, and the attention of the board of naval bureau chiefs has been directed to that end. The result will be a heavy reduction in the amount of woodwork that will be allowed in the ships of this country.

During the great naval meet at Hampton roads preliminary to the review at New York the visiting foreign naval officers expressed astonishment and delight at the luxurious apartments and finish of the interiors of our ships, which made the foreign vessels seem barren by contrast. The British vice admiral, Hopkins, complained that his officers had been discontented by the comparison of their own plain quarters with the mahogany finish, carved and decorated ward-rooms of our ships. The British naval vessels, by the way, are exceptionally devoid of this class of work and plain steel walls, unadorned even by pictures, are the rule rather than the exception. The objections to woodwork had already been under consideration by the naval designers, when they received the hint conveyed by the Yalu fight of the startling danger from fire to which these splendidly-fitted ships were exposed, and as a result it is safe to predict that in designs for future American warships the British officers will find nothing to envy on the score of luxury. Some evening, it is true, is necessary to prevent the "sweating" of the steel walls. The British rely for this upon heavy coats of paint.

A GIFTED ACTOR.

Who Was Enabled to Draw the Pensions of the Soldiers.

A regular personification of deceased pensioners has been discovered at the station of Dapoolie. This is a delightful, healthy place in the district of Ratanagiri, about five miles from the sea, at an elevation of six hundred feet. It was the residence of veteran sepoys who had been pensioned after doing good service in 1857-8. An anonymous petition brought to light the distressing fact that the pensions had been drawn long after the decease of the real incumbents, and that there was, besides, an original scheme by which pensions still due to survivors had been intercepted and were in the main enjoyed by money lenders in the bazar and by the native clerks of the department, says the Saturday Review.

A long investigation followed, in which the military authorities were all but baffled. But by the skill of an Englishman in the ordnance department and of an intelligent Parsee books were seized, rolls were inspected, and it was found that one Tannak, who had originally been intended for the army, had been in the habit of dressing himself up as a pensioner and drawing the allowances. This enterprising individual, from his photograph and from the letter press, must have had a lively sense of humor. He was sagacious enough not to personate more than two pensioners on the same day, one in the morning and one in the evening, except on special occasions, when he appeared five times.

BURMESE DACOITS.

A Lawyer Mistaken for One and Fired Upon at Rangoon.

The excitement among the English in Birmah over the robbers and murderers they call dacoits may be imagined from the following, says the Rangoon Times: A Mr. Birch, an advocate, was going in the evening in a sampan with a Eurasian clerk. Suddenly another boat with natives in it drew near and halted. Neither Mr. Birch nor his clerk nor the boatman, who was from Chittagong, could understand much Burmese, and, fearing dacoity, he made signs to his boatman to pull as fast as he could. The other boat immediately opened fire and Mr. Birch was hit in the thigh. Mr. Birch, being armed with a Derringer, returned the shot and a pretty sharp duel began. A police boat eventually arrived and the thing was stopped. It turned out that the natives were not dacoits, but an anti-dacoit patrol, who opened fire on Mr. Birch's party because their challenge was not duly answered. The Rangoon Times questions whether, in the present unsettled state of feeling, the attack on a European was purely a mistake.

FIRST FIRE ON THE HEARTH.

Sacredness in the Blaze That is the Seal and Sign of Home.

What a joy we all find it! How we like to collect the sticks for that fire, if we are where sticks are to be collected; how we like to oversee its building; how all of us have advice to offer and instruction to give; how we must all lay on our special contribution; how favored is the one who may touch off the flame at last! If we are by the sea we have gathered driftwood for it in this many a day and have tried it in the hot noon suns for this very evening's blaze, when it shall fill the room with flames of emerald and ruby, sapphire and Spanish topaz, and we shall hear in its singing over dropping coal and ash, in its roaring up the chimney, the sound of storm and rushing wave in the midst of safety, and point our pleasure with the tragedy of the last sigh and smothered cry of drowning sailors. And we sit and tell tales of horror and shipwreck and ghostly visitant till the flame falls and leaves us chill as the ghosts that have tailed their garments by. And if it is in the countryside we sojourn, then what equal wonders we see in the dear blaze, as it sends out its warmth and cheer on the cool morning air, or on the evening gloom when the heavy dew wans us all in-doors! For there are burning all the spices and fragrances and sunshine and colors condensed from the hot months.

We look at its lusters much as those old voyagers might have looked at the splendid conflagration when the ships were burning behind them; we well might wonder at ourselves that we can look at it so lightly, for here are our oars and sails and paddles burning, our alpenstocks and buckboards, our long evening strolls, our days in the heart of the wood, our double-handed abundance of flowers. But we know it is only because we know we are going forward to new pleasures that we can feel and face the flames so gladly. And if we have gone back to the city, and it is there that we have put the blaze together on the little hearth in the back parlor, or on the big one in the big hall, then it is like kindling a fire upon an altar, it is the recognition of home; on the shrine of domestic life we offer to our lares and penates a sacrifice of all the joys of summer—perhaps with a half-conscious prayer that the hearth may not be bare in any other home in all the cold months to come. And as we watch the flames shine and soar and flash up the chimney and disappear among the eternal stars, we know it is all a mirror of the transformations of life and death, and so find a new sacredness in the blaze that is the seal and sign of home.—Harper's Bazar.

WILDEST TRIBE OF INDIANS.

The Papagoes of Arizona, Are Great Wanderers, But Not Bloodthirsty.

THE PAPAOGES OF ARIZONA.

The chief of the bureau of ethnology in Washington has sent two scouts into Arizona to look over the homes of the Papago Indians and to investigate their race characteristics, says the New York World. They are the most vagrant of American Indians, with many tribal peculiarities. They live in southern Arizona. Often they make foraging expeditions into Mexico, and in the sense of settled habitation they cannot be said to live anywhere. They are the most nomadic of all the Indian tribes at present. The Papagoes were once a tribe of from four to seven thousand. The exact number is not known. They are scattered over so wide a range of territory that it is doubtful if even one of their own number could form a clear idea of how many there now are in the tribe.

The Papagoes are wild in the sense that they are not civilized, but not in the sense that they are bloodthirsty. They are a very peaceful people, and many of them assist their Indian neighbors in harvesting their grain. They take their pay in supplies, which they lay up for the winter season. But in the summer they live chiefly on the fruit of the cactus plant and wild berries. It is a wonder how they live all life on a few horses and cattle. But the entire number of cattle owned by those who are not on reservation is only two thousand and the number of domestic fowls is one thousand.

The Papago Indians receive no rations from the government. They are actually self-supporting, asking nothing of the government and receiving very little. There are from three hundred to five hundred Indians gathered on two reservations, one near Tucson and one near Gila Bend, on the Southern Pacific railroad. These communities are not models of their kind. In fact, they are described as having each about thirty miserable, squalid adobe houses, with not a drop of water within many miles, except what is caught in pools during the uncertain Arizona rainy season, and in a short time this water becomes thick and vile, because the pools are the common resort of the Indians, the cattle and the swine. What the Papagoes need most is irrigation to make their barren land fertile, for that land now will not furnish subsistence for a coyote or a gopher.

Bacteria as Bullets.

"One of the latest and most singular experiments with bacteria," said Prof. L. Verz, of Berlin, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "is that made by a friend of mine at home, who has proved that those microscopic enemies of life and health can be discharged from a gun without suffering any apparent injury. He has infected rifle bullets with bacteria and then fired the bullets into tin boxes filled with a gelatine preparation suitable for the nourishment of micro-organisms. Upon examining the holes made by the bullets in the preparation he found that the precise forms of bacteria with which the bullets had been charged rapidly developed there, although it was known that no organisms existed in the gelatine previous to the experiment. He has also discovered that a bullet will pick up bacteria from the air during its flight, or from clothing through which it passes, and deposit them, still living and active, in a gelatine target."

It is said by those in a position to know that his profits on the City Hall job were very small and all agree that he did square and honest work.
At the Seventh ward caucus Wednesday evening Leslie H. Stafford was nominated for alderman without opposition. Mr. Stafford has served in the council before, having been succeeded in the spring of 1893 by George Arthur Brown, whom he is now quite likely to succeed in turn. No opposition candidate is mentioned and it is said there will be none.

HISTORIC SPOTS.
Interesting Points for Americans to Visit and Study.
Much Valuable Information to be Obtained by Viewing the Battlefields Where Freedom Was Fought for and Won.
During the past summer a company of persons spent a brief vacation season in visiting some of the places made historic by important events of the revolutionary war. They spent several days in Boston and at other convenient points, and when the trip was ended the members of the party were amazed that so much was to be learned by an actual visit to these historic spots.
Better than that, says the Youth's Companion, the desire for thorough information about the notable events of the revolution, as well as of the causes which led to that revolt for liberty, was greatly stimulated. Many of the party of pilgrims intend next year to go to other places, like Valley Forge, Brandywine and Yorktown, and by study on the spot to become familiar with the reverses and triumphs of those important days.
The experiment was in every way so successful that it is quite likely that others will imitate the example of this excursion party. Certainly it is one which might be followed with profit by students in the colleges, and by young men and women whose knowledge of the stirring scenes of the days which gave independence to the country is vague and often inaccurate.
In Germany it is the custom of the youth to spend a part of their vacations in making excursions to places of historic interest, where the events which made the nation famous are described with accuracy by persons who have made a study of them.
In two or three years of such vacation study one might gain a thorough knowledge of the battles, the causes of the reverses, and the strategy which led to the triumphs of the war of the revolution. Recently public spirit has caused many places which for many years were unmarked to be designated by appropriate monuments. By observing on the spot the topography of Bunker Hill, Dorchester Heights and other places near Boston, one may learn in two or three days more of the history of the first campaigns of that war than can be obtained by long study from the books.
The brilliant retreat of Washington after the battle of Long Island, and that battle itself, as well as those in and around New York, can be brought vividly to the mind by actual presence on the ground, and when that story is thus told it is found as thrilling and romantic as any tale of history.
So, too, that swift and unexpected march of Washington across the Jerseys to the Chesapeake, thence to Yorktown, could be easily covered in an excursion of three or four days, and the trip is one which some of those whose interest was stimulated this summer will take next year.
But not alone to revolutionary times are the possibilities of informing excursions of this kind limited. In every part of the country there are historic associations, some of them most exciting, all of them worthy to be learned, which an excursion of a few days or weeks would make familiar to those who live in the vicinity. The opening up of the west, the traditions of the heroes who suffered and yet were brave in those exploits, would give abundant opportunity for excursions of this sort; but there should always be with the party some person of authoritative knowledge who would be able to explain and to tell the story, and thus impart it upon the mind.
The impulse which has led to the designation of important places by monuments is so great that in a few years probably most of the places that have historic associations connected with the building of the nation, and many of those connected with the civil war, will be marked by permanent memorial stones. And the impulse will be much strengthened if it shall become the habit, in the pleasant season of the year, for scholars and those of maturer years to spend a few days in visiting such places.
UNDER STRICT DISCIPLINE.
German Princes Held to the Closest Accountability for All Their Actions.
Poulney Bigelow, who probably knows more than any other writer about the private life of the German royal family, has been telling a writer for the Pittsburgh Dispatch some interesting things concerning the education of the German princes. In the first place, he assures us that the discipline laid down for the emperor's sons is far stricter than that to which most boys are subjected. The prince of Germany, who in the natural course of events will some day rule a nation and have money enough to do what he pleases, does not have an easy time of it by any means. He is obliged to rise about daybreak, and when many a young American is still in bed he is being instructed in horsemanship. His breakfast hours are eight o'clock, and after he has eaten that meal his tutors take him in hand and keep him busy with the study of the languages, arithmetic and geography until his dinner is ready at noon. A German prince becomes a soldier when he is ten years old, and after that he must take regular military exercise in addition to his work at school. He has no time to be loitering around the town and engaging in dissipation, because he is held to strict account as an officer of his regiment, and his rank does not shield him from the articles of war. A prince must do his work just as thoroughly as a private. Strange as it may seem, a German prince has no money to spend. An allowance is made for his schooling, board and lodging, but he himself cannot draw a check or can he indorse a paper to be discounted. In fact, it may be said that the successor to the throne is in many respects a minor until he begins to rule.

A Mocking-Bird's Little Joke.
 A naturalist tells of a droll exhibition of fun evidenced by a mocking-bird. It had only recently been captured, and was placed near another cage in which were two canaries, both excellent singers. The mocking-bird at first seemed to be struck dumb by his visible neighbors, but as it turned out afterward, he was only biding his time. For several days he remained silent, taking notes until he had mastered their song, when one day, without any preliminary rehearsal, he burst out into a canary song in a loud, ringing tone that struck his yellow-throated neighbors mute with astonishment. After this was a favorite amusement of his to drown the voices of the canaries with his own loud notes whenever they attempted to sing.—Humane Journal.

IN NO DANGER.
This Young Man's Head Would Never Get Bald.
 A barber out on New York avenue was cutting the long, curling, profuse locks of a young man, who has some pretensions to being literary and occasionally poses before his friends as a great genius, says the Washington Post. With a supercilious smile and words that could be heard all over the room the young man inquired: "Say, barber, what makes a man grow bald?" The barber snapped his scissors once or twice and ran the comb through his beard. "Well," he answered, slowly, "if a man has got lots of brains and is a deep thinker he generally gets bald. That, they say, leads to it every time." Several of the customers looked at the young man's luxuriant crop and smiled rather broadly. The young man, however, did not exactly see the joke. So pretty soon, when the barber was running his fingers over the curly locks, he tempted fate again. "Say," he asked, "do you think my hair will come out and I'll get bald?" The man of the scissors paused reflectively, and then, in a tone like he was delivering a judicial decision, announced: "No; I don't think you stand in any danger of getting bald." Then the crowd laughed and the barber looked surprised. —Alexander Pope, when a boy, spent much of his time in the counting room of his father, who was a merchant.

WHY FRANCE HATES ITALY.
The Triple Alliance Stands in the Way of a Much-cherished Hope.
 The true cause of French hatred for Italy is not far to seek. Smarting under the knowledge that the French armies had been defeated by the Germans, and that these defeats would probably be repeated were France to attack Germany, the French looked elsewhere for an opportunity of regaining their lost military prestige. It was evident to every Frenchman that if Italy stood alone she could easily be crushed by the overwhelming numbers of the French army. France could thus gain military glory, new territory and a ready-made fleet. Here then is a glorious opportunity waiting for the armies of France, and nothing but that pestilent Triple Alliance stands in the way. This is the whole secret of the growth and violence of French hatred toward Italy. France wishes to wage a war in which victory would be reasonably certain. France wants the superb Italian fleet, the possession of which would give her an overwhelming naval preponderance in the Mediterranean. France wants to destroy Italian unity, so as to render any future triple alliance impossible; and to strengthen the attachment of French Catholics to the republic by restoring the temporal sovereignty of the pope. And nothing, so the French believe, hinders this desirable consummation except the fact that behind the army of Italy are ranged the armies of Austria and Germany.—W. L. Alden, in the Nineteenth Century.

With a Proviso.
 A certain judge, who is blessed with a tremendous head of hair, which is generally in a state of wild disorder, was questioning a youthful witness to make sure that he comprehended the character and importance of the oath he was about to take. "Boy," he said, with his severest and most magisterial manner, "do you feel sure that you could identify me after six months? Now be careful. Think before you speak." "Well, your honor," replied the boy, after a prolonged survey of the judge's portly figure and rugged features, "I ain't sure, but I think I could if you wasn't to comb your hair!"—Philadelphia Record.

FIREMEN WELL PLEASED.

Their Ball Wednesday Night Attracted a Large Attendance and Was a Success.

EXCELLENT SUPPER AT THE NELSON HOUSE.

Colored Cook in Hard Luck—Gave the Lads Another Chance—Carried Off by Pneumonia—Took Two Coats.

THE FIREMEN'S BALL.

The annual ball of the Ishpeming fire department at the A. O. U. W. hall Wednesday night was a gratifying success. At about a quarter past 8 o'clock eighty members of the department, dressed in parade uniforms, marched from headquarters to the hall to the music of the City band. At 9:30 about one hundred couples formed on the floor for the first dance of the evening. An hour later there were about one hundred and fifty couples in attendance. Nearly all remained and danced until the party came to a close at 4:30 in the morning.

The affair was finely managed by the committees in charge. Most of the dance music played was new and had never been heard here before. The selections played during intermission added materially to the pleasure of the evening, as they were very well rendered and all present enjoyed them heartily. In the "Night Alarm" the trap drummer introduced a number of his traps. "Life on the Mississippi" is a very pretty selection, several melodies, gallops, etc., being interpolated in the piece.

The banquet at the Nelson House was a much more elaborate affair than anyone expected it would be. Landlord Outhwaite went to considerable extra expense in preparing it. The spread was all that could be desired. The tables were set in the form of a "U" and were loaded down with good things. There were oysters in all styles, cold meats of various kinds and a long list of other eatables. The decorations on the tables and about the dining room were handsome and tasty. The electric lights were trimmed with red tissue paper and ornaments matching it in color. Banners appropriately lettered were hung upon the walls; the chandeliers were decorated with evergreens, etc., and trumpets, lanterns and other firemen's appliances were displayed to good advantage about the room. The menu cards were red and each guest was furnished with a bouquet of red carnations. The service at the tables was prompt. The supper was a credit to the Nelson House and the firemen highly appreciated Mr. Outhwaite's efforts to please them and their guests.

Hard Lines.

A darkey who had been cooking at one of the lumber camps down the line struck town Tuesday morning. He was very poorly dressed and his shoes were so badly torn that his feet were exposed. Not knowing anyone here he started out to walk to the camps of the Dead River Mill company north of the city. He traveled for some time but finally discovered that he had lost his way, so he returned to town, arriving here in the evening. One of his feet was slightly frozen so he called at the Ishpeming hospital, where he related a most pitiful story of hardship and hunger, he having had scarcely anything to eat for several days. After attending to the frost-bitten foot the doctors rigged the poor fellow out with good, warm shoes, stockings and rubbers and sent him to the hotel where they paid for his supper, lodging and breakfast. Wednesday he was put on the right road to the lumber camps and left town feeling comfortable and quite happy.

Gave Them Another Chance.

C. D. Blanchard, county agent of the board of corrections, charities and reforms, gave the two young boys who were arrested for stealing coal from Hampton's yard a hearing in Justice Kennedy's court Wednesday. This being their first offense he gave them another chance, but warned them that if they should ever come before him again he will give them a term in the industrial school.

A Victim of Pneumonia.

William H. Wacks, who resided at 123 East Superior street and had been working at the Cleveland Lake shaft up to the time he was taken ill a short time ago, died of pneumonia at the Ishpeming hospital Tuesday night at 9 o'clock. He was taken to the hospital Saturday last. A few minutes before he died he sat up and took nourishment and medicine and was apparently as well as he had been at any time within the past week. The deceased was a native of England and had resided in Ishpeming for some time. He was fifty-three years of age. He has a brother here, residing on Superior street. The funeral will be held this afternoon.

Two Coats Stolen.

Ed Girzi, whose home was entered by someone who stole a new overcoat from the hall rack one night last week, recently discovered that his dress coat—a Prince Albert—was also carried off by the thief. In the pockets of this were a new pair of kid gloves and a pair of mittens. After discovering that his dress coat was gone Mr. Girzi took a complete inventory of the goods in the hall, and found that the two coats and the articles in the pockets of the stolen garments comprised the sum total of his loss.

Joslin, pastor of the Division street Methodist church, tied the nuptial knot. At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony the happy couple were given a reception by a number of their most intimate friends.

Thanksgiving day was generally observed as a holiday in Ishpeming. Services were held in several of the churches and numerous entertainments, all of a pleasing character, were given in the evening. There were a number of social gatherings at private homes. The business places, save drug and confectionery stores, were closed during the day and all work at the mines was suspended.

BOOTS HAVE HAD THEIR DAY.

Trade Affected by the Increased Wear of Shoes by Americans.

The diminished use of boots is a matter of concern to the manufacturers of them and to the producers of heavy leather and heavy calf skins, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Twenty years ago the calf boot industry was a leading one in New England. Whole towns were studded with factories which produced calf boots exclusively. For a decade the sale has been gradually falling off, and to-day it is of hardly any importance. A few manufacturers of shoes include boots as a specialty, but the demand is too light to amount to much. When calf boots were in vogue manufacturers consulted the partialities of the cowboys, to whom price was a secondary consideration. The legs were frequently corded with silk stitching. The star and crescent and other fanciful ornamentations were inlaid on the legs of the boots; there were high heels and the boots were striking specimens of mechanical art. The soles were inlaid with copper, zinc and brass nails. The cowboys no longer pay fifteen or twenty dollars for a pair of boots. They want substance instead of show. But they were not the only wearers of calf boots. They were extensively worn. Many men prefer them to-day, though the number is growing less. The old-fashioned stoga boots were formerly sold in large quantities; they are well-nigh obsolete. There followed a demand for a lighter and more stylish article. A kip boot of lighter texture was produced, about equal in appearance to the best calf boot, but this, too, has fallen somewhat into disuse, and the sales this season are scarcely over one-half the usual amount. Where there were twenty factories producing boots exclusively there is now not one. Even the farmers are using heavy shoes instead of boots, and if it becomes a necessity to wear long legged-boots they buy rubbers. Twenty years ago the entire product of Salem and Peabody was heavy boot and brogan leather. To-day there are less than half a dozen tanneries making it. Brogans and plowshoes are indispensable in many sections of the country, but there are comparatively few exclusive manufacturers of these now. The Croedmoor, Don Pedro, English and Creole congress are supplanting them. The decline in the consumption of calf boots affects the tanners of calf skins. It is a question what is to be done with heavy skins. The tanners must necessarily buy more or less of them. They cannot select light and medium weights exclusively, and if they tan them they feel no certainty of being able to dispose of them in the finished state. There is, nevertheless, a use in this world for whatever is good for anything, and there will be some way of disposing of heavy calf skins, though for the moment it appears difficult to point out the direction into which they will be moved.

DIDN'T LIKE IDAHO.

Several Negaunee Miners Who Went Out There Last Summer Return to Negaunee.

CLIMATE DIDN'T SUIT THEM AND WORK NOT EASILY SECURED.

Case of Badly Misplaced Confidence Poor Generously Remembered on Thanksgiving.

MINERS ARE RETURNING.

Samuel Ureu, William Hooper, Richard Curnow, John Hutchings, William Kule, William Thomas and three or four other Negaunee men who left here for Idaho a few months ago got back Wednesday morning.

The men were not pleased with the country, as the climate there is not as healthy as here. There is considerable sickness in Idaho at certain seasons of the year and it takes some time for new comers to become acclimated.

He Never Came Back.

Billy Bell, who had a job as cook at Edwin Freeman's lumber camp near Palmer up to a couple of weeks ago, gave up his job and came to Negaunee. While here he secured quarters at Tom Paul's place. Billy got a firm hold on Tom's confidence, and the latter trusted the ex-cook implicitly.

Liberal Donations.

The donations of provisions for the poor sent to the High school Wednesday afternoon were quite large. There were six sleigh loads of turkeys, chickens and various other good things delivered to the deserving poor.

Will Stop Shipping.

Although the snow storms of the past week have not interfered much with the shipment of ore from the mines here it is likely that the season's shipments will come to an end tomorrow. Considerable ore has been sent forward during the past ten days, considering the heavy storms that prevailed.

Going Abroad.

Andrew Halsted, with his wife and two children, who have resided in Negaunee for the past nine years, left Wednesday evening for their native place in Sweden, where they will spend the winter. They intend to return to Negaunee in the spring.

Did Up the Coats.

The football game between the "Colts" and the High school team at Barabee's field yesterday attracted quite a good attendance and was a spirited contest, despite the depth of the snow, which made the playing difficult, also taking much from the pleasure of the game for players and spectators alike.

Morgan Won't Wrestle.

John Morgan of Calumet, whom Hart Cady of this city challenged to wrestle for $50 or $100 a side a short time ago, has written Mr. Cady declining to accept the challenge, as he can't leave his work. He says that if he were to quit work to wrestle or prepare for the match he would lose his job.

LOCAL LAONICONS.

Father Cleary of Menominee was in Negaunee yesterday.

Henry Atkinson was down from Michigan Wednesday.

Several neighboring priests dined with Rev. Fr. Langner of St. Paul's church yesterday.

George Maas came home from Mansfield Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with his people here.

The members of the Literary club held a meeting at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Pelow Wednesday afternoon.

Cashier T. C. Yates of the Negaunee National Bank ate his Thanksgiving dinner with his parents in Chicago yesterday.

Mrs. Catherine Brand, who has been visiting her daughter at Daulton for the past two months, is expected home tomorrow morning.

Patrick Level, one of the switchmen here, while on duty at the water yard, fell from an ore car one day recently and received a scalp wound. His neck was also slightly sprained.

Michael O'Leary desires to return thanks to the members of the fire department for their efficient service at the fire which threatened the destruction of his tenement house a short time ago.

J. H. McDonald, superintendent of the Gladstone public schools, arrived in Negaunee Wednesday. He will remain here until tomorrow or Sunday.

H. D. Hall with his wife and two children, of Duluth, and L. H. Hall and wife, of West Superior, were in the city Wednesday. They left on the afternoon train for Gladstone on a visit to their brother, Fred Hall, and family.

CROWN PRINCES PRESENT.

Those of England, Russia and Austria Dancing at the Same Ball.

It is not often that the heirs to three of the world's most powerful empires are dancing at the same ball, so a quadrille d'honneur at Buckingham palace the other night was a memorable occasion, says London Figaro.

JAP WOMAN TOOK COREA.

Empress Jingu Conquered the Country and Won Everlasting Renown.

It is to a woman that Japan owes her claim to Corea and to the naval supremacy of the eastern world. The first naval expedition which made Japan's "arms to shine beyond the seas," as the chroniclers of the day so proudly wrote, was planned and conducted by a woman, Empress Jingu, and it was directed against Corea.

THE WASP'S MISSION.

It is an Insect That Has Its Usefulness in Life.

Most people, especially those who have been brought into contact with the wrong end of one, will be disposed to doubt the utility of the wasp, that handsome insect that creates so much terror when it invades our rooms or buzzes about our heads in country lanes.

WENT IT BLINDFOLDED.

Camilla Urso, the violinist, always closes her eyes when playing. This she explains: "People in the audience used to distract my attention. A lady might come in late wearing a high bonnet with nodding feathers. That alone attracted an individuality about her; it fascinated me. A young couple whispering behind their backs, others impatient and moving in their seats, a fluttering programme—they all distract me. At first it was difficult to perform without seeing the conductor and orchestra, but perseverance was needed, as in everything else worth doing well."

SIoux SUPERSTITIONS.

Barbarity of Some of Their Ancient Religious Rites.

Rites and Beliefs Which Bear Witness to the Wreted Ceremonies of By-Gone Days—The Gods Whom the Redmen Invoked.

To the Sioux of the past, religion was truly a mystery. From the simple growth of the blade of grass to the complex phenomena of the thunder-storm, all life, power and strength were interpreted as the physical acts of unknown gods.

The contrary god, who sat naked, and fanned himself in the coldness of a Dakota blizzard, and huddled shivering over a fire in the heat of summer, who cried for joy and laughed in his sorrow. Rocks and bowlders were the hardest and strongest things; hence they belonged to the oldest gods—smaller rocks were fetichs. On the barren buttes of the Dakotas may be seen many a crumbling pile of stones erected in by-gone days to propitiate an unknown god.

And still another relic of the savage belief of the old Sioux is found on the bodies of the warriors themselves. Take almost any man who is thirty years old or more, and he can show you long scars on his back or breast, and dozens of smaller scars on his arms, all inflicted by himself in fulfilling his vows to the sun. The sun-dance was one of the great religious and political events of the Sioux life.

Multiplication of the Typewriter.

"The coming man will not write nearly so much as the man of this age," said Prof. Charles Whiteford, of Philadelphia, at the Normandie, "and yet it must not be inferred that the art of penmanship is going to drop into early decadence. The cheaper typewriters become the less a chirography there will be. Professional men of any standing rarely do any writing now, save, perhaps, to indite their own signatures. In newspaper offices three-fourths of the reportorial staff compose their 'stories' on machines, and not a few of the more dignified editors have learned to play the keys. Hand-writing will linger a great deal longer in the country and smaller towns than in the cities, for the same reason that the candle and kerosene lamp linger longest in the former localities.

CITY HALL IS ACCEPTED.

WORK FOUND GENERALLY SATISFACTORY.

Janitor Appointed and All Claims Settled Up to Date—Other City News.

FOUND THE WORK GOOD.

The new City Hall passed formally into the possession of the municipality at the special meeting of the common council Wednesday evening. The building committee and the architect reported that Contractor Bruce had completed his task satisfactorily and he was paid the balance due him and his bondsmen were released. A janitor was appointed and as soon as the lights are in and the furniture procured the handsome structure will be ready for occupancy and use. Some discussion arose over the heating plant but the council decided it was all right and that in changing the specifications in certain respects the building committee and the architect had acted for the best interests of the city.

The council was called to order with Mayor Kaufman in the chair and twelve out of a possible fifteen aldermen present. The building committee, consisting of Aldermen Schock, Hoch and Holley, and Architect Lovejoy reported the building complete and perfect except in certain trivial details, to cover the cost of rectifying which the contractor had deposited a sufficient sum. Alderman Pearl presented a resolution accepting the building from Contractor Bruce and releasing his bondsmen, Ferdinand Bending, Alderman Tobin was not satisfied with the heating plant. He thought that by changing from a two-pipe to a one-pipe system local bidders had been unfairly discriminated against. He proceeded to criticize the plant at some length and claimed that the difference in the cost made by the change was nearly $300. The radiators were not those specified, indirect radiation had been substituted for pipe coils in the basement and three rooms in the basement were not heated.

Alderman Pearl said he understood that the building committee had looked into the matters complained of by Alderman Tobin and had found that there was no such difference in the cost as alleged and that any difference was much more than compensated by extra work done by the contractor without charge.

Architect Lovejoy in reply to Alderman Tobin said that the specifications had originally been drawn to accommodate Marquette men who wanted to bid on that sort of a job. The architect and the building committee had the right to make any changes which might be to the advantage of the building. The radiators were better than those specified. The indirect radiation in the basement was better than pipe coils. The general opinion of heating experts was that the one pipe system was the better of the two. One of the Marquette bidders on the job refused to take a sub-contract on any terms and the other, in behalf of whom Alderman Tobin was protesting, had bid on a one-pipe job and his bid was $550 higher than that of the successful bidder. The firm which took the contract offered to put in either a one-pipe or two-pipe system of the same price but strongly advised the one-pipe and offered a better guarantee for that. The specifications had allowed not to exceed ten pounds steam pressure. The plant put in was guaranteed to heat the building to 70 degrees with a temperature of 20 degrees below outside with one pound pressure, which meant a great saving in fuel. The actual difference in cost he and Alderman Holley had figured as about $100, and this was fully compensated by moving the boilers to the center of the room instead of putting them in a corner. Besides Contractor Bruce had added without cost a number of things not specified, such as finishing the store room on the third floor, the lower stairs, closet at head of stairs, changing partitions in water board office, raised work in council chamber ceiling, gilded ball on flag staff, extra partition in basement—the whole amounting to an expense of $534. For these extras the city paid nothing and they certainly more than covered any difference in the heating plant.

Alderman Tobin rejoined that the heating plant had not been tested and claimed that the boilers were of insufficient capacity to heat the building. Comparing the work done with the work which ought have been done he claimed a difference of $800. After some further discussion the resolution to accept the building was passed—11 to 1.

On motion of Alderman Sherman it was resolved that an order be drawn in favor of Emil Bruce for $4,863.36, the balance due him of the contract price of $49,983, upon his satisfying the controller that all claims for labor and materials against the building were paid.

The mayor appointed William Smith janitor of the City Hall and his pay was fixed at $50 per month for the present. A. W. Bernier was appointed sealer of weights and measures. No further business appearing the council adjourned.

The Machinists' Ball.
The most largely attended ball of the present season was that given at Armory Hall Wednesday night by Iron Bay lodge of the International Association of Machinists. The floor was crowded from start to finish, fully two hundred couples being present about 11 o'clock, when the crush was greatest. Over the heads of the orchestra flamed the letters of fire "I. A. M." and the blue banner of the lodge was displayed on the opposite wall. Everyone seemed out for a good time and ardently succeeded in having it. The Excelsior society of the Ladies of the Locomotive Firemen served a very good supper in the dining room below and were kept busy for several hours. What makes their success the more gratifying to the members of the order is the fact that this large attendance was secured without any canvassing for the sale of tickets: The Machinists' balls—of which this was the fourth—have been so well conducted and enjoyable that all they had to do was to fix the date, open the doors and let the people come. The Machinists are a young and necessarily small society here but they have made a reputation as entertainers which older and larger organizations may well envy. The Marquette Ideal orchestra furnished delightful music and was praised on all sides.

Thanksgiving Services.
Union Thanksgiving services were held at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning, Rev. Mr. Eastman of the Methodist church preaching the sermon. Besides the usual hymns the choir sang Baumbach's "Te Deum" and Seydenham's "Give Thanks Unto the Lord." Mr. Eastman spoke of the things for which the American people had cause to be thankful during the year closing. There had been immunity from disastrous convulsions of nature and from plague or pestilence. Positive blessings were the abundant harvests and the Christian civilization in which we lived. He devoted some time to the dangers which threatened the latter. He thought the secularization of the Sabbath was the chief of these dangers and gave some time to a criticism of the Sunday newspaper as tending to this result.

Ferguson House Improvements.
The Ferguson House at Sidnaw has undergone a complete change within the last two months. Its proprietors, Messrs. Ferguson & Kunze, have considerably enlarged their house by putting on an addition which now gives them seventeen quite large and well lighted bedrooms. The office and dining room in the old part have been made into one large dining room and in the new part will be found one of the cosiest little offices at any hotel in the lumber region. Back of the office is a well lighted room where traveling men can show their samples to good advantage. Messrs. Ferguson & Kunze are deserving of considerable credit for the enterprise they have shown in making the improvements mentioned.

Call for Your Checks.
