DEMOCRATS IN CAUCUS.

After Three Hours' Earnest Debate They Decide Upon No Definite Plan.

CLOTURE RULE MAY BE FORCED ON THE SENATE.

Democratic Senators Dislike Passing the Cloture Rule as They Will Soon Be a Minority.

EACH MAN Aired HIS HOBBY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Democrats of the senate spent about three hours in caucus today and then adjourned without taking a vote on the petition to meet again Thursday. The entire time was devoted to a discussion of the situation and to the wisest course of action for the Democratic party during the present session. There were numerous speeches, but they were generally devoid of features of special interest. To quote the language of one who was present almost every senator present talked during the caucus and each advocated his own hobby. As a matter of fact, when the caucus adjourned there were not to exceed twenty members present, not enough to decide upon a course in a way that would be binding if those present had been so disposed. Hence an adjournment was taken without action and the steering committee went into session.

The entire discussion was based upon a series of resolutions presented by Senator Daniel of Virginia in the shape of suggestions, declaring for cloture, committing the party to an abandonment of all efforts to amend the tariff law and to effect reform in currency in accordance with the suggestions in the president's message. The resolutions opened a wide range of debate in which many senators participated. The principal speeches were made by Senators Voorhees, Harris, Vest, Morgan, Pugh and Ransom. Senator Voorhees opened the talk with suggestions to the effect that the wisest course lay in an abandonment of any effort to pass the free raw material bills (so-called) because of the evident determination of the Republicans to prevent action. Senator Vest in his speech showed an inclination toward cloture, contending that if the Democrats did not adopt it the Republicans would when they should come into power. Senator Morgan made probably the longest speech of the session in presenting a plea for a liberal allowance of time for the consideration of the Nicaragua canal bill. While no action on any question was taken by the caucus the prevailing sentiment after the close of the caucus seemed to be that the ultimate decision of the caucus would be adverse to the entire series of propositions presented by Senator Daniel. The sentiment favorable to cloture seemed to be quite evenly divided and there are reasons for believing that it might be agreed upon but for the fact that the Democratic party will soon be in a minority in the senate, a circumstance which led some to advise against the change who had heretofore been considered favorable to it.

There is also a strong element present favorable to the passage of a sugar bill as reported by the finance committee striking out all differentials on sugar and leaving a straight revenue duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem but it was pointed out that if an attempt should be made in this direction it would open up the entire tariff discussion.

DID LITTLE BUSINESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The senate met at noon. Blanchard (La.) offered a resolution directing the committee on appropriations to include in the urgency deficiency bill a sufficient amount to pay the sugar bounty for the year 1894. The senate then adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The house was called to order at noon and plunged at once into routine business. Richardson then presented a conference report on the printing bill. After some debate the report went over and the house adjourned.

CARLISLE'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Secretary of the Treasury Reviews Recent Currency Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary Carlisle's annual report of the operations of the treasury was submitted to congress today. In view of the late bond issues he urges legislation permitting the treasury to issue bonds at a low rate of interest. He reviews our currency legislation at length and points out the necessity of redeeming silver certificates in gold if the parity of silver is to be maintained, which must be done to avoid worse evils. He urges that we cannot maintain our monetary system with success except on a basis practically in accord with other nations; therefore we must maintain the gold standard though with as large a use of silver as consistent. He, therefore, in recommending the "Baltimore plan" advises the issue of no notes of less denomination than ten dollars in order to force coin into circulation. His desire is to divorce the government from the issue and redemption of circulating notes, leaving that to the banks.

PLANS FOR NEW BOATS.

Three More Fine Torpedo Boats Are to Be Built.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The navy department has issued a circular in anticipation of the publication of advertisements for proposals for building three torpedo boats about fifteen tons larger than the Ericsson. The circular was issued in order to give bidders ample time for preparation of plans for they may propose to build under their own or under the department's designs. The boats are to be delivered equipped completely with small boats, furniture, electric light plant and everything save ordnance and sea stores. They are to be 150 feet long, 16 feet beam, 5 feet draft, 2,000 horse-power, 138 tons with an average speed of 24 1/2 knots. No premium will be allowed for excess of speed but there will be a penalty of $10,000 per knot for deficiency and the boats may be rejected or accepted at the reduced price if they fall below 23 knots.

ARMY CIRCLES STIRRED UP.

Judge Hughes Makes Radical Decision Regarding Court Martials.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The decision of Judge Hughes at Norfolk upon the application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Naval Pay Clerk Sayre caused much commotion in army and navy circles here and should the judge's decision be upheld upon an appeal by the supreme court it will be necessary to devise an entirely new code of punishments that may be inflicted by court martials. In effect the decision is that no court martial can in any case, whether the defendant be a commissioned officer or an enlisted man, subject him to infamous punishment, which includes imprisonment, so long as the defendant may be near a civil tribunal. The decision is based upon the fourth amendment to the Constitution. The language of this amendment is slightly ambiguous and Judge Hughes apparently has adopted a construction at variance with all preceding decisions and one which, if sustained, will result in the abandonment of all military and naval prisons.

GOOD TIME TO INSURE.

Iowa Insurance Men Indulge in War in Rates.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—There was a meeting of the local board of the commission of the insurance union, which has the state of Iowa under supervision, this afternoon and after a discussion of the action of non-union companies in paying an excess of commission over union rates it was decided to defer a war in rates no longer. As a result of the union compact managers in Des Moines, Davenport, Sioux City and Council Bluffs will receive letters tomorrow morning ordering all farm rates off throughout the state and reducing the rate on dwellings in fire department towns from fifty cents for one year or $1 for three years with an added amount for exposures to the uniform rate of twenty cents for one year or three years for fifty cents and with no additions for exposures.

APPROPRIATION CUT OFF.

Georgia's Legislature Has No Use for the Militia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 4.—The refusal of the Georgia legislature to continue the military appropriations for the next two years is variously interpreted but the theory most generally accepted is that the legislature is tired of the work to which the troops have been put during the four years of Governor Northen's administration and the evidence that they will be similarly used by Governor Atkinson. Governor Northen's great zeal for the suppression of lynch law led him on several occasions to call out military companies to protect ransackers whose lives were being sought. The feeling among the legislators is that every county in the state is able to take care of its own affairs and the sheriffs do not want the unwelcome aid of military companies from other sources.

NOT ALL ONE-SIDED.

Massachusetts Cities Held Their Municipal Elections Yesterday.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 4.—The Republicans today elected Chas. T. Long for mayor over Samuel D. Sherwood (Dem.) by 808 majority. The Democrats gain one alderman. All the American Protective Association candidates were defeated. Municipal elections were held throughout Massachusetts today. The Democrats were successful in Lawrence, Pittsfield, Chiopeo, Northampton and Quincy. The Republicans elected their candidates in Fall River, Somerville, Gloucester, Malborough, Waltham, Holyoke, Fitchburg and Auburn. Independents carried the day in New Bedford, Brockton, Haverhill and Malden.

SUFFERING FROM DROUTH.

Water Has to Be Hauled Many Miles in Indiana.

LAFORTE, Ind., Dec. 4.—Northern Indiana is suffering from drouth as well as forest fires. Water has to be hauled miles for domestic purposes and the stock is suffering greatly from thirst. Thousands of acres of marsh land is burned over and often the dry peaty soil is burned to the depth of ten feet, forming great chasms in the otherwise level plain. No human lives have been lost but terror reigns in every household in the stricken district.

A DEED OF VENGEANCE.

A Notorious Oklahoma Outlaw Is Killed in His Bed.

PERRY, O. T., Dec. 4.—Jack Phineas, alias Three-Fingered-Jake, one of the most noted outlaws in Oklahoma, was killed while in bed with his wife near Kildare last night by some unknown person. He was a member of the famous Dalton gang and during his eventful career has probably committed every crime on the calendar. Somebody crept into the room where they were sleeping and cut the throat of the outlaw from ear to ear.

TWO HEAVY NEW YORK FIRES.

Cause Loss of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A six story brick building at 547 Broadway, occupied by a number of firms, was destroyed by fire tonight. The loss was $225,000. Another fire in the same vicinity caused a loss to M. Hermann, dealer in cloaks, of $25,000. The employees in both buildings were rescued with difficulty.

COMPLETED HIS MESSAGE.

Captain Kolb Will Deliver His Governor's Message to the Legislature Today.

ALSO ADDRESSES A MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE.

Advises Tax Collectors Who Are Mostly Kolbites to Not Make Returns to the State.

HE MAY YET CAUSE TROUBLE.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 4.—Ruben F. Kolb, who claims to be governor of Alabama, today completed his message to the legislature, which he signs as governor, and it will be transmitted to that body tomorrow. A message was also addressed to the people of Alabama and is a long and in many respects revolutionary document, as it recommends his followers to not pay their taxes for awhile. He says: "I advise those tax collectors who value the cause I represent and which will assuredly prevail in the end to delay all payments of state taxes into the state treasury until an impartial hearing can be had of our complaint under a fair and honest contest law."

When it is remembered that the tax collectors in thirty-eight out of the sixty-six counties in the state are Kolbites, it will be seen that if he take his advice the Kolb government will find strong support and Alabama will be threatened with anarchy. He urges the legislature to enact contest laws and advises his friends to organize clubs to assist in the general object of his appeal. The message concludes: "If Colonel Oates and his faction fear not the truth; if they court equity and are ready to abide by justice they will hesitate at nothing to remove the color of dishonor from his title to the office he has seized by force. Again I say my contention is alone for the execution of the guarantees offered by the constitution of my state for liberty for all. I demand of the legislature that action which every member on oath has bound himself solemnly to take in observance of the constitution."

WILL NOT BE PRESENTED.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4.—The address of Captain Kolb to the legislature and people signed by himself as governor was received here tonight but created very little talk. Representative Knight of Hale who introduced in the legislature a bill against usurpation in Alabama which will pass the house in the morning and then promptly go to the senate said tonight:

"As to Usurper Kolb's revolutionary message ever being presented to the legislature it is out of the question, and is absolutely too ridiculous to be seriously commented upon. As a matter of course it will never be permitted to be presented to the legislature and any one possessing the effrontery to attempt to present such a document will be arrested for contempt of that body. As to his advice to his supporters and those tax collectors of the state who are friendly with his cause not to pay in their taxes until his cause is heard is the vaporing of a maniac for the laws of the state of Alabama relative to collection and payment of state taxes into the state treasury are too expressive and mandatory. Furthermore, any officer violating the statute in this respect would be equally as summarily dealt with as the state courts will doubtless deal with Kolb. Governor Oates is fully competent and everybody who knows him knows he will faithfully and rigidly execute the laws."

THEIR PROGRAM GIVEN OUT.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 4.—J. G. Manning, a member of the legislature and one of the most prominent Populists in the state and one of Kolb's advisers, today gave out a portion of Kolb's program. Manning said:

"Kolb will issue certificates of election as governor de jure to Goodwin, Howard, the two Aldrichs and Robinson as congressmen from this state. Howard will also have one from Oates. His seat is not disputed. The program is to have the Republican house first decline to seat either set of representatives on the ground that both sides are provided with credentials signed by the governor of Alabama. The only way either can be seated then will be by means of a resolution. It is proposed that Howard shall offer a resolution to seat the anti-Democratic representatives, two of whom are Republicans and three Populists, and the Republican house is expected to seat them, thus ending the contest.

"This would regularly qualify the congressman and throw the burden of proof upon the Democratic party. This plan, it is figured, would afford the temporary endorsement of Kolb as governor and would be a source of trouble to the Oates administration. A petition would then be circulated in every part of the state calling upon congress to investigate the Alabama elections and begging for a special act to restore in Alabama a Republican form of government. Numerous affidavits affirming that Kolb was elected but deprived of his seat by force, will also be presented to congress. Reese will also be given a certificate of election by Kolb as United States senator and will contest with Morgan."

Asks for Receiver.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Mary J. Lamb, who obtained a judgment against the Great Western Manufacturing company Saturday, made application today for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the affairs of the company. No time is set for the hearing which is returnable at the January term of court.

MARQUETTE, MICH., DECEMBER 5.

Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

SPEAKER CRISP was born in England, hence may not aspire to the presidency. There are a good many Democrats just now who sincerely wish that Grover Cleveland had been born in England also.

THERE were flowers on the desks of numerous of the successful members of the house when congress convened Monday, and there were flowers on Breckenridge's desk as well. Everything goes at Washington.

HAVAMEYER has revised his statistics as to the number of men thrown out of employment by the closing down of sugar refineries controlled by his trust, and now places it at 25,000. After he has gone over his estimate again he may be able to cut it in two once more, when he will be getting pretty close to the truth—that is, pretty close for Havameyer.

THE attempt of the unctuous "Ski" Olds to beguile Barrows into withdrawing from pursuit of a seat in the United States senate by tempting him with a vision of what the future has in store for him as a member of the house if he would be content to remain in that branch of congress has failed utterly. Barrows knows what he wants and proposes to get it if he can. He also has a shrewd suspicion of what "Ski" wants, and is not to be deceived by the latter's adroit flattery.

This, from the Boston Transcript, carries a stinging point:

Oddly enough, it is becoming less and less easy to differentiate the American Protective Association from the British American faction which has aimed at prominence in our city and state elections of late, and many affirm that the two are one and the same. If so, it is a curious thing that the descendants of the loyalists who left Boston at the time of the British evacuation in 1775 should have felt it their duty to return to rescue the city from the abuses to which the departure of their ancestors naturally and inexorably led. The explanation of the paradox probably is that it is not that they hate Americans less but that they hate the Irish more.

AN IMPORTANT capture of smugglers was effected at Detroit Saturday, when government detectives ran down a gang of seven that had been for a long time carrying on a smuggling business there, getting valuable Oriental goods across the river from Canada and shipping them to New York importing houses. Quite a quantity of smuggled goods was seized and evidence implicating at least one New York importing house in the crooked work was obtained. Several of the arrested persons are Syrians. The discovery and arrest of the gang was an exceedingly clever piece of detective work, and the officers who achieved it are receiving many compliments on the shrewdness and sagacity they displayed in working up the case.

EDITOR MEDILL of the Chicago Tribune is not developing much strength as a candidate for Cullom's seat in the United States senate. His paper is not a sufficiently consistent protection sheet to recommend him to the party leaders in his state. It is always in line when the battle is on, but has an annoying habit of scampering off to free trade pastures and browsing about in them at its own sweet will between campaigns, thus occasioning the party bosses infinite annoyance and anxiety. Cullom is reliable, though stupid, and the party managers prefer him to the brilliant but eccentric newspaper man. This is an age when intellect doesn't count for much in politics, so poor Joe's chance is a slim one.

SPECKLES, the California sugar king, drew his check for a million and a half dollars one day last week, and it was duly honored. To an enquiring friend he stated that he could draw several more checks against his account in the bank drawn on without exhausting his balance there. By the way, Speckles thinks Havameyer put the case just right in the attack he made on the new sugar schedule some days since. He agrees with Havameyer that the sugar men must have more protection or they will have to go out of business. It would no doubt be hard on them to have their profits so cut down that they would not be able to draw checks for a million or so every time they wanted a little spending money.

From what the Detroit News says of their plans and purposes it would appear that the disgruntled Democrats who have been sulking and kicking under the leadership of Campau ever since the latter failed in the endeavor to transform the state central committee under his direction into a machine for the distribution of federal patronage propose to organize a free silver party in this state instead of reorganizing the party which they assisted in defeating in the recent election. It occurs to THE MINING JOURNAL that they have no need to do anything of the kind. The Populist party is a free silver party already, and the Democratic party was not very far from it in Michigan in the state campaign that resulted for it so disastrously this year. What those fellows really want to organize is a party that will stand their bossing. They can do that of course, but the chances are that it will not be either powerful numerically or attractive in its make-up.

HON. F. C. CHAMBERLAIN was in Detroit this week and spoke very hopefully of his show for the speakership in an interview accorded The Tribune of that city. He says Gordon is the only man who really stands in his way. Waite he did not mention at all. Possibly Mr. Chamberlain is not aware that the Menominee Herald is supporting Waite. The Herald's weight in the scale may tip it in favor of the light-weight candidate. Its influence is "tremendous"—according to The Herald's own method of getting at it, which is somewhat similar to the Kansas farmer's plan of ascertaining the weight of his hogs. He was accustomed to swinging the hog to be weighed at one end of a pole and balancing the porker with stones swung at the other. Then he guessed the weight of the stones.

CURRENCY REFORM. If congress would at this session provide the country with a sensible financial system it would do much to redeem itself in estimation of the people.

We now have a monetary system that is a disgrace to a nation professing to be well advanced in civilization and to have a government designed to secure "the greatest good for the greatest number." It is a system under the workings of which both the government and the masses of the people are at very much the mercy of the money owners, who can produce a monetary stringency whenever they desire and thus add immeasurably to the purchasing power of their hoarded dollars.

This enables them to unceasingly add to their enormous wealth, for they can depreciate the value of property when they want to engage in buying by causing a scarcity of money and can then sell at a vast profit when they allow the country to again enjoy a season of prosperity. Fluctuations in values invariably work to the advantage of the possessor of ready money, for he is prepared to get the full benefit of every turn of the market. He buys when values are low and sells when they appreciate, and the oftener we have depression in trade and stagnation in our industries with alternating periods of activity the greater his opportunities.

The tendency of the financial system now in operation, in conjunction with the economic policy of the government, is to produce incessant fluctuations in values, for they work together to gradually concentrate the wealth of the country in comparatively few hands. This done, it is easy for the holders of large amounts of accumulated capital to combine for the purpose of affording themselves frequent opportunities to bleed the public, and as their wealth increases so does their power to use it for its further increase, and to the detriment of the great body of the people.

Any plan that will give us a larger volume of sound money will have effect to promote and render more stable the general prosperity of the country, and will thus operate to give the people relief from the harassing and ruinous disturbance of property values and the losses it entails on them. We should have an expansion of the currency under a system that will ensure an ample supply to meet the growing demands of trade and industry. The present congress might give us this, and if it should it would deserve well of the people and be more gratefully remembered for that than it is likely to be for anything it did during the long session.

There are objections to the "Baltimore plan," so-called, endorsed by the president in his message as to its prominent features. But that it would in some measure afford the country the relief it should have from the domination of large holders of capital is certain. If nothing better can be formulated, let us have that system, for it will at least be a step in the right direction.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THE HISTORY OF GLOVES.

How They Became Articles of Raiment and Played a Part in History.

One of the earliest records of the use of gloves in England is found in the reign of Ethelred II., to whom some German merchants paid a toll of five pairs of gloves. It was not, however, until the eleventh century that they were generally worn by both sexes. A pair of gloves is said to be the bottom of the quarrel between Queen Anne and the duchess of Marlborough, which drove the queen to throw herself in the arms of the Tories. According to Abigail Hill's account, she was sent one day by her mistress to get a pair of gloves, which had been left on a table in an adjoining room. Abigail found that the duchess, who was reading a letter at the table, had inadvertently put on the gloves instead of her own. On being informed of her mistake she flung them on the ground, exclaiming: "Have I really worn anything which has touched the odious hands of that disagreeable woman?" Unfortunately for her grace, the door between the rooms had been left ajar; the queen heard all and never forgave it.

Queen Anne's were not the only gloves to bring about an important political crisis. The Huguenots firmly believed that the death of Jeanne d'Albret was due to poison administered through a pair of gloves. The queen of Navarre had come to Paris to arrange the marriage of her son (afterward Henry IV.) with Marguerite of Valois, daughter of Henri II. and Catherine de Medici. Like many another lady she seized the opportunity for doing a little shopping, and her ill-fate led her to the Italian perfumer Maitre Rene, from whom she bought a pair of scented gloves. Immediately afterward she was struck down by a fatal illness and the Huguenots whispered that it was not for nothing that Maitre Rene's goods were so highly esteemed by Queen Catherine, for whom Queen Jeanne's death proved most opportune.

Even before the days of Maitre Rene Paris gloves were celebrated. Margaret Tudor, countess of Richmond, wrote in 1495 to the queen's chamberlain, lamenting that the French gloves that he had sent her were "too much" for her hand, and slyly adding that the French ladies must be "great altogether, not only in estates but in their persons." A few years later the queen of France was sending a ring and glove to the king of Scotland, not for the benefit of his wife, but to tempt him into quarreling with his brother-in-law, Henri VIII. Those fatal tokens lured James IV. to Flodden Field.

Still more celebrated has been the glove which, after this period, was flung into a lion's den. If that glove, which Sir de Lorges tossed back into his lady's face can not strictly be said to have played a part in history, its legend has been familiar to us from childhood, and has long been a feature in every volume of selections intended, to use an old-fashioned phrase, "for the use of young persons."

King Francis and his laughing court might well have shuddered could they have looked forward for two centuries and a half and seen what gloves would be regarded as the height of fashion in 1794. No perfumed and jeweled trifles, fringed in gold and embroidered in silk, came from the tannery which a good patriot established at Mendon. The gloves which he offered to his patrons were made from human skins—the skins of victims to La Sainte Guillotine. It would have been well could old Simon Glover have returned from the grave to strike a good blow to the motto of the Glovers of Perth: "The perfect honour of our craft, or beauty of a trade, is not in wealth but in moral worth, whereby virtue gains renown," could have been blazoned above the door of the Mendon tannery. —N. ENGLISH MAID OF HONOR.

A Tiresome Office Which, However, Young Peacesses Eagerly Take.

The English queen has no difficulty in supplying vacancies in the ranks of the young women whom she selects to be her companions. They are always the daughters of peers who, if not themselves connected with the royal household, are personal friends of the queen. A letter is sent to the parents of the young women selected requesting the favor of her attendance at court, and the request is never refused. The social cachet is absolute, the salary is one thousand five hundred dollars a year, and, though existence is dull in court circles, it is endurable in the light of its ulterior advantages.

When an Honorable Miss or a Lady Somebody arrives for her first "wait" she receives at once her badge as maid of honor. This is a miniature picture of the queen set in brilliants, which she wears hung from a ribbon. Her duties are not severe—there would be less ennui probably if there were more to do—and consist chiefly in being on hand if wanted. Just before the dinner hour the maid of honor in waiting stands in the corridor outside the queen's private apartments to receive her as she comes out. She carries a bouquet, which, on entering the dining-room, she lays beside the queen's plate. Her place at this meal is next to the gentleman on the queen's right hand, unless royal guests are present, when she is differently placed.

After dinner, unless otherwise commanded, she retires to her own pretty apartments, but must be in readiness to answer a summons at any moment to go to the drawing-rooms to read sing, play the piano or take a hand at cards. The queen, by the way, is fond of cards, and a small stake is always played for. Nor will the queen touch any but freshly-coined money, so such members of the household as play with her have to be provided with coin that has never been in circulation.

The maid of honor usually makes a brilliant marriage, and the queen sends her for a wedding present an India shawl out of the perennial stock. —Chicago Tribune.

CHANGED HIS ELECTRIC PIANO.

A Saloonkeeper Finds That Wagner Is Not Suited for a Barroom.

A certain saloon, wishing to please its patrons without the expense of hiring a long-haired pianist, bought an electric piano, says the Indianapolis Sentinel. These pianos are very funny to watch, for they start up a tune and go straight ahead and play it to the bitter end without anyone near them. To a person who does not understand the motive power, the thing appears unanny; and the boys prepared to have lots of fun. The saloon was full of patrons when somebody slyly turned on the current and the piano started. Out came the solemn, majestic strains of "Tannhauser." A man who was drinking at the bar set down his glass and shivered. Three men playing cards began to get nervous and, finally, with a cuss word or two, gave up the game. Still the piano thundered out the heavy chords of "Tannhauser," and the audience, not being familiar with Wagner, got bluer and bluer.

The owner saw that the piano had made a mistake and hastened to assure his patrons that he had other pieces and would put a new one in. This he did, and the men brightened up a little while waiting to hear the new piece. Many expressions of disgust at hearing a funeral dirge on such an occasion were hurled at the owner. Everyone had about resumed his original attitude when the piano was given another trial. This time it was "Lohengrin," and while the piece was a little brighter, it was not festive. One man declared it had been played at his grandfather's funeral or sister's wedding, he forgot which. This piece was taken out and a third tried, but it was an arrangement of the national hymns with variations, and was just as solemn. The piano was closed for the night and in the morning the proprietor rushed to find some more suitable pieces. Now the piano plays "The Bogie Man," "With Danny by My Side" and the "Washington Post March," and the crowd is delighted. But the piano came near wrecking the saloon the first night. If it had been Meyerbeer instead of Wagner perhaps the name would have carried the music through.

A WELL AS A BAROMETER.

It is on a Cattaraugus County Farm, and Infinitely Foretells Weather.

There is a curious well on the Flint farm, in the town of Great Valley, Cattaraugus county, N. Y. It is a natural barometer. Nobody ever passes that farm, winter or summer, if the weather is settled, without asking something like this:

"Does the well threaten a change?" For everyone knows that if there is bad weather coming the well will let them know it, sure as sure can be, says the New York Sun.

They call the well up there the "whistling well," although it doesn't whistle now. But that isn't any fault of the well. This well was dug about fifty years ago by the father of Col. Flint, who now occupies the farm. He put it down forty-five feet, but found no water, and dug no further. Instead of water, a strong current of air came from the well at times. The opening was covered with a big flat stone, and for amusement a hole was drilled in the stone and a big tin whistle fitted into it. This whistle had two tones—one when the air rushed up from the well, and a different one when the counter current sucked the air back into the mysterious depths. It wasn't long before the discovery was made that within forty-eight hours after the outrushing current from the well started the whistle to shrieking a storm invariably followed. When the tone of the whistle was changed by the reversing of the current, it was discovered that the change meant a change and the coming of fair weather. These weather signals never failed. When the weather was settled the whistle was silent. The whistle got out of order some years ago, and, for some reason, was never repaired, but the coming and going currents of air still prophesy the coming of their respective "spells of weather" with unvarying infallibility.

For a long time "Block your hat while you wait," was the only sign of its kind. Then came an enterprising man in the Bowery in New York who mended your shoes while you waited and gave you a comfortable chair to sit in and a newspaper to read; there are now many places in which shoes are repaired while you wait. It is possible now to have your clothes pressed while you wait; artificial teeth are repaired while you wait. Various kinds of work are now done in that way, and naturally enough, considering the many thousands of bicycles in use, this sign now appears: "Bicycles repaired, tires mended, while you wait."

At last Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and she took one bottle and her so much good that she took two more and now she is perfectly well. She is not now troubled

WARD IN A TIGHT PLACE.

Must Show Cause to Governor Rich Why He Should Not Be Removed.

A BUSY PLACE THAT KNOWS NO HARD TIMES.

Burt's Boiler Shops at Hancock Turning Out a Large Amount of Creditable Work.

[All communications intended for this department should be addressed to Horace J. Stevens, Houghton, Mich. Telephone connection.]

Sheriff W. A. Dunn came out from Houghton Monday morning and served the legal papers on Marshal Francis Ward which require the presence of the latter named gentleman at Lansing on the 10th inst. by virtue of the authority of John P. Rich, governor of the state, to show cause why Mr. Ward should not be summarily removed from office by the governor for misfeasance in office. Mr. Ward will go to Lansing as his removal would be certain if he neglected to heed the summons and it is not altogether sure that he will be able to keep his official head upon his personal shoulders, even though he shall attend.

The Law and Order League has started on the warpath with a singleness and fixedness of purpose that rather surprises the general public which remembers that as a rule such associations are vigorous for a few weeks and then die a premature death. The statement heard in town on the authority of some village wiseacre that the governor had no power to remove the marshal is unwarranted. The governor is expressly empowered to remove county, township or village officers who become liable to such removal by reason of gross misconduct in office. The removal can be made summarily by the governor without examination or investigation into the case if he wishes but the accused is nearly always allowed a chance to defend himself.

The new Salvation Army building has already been on fire twice, and it is not completed. The burning zeal of the Salvationists seems very dangerous when the woodwork is exposed to such fiery heat.

The Celebrated Portrait company of Ishpeming will deliver its Calumet orders during the next three days of this week.

The boiler shop of James Burt, just east of the big foundry of S. E. Cleaves & Son, is one of the busiest places in the county. Mr. Burt has just completed an addition of 35 by 35 feet to his shop and with that addition finds none too much room. The train of rollers which is used in bending the boiler plates takes a sheet of steel three-fourths of an inch in thickness and over ten feet in width and of any length made, bending it easily and uniformly. A new power punch and shears, made by the Miller & Jones company of Wilmington, Del., has just been put in place in the shops and is one of the largest and finest machines in use in the country. It shears with ease inch and a quarter steel plates and punches inch and a half holes in inch plate, and cuts all hand-holes and rivet holes in three quarter inch or thinner steel plates. The use of the new machine enables the shop to save several days in the manufacture of every boiler or smokestack turned out. The machine has punches of various sizes and two special forms of shears which are interchangeable. Mr. Burt and his men are at present working on an order of five boilers of 140-horse power each for the Tamarack mine as well as on a number of smaller jobs. A mammoth smokestack—probably the largest and longest ever built of steel plates—was completed a short time ago for the new mill of the Atlantic mine at the mouth of the Salmon Trout on Lake Superior. An inspection of the works will show that Mr. Burt is thoroughly equipped for the manufacture of boilers or any other work in his line, regardless of size.

GEOGRAPHY TOSPY TURVY.

The Curious Change Uncle Jack Notes In New Hampshire.

"Why, hallo, boys!" said old Jack, genially, as Tommie and Bobbie poked their heads through the window of his cabin. "Haven't seen ye in s' long a time I'd begun to think I'd just dreamed ye, an' 'at they hadn't never been no such boys as you be. What's been keepin' ye away? Ben off travel, eh? Well, travelin' 's good business. It's the best way to learn jography I ever see. Ye go to a place and ye see it, an' then o' course ye know it's there, and if anyone asks ye where it is ye can tell 'em, which ye mightn't if ye hadn't never went there an' knowed what ye was talkin' about. So I says travelin' 's good business. What p'ticular feature o' the state o' nature have ye been lookin' at? The White mountains, eh? Well, well, well, I hadn't seen the White mountains for goin' on thirty year. Wonderful they was risin' right up out o' the sea like they does, with the sea lions an' wallygrasses roarin' at the foot o' 'em! What's that? They don't rise up out o' the sea? Say, do you know you're a-talkin' to me? Me, who has studied jography the way like I told ye, from travelin', an' who knows what facts he does know well? Ye don't want to git too funny with me. What? White mountains are in New Hampshire? Well, who said they wasn't? I only said they rose up out o' the sea—that's all I said. I never said they weren't in New Hampshire, becuz that'd be foolish, becuz they be. Havin' been there, I know. Ain't no sea nor no oceans lappin' the coast of New Hampshire for mountains to rise up out o'! See here, boys—don't you—don't you rasperte Old Jack. If you talk that way to me 'bout the jographical formation o' this country I'll have to decide on one o' two conclusions. If you say them White mountains don't rise up out o' the sea, either you ain't never been there, and sodon't know, or New Hampshire's moved. When I were in New Hampshire she were bounded on the west by the Pacific ocean, on the north by Buffin's bay, on the south by Lake Ontario, an' on the east by—the by—I think they called it the Mediterranean sea. O' course if they're gone an' changed it around I may be wrong, but what's the use o' studyin' jography if they're goin' to make all them changes 'bout lettin' people know? It's wicked. We spends time an' money gettin' educated, an' then they go an' upset it all makin' changes." And the old man walked away, growling. "First thing we know," he roared back, "they'll get out a new rithmetic, tellin' us 'at twelve times 'leven's nine hundred and sixty. I hate this monkeyin' with facts. No sea for the White mountains to rise up out o', after me havin' been there!"—N. Y. Advertiser.

THE COREANS.

Some of Their Peculiar Habits and Customs Worn by the Western.

Corean women, to the western eye, are both hideous and ungainly, whereas the men and young boys are often handsome and picturesque. There is neither grace nor elegance in the female dress, which in some respects resembles that of the Chinese, and consists of a loose pair of trousers reaching to the ankle, tied round the waist with a thick cord, on the top of this is worn a short petticoat reaching to the knees, and fitted to the shoulders is a yoke or shoulder-cap to which are attached long, loose sleeves. This costume is the ordinary dress of the working-woman; the coarse material is woven out of the fiber of the tall millet-stem, which sometimes grows to be eight or ten feet high; or more often the entire costume is composed of a strong shirting. Both the women and the men wear their hair in thick plaits; the former wrap their pigtails lightly round their heads, the latter keep their long plaits hanging down until they enjoy the dignified position of being engaged to be married, on which auspicious occasion the corean groom partly shaves his head and twists up his pigtail into a queer little top-knot and indulges his fancy in the latest and strangest variety of hats ever designed for man. Up to this time his head has been hatless. Coreans are engaged to be married as early as their parents can arrange the business part of the transaction satisfactorily. In many ways they resemble the Chinese much more than the Japanese. Unlike the Japanese, they keep their wearing apparel exquisitely clean; they are constantly washing their entire wardrobe. With the Japanese the order of things is reversed; they indulge in three or four baths a day, but even the garments worn next their skin are seldom, if ever, washed. Their method of ironing is more injurious to their clothes than even a steam laundry. They thump the clothes with wooden rollers and flat boards until a polish is produced. The heaviest expense to a Corean man in life are his landress' destructiveness, his pipe and his hat.—N. Y. Ledger.

CARE OF TENDER FEET.

The Shoes to Be Worn in Summer—Treatment When Sore and Swollen.

First and foremost, the boots and shoes for summer wear should be half a size larger than those worn during the winter. Shoes are generally considered more comfortable than boots, and should certainly be adopted, if possible, in the summer, for they leave the ankle free and the circulation unimpeded. However, if boots must be worn, they should not be very high, as any additional pressure means additional suffering. It is hardly necessary, I hope, to mention that extremely pointed toes and really high heels should never really be thought of by anyone who values peace of mind and comfort. The leather for summer footwear should be light, but not too thin, and brown in preference to black, when brown is suitable to the occasion.

The evil effects of tight lacing will be very soon realized by the woman who has tender feet; the undue compression adds tenfold to the pain, and very often the ankles, even of young girls who are silly enough to sacrifice their well-being for the sake of having a waist of eighteen inches, are so swelled and inflamed by the end of the day that they are utterly shapeless.

In cases of this kind the remedy is not far to seek, but it is more difficult to relieve those who suffer legitimately, so to speak. The following treatment should be persevered in; it will give immediate relief, and, when practicable, should be resorted to twice a day. Do not wait until you go to bed, but if the opportunity offers when you come in, weary and footsore, apply the remedies then:

Soak the feet well in tepid water, to which a little ammonia has been added, and as the water gets cold pour in more hot to keep up the temperature. After drying the feet, rub them gently and thoroughly with a mixture made thus:

Add one ounce of the best linseed oil to the same quantity of lime-water; shake the bottle in which the ingredients are until a mixture about the thickness of cream is produced, then pour in half a dram of spirits of camphor, shake again, and it is ready for use. The feet, after being rubbed, should be wrapped in soft linen for a little while, and then powdered with boracic acid before the stockings are replaced. In the event of the feet and ankles being in a very inflamed condition, after soaking them as I have described, apply an arnica lotion, which will soon allay the discomfort. This is made by adding twenty drops of tincture of arnica to a half cupful of tepid water; saturate a piece of lint sufficiently large to envelop the entire foot with the lotion, cover it with a piece of oiled silk, and rest for an hour or two.—Locomotive Firemen's Magazine.

THE NEW YORK BAR.

Changes of the Young Lawyer Just Commencing His Practice.

The young lawyer has a hard road to travel when first admitted to practice, and if imbued with the pardonable delusion that the world in general and the bar in particular owes him a living, he finds that living scanty and meager, to say the most, even though his talents are many and his zeal great.

If he is successful early in his career, it may be due either to the influence or "pull" of friends, or from the fact that he has been fortunate enough to have an opportunity to display great powers of oratory. The only other way open for a young lawyer to reach any degree of prominence is for him to associate himself with some well-known law firm as clerk, at a merely nominal salary, and then by reason of his integrity, zeal and efficiency, he stands a good chance of being raised to the post of managing clerk, but without any material raise of salary, and then, after years and years of patient and poorly remunerated labor, he may be taken into the firm at the retirement or death of one of its members.

One may be a good lawyer, and barely earn salt in New York, notwithstanding the hue and cry frequently raised about exorbitant lawyers' fees. To be successful in the full sense of the word, a member of the profession must be a remarkable or eminent lawyer. There is any amount of legal business to be done, but alas! for the hopes of the numerous but unknown lawyers, the business is placed in the hands of a limited few; in deference, perhaps, to the prevailing fat or fashion which is encouraging the growth of trusts, corporations and other huge business combinations. Of course the fees asked by the favored few who have reached the point of eminence and renown are large—often extraordinarily so; but then again, the corporations that employ them are rich and liberal. It is, however, an undeniable fact that only a lawyer of proven ability, excellent reputation and a long record of successful cases can secure the handling of important cases.—Eugene Mace, in Home and Country.

Japan Ahead of China.

Japan, in spite of her mistakes, stands for light and civilization; her institutions are enlightened; her laws, drawn up by European jurists, are equal to the best we know, and they are justly administered; her punishments are humane; her scientific and sociological ideas are our own. China stands for darkness and savagery. Her science is ludicrous superstition, her law is barbarous, her punishments are awful, her politics are corruption, her ideals are isolation and stagnation. In thousands of Yamen throughout China men are tortured every day, hung up by the thumbs, forced to kneel upon chains, beaten with heavy bamboo, their ankles cracked, their limbs broken. Every week men are publicly crucified and hacked to death by the "thousand cuts." How is anybody to desire the extension of the sway of the latter rather than that of the former, without avowing himself a partisan of savagery?—Contemporary Review.

SPEEDY JUSTICE PROMISED.

Attorney General Olney Makes Annual Report from Department of Justice.

DEFENDS GOVERNMENT'S COURSE IN CHICAGO STRIKE.

Welfare of the Country Demanded Prompt Action on the Part of the Administration.

COURTS BECOME MORE PROMPT.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The attorney general's annual report was made public today. Speaking of the supreme court the attorney general says that at no distant day it will be as distinguished for the promptitude with which decisions are rendered as it once was for the delays inevitably accompanying them.

Flower of Boston, who was arrested last night, was brought before Justice Prindle today and gave bonds in the sum of $5,000 for appearance tomorrow. The charges preferred were by William Chapman of Peoria, who claims Dr. Flower swindled him out of $350,000 worth of stock and bonds of the Illinois Coal & Coke company of Peoria. Mosher is charged with complicity in the swindle. Dr. Flower secured bail on a similar charge last night.

10 o'clock Sunday morning asking him to immediately issue a challenge to the New York Yacht club to contest for America's cup. Grant added: "It was somewhat unexpected as when I last heard from Lord Dunraven it seemed extremely doubtful whether a challenge were possible. I acted immediately, wrote the challenge and posted it the same evening. It will go to New York on the Teutonic which sails on Wednesday next from Liverpool. I cannot give the text of the challenge owing to Lord Dunraven's request."

EFFORT WORTHY OF A NATION.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—President Frank Wenter of the board of trustees controlling the great drainage canal now under construction, connecting Lake Michigan with the tributaries of the Mississippi, was today unanimously reelected to a fourth term in that office. Wenter's annual report dwelt on the advantage resulting from the board's steady exclusion of partisanship and strict adherence to business methods and said: "The magnitude of the enterprise is such that even the government of the United States, had it undertaken the work, could say it was a task worthy of a nation."

HAVE CHANGED THEIR MINDS.

Citizens of Jacksonville Will Allow No More Prize Fights. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4.—The city council this afternoon unanimously repealed the ordinance passed a year ago to permit the Corbett-Mitchell prize fight to take place in Jacksonville. This indicates that an important change of sentiment toward prize fighting has taken place in Jacksonville and increases the improbability of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons or any other fight taking place in Jacksonville for a long time to come.

HER RAINY-DAY OUTFIT.

It May Be Made Most Attractive as Well as Water-Proof. Dull gray skies and breezes with a slight chill of autumn in them tell of the near approach of the rainy storm. Some day, soon, the glistening, life-preserving drops will shower down and the thoughtful woman, busy with her fall wardrobe, will remember one important adjunct to her outfit, of which, until then, she had not thought—a rainy day gown.

A DUMVIRATE.

Two Queen Bees Rule Harmoniously in One Hive. A discovery has been made in one of the bee exhibitions held in connection with the Austrian Horticultural and Apicultural society in Vienna, which is the talk of the capital, and the truth of which is vouched for by hundreds and thousands of visitors, besides being duly attested in writing by thirteen trustworthy and competent witnesses, including members of the aristocracy, scientists and physicians. And this discovery is of a nature to overthrow all the theories about the political constitution of bees which play such a prominent part in political and scientific literature.

DUELING IN THE ARMY.

Meetings on the Field of Honor of Which the Public Never Hears. Good United States people roll their eyes in holy horror when they read about the free and easy manner in which dueling is practiced abroad, says the Washington Star. Just now they are in a tremor of indignation over the recent escape of the emperor of Russia, which was addressed to his army and navy officers, and informed them that they must recognize the necessity of fighting duels under certain circumstances. If these pious people were aware of how much real dueling occurs in the regular army which protects the dignity of the American flag they would begin to hold mass meetings.

CHARACTERISTICS OF EUROPEAN CITIES.

An observer, says a correspondent of the Leeds Mercury, has just drawn up a little table in which he arranges the principal cities and towns of the world according to a classification which has at least the merit of novelty. Each town is considered from the point of view of the trades which are carried on in it. According to these statistics in Paris there reside the most tailors, upholsterers, bonnet makers, barbers, advocates and men of letters, men or women. In London we find the most cab and carriage proprietors, engineers, printers, booksellers and—though most people would scarcely credit it—cooks.

IN NORTHEAST CHINA.

Traveling is Exceedingly Difficult and is Done in Odd Conveyances. You can walk if you want to, but the roadway is so rough as to wear out both shoes and patience in no time. You can ride and be quite comfortable. The horses, jackasses, and camels, from long experience, are extremely skillful, both in mountain climbing and in threading their way through seemingly impassable marshes. Or can follow in the footsteps of the Chinese gentlemen of leisure and go in a horse sedan. This is a roomy chair or box, suspended between two long poles of bamboo or strong wood, the ends of which serve as shafts for two quadrupeds. The pony and donkey take gladly to this kind of work, and will travel forty miles a day without much trouble.

EXPLANATION NOT ACCEPTED.

European Powers Will Further Investigate the Armenian Outrage. LONDON, Dec. 4.—It is announced on excellent authority that the dispatch from the Turkish commission, appointed to inquire into the outrages in Armenia, will probably not be considered sufficient to satisfy the European powers. Advice received here tend to show that more energetic action will be necessary to secure the enforcement of the Berlin treaty.

RETIRED FROM COMMAND.

Japanese Commander-in-Chief is Placed on the Sick List. LONDON, Dec. 4.—A dispatch to the Central News from Tokio says a report to which much credence is given current there is to the effect that Field Marshal Yamagata, commander of the Japanese army, is so seriously indisposed that it has been decided necessary for him to be invalided.

CHANGE OF EXECUTIVES.

John Gary Evans is Now the Governor of Alabama. COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 4.—Benjamin Ryan Tallman is no longer governor of South Carolina. SIGN OF BETTER TIMES.

Ishpeming's Policemen Will Ask for an Advance of Pay.

FINDING OF JURY IN HICKEY INQUEST CASE.

"Dick" Mocker's Strange Disappearance—Snow Shoeists Out in Force. Choss Officers.

WANT MORE PAY.

The night police officers will petition the council at the meeting to be held this evening for an advance in their pay. Last spring their pay was reduced from $2 to $1.60 per day. As times are some better now, and the service more severe during the winter season, they think their present pay too small, hence ask an advance. Several of the aldermen have expressed themselves in favor of granting a reasonable advance, and the belief is that the petition will be favorably considered.

There are not as many men on the force as last winter, a reduction having been made to curtail expense last spring. Under the present system the men are confined more closely to their beats than they were a few years ago. They are subject to the orders of the deputy marshal and each one of them is compelled to make a report every morning showing the territory traversed during the night, also a statement setting forth the result of his observations, if any, such as doors and windows found open, suspicious characters seen on the streets, etc. They earn all they get from the city and it is not good policy to deal with them in a niggardly spirit.

Can't Locate Him.

The Ishpeming friends of Richard Mocker, late of this city, are unable to find him. He has been in Chicago for the last year and a half or so and about two months ago left his position and boarding house without saying a word to anyone. A letter containing money from the Mocker estate sent to his address a short time ago has been returned to Ishpeming with the information that Mr. Mocker is no longer there.

A relative of his from this city was recently in Chicago and while there spent some time trying to find him. The man with whom Dick boarded said he had not been seen since the latter part of September. At the time his mother died, about four months ago, Dick could not be found but it is said he was afterwards located.

An Ishpeming man who lately returned from Chicago says it was reported by some of his acquaintances there that he had gone west. There is nothing positive, however, about this, but those who know Dick are not much alarmed on his account, as they feel positive that he will turn up all right before many months.

A Large Turnout.

One of the largest gatherings that ever attended a meeting of the Ishpeming Snowshoe club was present Monday evening. There were almost one hundred persons present. A fine supper of beef tenderloins and other good things was served. A tramp was taken and indoor exercises were indulged in. The toboggan slide was not yet in good order for use, so there was no sliding Monday evening. Four carloads of evergreens have been brought in from the woods and are being placed on either side of the slide to protect it from the snow. The search light will be here soon and by the time it arrives and is in place the slide will be in first-class condition, a few cold nights being all that is needed to get it in prime order.

Sunday School Officers.

At a meeting of the Sunday school society of the Division street Methodist church Sunday last officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Superintendent, R. J. Williams; first assistant superintendent, Matthew Wasley; second assistant superintendent, W. Roberts; secretary, J. H. Martyn; treasurer, John Quayle, Jr.; librarian, Guy Canfield; organist, Miss Jennie Gill; chorister, T. F. Francis.

The Hickey Inquest.

The coroner's jury in the case of Larry Hickey, who was killed by falling ore at the Lake Superior hard ore mine Saturday morning, heard testimony in the case in Justice Funston's court yesterday morning. There were six witnesses, including Captain John McEnroe and Mine Inspector James H. Rouse, examined. The testimony agreed with the account of the fatality given in Monday's issue of THE MINING JOURNAL and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the company and all others from blame.

Bring in Your Keys.

The box containing $10 at the Kirkwood pharmacy is now at the disposal of the key-holders. Several of the keys have already been brought in but the prize still awaits the coming of the person who holds the right one. All who hold keys should bring them in at once as there is no telling who holds the lucky one. Mr. Sinclair wishes all to come in with their keys as soon as possible, so that the lock can be re-set and another prize offered.

Has a Brilliant Future.

The Ann Arbor Times of recent date gave John Dodge, the young vocalist, who will appear in Ishpeming Thursday evening at the Division street Methodist church with the May Leggett Concert company, the following mention:

Among the graduates of the Conservatory of Music today was Mr. John Dodge, an Ypsilanti boy, and a young man to whom the instructors of the school can with great justice point with pride. Stepping from the ranks of the amateurs he is just about to enter a professional life, and the most competent musical critics foretell for him one of the most brilliant careers in his chosen life that is possible to be attained. He certainly has one of the finest tenor voices, and whenever his name has appeared upon the programs of the entertainments produced it was a guarantee that there was a rich musical treat in store for those who attended. He is a gentleman of culture and refinement, and possesses the quality of making long-lasting friends. The bureau which has engaged his services is to be congratulated upon its fortunate acquisition.

AN INLAND EMPIRE.

Its Vast Extent and Its Abundant Growth Canceled At.

Abundant, so far as the products of fields, orchards and hopyards can supply it, is the largest of the season to the people of the great inland empire, says the Portland Oregonian. While the traveler, choking with dust and languishing with the heat, peers from the cars wondering at the tremendous amount of useless material that nature found upon her hands in the construction of the universe, great stacks of hay, waving fields of ripening wheat or huge piles of grain in bags awaiting railroad rates that will permit their movements without loss to the producer, and sleek cattle, mindful of the fierce rays of the sun, browsing upon the wide ranges, refute his impatient criticisms of the utter worthlessness of this vast land.

While there are large tracts that must remain arid until some system of irrigation is devised to make the surplus precipitation of the winter months a blessing to the upper country instead of a source of mischief to the lower lands, there are vast areas that have been reclaimed to agriculture by tillage and irrigation, and the product of these is simply phenomenal. Passing through the entire eastern section of Oregon and Washington by rail at this season of the year, one wonders how anyone can be induced to make homes on its seeming wastes. But, halting at one of the cities of the plains, into which the surrounding country has poured its wealth of fruit and bounty of vegetables and meats, the conviction of the productiveness of the region is forced upon the most skeptical traveler. The loyalty of the people of the inland empire to this section is unswerving, and their confidence in its future greatness is boundless.

A number of skeletons, with manacles fastened to the arm and leg bones, were found buried in the courtyard of the customhouse at St. Petersburg, recently. They are evidences of the tyrannical reign of the regent Biren, the favorite of Empress Anna, who ruled in 1730 to 1736, during which time twenty thousand victims perished.

A GREAT COON DOG.

An Indiana Pup That Found a Six-Year-Old Cold Trail.

Several enthusiastic coon hunters the other day were discussing the "ring-tailed" chase, says the Wabash Times, when "Hime" Wellman, of Urbana, came in and in a few minutes was doing more coon talk than all the balance of the crowd put together.

"I'll tell you," said "Hime," "I've got the best cold trailer on a coon track that ever anybody owned, and he is only eight months old, too! I took the pup out the other day just to see if he could run a track and to give him a little exercise, and he hadn't been in the woods ten minutes until I heard him bark, and he kept barking in such a way as to make me believe he had 'treed' his game, and then I came to the conclusion that he was a 'still hunter.' I found him at the mouth of a six-inch tile ditch and he had pulled out one of the tiles with his teeth and was chewing the end of it to pieces. As he was a young dog I did not want to ruin his teeth and I pulled him away from the tile, but as soon as I let go of him he would jump back and tackle the thing again with renewed vigor. I led him to the mouth of the ditch and stuck his nose in the end of the tile, but he paid no attention to that but ran back to the other one.

"That sort of carrying on bothered me and I at last led the dog away, remarking that he was no good on earth. After awhile I turned him loose once more and in less than three minutes he was back at that tile biting pieces out of it and barking like an old-timer. As I saw the pup was bound to ruin himself by breaking off his teeth I picked up the tile, determined to carry it to the house, so as to keep it out of his reach. As I walked along looking at the marks of the pup's teeth I made a startling discovery, and what do you think it was?"

The spell-bound listeners of the strange story held their breath for a moment and in a chorus asked: "What?" "Well, right on the inside of that tile I saw plainly the imprint of a coon's foot, which had been made there when the tile had been first milled and the clay was soft and yielding. The tile had evidently been made late in the evening and set away to dry and the coon had run through it the very same night and made the track. The tile, of course, was afterward dried and burned in the kiln, and it has been in that ditch for more than six years, and I say an eight-month-old pup that can smell as cold a trail as that is certainly the champion 'coon dog of the world.'"

WHAT THE CHINESE EAT.

Their Breadstuffs Seem Sad, Solemn, Sordid and Billions.

A member of the English parliament, Florence O'Driscoll, in a lively paper in Century, describes life and street scenes in Canton. Mr. O'Driscoll says: The food purveyors made a most striking display; the fruiterers exposed on flat trays bananas, pineapples, melons, figs, pears (the latter beautiful to the sight but hard and tasteless), together with many Chinese fruits whose shapes and tastes were familiar to me, but whose names I knew not. Some of these fruits were most artistically peeled, pineapple-peeling being quite an art. A great variety of vegetables was offered for sale. Among them were the white shoots of the bamboo, which seemed to be a favorite article of diet. But to what use, indeed, may not this wonderful grass be put? From it Chinamen make almost everything conceivable—hats, cloaks, sheets, carpets, roofs, buildings, baskets, chairs, carrying-poles, fishing-tools—the list might be prolonged ad infinitum. And then they eat it as well.

Preserving ginger in many forms was a noticeable trade. The roots were washed and left in water, as an English cook treats potatoes before boiling them. A number of men and women holding a two-pronged fork in each hand sat around a table with the tubs of peeled ginger beside them; they picked ginger roots out of the water, and laying them on the table, pierced them all over very rapidly with both forks until quite soft. The pierced roots were then put into another tub, where they were boiled in sirup. The ginger went through various other minor processes, until eventually it was packed in the earthenware jars in which it is sold in European shops. The whole process was certainly a clean one, and the smell of the aromatic root in preparation was both grateful and pleasant.

In the bakers' shops I saw nothing corresponding to our European loaf; solid-looking little yellow patties, slabs of flabby brown cakes, emblematic of concentrated dyspepsia; scones, or an equivalent, apparently of fried batter; and great flakes of milk-white, slippery-looking paste not above an eighth of an inch thick—to be rolled up and deftly sliced with a cleaver-shaped tool into long strings like macaroni. These foods were to be seen everywhere in the city, but nothing light and open. To my eyes the breadstuffs seemed sad, solemn, sordid, and billions.

Gentlemanly Burglars in Japan.

Even the most gentlemanly of our burglars have much to learn from Japan in the way of politeness, if one may judge by a description of the manners of robbers in that country given in the Atlantic. Three men broke into a dyer's house while he was away and gently asked his wife how much money there was in the house. She answered that there were just twenty-seven yen and eighty-four sen. The robber laughed and said: "You are a good old woman and we believe you. If you were poor we would not rob you at all. Now we only want a couple of kimono and this," laying his hand on a fine silk overdress. The old woman replied: "All my son's kimono I can give you, but I beg you will not take that, for it does not belong to my son and was confided to us only for dyeing. What is ours I can give, but I cannot give what belongs to another." "That is quite right," approved the robber, "and we shall not take it."

BY-PRODUCTS OF THE WOODS.

The Wealth of Our Forests Not Entirely in Lumber.

A fact generally overlooked by those interested in the preservation of our forests and woodlands is that many of the minor products of our trees equal in value that of the lumber and timber, and that in the aggregate they make as great a demand upon the forests as the recognized needs of the lumber merchant.

No country has been so prodigal as the United States in the use of wood for fuel, and this has probably been the heaviest drain upon the woods in the past.

In the aggregate all these by-products of the forests are of greater value than the lumber and timber annually cut.—N. Y. Post.

IN THE ELEVENTH CENTURY.

The English Clergy and the Prosperous Trade in Benefices.

During the first half of the eleventh century there is good reason for believing that the secular clergy, including the parish priests, in England, had never before been so numerous.

On the other hand, the monasteries had by no means recovered from the devastation wrought by the Danes. Many of the smaller houses had been entirely blotted out, and it may be doubted whether there were forty monasteries worth mentioning that were at this time in working order.

Soon the fashion began of founding new monasteries. The cry was raised that only by the revival of the stricter religious life of the cloister could the priests and people be reformed.

The dress of the sailors of the Chinese navy has been a matter of considerable speculation among the American readers of the Japan-China war reports. It is a curious compromise between the flowing robes of the Chinese coolies and the blue jacket and bell-bottomed trousers of the British man-of-war's man.

SENT BACK THE CHARTER.

Local Members of Woodmen of the World Abandon That Order.

RESENT TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION.

Decline to Throw Good Money After Bad, So Quit and Charge Cost to Experience.

LAWS ARE UNSATISFACTORY.

There was an explosion in fraternal society circles last night and as a result there is one less of those associations in Marquette this morning. Charter Oak camp No. 29, Woodmen of the World, by the unanimous vote of twenty-one members present out of thirty-four enrolled, decided to return its charter and to sever all connections with that order. The camp also by a vote requested THE MINING JOURNAL to state its reasons for this action for the benefit of other camps of the same organization, of which several have recently been established in this peninsula.

Charter Oak camp was organized Oct. 6 last by N. B. Sweet of Port Huron, Mich., a special deputy authorized to work in this region. It started with fair prospects and held its meetings in Fraternity Hall on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. A number of applications were coming in and there was and is money enough in the treasury to pay all bills. But the more the members studied the laws of the order the less they liked them and as a result they last night resolved to quit and charge up to experience what their membership had cost them so far.

The reasons which led the Marquette members of the Woodmen of the World to abandon that society are, in brief, the same which impelled the American colonies to renounce the rule of Great Britain—because taxation without representation is tyranny and they refused to submit to it. They found upon examination of the laws that they were totally without representation in the governing body of the order. All the other fraternal societies provide for some sort of representation for every member in the governing body. They found also that there was no prospect of their getting any voice until there were 5,000 members in Michigan and that then they would only have two votes for those 5,000 members, against fourteen votes held by the chief officers of the order. They found that the chief officer of the Woodmen of the World has a life term and that the fourteen organizers of the governing body are made life members. They found that to all appearance, putting simply the ordinary construction upon the language, the laws were so framed as to give a little circle of men at Omaha, Neb., perpetual control of the funds of the order and that it would be practically impossible to oust this ring from control. They found that the chief officers had power to tax the membership to an unlimited extent and to pay themselves whatever salaries they pleased. As all members had taken an obligation to obey these laws the only course open was either to abandon the society or to submit to an unjust and tyrannical government—drop out now or to stay in, say nothing and pay the bills under penalty of losing all they had put in. For these reasons the Marquette members of the Woodmen of the World decided that the sooner they quit throwing good money after bad the better and they quit right then.

The members of this society request THE MINING JOURNAL to state that they do not accuse Organizer Sweet of any wilfully false representations, nor do they impugn the honesty of the men who are at the head of the order. But they think that any fraternal beneficiary society whose laws put it in the power of a little ring to give its members fat jobs at the expense of the membership at large, and make it impossible to turn out officers who may abuse their powers, without first tearing the whole order to pieces, is a good thing to get out of right away and they have accordingly resolved to get out.

Readers not familiar with the various fraternal organizations should not confound the organization which was dissolved last night—the Woodmen of the World—with the order of Modern Woodmen of America. The last named also exists in this city and is a sound and well-managed beneficiary society, similar in plan to the A. O. U. W. and the Knights of the Maccabees.

The members present at the dissolution last night of Charter Oak camp, Woodmen of the World, then and there formed "The Charter Oak Society of Marquette, Mich." which latter organization formally assumed responsibility for all local debts of the defunct lodge.

It was also provided that any members of the defunct lodge who might desire to continue to adhere to the Woodmen of the World should be kept in good standing in that order to the extent of any money that they have paid in. Any such who were not present at the meeting last night are requested to signify their desire at once.

The former members of the Woodmen of the World in this city have requested THE MINING JOURNAL to make public their action, in order that other members of that organization throughout the peninsula might have notice thereof and take such action on their own account as they deem expedient.

Stewart-Redy Wedding.

Miss Emma Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, and Mr. James Redy were married at noon yesterday at the house of the bride's parents near the Powder Mill location. Miss Helen Cowden was bridesmaid and Mr. Hugh Blaine was best man. Rev. D. B. Spencer of the Presbyterian church performed the ceremony, at which only relatives and very intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Redy left on the afternoon train for Detroit and would have missed it had not Superintendent Ketcham held it five minutes. The groom is senior member of the firm of Redy Bros., which has been engaged in logging operations in this region for two or three years and is well and favorably known. A novel afterpiece to the wedding ceremony was a christening party. Among those present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Trathen of the copper country, Mrs. Trathen being an elder sister of the bride. Their two children and a younger child of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart's were christened by Mr. Spencer, who thus combined two sacraments of the church at one call.

To Protect the Game.

The movement for the protection of game is progressing well. Secretary Asire of the local association has received advices from Baraga, Iron Mountain, Sault Ste. Marie, Menominee, Gladstone, and Houghton-Hancock stating that local associations had been organized in those places which were ready to choose delegates to a convention for the purpose of framing a better game law whenever one should be called. Other towns are moving in the same direction.

The press of the peninsula has very generally published and endorsed the plan outlined. It is to be hoped that the papers will continue to press the matter. It is probable that the proposed convention will be called the latter part of this month at some convenient point. The precise date cannot be determined until further consultation is had among the local associations organized or to be organized.

From Cheboygan in the lower peninsula has come a hearty endorsement of the work and it is quite probable that similar associations will be organized in that part of the state.

"The Peaceful Seventh."

It is "the fighting Seventh" no longer. There was not a suspicion of a contest at the special election in that ward yesterday. The election board sat in Sambrook's little office at the corner of Third and Michigan streets and smoked, told stories and occasionally received votes and made out the bills for their pay. As a result of their struggles Leslie H. Stafford was elected alderman by a majority of 56 votes over nothing for the other fellow, whoever he was. There were 59 votes cast, of which three were spoiled and the other 56 were for Stafford. How any voter could spoil a ticket with only one name on it is one of those things which no fellow can find out. "The whirrigig of time brings its revenges," for Mr. Stafford was one of the ward's first aldermen and was defeated for re-nomination by the man whom he now succeeds. But the hot blood of the young Seventh was evidently cooled down. It was never really pugnacious but merely vigorous and argumentative.

Circuit Court Opens.

Everybody in Marquette county seems to have been very good for the last three months, for circuit court opened yesterday without a criminal case on the docket. Kate Willard and Annie J. Wright, charged with keeping disorderly houses, whose cases came over from the last term, failed to appear. Their bonds of $500 each were ordered forfeited and bench warrants to be issued. It is believed both have left the state. A log lien case took up most of the afternoon session, the question being whether there existed a right of appeal from justice court in such cases. The amount involved is not large but five or six lawyers seemed to be mixed up in the case.

The call for today is 23 and 24; for Thursday, 14, 25 and 21; for Friday, 16 and 32; for Saturday, 15. The civil calendar is of some length but the court will doubtless be ready to adjourn for Christmas and jury trials will not be numerous.

Hazard Saws Moving.

The Hazard saw, whose peculiarities and merits have been described at length in these columns, is making its way in the market quite well. Mr. Hazard stated yesterday to a MINING JOURNAL reporter that he had orders to equip several mills at Menominee for the coming season at a total of twenty saws. Two mills at Saginaw had also ordered outfits. Of course each mill equipped also takes a Hazard grinder, as that is the only machine in existence which will make the Hazard patent tooth on a saw and the Hazard tooth is generally admitted to be the fastest and best wood cutter known.

Marquette Lodge Officers.

Marquette lodge No. 101, F. & A. M., last night elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: W. M., B. O. Pearl, S. W., George P. Brown; J. W., David Guiland; S. D., Arthur Mitchell; J. D., F. O. Morrison; treasurer, F. M. Moore, secretary, H. J. Lobdell. W. M. Pearl was re-elected, as was Secretary Lobdell and Treasurer Moore. George P. Brown was promoted from junior warden to senior warden and David Guiland from senior deacon to junior warden.
