RETALIATION THREATENED.

United States Objects to High Duties on American Goods Going to Cuba.

MAY DECLARE EMBARGO ON ALL SPANISH IMPORTS.

The President Contemplates Enforcing the Retaliatory Measure of 1890 to Protect American Exports

MAY NOW LISTEN TO REASON.

MADRID, Dec. 17.—United States Minister Taylor today had an important conference with Senor Griezard, minister for foreign affairs, relative to the imposition of excessive duties upon imports into Cuba from the United States. He informed the senator he had been directed by his government to inform the government of Spain if it persisted in exacting these discriminating duties the action could be regarded by the president only as inviting the exercise by him of the power of retaliation conferred by the act of 1890. This threat has caused a commotion in ministerial circles.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The action of the state department indicated in the cablegram from Madrid in warning the Spanish government of its intention to resort to retaliation should Spain continue its present policy with respect to American exports to Cuba will doubtless have the effect of bringing at once to a focus the long drawn out negotiations which have been in progress with results very unsatisfactory to this government. None of our foreign relations of late has given as much trouble as those with Spain.

For several years this government has been urging the claims of American exporters for the remission of heavy fines and excessive taxes, amounting to about $5,000,000, imposed by the Cuban custom officials. The Spanish government admitted the justice of our claims but failed to make restitution. Then there was the old Mora claim against Spain already admitted by the Spanish government but impossible of collection.

Having reasoned in vain with the Spanish minister at Washington and through Minister Taylor with the Spanish foreign office Secretary Gresham, in casting about for a remedy, hit upon the act of August 30, 1890. This act, while primarily intended to provide for the inspection of meats for exportation and to prevent the importation of harmful articles of food, also included in its fifth section a grant of power to the president probably unequalled in extent by any legislation in the history of congress. It plainly states it authorizes an actual embargo to be declared at the discretion of the president.

The secretary of state refrained from the assertion of the power conferred by this law as long as there was reasonable expectation that the Spanish government would yield to the ordinary methods of diplomacy, but our commerce being menaced in a new quarter, namely in Germany, it felt it necessary to begin the assertion of the reserve power of retaliation lodged in the president and of course this necessitates beginning with Spain, the first offender.

FOUND FIFTEEN INDICTMENTS.

St. Louis Grand Jury Through Investigating Election Frauds

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—The grand jury, which for several weeks has been investigating the numerous charges of fraud growing out of the recent election, today handed down fifteen indictments. The names of those indicted on specific charges were not made public. Three bench warrants were issued for as many persons charged with election frauds. One is for the arrest of John A. Ellison, deputy constable, and a prominent ward politician, who was clerk of the Sixth election precinct, Second ward. Ellison surrendered. His bond was fixed at $500, which was furnished, and he was released.

AMERICANS LIVE IN TERROR.

Citizens of the United States Assaulted by Guatemalans.

GUATEMALA, Dec. 17.—All foreign residents here have been frightened since the official beating given the American, Argall, by the consent of President Barrios in spite of the protests of the American minister and consul. It is rumored this is not the only affair but that several Americans have been murdered by the authorities on the Atlantic coast because they refused to work on the railroad out of Port Barrios, when they were not paid. The cases were not published because even the witnesses were killed.

"All that glitters is not gold" but the gold in the medal received by Dr. Price's Baking Powder at the California Midwinter Fair is genuine.

TAKEN FROM THE COLLEGES.

Heirs Quarrel Over Deed of Gift of Millionaire Fayerweather.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Judge Trux today handed down a decision in favor of the plaintiffs in the suit brought by the Amherst, Hamilton, Williams, Rochester and Dartmouth colleges against Thomas A. Ritch, Justus L. Bulkeley and Henry and W. Vaughan, executors of Daniel B. Fayerweather and his deceased widow and numerous educational and charitable institutions which were beneficiaries of a deed of gift executed by the three executors by which they distributed the residue of the estate at their own pleasure, claiming it as theirs to do with as they pleased. The plaintiffs sued to have the residue held in their favor and the deed of gift declared void and of no effect. The colleges named in the scheme of the will did not join with the plaintiffs because they feared better under the deed of gift than they would have done under the will itself.

HUNTINGTON WAS SHOT

The Bullet Found Proves He Did Not Commit Suicide.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Dec. 1.—Fidelity Agents Cromwell and Hayden, shot yesterday by Bank Clerk Huntington, are no worse today and will probably recover. Startling developments were made in the afternoon which resulted in Huntington's victims employing an attorney to look out for their interests during the inquest. The new feature was the suggestion given color by friends of the dead bank clerk that he did not suicide but, on the contrary, was shot by some one in the room at the time Huntington began to shoot. This theory was advanced when it was learned that the bullet in Huntington's brain was much smaller than the ones fired into the two bond company examiners and the wound in his head was not powder burned as it is thought it would be the case if the revolver had been held in his own hands. There is no evidence to bear out the theory. Hayden and Cromwell rested easily all day and are much improved.

MURDER STILL A MYSTERY.

But the Citizens Would Like to Hang a Suspect.

PANA, Ill., Dec. 17.—The murder of an unknown young man near here is still a mystery. The victim is still unidentified. A reported suspect, Harry Cummins, is in custody at East St. Louis. The coroner's jury has not yet adjourned. A big crowd assembled here tonight bent upon lynching Cummins on his arrival from East St. Louis. The officers who had him in charge, however, got notice of what was going on and changed their course and took the prisoner to Taylorville for safe keeping. There is scarcely a doubt but that this saved his life.

EVERYBODY OVERDREW.

Newfoundland Bank Wrecked by Its Directors and Officers.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 17.—A heated meeting of the shareholders of the Commercial Bank of Newfoundland today resulted in some startling disclosures. Four firms, the members of which are directors of the bank, owe the institution $835,000. They claim to be able to realize fully the amount of their liabilities. It is learned some of the bank officials have overdrawn their accounts and Bookkeeper Crowley, who is now missing, had falsified the books so his personal friends had overdrawn to the amount of $50,000.

FOUR BOATS ARE MISSING.

The Last Storm Played Havoc With Pacific Steamers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—That the steam colliers Montserrat and Keweenaw have been lost at sea with all on board is now considered almost a certainty. The Montserrat is from Nanaimo and the Keweenaw from Comox, B. C., and both are seven days over due at this port. The Montserrat, Captain Blackburn, carried a crew of twenty men and the Keweenaw, Captain Jenkins, carried a crew of thirty men. Anxiety is also felt for the barks Germania and Columbia.

GIVEN HEARTY WELCOME.

John Burns Addresses an Enthusiastic Gathering in Omaha.

OMAHA, Dec. 17.—John Burns, the London dockers friend, was accorded a hearty welcome by the audience that filled the largest available hall in the city tonight. The chief point of his address was devoted to a scathing tirade against municipal jobbery and boodlism and he insisted that the workingmen must take this matter up for themselves. J. W. Benn, M. P., and Edward Rosewater, of The Omaha Bee, also spoke.

AUTOMATIC GALLOWS TRIED.

Jack Cronin Hanged for Murder at South Windsor.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 17.—Jack Cronin was hanged this morning for the murder of Albert Shim at South Windsor, Oct. 6, 1893. The execution of Cronin was especially interesting, being the first hanging under the law passed by the last general assembly and the first trial of the automatic gallows.

Good housekeeping can be reduced to a science with the aid of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

CREDITORS LOSE HEAVILY.

Citizens' Stock Bank at Slater, Mo., Closes Its Doors.

SLATER, Mo., Dec. 17.—The Citizens' Stock bank, capitalized at $100,000, closed today and is in the hands of an assignee. Joseph F. Field, the cashier of the institution, also made an assignment. The failure is considered a bad one and will catch many creditors heavily. The bank's liabilities amount to $550,000 and the assets, excluding considerable worthless paper, will not exceed $250,000.

SEELEY PLEADS GUILTY

Will Receive His Sentence Friday for Bank Robbing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Samuel C. Seeley, former bookkeeper of the National Shoe & Leather bank, charged with robbing the bank of over three hundred and fifty thousand dollars, was arraigned in the federal court today, pleaded guilty and was remanded till Friday for sentence.

M'BRIDE MADE PRESIDENT.

American Federation of Labor Elects United Mine Workers' Leader as President.

GOMPER'S STRIKE ATTITUDE DEFEATS HIM

The Federation Has Decided Upon Indianapolis as Its Permanent Headquarters for the Future.

OTHER OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

DENVER, Dec. 17.—At the opening of the American Federation of Labor convention this morning the question of the future location of federation headquarters was taken up and Indianapolis was chosen.

The election of officers was then taken up. President Gompers and John McBride, president of the United Mine Workers, were the only candidates. The vote resulted: McBride, 1,162; Gompers, 937. The other officers elected were as follows: Vice presidents, McGuire of Philadelphia, James Dunoon of Baltimore, Rody Kenchan of Denver and T. J. Elderkin of the Seaman's union. A McGrath of Boston was re-elected treasurer by acclamation. New York was chosen as the next place of meeting.

The action of Gompers in the American Railway Union strike is one of the causes of his defeat for the presidency. Secretary Evans read a telegram sent by the officers of the federation officially notifying John McBride of his election as president of that body.

A resolution was agreed to appropriating $250 to reimburse the metal workers of Illinois for the expense in carrying a suit to the supreme court to prevent contract convict labor.

A resolution criticizing the report of the national strike commission and favoring the reported ownership of railroads was reported unfavorably by the committee but was referred again to the legislative council. The following telegram from the president elect was read before the convention:

"Convention Federation of Labor—Please thank the delegates in my name for the high honor they have conferred upon me and assure them I shall aim to do my duty faithfully and fearlessly and hope to be able to reflect credit upon my administration and upon the American Federation of Labor. (Signed) John McBride."

The convention then adjourned till morning.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 17.—News of his election as president of the American Federation of Labor was first taken to John McBride by a representative of The Columbus Dispatch. He was so much surprised as to be inclined to doubt the statement but upon being assured it was a fact appeared pleased at the result but was not inclined to talk on the subject. As to whether he would accept McBride said: "I would prefer to wait until officially notified before saying anything more."

TAMPERS WITH THE BALLOTS.

Chicago Mayoralty Contest Adds Another Sensational Feature

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Discoveries of a sensational nature were made today in connection with the Swift Hopkins mayoralty contest. It was discovered that the ballots cast in the Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second and Thirty-third wards at the November election had been tampered with. Sealed wrappers holding the tickets in the wards named bear evidence of having been slashed open with a knife. No count has yet been made and it is not known if any ballots have been removed.

WILL GET TWO YEARS

Instead of a Pension He Will Get the Penitentiary.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 17.—United States District Attorney Shutt today received word from Washington that Daniel Benton, alias Wm. Newby, whose case was considered last week by the United States supreme court, will be remanded to the Chester penitentiary to serve a two years sentence for presenting a fraudulent pension claim as soon as the mandate issues from the supreme court after the February recess.

DIFFICULTY ENDED

Mosquito Indian Reservation Incorporated With Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—United States Minister Baker today cabled Secretary Gresham that the Mosquito Indians had formally incorporated their reservation with Nicaragua. This is very welcome news to the state department for it makes an end of the Bluefields difficulties which have harassed the department for nearly a year.

SPECIFICS.

IT SEEMS that the opposition to Washburn in Minnesota is formidable enough to cause that gentleman and his friends some uneasiness.

Allying to the fight against him, the Minneapolis Times, which favors his return to the United States senate, admits that it is developing some unpropitious phases, and is illustrating the fact that the Republican majority in the legislature is very far from being a praying band, and that a good many of the members are not going to St. Paul this winter for their health.

They will have an opportunity to better their financial standing, however their health may fare, if Jim Hill of the Great Northern is, as is charged, taking a hand in the contest in the interest of Governor Nelson's election to succeed Washburn.

At the same time it will be a disgrace to the Republican party if Washburn should be defeated by the influences that are working against him in the senatorial struggle in that state, for that would allow a Democratic railway manager to determine the result of an election by a Republican legislature—and that, too, in the interest of a railway enterprise in which he is the principal owner.

A Pittsburg dispatch states that this year's production of pig iron in the United States will, according to reliable authority, show a decrease of about 500,000 tons from that of last year. It will be about 4,000,000 tons. The increase in production that began in June (not has been maintained). The output since then up to the first of the current month was at the rate of 178,325 tons a week, or 9,300,000 tons a year. It is predicted by the American Manufacturer in its issue of last week that next year's production will be one of the largest in the history of the iron trade in the United States.

AN EXHAUSTIVE study observes that "the papers that have no advice to offer in relation to the currency just to let well enough alone don't know what well enough is. A system that breaks down when you need it isn't what can be called satisfactory." It ought to be apparent to the most obtuse that our financial system is far from being "well enough" to be safely let alone. It is, in fact, ill enough to call for radical treatment with a view to "doctoring" it into better form.

Lewis & Son of Liverpool, Eng., in their copper report announce that an agreement has been concluded between the Anaconda and Calumet & Hecla copper companies under the terms of which the former company will reduce its production to the level of the latter, which is about 5,500,000 pounds monthly. The Anaconda's October output was 9,500,000 pounds, and that of the other three leading Montana companies for the same month, 4,160,000 pounds. It is believed that the Rio Tinto company has also agreed to limit its production.

SAN STEPHENSON was one of the minority in the house that voted to defeat the appropriation for collection of the income tax. The only other Michigan congressman who voted to make no provision for the expense attendant thereon was R-representative Thomas. Sam is a big-hearted fellow about election time, but he stands on record as not being willing to provide for collection of a tax that congress in its wisdom has seen fit to impose on the possessors of large incomes, presumably because he will be hit by it. There is no glory to be obtained from paying taxes, while a tithe of the money saved by avoiding taxation if spent in ostentatious benevolence counts powerfully in a campaign, especially when one can hire an eloquent speaker to go around among the voters telling all about it from the platform!

A MEETING of leading Republicans of Baraga county was recently held in the town hall at L'Anse to consider the senatorial situation in the state with reference to the opportunity it affords for securing for an upper peninsula man one of the two seats to be filled by the legislature at the pending session. Strong resolutions affirming the claim of this district to one of the senatorships were adopted and Hon. Jay A. Hubbell was endorsed as the candidate on whom "above all others," the members of the legislature from this district should unite as their choice for the junior senatorship. The Baraga Republicans have done well. If the senators and representatives from this peninsula do equally well when they decide who their candidate shall be they will very greatly improve our chance of securing representation in the United States senate.

EMPEROR WILLIAM of Germany may have the army under his thumb but the reichstag gives occasional manifestations of independence that must be very irritating to that exacting ruler. Its refusal to permit his public prosecutor to take measures for the punishment of the sturdy socialist members who refused to rise and cheer for him at the opening session several days ago ought to satisfy the emperor that it is not well to crowd that body too hard. If he does he will create a sentiment against his arbitrary methods and ideas which will make itself felt in time, and greatly to the jeopardy of the empire which his father and Bismarck created by shrewdly bringing into harmonious action for a great purpose elements that will not easily brook the petty arrogance of a ruler who lacks their knowledge of the German people and is better fitted to be a Russian czar than a German emperor.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. It is the belief of The Iron Trade Review that the prices on the leading Lake Superior ores will be announced earlier in the coming year than has been the case for several years past.

If they shall at the same time be fixed a little higher than they have been there will be much cause for rejoicing among the producers.

It ought to be apparent to the most obtuse that our financial system is far from being "well enough" to be safely let alone. It is, in fact, ill enough to call for radical treatment with a view to "doctoring" it into better form.

Lewis & Son of Liverpool, Eng., in their copper report announce that an agreement has been concluded between the Anaconda and Calumet & Hecla copper companies under the terms of which the former company will reduce its production to the level of the latter, which is about 5,500,000 pounds monthly. The Anaconda's October output was 9,500,000 pounds, and that of the other three leading Montana companies for the same month, 4,160,000 pounds. It is believed that the Rio Tinto company has also agreed to limit its production.

SAN STEPHENSON was one of the minority in the house that voted to defeat the appropriation for collection of the income tax. The only other Michigan congressman who voted to make no provision for the expense attendant thereon was R-representative Thomas. Sam is a big-hearted fellow about election time, but he stands on record as not being willing to provide for collection of a tax that congress in its wisdom has seen fit to impose on the possessors of large incomes, presumably because he will be hit by it. There is no glory to be obtained from paying taxes, while a tithe of the money saved by avoiding taxation if spent in ostentatious benevolence counts powerfully in a campaign, especially when one can hire an eloquent speaker to go around among the voters telling all about it from the platform!

A MEETING of leading Republicans of Baraga county was recently held in the town hall at L'Anse to consider the senatorial situation in the state with reference to the opportunity it affords for securing for an upper peninsula man one of the two seats to be filled by the legislature at the pending session. Strong resolutions affirming the claim of this district to one of the senatorships were adopted and Hon. Jay A. Hubbell was endorsed as the candidate on whom "above all others," the members of the legislature from this district should unite as their choice for the junior senatorship. The Baraga Republicans have done well. If the senators and representatives from this peninsula do equally well when they decide who their candidate shall be they will very greatly improve our chance of securing representation in the United States senate.

EMPEROR WILLIAM of Germany may have the army under his thumb but the reichstag gives occasional manifestations of independence that must be very irritating to that exacting ruler. Its refusal to permit his public prosecutor to take measures for the punishment of the sturdy socialist members who refused to rise and cheer for him at the opening session several days ago ought to satisfy the emperor that it is not well to crowd that body too hard. If he does he will create a sentiment against his arbitrary methods and ideas which will make itself felt in time, and greatly to the jeopardy of the empire which his father and Bismarck created by shrewdly bringing into harmonious action for a great purpose elements that will not easily brook the petty arrogance of a ruler who lacks their knowledge of the German people and is better fitted to be a Russian czar than a German emperor.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. J. C. HENNEY & CO., Toledo, O. A Pittsburg dispatch states that this year's production of pig iron in the United States will, according to reliable authority, show a decrease of about 500,000 tons from that of last year. It will be about 4,000,000 tons. The increase in production that began in June (not has been maintained). The output since then up to the first of the current month was at the rate of 178,325 tons a week, or 9,300,000 tons a year. It is predicted by the American Manufacturer in its issue of last week that next year's production will be one of the largest in the history of the iron trade in the United States.

CONFIDENCE RETURNING.

In their weekly review of financial conditions Henry Clews & Co. of New York say, under date of the 18th, that the situation in Wall street "is gradually resolving itself into one in which confidence in the future is the underlying basis of action, this being shown by the improving investment demand in the absence of active speculation."

The fact that the security market at this time offers unusual inducements, in the way of low prices for properties that are bound to improve under the increased general prosperity which is inevitable sooner or later, is cited as giving promise that the speculative demand will soon show a marked increase of strength.

"There can be no doubt," the review goes on to say, "that the period of panic and liquidation has passed, and that instead of constant contraction of credit the country at large is beginning, though slowly, to enjoy an expansion of the same. The result will be a large shrinkage of the amounts of money now lying idle as it goes into circulation through the medium of investments, speculative and otherwise."

Other favoring conditions are touched upon, such as the cessation of disturbing legislation at Washington, the lessening demand for our gold abroad and the certainty that with improved prospects for business in this country European money will again begin to seek the United States, instead of being withdrawn from this country, as has been the tendency for a considerable interval lately.

We are going to have a very noticeable revival of business activity in 1895, unless those who ought to be good judges of such things are all grievously at fault in their prognostics.

THE DEBS CASE.

Although THE MINING JOURNAL did not approve of the course of Debs in ordering the sympathetic railway strike in which his railway order engaged last summer it feels that he is being unjustly punished for his action in the case. If it is a crime in the chief of a labor organization to order a strike it is a crime for the men to obey the order and quit work. The decree of the court in the case of Debs is tantamount to a denial of the right of workmen to go on a strike in a certain sense—for there can be no successful strike without organization and to have organization there must of necessity be a directing head whose orders must first be awaited and then obeyed. The wisdom of his action in calling out the railway organization of which he was chief for the purpose the strike was ordered for and under the circumstances then existing may be questioned, but to deny the right of Debs to call them out is to deny that of the men to go out.

Besides, it is evident from the information obtained by the committee of investigation appointed by the president to investigate the strike that the board of general managers of the railways were in a large measure responsible for the trouble that arose between the men and the roads. It is not justice to allow the members of that board to go scot free while the chiefs of the railway organization which had charge of the rights of the men are punished for their share in the contention. The courts are showing a reprehensible disposition to regard only the rights of corporations in disputes between these and their employes, and by doing this are fast breaking down the confidence of the people in their integrity and strict impartiality in interpreting and administering the laws. It is unfortunate that this should be so, for when faith in the purity of our courts departs from the people respect for the authority of the government in its entirety will not long abide in their breasts.

Dyspepsia Cured CHEAP?

"My wife has been a great sufferer with dyspepsia for over four years. Three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla have perfectly cured her. At times the highest food would distress her terribly. She could not sleep well nights and she said no one could tell how badly she felt. She was also troubled with sick headaches. She had tried different kinds of medicine, but none did her any good. At last Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and one bottle did her so much good that she took two more and now she is perfectly well. She is not now troubled with any sick headaches nor bad feelings, can eat heartily and sleep well. To Hood's Sarsaparilla belongs all the credit." OZIS MERRITT, Addison, Maine. Hood's Pills cure headache and indigestion.

At the Paris Mont de Piete, the official pawnbroking establishment, a wedding ring pawned in 1857 has been redeemed. Only seventeen francs was lent upon it originally, but the ticket was renewed thirty-six times, and the owner paid fifty francs in interest. Tickets are still renewed every year for a pair of cotton curtains pledged for four francs twenty-two years ago, and for an umbrella pawned in 1819.

Old Pledges.

There are a great many kinds of gay sport in the Lone Star state, and an occasional manure fatterer is few. The brought in the breeze, weathered branches of brown fall where the cattle are feeding, and high overhead sails one wide-winged, lonely hawk. On such a day and in such a grand scene of grass lands will assemble a merry band of riders. Men and women are there, but all young, for the tricks and tumbles of a rabbit run are not for the stiff joints of old age. The small, wiry broncho dance and fret to be away. They are veteran cattle ponies, each of them able to round the fastest beaver on the range, to turn around in a space of two feet square, and to dodge the maddest of mad bulls with consummate ease. A pack of thin, sleek-coated greyhounds hang about the horse's heels, sharp-pointed, slender of build, and with legs that can outstep their own shadows.

Off they go. It is simple enough to jump the rabbits. The work is only begun at that point. The whole prairie is alive with them, and they are fairly dying for a good run. There is no prairie in Beer Rabbit's mind when he hears the hounds in the grass. He flaps one long ear over his eye and sits up to meditate and look around him. Once he locates the pack, and finds that they are not to be drawn off on some other scent, he is off like a flash of light. Both velvet ears are laid along the low-stretched back, and with his forelegs straight out, and one hind leg doubled up for a spring, he is fairly sliding through the fodder. When one hind leg gets tired he will drop the other down for work and put the weary leg up under his belly to rest. If he is hard pressed he will use both, and then nothing on earth can touch him. How the dogs snap and snarl and the ponies snort and stamble, reined in to their haunches, and how those cowboys and cowgirls yell and scream when Beer Jack takes a short turn on his tracks and the impetus of his partners carries them far ahead before they can stop. Now, as they all turn and plunge away on the new trail, stirrups are forsaken, hats dropped, and spur and whip laid on. Above all rings out over the peaceful prairie that headish cowboy yell.

Beer Rabbit has now discovered that this is no fool's play, this chase, and he is settled down to work. His forepaws and snowy tail gleam like a white line along the grass. The old hounds are tiring. The young ones redouble their yelps, and they see even before the riders do that dim, black, circling line that hangs in the horizon. It is a barbed-wire fence (one of the latest innovations of the latter day), and once under it and in the tangle beyond, and Beer Rabbit will be safe. The youngest pup is long of head, and unnoticed by the pack, he sinks to one side and takes a short cut. As the old dogs gradually forge ahead and turn the long-eared refugee, this pup is steadily drawing nearer unseen beneath the high grass. One rider is down, thrown by his pony, which stumbles into a burrow, and the best dog in the pack catches his foot and turns a somersault in the air. Demoralization takes possession of the hunt, and the chase is well-nigh abandoned. All at once the shrill yelp of a baby hound rings out, there is a confused whirl of small dog and big rabbit against the sky, and the cry goes up: "Young Dan. Good boy, Dan." Sure enough, the youngster has headed off and captured the quarry. Then it's all to the saddle, dead jack slung on behind, and away once more. When half a dozen jacks have been run (and most of them will escape) horses, riders, and dogs are played out. But it's a glorious chase.

I tell you, concluded the old rancher laying down his horn-cob pipe, it makes my blood leap even when I get to telling of old times, a jumping jack rabbit runs in Texas.—Chicago Times.

A WOLF FOND OF GIRLS.

Curious Partiality Shown by a Chicago Park Animal. One of the wolves in Lincoln park used to be a pet. It was brought from Arizona when very young by a Lake View man who used to make hunting visits annually to the southwest, says the Chicago Times. Before entering public life it used to enjoy a large degree of freedom, and it seldom abused the confidence reposed by its owner. The Lake View man had a number of berry bushes and a pear tree. When fruit ripened it had been the habit of boys in the neighborhood to steal most of the fruit. But the young wolf stopped them the very first season after its arrival. No boy was seen in the neighborhood of the vines or pear tree.

But the wolf did have a liking for little girls—a liking more amiable than that of its relative who is embalmied in the tale of "Little Red Riding Hood." After one season of disappointment the boys learned of this partiality on the part of the wolf and then they used to get little girls to steal the fruit for them. The girls would walk boldly into the yard when the boys told them there was no one watching, and if the wolf approached one would stop and play with him and the rest would get the fruit. But no amount of attention would distract the wolf's attention so that a boy could come in. He would break away from the most enticing little girl and chase any boy over the fence in short order. And he would play around the little girls who were stealing the fruit, but he would never offer to harm them.

However, the girls didn't like to be used in that manner, and there came a day when the boys could not get them to steal the fruit. After repeated trials, and after watching the fruit grow so ripe that if not soon removed it would be ripe enough for the family, one of the boys hit on an excellent ruse. He went home and borrowed his sister's dress. Putting it on, he climbed over the fence and approached the lair of the wolf. As he prepared for a seductive gambol with the wolf, another boy, clad in another calico dress, climbed over the fence and approached the pear tree. But the wolf was not to be deceived. He made a rush for the one nearest him and

ROBBERS ARE ARRESTED.

Youthful Thugs Captured as They Came From the Woods Near Dollar Bay.

THESE WERE THREE YOUNG MEN IN THE PARTY.

They Will Be Held to the Circuit Court on the Charge of Highway Robbery.

[All communications intended for this department should be addressed to the Hon. J. Stevens Houghton, Mich. Telephone connection.]

CALUMET.

It transpires that there were three young men or rather big boys connected with the daring robbery on Saturday afternoon, Fred Hordian and Matt and Ed Blau, ranging from seventeen to twenty years of age. The girl, who is about seventeen years of age, was very badly frightened by her assailants and the blows which she received, though not seriously hurt. The three boys took to the woods as soon as they had secured the girl's money, a trifle over one hundred dollars, and the alarm was given perhaps ten minutes later. The boys were seen making for the woods and pursuers were soon after them, but the principal reliance was put on catching them as they came out of the forest. Telephone and other messages were sent to all settlements and villages, and to such good effect that the first culprit was apprehended at Dollar Bay at 5 o'clock Sunday morning. The others were soon caught and all are now in the city jail. They will undoubtedly be held for trial before the circuit court on a charge of highway robbery as all are above the age limit of juvenile delinquents. The evidence seems very strong against them, and while the verdict may be tempered with mercy owing to their youth, the offenders can hope for nothing less than several years in prison if their guilt is proven. Matt Blau, the father of the two boys, knew nothing of the affair till late Saturday evening. He and his wife are very much broken up by the disgrace which their sons have brought upon them. The elder of the two Blau boys has been in trouble before, and seems determined to gain a reputation as a hard man—an accomplishment which he is in a fair way to achieve rather sooner than he probably cares for.

Whether the Law & Order league proposes to fight another round in the battle with the saloon keepers and village authorities is one of those things no fellow can find out, but those nearest to the throne seem to think that the league has by no means given up business because of the repulse received at Lansing from the governor. It is known that the present crusade has been conducted under the advice of Justice E. B. Grant, who is remembered by all saloon men with a chill up and down the spinal column. It is really to be hoped that the case may be taken before the supreme court, that some sort of a decision may be secured and a ruling had by which liquor dealers can square their conduct. The liquor men maintain, and with strong show of reason, that the Sunday law is a dead letter and that no attempt is ever made to enforce its provisions except when some one hauls the whisky sellers over the coals. The provisions of the Sunday law are such that probably half the people in the state violate the law in some particular on the first day of every week. This is the principal defense of the liquor men, for there is no question that the law is violated every Sunday in the year.

HOUGHTON.

A number of the lower peninsula newspapers comment in friendly terms on the candidacy of the Hon. Jay Hubbell for the United States senatorship. Mr. Hubbell is a man who would do honor to the state in the halls of congress and the newspapers that are not blinded by prejudice or bought by bribe are free to say so.

Several hundred young people were on the ice Saturday afternoon and evening and the lake presented a very animated appearance. Variety was added to the scene by the owners of several bicycles, who mounted their silent steeds and cavorted around the ice in great fashion. The cyclists found that great speed could be made, but that any deviation from a straight line while at full speed resulted in a bad toss. The rain which fell Saturday night put a stop to skating, as the ice was covered with some two inches of water.

Another youngster broke through the ice Saturday night, this time near the Houghton side. He was pulled out by a sadder and very much wetter boy than when he first strapped on his skates. No one has as yet been drowned this winter though several have broken through but it will be an exception to the rule at least one is not sacrificed before the first of the year.

The Houghton ice rink will probably be rebuilt as soon as the weather gives promise of stability. The material is all piled up awaiting solid ice for rebuilding.

Bidders on the job of rebuilding the Portage Lake bridge should bear in mind that the approaches only are desired as the old draw is in first class shape and will not require replacing for many years. This will considerably reduce the cost of a new bridge.

LAKE LINDEN.

The Ladies of the Congregational church will give a bazaar this evening, at which a large stock of Christmas toys and novelties will be disposed of for the benefit of the church fund. All who have a quarter or two to spend are invited to call and look at the stock, as prices will be by no means unreasonable, and a considerable variety of suitable goods and notions will be offered for inspection.

The Lake Linden people who propose emigrating to some British American terrestrial paradise would do well to investigate thoroughly before leaving their homes here for a new and untried region. THE MIXING JOURNAL does not mean to state that the district is not all that is represented or that the parties proposing emigrating cannot do well in their new location, but it is always well to look before leaping. There are in Lake Linden a number of people who moved away from the town and there are others who moved away and heartily wish they were here once more. The intending settlers would do well to pay the expenses of a committee of three to visit the new country and examine it carefully. A few dollars from each prospective settler would pay all expenses, and if a committee of the right caliber were selected to make the inspection the danger of taking a bad step would be reduced to the minimum.

RICIN, BUT STOLE A SAUSAGE.

A Queer Case of Kleptomania Recently Brought to Light in Paris.

We all have heard in our lives of kleptomania, but I do not think that anyone ever really believed in it, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. We know vaguely that a man who steals whole railroads and dies a millionaire is a great financier, and we also know that a man who steals a loaf of bread to save his family from starvation is a thief and goes to jail, but it is hard to realize that there are people who steal trifles simply from a species of insanity. Yet a shining example of this has just come to light in Paris. The lady, whose name for obvious reasons it is not well to mention, is a well known figure in Paris society.

She is extremely handsome and dresses superbly, but is never seen in public alone. Some member of her family always accompanies her and never leaves her side for an instant, although a married woman over thirty years of age does not usually require such minute chaperonage. She is a very charming woman, and a very brilliant conversationalist, and is most deservedly popular here. The horror of her friends may be guessed when she was arrested recently on the Faubourg Montmartre for stealing a sausage valued at eight cents from the front of a grocery. The grocer had her promptly arrested, and on searching her they found some potatoes, some eggs, an opera glass, a photograph of Carnot, a coffee cup and saucer and a spoon, and also, unhappily, her card case, giving her full name and address, the only thing that was legally her property, as the other articles were claimed by their rightful owners, from whom she had annexed them. The family were sent for, and by paying for the stolen objects were able to release their poor relative, who sat weeping bitterly. It seems that this irresistible impulse to appropriate other people's goods is periodic.

ALL DISEASES of the blood are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by its vitalizing, enriching, and alterative effects makes only PURE BLOOD.

THE MOQUI INDIANS.

Civilized Methods of the Whites Objected to by Blanket Indians.

Capt. Constant Williams, of the Seventh infantry, forwarded to the headquarters of the department of Colorado the particulars of the trouble with the Moqui Indians. The Moqui Indians are few in number, and dwell in the mountains of Arizona, about one hundred and fifty miles from Fort Wingate, the nearest military post. They are a peaceful and industrious tribe, but ignorant of all matters outside of their own little villages. It is even said they believe they are the only people in the world with the exception of four companies of United States cavalry that appeared on the occasion of their last outbreak. Gov. Solomai obtained some progressive ideas from a visit to Washington with two other Moquis about ten years ago. On his return he described the immense numbers of people, the railroads and gigantic buildings he had seen. The Indians, thinking he was crazy, placed him in confinement for some time. Solomai has never abandoned his desire for reform, and has quietly gathered about him followers that comprise about one-third of the Moquis. Capt. Williams, to ascertain the cause of the disturbance, visited the villages, and found that it arose from a second attempt of Solomai to adopt the customs of the palefaces. A meeting of the two factions was held in the square of the village, and the chiefs of the contending factions stated their case. Gov. Solomai said he wanted his children to go to school and be brought up as white children are. When he and the others had done this the hostiles had raised objections, had seized some of their cornfields, and threatened to seize others. They had even gone so far as to threaten to expel them from the town. So Solomai had asked for the cavalry to be sent. The hostiles numbered about two-thirds of the tribe, and they were led by one Lomahungyoma. They were opposed to progress of any kind, and wanted to follow in the steps of their forefathers.

After Solomai had finished his speech their chief rose to reply. He substantially admitted the truth of Solomai's statement, saying that he and his followers did not want to be civilized or have their children go to school, or to wear white men's clothing or to eat white men's food. They had seized the fields at Monocope because they had belonged to them in former years and had been unlawfully taken away. In the spring he intended to take away more of the fields of the followers of Solomai. He also added that the difficulty could be settled in no other way than by the coming of United States troops. Therefore, Capt. Williams said that he had deemed it necessary to ask for two troops of the United States cavalry to be sent there. It is believed that the trouble will be over in a few days, but it will take some time for the news to arrive, as the Indians are a considerable distance from any town.

Army officers say that they are the most religious people in the world, and honorable and upright in all their dealings. They speak a language of their own, but each separate village has a dialect which they alone understand.

SAVED HIS BURNING SHIP.

An American Captain's Novel Plan for Saving Vessel and Cargo.

One of the most brilliant pieces of ocean-wrecking seamanship on record, whereby the vessel, far out in the Atlantic, with her cargo on fire, was saved and brought safely to port, was performed on board the American ship John Jay, commanded by Capt. Samuel Jackson, says Harper's Young People. When two weeks out the cargo was discovered to be on fire. The captain determined upon his course of action. He had the carpenter lowered over the rail and instructed him to bore several holes low down by the water line. The vessel was then put on the other tack so that she would be heeled over on the sides where the holes had been made. The water shot through these openings, and after the ship had been allowed to sink almost to the level of the deck she was put around on the other tack again, so that the holes came within two or three feet of the top of the water. Several of the sailors, with lines made fast under their arms, and holding long wooden pegs and hammers, slid down along the side, steadying themselves by ropes that had been passed under the vessel and hauled taut, so that they came alongside of the holes. The tapering pins were thrust into the openings and knocked tight, then the vessel was put before the wind to get an even keel, and the crew turned to and pumped her out.

Even in the present age of enlightenment and progress, there are always people who are not as fully informed as they desire to be. An American who had spent much of his time among the Indians of this country, found himself, during a visit to England, seated at table next a genial and talkative woman, who seemed thirsting to hear of all his thrilling experiences. "And now about wigwags," she said, anxiously, at one point of the narrative which he was endeavoring to entertain her; "are they so very venomous, or have I read exaggerated reports?" "I have never known," the traveler says, "what she thought she was talking about, or what in my confusion I said in reply."—Youth's Companion.

Bothersome Names.

In the course of an address recently Gen. Lee told a very funny anecdote of himself. He said that a New York telegraph operator spoke to a Washington operator over the wire, asking if Fitz Low was in the city. The operator at the national capital did not know whom the metropolitan was talking about, but after puzzling his brains said: "There's no one here named Fitz Low, but Fitz Lee is in town." The Gotham key manipulator promptly telegraphed back: "Blasphemous names! I never could keep their names straight."

ONE WEEK FOR DEBATE.

Carlisle Banking Bill Will Be Argued in the House During the Week.

REPORTED FAVORABLY TO THE HOUSE YESTERDAY

The Republican Members of the Banking and Currency Committee Make a Vigorous Protest.

OPPOSED BY MANY MEMBERS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The plan urging that Secretary Carlisle's currency bill be passed before the holidays has been abandoned because many Democratic members of the house are opposed to it.

Instead it has been arranged that the general debate should begin tomorrow and continue until the recess at the end of this week.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Fifteen of the sixteen pension bills favorably reported from the Friday night session of the house passed in four minutes.

Springer, chairman of the committee on banking and currency, presented a report of the majority on the Carlisle banking bill.

The report was ordered printed together with a minority report to be presented by Walker.

The majority report, after explaining the results of a possible crisis in which all national banks would fail and showing how there would be abundant resources for the redemption of circulating notes, says:

"Your committee is of the opinion that if the proposed bill should become law it will provide for a safe, sufficient and flexible currency.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The bill for a national university was taken up in the senate and Kyle, the author of the measure, spoke in its support.

The bill was then placed on the calendar and the senate resumed consideration of the Nicaragua canal bill.

Turpie offered an amendment to the bill providing for a survey and estimate of the expense of the construction of the canal on the route proposed by three competent engineers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The minority members of the banking and currency committee severely criticized the Carlisle bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The closing prices of copper mining stocks were as follows:

Great Library in Distress. An appeal for help has recently been made by the Bodleian library at Oxford, which is the largest university library in the world, and is surpassed by only five national libraries, the Bibliotheque nationale at Paris, the British museum, the Imperial library at St. Petersburg, and the royal libraries at Munich and Berlin.

It receives for all purposes forty-five thousand dollars a year, and needs money to support its staff; to prepare its catalogue, which is now years behind the times; to heat the portrait gallery; to repair the building, the finest public edifice of the time of James I., and to provide shelves for books in the Ashmolean museum, which has just been put at its disposal. The Bodleian contains over half a million volumes, the separate titles in the catalogue amounting to a million and a half; the new accessions of books and pamphlets are nearly sixty million a year; it has the second largest numismatic collection in the British empire. Books and coins are declared by the librarian to be in a state of chaos owing to the lack of funds; the library needs at least seventy-five thousand to be kept efficient, and he calls on the public for assistance, as Oxford, owing to the agricultural depression, is too poor to support its own library.

War on Insects. The insect foes of the farmers are to be experimentally studied in a new department of the Pasteur institute in Paris, with a view to better protection against them. Attention will be given to the collection and cultivation of all the paenogenic microbes of insects and animals destructive to crops, to the study of the conditions of development of these microbes, to the direction of field experiments and to the control of practical applications of the results. A committee of specialists will consider the best means of applying these results to the benefit of agriculture.

A Curious Custom. For many years scientists were puzzled at the curious mutilation of the skulls of ancient Peruvians. It was at last discovered that the owners of these were in their lifetime subject to conditions that were attributed to evil spirits. The skulls were regularly and not unscientifically trepanned in order to let out the devils that possessed the sufferer. Whether the victims survived the operation or went out with the evil spirits probably mattered little to the surgeons or their friends.—N. Y. Ledger.

HOW THEY TALK.

This is What an Agile Phonograph Might Get Inserted in Itself.

It would puzzle a stranger to judge of the conversational abilities of Chicago men by the chat which usually follows a meeting of friends on the street. This is one chat taken verbatim:

"Hello, old man!"

"Hello, Billy. How's tricks?"

"Of so so, can't kick. How's things coming with you?"

"Right along. Haven't seen you for a month. How are you taking it?"

"Easy. Anything new with you?"

"Not a thing; same old song. Well, so long."

"So long. Take care of yourself."

One of the men was a bank president, the other a wholesale dry-goods merchant.

A board of trade leader met a prominent insurance manager. Both are well-read men, of wide information and are accounted good after-dinner speakers. It was:

"Hello, old man!"

"Hello, Billy. How's tricks?"

"Nothing extra, about the same. How's the world using you?"

"Can't kick. How's your conduct?"

"Same as usual. Anything new up your way?"

"Not a thing; same old song. Going my way?"

"No; so long."

"Well, so long. Look out for yourself."

A Dearborn street lawyer met a La Salle street lawyer. They are high in legal circles, have a fine standing in court and are cultivated, refined gentlemen. It was:

"Hello, old man!"

"Why, hello! How are you?"

"First-class. How's your corporosity?"

"Haven't a word to say. Business good?"

"Some coming in; nothing to brag of. How's the world using you?"

"Can't complain. Don't see much of you. What's new with you?"

"Nothing; same thing as usual. How's it coming with you?"

"So so; getting a living. Well, so long, old man. I'll see you later."

"So long. Take care of yourself."

"Sure."—Chicago Record.

High tariff, low tariff or no tariff at all; which do you prefer? Dr. Price's Baking Powder works perfectly under all.

Cleanliness is a virtue, no doubt, but like other virtues it may be carried to a vicious excess. So it happened with an old fisherman in Nantucket, Devon, who made it one of his chief ends of his life to keep his boat immaculate. On one occasion a gentleman had hired him to take himself and a young lady out for an afternoon's fishing. The boat could not be brought near enough to the shore for them to step in; so the old sailor removed his shoes and stockings, and taking the young lady in his arms, was about to deposit her on board when he caught sight of some mud on her pretty pair of boots. Instantly he stooped and dipped both her feet up to the ankles in the sea, paddling them back and forward to remove the mud, in spite of the protests of the owner. His only remark as he finally put her on board was: "Bless yer, miss, salt water won't give yer the sniffles."—Youth's Companion.

PRIZES ON PATENTS. How to Get $100 and Perhaps Make a Fortune.

We secure patents and to induce people to keep track of their bright ideas we offer a prize of one hundred dollars to be paid on the first of every month to the person who submits to us the most meritorious invention during the preceding month. We will also advertise the invention free of charge in the National Recorder a weekly newspaper, published in Washington, D. C., which has an extensive circulation throughout the United States and is devoted to the interests of inventors.

Not so Hard as It Seems. The idea of being able to invent something strikes most people as being difficult; this delusion the Company wishes to dispel. It is the simple things and small inventions that make the greatest amount of money, and the complex ones are seldom profitable. Almost everybody, at some time or another, conceives an idea, which, if patented, would probably be worth to him a fortune. Unfortunately such ideas are usually dismissed without thought. The simple inventions like the car window which could be easily slid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, the sauce pan, the collar button, the nut lock, the bottle stopper, the snow shovel, are things that almost everyone sees some way of improving upon, and it is these kind of inventions that bring the greatest returns to the author.

The prize we offer will be paid at the end of each month, whether the application has been acted upon by the Patent office or not. Every competitor must apply for a patent on his invention through us, and whether he secures the prize or not, the inventor will have a valuable patent.

THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY. JOHN WEDDERBURN, Gen'l Manager, 618 F St. N. W., Washington, D. C. P. S. The responsibility of his company may be judged from the fact that its stock is held by about seven hundred of the leading newspapers of the United States.

MAY PROVE A BIG THING.

An Ishpeming Iron Find That Promises to Prove an Extensive Deposit of Valuable Ore.

GREAT PIECE OF GOOD LUCK FOR CLEVELAND-CLIFFS COMPANY.

He Was Anxious to Settle the Case. Death Comes to Frank Cahill—Emmett Guards Choose Officers.

MAY BE A LARGE DEPOSIT.

The Cleveland Iron Mining company has set several men at work exploring for ore near the Lake shaft mine where a vein of hematite ore was discovered last week by the men digging trenches for the pipe line to be used in carrying off the surface water. The ore is said to be of very fine quality. It was found within a few inches of surface. Several test pits are being sunk at different points along the line so that some idea of its extent may be obtained. The find is located between the Cleveland Lake shaft and Lake Angeline East End mines and is only a short distance from either. The company will test the deposit without delay as it is believed by those interested that the find will prove a valuable one.

A night crew has been set at work stripping the ledge at the east end of the Lake shaft mine. With a double force of about twenty-five men on each shift considerable dirt can be stripped daily and sent into the mine, where it is used in filling the abandoned rooms. It is quite possible that the force of strippers will be soon increased, as a larger quantity of dirt than is being now sent into the mine could be handled by the tram system.

Settled the Case.

Mr. Glick, who was arrested a few weeks ago for misrepresenting the business of the Celebrated Portrait company in the interest of his own, (he being agent for a Chicago picture firm), settled his case in Justice Donahoe's court yesterday. Glick appeared anxious to settle, as several witnesses had been found who would testify against him had it gone to trial. All the costs of court, etc., amounting to about $20, were paid by him.

Death of Frank Cahill

Frank Cahill, who arrived here from the west last week in the last stages of consumption, died at the home of his mother on West Superior street yesterday morning shortly after 3 o'clock. He was aged thirty-five years. A young wife, to whom he was married about two years ago, survives him. The date of the funeral has not yet been announced but it will be held either tomorrow morning or Thursday, as soon as the two brothers, William and John, can arrive here. The former is at Belle Plain, Iowa, and the latter at Cedar Rapids, Minn. John was here last week but returned to Cedar Rapids a few days ago.

Elected Officers.

At the last regular meeting of the Emmett Guards officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Captain, Michael McNamara; first lieutenant, Joseph Kennedy; first sergeant, Thomas Dordon; second sergeant, Jere E. Driscoll; quartermaster sergeant, Thomas Coughlin; recording secretary, Thomas Quinlan; financial secretary, Dennis Harrington; treasurer, Thomas Dordon.

The boys are making very thorough preparations for their New Year's ball. There will undoubtedly be a large attendance.

Can Supply Them

Tibor, the grocer, has had such a large trade in confectionery and nuts during the holiday seasons in years past that he has made a special preparation to supply all who want anything in that line this season. He has just received a ton of nuts and a very large supply of candy of various kinds. The latter he is offering at from ten to fifty cents per pound, according to quality. He is also disposing of his stock of nuts at a reduction on former prices, being enabled to do this on account of having bought so heavily. Mr. Tibor also has a nice line of Christmas tree ornaments.

The Ice Rink.

McDowell & Simmons, proprietors of the Cleveland avenue ice rink, now have their place ready for business and will keep it open every week day afternoon and evening as long as the weather permits. Afternoons there will be skating from 2 until 4 o'clock and the rink will be open evenings from 7:30 to 10:30. The ice will be in very fair condition tonight. The Star Corporation has been engaged to furnish music tomorrow evening.

A real cyclone of popularity is being enjoyed by Dr. Price's Baking Powder among good cooks.

Some Fine Goods.

Anderson & Co. are showing a fine assortment of novelties for the holidays. They have recently received a complete line of solid silverware, which they are offering at reasonable prices. In novelties their stock is very full, and intending purchasers who desire to procure something fine for their friends will do well to look it over. In pianos, organs and sewing machines they are also stocked for the holidays.

Santa Claus Letters.

The Santa Claus who so greatly interested the children at Atkins' store Saturday afternoon and evening is the recipient of several letters from the little ones. One of the letters handed in was signed "Tommy Jones" and had a request for a new sled. Several of the boys about town heard of this letter and they have since been having a heap of fun over it with Tommy Jones, the expressman.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN SOLDIERS.

Discoveries That Have Lately Been Made in the Tomb of Assut.

Mention was recently made in a foreign exchange of the discovery of the tomb of Assut (fifth dynasty) of wooden models of two companies of Egyptian soldiers. Each company consists of forty figures about thirteen inches high, fixed to a wooden board in squads of four. The figures are colored and have the loin cloth. They are equipped with spear and shield. The spears are as long as the men and the butts carried on a level with the knee. The bronze heads are about one-sixth the total length of the spear, and are shaped like those of the Baggara Arabs of to-day. The shields have a square base and come to a point, and are eight inches long. Across the narrow portion is a batten, through which the hand passes. The second squad are black-skinned, smaller men, and wear a scanty loin cloth. Their arms are bows and arrows, and the arrows tipped with flint, with edges chisel-shaped and the tips not sharp. The Egyptian contingent marches in regular order, "locked up" the negro soldiers struggle. The latter must have the bow and arrow must have required a loose formation.

You Can Not Always Tell.

"How deceitful appearances are, sometimes," says a well-known Maine physician, commenting on a little experience of his. "We see men with fine, large, well-painted buildings on their farms and are apt to think they are men with plenty of means who will pay cash down for what they get, but often we are mistaken in this notion, for in too many instances the big buildings represent an investment of borrowed money that is like a millstone round the farmer's neck. But what I was going to tell you was not of this nature—in fact, just the opposite. A year or so ago I was sent for to visit a patient some thirty miles away, and when I got there the premises were so run down and rickety that my son, who was with me, said, when we drove into his yard: 'Well, father, I guess we've got our trouble for our pains to-day. No fee this time, if I am any judge.' Everything around the place was so scant and shabby I would not have given much for my chances of pay. My visit over, I was about to put on my overcoat to depart, when the man said: 'Hold on, doctor, I haven't paid you yet. What's the bill?' I was surprised at his honest manner and named the amount, when he ran his hand into a pocket of his ragged trousers and pulled out a roll of bills that made my eyes stick out. He certainly held enough cash right there to buy one of the best farms in town."

A HARD-WORKING WOMAN

—sooner or later suffers from backache, nervous, worn-out feelings, or a sense of weight in the abdomen, dragging down sensations and dizziness. It will all come to an end with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for it's woman's special tonic and nerve; it restores her strength, regulates and promotes all the natural functions and makes a new woman of her. Uterine debility, irregularity and inflammation are most of the cause of the extreme nervousness and irritability of some women—the medicine to cure it is the "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce. All the aches, pains and weaknesses of womanhood vanish where it is faithfully employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is therefore just the medicine for young girls just entering womanhood and for women at the critical "change of life."

DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION

CURES THE WORST CASES.

MR. HOMER CLARK, of No. 208 West 3d Street, Sioux City, Ia., writes: "My wife was troubled with female weakness, and ulcers of the uterus. She had been doctoring with every doctor of any good reputation, and had not been able to get well. She was greatly prejudiced against patent medicines, but as a last resort we tried a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. We had seen some of your advertisements, and Mr. Cummings, a west-side drug store, advised us to try a bottle. We tried it, and the first bottle did her so much good that we bought another, and have continued until she has been cured."

ARE WOMEN ABUSED BY MEN?

A General Feminine Disposition to Grumble at Their Hard Fate.

Do you think women are really abused as much as they claim to be? asks the "Quiet Observer" in the Pittsburgh Gazette.

It seems to be a fact that a majority of them, married and single, believe they are abused by the men just because the latter happen to have control of business affairs, run politics, and do the courting.

The woman of marriageable age who is still living at home feels that men are not doing right by her. She naturally wants to marry, have a big wedding, and go on a tour of the eastern cities, or western, as the case may be.

But she has to go on waiting because no man asks her to join him in these festivities. For this reason she feels that she is an abused creature.

The old maid who has settled down to earn her own living just hates the men because they allow her to wear her finger-nails off scratching for bread.

The sight of a man walking comfortably along the street, or driving, or even lounging around some resort, causes her indignation to rise to the top notch. Why do they thus continue to abuse her?

The shop-girl wonders why the boys do not gather around and ask her to choose one of them to be her defender and supporter. She is quite certain that she should not be permitted to live by the sweat of her brow, and the whole of the blame is placed on the young men who are earning money enough for two and spending it for their own comfort.

Married women are the loudest complainers and their complaints are generally against their husbands. It is all right during the honeymoon, but when that is over and they turn to face the realities of life she feels that she is being abused. Her household duties are heavier than when she was at home; her husband is not as thickly interspersed with pleasures as when she was a girl.

As she thinks over this she becomes more deeply convinced that she is a much abused woman, that husbands are not half as nice as beaux, and is quite certain she never would have married had it not been for the men.

Yet, in spite of all this, the abused woman is a most inveterate match-maker, roves in gossip about prospective unions and reads the paper that publishes the longest list of marriage notices. No matter how unhappy her life, nor how much of it she blames on her own marriage, she finds her greatest delight in getting others to do the same thing she feels like doing herself for having done.

No doubt some women are abused, and sadly abused, but how about the men? Think of the life of the man who has been so unfortunate as to get a wife of this stripe. He may be no good and fully deserve his punishment, yet it often so happens that he does all in his power to stop these complaints.

Suppose we call it a stand-off or agree that both parties are greatly abused.

THOSE BACHELOR GIRLS.

How They Radiate Happiness and Have Fun.

The world has improved in one respect. There was a time when the woman who did not marry was supposed to be a subject for jest; when it was concluded that she remained unmarried because she could not do anything else.

Nowadays it is all changed, and the woman who does not marry has a recognized position socially, and we have all grown wise enough to know that any woman who wishes can marry, says the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Press. It is true she may not marry the man she most admires, but always she can marry some man; so that if she stays out her life alone is by her own choice.

Then, too, the beautiful friendships that may exist between women are recognized, and the possibility of a home being made without a man in it is a certainty. In flats, in dainty little houses, two or three bachelor women (they don't call themselves girls), whose lives are so arranged that one can be the homemaker while the other is out in the world, are happy and comfortable from day to day.

And better still, they are not only happy themselves, but they make less fortunate women glad by bringing them in to share some of their pleasures. They give agreeable little dinner parties, they entertain in quiet ways, and always these women whose names are not heard in connection with votes, nor whose pictures are seen in the papers, as among those who intend to remodel the city government.

The editor of a well-known literary paper is one of those women, and she makes for all nephews and nieces a lovely resting-place, managing to give it all the attention required in a few hours before and after business. Another, a very abode of beauty, is the home of two women friends, one a well-known actress, the other the only woman dealer in plays in this country. And there are innumerable little homes where women are bound by ties of blood.

Queer Little Island.

A queer little island is Navassa. A ship load of negroes was landed in New Jersey the other day from the Paterson, hailing from this rock of four miles area, down in the Caribbean, off Hayti. Hayti claims it and the United States controls it. Hayti never pushed her claim. It is totally bare—all provisions are sent there, and several hundred negroes are kept at work, being shipped like the hands of a vessel. In fact, the laws of a ship are in force there, officers and all. The product, and the only one, is sold by the Navassa Phosphate company. There is no wharf or harbor, and the work is very laborious. There are frequent complaints of hard treatment from the returning crew, which is usually shipped for six months' service. The headquarters of the company are in Baltimore.

CHINA'S MIRACLE DRUG.

A Root Used in the Army Worth Its Weight in Gold.

Ginseng and Its High Place Among the Medicines of the Mongolians—Its Strong Resemblance to the Mandrake of Scripture.

Ginseng is very little used by the medical men of this country in prescribing for patients, but in China for centuries it has been considered as possessing marvellous healing and invigorating properties. In the Chinese army it takes the place of quinine in bracing up the soldiers.

It belongs to the genus panax, or all-curing plants, but the American species, which grows wild in the woods of certain of our states, and is collected annually at this season, is of the order avela quique folium. It is both a perennial and an annual, and sends up a smooth, round stem about twelve inches high. The fruit is a kidney-shaped scarlet berry, and is divided at the summit into three leaf stalks, each of which supports a compressed leaf consisting of five or more petals. The leaves are oblong, obovate, acuminate ovates, and the flowers that come from the plant are small, of a greenish color, and are supported by a peduncle which rises from the top of the stem in the center of the petioles. The fruit has two, and sometimes three, seeds. The plant is indigenous and grows in the shelter of thick and shady woods. In appearance it somewhat resembles sarsaparilla. The taste of the root is mucilaginous, sweetish, bitter, and has a slight flavor of licorice. It is aromatic.

Dr. James Leckhart, a medical missionary in China, and an authority on Chinese medicines, mentions that the ginseng root collected in China is imperial property, and is sold to those who have the privilege of dealing in it at its weight in gold. At one time it commanded fabulous prices, the finest qualities, which are obtained from Manchuria and Corea, fetching as much as three hundred and four hundred dollars a Chinese ounce. The collection of it was prohibited at one period because of its scarcity.

While its value is something unprecedented, it must be remembered that the average root is only from two to four inches long and very light. Dr. Leckhart tells of a visit he made to a ginseng merchant in Peking who displayed to him the precious roots, which were contained in a small lead-lined box. Each root was kept in a silk wrapper in silken-covered boxes. Less expensive roots were kept in cotton wrappers, and a cheaper variety yet in paper wrappers. A big box held the small boxes, and was filled with parcels of quicklime to keep the atmosphere dry. The merchant would not let his visitor handle or breathe upon the costly drug, but he expatiated upon its merits and the wonderful cures it had effected.

One of the holiday customs of the wealthier class of Chinamen is to make presents of the "cure-all" root to their friends. With it they send a dainty double kettle in which the medicine is prepared for use. A silver kettle is suspended inside the outer, which is copper-lined, by a ring, and between the two vessels there is a small space for holding water. In the silver one is placed the ginseng with water on it, and in this is put rice with a little water. When the rice is cooked the ginseng is ready.

A dose is from sixty to ninety grains. The tea of the root is also drunk at the same time the patient swallows the drug.

The name of the root in the Chinese language is schinseng, signifying the trunk of a human body, and Grosier, the scientist, says that this is because the root, which is divided into two branches from the main trunk, bears resemblance to a man's thigh. It is likened to the mandrake of Scripture, and its marvellous curative qualities, according to observers in China, are largely dependent on the faith of the followers of Confucius.

Sometimes in preserving the root it is kept for three days in fresh water, or water in which rice has been boiled, and it is then suspended for three days over a fire and afterward dried, until from the base to the middle it assumes a hard, resinous and translucent appearance, which is deemed proof of its good quality. The older the root the more superior the Chinese think it to be.

A FAHYAH MAGICIAN.

He Walks Straight Up the Air for Some Hundreds of Feet.

A theatrical manager and actor, who has traveled all over Asia, Africa and Europe, tells the following wonderful story of a Fahyah magician, who walked straight up through the air to a height of several hundred feet.

"The Fahyahs are the greatest necromancers, hypnotists and magicians of the world, and are supposed to be descendants of the old mijas of Biblical lore.

"One of their principal feats is that of walking upward through the air to a considerable height. The Fahyah who performs this startling feat first lies flat on the earth, face downward, for a minute or a minute and a half. He then rises quickly, and, placing his arms tightly against his sides, deliberately walks right up into the air as high as his powers of endurance will permit. When his strength is exhausted by treading thin ether, he simply stops (usually at a height of two hundred and fifty to four hundred feet), waves his arms wildly a time or two and then begins to descend. One who sees this startling feat performed will agree with me that it is a difficult matter to believe one's eyes, and shake off the idea that a miracle has not been enacted.

"One who is not satisfied with the 'air-walking feat' may hold a coin in his hand while Fahyah mutters over it and then open his fingers and find the coin gone and a slimy serpent in its place."

ROBBED HIS FISH LINE.

A Wolf That Successfully Played Thief for a Week.

Down at Pretty Lake, Ind., old Charley Cook used to be a great fisherman. People all over the country used to know he could catch fish whether there were any or not. He had a place along the bank of the lake which he looked upon as his own, and which was seldom trespassed upon by neighbors. And there he had built a staking out into the lake and set his lines from the end of it. Every morning he used to come down and take the fish that had been caught in the night.

One time, says the Chicago Herald, he came down there and found the line in the water, but the hook was, as he afterward expressed it, "as naked as a bird's foot." That night he baited the hook again and set it, and in the morning he found it empty again. That sort of thing went on for a week. There were no tracks in the soft sand and he did not know whom to suspect. He took a fish-line and stretched it about the entrance to his staking and attached the end of it to a string of sleigh bells, so that the trespasser, whoever he might be, would ring an announcement of his felony.

But the fish were gone from the hook in the morning, and the line about the entrance of the staking was just as he had left it. Mr. Cook was in a good deal of trouble. But he was a persistent man, and so he fixed up a shelter and laid out there one night and watched with his shotgun in his hand. About midnight he heard a noise at the farther end of the staking, a splashing in the water and a low growl. He could not understand it, because he had been watching closely and no man had passed. But he came closer and saw a small animal out there above the deep water, and it was struggling with a fish. Mr. Cook put his gun to his shoulder and fired, and a small gray wolf leaped into the water and swam to the shore, where he took another shot and finished it.

That wolf had been robbing his fish line every night for a week.

A Big Improvement.

"How do you like my new play, Critics?"

"Pretty well; only I would suggest two alterations."

"And what are they?"

"Have the performance begin two hours later and end an hour sooner."

Doll's drill - Misses Ross, Van Evera, Palmer, Eldredge, McArthur, De Haas, Watson, Hager, Bigelow, Beyers, Peters, Meads, Bowown, French, David, Clifton. Song of the Volunteers. Ely grammar grades. Christmas Balls. Second grades. Swiss Mountaineer. Loomis. Ely fourth and fifth grades. Gloria. Mozart. High school. Farmer Boy. Whistling chorus. Wilson Masters Rose, Johns, Wheeler, Hayden, Williams, Royce, Powell, Ross, Reynolds, Hibbard, Connell, Jacobs, Hodgkins, Osgood, Molitor, Meads, Holmes, Long. Arithmetic. Gounod. Ridge street grammar grades. Test exercise in sight singing. America. Full chorus. Chorus accompanied by Hughes' orchestra.

The proceeds of the concert are to pay for a piano for the Ely school and to purchase music charts for the grades. Tickets to the performance Thursday evening will be fifty cents each with no reduction for children. Tickets for the matinee Friday afternoon will be twenty-five cents for adults and fifteen cents for children. No seats will be reserved for either performance. The doors will be open at 7:30 o'clock and the concert will begin promptly at 8:15. This concert will undoubtedly surpass anything of the sort ever given in Marquette - in fact nothing of the sort has ever been attempted before - and should pack the house to the roof. The grand chorus of 450 by no means represents the full musical strength of the schools but is simply all the singers that it is in any way possible to get on the stage.

Charity Card Party. By the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Volk, who placed the house and servants at their disposal, Mrs. Northrop and some other ladies were enabled to give a very pleasant card party at the New Clifton last evening. Some fourteen tables were filled and after cards there was dancing in the dining room, Hughes' orchestra donating its services. The proceeds of the entertainment were for a worthy charity.

More Storm Signals. In addition to the information and storm signals at present in use by the weather bureau, the adoption of an additional wind signal, to be known as the "Hurricane Signal" is announced to take effect Jan. 1, 1895. This signal will consist of two red flags with black centers, displayed one above the other, and will be used to announce the expected approach of tropical hurricanes, and also of those extremely severe and dangerous storms which occasionally move across the great lakes and the northern Atlantic coast. The flags will be the same as the one now used for the distinctive storm signal, the pennants being omitted. No distinctive night hurricane signal will be displayed, but when this signal is ordered during the day and is not lowered or changed before dark, the night storm signal will be displayed, the direction to be determined by the information contained in the message accompanying the order to hoist. Whenever orders to hoist this signal are received at any weather bureau station, every effort will be made by the officials and employees of the service to give the warnings the widest possible distribution, and all vessels will be notified that it is dangerous to leave port. The officers of the customs service, the life-saving service, the revenue-cutter service, and the light-house service will be directed by the secretary of the treasury to assist the weather bureau in this matter by displaying the hurricane signal and by disseminating, so far as practicable, any information regarding storms and hurricanes that may be furnished them.

To a Generous Public. There is great destitution and suffering among the poor of Marquette, and the ladies of the Benevolent society most earnestly desire help in the way of wearing apparel for women, children and infants. Anything that is clean can be used - dresses, wraps, underwear - stockings that can be cut over for the little ones - shoes and rubbers - parts of garments that can be utilized for mending worn clothing - almost everything we can find use for. Our shelves are empty and helpless childhood and nursing mothers lack both food and clothing. We sincerely hope that this week may replenish our stores. The rooms in the Bertha block will be open at 9 o'clock Saturday morning for any donations.

Mrs. L. C. PALMER, President Benevolent Society, Mrs. H. C. CALL, Chairman Relief Committee.

Visit of Major and Mrs. Stillwell. There will be a holiness meeting conducted by Major Stillwell of the Salvation Army at the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock; also in the evening there will be a meeting at the same place conducted by Mrs. Stillwell. Thursday evening Major and Mrs. Stillwell will conduct the meeting in the Salvation Army barracks. There will be commissioning of local officers on that night. A collection will be taken at the door Thursday night. Christian friends are especially invited to the holiness meeting.

THE DISCOVERY SAVED HIS LIFE. Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store, sent for a bottle and began its use and from the dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We don't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Farnham's Drug Store.

FURS ON EXHIBITION. The ladies of this city are cordially invited to call at my house and inspect a very nice line of furs. I can furnish quotations on any article of fur, not on hand. Repairing a specialty. MRS. M. J. GILL, (12-8-94) 616 North Front street.

A FINE GIFT. While looking about for a suitable Christmas present don't forget that the Singer sewing machine is a present most any lady would prize very highly. The Singer took the first prize at the World's Fair and stands at the head of sewing machines today. It is sold on easy terms. Five dollars down and three dollars a month. Surely this is within the reach of most any man. Marquette agency, 302 Washington street, S. E. McKinney, Manager. (12-4-94)

The best anodyne and expectorant for the cure of colds, influenza, and all throat, lung, and bronchial troubles, is, undoubtedly, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the only specific for pulmonary complaints which received the highest awards at the Chicago World's Fair. (11-10-94)

CHRISTMAS IS NEAR. Remember and see what Bigelow has before buying Christmas presents. His idea of selling cheap is just the thing these times. (11-13-94)

Patronize home industry and enterprise and buy your storm sash from The Rice Manufacturing Company, Marquette, and thus save five times their cost in fuel. Saying nothing about the comfort they afford and the sickness they save from the cold and chilly winds during our long winter months. J. B. Lewis Co., Boston are now making extensive alterations in their factory at Avon, Mass., so that they can take care of their largely increased business. Last season they were obliged to decline some orders in justice to their customers. This speaks very loudly the praises of this concern, and while other manufacturers were closed, they were running overtime. The Boot and Shoe Reporting Co.'s statistics show this firm to be doing the largest volume of business of any manufacturer selling to the retail trade from Boston, which is the heart of the boot and shoe industry of the country. This means, in these days of competition - that up to date styles count more treatment, and prices lower than others care to offer, makes success.
