MARQUETTE, MICH., AUGUST 5.

Entered as mailmatter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

Bids of 11 1/2 cents for Lake copper for August, September and October delivery were refused on the New York market Friday last, the producers holding for twelve and declining to consider any lower figure. The demand for the metal for use in electrical work is growing steadily in this country and the prospect is that even with an increased production here the quantity available for export will not be sufficient to meet requirements abroad.

This, from the Cleveland Iron Trade Review, will enable the reader to perceive how the strike on this range is likely to affect the ore market toward the close of the season:

Every week emphasizes the strength of the ore market, and there would be little difficulty in disposing of large blocks of standard Bessemer ores over and above the allotment were there any desire to enlarge on the original estimates. It is entirely unlikely, even did the disposition exist, that the output of standard Bessemer could be appreciably increased above the amounts already sold. The Marquette strike, which may last for some weeks yet, has cut down the Bessemer output already, three-fourths of the production involved being Bessemer, and it is not probable that sufficient additional forces could be had, in view of the removals of miners from Michigan in the past year, to make up for the time lost, even though resumption came soon.

THE STRIKE.

There is no change in the strike situation in this county, so far as outsiders are able to discover—and all come in that category save the men and the mine managers, for both of these are keeping their own counsel closely and neither are sharing confidences with persons not directly identified with their respective sides of the contention between them. Apparently, the men are just as determined to hold out for the full schedule of wages demanded as they were at the start, while the mine managers and the companies which they represent seem just as determined to stick to their decision to not grant the full demands of the men. The mines have remained idle since the walk-out and the managers seem to be making their dispositions with reference to letting them continue so for an indefinite period.

Meanwhile the ill effect of the strike on general business in the county is beginning to be seriously felt. Work on the railroads which haul the ore is confined for the present mainly to the running of ordinary passenger and freight trains. The great ore docks here and at Escanaba present a deserted appearance quite unusual at this season of the year, and the mining and shipping towns are full of idle men.

It is a sad condition of things, indeed, and is made more so by the knowledge everybody has of the serious results to follow next winter should the strike last much longer, for the want of every dollar lost through the idleness of the mines now will then be bitterly felt by all dependent on them, directly or indirectly, for a living.

On the other ranges the effect of the strike in this county has been distinctly beneficial. Increased shipments from Ashland, Duluth and Two Harbors are reported since shipments from the Marquette range were brought to a sudden stop, the vessels diverted from the ports of Marquette and Escanaba going to these ports for ore pending a settlement of the trouble here. Great activity on the Gogebic, Mesaba and Vermilion ranges is reported. Even where the men employed in the mines of these ranges are not satisfied with their pay they refrain from striking in the belief that they will get the benefit of any concessions made the Marquette miners, should any be granted, without loss to themselves through a strike. It may be selfish on their part, for it throws the whole burden of the battle on the Marquette strikers, but it is fortunate for the mines and business people of the other ranges that the men have remained at work, as it gives them a large benefit out of the strike here.

The most sensational development of the strike in this county to date was the action of some of the strikers at Ishpeming last Friday night in compelling the staff correspondent of the Detroit News to leave that city. An account of the affair was given in Saturday morning's MINING JOURNAL. The general sentiment among those not in the strike is that the men did not act wisely in interfering with Mr. Britton, whose accounts of the trouble seem to have been quite fair on the whole, though he has colored them somewhat with renderings of the dialects and portrayals of the peculiarities of classes of the men which these may not have related much. It was this that provoked them against him, probably. But whatever the cause, he was hustled out of Ishpeming with scant ceremony. The occurrence will give a bad impression of the strikers abroad, and is to be regretted on that account, for the men have conducted themselves in the main with remarkable regard for law and order. The strikers are managing their business in their own way, however, and do not want advice from anybody outside of their own ranks. They fully believe that they will win if they but stick together and pursue a certain line of policy, and the only thing left for outsiders to do is to await developments, allowing the men to conduct their end of the strike as they will so long as they refrain from trespassing too far on personal or property rights. It is their strike, and those who are willing to foot the music bill cannot well be denied the privilege of dancing in their own fashion.

TO BE IN GOOD SOCIETY.

Culture and Refinement to Have Precedence Over Birth and Rank.

High moral character and education, whether it be of book lore or that of observation and good example, polish of manner and good habits are the requisites of good society. One whose ideas of social equality were rather democratic than exclusive, says the Philadelphia Press, was heard to remark: "One man is born just as good as another, and a great deal better than some." Unless the son of a gentleman be a gentleman he is no more entitled to the name suggesting refinement than a man is entitled to the name of general whose father before him was a general. One must win his own laurels or go uncrowned.

Birth to a marked degree is an accident, and those who are considered to be well born are oftentimes the most objectionable elements of society and the most dangerous associates. One need but watch closely the daily record of those on both sides of the Atlantic, whose birth gives them prestige in society, to prove that education and cultivation of high morals go further toward making refined society than all the good or blue blood that ever flowed through the veins of royalty and the nobility. Of course, it would be the height of absurdity to argue that all men are born equal, and would be as illogical to argue against the superiority of blooded animals of the race course over the ordinary draft horse. However, the nobility of culture and refinement should have precedence over the nobility of birth and rank.

AN ATTRACTIVE HAT.

A Forgetful Preacher Did Not Remove the Wrapping Paper.

A distinguished preacher of somewhat arbitrary manners was engaged to preach in Bellevue, and purchased a new hat for the occasion, says Pearson's Weekly. He was met outside his residence by a young man who was to guide him to the church. His guide, after what the parson thought a rude stare and smile, said: "I beg your pardon, sir, but your hat—"

"Oh, yes! never mind the hat, but mind your own business," the parson interrupted curtly; and the young man was silenced. The people they met stared and smiled too. "Strange how many people notice when one has got a new hat," thought the parson. The church was reached and the worshippers approaching naturally turned to observe the noted preacher.

Two Eloquent Hunters.

Maj. Champion, in his book "On the Frontier," describes a deer hunt, in the course of which he found his dog astride the dead body of the deer, while an Indian stood a little way off, bow and arrow in hand. By signs he made the white man understand that he had wounded the deer and the dog pulled it down. Then he cut up the deer, tied the forehalf of it up in the skin and placed it on one side. The other half he laid at Maj. Champion's feet, delivering himself of a speech in the Ute language. The white man understood his meaning, but not a word of his address. The Indian and the dog had killed the deer together, and the dog's owner was entitled to half the game. The major was equal to the emergency. He rose and delivered in full the classical declamation: "My name is Norval," with appropriate gestures, just as he had many times given it at school. Nothing could have been better. The Indian and the white man shook hands with effusion, and each with his share of the venison rode away.

SATURN'S RINGS. Innumerable Satellites of Minute Proportions.

Interesting Discoveries Made by Astronomers During the Last Quarter of a Century—Methods of Study.

The announcement made by Prof. Keeler, of the Mount Allegheny observatory, regarding the rings of Saturn, has awakened general interest in that subject among astronomers. While Prof. Keeler's statement may possibly require additional facts in order to secure its acceptance, says the Boston Advertiser, there is certainly no doubt that the assertion itself has awakened a widespread and renewed interest in the rings of Saturn, as it is announced that Prof. Keeler has secured practical proof that the so-called rings of Saturn are composed of innumerable satellites of minute proportions, or what astronomers call "cosmic dust."

The rings of Saturn have for many years been the subject of much speculation and discussion. It is remarkable that Saturn, among all the planets of the solar system, should be the only one to be inclosed with rings. Certainly the smaller planets have nothing which may be satisfactorily compared to the rings of Saturn, and Jupiter, which is about three times as large as Saturn, has nothing which corresponds to these rings, which lie in the same general plane, although they have varying degrees of density. From the inner edge of the ring to the planet the distance is less than six thousand miles, while the total width of the ring is about three times as great.

These rings of Saturn have been known to astronomers for nearly two centuries and a half, and they have during that time been a source of much wonder and speculation. During the past twenty-five years especially, however, the rings have been studied with much closeness and perseverance. From all over the world searching telescopes have been pointed at this mysterious phenomenon night after night. In 1835 M. Tevelot began his series of observations at Cambridge. About six years later he announced that the matter composing the ring nearest to Saturn "is agglomerated here and there in small masses, which almost wholly prevent the light of the planet from reaching the eye of the observer."

Two years later Prof. Croftall, of Washington, gave additional testimony in this direction, describing the dusky part of the ring as "somehow like particles of dust floating in a ring of light traversing a dark chamber." In 1881 a Swiss astronomer, Dr. Meyer, began a series of observations which partially demonstrated the fact that the ring was composed of separate particles, moving round the planet as satellites, perhaps to some extent like the meteors which circle round the sun. What Prof. Keeler has done has been to furnish proof that the conclusions reached by the early astronomers were correct, and to give also the speed with which the minute satellites circle round the planet.

This was accomplished not by any absolute observations of the particular atoms within the circle, as some newspaper reports would seem to imply, as such a proceeding is practically impossible under the limitations of science to-day. The method pursued, while perhaps less romantic, was, however, almost equally satisfactory. Observations were made with a spectroscopic, and by comparing the rays of the spectrum furnished by the eastern edge and the western edge of any body of satellites, it was possible to calculate the speed with which the circle itself was moving around Saturn.

This method has already been used in connection with observations regarding the speed of the revolution of the sun; and Prof. Keeler's observations have shown that the speed of any of the satellites of the inner ring may be taken as between thirteen thousand and seventeen thousand meters per second. There is one peculiar feature of Prof. Keeler's discovery which has not yet been emphasized. Astronomers generally have supposed that the great discoveries regarding the rings of Saturn would be made in certain periods which were supposed to be especially favorable for observations of that planet. Such a period occurred in 1884-85, when the rings were in such a position as to invite special observations. After that period had passed, it was supposed that no more important discoveries would be made again until 1914, when especially favorable conditions will return.

Yet, curiously enough, although the great refractor of the Washington observatory was used repeatedly during the period of 1884-85, no striking discovery was made at that time; while it was five years later (in 1889) that an observation of an eclipse of one of Saturn's satellites showed that the ring caused a shadow almost, if not quite, as dark as that planet itself, thus proving that the satellites which compose the ring are thick enough to prevent effectually the transmission of light. And it is in 1895, nineteen years before the next "favorable period," and ten years after the last one, that Prof. Keeler's ingenious and important test has been secured.

Literary Men Who Were Shy.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe tells two new anecdotes of the shyness of literary men—one of Hawthorne, of whom such anecdotes are common, the other of Irving. Irving, she says, attempted to make a speech at a dinner given to Charles Dickens, but after mumbling a few words indistinctly he remarked: "I can't go on," and sat down. Of Hawthorne's timidity she had a glimpse while calling with her husband on Mrs. Hawthorne in Concord. While they were in the parlor they saw a tall, slim man come down the stairs, and Mrs. Hawthorne called out: "Husband, husband, Dr. Howe and Mrs. Howe are here!" Hawthorne bolted across the hall and out through the door without even looking into the parlor.

ON WHAT SIDE OF PORTAGE LAKE WILL CIRCUS SHOW?

That Is Question Agitating Houghton and Hancock at Present—Hint for the Law and Order League.

[All communications intended for this department should be addressed to Horace J. Stevens, Houghton, Mich. Telephone connection.]

HANCOCK.

It is generally thought that the action of the Franklin Mining company, in raising the wages of its employes 10 per cent, the raise taking effect Aug. 1, will be followed by a similar step on the part of a number of the other mining companies of the county within a short time.

Despite the fears of the Calumet News the Ishpeming firemen's tournament. The running team for the horse races is composed of fourteen men as follows: Mead and Murphy, polemen; Saam, White, James, Jaehnic, Gillies, Rogers, Roberts and Donovan; Jas. Pearce, plugman, Wm. Rentenbach, assistant; Hastings and Stoppert, couplers; Scott, pipeman.

The versatile agent of the Ringling circus strives to please and as a result of his being all things to all men there is an internecine war at Portage lake. The show has signed contracts for grounds on both sides of the lake, has made contracts to appear in both Houghton and Hancock and assures the people of both towns that it is absolutely certain that the show will appear in the balliwick whence they hail.

The Continental Fire company asked the village fathers to help out to the extent of about a hundred dollars toward defraying the expense of the firemen in visiting the firemen's convention and tournament at Ishpeming this week and the village dads forked over the stipulated sum without a protest.

LIGHTNING'S DEADLY WORK.

Methodist Church at Quakertown, Pa., Wrecked by Bolt Yesterday Forenoon.

TWENTY WERE PROSTRATED AND SOME WILL DIE.

Lightning Penetrated Edifice from All Sides and Panic Followed Stroke. Survivors' Narrow Escape.

THE SERVICES WERE STOPPED. QUAKERTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4.—The Methodist church was struck by lightning shortly before noon today and over twenty persons were prostrated. Those seriously injured are:

JAMES HOFF, justice of the peace. MISSIE BLANCH. Mrs. KATH HOFFMAN. Mrs. JOHN WILSON. ASA BAUMAN, sexton. Mrs. BOWMAN, wife of Rev. F. L. Bowman, pastor of the church.

Nearly all of these were knocked senseless and it is feared death will result. A terrible panic followed the stroke. After the excitement subsided it was found that the 600-pound bell in the capalo was hanging almost by a thread while fully a hundred people were directly under it. The church edifice is almost a wreck, as the lightning penetrated it from all sides.

Omaha Police Commissioners Must Show Cause for Action.

OMAHA, Aug. 4.—Judge Hopewell arrived in Omaha yesterday morning and issued a new order against the A. P. A. commissioners, restraining them from exercising any function of their office. Soon after his arrival, attorneys for Mayor Bemis, C. H. Brown and D. Clem Deaver, members of the old fire and police commission, appeared before him in chambers and presented a petition for an injunction restraining Foster, Broatch and Vandervoort from exercising the duties, powers and rights of members of the board of fire and police commission, and citing them to appear in court at 2 o'clock and show cause why the temporary injunction should not be permanent. Judge Hopewell acceded to the petition and signed the restraining order asked for.

The plaintiffs allege that the appointment of Foster, Broatch and Vandervoort is illegal, null and void, having been made in direct violation of law and contrary to the constitution of the state in this: That Churchill as attorney general and Russell as commissioner of public lands and buildings assumed the powers and prerogatives of the executive of the state. The plaintiffs allege that Foster, Broatch and Vandervoort threaten to proceed under the Churchill-Russell appointment, claiming to be clothed with all of the rights and powers and functions vested in members of the fire and police commission; that under these pretended rights and powers and functions they are about to assume control of the fire and police forces of the city of Omaha, disregarding the laws of the state as they now exist.

The plaintiffs allege that Foster, Broatch and Vandervoort, together with members of the council, were aware that quo warranto proceedings were about to be brought to determine the title to the offices of police commissioners and that by stepping in and attempting to assume control of the fire and police forces of the city of Omaha the defendants sought to defeat the ends of justice.

After the injunction had been granted by Judge Hopewell and the petition filed in the office of the clerk of the district court copies of the proceedings were served upon each of the defendants.

Earlier attorneys for the members of the fire and police commission filed in the district court the petition on which the injunction was granted by Judge Hopewell Friday afternoon and which was violated by the city council. In this case the order of the court enjoins the city clerk from receiving or filing the bonds of the pretended members of the new fire and police commission. It also enjoins members of the council from approving the bonds for the pretended commissioners.

The petition on which the restraining order is issued recites that certain persons claiming to have been appointed members of the board of fire and police commission in and for the city of Omaha, under and by virtue of the laws of 1895, are about to file their bonds with the city council and their pretended oaths of office with the city clerk; that the pretended appointments of Foster, Broatch and Vandervoort were made by the attorney general and the commissioner of public lands and buildings at a meeting held without due notice having been served on the governor of the state; that the appointments of the pretended members of the fire and police commission are null and void.

EVERYTHING QUIET YESTERDAY. OMAHA, Aug. 4.—Things have been quiet in the city today. The fire and police board last night decided it was not necessary to maintain an army of policemen at the police stations to defend them from attacks of mobs. Accordingly seventy-five special policemen who had been on duty for the preceding thirty-six hours were ordered to go home, prepared to answer a call at any time. Thus far none of the police force who signed the pledge to support the new board have taken the preliminary step in resigning from the present force.

ENRAGED SPANIARD'S CRIME.

Girl Refused Him Dance and He Fired Into Crowd—Four Killed.

CHILLANGINGO, Mex., Aug. 4.—A terrible tragedy is reported from the village of Chiltepa, west of here. A ball was in progress at the home of Jose Ferretta, a prominent citizen of the place. Louis A. Martinez, a young Spaniard, became enraged at being refused a dance by a young lady and drew a pistol and began firing indiscriminately into the crowd of dancers. He fired a dozen or more shots and killed three men and one woman. He then left the place in the midst of the excitement and has not yet been captured.

FATAL SHOOTING IN KENTUCKY.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 4.—Hiram T. Warder was fatally shot by George Washburne, who is a tenant on Warder's farm. The two men have had numerous quarrels. It is said Warder chased Washburne for half a mile with a revolver. Warder accused Washburne's son of stealing a piece of rope, when the shooting followed. Warder was an ex-sheriff of Lewis county, and it is claimed that he captured the Underwood gang during the war.

AVENGED HIS SISTER.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—Thomas Westbrook shot and killed Bill Williamson on Broad street this morning. Williamson fell and Westbrook fired four other shots. All of the bullets took effect. Both men are carpenters and unmarried.

SLAUGHTERED THE SEALS.

What Crew of Warship Sent to Patrol Bering Sea Did.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—An extraordinary scandal has just come to light in connection with Russia and the Bering sea patrol. About the middle of last winter a firm of brokers in Hamburg received 5,000 beautiful sealskins with instructions to forward them to London in time for the big February sale, which occurs here every year. It was noticed that the packages did not bear the usual marks or other indications of their having been sent through the ordinary channels, and what will also strike people as peculiar was that one of the skins had a bullet hole in it. It is now reported on good authority that these skins were sent by the officers of the Russian warship which left Robin's island last September and it is presumed that the enterprise was the private speculation of those who were sent there to protect the seals. The Russians were encamped on the island for four or five months and, as is customary, no one was allowed to land on the island during their stay there. It is presumed that the crew employed their time in clubbing these seals. The skins were sold at Lamson's big sale here last February.

TO RESTORE THE MONARCHY

Filibusters' Neat Scheme to Turn Down Hawaiian Republic Spoiled by Reporter.

EVINCED DESIRE TO JOIN AND LEARNED ALL.

Capture of Steamer, Robbery of Government Funds and Landing of Force of Men Contemplated.

PLAN NIPPED IN THE BUD. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—The Chronicle prints a story exposing an alleged plot to restore Queen Liliuokalani and loot Honolulu. Randolph Speckels, the youngest son of Claus Speckels, is said to be backing the scheme. The Chronicle says: One of the best contested and most dangerous filibustering expeditions ever fitted out on American soil was uncovered in San Francisco yesterday. Its object is—or was—to take the Hawaiian republic by a force of arms and restore to the throne the ex-queen and divide the land, money and goods—worth approximately twenty-five millions—among the some two hundred free booters in western America.

The active agent of the conspirators is W. P. Morrow. He says he is a recent resident of Grass Valley, Cal. He is still in San Francisco under surveillance so that the federal authorities can get him if they desire to do so. He said the quarters of the filibusters expedition had been at 711 Bust street, a dingy flat fronted boarding house. There the agent of the conspirators had been receiving daily and nightly a motley crowd of men who responded to his cautiously worded advertisements published in this city and elsewhere. Morrow admitted when forced in a corner and told that the game was up, that he had been engaging men to go to Hawaii and overturn the republic. He had told before the reporter that the thing was to be done and had stated plainly who the men were behind the scenes.

The first intimation of the expedition was exposed in a carefully worded advertisement which appeared in a morning paper July 30. The Chronicle reporter answered the advertisement and succeeded in arranging an interview with Morrow. The expedition was discussed and the reporter intimated a desire to join it.

"The scheme is to restore the queen of the Sandwich islands to her throne," said Morrow. "We will enlist from two to four hundred men from here and take a sailing vessel from this point within ten days or two weeks. It will cost $16 a piece to buy the necessary outfit of clothes, ammunition, arms, etc. The proposition is to capture five steamers that ply between the islands and then approach Honolulu and capture the revenue office and the bank of Bishop & Co., there being from $300,000 to $500,000 in the revenue boxes and the bank. The proposition in regard to the queen is to place her on the throne as a mere figure head, the head of the revolutionary party to be in control of affairs."

Rudolph Speckels has placed 1,000 stands of arms on the island of Maui to be used by the revolutionists," continued Morrow. "The Speckels have little use for the provisional government. They would furnish arms to the natives only that the natives could not use them. In the party that is to leave from here are three or four men who are acquainted with every inch of the island. Among them is Volney V. Ashford. In regard to the make-up of the party there are about two hundred men. Nearly all of them are cowboys from New Mexico, Arizona and Texas and most of them are here now, scattered around the city."

TWO TRAINMEN KILLED.

Passenger and Freight Trains Collided With Fatal Results.

ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 4.—A very disastrous wreck occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio at Helper's switch, twelve miles east of the city, an east-bound passenger train colliding with a freight. A part of the freight had been placed on the switch and the engine had run back for the other cut of five cars when the passenger train rounded the curve. The engineer of the freight jumped and escaped unhurt. William Lohr, fireman on the passenger, was instantly killed and John May, the engineer, was fatally injured. None of the passengers were injured. The wreck caught fire and the baggage, smoker and one coach and a freight car were burned. The engines are complete wrecks.

QUEER FREIGHT FOR CHINA.

The skeletons of Dead Chinese Shipped in Boxes Marked "Fish Bones."

A curious freight which is shipped exclusively from San Francisco to China is "fish-bone," which pays twenty dollars a ton. It is sent in large boxes consigned to the Tung Wah hospital at Hong Kong, but the contents of the boxes are really the bodies of dead Chinamen sent home for burial. Most of the Chinamen who come to the United States, says the Chicago Record, are under the care of the Six Companies, who sign a contract guaranteeing to return the bones of the dead for burial with their ancestors in the celestial empire, and the Tung Wah hospital acts as the agent on this side in carrying out the agreement. They are shipped as "fish bones" in order to evade the rule of the steamship companies, who charge full first-class passenger rates for the dead.

Nearly every ship leaving San Francisco for China carries among the steerage passengers a number of invalids who hope to live until they reach their native country, but several usually die on every voyage. There is an agreement between the steamships and the Six Companies which forbids the burial of these bodies at sea, and the latter furnishes coffins of the peculiar Chinese pattern for use in such emergencies. They are made of slabs, the first cut of the log, so that the sides and bottom and top are rounded. A dozen or more are carried on each ship, and the surgeon is furnished with a supply of embalming fluid.

When a Chinaman dies at sea the surgeon embalms the body, which is then placed in a coffin, sealed up, and lowered into the hold. The expense is paid by voluntary contributions from the other Chinese passengers, the crew, and the stewards of the ship, all of whom belong to that race. No subscription paper is passed around, but a pan containing Chinese sugar is placed beside the coffin, and every Chinaman on board drops in his contribution, from a dime to a dollar, and takes a piece of sugar from the pan, which is supposed to bring him good luck and prolong his life. When the ship reaches Hong Kong the coffins are delivered to the Tung Wah hospital, which disposes of them to the surviving friends in China. Every Chinaman in the United States is supposed to be registered at the Tung Wah hospital and with the Six Companies at San Francisco.

The day was passed in the open air of the grove and in the evening dancing in the big warehouse to the music of the Marquette City band. The best of order was maintained throughout. Rhode Island Peculiarities. It is not necessary to go to the far south or west, says the Boston Budget, to find provincial customs or hear peculiar dialect. There are some very primitive people not further off than the Rhode Island border of Connecticut. In this thin line of little villages the grave-faced men and women still live as simply and take life as seriously as a Massachusetts Puritan. They solemnly make two strangers known to each other by "Mr. Smith, here's Mr. Brown to you." "Mr. Brown, here's Mr. Smith at you." They confess to an interrupted state of good health by saying they "Feel mauga the day;" to a contrary state of well being by: "I am feeling kidge the day." The Saunterer finds mauga good Shakespeare, but "kidge" is as yet beyond him.

THE IDEAL PANACEA. James L. Francis, Alderman, Chicago, says: "I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as an ideal Panacea for Coughs, Colds and Lung Complaints, having used it in my family for the last five years, to the exclusion of physician's prescriptions or other preparations." Rev. John Burgess, Keokuk, Ia., writes: "I have been a Minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years or more, and have never found anything so beneficial, or that gave me such speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial bottles free at E. Farnham's Drug Store.

LONDON'S ALDERMEN. Councilmen Who Are of Exceptional Mental Attainment. Sharp Contrast Between Municipal Government in America and England—Personnel of the English Board. The organization of the council is of a type quite familiar to English citizens through their city charters, but strange to Americans. Of its one hundred and thirty-seven members, one hundred and eighteen are councilors, elected by the parliamentary constituencies of London, two from each constituency and four from the ancient city. The nineteen remaining members, or about one-seventh of the whole body, are of the so-called aldermanic rank. These aldermen, writes G. L. Fox in the Yale Review, are chosen in two divisions triennially for a term of six years, by the council, elected itself only for three years, and in this matter acting as an electoral college. The electorate which chooses the council differs from that of the same area whose representatives sit in the house of commons. Peers or women who are householders or rate payers may vote for councilors, while a certain class of parliamentary voters are excluded from the council register, and plural voting, that is, voting in different electoral districts by the same elector—a system which prevails in the elections for the house of commons—is forbidden in council elections. The main basis of suffrage for the council is the payment of an annual rate, that is, local taxes, which are paid by occupiers or overseers of the poor, while those in service and lodgers, although they vote at parliamentary elections, are excluded from the council electorate. Practically all legally qualified electors are eligible to membership in the council except women.

The particular features of the council which impress an American as in sharp contrast with our own forms of municipal government are these: The aldermanic rank; the fact that all elected councilors are elected for three years and go out of office at one time; the absence of any qualification requiring residence in a constituency on the part of a councilor; and the concentration of all power in a single body, which, within the limited sphere of its functions, exercises both executive and legislative powers combined. The personnel of all the councils thus far has been notable and of high quality. The success of the first council in organizing the machinery and in starting the wheels of municipal government in London was largely due to the abilities and laborious devotion of Lord Rosebery. He was chairman of the first council during most of its existence. His successor was Sir John Lubbock, the eminent banker, writer and member of parliament. The next chairman, Sir John Hutton, presided over the council longer than his predecessors. He devoted all his time to the work of the council and was an admirable, businesslike chairman. The chairman of the new council, Arthur Arnold, is a brother of Sir Edwin Arnold, a former member of parliament and writer on economic topics, whose books on "Through Persia" and "Social Politics" are known a little in this country. He is not at present a member of the council, but was alderman in the first two councils. Frederic Harrison was an alderman for several years, and his brother, Charles Harrison, a prominent solicitor, is one of the most tireless workers of the council and was vice chairman of the last one. The council soon after its organization divided into two parties, namely, the progressives, who favor radical reform, and the moderates, who opposed most of the measures of the progressives. Naturally, most of the members are from the middle and upper classes of London, but the wage-earners and laborers are also represented. In the first council John Burns was about the only labor member, but in the second he had a dozen colleagues in the labor interest. In each council there has been an average of a half dozen peers, usually peers of the right sort, namely, those who have won their title and position in the house of lords by their own brains and energy and have not had the distinction thrust upon them by the accident of birth. The moderate victory in the last election has brought into the council chamber some peers of the latter sort, and it remains to be seen whether the earl of Dunraven and Lord Montmorries will give to London, needs as much able and devoted effort as Lord Farrar and Lord Welby have done.

About one-sixth of each council have been graduates of Oxford or Cambridge. In occupation a large majority of the members are active or retired bankers, lawyers, including both barristers and solicitors, merchants, manufacturers and doctors, with some young men of the Arnold Toynebe type, who, inheritors of wealth and leisure, find their pleasure in the service of the municipality. The membership of the council is not only for those who sit in the chamber at spring gardens, but for those who are conspicuous for their absence. That bane of municipal governments in America, the saloon keeper, who is known in England as the publican, is rarely found there as a municipal legislator. Of the whole number of one hundred and thirty-seven the liquor interest was ostensibly represented in the first council by one stray brewer, and in the second by only one whisky distiller and two ex-publicans. To the London moderates or conservatives belongs the discreditable distinction of having put forward seven candidates representing the liquor interest in the last election. Fortunately only three of these were elected, and it is to be hoped in the future that the London nominating committee and constituencies will take warning of the experience of American cities, and always look upon a representative of the liquor interest as a persona non grata in the council.

A few extracts from their contents tell the story: FROM IOWA. "I am in a very bad condition. My courses have stopped from catching cold, and the pain is fearful. I am all bloated up; and the pain in lower part of my body is terrible. My back and head ache all the time. What shall I do for it?" Miss L. Des Moines. FROM NEW JERSEY. Mrs. Lizzie DeCline, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, relates her misery resulting from womb trouble, from which she was relieved and cured by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. FROM OHIO. Mrs. Newton Cobb, of Manchester, O., writes: "I used eight bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I am happy to say it has cured me of painful menstruation and backache. My suffering every month was dreadful. The doctors gave me morphine to ease the pain, nothing to cure me. Oh, I want to tell every one what cured me! I wish every suffering woman would write and get your advice."

FROM ILLINOIS. Miss Jennie —, Chicago, states that she is twenty-two years of age; occupation, saleswoman in large dry goods store. Constant standing has brought on womb trouble, the symptoms of which she describes fully. She says: "Help me if you can. There are several girls I know who have written to Mrs. Pinkham, and been cured by her advice and medicine."

FROM PENNSYLVANIA. Miss Mary Smiley, who resides at 2078 E. Susquehanna Avenue, Kensington, Phila., writes: "I am a working girl, and must stand eleven hours every day. I have suffered terribly from painful menstruation and dizziness. At times my head was so dizzy I could hardly see. A friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I am a different girl now; no more aches and pains. Oh, thank you, thank you!"

NOW FOR THE TOURNAMENT

Ishpeming's Firemen on the Qui Vive Preparing for Great Gathering of U. P. Fire Fighters.

PROCEEDINGS HAD AT DEPARTMENT MEETING SATURDAY.

Ecklund Gets the Bounce at Ironwood. Strikers Keeping a Keen Watch for Objectionable Correspondents.

LARGE ATTENDANCE EXPECTED.

The Ishpeming fire department held a special meeting Saturday evening and completed arrangements for the big tournament to be held here this week, commencing Wednesday. Chief Pearce reported that the Ontonagon department would be the first to arrive, reaching here tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. The Sault Ste. Marie firemen will arrive at 11:35 tomorrow night and the Ironwood, Hurley and Bessemer departments will get here Wednesday morning at 4:00 o'clock. The Marquette and Negaunee firemen are expected at 9:45 and the copper country and all other up-the-road companies will arrive by special train at 10:30. The chief requested the reception committee to be on hand on the arrival of all trains, and to escort the visiting companies to headquarters and subsequently to their hotels. The chief requested all members of the department to wear their uniforms during the three days of the tournament and to do everything possible for the entertainment and comfort of the visitors.

Ex-Chief Routhier, who is also president of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association, under whose direction the tournament will be held, was called on to speak. He said that the tournament would doubtless be the largest gathering of its kind ever held in the upper peninsula and that the members of the local company had considerable of a job on their hands to conduct it properly. He urged that every member appoint himself a committee of one to see that the visiting firemen are suitably entertained. "Don't wait," said he, "for someone to introduce you to the visitors; go and introduce yourself and take the boys under your wing and see that they have a good time." Mr. Routhier said he desired to see the reputation of Ishpeming people as entertainers sustained by the firemen. He knew the department was capable of handling the tournament in a manner that would reflect credit upon themselves and the city and he hoped nothing would be overlooked by them.

The chief stated that the executive committee of the association would meet Tuesday evening to select judges for the various contests. He reminded the members that the captain of each team should settle all matters pertaining to the races and in case of a protest the captain is the only one who will be recognized by the executive committee. In the event of a protest must be made to the committee in the presence of the judges. The decision of the judges will be final in all cases. The executive committee will see that the rules of the association are lived up to in every respect.

Mr. Routhier said that a committee of three or five ladies would be selected to decide which is the best appearing department in the parade Wednesday afternoon. They will be given a place on the Nelson House veranda, where they can see the procession on Main and Canda streets. In concluding his remarks Mr. Routhier urged every member of the department to appear in uniform at all times and on all occasions and to not forget that they owe the visitors every courtesy from the time they arrive here until they depart.

Herman Jaedecke, who will act as marshal of the day, outlined his plans in a general way. He assured the members that he had selected the line of march with all possible care and consideration for all concerned and that only the best streets in the city will be traversed. The route is not a long one and he is certain there will be little or no dust encountered. On the recommendation of Mr. Jaedecke every member of the department was requested to wear white gloves, a stand-up collar and a white tie. All the ties will be alike. This will doubtless add to the general appearance of the department.

The department will meet again two weeks from Saturday evening, when the affairs of the tournament will be settled up.

Got After Ecklund.
Ecklund, the socialist who created a little excitement among some of the Scandinavian citizens of Ishpeming last winter, when he held forth at the hall on Cleveland avenue formerly occupied by the Swedish Home society, was driven out of Ironwood last Thursday night. The following particulars concerning Ecklund's reception at Ironwood have been received:

One Ecklund, an agitator, who has been holding forth on the Marquette range for some time, delivered one of his harangues here, and the result was nearly a riot. He had a large audience present, composed mostly of Scandinavians, in which language Ecklund spoke. His "effort" consisted principally of a tirade against the government, and was very bitter. Finally he attacked the churches, particularly the ministers, of whom there were four present. Ecklund said the ministers were robbing the people, and were the worst class in any community.

At this point Sheriff Martin Kallander arose. Going to the stage he commanded the speaker to stop, and told him he would give him 24 hours in which to leave the city. The sheriff was greeted with groans and hisses from the audience, who threatened to throw him into the street, and a riot seemed imminent for a time, but the sheriff stood his ground and Ecklund was obliged to leave the city at once.

Still Alive.
Fred Britton, the special correspondent for The Detroit Evening News who was driven out of Ishpeming by a crowd of strikers Friday night, telegraphed Landlord Outhwaite of the Nelson House Saturday that he was still alive and that his room would be available during the firemen's tournament. Mr. Britton had made a number of acquaintances during his few days here and had concluded to stay and "celebrate" with the boys during the tournament.

A crowd of men, four or five hundred in all, congregated near the South Shore depot Saturday night shortly before the midnight train arrived. Their object in assembling at that hour could not be learned, but it is surmised that they were expecting Britton back again. It was generally known that Britton was at Marquette and it was reported that he intended returning on that train. It was also said that the crowd was looking for a reporter of a New York paper who has been here ever since the strike began. The young man, however, was not in the city at that time, he having left a few hours previously on a fishing expedition up the line of the South Shore road.

Firemen Free.
The two balls to be given in Ishpeming Thursday evening, one at the A. O. U. W. hall and the other at the K. of P. hall, will be free to all firemen in uniform. Outsiders will be charged $1 per couple. The committee in charge of the dances has not made any special arrangements for supper at midnight, as meals will be obtainable at several places in the city.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Harvey Nelson came down from Ironwood Saturday.

Albert Pearce accompanied the Marquette baseball team to Baraga Sunday.

Miss Ida Braastad returned from a visit to the lower peninsula Saturday.

Editor G. A. Newett of The Iron Ore returned from the Gogebic range Saturday.

David A. Kahn came down from Virginia Saturday and spent Sunday with his brother, M. A. Kahn, of the clothing firm of Kahn & Skud.

The prizes to be awarded the winners in the various contests at the firemen's tournament are very neatly displayed in Anderson & Co.'s window.

The decorating committee, assisted by nearly all the members of the fire department, will begin decorating the city for the tournament today.

Hose and Hook & Ladder companies No. 1 of the Ishpeming fire department will hold a regular monthly meeting this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The railroad crossings on Division street near the Cleveland mine are not in very good repair and THE MINING JOURNAL has been asked to call the attention of the street commissioner to the fact.

A barrel of flour will be the door prize at St. John's church fair, which will open at the opera house tonight. The admission will be ten cents and each person will be given a number good for a chance for the prize.

F. Braastad & Co. will hold a special sale of suspenders all this week. Choice suspenders will be sold at fifteen cents a pair. Several hundred gross are in stock and some of them are worth fifty to seventy-five cents a pair.

John W. Jochim is now able to ride his bicycle. He is one of the most enthusiastic wheelmen in the city and was out in the business portion of the town for the first time Saturday evening. He had but one mishap and that was nothing more than a sprawl into a hematite mud hole on Bank street. The mud did not harmonize very well with his gray suit in color.

The Ishpeming school team and a nine composed of Pittsburg students, who are visiting at Palmer, and some Negaunee gentlemen will play a game at the Union Park grounds this afternoon. The Pittsburg team is a good one. It defeated an Ishpeming nine, made up of the school team battery and several other good players, Saturday by a score of 7 to 4. The admission today will be ten and fifteen cents.

USE OF THE SHOTGUN.
Proper Care in Handling to Prevent Accidents.

A good sportsman is familiar with his piece, and brave enough to be afraid of it, says Harper's Round Table. From the time he takes it out of the case the muzzle of the barrels is on his mind until he has taken it to pieces, cleaned it, and put it away in its case. When he starts out in the morning, he takes out the barrels, and pointing them towards the earth as he holds them in his left hand, he springs the stock into its place with his right. Then having fixed on the little piece of wood which clinches the two parts together, he passes his right arm around the barrels so that as he carries it the stock points up and behind him at an angle of about forty-five degrees, and the barrels point down toward the earth at a similar angle in front of him. Around his waist or in his pockets he carries cartridges. No charge goes into his gun until he has not only left the house, but actually arrived on the grounds where he expects to find game. If he has to drive to the proper woods or the shooting-stands or blinds, he places the piece in the bottom of the wagon, pointing out toward the rear, never once allowing it to point towards himself or anyone else who may be standing by. If he is near enough to the woods or shore to walk he carries the gun as described, unloaded, until he reaches the proper place. When climbing over fences, whether with cartridges in place or not, he places the gun under the fence flat on the ground, climbs over or under, and then picks it up from the other side. Resting a shooting-piece against a fence or wall in an upright position shows the greenhorn or the careless and therefore poor sportsman.

USE FOR CONDEMNED CANNON.
Some time ago the Lebanon (Pa.) Bolt and Nut company received two car loads of cannon from the United States. It was the purpose to break them up and use the metal for mercantile purposes. Since then the firm has received inquiries from all over the state from grand army posts, asking the privilege of buying the guns for decoration purposes. The demand from this source created considerable surprise, and the firm has decided to let the grand army people have them rather than melt up the metal.

Startling Announcement.
An English literary man who was on the verge of bringing out a book at the Pitt press ordered his proofs to be sent to him at a house where he was engaged to dine out, intending to look them over in the half hour after dinner. The printer's boy, however, was late in bringing them, and the gentleman had already rejoined the ladies in the drawing-room, when the company was electrified by hearing the sonorous voice of the butler announcing: "The devil from the Pitt has come for Mr. Jones!"

WEARY STRIKERS TOOK A REST YESTERDAY. Death of an Esteemed Young Lady Well Known in Negaunee--They Put Up a Rattling Ball Game.

THEY ARE ALL IN IT. The following communication from the business men of Negaunee with reference to the 8 o'clock agreement, which goes into effect here today, is self-explanatory:

TO THE MINING JOURNAL--We, the undersigned merchants of Negaunee, do hereby agree to close our places of business every night at 8 o'clock, except Saturdays:

All the merchants of Negaunee have cheerfully signed their names and will try to carry out the 8 o'clock closing agreement.

Took a Rest. The Negaunee division of the strikers' army took a much needed rest yesterday.

The situation is unchanged. The men are still holding together and are evidently preparing for a long siege of idleness unless the companies concede their demands.

The report current that the Buffalo company intended starting its steam shovels this week is unfounded.

It is said the strikers from both cities will parade the streets of Negaunee after the meeting at Union Park today, consequently a large turnout may be looked for.

FACTS ABOUT DAILY PAPERS. A Steady Increase Reported in Their Number in This Country.

The latest newspaper directories show that there has been an increase every year since 1877 in the number of daily publications issued in the United States.

There was a great increase in the number of publications issued monthly, between 1870 and 1891, but now there are fewer of these than in 1892 and 1893.

The relatively greater and more constant growth of the daily papers, as compared with other classes of periodicals, means that the American people are more and more hungry for the latest intelligence of the world's doings.

'HOPPERS' DEADLY FOE.

Common Blow Fly Finds Live 'Hoppers Good Nests for Its Eggs.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN LEAVE FOR CAMP.

Battalion Moves on Island Lake More Than Two Hundred Strong. Other City Notes.

SETTING THE BALANCE EVEN.

That enemy of the farmer, the festive grasshopper, has his own winged foe to contend with and one against which he struggles in vain. Naturalists have frequently observed that when any form of life increases unduly in its native habitation it is because its natural enemies are for some reason weaker than usual. Peculiarities of the weather for a season may give certain forms a chance to flourish beyond the average but Nature soon sets the balance even once more. When man interferes and destroys forms of life not clearly noxious he generally makes matters worse. Thus farmers have found that certain insect eating birds are their best friends, though they may seem at times to display an undue fondness for grain. Natural laws operate to keep even the balance of existence and so it is proving with the grasshopper, which for the last two or three years has been a steadily increasing burden in this region. Whether the common blow fly in the past has been the foe of the festive 'hopper or has only recently taken a hostile attitude is not determined. That the fly is now making things lively for the grasshopper is certain.

About the middle of July Robert Blemhuber observed that there were large quantities of dead grasshoppers lying about the fields. He had previously been in search of some communicable disease with which to start an epidemic among the superabundant grasshopper population but inquiries in Colorado, where such a malady was said to prevail, were without result. He gathered up a lot of the dead 'hoppers and sent them to Professor G. C. Davis at the experiment station of the Michigan Agricultural college for investigation. Professor Davis at first thought that most of the specimens had died from exposure, that is of a climatic and not a contagious disease. He also was looking for the latter that he might apply to the grasshoppers in Michigan the methods used so successfully by Professor Snow in Kansas to diminish the ravages of the chinch bug. But on further investigation Professor Davis found inside of each of the dead 'hoppers sent him a maggot which turned out to be the larva of the common blow fly. He also expressed the opinion that these parasites would soon destroy most of the grasshoppers. The question remained, however, whether the fly laid its eggs in the living grasshopper or only took advantage of their corpses as it does of other carrion.

A few days ago Mr. Blemhuber was able to settle this point and it can now be positively declared that the blow or flesh fly is an active enemy of the grasshopper. On a sandy slope such as grasshoppers love, especially when the weather is a little cool, Mr. Blemhuber observed numbers of the pests and also many blue and gray flies somewhat larger than the common house fly. Observing them carefully he found that the flies sought to light upon the grasshoppers and despite the resistance of the latter generally succeeded in doing so. The 'hoppers even turned over on their backs and kicked in their efforts to keep the flies off, but in vain. The fly would persist until it had managed to deposit its eggs in the body of the 'hopper, the soft spot under the wing of the latter being the favorite place. Thus the fly provides a secure hatching place for its own young and food for the maggot when hatched. Mr. Blemhuber succeeded in collecting a series of living, dying and dead grasshoppers which showed the whole process from the time the fly lays its eggs through the growth of the maggot until it has completely devoured the body of its unwilling host.

The contagious disease which may be let loose among the grasshoppers is not yet discovered, but a persistent and unrelenting enemy of the pest seems to have sprung up in obedience to the effort of Nature—or of Providence as differing theological views may lead different persons to regard the fact—to keep the balance of life even. To a naturalist one of two things is evident. Which of the two hypotheses is true depends upon the unascertained point whether the fly in years past was in the habit of preying upon the 'hopper. If it was, then the supply of flies has for some unknown reason been short of late and the 'hopper has increased accordingly. But now the flies are having their innings once more. The alternative hypothesis is that the flies have found in the 'hopper an easier means of providing for their offspring and have abandoned their former prey for this foe of the farmer, as the kea parrot of Australia, formerly a harmless fruit eater, has become the dread of the sheep farmer because that bird has discovered that it is easier to dig out the kidney fat of sheep than to hunt its former food.

Off for Camp.

The city was full of blue coats and brown gaiters yesterday and the assembling Guardsmen were scattered all over town. The Ironwood company arrived first in the small hours of the morning. On the afternoon train came the Houghton and Calumet companies and Colonel Lyon and the rest of the field and staff. The upper peninsula companies of the Fifth have had more than the usual opportunity to get acquainted. The Ironwood tour last year brought them together in active service and gave them a feeling of comradeship that nothing else can give. So all the companies fraternized immediately and warmly and the afternoon until 4 o'clock was spent very agreeably. The bagpipes chanted at 4 for the dress parade which Colonel Lyon had ordered by telegraph from Nestoria in the morning. The Ironwood company could not take part in the parade Captain Winslow had received no orders and consequently on arrival here dismissed his men until 9:30 in the evening. Four companies were formed by combining spare men from D and G companies and a very pretty battalion parade was held from Superior street up to the High school where the usual ceremonies were performed.

The Fifth Infantry band from Calumet of course accompanied the troops to camp and played some very good music at the dress parade here. The four companies turned out over two hundred men and in their marches through the streets exhibited a good state drill. The battalion left at 10 o'clock on a special train for St. Ignace, where it will take boat for De-
The Menominee company also left for camp yesterday, traveling by Milwaukee and across the lake to Grand Haven.

For Summer Night Balls.

The Hotel Superior is building a short distance from the house and adjacent to the street railway terminus a large pavilion for dancing. The floor will be 40 by 80 feet and the construction similar to that of the pavilion on Partridge Island. The idea is that it will be pleasant to hold balls of magnitude here than in the dining room of the house and disturbance of guests at late hours will be avoided. It is the general rule at summer hotels to have the ball room located at one side so as to avoid disturbing those guests who do not care for dancing to a late hour. The Superior having been designed in the first instance as a sanitarium for invalids was without this desirable feature and it will now be supplied. Of course the house will still be open for receptions and dancing parties and facilities in the way of suppers will be afforded, but for affairs which are likely to last until after midnight the pavilion will make things pleasant all round.

The Flints.

The Flints amused another good sized audience at the opera house Saturday evening with their hypnotic experiments. Many new features showing the power of hypnotic suggestion over the subjects were introduced. The evening concluded with the suggestion that the four subjects on the stage were witnessing a baseball game. The subjects yelled encouragement to the players, derided the opposing team, roasted the umpire, made bets and got in wrangle in the most realistic manner. Yet all proceeded from the suggestion of Miss Marina Flint, who fixed their attention on the imaginary game.

The Flints will continue their engagement four nights of this week, closing Thursday, August 8, in conformity to their custom of making every Monday night of an engagement "Ladies' night," a lady will be admitted free with each 35 or 25 cent ticket reserved at the advance sale. Those desiring good seats should secure them early, as there is every prospect of another packed house.

Summer Opera.

By common consent music of the lighter description appears to be considered the proper offering to set before the public during the summer months. It is done up in all sorts of packages, from light opera to burlesque, but melody of some sort is evidently the most popular form of keeping the darkness from the theatres during the heated term. This season the management of the house will try its luck with a season of light opera and has engaged the Imperial Opera company, to appear in this city once a week for four successive weeks, producing a series of popular operas. Richard Stahl's bright little opera, "Said Pasha," on Friday evening, Aug. 9, will be the opening bill. It is to be hoped that the enterprise will receive the encouragement it deserves. The company is strong and comes well recommended. The sale opens at Bigelow's this morning.

Talked Against Saloons.

Mrs. E. Norine Law of Baraga, whose powers as a speaker are well known here, addressed at the Baptist church last evening a large congregation brought together by a union meeting of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist bodies. Mrs. Law's address was in the usual line taken by the total abstinence organizations of late years. That is, to lay stress on the alleged crime of the man who sells liquor and say nothing of the folly, or worse, of the man who drinks liquor. The speaker bitterly upbraided the Christian people for consenting to the alleged crime of selling liquor, forgetting that the great majority are no more convinced that it is a sin to drink a glass of beer than it is to eat a piece of bread.

Look Out for Him.

Several weeks ago a fellow giving his name as E. D. Wilde came to this city to solicit orders for a flavoring extract concern in Minnesota. While here he ordered some printing at THE MINING JOURNAL office, which he has left uncalled for. His act was a deliberate swindle and this paper brands him as an impostor to be shown the door wherever he appears. He was a stranger to this office and his work was not solicited. THE MINING JOURNAL hopes he will be kicked out of any printing office where he shows himself and assures publishers that he is a liar and a swindler whom it is best not to do business with. The concern which he purports to sell for is "The White Bear Lake Flavoring Extract Co." Exchanges please copy.
