Recent discoveries of crannoges or lake dwellings in Ireland bring once more to the topic of man's primitive dwellings before us.

Traces of such hill dwellings have been found in London. The Irish crannoges show considerable skill in building.

A space in the lake was surrounded with piles, and within the circle stones were piled. An artificial island was constructed.

Sometimes, but not always, communication with the nearest shore is still discoverable. But the probability is that a canoe or dug-out was used.

These early people knew how a mortise was made, and were expert in basketry. There is evidence that these crannoges were inhabited during many successive periods.

For at the beginning stone implements alone were in use. In time followed both the bronze and iron periods.

There must have been, as with the Swiss lake dwellers, an overlapping as to the materials in use. Occasionally large quantities of bones are found.

In one instance, in a typical Irish crannoge, one hundred and fifty cart loads of old bones were used as a fertilizer on the Irish fields.

The early people must have been devoted to the raising of animals in the immediate neighborhood of their dwellings.

They may have been peaceful, perhaps, at times; but from certain indications, it looks as if they indulged occasionally in cannibalism.

Sullivan Will Stand Trial for Murder at November Term of Circuit Court.

WAS BOUND OVER BY JUSTICE BRAND MONDAY.

Teachers' Institute at Houghton All Next Week - A. O. U. W. Excursion to L'Anse Tomorrow.

[All communications intended for this department should be addressed to Horace J. Stevens, Houghton, Mich. Telephone connection.]

At the examination of Con Sullivan, charged with the murder of Pat Murphy at Corktown on Sunday evening, held before Justice Brand on Monday afternoon the testimony while conflicting in minor details was quite plain in the main points and the story of the killing elicited was practically that given in yesterday's issue of THE MINING JOURNAL.

In the interest of the public schools this morning a meeting was held in the school room for the following card from School Commissioner Bath explanatory of the aims of the state teachers' institute to be held here next week:

All teachers and those expecting to teach in the public schools of Houghton county during the coming year are very cordially and most earnestly invited to attend the state teachers' institute, to be held at the Houghton High school, beginning Monday, Aug. 27, at 10 a. m., and ending Friday, Aug. 30.

We have been very fortunate in obtaining the services of Professor S. B. Tobey, a gentleman of ability for institute work, as conductor and Miss Ida Harris as instructor.

At the last institute Miss Harris presented some very valuable methods and devices, and with her great interest and enthusiasm in her profession, demonstrated how peculiarly she is adapted for the great work of preparing teachers to educate the rising generation.

Do not fail to present at the opening, and attend regularly throughout the week, bearing in mind teachers need help, encouragement, sympathy and inspiration.

Teachers from neighboring counties, county examiners and school officers are cordially invited to attend.

There is an unexplainable delay in the arrival of the structural steel for the new county bridge. About the only plausible explanation to be given is that the steel was not shipped at the time claimed.

A large dancing party will be given this evening at the Armory by Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Goodell and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wright.

A tennis tournament took place Saturday on the court recently built by the Hon. O. W. Robinson. The finals were won by Goodell and Sturgis of Houghton in straight sets, with scores of 6-2, 8-6 and 6-4.

F. W. Anthony is harvesting the crops, which are in shape for garnering from his farm. The season has not been altogether favorable but the cold weather was too much for the grasshoppers and their ravages were not so bad as in the two previous years.

Mr. Richard J. Barkell and Miss Amelia Hoffenbacher were married at 2 p. m., Tuesday, Aug. 20th, at the home of the bride's mother.

The annual excursion and picnic of the Congregational church Sunday school will take place today, the young folks being taken to the canal and back by water.

The Mineral Range office now has on sale tickets for the twenty-sixth annual convocation of the Knights Templar to be held at Boston from the 26th to the 30th of this month.

119. A. O. U. W., are requested to meet at the Mineral Range station at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow morning to take the train for L'Anse, where a reunion of the upper peninsula lodges will take place.

A bacteriological sharp would find himself right at home in the corner window of the Grand Union Tea company's store.

The Imperial Opera company concluded a two-nights' engagement here on Tuesday evening, playing to large and well satisfied audiences both nights.

The A. O. U. W. reunion here tomorrow will bring to L'Anse the largest gathering of people that has ever visited our town, and the lodge here, and citizens as well, are making every preparation to ensure all who come an enjoyment of the time.

George N. Conklin and wife of Marquette passed through town on their way to Pequaming yesterday. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hebard of Pequaming for a few days.

Mrs. Dr. Geo. McEwen of Ewen is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gitzen, for a week.

Unequaled in the History of Medicine. Honesty, Excellence, Faithfulness Fully Rewarded.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equaled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never in the history of medicine has the demand for it been so great as it is today.

From Maine to California, from the Gulf to the St. Lawrence, come the glad tidings of woman's suffering relieved by it; and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women, saying that it will and does positively cure those painful ailments of women.

It will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Backache. It has cured more cases of leucorrhoea by removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick-headache.

The Races Yesterday.
About three hundred people attended the races at the Driving park yesterday afternoon and while the free-for-all proved a procession for James Redy's "Little Goldie" and two horses bolted the track in the half-mile dash, the gentlemen's driving race turned out a much better contest than was expected and required six heats to decide it. In the free-for-all there were three entries, James Redy's "Little Goldie," William Stewart's "Fannie H" and John Oatman's "John O." "Little Goldie" showed her heels to the other two nags in three straight heats, first and second moneys going in the order named above. A half-mile dash was made up with horses belonging to Redy and Quarters and Desjardins' and Powell's ponies. Redy's horse easily outfooted all three competitors but bolted the track at the turn and was followed by Quarters' animal, so that Desjardins' got first place and Powell's second. The gentlemen's driving race was the event of the day. There were only two entries, Stewart's "Kentucky Belle" and Mike Griffin's "Fred G." "Kentucky Belle" took the first two heats and "Fred G" the third. The fourth was a dead heat but "Fred G" took the fifth and sixth and the race. Reports of the time differ and there was really no accurate record kept.

Francis Jones "In Old Madrid."
After an absence of some seven years Mr. Jones will again visit Marquette, this time, however, as a star, although for the past twelve years he has been featured with various attractions, the last three years with Fanny Rice in "Miss Innocence Abroad." Most Marquette theatre-goers remember him best as the clever boy then known as Master Frankie Jones, who played several engagements here with Rent-frow's "Jolly Pathfinders" about ten years ago. His performance of "Valentine Navarro" of "In Old Madrid" is particularly pleasing and surrounded as he is by an excellent company a very fine performance is the result. Special machinery and stage settings are carried and a first-class production in every respect is assured. The reserved seat chart was opened yesterday. The South Shore road has made a round trip rate of $1.50 from Marquette with corresponding low fares from intermediate stations. A special train will leave here at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, arriving at L'Anse at 10 o'clock. Returning the special will leave L'Anse at 10:30 p. m., reaching here about 2 o'clock. Tickets will be sold at these rates on Thursday only but will be good returning until Friday for those who may prefer to stop over night instead of returning on the special train.

A. O. U. W. Reunion.
The annual district reunion of the Ancient Order of United Workmen will be held this year at L'Anse on Thursday of this week and the members of the order in that thriving little city have made extensive preparations for the entertainment of their guests. A special train will leave here at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, arriving at L'Anse at 10 o'clock. Returning the special will leave L'Anse at 10:30 p. m., reaching here about 2 o'clock. Tickets will be sold at these rates on Thursday only but will be good returning until Friday for those who may prefer to stop over night instead of returning on the special train.

Complaint was made last evening by some of the Populist committee because the janitor of the City Hall refused to open the assembly room for their meeting. They had neglected to secure an order from the mayor for the use of the hall and it would be manifestly improper for the janitor to open the building without proper authority.

—Albert Whetstone said to be the largest man in the United States, if not in the world, died recently at Eureka, Cal. He was born at Atlanta, Ind., and came of a family noted for large size. His mother, who is still living, weighs 345 pounds, and she has two brothers, weighing 320 pounds apiece. She also has two sons, each of whom is over six feet in height and each of whom also weighs over 300 pounds. At the time of his death Albert weighed 495 pounds, and was of such enormous proportions that it was necessary to cut a hole in the side of the house in order to remove the body. The coffin consumed 101 feet of lumber and weighed 100 pounds. It was 6 feet 8 inches long, 32 inches wide and 30 inches deep.

—In North Carolina lately a case was tried in which the defendant's character having been impeached, it was sought to bolster it up by showing he had reformed and joined the church. The witness, who belonged to the same church, insisted that as the defendant was now a Christian man, of course his character was better. Counsel asked him: "Doesn't he drink just as much as he ever did?" SEEKING WORK ELSEWHERE.

Men Affected by the Strike Leaving Ishpeming in Large Numbers Since Monday's Developments.

MANY GOING TO THE MESABA AND GOGEBIC DISTRICTS.

Wage Scale Submitted by the Mining Companies—The Winthrop Pumps Will Not be Stopped.

MANY MEN LEAVING.

Just as soon as it was positively known here Monday afternoon that the strikers had rejected the companies' scale of wages and had decided to continue the strike a number of the men began preparing to leave for other places. Carpenters and mechanics employed about the mines began taking their tools home, preparatory to seeking work elsewhere.

There is nothing left for the men to do here at present, so many of those who have the means to get out are leaving. Quite a number have gone during the past four or five weeks, but the exodus will now be greatly increased. About twenty-five mechanics and miners left Monday night for the Mesaba and Gogebic ranges. Some of these were among Ishpeming's oldest citizens. Seventeen of them were Scandinavians and the remainder were Englishmen. A number of them have jobs awaiting them and they will start to work as soon as they arrive at their destination. Those who have not been promised jobs are quite certain they will find places, as it has been reported here during the past few days that several of the Mesaba and Gogebic range mines have been increasing their forces of late. J. F. Armstrong, formerly of the Cleveland, is giving work to some of the men at the mine he is superintending.

Many of the men are also going to the copper district, expecting to find employment there. Some carpenters went up yesterday. One or two of these will work for E. E. Grip & Co., while others have no particular job in view. Many of the men who are now going away would have gone when the strike first started but for the belief that the difficulty would be settled in a short time.

The Complete Scale.

The following is the proposed new scale of wages—with, perhaps, a few changes in certain cases—where there is a difference in the work—presented to the strikers by the several mining companies of Ishpeming and Negaunee at the meeting held at the park Monday: Contract miners' average, $1.70 per day; company account miners, $1.60; underground laborers, $1.40; underground trammers, $1.40; pumppmen, $1.75; foremen of timbermen, $1.90; ordinary timbermen, $1.40; track foremen, $1.60; electric haulage motormen, $2.10; engineers, twelve hours, $1.70; firemen, ten hours, $1.60; blacksmiths, $1.65 to $2.40; carpenters, $1.70; machinists, $1.90 to $2.50; foremen timber cutters, $1.50; ordinary timber cutters, classed as ordinary laborers, $1.25; teamsters, $1.40; ore inspectors, $1.55; surface laborers, $1.25; surface trammers, $1.30; engineers steam shovels, $2.55; cranesmen, $1.90; $2.20 firemen on steam shovels, $1.55; diamond drill runners, $1.75; diamond drill helpers, $1.55.

THE MINING JOURNAL understands that all the mines, with the exception of the Winthrop and Buffalo, have adopted this scale. The Winthrop has offered $1.80 to contract miners and there is also a difference in other cases, while the Buffalo has not submitted any particular scale other than that the increase over former wages at that mine will be from ten to twenty per cent.

Winthrop Pumps Will Run.

It was rumored on the streets yesterday that Fred Braastad, operator of the Winthrop mine, had decided to stop the pumps and permit the workings to fill with water. Mr. Braastad has not yet decided on that step, but may be compelled to take it within the next few days if the men do not conclude to return to work. He left the city yesterday for Alcazar, S. D., to remain about ten days. He said to THE MINING JOURNAL reporter before taking the train that he intends keeping the pumps running for a while yet in the hope that some plan whereby he can resume operations may be agreed on. He asserted that the scale of wages he had submitted to the men was the best he could possibly make so long as he is working on this season's contract. "I cannot afford," said he, "to pay higher wages until I commence to mine ore for next year, but I am sure we will get better prices next year than we have this." Mr. Braastad said that he is under great expense in keeping the water out of the mine, as it is not as easily handled there as at some of the other mines on the range. He said he understood his men are anxious to return to work at the wages offered in case they could get the consent of the union.

Death of Mrs. Malvey.
Mrs. John Malvey, of 250 Angeline street, died Monday night after an illness of about four weeks, the cause of her death being Bright's disease. She was an old resident of Ishpeming and a quite well known here. She was aged about thirty-eight years. A husband and four children survive her. The funeral will be held this morning from St. John's Catholic church.

FIVE BLACK MARKS. "The most miserable time I ever had in my life," said Dr. Macpherson one day as he sat chatting in his cozy drawing room.

I did not know. But as the doctor seemed intent on telling the story I did not interrupt him by saying so.

"We had been cruising about in the Mediterranean," he went on, "when we were unexpectedly ordered to the Bay of Lagos to overawe some miserable little tribe near the coast which had not been behaving itself as a properly regulated little tribe under the protection of the British empire ought to do."

"It puzzled me to discover the reason, for though we were all sorry to leave the Mediterranean still it was not like Gilby to sulker over it. He could not see less of his fiancée than he had been doing for two or three months, and we had the prospect before us of a small fight, for which he had been wishing. Lashton suggested to me in his sister's way that it was the prospect of fighting which caused the change in my friend, and though I answered the suggestion in the tone it deserved, still it seemed the only explanation."

"Gilby said, when I asked him, that it was the weather, and the irritation with which he answered prevented me continuing my inquiries, and made me more than ever convinced that it was 'funk,' and a very severe form of the disease, too. In fact, he took very little pains to conceal it."

"I hope to goodness that I shall not have to go on shore," he said, when we had nearly reached our destination. "I wish the commander would lead the party and leave me here to look after the ship."

"It is not likely," I answered, gruffly, and I was glad that Lashton was not about to overbear him. I answered his next suggestion more gruffly still.

"I suppose you would not like to certify that I ought to be on the sick list, would you, Macpherson?" he asked me, hesitatingly.

"I refused flatly. "If he had told me the true reason of his fear I might have acted differently, for he looked ill enough, poor fellow! His face had grown quite white and wan since we started."

"It looked whiter still next day when he had to go in command of the landing party, which I accompanied, of course."

"When we were fairly embarked on the enterprise, his one idea seemed to be to get it over with all possible speed, and the haste with which he advanced to Kakoga's country would have been impossible if the men under him had not themselves been so anxious to get into action, and introduce a little change into the monotony of life on a gunboat."

"However, the change was less than the majority of the blue-jackets hoped for, the miserable little tribe did not show fight, and our business was soon accomplished. In five days from the time we left the Dragon-fly we were back again, none the worse for our trip, except that we were all worn out by Gilby's forced marches."

The operation seemed such a mysterious and inexplicable one that I watched him till he put the cork back into the bottle, without moving a step to interfere with the man, but I pounced upon him as he turned to leave the cabin.

"What on earth have you been doing?" I asked, unceremoniously, and the fellow seemed rather taken back. "It is only a practical joke," he said, with a feeble attempt to smile unconcernedly.

"Joke or no joke, I demand to see what is in that bottle," I said, authoritatively, my mind full of mysterious poisons, and the engineer handed it over to me.

"The bottle contained nothing but ink," I exclaimed, when the great brain specialist reached this point in his narrative, and Macpherson smiled in the peculiarly quiet way he has when he has perfectly mystified a hearer.

"Yes, ordinary ink," he went on. "The discovery naturally made me feel rather foolish, but not so much as it would have done if I had not been convinced still that his action was in some way a malicious one. What his idea could be, however, it was impossible for me to divine, and I felt so curious about it that I should have roused my friend at once to inquire how five black marks on his arm could possibly affect his happiness, if he had not looked so thoroughly worn out and in need of sleep."

"When I woke, I do not know how long after, it was to find Gilby standing in my room, half undressed as I had seen him in his bunk, but with his shirt-sleeve buttoned up over the ink stains on his arm. I was too full of sleep, however, to notice the fact at the time, or even to remember for the moment anything about what I had seen. Sleepy as I was, I could not help noticing the look of complete misery and despair on my friend's face. He was standing at the side of my bunk, holding an envelope, and when I started up, rubbing my eyes, he put it into my hand."

"I am glad you are awake, Macpherson," he said, in a strangely constrained tone. "I want to ask you to do me a favor. Will you give this letter to Miss Callan personally when you see her? I do not want to take the risk of sending it by mail."

"But you will see her yourself as soon as I shall," I said, in surprise at the request, and Gilby did not reply. Instead, he turned and walked out of the cabin, leaving me staring at the letter in my hand and wondering what it meant. I was so stupid with sleep still that it took me two minutes to think of any explanation at all. When I did I was out of my bunk and running across to the opposite cabin in a second. Just in time, too, for Gilby was in the act of locking his door when I burst it open and rushed in without ceremony. The fact that the young lieutenant's revolver and a couple of letters, one of them addressed to me, were lying on the table, served to assure me that my fears were not unfounded. The first thing I did was to secure the revolver. Then I turned to my friend.

"What the devil are you going to shoot yourself for?" I demanded, bluntly.

"Gilby made no attempt to deny his intention. "I am sorry you have disturbed me, Macpherson," he said with perfect coolness, "because it cannot make any difference."

"And the reason?" I asked, with interest, for the doctor had passed to light another cigarette. Macpherson blew a whiff of smoke from his mouth and continued his story.

"I suppose you have never heard of a disease called 'Guinea madness' he asked, and when I shook my head he went on: "Neither had I, until Gilby told me about it, although I am a doctor. It is one of those strange diseases that limit themselves luckily to a particular district and is only found among a few tribes along the coast of Guinea. It is generally thought that Europeans cannot take it, but the idea is an erroneous one, or, at any rate, there are exceptions, for Lieut. Gilby's father died of it when my friend was a boy of ten. His father was captain of a trading vessel, and the lieutenant was accompanying him on a voyage when they called at the Guinea coast. He therefore saw his father in all the indescribable agony of the disease, which seems more like hydrophobia than anything else, although it is infectious."

ESSENTIALLY SOCIALISTIC.

Ideas Advanced by Robert Schilling Would Involve Making Man-kind Over.

STATE TO OWN EVERYTHING AND RUN EVERYTHING.

Thoughts Taking Interest for Money Wrong and Gets in Many Drives at Old Parties.

CLEVER BUT VISIONARY SPEAKER

Robert Schilling of Milwaukee spoke from the steps of the City Hall last evening to about two hundred people on the Populistic side of current political issues. Mr. Schilling is thoroughly well posted on the tariff and made an excellent free trade argument in the first half of his address. He took the ground that the whole controversy over the tariff is a humbug and does not touch vital issues. He challenged contradiction of his facts and figures and alleged that the whole difference between the taxes imposed by the McKinley and Wilson bills was only twenty-seven cents per head on all the people of the United States. He seemed to think this a trifle and in one way it is. But taking the population of the United States at 70,000,000 it means a decrease in the revenue of the nation of nearly $19,000,000 a year, which is a good deal of money.

In the latter part of his speech Mr. Schilling devoted much attention to denunciation of the alleged bondage of the people of the United States to European capitalists and made the usual Populist attack on banks and bankers, or rather on the banking system. He wants money issued direct to the people, that is to say, what is generally known as "flat" money. He thought that the receiving of interest upon invested capital, which of course is the great majority of cases represents a simple wealth accumulated by the past industry and thrift of its holders, is a crime, and advocated the supply of currency by the Coxe non-interest bearing bonds plan. He failed to take note of the fact that the United States is steadily growing in wealth and reducing the debts to older countries necessarily incurred by this, as by every new country, in developing its resources. He seemed to think it a terrible thing that people in the United States should owe money to other people in London and Berlin, but failed to explain why that is any worse than for a man in Marquette to owe money to a man in Milwaukee.

Without questioning in the least Mr. Schilling's sincerity, and no one who knows him will question it, his ideas are essentially socialistic. That is to say, they involve, if carried into practice, a making over of human nature on a new model. This is not saying that his ideas are not very pretty, but that like most socialists Mr. Schilling gets away from practical reforms into an imaginary world, and that his notion of the proper kind of a world to have is about the same kind as that depicted in the ingenious Mr. Bellamy's "Looking Backward." Instead of every man minding his own business and getting along the best he can by his own efforts, Mr. Schilling would have everybody mind everybody else's business. There have been some experiments in this direction but their success has not been marked enough to encourage practical men to continue them.

Mr. Schilling devoted a good deal of attention to the politicians and got in some telling shots at both the old parties for their neglect of the real interests of the people. He also said that the talk about "Democratic hard times" was sheer nonsense and called attention to the fact that the hard times began when the Republican party was in power and that in the last preceding great panic and industrial depression the Republican party was also in power. He said there was no difference between the old parties and that both were under the control of such robbers of the people as Sam Stephenson, Carnegie and Frick. He also gave vent to a great deal of denunciation of the so-called "money power," and evidently is of the opinion that every man who lends his neighbor two or three hundred dollars and receives interest upon it is following a system of theft and robbery, though it would be unfair to call him a thief and a robber personally.

As many persons confound socialism with anarchy and the doctrines of destruction preached by a few crazy fanatics, it is but just to Mr. Schilling to say that he advocates nothing of the sort. His appeal is to "reason, common sense and the ballot" and he deprecates and opposes violence of every kind. He thinks the people have in their own hands the remedy for existing evils, if they will but use it and learn to think instead of permitting themselves to be led by the politicians of the old parties. He says both the old parties are controlled by the trusts and monopolies and of course that the only way out is to vote the Populist ticket.

In the foregoing an effort has been made to give a fair abstract of Mr. Schilling's essential ideas as shown by his address, rather than to report his language. He is a fluent and entertaining speaker and if the possibility of making over the world on the socialistic plan is admitted his arguments are good. But it will take a good deal more than the arguments of Mr. Schilling to convince the average man of the possibility of making over human nature as it would have to be made over before the visions of the socialists can be realized. Through all known history human passions and emotions have been the same and there seems no reason to believe that they will ever be different. All the same Mr. Schilling is a clever speaker and well worth hearing.

Newberry Wants a Lesson.

Newberry's baseball aggregation is quite anxious to get some games with the Marquette team and the local papers say that if Marquette will come to Newberry the Asylumville crowd will visit the Queen City, win or lose. This is truly kind, but the Marquette team is rather too busy just now to give lessons in the national game and it is probable that Newberry will have to wait awhile for her instruction. The Marquette team might possibly go to Newberry and give a lesson for the amusement of the people there and the edification of their ball team, but is hardly prepared to ask the people of Marquette to pay their money to see the Newberry team try to play.

Prettiest of the Season.

The lawn party given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Breitung was, like its predecessors, the prettiest of the season. The grounds were lit up by electric lamps of many colors and the open air ball room presented a scene of brilliance not often equalled and never excelled in the social functions of Marquette. All the beauty and fashion of the Queen City was there, and the gowns of the women against the black tops of the men presented a lovely spectacle of varied and gorgeous hue. The Hotel Superior orchestra and the Fifth Infantry band, brought down from Calumet for the occasion, alternately discoursed delightful music that irresistibly set the feet of the dancers flying. The reign of the waltz was manifest in the dance program and even the waltz went to the rear in point of popularity. The air too was just chilly enough to make dancing a pleasure instead of a heated effort, and those who usually figure on taking about every other week on the floor for the waltz were inspired to foot it steadily. Refreshments were served by deft-handed waitresses at quartette tables in the handsome parlors and on the lawn and the arrangements were so ample and perfect that the too-frequent rush for supper at large parties was unknown. Fully two hundred and fifty persons were present, including many from out of the city. Among the visitors noted, aside from frequent sojourners here, were Mrs. Albert Breitung and Miss Dix of Chicago, Mrs. Monfort of Cincinnati, Mrs. Phoebe Babcock Wilson of Denver, Miss Colton of Salt Lake City, Dr. Charles Thomas and Miss Thomas of Lacon, Ills., and Mr. Clifford M. Anthony of Peoria, Ills. It was after 2 o'clock when the guests departed, all fully convinced that a most enjoyable evening had been spent and that in brilliance the affair would be impossible to surpass. The beautiful hostess was the recipient of a multitude of felicitations and the only regret was that the evening had been all too short and that such delightful entertainments are all too rare an experience.

Must Keep to the Right.

At their next meeting the park commissioners will undoubtedly pass a by-law regulating the direction and manner in which persons shall drive on Presque Isle. Heretofore a simple notice to keep to the right has been enough but this year there has been an outbreak of disregard for the rights of others and only last Sunday an ex-mayor defied the officer in charge of the park and made himself unpleasantly conspicuous by persisting in driving the wrong way around the island. The officer had been unable to find that he had any real warrant of law under which to arrest or eject from the park persons who violated the regulation and hence thought he had better let the ex-mayor go and complain to the commissioners afterwards. Of course when prominent citizens and ex-mayors do liberately violate the rules of the road ordinary people can hardly be expected to observe them. Hence the commissioners will have to adopt a formal rule with penalties, as they have power to do under the statute.

The park commissioners would be glad to learn of the existence at some reasonable distance from Presque Isle of a deposit of the peculiar clay or hard-pan of which the present drive was made. It is the best material for light travel roads ever found in this region and they want some more of it. That which went into the present drive came from Mr. White's land just west of the city property but the deposit there is practically exhausted. Some more is wanted to surface the interior roads and for other purposes but so far no deposit just like that mentioned has been discovered. Several persons have stated that they knew of just such deposits on the island itself but investigation has always shown that they were mistaken.

With the Rifles' Regards.

A committee from the Marquette Rifles consisting of Lieutenant Wilson and Corporal Byrne called on Miss Cecil Grylls last evening and in the name of the company presented her with a very pretty hunting outfit, as a slight token of their appreciation of her kindly assistance in the production of "The Confederate Spy." Miss Grylls undertook the direction of the play and without her patient and untiring instruction it could not have been produced. The outfit consists of a Piper Arms company double-barrel 16 gauge shot gun, of what is known as the "Diana" model, in a sole leather case with a complete set of cleaning and loading tools and a game and cartridge bag. A supply of smokeless powder cartridges accompanied the gift, which was a complete surprise to the recipient. The gun is a very pretty and efficient sporting arm and as Miss Grylls adds to her other accomplishments that of being an excellent shot she will be able to use the weapon with good effect. The outfit was a special order from New York and only arrived a few days ago, the presentation being delayed only long enough to have a silver shield let into the butt on which is engraved the inscription "Cecil Grylls, from the Marquette Rifles, August 20, 1895."

The demand for Vandenberg's fresh milk and Jersey creamery butter is excellent only by the excellent quality of the goods which are being so highly praised by all the best housekeepers in the city.
