BRUTAL NEGRO LYNCHED.

Noah Anderson Taken from Officers and Strung Up by Infuriated Mob.

HAD MURDERED AGED NEW RICHMOND, O. CITIZEN.

Furiously Attacked Helpless Victim Without Slightest Provocation and Choked Him to Death.

MET HIS JUST DESERTS.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.—At New Richmond this afternoon a mob took Noah Anderson, colored, from the jail and hanged him for the murder today of Franklin Fridman, nearly eighty years old and president of the First National bank of that place.

Fridman was among the wealthiest men in Clermont county. He was driving into New Richmond shortly after noon today when he was stopped at one of his houses. He was called into an adjoining field, where he was suddenly attacked by Noah Anderson, a muscular negro, who literally choked his helpless victim to death. The murderer then fled.

The news of the crime traveled swiftly and it was not long before Anderson was captured and taken to the New Richmond jail, where a great crowd quickly gathered. Anderson made no attempt to conceal his crime. He gloatingly told all the details and said he had given the old man what he deserved. It is thought Anderson was insane, as he had no dealings with Fridman whatever.

The marshal, when a momentary lull came, attempted to take Anderson to the more secure jail at Batavia. No sooner did the men appear outside the jail than the frenzied mob rushed at the marshal and, seizing the prisoner, took him to the nearest tree and in a brief time he was dead.

There was no attempt at concealment. Every person present knew all the others. It was simply an act of frenzy under the most aggravating circumstances.

THE UNION PACIFIC HOLD-UP.

Bandits Blew Open the Safe but Only Secured About $100.

GOTHENBURG, Neb., Aug. 21.—Shortly after midnight this morning the overland flyer was held up at Buttermilk Hill. Two robbers boarded the train at Brad Island and crawled over the tender and covered the engine with revolvers. They then took the engineer back to the express car and made him tell the messenger that they had revolvers at his head and would kill him unless the door was opened. The messenger opened the door and the robbers entered and compelled him to open the smaller safe. He could not open the large safe and the robbers blew it open with dynamite. The passengers were not molested. Meantime the fireman had uncoupled the engine and ran to Gotthenburg and gave the alarm. Volunteers were quickly on the way to the scene, but before they arrived the robbers disappeared. Every effort is being made to capture them. The express messenger says the robbers only got about a hundred dollars.

HOT ON OUTLAWS' TRAIL.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Aug. 21.—Three posses are in pursuit of the bandits with excellent prospects of capturing the outlaws. At noon the sheriff sent to the rear two horses captured from the fleeing robbers. Both were cut on wire fences. It is believed the owners of the wounded animals are hiding in the hills near the scene of the hold-up, as they could not have gone far before abandoning their horses. A patch of undergrowth extending over several miles is surrounded and the two men are expected to be discovered by hunger. Forty men are pursuing the gang. The fact that some of the forty returned tonight is taken here as positive evidence that they have either surrounded the robbers or are close on the trail and expect a battle at any moment.

MICHIGAN ROBBERS STILL AT LARGE.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 21.—The robbers who held up the Chicago & West Michigan train near Richmond last night are still at large and there is no clue to their identity. A large posse is searching for them.

FRANCE OBJECTS.

British Railroad Must Not Trespass on Its Newfoundland Shore.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 21.—A newspaper announces that the French admiral commanding the French squadron for fishery protection along the Newfoundland coast is waiting at the Bay of Islands to protest against the new Trans-Insular railroad, now in course of construction, piercing the country and touching any part of the so-called French territory where the French fishing claims exist. The British authorities apprehend prompt decisive action on the part of the French. It is feared the question will lead to an important international trouble. The British flag-ship Cleopatra is lying in the same waters.

Their release will mark a new progress in organizing railroad employees; district headquarters will be established in all the large railway centers throughout the country. Since their imprisonment a hundred and fifty-six local unions that were shattered by the strike of last summer have been reorganized and twenty-seven new ones instituted. Applications for charters are being received every day.

LATE NEWS FROM HAWAII.

Cable Contract Ratified—Great Britain Makes a Concession.

HONOLULU, Aug. 13.—(Per steamer Australia to San Francisco.)—The senate and house have ratified the cable contract made by President Dole with Spaulding, who will ask the next congress for an annual subsidy of $250,000. Work on the cable will begin on or before the first of May, 1897, and the line will be completed Nov. 1, 1898, otherwise the contract is void. If Spaulding fails to obtain assistance from the United States the Hawaiian government may cancel its contract.

The Hawaiian government has received a communication from the British government acknowledging that the military court which tried those participating in the January uprising was legally established. The British foreign office concedes that every prisoner, with the exception of V. V. Ashford, had a fair and impartial trial. After reviewing the evidence in his case they are of the opinion it was not enough to convict and require his conviction to be set aside. Hatch states an answer to the British government has not been made as yet. He declines to state as to whether or not Ashford's conviction will be set aside.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—W. R. Castle, the new minister from Hawaii to the United States, arrived in Chicago today enroute to Washington. In an interview Castle said the affairs of the new republic were in a promising condition and that the present government has nothing to fear from the Royalists.

UNDOUBTEDLY A FAKE.

No Trace of Sender of "Minnie Williams" Telegram Found.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 21.—Detectives and newspaper men are making vigorous efforts today to locate the sender of the telegram signed "Minnie R. Williams" received by Attorney Shoemaker, counsel for Holmes, in Philadelphia, which it is claimed was sent from this city, but thus far they have met with no encouragement. The police do not believe Miss Williams has been here or that she sent the message received at Philadelphia.

ANOTHER "HOLMES MYSTERY" FOUND.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Another "H. H. Holmes building" has been discovered. The building is all boarded up and residents of the vicinity say nothing has been done there for a long time. Two weeks ago, they say, a man whom they identify as "Pat" Quinlan carried away inside the furniture and other stuff in that building. It was here that Holmes carried on his glass bending business and it is this place for which the police have been looking for more than a month and never found. It was discovered by an "amateur detective." The signers appear on all sorts of orders and delivery slips which were found scattered about the place. The police so far have made no investigation of the place and it is not certain that they will do so.

WILL PLEASE THE CHAPPIES.

Outside Tobacco Companies to Fight the Cigarette Trust.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—A meeting of tobacco manufacturers which convened today with representatives of almost all the great manufactures outside the trust present promises to be the most important conference of the kind ever held in the west. The meeting will determine what to do with reference to the manufacture of cigarettes and decide upon a mode of procedure to fight the American Tobacco company. Representatives of the press were admitted but the following given out indicated the action taken:

"At the meeting today the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco company and the Drummond Tobacco company reported that they are replacing machinery for the manufacture of cigarettes, which report was received with unanimous approval and expressions of good will by the manufacturers present, who all expressed a desire to see the machines now in operation with a view of using them if they proved satisfactory. The meeting was harmonious."

In the afternoon the delegates visited the warehouse of the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco company and witnessed the test of the machines.

CAME DOWN WITH A CRASH.

Big Chicago Coliseum in Course of Construction Collapsed Last Night.

FORTUNATE ESCAPE OF THREE HUNDRED WORKMEN.

Had Gone Off Duty but Short Time Before Accident Happened—Nobody Was Hurt.

ARCH FOUNDATION GAVE WAY.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The Coliseum, a large building lately erected on the site where Buffalo Bill had his show during the World's Fair, collapsed tonight. The building was an immense affair and was to have been opened with Barnum & Bailey's circus within a few days. It was also intended for use during national conventions. A force of two hundred men had been working on the building night and day, but as the accident happened during lunch hour, when all the men were absent, nobody was hurt.

The building is a total wreck and the loss will reach between $100,000 and $180,000. It is said that this will fall on the Probst Construction company, which had the contract for the construction of the building. Had the accident happened an hour before or a few hours later the loss would have been frightful. At 10 o'clock tonight three hundred workmen went off duty and at 3 a. m. three hundred more were to have gone to work. The company was working three shifts in order to get the building ready in time for opening Sept. 2.

While the cause of the accident is not definitely known at this time it is believed to have resulted in the giving way of the foundation of one of the great arches. The noise of the falling building was terrific and the neighborhood for a mile around was aroused. The wrecked building was three-fourths completed and Barnum & Bailey's circus was to have given its first performance within the inclosure Sept. 2.

The building was 750 feet long, 350 feet wide and 86 feet high, and there was not a pillar to obstruct the view from any part. It was the property of the Coliseum Exposition company, which is capitalized for $400,000.

CUBA AND IRELAND.

Independence of Both Advocated in Peace Convention Yesterday.

MYSTIC, Conn., Aug. 21.—At the second day's session of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the National Peace union Mrs. Mary Frost Ormsby of New York made an address on the signing of the peace petition of Antwerp and its influence on the signing of a polyglot petition. Mrs. Beiva Lockwood explained the origin and objects of the International Peace union at Berne, Switzerland, through whose united influence all the Peace societies in this country and Europe are now in communication with each other. In the afternoon Mr. Wilcox of New York spoke on the treatment of Indians by the government and stated that the attitude of the government toward the Indians was due to the efforts of the Peace union. He advocated the abrogation of all treaties whereby a citizen of one state was protected by it when visiting another. He also advocated the independence of Cuba and Ireland. There were five thousand in attendance at the convention. Tomorrow will be temperance day.

HAVANA, Aug. 21.—An insurgent band of braves under Chief Reg attacked a detachment of troops at Barajagua. The report says the troops made a heroic defense and that the insurgents left forty dead and wounded on the field, and when they were obliged to retire they set fire to the village.

CAMPBELL IS THE MAN.

Nominated for Governor of Ohio by Acclamation at Democratic Convention Yesterday.

EXPECTED HOT SILVER FIGHT DID NOT MATERIALIZE.

"Sound Money" Men Were in the Majority and Financial Plank of 1892 Was Endorsed.

AND HOW IT ALL HAPPENED

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 21.—The Democratic state convention met here today. Following was the ticket nominated: Governor, ex-Governor James E. Campbell, by acclamation; John B. Peaslee of Cincinnati, ex-superintendent of public schools, lieutenant governor; George A. Fairbanks of Columbus, attorney general; W. T. Mooney, Mansfield, supreme judge; W. B. Sholer, Gallia county, state treasurer; James W. Knott, Highland county, auditor. H. B. Keefer of Tazewell was made a member of the board of public works and J. W. Grelshank of Troy, clerk of the supreme court, both by acclamation. Calvin S. Brice was both temporary and permanent chairman.

The committee on resolutions presented majority and minority reports. The majority endorsed the national administration of the past two years; points with satisfaction to the repeal of the Sherman law, the federal election law and the McKinley law, from which the returning prosperity of the country has resulted; congratulates President Cleveland on his efforts in favor of the repeal of these laws and upholding the credit of the country; congratulates Senator Brice on the effective support given the president; reaffirms the currency plank of the national Democratic platform of 1892.

The minority report was presented by the free silver advocates and demanded the immediate restoration of the law for the free coinage and full legal tender of both gold and silver without discrimination, as provided in the Constitution, and without awaiting the assent of England or any other foreign nation. The vote on substituting the minority financial plank in the platform for the majority was defeated—270 to 525. The majority report was then adopted.

The convention was in session from 10:30 till 2:40 and the nominations were completed in half an hour after ex-Governor Campbell had been drafted for standard bearer. The ballots were all on the minority report, on credentials and resolutions, and the time was thus consumed in contests between the gold and silver men. The silver men claimed they would have no less than three hundred, and probably three hundred and fifty, delegates for free silver. It developed there were 270 free silver delegates. It was a fighting minority, but it did not carry the fight further than on the platform. The nominee for member of the board of public works is said to be the only free silver man on the ticket.

There is considerable enthusiasm over the nomination of Campbell. He defeated ex-Governor Foraker in 1880 and was defeated for reelection in 1891 by McKinley, the present incumbent. The nomination of Campbell means an aggressive campaign in Ohio, where McKinley is now recognized as a candidate for president, and Foraker for senator, the fate of both depending largely upon the pending contest between Campbell and Bushnell for governor.

It is generally understood that Campbell was induced to make the race by promises of support for the presidential nomination in the event of his success next November, in which contingency he would again confront his old opponent, McKinley, should the latter be nominated. And in co-operating with Brice for a Democratic legislature, Campbell is also again confronting his other old opponent, Foraker.

Although Brice is also known to have presidential aspirations, it is the generally accepted theory that Brice and Campbell have reached such an understanding as to contest everything in Ohio with McKinley and Foraker, who have everything at stake in the election of General Asa Bushnell as governor and a Republican legislature next November. It is thought the contest between these old leaders in Ohio will overshadow the currency question and other issues.

There is no little difference between the Republican and Democratic platforms on silver, but the currency question is now generally believed to be disposed of in Ohio, but the tariff issue will be prominent, as the parties differ widely in that regard and Governor Campbell is expected to arraign the Republican state administration of the past four years very severely, as he did in his previous campaigns. Governor Campbell called in his friends to-night before leaving and with Brice and others arranged for beginning at once an aggressive campaign in which they expect the co-operation of leading Democrats throughout the country.

CONSUL WALLER'S RELEASE.

Uncle Sam Will Undoubtedly Soon Make a Strong Demand for It.

IS TIRED OF TARDY ACTION OF FRANCE

Full Indemnity for Imprisonment and Restoration of Property Rights Will Also Be Requested.

INCARCERATION NEARING END

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—There is good authority for the statement that a pre-emptory demand will be made by the United States upon France for the release of ex-Consul Waller, and a satisfactory indemnity will be required for his arrest and imprisonment with a probable request for a commission to determine Waller's rights in Madagascar. The discussion of the case between the French and American diplomats has reached a point where it is said there is little else for the United States to do, owing to the fact that the repeated requests for a copy of the charges and testimony upon which Waller was convicted have not been granted by the French government.

It was said at the state department today that the delay in the Waller case has been very annoying to the officials and especially to Ambassador Eustis. The dilatory action of France is regarded as indicating that the French government has a poor case and will be unable to resist the demands made by the United States for the restoration of Waller to liberty and indemnity for his losses. A condition which makes the delay of France more aggravating is the fact that the department is aware of the serious illness of Waller in prison and that his further confinement is harmful to his health.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—With reference to the criticisms which have been made from time to time concerning the state department's conduct of the Waller case it can be stated that Waller's friends here are satisfied that the case is receiving the most careful and zealous attention of the department.

It is learned on the best authority that notwithstanding Secretary Olney's absence from the city he has given his personal attention to the conduct of the negotiations looking to Waller's release and the restoration of his rights. Furthermore the president himself has manifested deep concern regarding the matter, which he would not give if he did not feel that the case was unusual in the complications involved. Enough is known regarding the progress of the negotiations to justify the statement that the department is confident it will result in the release of Waller.

There is also authority for the statement that the department feels assured that Waller's bare release could have been secured before now, but it was felt this would be accomplished at the risk of losing indemnity for imprisonment and the protection of Waller in his property rights in Madagascar. As the money interests involved are placed by no one in the department at less than a million dollars the case has been handled on the theory that it was better that Waller should continue to endure incarceration for a few months than to risk losing his claim.

Ambassador Eustis has found it impracticable to secure more of the record in France than the specification of the charges, but it is understood that a promise has been made to secure a full record from Madagascar. This will take some time, but the state department is so confident that when it is received it will bear out the full representation of the department and aid materially in securing justice to Waller that it is deemed wise to wait for it rather than to unduly press the matter.

NEBRASKA DEMOCRATS.

They Will Meet in Convention at Omaha Today.

OMAHA, Aug. 21.—The Democratic state convention will convene in Omaha tomorrow. Since all the opponents of free silver in the party will hold a state convention Sept. 5 it is conceded there will be no fight tomorrow along this line. There has been a fight between the two factions in which the silver wing, by the nomination of Judge Holcomb for governor, came out victorious. It was thought there would be a reunion of the party in the state, in fact, steps had been taken for a conference with this object in view. Recently, however, the peace negotiations fell through and the fight was renewed. It is charged by some of the anti-administration men that the recent visit of Secretary Morton had something to do with this change. The call provides for 113 delegates and Chairman Smith expects that at least seven hundred active delegates will attend.

CHEAP FARES TO BOSTON.

Competing Roads Busily Engaged in Slashing Rates.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Knights Templar rates to Boston are going from bad to worse. Restrictions of every kind were virtually removed from the tickets today by a number of roads. The Wabash sold tickets with a guarantee that they would be good for return any day from now to the final expiration of the time limit. Under the original agreement the tickets were not to be good for return until Aug. 27 and had to bear the signature of the original purchaser. Today they were sold good for bearer. This simply means that from now until the 25th the general business of the roads will be done at half rates, as the tickets are good for anybody and are as unrestricted as any round trip tickets could be. The holders are not compelled to go to Boston to have them executed but may use them to and from any point en route. Nor has the demoralization stopped here. The rivalry between the competing roads is so keen that several of them are cutting rates so as to reduce their considerably below the one fare. Brokers are loaded up with tickets and are being paid a big commission by the roads on their sales. The whole business is utterly demoralized and it is the opinion of a good many passenger men that the worst had not yet been reached.

Twenty-One Bodies Recovered.

DENVER, Aug. 21.—Including the body of General Charles Adams, which was partially uncovered and identified this afternoon, twenty-one bodies have been taken from the wreck of the Gurney Hotel.

A Courageous Woman.

As an example of woman's courage a story of a brave school-teacher comes from India. Miss Lucinda Gore, of Luckharabad, was standing in the schoolhouse one day, when, turning round, she saw in the open doorway the glaring eyes of a tiger. She did not scream or faint, but seized a broom and drove it full in the tiger's face, brush foremost. Some of the bristles entered the tiger's eyes and with a howl of pain he drew back to make a spring at her. Then she slammed the door in his face. The supports of the door were but slender and would not resist the tiger's attacks long, but while he banged his head at it, she lowered one of the boys through the window to alarm the neighbors. Assistance soon arrived and the tiger was shot.

HE STOLE AIR.

It was Intended to Fatten Pneumatic Tires With. "Say, officer, I wish you'd drive those hoboes away or run them in," requested the manager of a Market street cycleyer. "They're hanging around the door trying to steal our air all day long." "Trying to steal what?" "Our air. What we use to blow up pneumatic tires with." "Do you fellows own the air here? Do you rent it with the premises? You'll be accusing somebody of running off with your sunbeams next. I suppose these hoboes grab a handful of air when you ain't looking, jam it in their pockets and run, eh?" "Well, if you don't believe it just come back here and watch."

HE WAS ASLEEP.

The Auctioneer Mistook His Nods for Bids. An auction sale was in progress the other day in West Philadelphia, and after a majority of the contents had been sold a refrigerator was put up. It was a good-looking article, and ten dollars was bid. "Ridiculous," said the auctioneer; "who bids eleven dollars?" A man in the corner nodded, and for a moment it looked as though he would get a bargain, but somebody else shouted twelve dollars. The auctioneer looked at the man in the corner and got another bid; and after some delay somebody went a dollar better. "Fourteen, I'm bid," shouted the man with the hammer, and just before he declared the lot sold came another nod from the quiet bidder, and the lot was sold. "Your ice box. What name?" asked bookkeeper. But the man only nodded his head and appeared not to hear. "What name?" was again shouted, and somebody leaned over and repeated the question in stentorian tones. The man made a quick movement, rubbed his eyes, and wanted to know what was the matter. "I didn't buy no ice box," he said. "I've been asleep."

AN M. P.'S INFATUATION.

A DOMESTIC DIFFERENCE. The general impression among Jim Percival's friends was that he might have done a good deal better for himself than he did in his matrimonial venture.

to have been in his place in the house, listening to the ministerial leader's statement, he was hovering near the stage door of the X. He had made up his mind to follow his goddess home, and so found out her private address. Percival had a cab waiting for him at the corner. He noticed another cab drawn up opposite the stage door. He strolled up and accosted the driver.

When they had driven about a mile his cab stopped. The M. P. got out. He saw the young lady alighting from her cab about a hundred yards ahead. She turned and walked rapidly away. With a beating heart and trembling steps, he followed her, keeping an interval of seventy or eighty yards between them.

She had not alighted at her own door, but at the end of a street of private houses, down which she was now walking. Percival realized with a certain thrill of uneasiness that it was P—street, the street in which his own house was situated. But something worse was in store. The young lady stopped, appeared to be carefully scrutinizing the numbers, then, after some evident hesitation, she walked straight up to the door of Percival's house and rang the bell. A minute later she was admitted.

But in his worried state of mind the dullness of a domestic evening, or the yet deadlier boredom of a political conversation, was uninviting.

SINGHALESE TALK AND TEA.

Those who attended the Singhalese Durbar given Tuesday evening on C. H. Hall's lawn by Mr. Ernest Bradley, assisted by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, were highly entertained. Two large tents were filled with visitors and the occasion was enlivened by the presence of the City band. Mr. Bradley's discourse was on the Island of Ceylon. He gave a very interesting and elaborate description of the customs and peculiarities of the natives of Ceylon. He appeared in the costume worn by the people of the island and the lecture was illustrated to some extent by articles which he procured during his sojourn in India. Mr. Bradley labored in India in the interest of the Salvation Army in the capacity of captain. He is thoroughly familiar with the country and its people and his lecture is based on personal experience and observation. He talks the Singhalese language quite well and amused the audience greatly by singing songs as they are sung by the natives. Mr. Bradley's lecture lasted about an hour and those present said they had not spent an hour more enjoyably for some time. At the conclusion of the lecture, the ladies served Singhalese tea and other refreshments at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hall.

Will Disband and Disperse.

The people of Ishpeming who have taken such an interest in the City band, which was reorganized with twenty-six members a few months ago, and has since proven itself the finest musical organization Ishpeming ever had, will regret to learn that it will disband after today's engagement at L'Anse. The majority of the members have been employed about the mines and since there is no prospect of an early adjustment of the labor trouble here several of the members have concluded to leave within the next few days. They regret being compelled to disband but have no option as matters stand. Some of the members propose going to points in Illinois and Indiana while others are bound for the west. Some of them may also go to the Mesaba and Gogebic ranges. They would be pleased to remain here but with no encouragement for the future they can see no object in doing so. The people of Ishpeming will hear the band for the last time when it returns from L'Anse tomorrow noon.

Rare Works.

The Waino Temperance society of Ishpeming has presented the city library with some fine works—"Finland in the Nineteenth Century" and "Finland's Union with the Russian Empire"—both authorities for reference. They are valuable additions to the library, as it is seldom such works as these are found in libraries in this country. The former, "Finland in the Nineteenth Century," is especially valuable and will be read with interest by many of the residents of Ishpeming.

No. 7 Pumps Stopped.

The Lake Superior Iron company pulled the fires from under the boilers at its No. 7 mine Tuesday evening and the workings are slowly but gradually filling with water. The local officials of the company have not yet received instructions as to the pumps at the company's other workings.

Nothing In It.

The report current on the streets in Ishpeming and Negaunee yesterday to the effect that the pumps at the Lake Superior Section 16 mine were taking care of all the water which came into the Lake Angeline and Cleveland Lake Shaft mines has no foundation. In fact the rumor is a senseless one, at least when considered from a practical point of view. The underground openings of the Cleveland Lake and Section 16 mines are over seven hundred feet apart while the shafts are over half a mile distant from each other. There is no direct opening between the two properties where the water could be drained from one to the other. In the case of the Lake Angeline and Section 16 mines, the situation, however, is somewhat different. There is a drift connecting these two mines but it is three hundred feet from the bottom of the Lake Angeline property. Consequently several levels will be filled with water before the surplus can flow into the Lake Superior property. In case the three mines were connected by drifts leading from the bottom levels it would even then be impossible to raise the enormous amount of water which they make with the little plant now in operation at the Section 16 mine. It is a fact generally known to the majority of the men acquainted with the mine that the pumps at Section 16 have all they can do to take care of the water at that mine alone, to say nothing of the quantity they would have to raise from the other two mines were they connected on the lower levels.

Loading by Hand.

The city has resumed loading gravel for the streets at the St. Lawrence pit. The steam shovel is not being operated as it was impossible to find a man to manipulate it owing to the strike at the mines here. Loading by hand is very slow work but it is the best method that can be employed at present. It will take considerable gravel to cover Main and Front streets.

The Giant Has Gone.

The tall young Swede who took such great pride in leading the procession of striking mechanics during the past five weeks has left the range. He became tired of idleness and left Ishpeming Tuesday night. He has gone to the Gogebic range, where he hopes to find a job. The young man referred to was by a large percentage the tallest man in this section. He was head and shoulders over John W. Jobim and if his bulk were proportioned to his height he would be one of the largest men in the United States. He is quite young and it is said he is still growing.

ISHPERING IN BRIEF.

J. B. Montgomery was down from Champion yesterday. The city band went to L'Anse yesterday and will take part in the band contest there today.

The latest styles in felt hats for early fall wear just received at Gradowsky's. These are the first of the season.

John M. Hartnett and wife of Escanaba were in Ishpeming yesterday. Mr. Hartnett will attend the A. O. U. W. reunion at L'Anse today.

It is said that Robert Scilling, the populist of Milwaukee, who spoke at Marquette Tuesday evening, addressed the strikers at Union Park yesterday.

The curbing on Front street has been completed and the gravel dressing is now being put on. The curbing along Main street will be completed next week.

About fifty lumbermen came up from Menominee yesterday. They have been engaged to work in the woods near Glover by a contractor who is just commencing operations there.

Timothy McNamara left Tuesday evening for Chicago, where he may possibly locate if he finds a suitable position. He contemplates a trip west in case he does not decide to remain in Chicago.

Thomas Trengove came down from the Mesaba range yesterday to see his mother, who is dangerously ill. He says times are quite lively on the Mesaba at present and that the miners there are earning better wages now than they did before the walkout on this range.

Professor Hardy and the members of the school board have begun getting several extra rooms in order for the opening of the schools during the first week of next month. The two store-rooms in the Gravelock building on Ridge street are being filled up and the arranging of one or two other suitable rooms is contemplated.

PITH AND POINT.

"How do you like that little French girl next door, Polly?" "Don't like her at all," said Polly. "She calls me names. She called me a m'asselle yesterday, and I ain't."

"Willie—What does alimony mean, pa? Does it mean all the money?" Pa (bitterly)—"Yes, all the money a man can scrape together, and more too, sometimes."—N. Y. World.

"Abbott—I have never been in Chicago, but I have been through the town a few times." "Babbitt—I have been in Chicago, but the town went through me."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Talk about daylight robbery being the height of imposition," said the man as he shook his fist at the gas meter. "It is not in it with gaslight robbery." No.—Indianapolis Journal.

"Guest—"By Jove, I've eaten such a hearty dinner that I guess I'll have to go up stairs and sleep it off." Hotel Clerk—"In that case we'll have to charge you with a meal taken to your room."—Life.

"Baker got into a rumpus with a policeman the other night," said Pinkney. "He offered to bet the policeman he didn't dare arrest him." "What did the cop do?" "Took him up."—Harper's Bazar.

"Smythe—"I dropped a penny in front of a blind beggar to-day to see if he'd pick it up." Tompkins—"Well, did he?" Smythe—"No; he said, 'Make it sixpence, mister, and I'll forget myself.'"—Exchange.

"Fuddy—"What a fellow to brag Gale! He is all the time blowing about the persons he has saved from drowning." Duffy—"That's all right. A life preserver, you know, is fall of wind."—Boston Transcript.

"Leading Lady (at the tragedy theater)—"I don't like the new lover a bit; he is such an ugly brute; and his playing! So clumsy and awkward!" Second Lady—"Yes, and he is married into the bargain."—Illustrirte Zeitung.

"Theological—Bessie—"Papa, what is a unit?" Papa (reflectively)—"Well, one is a unit." "Then Kate's young man is a Unitarian, isn't he?" "How so?" "Because you said he was looking out for number one all the time."—Texas Siftings.

"You are right in it," remarked the whale to Jonah. "You bet I am in it," was the answer; "and what is more, if I am not out of it in less than a week I will give you the biggest case of appendicitis on record." The sequel is history.—Indianapolis Journal.

"The truly poetic soul is full of longings," said the young man. "That's the trouble," replied the brutal editor, as he hand him a bunch of manuscript. "The average poet just lets himself loose on longing when what his work really needs is shortening."—Washington Star.

"Rivers—"You don't need to buy a bicycle suit, Banks. Here's a gray flannel one of mine. It's too big for you, but you can take it to a tailor's and have it cut down." Banks (inspecting it)—"That won't be necessary, Rivers. I'll just take it to the laundry."—Chicago Tribune.

"A good baby story is of a neighbor meeting a little one on the street, and saying: 'Good morning, my little dear. I never can tell you and your sister apart. Which of the twins are you?' And the little dear made answer: 'I'm the one what's out walking.'"—The Transcript.

Difficult to Answer.

"It is hard enough to lose our tempers," said the good deacon to his Sunday school class, "but how infinitely worse to swear over it." The little fat man on the front seat nervously mopped off his forehead. "I'd like to know what you're going to do," he said, "when you are a baker and just as you get your arms buried in a tub of dough two hundred flies make the discovery that the whole top of your head is bald." The deacon said he hadn't thought of that.—N. Y. Recorder.

BIG AND LITTLE JIM. BY FRANK B. MILLARD.

"Can't you drive your horses 'bout swearing their heads off? You rattle out cuss words like dice out of a box, and there's the kid back there on the straw takin' it all in. It don't seem the c'rect thing, Jim," and Sergt. Tenny looked over his shoulders from the wagon seat at a limp four-year-old, whose eyes were shut and whose face, fringed by yellow hair, was shaded from the fierce heat of the desert sun by a gunnysack tied to a side stake.

"If you must swear, swear in Spanish." The big freight wagon ground the white dust another moment before Private Jim Brown said, in an apologetic tone: "I thought he was asleep."

"No, I don't," and Private Brown's mouth closed like a trap on the words. "But this young fellow behind—Jimmie—what air yeh goin' ter do with him?"

"Sh-h-h! I'm goin' to—I've got to send him to Los Angeles. He goes on the train soon's we get to Alkali Flat. This tag goes on his arm and there's a man from the asylum to meet him at Mojave."

"My, I thought yeh was goin' ter keep him. Mrs. Tenny seemed so 'tached to him." Striding too deep into Tenny, who was feeling what any man might feel who was thrusting forth a tender charge like Jimmie to the care of utter strangers, the words of blunt Jim Brown touched him on the raw, and he shot out with: "You don't know anything about it. S'posin' a woman friend of your wife's leaves a kid with her to take care of before you ever meet her. Then you meet your wife an' marry her on promise that she'll git shed o' the other woman's child, an' then she goes on year after year for three hell years an' just keeps it on hand. Don't yeh s'pose you'd flare up finally an' send it off yourself?"

"Wal, I dunno. I've tried drownin' cats, that'd been aroun' home for a good while, but somehow I never could do it." "But this ain't a case of drownin'—it's jest—"

"Oh, yeh, I know what it is," Jim said to himself, "he got jealous o' that kid. It must a-tuk up a hull lot o' her time an' he didn't like it a little bit. That's the way I put it up."

The buckskin leader leaped wildly in the air, snorted, shook his tangled mane, and plunged toward the bank, pushing the off leader, who, in his turn, went mad and reared and leaped. The brake screamed on the wheel and slipped as if greased. The wheelers took up the dance, and Jim lay back on his seat, tugging at the reins like a giant and swearing through locked teeth like a fiend infernal.

"Nothing but a coyote," he growled, "an' that buckskin has got ter rare up. Git down there, you cussed houn's, or I'll saw your tongues out!"

No man on earth could have held them then, or even have guided them ever so little. They were flying down the grade, the wagon bumping and thumping and the dust sweeping over and clouding them all. Tenny sprang back over the wagon seat and took the boy in his arms. Jimmie had not opened his eyes, nor was he yet awake, as he held him there so tightly to his breast. It was only when, with a crash, the team, wagon and all left the road and leaped down the bank that the boy woke with a smile and hugged the big man's neck like the young cub that he was.

blue trousers and at the bright cartridge belt with the No. 219 upon it. It was no use. While he had been scheming away Jimmie had been crawling about under the wagon and was now coming toward him with a very red face and a look of the greatest discomfort, while he claved at his white little throat and shouted: "Bugs! 'rantslers! centerpedes!"

"Where?" was Big Jim's quick query. "In my shirt—'rantslers! Dit 'em out! Dit 'em out!"

With genuine alarm Big Jim sprang to Little Jim, but the look of dismay on his face turned to a broad smile when he saw a few of the little red ants of the desert running wildly up and down the boy's neck. The soldier brushed off two or three, and then unbuttoned the little shirt front to investigate further. He caught the solitary invader and began to button up the shirt again.

"What d'yeh do with that there string 'roun' your neck, youngster?" he asked, struggling to get the wee button through the ridiculously small button-hole.

"Dat's my locket," and the lad pulled away at a silken cord, fishing up a flat golden trinket and putting it confidently into the big brown hand. Jim's eyes blinked as the sunlight struck the worn gold, and they blurred more and more as he noted the initials "J. M. B." and the date "1883," and his hands shook violently as he tore open the locket.

"O-o-o-h, you squeech too hard, an' your face's rough," went up Jimmie's protest as the man seized him and squeezed him of a sudden and choked and sobbed over him like a great baby, "an' your eyes is as wet—leggo," and he squirmed and kicked frantically.

"My own child—Julie's. Her face, too. God bless 'em!" The soldier's thoughts bridged the chasm of years that lay between the present and that day of the violent quarrel when their little world had fallen and his wife had run away with their baby child. And then there were his years of futile search, and—was she living?

"Where is your mother, Jimmie? Your own real mother, not your Mary mother?" "Oh, my truly mommie's dead, an' my popple's dead, too—way off dead—an' my name's James Brown Tenny, an' I'm four years old. Lemme take your knife. I won't cut nuffin' at all."

"Yes—a hundrd knives, if yeh want 'em. Your popple ain't dead—no, sir—'he's jest as live as anybody. I'm your popple."

"Oh, you ain't nice like Popple Tenny. You ain't dot no stripes on your arm, an' your whiskers is awf'l. Don't do dat agin; it hurts. You said you'd let me take your knife."

"Wal, I'll open this here leetle blade—'tain't sharp 'nough ter cut yeh, an' yeh can whittle on this." And like a man in a dream he gave him the knife and a long stake splinter. And then they sat and talked, while the fly-beset horses stamped, twitched their skins fitfully and whisked their tails, until up the road came Tenny's dust, and ere long heated Tenny himself, with a sour face.

him up to the wagon. "Come out o' this, young 'n." He stooped, seized the boy, and was on horseback and away, but not before Tenny, who, lighter handed, was mounted and off, with a parting shot down the road to let the red men know there were brass cartridges on hand and to spare.

They were headed for the fort, and the reds did not relish a chase in that direction, but they came on with a dash and were uglier free with their powder.

"Hang on tight, boy, an' keep yer head down," cautioned Jim, turning in his saddle to make a leaden reply to a leaden greeting from the Apaches. "We've got ter make better time in this. The sergeant's 'way ahead of us, an' them devils is 'gittin' closter. We've just got ter—"

With that cry which only a horse in pain can give, Jim's mustang leaped, wobbled on his legs and came down heavily in the road, where he kicked feebly and then lay quiet.

"Wal, this here is bad! Shot our hoss from under us an' here we are, right in their track. We've jest got ter git out o' this, youngster."

With the boy upon his back and his rifle under his arm, he leaped from the trail and went dodging among the rocks on the hillside above. With a great rattle and rush the Apaches came up to the place where Jim had left the road, some of them swinging by and others urging their horses to the hard task of picking their way among the rocks up the acclivity. For half a mile Jim sneaked along carrying a burden that grew no lighter as he climbed. He was making for a stronghold up above him. He fancied he saw one at the summit of the hill, where there was a wall of rocks—a good place to lie low and keep his ugly face at bay until help should come from the fort.

Glancing back, Jim saw the heads of the foremost of his pursuers. They had left their horses and were crawling up the rocks behind him. Even as he glanced he saw a puff of smoke and felt a sharp prick of pain in his leg. But though the blood streamed down and a giddiness seemed to seize him, he pushed up the hillside, dragging the boy behind him. From a sheltering fragment near the summit to the rocky escarpment that was to be their fortress, there was an exposed place of a few rods. Gathering his breath Brown ran limpingly to cross this space, with the boy in his arms. There was a rain of bullets amid which the man staggered, fell upon his face and then dragged himself toward the rocks, calling to the child to hurry ahead.

And there they were at last, and safe and secure seemed the sheltering wall. It was open at only one point, and this he set to work to guard religiously, while he kept the boy in the safest place. He knotted his handkerchief and with a stick twisted it about his leg to stop the flow of blood. Aside from the pain in the leg there was a numbness of his left shoulder which he did not like at all, though the wound did not bleed, which was something to be thankful for.

He lay on his stomach and placed a little row of cartridges before him. Then he waited. They would not come up—those sneaking fiends of the desert. He was only one man against them all, but he was a white man, and a white man in a corner. Now and then a bullet flattened against the rock near his head, where it seemed a piece of slag that had melted and run down the hard surface. He fired whenever a dark head showed itself, which was not often, and twice he heard yells that told of his true aim.

Lying there in the shadow would have been refreshing after bearing the fierce rays of the sun so long, but that he felt weak and still weaker as the day passed. And then the night came, and down through the world's great roof shone stars such as one sees on the high mesa. They lighted hill and canyon and the great stretch beyond, but their light was uncertain, and in the black patches lurked the foe. The man grew stiff and sore. His legs throbbled, his head was hot and his tongue dry, and there was a singing and a humming in his ears, but all the time he must be peering—peering with aching eyes—and keep his rifle clutched with steady grip.

When at last Company K hunted up the place where the hostiles had made their night of it and scattered them about like fleeing coyotes, Sergt. Tenny closely scanned the rock wall with his binocular. Away up there, in the highest light of the morning, he saw a brown something on the end of a stick. It looked like a cavalryman's hat shot full of holes, and he made toward it ahead of all the rest. "Jimmie!" he called to the form lying so quietly there at the opening of the little fortress. "Jimmie!" Then he saw the stare of the man's wide-open eyes and saw the red stains on his face and breast, and knew that Jim had gone beyond the londest call. "Shot to pieces, poor Jim! But they didn't dare come up here. He made a brave fight of it, poor Jim!"

BENEFITS ARE UNDOUBTED.

The Farmers' institute project, mention of which was made in these columns some weeks ago has begun to take shape and it is all probability a possibility that some time will be held here some time during the coming winter.

The object of these gatherings is to get farmers together to compare experience and also to bring directly to them the results of experience elsewhere and of tests and experiments made by the trained observers of the state Agricultural college and at the Agricultural Experiment station.

A local organization has already been formed at South St. Marie and Kennerly has one under way. Mr. Folger's plan from here to Ansonia and then to Iron River, Norway and Deception.

Patronize Home Industries. The council held a special meeting last evening for the purpose of approving the bond of James M. Wilkinson, who was the highest bidder for the deposit of the city's money.

Some difficulty was experienced in obtaining a quorum, several of the aldermen being out of town, but Marshal Maloney finally rounded up nine of the city fathers and the meeting was called to order with President Sherman in the chair and Aldermen Hoag, Brown, Rowletter, Robertson, Tobin, Carney, Rice and Vandenberg present.

We the undersigned, workmen and taxpayers of the City of Marquette, respectfully protest against the city buying steam rock, roller, rock crusher and other machinery away from here when the same can be purchased of home manufacturers, of as good quality and for substantially the same price.

This petition was signed by 174 mechanics and business men of the city, all of whom are on the tax rolls. There certainly seems no good reason why the council, on account of a trivial difference in price, should go outside for machinery which can be built just as well and probably better here at home.

More Light is Needed. The residents in the vicinity of Hewitt avenue and Spruce street say that an electric light is badly needed at that corner and an inspection of the locality almost any night will convince anyone of the justice of the demand.
