THE MARQUETTE SANATORIUM.
THE MARQUETTE SANATORIUM not only receives patients for treatment but others who need a quiet hygienic home for rest and recuperation.
Use is made of all forms of baths, massage, Swedish movements, the vibratory treatment, electricity, oxygen, super-heated air, cupping, special dieting, etc., etc.
It is well known that all cases of sickness, both medical and surgical, do better under sanatorium care and treatment than at home. All cases are helped and many seemingly hopeless cases of chronic invalidism are readily cured.

COMPROMISE WAS REACHED.

Only One Pennsylvania Republican Convention Was Held Yesterday.

QUAY HAD EVERYTHING HIS OWN WAY.

The Senator Unanimously Chosen State Chairman—Platform of Course, Declares Against Silver.

PROVED A VERY TAME AFFAIR.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—Tonight Senator Quay is here as well as Pennsylvania politicians of all degrees of prominence. His rooms at the hotel have been constantly besieged since the convention ended by men anxious to pay homage to his matchless leadership.
The senator takes all the praise and congratulations that is being showered upon him with his usual stoicism and so far as outward appearances go his demeanor is just the same as when the fight seemed to be going against him.
The convention, which started out with every promise of being one of the most exciting ever known in the state, developed into a "love feast" and wound up about as tamely as any ever seen here.

The first battle between the factions came on the election of temporary chairman. The Quay candidate won by a majority of thirty and after this the senator had his own way completely. An incident of the day was the offering by Quay of a resolution calling for the purification of politics and civil service in all branches of public service, which was afterwards embodied in the platform. Regarding this document there was much discussion in committee. Because of fear that the outside rabble might break in it was deemed unwise to open the doors of the hall after all entitled to admission were inside, and it was necessary for the fifty platform makers to get in one corner and discuss their business.

The anti-Quay minority, led by Congressman Dalzell, fought for a more definite expression in favor of sound money and, being out-voted in committee, brought their fight to the convention floor and here carried their point without much opposition, Quay accepting their plank as an addition to the one in his platform. The resolutions were prepared by men opposed to Governor Hastings and the matter of endorsing his administration was very nearly overlooked, though the full delegation offered the necessary plank a few minutes before final adjournment.

The day was the hottest of the session and for more than four hours the delegates, newspapermen and speculators were imprisoned in the sweltering atmosphere without food or drink.
With a few exceptions every man sat in his shirt sleeves, Senator Quay being one of the first to set the example.
Although there is an outward indication of harmony and forgiveness, it is said this extends only to Governor Hastings and his friends. Those on the platform observed that Quay did not look at or speak to C. L. Magee, David Martin and Senator Porter, the men who led the fight against him, and it is predicted tonight that the wounds now partly healed will be opened in a short while.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONVENTION.
HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—There was only one Republican convention today. A compromise was reached, at which the members agreed that the six superior court judges be renominated.
The other disputes were also adjusted.
At noon the convention was called to order. The fight over temporary chairman resulted in a Quay victory, 163 to 133. The election of Robinson was then made unanimous. Governor Hastings, leading the anti-Quay faction, seconding the motion. On motion of Quay the committee on permanent organization was instructed to report the name of Governor Hastings. Committees were then appointed. The committee reported Hastings unanimously elected as permanent chairman and he accepted in a brief speech.

Benjamin J. Haywood was unanimously chosen state treasurer. Quay moved the nomination by acclamation of James A. Beaver, Howard J. Reader, John J. Wickham, Geo. B. Orland, Chas.
E. Rice and Luzerne Willard, the governor's appointees for superior judges.
This was unanimously agreed to.
Chairman Gilkeson, in the interest of harmony, withdrew from the candidacy for state chairman and moved the unanimous election of Senator Quay.
The motion was received with wild applause. Congressman Dalzell then addressed the convention in favor of the incorporation in the platform of a strong plank in favor of "sound money." A synopsis of his speech follows:

"There is not an industry that does not demand the maintenance of sound money, and by sound money I mean money that goes as far in any market in the civilized world. The impression has gone abroad that there is a free silver party in Pennsylvania and that that party is Republican. Hence, in my judgment, it is necessary for the Republican party of Pennsylvania to declare itself unequivocally against the free and unlimited coinage of silver at another ratio than that fixed by an international agreement. There are thousands of Republicans west of the Mississippi river who claim that the Republican platform as adopted at Minneapolis means the free and unlimited coinage of silver. I want to get rid of that impression. In order that there may be no straddling and in order that no man can stand up and say the Pen-sylvania Republicans are seeking to catch votes by straddling the free silver question, add to your platform that the Republican party of Pennsylvania declares it is opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver in any other ratio than that fixed by an inter- national agreement."

Congressman Dalzell's speech was not without effect as the platform adopted declares against the "debasement of the national currency by the admission of silver to free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1"; adheres to the policy of protection, and insists on the passage of legislation to restore and maintain this policy without qualification or abatement; lays the blame of the financial depression at the door of the Democratic party, as the result of its open threat to destroy the protective policy; declares that such a measure of prosperity as the country enjoys is due to the radical changes made by the senate in the Wilson bill.
The convention adjourned sine die.

UTAH REPUBLICANS.

They Met in Convention at Salt Lake Yesterday—Resolutions Adopted.
SALT LAKE, Utah, Aug. 28.—The Republican territorial convention met today. Committees were appointed and a recess taken. On reconvening the committee on organization reported Hon. C. S. Varian as permanent chairman. The resolutions committee's report was adopted without a dissenting vote. It demands renomination and the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 irrespective of the action of any foreign nation; condemns the action of the present national administration for issuing government bonds in a time of peace; favors the American doctrine of protection; condemns the Democratic administration for its weak foreign policy and its failure to maintain the Monroe doctrine; denounces the Democratic party of Utah for the alleged ballot box frauds in its endeavors to control the constitutional convention.

For judges of the supreme court C. S.
Zane, G. W. Parrel and J. A. Miner were nominated on the first ballot.
For governor, Hebbner M. Wells was nominated on the second ballot. The convention then adjourned.

EDITORS DECLARE FOR SILVER.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 28.—The convention of western editors was called to order today by Hon. Geo. C. Cannon.
The report of the committee on resolutions provides for special freight rates for newspaper supplies; the reclamation of arid lands; action for more liberal libel laws, and other matters, including the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. The resolutions were adopted. C. E. Mansey of Colorado Springs was elected president.

A LAMP EXPLODED.

Fire Destroys Church in Italy—Fourteen Killed and Many Injured.

IVREA, Italy, Aug. 28.—Fourteen persons were killed and a number injured by a fire which broke out in a church at Riordone, caused by the explosion of a lamp and which spread to the pilgrim shelter, adjoining the church, where most of the persons burned to death.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 28.—The fourstoried building occupied by Lampton, Crane & Lancy, paints, varnishes and oils, burned tonight. The loss was $100,000. Mike Leon, a fruit peddler, was run down by a fire engine and fatally injured.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 28.—The sawmill of the Paine Lumber company was damaged to the extent of $40,000 by fire today; fully insured.

SURPRISED THE YACHTSMEN.

Cup Challenger Shows What She Can Do in Light Weather.

New York, Aug. 28.—Tonight three swift sailing yachts—Valkyrie III, Vig-ilant and Defender—are anchored in the Horseshoe just inside of Sandy Hook.
Tomorrow two of them, the Defender and Vigilant, will have a cup trial race while the other, the cup challenger, will follow and watch the movements of her American rivals. The English yacht was out for another spin today.
The wind was light, but that the Valkyrie is a fast boat in light waters there is no doubt. In a little four-knot breeze she sped along at a clipping pace. She reached out wonderfully well, probably better than the Defender under similar circumstances and surprised the yachtsmen.

ONLY TOOK ONE ROUND.

Walcott Knocks Out Middleweight
O'Brien in Short Order.

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Dick O'Brien of Lewiston, champion middleweight of New England, was knocked out in the first round of what was to be a twenty-five round bout by Joe Walcott, colored, of Boston tonight. Three thousand spectators were present. It was no secret that tonight's fight was for blood. The fighting was sharp from the start. O'Brien was floored twice in short order. As he rose the second time Walcott planted a left on the heart and a right on the jaw and O'Brien landed in a heap on the floor.
When the gong rang O'Brien showed no evidence of being able to proceed and the decision was given Walcott.

SELLING IMPURE MILK.

Chicago Health Commissioner After Many Dealers.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Health Commissioner Kerr began an open war against the milk dealers today. He filed charges in the office of the prosecuting attorney against ninety-three milk dealers whose milk or cream had been examined by the city chemist and had been found wanting. In many cases the milk had been skimmed and the dealer presumably selling it as good milk, because his cans were not otherwise tagged when the inspector took the sample. In some cases the milk had been merely watered and in others it had been both watered and skimmed.

Steamer Runs Ashore Near Bandon, Ore.—Rapidly Breaking Up and Passengers in Danger.

PLEASURE ENDED DISASTROUSLY PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 28.—An accident occurred on the St. Clair river near Marysville during a squall and rain storm this afternoon in which four persons lost their lives. A picnic was being held at Stag Island and Mrs.
Michael Derufg, Frank Derufg, her brother-in-law, and three ladies, Miss Cellia Choniski, Minnie Schvenhart and Edith Connor, rowed over early in the day. When the storm was seen coming up they started back for home, but when within four hundred feet of the shore a squall capsized it. All were drowned except Miss Schvenhart.

MANY PASSENGERS IN DANGER.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 28.—The steamer John Moore went ashore in a fog near Bandon, Or., this morning.
There is no telegraph line to Bandon and particulars of the wreck have not yet been received. Captain Scott of the life saving service has gone to the scene and is now upon the ground with his crew. It is reported by a mail carrier that one Japanese sailor was washed ashore badly injured. When the mail carrier left there could be seen twenty-five or thirty people on the steamer's deck. He also says she was breaking up and will be a total loss.

HARD TIMES THE CAUSE.

Old Established New York Firm Makes an Assignment.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Spelman Bros., importers and dealers in fancy goods, novelties and toys, 361 and 353 Broadway, assigned today to S. V. White for the benefit of their creditors. The firm had been in existence for fifty years and carried stock valued at $200,000 to $250,000. A statement issued by the firm says: "The protracted hard times have resulted in our losing money for the last three years, and consequently the firm's paper had only a limited sale during the last six months. Rather than to go on and make further losses we decided it to be to the interest of our creditors to suspend. The liabilities are about equal to the nominal value of the assets."

THEY USED DYNAMITE BOMBS.

More Details of Bulgarian Attack on Village of Dospat.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 29.—Details have been received here of the recent attack made by a band of Bulgarians upon the Mohammedan village of Dospat, across the Turkish frontier in the Rhodope mountains, as exclusively cabled to the Associated Press Aug.
16. The attack, it appears, occurred while the villagers were asleep. The Bulgarians used dynamite bombs and set fire to the houses. Men, women and children, it is claimed, were killed indiscriminately. According to one version of the affair three hundred persons perished.

THEY PLEADED GUILTY.

Union Pacific Train Robbers Receive Ten-Year Sentences.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Aug. 28.—Hans and Knute Knutson, the two young Nebraska farmers who held up the overland express on the Union Pacific at Brady Island a week ago tonight, pleaded guilty this afternoon and each were sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. They said they were impelled to do the work by the thought that a great fortune might easily be made. They said they secured less than $50 from the safe which they blew open in the express car.

HAVE ARRIVED AT HAMBURG.

German-American Veterans Loudly
Cheered by the Citizens.

HAMBURG, Aug. 28.—The German-American veterans arrived here this afternoon from Bremen. The railroad station was crowded with spectators who cheered the visitors vociferously as, headed by their banners, they marched through the lines of Hamburg veterans who were drawn up on either side in their honor. Carriages were in waiting and the visiting veterans were taken to their hotels. They will visit Prince Bismarck at Friedrichsruhe tomorrow.

WILL FIGHT IN MEXICO.

Corbett-Fitzsimmons Mill to Be Pelled Off Across the Border.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 28.—It is understood that matters have been fixed at Mexico City with the federal officials so the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight can be pulled off in Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso. Twenty thousand dollars in Mexican money must be put up as a guarantee for local expenses and evidence of good faith.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

M. E. Asire left yesterday for Chicago and Milwaukee on a business trip. W. S. Prickett of Sidnaw was in town yesterday on his semi-periodical visit to friends here.

Misses Alice James and Katherine Brand of Houghton are here visiting the Misses Primeau.

Rev. Edward Smith, of St. Vincent's church, Chicago, is here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Byrne.

Misses Eugenie and Laura Pellissier have returned after spending five weeks visiting in different parts of Canada.

E. H. Scott of La Porte, Ind., was in the city yesterday for a few hours on his way to Munising to look after the railroad and other matters there in which he is heavily interested.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the residence of Mrs. Pierce, West Bluff street, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is desired and all ladies are welcome.

Next Monday, Labor Day, being a legal holiday, Sunday hours will be observed at the postoffice and no delivery will be made by carriers except through the windows from 3:15 to 3:45 p. m.

The Marquette Tennis club will hold a tournament for the championship of the club next Monday. Trophies are offered for singles and doubles and some well-contested matches are probable.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Colville was held yesterday from the residence of her father, William Hour, Rev. Mr. Spencer conducting the services. The funeral was very largely attended and the floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

A large crowd filled the street in front of the Hotel Marquette last evening to see a free stereoscopic exhibition. The primary purpose of the affair was to advertise a brand of soap, but many of the pictures were very good anyhow.

Sounds at Night.

Sir David Brewster has given an excellent account of a mysterious night-sound which would have frightened most persons, but which proved innocent and harmless when tested by a steady observer. A gentleman heard a strange sound every night soon after getting into bed. His wife, who retired earlier than he, also heard the weird sound, but not until the husband had got into bed. For a long time no possible cause could be assigned, and the effect upon the imagination became rather unpleasant. The husband discovered, some time afterward, that the noise came from the door of a wardrobe which stood near the head of the bed. It was his custom to open and close this wardrobe when undressing, but, as the door was a little tight, he could not quite shut it. The door, probably affected by changes in the temperature, forced itself open with a dull sound which was over in an instant.

And so many a good ghost story could be solved by a little attention to the sounds resulting from the expansion and contraction of wood-work, such as door panels, window frames, wainscoting and furniture. Heard at night when all is still, the sudden creaking of furniture in a room is often quite startling, until one comes to know that it is due to the weather.

Getting Even.

The scene in which the boy, his father and an instrument of correction had figured was a very painful one. "I don't b-b-ieve," sobbed the youngster, "that you kin sympathize with me, an' I've been lickin' for me swimmin' place just hankerin' for a company."

"Oh, yes, I can," was the prompt rejoinder. "I've been lickin' for going in swimmin' many a time when I was a boy."-Washington Star.

KANGEGATSUK.

BY RALPH GRAHAM TABER.

It was the springtime of the year, but at Kikkertalsok there were no soft May breezes, no blossoming flowers, no buds of delicate green. The season's heralds were the shrieking wind, the rushing torrents fed by melting snow, the crashing avalanches from the ice-bound heights, the surgings of the mighty sea, which stretched its arms and breathed with sullen sighs, like some sound sleeper slowly wakening, and cracked and ground its covering of white, tossing huge fragments upon end, and filling the snowy ocean, plain with hissing knolls, which scintillated with dazzling luster beneath the bright morning sun.

In the shadow of a lofty cliff, upon a bank of deeply drifted snow, were six white mounds, which might have attracted no attention except, perhaps, by their regularity of form.

From one of these there emerged, upon all fours, the short, squat figure of an aged man, who rose erect, tossing the long, grizzled hair back from his eyes impatiently, and turned to address another following him.

"'Twas I who said it, Kupa, did I not?" he demanded.

His companion, scrambling to his feet, grunted an assent, and proceeded to envelope his head in the fox-trimmed hood which made one piece with his loose fitting upper garment.

Both men were clothed alike in heavy furs, the spotted hairy skins of the ranger seal; each carried a long, old-fashioned muzzle-loading rifle, and a heavy spear tipped with walrus tusk, attached to which was a long thong of walrus hide swinging in loose coils from his mittened hands.

Their full, broad, brownish faces, straight black hair, piercing eyes, flat noses and short statures proclaimed their race, if their dress and equipment would not have been sufficient.

"The foolish boy has not returned," continued the elder, in the Esquimau tongue. "The time was ill and nothing could be gained. I said it, but the stripling mocked at me-me, Mauterjek - the oldest of the tribe! Was I not shaman before this cub was born?"

"Softly, master; we must be off to find the meat to-day, so let the trouble lie. It is not idle to feed the empty stomach on idle thoughts; so thou thyself hast said. Thou art my mother's husband, the never-failing hunter, the true of aim. Our time will come. Shall we let our people starve while tootoo (the deer) yet may roam the hills? Silkepa may have found him while we talk."

"That he will not!" the shaman cried. "Take which way thou wilt - the deer is mine, if any may be found."

And swinging his long gun to his shoulder he started off, with agility surprising in one so old, and soon was lost to sight among the drifts.

Silkepa had started out the day before, in spite of storm of driving wind and biting hail, in search of anything that might be found for food.

The deer had disappeared across the land, the seals became exceptionally scarce; disease had visited the camp and robbed him of his father, the chief of the tribe, whose native judgment and instinctive knowledge of right and wrong, combined with strong will power and a kindly disposition, had made his wish a law with those he ruled, enabled him to settle all disputes and yet retain the loving veneration of his people.

The dying chief had let them understand that Silkepa, though yet a youth in years, had met and slain Nanuk, the water bear, and earned his right to be their Kangegatsuk.

The father had then cautioned and advised him: "My son, thou'lt have short time to mourn my death. Sickness and famine, twin-born, are upon us. Thou wilt be envied, and thy actions watched that some cause may be found for thy displacement.

"Go, if thou canst, and fill the camp with food; so shalt thou prove thy worth and earn affection. Take on thyself the burdens of the whole; nor seek to rule thy elders; but advise them.

"Cross not the shaman. Pay him his tribute as a gift deserved by reason of the mysteries he knows; but be not ruled thyself by lesser ones. When thou dost know the right way, hold it fast, and be not turned aside though every man's hand should uplift against thee."

Thinking of these, his father's dying words, Silkepa forced his way against the wind, narrowly watching for some sign of game, and clambering over the hummocks of rough ice which filled the broad channel round his island home and bound it to the distant Labrador main.

Khimik, his father's favorite hunter, gaunt leader of the team, trotted beside him, safely in leash.

So hour by hour they plodded on until the sun was low. Then Silkepa, halting before a drift of snow, drew a broad knife out from its sheath, and with practiced skill slashed from the mass a number of wedge-like pieces, piling them in a circle as he worked, which swiftly shaped itself into a hut.

A remarkably short time sufficed to complete his simple preparations for the night; and, once within the tiny igloo, he pilloved his head on Khimik's shaggy back and slept.

The morning dawned bright and fair; the wind still blew with wild persistency, but the sky was clear; and Silkepa, drawing forth a small skin bag part filled with oil, shared the meager contents with his dog; then slit the bag and shared that morsel also, and started again upon the search for game, chewing the bit of seal skin as he went.

It might have been near noon when Khimik stopped, cocked up his ears and keenly sniffed the air.

Silkepa's heavy heart grew light with joy, and, giving the dog more leash, he urged him on.

Khimik turned sharply toward the wind and ran a pace or two, halted, and then tugged fiercely at the leash, with head erect and tightly curling tail. Silkepa looked carefully to the priming of his gun, then gave the dog his will and followed nervously.

Presently the animal stopped and nosed the hard frozen surface of the snow-covered ice. Silkepa, kneeling, saw a few faint scratches there and rose with glowing cheeks and flashing eyes.

"It is Nanuk!" he whispered, breathlessly. "Good dog, good Khimik, keep on!" And cautiously they followed up the trail.

Upon a cluster of rugged hummocks they found the bear lazily dozing in the noontide sun, and, keeping well to leeward, stole upon him with such silent tread that Nanuk took no note of their approach, nor dreamed an enemy shared the field with him, until a well-aimed bullet pierced his side and the red blood spurted forth. Then with a roar of mingled rage and pain the great beast rose and faced the daring boy-who now was busily reloading his clumsy weapon-paused a moment and flung himself at his foe; but ere he reached his aim the gun was poised and two shots rang out simultaneously.

The monster staggered blindly, turned and beat the air with his huge forepaws, then fell on his side, and, drawing his knife, Silkepa leaped upon him.

"Be not so fast!" a harsh voice called out, angrily. "Nanuk is dead, but 'tis because of me. And were I not still young enough to hunt, thy carcass would need skinning, not the bear's." And Mauterjek, the shaman, stood beside him.

"Look! Here thy bullet sped-and here again. This is the killing blow, here in the neck. It is the place to strike. None but a foolish boy would aim so low. What! do you still dispute me? Be off at once and send the team and sled; if nothing else, thy limbs know how to run. And tell no lying tales how thou didst kill."

Silkepa, knife in hand, remained erect. His color came and went throughout this speech, but otherwise he seemed unmoved by it. Then, stooping quickly, he severed one big forepaw, slung it in a noose of sealskin thong, and with it on his shoulder strode away, nor answered Mauterjek by a single word.

Khimik hungrily lapped the warm, red blood; but the shaman drove him off with vigorous blows, and, whining, he limped away on the road his master was pursuing with nervous steps.

That night, when all had feasted and hunger was a memory fading fast, Silkepa called the people to assemble and in a few words told them of the hunt.

"Mauterjek claims the killing blow as his; yet you all saw the wound in Nanuk's neck. The bear was facing me, its side to him; say, then, whose bullet was it that did the work? He has reviled me in terms unjust, unfit. Had he been younger he would have heard from me. I do not war with age, nor bandy words. Is he to be your chieftain, or am I?"

The people looked anxiously at one another.

The shaman rose with brows dark and teeth as night; his teeth were grunted together and his bronzed features twitched. A moment passed before he could control his rage sufficiently to speak in measured tones, and then he said:

"Children, this upstart boy, this lying cub, would have you say that he had slain the bear; that he alone had found the camp this food; that he alone was fit to rule the tribe!"

Then swaying his body slowly to and fro, beginning in a low voice, but gradually gaining force with eloquent quence:

"Who is it drives away your riches and pains; restores your health and heals your wounds; charms the wild things which furnish us with food, brings buiyea (the seal) to your spears, draws fleet-foot tootoo from the inland wastes?"

"Who weaves the spell to keep our ancient foes, the mountain folk, from spreading out upon our hunting ground to kill our deer and seals, to steal our wives, to trap our men like foxes in their holes?"

"If this young crow should set him over us, look not to Mauterjek again when food is gone; look not to Mauterjek when illness comes."

"War with the tribes, and worse; disease, and worse; famine, and worse; ay, death, and worse shall come; for none shall be left to build you burial cairns; the wolves shall end it! This I prophesy, I, Mauterjek! Oh, people, hear and heed your Mauterjek!"

And the harsh voice of the shaman rose to shrieking pitch, the people swayed to the rude rhythm of his speech; and Kupa threw himself, face downward, moaning: "Aillah! 'Tis thou hast said it. Aillah! thou art our shaman and our chief; Aillah!"

The morning star shone brightly overhead when a solitary figure appeared before the group of icy huts, and a low voice called: "Khimik, come. Haul! haul!"

A whine responded as the dog thrust his sharp muzzle against Silkepa's hand; and slowly, but without hesitation and with not one backward look, the youth and his mute comrade faced the south and left the camp behind.

"Khimik, I have heard them tell," he said, "of strange, good men, with faces like the snow, who come to teach the people wondrous truths."

"They worship something which they call a 'Book,' a package made of wafers, like crisp, dry leaves from off the berry vines, and covered with strange marks, at which they look and tell of many things; that some believe."

"'Tis many days and in a warmer land; but we will go to them and see if there be place for you and me."-N. Y. Independent

STEAM SHOVELS TO START.

Mines at Ishpeming Preparing to Resume Shipments from Their Stockpiles in a Few Days.

NEW MEN WILL BE SECURED IF OLD EMPLOYEES REFUSE TO WORK.

Shovel Operators Willing to Go to Work if the Union Will Allow Them, But Objection May Be Raised.

GETTING THE SHOVELS READY.

Superintendent Walters of the Lake Angeline mine yesterday informed THE MINING JOURNAL that he intended starting his steam shovel within a few days. The shovel is now being repaired and just as soon as it is in condition for work it will be started. Mr. Walters reports that it will take some time, perhaps four or five days, to put the shovel in repair. It is in bad order, owing to the hard and steady work done before the shut-down. Master Mechanic Smith began overhauling the shovel yesterday and he says it is in much worse condition than he expected to find it. Mr. Walters says men will be brought in from outside to operate the shovel. The company's old shovel hands have refused to work and the only thing that can be done now is to get experienced men where they can be obtained. Mr. Walters does not anticipate that the strikers will interfere with the shovel crew. He thinks the men realize that it will be to their interest to allow the shovels to start and the stocked ore to be shipped. When they first went out the men were strongly opposed to having the shovels continue working, but it is now generally thought that they will not interfere with their operation. In case they do there will be but one result, and that will be calling on the authorities to protect the men brought here to operate the machines. Mr. Walters says the company has concluded to operate the shovels, no matter what the consequences may be.

Agent Mills of the Cleveland-Cliffs company returned from down the line yesterday. He says that his company has not yet decided to start its shovels, but may do so in the near future. "If our old hands will consent to run the shovels we will be pleased to set them at work," Mr. Mills said, "but if they do not I hardly think we will bring men in from outside to operate them." Mr. Mills thought the strikers would not interfere with the shovels in case they were started, as they understand that such action on their part would bring but one result. The Lake Superior Iron company has not yet decided whether to resume working its steam shovels or not, but it is quite probable that the company will soon make a move in that direction. The company has two shovels and in case it concludes to start them it can ship ore very rapidly. The steam shovel men are anxious to return to work, but they fear the strikers might object. They have already joined the union and they now hate to go back on it. In case the union would consent to allow them to start they would gladly go to work. As a rule, they were all satisfied with their wages and as the companies have offered them an advance in wages, they are not inclined to remain here as long as there is work for them at the mines. Those whose places will be filled by men from outside will be the men who have been laid off. Nearly all the shovels have been laid off here expecting that the strike would be settled soon. One of the shovel men talked with President Coad of the miners' union relative to the matter, and the latter said he was opposed to the shovels being started. The man said that he was satisfied with his wages and in view of the fact that the companies had offered the shovel hands a reasonable advance he saw no reason why they should not be permitted to return to work. The shovel men, he said, had no grievance, and they would be pleased to get back to work.

Met Poor Encouragement.

The report which was given out by some of the strikers on Monday, to the effect that the soliciting committee for the miners' union which made a tour of the copper country last week met with good encouragement, was evidently not true. It was generally reported about town, as coming from the members of the union, yesterday that the aggregate amount collected was about $150 and that the expense of the committee was something like $50 or $60. It is also said that the greater amount collected in the copper region was donated by the business men there, that the miners did very little for the cause. It was generally expected that the copper country miners would contribute liberally to the support of the strikers and their families here, owing to their recently having been given an advance in wages. It is also reported that the committee which went down the line of the Chicago & Northwestern road met with very poor encouragement.

Many Finlanders Leaving.

The South Shore depot platform was crowded with people Tuesday night when the 11:35 train pulled in. A number were leaving the city, while others were there to see their friends off. It was observed that quite a number of Finlanders went away. Some of them had their families with them and there were also three or four young girls in the party. They are nearly all going farming in Minnesota, while a few are bound for the Mesabian range.

Will Break Camp Today.

The families of F. P. Tillson, D. F. Wadsworth and others who have been camping on the west shore of Teal Lake near Fred Braastad's club house will break camp today. They have had a most enjoyable time and regret that they cannot remain longer.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Ferdinand Weiber was down from Houghton yesterday.

Otto Eger left Tuesday evening for Chicago on a business mission.

The funeral of the late George Bargh, held yesterday afternoon, was largely attended.

President Mather of the Cleveland-Cliffs company left Tuesday evening for Cleveland.

A. J. Yungbluth got back Tuesday night from a trip to Cleveland and other points on the lake shore.

Mrs. Joseph Pope and children returned yesterday from a two weeks visit to friends at Iron Mountain.

Thomas Trengove left for the Mesabian range Tuesday night. His mother is somewhat better than she was a few days ago.

Mrs. A. G. Arnold of Baraga is in Ishpeming, the guest of Mrs. Al. Smith. Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Smith spent yesterday with friends at Marquette.

Rev. J. T. Joslin, pastor of the Division street Methodist church, has concluded to leave Ishpeming. He will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday.

Dr. N. D. Kean has taken a position as assistant to Dr. Carpenter of the mining hospital at Iron Mountain, and will not go to Kansas City, as he had intended.

A new sidewalk was built in front of the Heineman block yesterday. The walks on Main street are now all of the same grade. The improvement is quite noticeable.

The last quarterly conference of the Methodist church was held in Ishpeming Monday evening, when the business of the year was reviewed. Presiding Elder Whalen was in attendance.

The work on the new high school building was delayed during the past week by the non-arrival of some of the iron material. It arrived yesterday, and the work will now be vigorously pushed. The laying of brick on the building proper will be started the early part of next week.

The draymen of Ishpeming supply the strikers at the park with drinking water every day. They haul the water in turn and Captain Shepherd of the Salvation Army, who is admitted to the meetings, sees that none of the draymen miss their regular turn. The boys have christened the captain "Superintendent of the water works."

NEWS OF L'ANSE.

A Remarkable Game of Baseball Between Two Nines Composed Solely of Ladies.

Umpired by a Man Who Found It Wise to Leave the Grounds Immediately After Rendering His Decision.

The annual M. E. Sunday school picnic took place Tuesday at Meadow Brook Park and was very largely attended by members of the Sunday school and their friends. A very nice dinner was served, after which games of various kinds were indulged in. The event of the afternoon was the ball game between two nines made up of ladies, with Mrs. C. P. Blankenhorn and Mrs. M. Wallace as captains. The game was a very closely contested one, and resulted in a score of 36 to 38 in favor of the Wallace nine, as announced by Umpired Matt Crawford, who left for Marquette immediately after declaring the game. Mrs. Wallace's home run hit was the feature of the first inning on one side and Miss Bessie Richardson's slide to third, and claiming the base and thereby forcing Elsie McKernan home, on the other. Mrs. Blankenhorn fanned out in the next inning and was followed by Miss Mame Smith and Edith Williams, and she retired in 1-2-3 order. Miss Wallace then found the hem on one side of the ball and made third. Mrs. S. T. Harris tried to stop a hot liner driven by Miss Thomas and was put on the retired list, when the bases were first and second counted. The game was handed to Mrs. Tuck, who flattened the sphere for a home run. Honors were even in the third but the umpire began to weaken. In the fourth Miss Orr made an insane hit for four bases and several scores followed. This necessitated a change of pitchers and May McKernan sent some special deliveries in that fouted them, and retired the side. The last half was noted for its heavy batting. Miss Beecher made a pass at the ball, and her bat found its way to Mrs. Thomas, who was playing short stop, and a substitute was called to take her place. Mrs. Shepard struck next and was prevented by the umpire from running twice around the bases. At the close of the fifth inning the score was a tie, necessitating another inning. This was full of special features to numerous mentions, and was won by the superior playing of the Wallace nine, giving that team the game. The gathering then dispersed after having supper on the grounds.

FASHION IN OLD JERUSALEM

The Jewesses of Ancient Times Were Genuinely Arrayed, Indeed.
As far back as seven centuries before the Christian era there were very gaily dressed women in Jerusalem. The prophet Ezekiel tells of them. They had garments of silk adorned with brodered work; their bodies were swathed in fine linen; they had shoes of badger skin. They wore ornaments of gold and silver, rings in the ears, bracelets on the wrists, a chain around the neck, a jewel over the brow and a crown upon the head.

The prophet speaks of the earrings which were worn by the women of Jerusalem; but these ornaments were worn by Jewesses ages before the time of Ezekiel, even in the days of Moses, and earlier yet. There were earrings among the other gifts in the oblation given to Moses, as described in the Book of Numbers. The first Biblical reference to them is in the part of Genesis which tells how Rebekah obtained as a gift a "golden earring of half a shekel weight" from Abraham's servant, who "put it upon her face." At a later period the patriarch Jacob procured all the earrings which belonged to his household and hid them under an oak tree. Subsequently to that time earrings are frequently spoken of in the Bible. Even Job, the patient man of Uz, must have owned a lot of them in the latter part of his life, for when all his brethren and all his sisters and all his acquaintances came to comfort him under his afflictions, "every one of them gave him an earring of gold."

In the very early periods of Jewish history women seemed to have been as fond of dress and decorations as they are in modern times. When the daughters of Jerusalem were appalled and bewelled in the way described by Ezekiel, their garments and ornaments must have been nearly as expensive as those of the grand dames who now shine in society. The wearing of "divers colors," however, does not seem to have been a mark of honor.

SHADOW OF A THOUGHT.

BY HARRY LANDER.

Fred Selfton was melancholy, apparently without any just cause. He had spent a very pleasant day in the execution of his duties in the shelving department of the home office...

Kate had taken the baby to see her mother, but would be back to dinner. This was not unusual, but upon this occasion it struck him as being very inconsiderate of her.

The other men in his room had been discussing holidays. Gapes was saving himself for a month's salmon fishing in Sunderlandshire.

Now, in his heart he called himself a fool, for in these days a man of thirty is too young for such responsibilities and well-privations.

He had never seen the club look more cozy than it did that afternoon. He had been welcomed by a crowd of men, the pleasant associates of a past life.

His thoughts wandered to Georgie de Vaux, his old college chum, who had shared those Gray's inn chambers.

Then, as Philly nestled on his shoulder, clutching vainly at his mustache, he drew her down onto his knee.

Mr. Winthrop--Do you think Jack Desmond is really in love with Mabel? Mr. Winthrop--Great goodness!--yes; why, he plays dominoes with her by the hour!--Puck.

Wife--Well, Eugene, dear, do you ever regret being a married man? Husband--Only when I sit down to a roasted chicken just big enough for one.--Puck.

and other lovers sit in the arbor where they had so often watched the moonlight silver the rustling leaves.

By one whirl of the wheel of life it was in the past, but still unburied. Sinking into his chair he rested his head upon his hands.

His happiness in this world depends largely upon ability to forget. It was not without a feeling of pleasure that he had accepted De Vaux's invitation to rejoin him in Gray's Inn.

He was not without a feeling of pleasure that he had accepted De Vaux's invitation to rejoin him in Gray's Inn.

"Marriage spoils a man utterly," said his friend as he knocked the ashes from his pipe onto the carpet.

"The side man puts on his assumption of virtue, and the way he sneers at us really annoys me. He is a skeleton at every feast, looks as shocked as a curlew if a man tells a raucous tale, and actually called old Soaker a cad because he could not walk downstairs."

"Well, I'm afraid you can't poison him and put him out of his misery." "He is not our old Selfton, theaters bore him, the halls are disgusting."

"Isn't he a lazy dabbler, snoring like big bow-wow when baby wants to see him?" "Why, Kitty," he said, dreamily, awaking with a start, "is it really you?"

NECESSITY OF TRANSPORTATION.

Outside of the postoffice there is probably no line of activity in which the government of the United States is of more practical every-day use to its citizens than through the weather bureau.

It has been recently reported that someone has been inspiring Secretary Morton with doubts whether the weather service is of very much use after all.
