Church Services Tomorrow. Sabbath services in the Methodist Episcopal church will be conducted both morning and evening by Messrs. Kerr and Johns. A large chorus will do the singing, interspersed by the matchless songs of the singing evangelists. So far the revival meetings have been an eminent success, with a large attendance. All are most cordially invited to come and enjoy them.

Services at the Presbyterian church will be as usual on Sunday. At the morning worship the sermon subject will be "Simplicity of Character." In the evening at the Sunday club service the address will be on "The Chance for the Man of the Century." The public, resident and transient, is welcome to these services. St. Paul's Cathedral—Holy communion at 8 a. m., matins with service by the rector, Rev. Frank J. Mallett, at 10:30 a. m. Evensong and sermon by Bishop-Elect Williams at 7:30 p. m. Lenten services daily throughout passion week at 12 noon and 4 p. m. Sunday services at St. Margret's mission, South Marquette; Sunday school, 3 p. m.; evensong, 4 p. m. Services by Bishop-Elect G. Mott Williams.

The usual services will be observed at the Baptist church tomorrow. The special topic for the evening will be "Divine Healing." W. E. Feeman, pastor. Pretty Nearly Drowned. Barney McKirby, a boy 6 years of age, had a narrow escape from drowning Wednesday evening while playing with his brother on the lake near Spar's dock. The ice above the sewer broke letting him into the water where probably he would have remained had it not been for the quickness of George Drolet in coming to the rescue. Being at work near by he heard the boy's screams for help and arrived just as the young fellow was about to go down the last time. When taken out of the water the child had lost consciousness, but it was soon restored and he was sent home, a sadder and a wiser boy.

All's Well That Ends Well. Thomas Broad, son of Sheriff Broad of this county, now employed at Gladstone, lost an overcoat a few days ago, it being appropriated by a dishonest fellow workman. He notified his father of the theft, and Thursday afternoon Sheriff Broad, while in Negaunee, recognized the overcoat then being worn by a young man of that city. On being questioned the wearer claimed to have "borrowed" the coat, but returned it with some alacrity when he was informed that the sheriff knew the whole story. The thief will not be prosecuted.

CITY BREVITIES. Weather forecast: Increasing cloudiness today and warmer. Yesterday's temperature: 7 a. m., 12 degrees; 12 m., 29 degrees; 7 p. m., 33 degrees; maximum, 36 degrees; minimum, 11 degrees. R. C. Young of Munising was in the city yesterday. R. C. Flannigan, a Norway attorney, is here on business. R. C. Chamberlin of Calumet arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. Four dollar shoes at $3; $3 shoes at $1.50, and nothing but shoes at Goodspeed's. Sale lasts till April 1. J. W. V. Rawlings of Hancock is in the city visiting his son, S. V. Rawlings, of the Lake Shore Iron company. The auditing committee of the county board will meet this morning to pass on bills which will be submitted to the board next Wednesday. G. Hallstrom got back from the east yesterday, where he had been buying dry goods, jackets and capes, shoes and slippers, etc., for the Emporium, in the Opera House block. Ex-Senator D. M. Sabin of Stillwater, Mich., was in the city last night, arriving in the evening and leaving at midnight. Mr. Sabin is on his way home from an eastern trip. On account of the absence of several of the soloists the musical association has found it necessary to postpone its concert to Thursday evening. Tuesday evening there will be a stage rehearsal at the opera house. J. E. Reau slipped and fell on the sidewalk near Fitzgerald's on Front street Thursday night and dislocated his right arm. Collector W. C. Scully was physician pro-tem and pulled it into place. The injury was painful but not serious. Goodspeed's (formerly Morgan's) shoe store was crowded all day yesterday with shoppers anxious to see what they were offering. Judging by the number of pairs of shoes that were carried away the results of their inspection were very satisfactory.

MENTAL MANIFESTATIONS. Curiosity is Apparent and Also Restraint at Restraint. Rev. Dr. Charles J. Adams, in a recent letter, incidentally relates the following: "That man is more discontented with things as they are—that man has more imagination than the lower animals, I do not for a moment question. But that the lower animal has both reason and imagination in common with man, is as unquestionably true as that the sun shines. But the question is now the one of curiosity and discontent. Cows rebel against constraint. A gentleman in Iowa told his father, wanting his cows in his farmyard to eat clover hay, they would not do so because they preferred timothy hay. A brother farmer advised him to in some way have the cows approach the clover hay, striking them over the snouts with a fork handle. He did so, and the result was that they ate all the clover hay and wanted more. Here was clear case of rebellion against restraint of prohibition. "Another farmer told me that he built a fence about a strawstack, placing the rails upon posts a couple of feet high. Against that fence the cattle rebelled so emphatically that they stuck their heads under the fence and licked up the old broken soiled straws on the outside over which they had walked before, and which they could not have been induced to touch had it not been for the fence. The fence was an appetizer for the cattle, just as the limitations of knowledge are appetizers to man. And in one case as in the other, the appetite was not physical. What the cattle wanted was liberty. The appetite was not of the body, but of the soul. I received from Pittsburgh the story of a spider that decorates its web, as it weaves it, with bits of logwood, which it takes from a box—with no other possible purpose in mind than that of decoration. Another spider weaves a web with broad walks on it—made by placing the threads more closely than they are placed elsewhere in the web. For what purpose? Simply for the purpose of decoration, or that it may have a place of outing or promenade; for another web is woven for the purpose of catching food. That spider had an imagination. It was not satisfied with ordinary things. It wanted something extraordinary. "Ask the man who has hunted antelope on the prairies, and he will tell you that he raises a flag and depends on the antelope's curiosity bringing it within range of his ball. Around the flag the hunter raises the antelope moves in ever-decreasing circles till the report comes that is prophetic of its death."—Chicago News.

TRAPPING PARK DEER. Three of the Druid Hill Herd Will Be Captured and Sold. Capt. Cassell, superintendent of Druid Hill park, says that Mr. F. H. Roebeling, of Trenton, N. J., who a few days ago wrote that he wished to purchase three deer for the park at that place, will have to wait until there is a snowfall in Baltimore which will cover the ground, as the deer at the park cannot be captured except when there is snow enough to hide the grass and herbs they usually feed upon. At other times their hunger does not compel them to seek the bait in the traps. Whenever deer are to be captured, the traps are erected just after a snowfall. A pen of boards is built 12 feet high, back of which there is a door leading to a small hut. The pen must be at least 12 feet high, as deer at the park have been known. Capt. Cassell says, to jump a ten-foot fence. On the floor of the hut corn is spread, and amid the corn are arranged triggers which, as soon as touched, cause the door to fall, and the hungry animal finds itself in captivity. In this way as many as seven deer have been caught in one pen in a single night, that many getting into the hut before any of them happened to touch a trigger. The pen is used to attract deer, as they might be afraid to enter a hut. "There is no use trying to catch them except when it snows," said Capt. Cassell. "For several days we have had a peck or so of corn dumped here and there, to see if they would come up and eat it, but they will not go near it when they can get grass. Mr. Roebeling wants two does and a buck, but he cannot have a buck, as we cannot spare one. There are now in the park but three bucks with horns, which means three over 18 months old. There are some younger ones, but the great majority of the deer are does. Every autumn we shoot a number of the horned bucks to keep them from mutilating the young trees with their horns. Last fall we shot 20. There is one which we have spared for several years, and he has now a beautiful set of branching antlers, adding a branch every year. "In the park at present there are 135 deer. They are in separate herds in different parts of the park, from 25 to 30 usually going in a herd."—Baltimore Sun.

One Possible Exception. "Terrible cold!" cried Mr. Tuckerman, as he met the minister; "everything frozen over at last, I'm certain." But the minister shook his head doubtfully. "You mustn't make that an excuse for staying away from church any longer," he said, warningly. And Mr. Tuckerman was half way down the street before he saw the application of it.—Rockford Tribune. Uses of Matrimony. Guest (of an evening)—Well, it is getting late, and as your wife has excused herself. I think I ought to tear myself away. Host—Oh, don't hurry.
