BENEFITS OF RECIPROCITY.

Pointed Out in Numerous Letters to the Special Congressional Committee.

RE-ENACTMENT OF THE ACT OF 1890 IS URGED.

President Issues an Order Extending Civil Service to Practically the Entire Indian Service—The Week's Congressional Program.

NEWS FROM NATION'S CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Letters from persons interested in the re-enactment of the reciprocity laws continue to be received by the sub-committee of the ways and means committee on reciprocity and commercial treaties. A communication from the National Association of Manufacturers signed by its president, Theodore C. Search, is considered by the sub-committee one of the most important received. Speaking for the interests represented by this association, Mr. Search says he desires to present arguments bearing upon the advantages of reciprocity as the general principle in international trade. After detailing the benefits derived from the act of 1890, he says "it is in our dealings with Cuba that the benefits of reciprocity are most strikingly shown."

President Search then argues that reciprocity commends itself as a sound and judicious business principle; that it should be considered upon a strictly non-partisan political basis; that a practical application has demonstrated the ability of reciprocity treaties to extend and enlarge our foreign trade; that reciprocity has rendered valuable service in effecting more cordial relations between the United States and other nations; that reciprocity treaties, particularly with Latin-American countries, are necessary as a matter of self protection, for treaties of this character are being negotiated between European and South American governments. Among the replies favoring reciprocity received from various sections of the country the west and northwest are well represented.

CIVIL SERVICE EXTENDED.

The president has issued a comprehensive order extending civil service to practically the entire Indian service save those offices above and including that of agent, to which appointments are made by the president, and a few minor positions of laboring character, like cook and washerwomen. Indians who show their fitness hereafter are to be allowed appointment to any of these positions though they cannot secure transfer to positions in the classified service outside of Indian work. In the order the president says:

"I hereby direct the secretary of the interior to amend the classification of the interior department so as to include among the positions classified thereunder and subject to competitive examination, clerk, assistant clerk, issue clerk, property clerk, storekeeper and all other clerical positions at Indian agencies and Indian schools; likewise to amend the classification in the Indian service so as to include among the positions classified thereunder, supervisor of Indian schools, day school inspectors, disciplinarian, industrial teacher, teacher of industries, kindergarten teachers, assistant matron and seamstress. But Indians shall be eligible for appointment to any of the said positions on such test of fitness as may be required by the secretary of the interior and without examination or certification by the civil service commission; but they shall not be transferred from said positions to departmental service."

THE CONGRESSIONAL PROGRAM.

It is confidentially expected the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill will be disposed of in the senate during the week so as to have it out of the way for the post-office bill, which is to be the next appropriation bill reported there. There will probably be two or three days debate upon this bill. Senator Sherman hopes to be able to continue the consideration of the Cuban question until it is concluded. He thinks it can be disposed of by Tuesday.

No definite program has been arranged for the house this week. The naval appropriation bill, which is the next supply bill to be taken up, has not yet been reported and until it is the house will drift along occupying itself with minor matters as they may be called up by the committees.

A. P. A. TO ENTER THE FIELD.

It Will Take a Hand in National Politics in Coming Campaign.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The American Protective association, which has been a factor in the state and municipal politics of several states for a number of years, announces its intention to enter upon the field of national politics in the coming presidential campaign. Its first move will be taken at a meeting of the supreme advisory board of the organization, called to meet in Washington on Tuesday, March 24. This meeting is preliminary to the sessions of the supreme council, which will be held here in May. Prominent members of the order from every congressional district in the country will take part in the deliberations of the supreme council and will determine the part which the organization will take in the campaign. It is a part of the program to insist on the re-enactment in party platforms this year of the planks in which both the great parties declared against sectarian appropriations and emoluments from public monies and property.

Mr. Blaine at one time proposed to congress an amendment to the Constitution which would prohibit congress or any state to pass any law making appropriations in aid of any institution, society or undertaking, which is wholly or in part under sectarian or ecclesiastical control. During this congress Representative Linton of Michigan introduced the same amendment and the A. P. A. will endeavor to have the amendment made part of the Constitution.

Another feature of the program with which the advisory board will deal is what political leaders of the A. P. A. call a campaign of education. They declare that their literature shall reach every postoffice in the country and every voter before election day.

ARBITRATION MAY DO IT.

Hopeful Word from Salisbury on Settlement of Venezuelan Dispute.

LONDON, March 22.—Lord Salisbury has sent a reply to the memorial in favor of an Anglo-American arbitration of the Venezuelan question adopted by the Peace society at the meeting in Queen's hall. The reply says: "I am glad to be able to inform you that this question is receiving the consideration of the government and that proposals in the direction indicated by the memorial are now before the government of the United States."

The Daily News (Liberal) has an editorial on Salisbury's reply to the memorial of the Peace association for the arbitration of the Venezuelan dispute in which it says: "Lord Salisbury's letter is the most hopeful word we have had for a long time from the premier. We hope it portends a definite clearing of the international situation in one of the stormiest quarters."

TO KEEP OUT CONSUMPTIVES.

Legislation Is Proposed by the Government of New Zealand.

LONDON, March 22.—A draft of the bill prepared by the government of New Zealand for the exclusion of consumptives from that colony has been received here. It is framed on the lines of the present legislation excluding persons suffering from leprosy, smallpox and other contagious disorders, except that it imposes an extremely heavy penalty upon captains of ships bringing consumptives to port, whether knowingly or unwittingly. This law, if passed, will compel the captains, as a matter of self-defense, to require all intending passengers from American, English or Asiatic ports to provide themselves with medical certificates showing that they are neither consumptives nor exhibit any tendencies of being so afflicted.

CHILI PREPARING FOR WAR.

Defenses of Republic to Be Increased. Contract for Ironclad Made.

VALPARAISO, March 22.—The government before the end of May proposes to have 50,000 troops of the national guard under arms. The chiefs of the military and naval forces yesterday held a long conference with the minister of war and marine. It was decided to increase the defenses of the republic and to repair and strengthen those already built. The government, through the minister at Paris, has made a contract with a well-known European firm to build a big ironclad and powerful artillery for Chili. A bounty has been offered if the material is ready before the time stipulated.

A $1,000,000 FIRE LOSS.

Smelting Department of a Pittsburg Copper Works Destroyed.

PITTSBURG, March 22.—A disastrous fire last night in the smelting department of the copper works of the Pennsylvania Manufacturing company, at Natrona, caused a loss estimated at $1,000,000. The buildings destroyed covered nearly four acres of ground. The output of the plant was about 10,000 ounces of silver and 3,000,000 pounds of copper per month. The fire was started by the blowing out of a furnace, the hot metal igniting some waste near the mouth. The buildings will have to be entirely rebuilt. A number of loaded freight cars standing on a siding were also consumed.

THRASHED A PRINCE.

Sons Resent an Insult to Their Father and Go to Prison.

St. PETERSBURG, March 22.—The two sons of M. Polovatzoff have just been sentenced to two weeks' detention for thrashing Prince Meschersky on account of an article insulting their father published in The Grazdanin. The trial excited much interest in the social world. The elder of the brothers is a dashing officer. The younger is a student, a keen sportsman and owner of Winter-set, the American trotter.

The Handball Champions.

CHICAGO, March 22.—Louis Keegan and William Carney of this city won the handball championship of America and a purse of $500 here today by easily defeating Phil Casey and Jas. Dunn, the Brooklyn (N. Y.) experts, in four straight games. The series consisted of thirteen games, six of which were to be played in Brooklyn and the remainder here.

Well-Known Cyclist Is Dead.

NICE, March 22.—George A. Banker of Pittsburg, Pa., the well-known bicyclist, died here today from heart disease. Last year Banker took part in all the big professional events in Europe and earned the reputation of the speediest bicycle rider on the continent.

ORDERED BACK TO LONDON.

Colonel Eadie, Chief Secretary of the Salvation Army in the United States.

MAY MEAN MOVE TOWARD SETTLEMENT OF THE TROUBLE.

Ballington, Among Other Stipulations to the Commissioners, Had Demanded Eadie's Recall—Eva Booth's Mission to Chicago a Failure.

A BACKDOWN BY THE GENERAL.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Many were the expressions of surprise at the headquarters of the Salvation Army today when the news leaked out that Colonel Eadie, chief secretary, had received a cable message from General Booth, ordering him to London. One of the stipulations that Ballington made to the three commissioners to get him to withdraw was that Colonel Eadie should go to London and never return. Officers of the Salvation Army and American Volunteers look upon this as the first step taken by the old general toward effecting a reconciliation with his son.

CHICAGO, March 22.—Commissioner Eva Booth's mission to Chicago is claimed by the seceders to be a failure. Salvationists at headquarters say openly this is the result. At a meeting this afternoon of the Northwestern division of the army, held in Princess rink, the building was crowded to the doors. Demonstrations of approval were frequent during the commissioner's address but those who are the backbone of the Northwestern division were silent. The dissenting soldiers and officers expected to have from the lips of Eva Booth an explanation of the difficulty between Ballington Booth and his father. Her apparent disposition was to pass over the dispute in silence. Only once she was interrupted. That was when she spoke of the "principles" of the army.

"Tell us what those 'principles' are," cried one in the audience.

Eva answered: "These principles are two well, too widely known, too numerous to mention. For its principles look to its publications; look to its work in this city; look to its work in the world. My time is too limited. It has been stated by some who know little of our work that we wish to Anglicize the work wherever we inaugurate it. There is no organization on earth that is a greater believer in the doctrine of 'when in Rome do as do the Romans.'"

Miss Booth spoke with tears of the grief of the old general, and held up her brothers and sisters and herself as examples of the indiscriminating arbitrariness of their father's orders.

"Are you satisfied with the commissioner's explanation?" An officer was asked after the commissioner's address.

"Do you call that an explanation? What did she say? She talked around the question we were asking, and then turned the meeting into a Salvation service. Wait till Ballington comes."

Ballington Booth is expected here next Saturday.

LYNCHED FOR MURDER.

Mob at Huntsville, Tenn., Makes Short Work of Wm. Murphy.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 22.—A mob took William Murphy from jail at Huntsville, Tenn., last midnight and stung him to a tree. The villagers knew nothing of it until the body was found hanging from the tree this morning—not eighty paces from the old log prison. William Murphy was in jail awaiting trial for the murder of Bill Knowlin, a miner, three weeks ago. About thirty mountaineers with hankchiefs over their faces did the lynching.

BROKE UP IN A ROW.

Young Finlander Is Fatally Shot at a Dance in Keweenaw County.

Houghton, Mich., March 22.—[Special.]—Saturday night a dance took place at the boarding house of August Linn, at Fulton, about eight miles from Eagle River. About 2 o'clock in the morning a melee occurred, in the midst of which Jacob Pollun, a young unmarried Finlander, thirty years of age, was fatally shot by some unknown person. The sheriff has placed four men in jail at Eagle River on suspicion.

INSPECTED THE MINES.

Mr. Leopold Visits Copperdom in Company With a Mining Expert. Nathan Leopold, the holder of the consolidated mining option, arrived in Houghton from Chicago Friday evening.

Mr. Leopold was seen by THE MINING JOURNAL representative upon his return from this trip and questioned as to what progress he had made in consummating the deal he is engaged in.

"Well, said he, 'there is very little to say at this time. All I can state is that since I have taken hold of this thing I have dropped all my other business and am confining my attention entirely to the consolidated mines scheme."

"Is going through? Well, I hope so. Do you think I would drop anything else to work at this if I did not have very strong assurances of its success?" he added significantly.

"Some people have insinuated, Mr. Leopold, that a stock company might be organized with the sole purpose in view of buying shares and that only a bull would be made at actually working the mines."

"Look here," came the reply. "I was born and brought up in this country. I know everybody here and know them favorably. I have been indebted largely to them for my past business."

"The last time you were here you stated, Mr. Leopold, that as soon as a satisfactory agreement was reached between those interested in the mining properties at this end of the line, and those who desired to invest, plenty of capital was ready to come in here and work the mines. What did you mean by that?"

"Simply this. The capital which may come in here is largely foreign. It has its representatives here. As soon as those representatives become convinced that the properties are all right, they have only to communicate with their principals and the deal will go through."

"It is for this purpose that I brought Mr. Hyams here. He is to make a report in a general way on the properties as he found them. It is for this reason I have been coming down here, endeavoring to clear up certain matters connected with the transfer of these properties—legal affairs and the like."

"Is the deal, on the whole, then, further advanced?" "It is," said Mr. Leopold emphatically, "and you may look for something to drop soon."

"How about the stamp mill—would you use the old Huron mill?" "Well, that is a question. Not permanently, of course, but the two heads might be used to stamp the rock at first until we get farther along. What about a site for a new mill? Well, that is another question. Of course, personally, I would like to see one located as near Houghton as possible. There are two good sites near here—one near the Pilgrim river and another further down on Big Portage. But then, again, negotiations might be entered into with the Atlantic for work to be done on Lake Superior. Nothing at all can be said yet definitely."

Mr. Leopold and Mr. Hyams took the morning train yesterday for Chicago.

VICTIMS OF THE DEADLY GAS.

Details of the Death at Boston of Revs. Heitunen and Ruoppa. Attorney O. J. Larson returned Friday night from Boston, bringing with him the bodies of the two Finnish clergymen from Calumet—Revs. Heitunen and Ruoppa—who were suffocated by gas in their room at Bronsseau's Hotel, Boston.

According to Mr. Larson's statement, there appears to be no question but that their deaths were accidental—caused by gas which they carelessly left turned on or else ignorantly blew out. The proprietor of the house, which is a respectable gentleman's hotel, frequented mostly by French-Canadians, found the two men. He said that they were brought to the hotel by a hackman on Saturday evening under the impression that they were Frenchmen. The proprietor accompanied them to the room and says he called their attention to the gas jet, lighted the gas and turned it off, showing them how to extinguish it, and cautioning them against blowing it out.

The next morning at 8:15, the hotel keeper said he went up to their room and rapped on the door at 8:15 o'clock. A response, "All right," showed him that they understood. At that time he smelled no odor of gas. After that, the proprietor said he gave them no thought until about noon, when on returning from church he detected the escaping gas in the corridor up stairs. He traced it to the room where the two strangers were and, opening the door with his skeleton key, found both in bed and breathing with difficulty.

A physician was at once brought but was unable to resuscitate them and advised their removal to the city hospital, where one man died on the Monday following and the other on Tuesday.

Funeral services were held from the Apostolic Finnish Lutheran church at Calumet yesterday, Rev. A. L. Heidemann officiating.

The Oddfellows of the copper country are endeavoring to secure a railroad rate to the annual reunion, which takes place at L'Anse the 28th. Parties desiring to make this trip should notify Philip Schurman of Houghton at once.

WORLD'S COTTON SUPPLY.

Some Interesting Facts Concerning the Production of the Great Staple.

It may be profitable to mass together here some facts about cotton which will give to manufacturers and to general readers information concerning one of the greatest of the world's industries—an industry, in fact, which is in touch in one way or another with practically every human being who wears clothes.

The American cotton crop of 1894-95 was the largest ever produced, being 9,836,860 bales, as against 7,532,550 bales of the preceding season. The consumption of cotton (including that produced by other countries) was as follows in the year ending September 30 last: Continental Europe, 5,096,000 bales; Great Britain, 4,080,000 bales; United States, 3,148,000 bales. Comparing the use of cotton in 1890-91 with that of 1894-95 we find that the consumption in the United States increased 675 per cent, while that of Europe increased but 360 per cent.

In 1893-94 the United States exported 75 per cent of the total European supply. But we are also importers of cotton. Last year we took 59,418 bales from Egypt, 24,000 bales from Peru and 210 bales from China. The Egyptian cotton, being long staple, is used for spinning soft yarns for hosiery. It is no better than our own Sea Island, but it is used to mix with wool which in some degree it resembles. This is the first importation of Chinese cotton made since the war. The staple is coarse, harsh and weak. It goes into rough woollens and carpets.

India cotton is inferior even to poor American cotton. The largest crop ever raised in that country was in 1890-91 and it amounted to 3,225,000 bales, of which 1,657,000 bales were exported. India sent to Europe last season only 462,000 bales. There has been a wonderful development of cotton manufacture in India under the stimulating influence of the protection afforded by silver demonetization. In 1893-94 India mills used but 23 per cent of the domestic crop; in 1894-95 they used 54 per cent. The Indian consumption increased from 550,000 bales in 1859-60 to 1,635,000 bales in 1873-74.

Mexico grows cotton. Her product is usually about 60,000 bales, all of which is spun at home, in addition to some 40,000 bales, more or less, imported from the United States. Of late years the Russian government has attempted, with much success, to encourage the cultivation of cotton in Asiatic Russia, where the annual crop is now about 300,000 bales. Cotton is grown also in Japan, Turkey, Persia and Greece. The product of the world was distributed in about this fashion in 1893-94:

BURIAL ALIVE.

A Dreaded Fate Which Many People Do Not Escape.

Many who are not at all afraid to die are afraid of being buried before they have died. The fear is not unreasonable. Premature burial happens very rarely, but often enough to call for more precaution.

In British journals this has recently been more fully discussed, showing no small uneasiness in the public mind. There was need of it. British law is quite too lax in requiring proof of death before burial. Hundreds of burials take place every year without certificates of death. The London Chronicle reported a dozen recent cases of discovery that supposed death was not actual. The Spectator believes that "a distinct percentage" of premature burials "occur every year."

One of its correspondents confesses to a distressing case in his own family. The gruesome fact is that it has always been so. Ancient writers refer to it. Pliny has a chapter "On those who have revived on being carried forth for burial." Lord Bacon records that there have been "very many cases." Bruhier, a French writer in the last century, produced a book on the subject. It mentioned 54 cases of persons buried alive, 53 of revival after being coffined, 72 of mistaken pronouncement that death had taken place and four of persons dissected before they had ceased to live. A noted case occurred under the hands of the distinguished Vesalius, who, having opened a body, found the heart still beating. The case of G. Washington Bishop, the mind reader, is comparatively recent. Not a few persons believe that he was the victim of an autopsy undertaken before he was actually dead. It is a fact that when body-snatching by medical students or common robbers was more frequent than now it occasionally resulted in the rescue from the grave of those that were still alive.

Old cemeteries are sometimes removed, and more frequently individual graves are opened for the removal of remains. Then the distressing fact of a premature burial is occasionally revealed. It is stated that in New York six cases in 1,000 have occurred. In Holland the percentage is five in 1,000. Perhaps the Paris morgue is the last place where one might expect to find the living among the dead after the corpse has been examined by both the police inspector and the official surgeon. Yet even there about one in every 300 has come to life again. A recently-published work by Dr. F. Hartmann strongly draws attention to the danger of dooming to the grave some who have not really died. He has collected over 700 authenticated instances. Of these he describes 108 as typical cases, under the title of "Buried Alive."

The danger of premature burial arises from that semblance of death which is popularly termed suspended animation or trance, and scientifically known as catalepsy. Persons of nervous temperaments are more liable to this than others, and women more than men. In catalepsy all the signs of death are sometimes present save the one infallible sign of incipient decomposition. Even experienced physicians are deceived. A celebrated case in the last century was that of Rev. William Tennent, a Presbyterian minister in New Jersey, who revived after a three-days' catalepsy, in which he narrowly escaped burial. An account of it, now out of print, was written by Judge Elias Bondnot. The cases of resurrection, or rather resuscitation, mentioned in the Bible, as the Shunamite's son and Jairus' daughter, may have been this sort. In oriental countries, where burial follows quickly after death, the likelihood of premature interment is greater. Mr. T. J. Hudson, in his book, "The Law of Psychic Phenomena," refers to a lady, now at the head of a public institute, who "has been twice pronounced dead by the attending physicians, twice prepared for her friends, and twice resuscitated by her friends." The London Spectator relates a case in Ireland last September where, upon suspicion of premature burial, the body was disinterred and life restored, after lying in the grave from Saturday till Tuesday. Even more remarkable cases are on record.—Chicago Record.

Fashion's Frenks and Fancies. Safecrimes are not in large demand. Dresden patterns are popular for waists, both in light and dark grounds. Fancy taffetas form the bulk of the silks now going forward to retailers, and of these print warps are in the lead. Cachemire fantasia is a beautiful fabric in flower design on light and dark grounds and has a pebbled appearance.

Ginghams in plaids and in better qualities will be good, those having a silk or satin stripe effect being among the best sellers. Two of the most popular fancy colors this season will be pale golden yellow and Nile green. Madras linens in Dresden figures and Persian patterns are among the novelties to find favor in the early season.—Chicago Record.

VICTORY FOR THE ITALIANS.

Several Attacks on Sabderat Pass Are Repulsed With Disastrous Results to Enemy.

REINFORCEMENTS DESPATCHED FROM KASSALA.

Dervishes Still Threatening Italian Position and Further Assaults Are Feared—Government Dares Not Risk a Vote of Confidence.

DEFEATED WITH HEAVY LOSS.

MASSAWAH, Egypt, March 22.—A force of six hundred dervishes attacked Sabderat Pass on March 8. It was defeated by eighty troops, and the enemy were defeated and fled, leaving forty-one killed. The Italian loss was three killed. On March 18 fifteen hundred dervishes renewed the attack, but they were repulsed four times with heavy loss. Three thousand dervishes are still threatening the pass and reinforcements have been despatched from Kassala.

GOVERNMENT FEARS DEFEAT.

NEW YORK, March 22.—A dispatch from Rome says: Fearing possible defeat, the government is seeking to avoid the motion for a vote of confidence. The Tribuna declares that the king is opposed to a dissolution of the chamber and is dissatisfied with the prime minister's failure to take action in regard to the anti-dynastic outpourings of the socialist orators and that the ministry in general is in a doubtful position. It is stated that French occupation of Tripoli would lead to great complications.

THE MAHDI'S GREAT ARMY.

Capture of the Soudan Will Cost Much Blood and Treasure.

LONDON, March 22.—A Russian traveler, Elisette, who is thoroughly familiar with the situation, estimates that the forces at the disposal of the Mahdi number about 300,000 men, of which 40,000 are baggers, all trained and disciplined. The Mahdi is believed to have 100,000 rifles, but it is said, they are, as a rule, of an obsolete character and that only 20,000 Remingtons, which form part of his store of arms, are serviceable. So far as artillery is concerned, it is not believed that he has more than the guns captured on the occasion of the defeat of Hicks Pasha; but, it is intimated that like King Menelik of Abyssinia, the Mahdi has been secretly purchasing arms and ammunition for some time past, and it will be found that his troops are quite as well armed as those of the Negus, that the capture of the Soudan will be accomplished without the expenditure of much blood and treasure, and that the end will not be attained without drawing largely upon the British troops now in England. In fact, the more the matter is looked into the more serious the outlook appears, and nothing in the shape of a picnic or a walkover need be expected. The Mahdists, as is well known, can fight with terrible determination, skill and ferocity, and they can endure hardships beneath which the best European troops would speedily succumb. The Mahdi's chief lieutenants are Cherif and Vadschelov. The Mahdi's flag is black, Cherif's is green, indicating that he is a direct descendant of the prophet Mahomet, and Vadschelov's is red.

RUSSIA STANDS BY FRANCE.

LONDON, March 22.—A special to the Times from Vienna says: Russia supports the French view of the Dongola expedition.

CAIRO, March 22.—Brigadier General Kitchener, in command of the Egyptian forces, and Slatin Pasha have started for the front to assume the direction of the Nile expedition.

Four Indians Burn to Death.

BAYFIELD, Wis., March 22.—Julia Bird, an old squaw and quite a character of this section; her daughter, Charlotte Bird; an infant daughter of Charlotte; and O. Siquette, an Indian from the Badwater reservation, burned to death this morning in a dwelling house in the outskirts of town. The testimony at the coroner's inquest showed the party were drunk the night before.

More Armenians Killed.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The Turkish legation received a telegram today from the sublime Porte detailing a brawl which took place Friday between Muslims and Armenians. Of the latter eight were killed and ten wounded. Four Mussulmans were wounded.

Milliken Is Acquitted.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The jury in the case of Benjamin H. Milliken of Tennessee, charged with housebreaking and intent to assault Miss Gertrude Phillips, daughter of ex-Solicitor General Phillips, brought in a verdict of acquittal.

To Get $100,000 Per Season.

CHICAGO, March 22.—What is said to be the largest terms ever paid a dramatic artist will be given to Richard Mansfield next season by Daniel Frohman, who guarantees Mansfield $100,000 per season until 1900.

Mrs. Blaine-Beal a Mother.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 22.—A son was born unto Mrs. Hattie Blaine-Beal, wife of H. Truxton Beal, ex-minister to Persia, today and there is great happiness at the old Blaine homestead.

Forecast of the Weather.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—10 p. m. The weather bureau reports the following as its forecast for the next twenty-four hours: For upper Michigan: Fair; warmer; easterly winds.

Gladstone Donates.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 22.—Gladstone has given $200 to the Armenian relief fund.

The Last Stand of a Maimed Fox.

A fox was captured near Heathsville, Va., recently, that possessed only three legs. Several young men were on their way to the village when a dog belonging to them started the fox and gave chase. A hound belonging to a neighbor was then turned loose to assist the other dog. When the fox realized that there was no chance for his life he crouched behind a bush, waited for the dogs to come up, and gave battle. He was soon dispatched, and on examination was found to be minus a leg. The missing member had been cut off, presumably by a steel trap, close up to the shoulder, and the wound had healed up nicely. Those who saw the chase said it was wonderful what speed the fox could make, although disabled. The poor fellow has probably had to devise many a cunning trick and use his wits to the utmost to prevent being caught by the many packs of hounds that have been hunting around here during the fall and winter.—Richmond Dispatch.

Oyster Rarebit.

Clean and remove the hard muscle from half a pint of oysters, parboil them in their own liquor until their edges curl, and remove to a hot bowl. Put one tablespoonful of butter and one-half pound of cheese broken in small bits, one saltspoon each of salt and mustard, and a few grains of cayenne into a dish; while the butter is melting beat two eggs slightly and add to them the oyster liquor; mix this gradually to the melted cheese; add the oysters and turn at once over hot toast.—Detroit Free Press.

Ventriloquism in the Bible.

Ventriloquism, which is described as "speaking from the belly," has its first historic mention, as far as we are aware, in Isaiah xxix, 4: "and thou shalt be brought down and shall speak out of the ground, and thy speech shall be low out of the dust, and thy voice shall be as one that hath a familiar spirit, out of the ground, and thy speech shall whisper out of the dust."—Brooklyn Eagle.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

WANTED AN INCREASE.

Clever Ruse, Even Though Risky, of a Nervy Paying Teller.

There is a well-known insurance man in Chicago who receives a salary of $20,000 a year and never solicits. He got his position in a peculiar way. He was paying teller in a bank on a salary of $2,000 a year. One day he went before the board of directors and asked for an increase of pay. They declined to make it. They thought $2,000 sufficient.

"Gentlemen, I have a very responsible position and handle a great deal of money. I do not think my salary sufficient. I must insist on having more." He did not get it and returned to his desk dissatisfied. One of the large insurance companies in Chicago had given the bank ten days' notice that it would draw out $300,000, and the cashier made every arrangement for it. In due time the check was presented.

The paying teller refused to honor the check and went to the cashier. "They want that $300,000," he said; "what are you going to do about it?" "Pay it, of course," said the cashier. "You have the money."

"Yes, I have the money, but I don't propose to pay it." "What do you mean, sir?" the cashier exclaimed. "It is your business to pay it. I have given you the money, and the check must be paid."

"Mr. —, I am working here on a salary of $2,000 a year. I have asked for an increase, and the directors think I am getting enough. I cannot agree with them. It is true that I have the $300,000, but I intend to keep it. I have not been treated right, and I must take this course to get my deserts."

A long argument followed, which was referred to the board of directors, which was hastily called together. The teller was ordered before their majesties. He admitted all that the cashier had said of him, and added:

"Gentlemen, I am serious. I have the $300,000 safe. You may do what you please. If you take the matter to the courts the most I can get is ten years. I shall leave the penitentiary at the age of 40 worth $300,000. If I remain with you at my present salary I won't be worth a cent. Do as you will. Give me $5,000 a year or send me up."

He was a hard customer to deal with, and they quickly agreed that if he would return the $300,000 and pay the check they would do as he wished. He made them sign a bond, releasing him in every possible way, and guaranteeing him $5,000 a year for 30 years.

Two Kinds of Conceit.

Simple conceit, founded on really great gifts, is often a very pleasant quality. No more amiable quality than the conceit, say, of Hans Christian Andersen, can easily be imagined, though it caused him a hundred bitter trials in his earlier life before his great gifts were understood and acknowledged by the world. So, too, Goldsmith's conceit was a very attaching quality; and in our own day we could name a poet full of the most amiable and attractive conceit, in which there was not anything irritating or even indicative of jealous mortification. The truth is that sunny conceit, founded on great gifts, is often delightful, while the conceit which broods on the world's injustice is not recognizing to the full these great gifts is corroding and repelling. The happy conceit which takes all the recognition it can get with gratitude, and supplements it with sincere pity for those who have not sufficient insight to recognize the gifts that have been displayed, is as charming and radiant a quality as we can find anywhere, while the jealous conceit which is always suspicious of the inadequacy of the world's admiration is one of the most unpleasant and displeasing of characteristics. In other words, the conceit which is perfectly joyous, but, of course, founded in true gifts, attracts, while the less perfect conceit, which has a little distrust, on one side or other, of the solidity of its own genius, is displeasing, because not serene. The former is as cheering as sunshine, the latter as displeasing as restlessness.—London Spectator.

Some Husbands Compared.

In talking with an American about the different conditions of women in Japan and the United States, a Japanese diplomat once said: "When I marry I take a head servant; when you marry you become one." A man who recently visited Japan quotes a remark in a somewhat similar vein made by a Japanese interpreter. "I sat one day," he said, "at the door of a dining-room in a hotel in Tokio, where all kinds of foreigners were staying, and I watched them as they came in. The Frenchman came in with madame on his arm. Then the Englishman came in so (imitating a pompous, self-important personage). And his wife? Oh, she came after him like this (dramatizing a meek and timid woman following). And the American husband? The American husband? Oh, he's not in it. Madame sails in ahead of him, and he just walks behind wherever she goes."—N. Y. Tribune.

NOT AT HOME.

A New Way of Getting Rid of a Bill Collector.

The death of Tom Hannum, one time a well-known habitue of the press galleries on both sides of the capitol, was sincerely deplored among the old-timers the other day, and some amusing anecdotes were told of the popular newspaper man by his friends in the course of the day. One of the best is worth repeating.

Hannum was in the habit of taking a late breakfast at the Press club every morning. On one occasion, while he was vigorously discussing a hearty repast of ham and eggs, a bill collector suddenly walked up to Hannum's side, and laid his account before him. Hannum looked at the bill and then at the collector, and in a deliberate tone began:

"You blamed fool, can't you observe the amenities of ordinary civilized society. Don't you know that a man's club is like his home, and that you are in danger of being summarily ejected for coming in her without a card of membership and without being introduced? The rules of this club require that if you have business with a member you wait in the lobby outside until a waiter takes in your card and ascertains whether the gentleman with whom you have business is present. Now, you go out into the lobby—take this bill with you—and comply with the rules of this club."

The collector apologized for the intrusion of the rules of the Press club, which, to tell the truth, were never enforced on anything, and waited until the steward came to ascertain his wishes.

"Please announce me to Mr. Hannum," said the collector.

The steward told him to wait, and he carried the man's card to Hannum, who looked at it carefully, then handed it back to the steward, and said: "Not at home."—Washington Post.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

The Turkish nose bears a tolerably close resemblance to the Semetic type.

In China an army recruit must be able to jump across a ditch six feet wide, or he is not eligible for enlistment.

The French and Spanish boudoirs were all endowed with large, thick noses. Most of them, in addition, had a small eye.

An official report on Dr. Marmorek's new serum for erysipelas and puerperal fever will be made soon by Prof. Chantemesse. At the Necker hospital it has been tried in four cases of puerperal fever, with astonishing results. One patient who had been given up recovered under the serum treatment. Dr. Pozzi, a Paris surgeon, is confident that one of his patients was saved by it. At the St. Louis hospital they are more skeptical, and wish to see more cases before pronouncing on the value of the discovery.

Cutting off the nose as a punishment for crime, or as a mutilation for revenge, was practiced from the most ancient times until the last century. In England, almost to the beginning of the 19th century, it was a legal punishment.

In some districts of India large tanks are constructed by banking up the overflow. These embankments are sometimes miles in length, and from them during the dry season the water can be easily conveyed so as to overflow the rice fields.

Sir John Christopher Willoughby, Bart., now a prisoner in the Transvaal, is the author of three books on Africa. The first, published in 1859, is entitled "East Africa and Its Big Game; the Narrative of a Sporting Trip from Zanzibar to the Borders of Masai." In 1893 he published "A Narrative of Further Excursions at Zimbabwe, Mashonaland."

CITIZENS' CONVENTION.

A Citizen's convention will be held at the Assembly hall of the city building on Washington street on Thursday evening, March 29, 1896, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for city offices, to wit: A mayor; a city recorder; a city treasurer; two justices of the peace, one for four years and one for three years; two constables, each for a term of one year.

Ward caucuses for the selection of delegates to the city convention and nominating candidates for ward offices will be held in the several wards on the same evening at 7 o'clock, as follows:

First ward—Five delegates, southwest corner of Champlain and Genesee streets.

Third ward—Five delegates, Hodgkins' livery barn.

Fourth ward—Four delegates, court room in city hall.

Fifth ward—Five delegates, 416 West Washington street.

Sixth ward—Four delegates, 230 West Ohio street.

Seventh ward—Four delegates, John Q. Lewis' store, Third street.

Eighth ward—Two delegates, building northwest corner of Park and High streets.

Candidates for the several ward offices will be nominated as follows: One supervisor in each ward; one alderman in each ward for the full term of two years; one alderman in the Second ward to fill out the unexpired term of Michael Carney; one alderman in the Eighth ward to fill out the unexpired term of George W. Hoag.

By order of city committee, EDWARD EMIL HOMER, Chairman.

Saw Grinders Sellin' Well.

The Holley-Rawlings saw grinder, manufactured by the Lake Shore Iron works, has passed its stage of probation and is now a recognized article in the market with a demand for it rapidly increasing as fast as its merits become known. They are now in use in mills at Tacoma, Wash., Saginaw, Au Sable, Grayling, Michigan and several points in the Menominee district. A Mining Journal reporter, who called at the works Saturday, saw three grinders boxed and ready for shipment to Baraga where two will be put in the Nester and one in the Funke mill. There are a number of others in the shop, and more are being manufactured to meet the call sure to be made for them, as mill men are beginning to learn that by using the throat shaped tooth with chisel point, and the grinder to keep it in condition, they can increase their lumber cut 10 to 15 per cent. The Lake Shore works are also quite busy in other departments, the machine shop and foundry being crowded with work at the present time.

An Honest Plumber.

Richard Barney of Ishpeming, who rejoices in the distinction of being an honest plumber, was in Marquette Saturday. "Dek" is a Marquette by birth, and always has a warm welcome awaiting him when he finds time to visit his former home and birthplace. It was probably due to his earlier life being passed here that in his later days he has preserved a reputation for strict honesty, notwithstanding his calling. Mr. Barney thinks soon of establishing a shop here, to take advantage of the coming boom in business in this favored city.

OF UNKNOWN DEPTH.

A Pond in New York State That Has No Bottom.

Many Efforts to Fathom the Pool Have Been Fruitless-It is Thought to Have an Underground Outlet.

In the northern part of the town of Napoli, Cattaraugus county, there is what is known in that vicinity as a "bottomless pond." It is situated in a tamarack swamp in that part of the town called Owlburg, and for many years it has created great local interest on account of its unknown depth, the peculiarity of its location and the character of the land surrounding it. About midway between the villages of Little Valley and Napoli on the Figeon Valley road, high up on a ridge several hundred feet above either village, the pond is to be found. On this eminence a natural basin has been formed which comprises many hundred acres of swamp and which is grown up with spruce and tamarack trees, huckleberry bushes and like vegetation; on the east, north and west hills surround the swamp and but for the fact that to the south the swamp slopes gradually down to a lower level it would seem that this swamp was at one time entirely covered by a large pond or lake.

About the center of this swamp is the "bottomless pond." It is circular in shape and about 500 feet across. It is probably fed by springs from below and its outlet breaks forth from the earth some distance away and flows south, finally finding its way to the Allegheny river. The water which flows from the pond is black in appearance from its contact with the roots of the swamp.

In approaching the pond one feels the ground springing beneath the feet even at a considerable distance away, and when standing on its bank the ground feels so unstable that a person's inclination is to quickly turn back and seek more solid ground. It is apparent that the pond was at one time much larger than at present and that it has been slowly growing over, in fact a perceptible change can be seen in its size from year to year. It is certain that the water extends a considerable distance under the banks, but how far is uncertain. Several rods back from the pond a pole can be easily run down through the thin crust of earth into the water beneath. Numerous efforts have been made to ascertain the depth of the pond, but without success. Long lines with weights have been lowered, but the bottom has never been found, and its depth remains unfathomed. And these unsuccessful efforts to find the bottom it has received the name of the "bottomless pond." Beautiful pond lilies grow near its banks, but efforts to secure them are attended with great difficulty and danger.

In the same swamp about a half mile away is another pond, round like the first, but smaller, being about 350 acres across. The formation of the ground around this pond is similar to that around the larger one. Between the two there is a high ridge of solid ground which forms a divide so that the water from the smaller pond flows east, while that from the large one flows south. Whether they are two parts of what was once a large pond, or whether there is now any subterranean connection between them can only be conjectured.

The small pond is only 40 or 50 feet deep; in the middle of it, submerged, there stands a tall spruce tree, its top reaching to the surface of the pond. This would indicate that the land at the bottom of the pond had from some cause sunk from the level of the surrounding land some time during the lifetime of the tree and that this pond was thus formed. The tree being under water has been preserved, perhaps, for ages to tell the story of the earth's changes.-Rochester Democrat.

The Orator's Inspiration.

Our orator gazes with far-searching eye. He is the poet in prose, the musician who plays on men, the painter, in words, of thoughts, sentiments, passions, ideas. His colors live and burn, for they are drawn from men's hearts. To him the glory that beckons on from height to height and then again on and on till the eye wearies, is the ideal—that which men pray for, struggle for, travail for, yet never grasp; but are the nobler for having aspired to. As the eye follows hill after hill that the falling sun gilds, and then rests unrested because the gold has turned to black, so the orator must follow hard after the ideal even till the night cometh. For him the breath of the pine is wine, and the strength of the forest makes strong his heart. The broad, clear ranges of space widen his mind, the pure azure clarifies his vision, and the distant rim of earth and sky makes far-sighted and keen the eyes of his soul.—William F. Seward, in New Bohemian.

Good Enough for Her, Too.

The resources of a properly trained Biddy are practically inexhaustible. A short time ago I bought some very expensive lighthouse grapes for a member of the family who had been sick, but they were not fancied at the time, and I asked the maid to take them away. The next morning I went to her and told her to take the fruit to the sick room.

"Sure, ma'am, Oi can't. 'Tis meself thought ye wanted them throw'd away!" with the peculiarly stupid look an Irish girl puts on and takes off with ease.

"Thrown away, Bridget!" I exclaimed angrily. "How could you be so stupid? Don't you know that kind of grapes is awfully expensive?" "Don't be put out, ma'am," Bridget said, soothingly. "Sure, not one was wasted. Oi ate livery good grape meself!"—N. Y. Herald.

CONCERT TONIGHT.

Proceeds Will Go to Methodist Church Building Fund.

The concert to be given this evening at the Division street Methodist church, under auspices of the Epworth League and Young Men's Band of Willing Workers, promises to be a very enjoyable affair and a large turnout is expected. Following is the program:

- Instrumental trio, Misses Collins, Labreche and Mrs. Schumacher.
- Tenor solo, Mr. Carl Erickson.
- Piano solo, Miss Minnie Collins.
- Recitation, Willie Sincock.
- Vocal solo, Miss McKenna.
- Violin solo, Mrs. Schumacher.
- Ishpeming Melody Quartette, Messrs. Dolbringer, Whitford, Kule and Bennett.
- Mandolin solo, Oliver Kiefer.
- Vocal solo, Miss Lillian Allen.
- Instrumental trio, Misses Collins, Labreche and Mrs. Schumacher.

The admission will be fifteen cents for adults and ten for children. The proceeds will be added to the church building fund.

WAS WELL KNOWN HERE.

Restadt, the Red Jacket suicide, formerly lived in Ishpeming.

A. R. R. - stadt, who committed suicide at Red Jacket Thursday night, resided in Ishpeming a number of years. He was in the employ of John Gately & Co., the installment agents, for some time prior to the transfer of that firm's business from Ishpeming to Red Jacket. Restadt was quite well known in Ishpeming and he had a number of friends here.

A Busy Place.

The dry goods and clothing departments of F. Braastad & Co.'s store are very busy places these days. Several cartloads of new spring and summer goods have been received within the past few weeks. With these on the counters and she's the store is pretty well crowded. Victor Munson, who has charge of the clothing and gent's furnishing goods department, says the firm never had such a large stock as this year. Many novelties have been added, so that almost anything to be found in the large stores of the metropolitan cities can be obtained there. The firm has prepared for a big trade this spring and judging from the crowds that visit the store daily it is certainly having it.

Draw Out a Good Crowd.

The entertainment given Saturday evening at the Division street Methodist church under auspices of the Loyal Temperance Legion was largely attended. Members of the Negaunce legion took part in the program and several were present from that city. The principal feature of the entertainment was "The Trial of Prince Nicotine," in which thirty-six persons connected with the public schools of Ishpeming took part. The trial was something of a novelty. Some very good points were brought out and all present enjoyed the arguments very much. In addition to the trial there were songs by Ishpeming and Negaunce talent. The entertainment closed with the singing of "America" by all present.

"Michael Strogoff" Tonight.

The James H. Browne Dramatic company will make its last appearance in Ishpeming for the season at the opera house tonight, when that grand Russian six-act drama, "Michael Strogoff," will be produced. The play is one of the strongest ever presented here, and it is put on the boards by Mr. Browne's company with excellent effect. Special attention will be paid to the scenic effects. The battle scene in the third act is very fine and it alone will be worth the price of admission. New songs and dances will be introduced by J. T. McEnery and Harry B. Sutherland.

Gene South for Her Health.

Miss Emma Haslam left Saturday evening for Tennessee, where she will remain some time in the hope of regaining her health. She will be accompanied on the trip by her sister-in-law, whose home is at Green Bay. Miss Haslam has been ill some time and during the past two weeks she has been confined to her room. Her many Ishpeming friends hope the change of climate will restore her health and strength.

Church Supper.

The ladies of the Calvary Baptist Church society will give a supper next Friday evening at the Swedish Home society's hall, Mildon block. Oysters and other good things will be served. The price of the meal will be twenty-five cents. Supper will be served from 5 till 9 o'clock. The proceeds will be placed in the church fund.

NOT TO BE TRIFLED WITH.

Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble may end, and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little inconsiderate exposure and seemingly trifling symptoms. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected. When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by The H. H. Stafford Co.

CRIPPLE CREEK.

Characteristic Scenes and Incidents of the New Town.

Bustling Times in the Colorado Eldorado - Much Activity in Real Estate and All Kinds of Business.

Cripple Creek is made up almost entirely of small frame buildings occupied by saloons and gambling houses. Merchandising is overdone, I should say. I saw one grocery store where 12 clerks were at work. Groceries, dry goods, clothing, etc., are sold very reasonably, but beer is sold at two glasses for a quarter; whisky, the same price. A gambler is as good as anybody in Cripple Creek and a saloon keeper better. The town, however, is not "tough." You do not see men in the streets carrying pistols, but the gambling games are wide open. Cripple Creek is in the same county (El Paso) with Colorado Springs, where no liquor can be sold. Colorado Springs, however, has five stock exchanges, two of which are kept open day and night, like a restaurant. These exchanges are always crowded, and the Colorado Springs people, although so good about liquor, have no hesitancy in robbing the unwary by selling them worthless stocks.

Cripple Creek has electric light, gas and waterworks. The water comes from an artificial lake on Pike's Peak, which is only 16 miles away. At night the town reminds you of the Midway at the world's fair. The main street is five blocks long. There are three other business streets of about equal length. A corner lot on this best street, 15x120 feet, sold lately for $18,000. A real estate boom has been added to the mining boom and the result is pandemonium.

It is said that at this season there are from 30 to 40 deaths daily at Cripple Creek from pneumonia, largely due to exposure. Visitors are unable to find proper accommodations, and, if a man who is not acclimated takes pneumonia from exposure, he is pretty apt to die. Hundreds of men keep "bachelors' hall" in cold rooms, and live on improperly cooked food. As the altitude is very high a great many of the tenderfeet die.

While I was in town I heard a man offer $150 a month for desk room in the office of the Palace hotel, the only brick building in Cripple Creek. The offer was indignantly refused. Lots that were worth $400 three months ago are now being held for $3,000. A fool is born every minute.

From three to five hours are required to get a chance to inquire at the post office for mail; from 200 to 300 men are in line constantly at the post office, and the post office is full of mail that has never been distributed. Everybody is crazy about everything. This is the rule at Cripple Creek.

There are over a thousand incorporated mining companies in Cripple Creek, and of this number less than 15 yield a return on the investment; perhaps you know that gold mines are not producers, but actual consumers of the world's wealth. In other words, more money is spent in gold mining than is obtained from it; every dollar in gold dug out the ground costs a good many dollars. It is said that about 60 Cripple Creek mines ship ore, but only 15 pay dividends; into the other 925 mines money is being poured like water. Over a thousand companies have been incorporated, but only 15 pay dividends; there are a thousand of other "claims" which are probably worthless. I heard it estimated that there are 5,000 men in the district earning wages, certainly 4,500 of them receive their pay not from what is produced in Cripple Creek, but from fools who send money there.—Thomas Barton, in Atholion Globe.

Hired Swains.

A curious custom prevails in some provinces of Holland during the carnival season. Young women of the working class, especially domestic servants, who have no sweethearts of their own, are in the habit of hiring "followers" for their Sunday out, or for the whole of carnival period. These lovers are by no means to be had very cheap. Often two or three maids will club together and share a lover among them if he comes too expensive for one girl. This temporary lover has many duties to perform. Of course, he must be good-looking and well dressed, and an efficient and indefatigable dancer, "fit to be seen with anywhere," he must likewise possess good conversational powers. Besides receiving a variety of valuable presents from his "girls," he is "found" by them in victuals and drink. If a young woman can afford to engage a "swain" all to herself, so much the better, for the hiring often develops into a real lover, and ultimately into a husband. It can thus be said that, in some districts of Holland, the girls do all the wooing.—Buch fur Alle.

A Kabyle Hero.

The easy-going Kabyles push democracy to extreme limits, living on familiar and equal terms with their cattle and their swine—all occupying the common dwelling. A fine, hardy race of great bravery and many noble traits, they yet resemble the Arabs in their want of honesty. A story is told of a chief of theirs, Mokrani, which makes us think the days of chivalry are not yet gone. When, worsted in the Franco-Cerman war in 1871, the French had to withdraw their troops from Algeria, and thus a grand opening was left for insurrection, Mokrani would not rebel, as he had pledged his word to the Algerian governor that there would be no rising against the French authority till the war was over. Even when a peace had been made, and he was thus released from his promise, he gave 48 hours' notice to the French of his intention to commence hostilities against them. Verily, he was a hero, and he died a hero's death in the thick of battle.—Westminster Review.

YOUNG GIRLS.

INTERESTING CONCLUSIONS.

Mothers Agree on One Vital Subject.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]
Young girls, to the thinking mind, are ever subjects of the deepest interest.

Some lead lives of luxury, while others toil for mere existence. Separate, however, as their paths in life may be, Nature demands of them the same obedience.

All are subject to the same physical laws, and suffer in proportion to their violation.

Young girls are reticent through modesty, and often withhold what ought to be told.

Yet they are not to blame, for information on such subjects has been withheld from them by the false interpretation of a law of nature.

In such cases, thousands of young girls every year, write to Mrs. E. F. Lynn, Mass., giving as their complaint their symptoms, and receive her freely given advice and timely aid.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the young girl's most trusted friend. It can be obtained of any druggist, and speedily relieves and cures irregularities, suspension, retention, and all derangements of the womb and ovaries.

It banishes promptly all pains, headache, backache, faintness, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholia, etc. Young girls must know that self-preservation is the first law of nature.

STOLE AN OVERCOAT.
But He Was Not Long Permitted to Enjoy Wearing It.
Leonard Johnson, a vagrant, stole an overcoat from the Home restaurant Friday evening while its owner was at supper there. The thief was captured at Ishpeming by Officer Omer, of that place, a few hours later. Johnson called at the restaurant and asked for something to eat. While waiting for his order Johnson took the coat from the rack in the hall and put it on. He was just getting into the coat when the girl who was waiting on him came out. She observed what the fellow was doing but thought the garment belonged to him.
When the owner of the coat reported his loss the girl recalled having seen the other man taking it. After obtaining a description of the thief the owner of the garment notified Marshal Rough of his loss. The marshal remembered having seen Johnson around the saloons during the day, so he immediately started out in search of him. The officers at Ishpeming were advised to be on the lookout for him. Officer Omer found Johnson in the South Shore depot at midnight. Marshal Rough went to Ishpeming Saturday morning and brought the prisoner back to Negaunee and placed him behind the bars of the city jail.
The marshal found the coat in the second-hand store here, where a chum of Johnson's had pawned it for seventy-five cents. The coat was worth about $15. Johnson confessed having stolen the coat, but says his partner sold it and kept the money obtained for it.
While in Anderson's saloon Friday Johnson was caught trying to rob a man there, and was kicked out of the place by the proprietor. Johnson will be given a hearing today and he will doubtless be committed to the county jail for his offense.

LOCAL LAOCONICS.
M. F. Stellwagen of St. Ignace did business in Negaunee Saturday.
Samuel Hoar and family arrived home yesterday from their visit to England.
R. G. Quion got home yesterday morning from a ten days' visit to friends in Chicago.
Daniel Harrington, Sr., is quite ill at the home of his son. He is suffering from a complaint of the stomach.
P. C. Peterson has finished logging operations in the woods on the line of the South Shore road west of here. He returned to Negaunee Saturday.
All who are interested in the organization of the Pingree club are requested to be on hand this evening at the Mine Workers' Union hall on Clark street. A large attendance is expected.
The local lodge of the Daughters of Pooahontas gave a social and neektie party in Corbett's building on Silver street Saturday evening. The large number present enjoyed themselves very much.
A FRIEND TO WOMEN.
Gen. Spinner, Who First Employed Women Clerks in the Treasury.
If any man deserves the gratitude of the "sex" woman, it is the man to whom the sex is indebted for one of the greatest advantages which women enjoy at the present day—that of holding office under Uncle Sam. When the first woman was put in the office of the treasurer of the United States there were only 20 clerks to do all the work, and a batch of seven women was appointed. Now there are 6,000 women at work for the government and the number is yearly increasing.
In 1861 all the available men were needed in the volunteer army. This was the reason for the appointment of the women in the various departments at Washington. Then the United States treasurer, Gen. Francis E. Spinner, one day went into the room where men were engaged in cutting the "greenbacks," which first made their appearance under the financial policy of Chase. Huge shears were used and the labor, which was simply the clipping of the paper, was such that Gen. Spinner remarked that there was no reason why some women should not be employed to assist in a work that was daily increasing in size.
Gen. Spinner died about five years ago. In 1891 a mass meeting was called, and what is now known as the Gen. Spinner Memorial association was organized. Its object was to erect some suitable monument to the man who had done so much for the women, and the women in the government employ are expected to show their gratitude by contributing to the work.
The statue has been modeled and cast and is now in the Washington studio of the sculptor, Mr. Elliott, the creator of the statue to Gen. Hancock which is to be erected in the fall. The figure is of bronze and represents the general in a simple but dignified attitude, with a large cloak thrown around his ample shoulders.
The statue and pedestal will cost about $5,000. An effort has been made to secure a site in front of the treasury building, on the north side, and a bill granting permission passed the senate by a wide margin in the house.

WAS A GOOD SUCCESS.
Those Who Attended the "Experience Social" Had a Good Time.
The "Experience Social" given Friday evening by the Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church was a most gratifying success in every way. The attendance was much larger than was expected, which can be judged from the fact that the gross receipts were $114. The program rendered was a novel one and it was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The ladies were more than pleased with the result of the social.
Wheels Arriving.
The Negaunee men who have taken the agency for bicycles are beginning to receive samples of their wheels from the manufacturers. The Sperry Hardware company and H. Elbrandt received their first consignments Saturday. Some very fine wheels are now displayed in Negaunee.
A Victim of Consumption.
Mrs. Edward Robar, who has resided in Negaunee a great many years, died Friday evening of consumption. She was forty years of age and is survived by her husband and five children. The funeral was held yesterday, with religious services at St. Paul's church.

Hours for Sleep.
The truth of the old adage that one hour of sleep before midnight is worth two hours after midnight is questioned by Dr. E. P. Colby, who states that he has made some study of the subject while in naval service during the rebellion. The ship's company on ship-board—officers and men alike—stand four watches day and night, with the interpolation of a dog watch of two hours to change the time of each set of men on successive days. These men are therefore obliged to get their required sleep very irregularly, but in more than two years' observation Dr. Colby could never discover that the watch officers and men were not as fully refreshed by their sleep as were the officers of the ship who were required to stand no watch at all.—Chicago Chronicle.
Boers Not Mathematical.
The following little anecdote may be of some interest, illustrating the mathematical capacity of the Boers: Six years ago an Englishman owed a sum of £500 to a Boer. When payment was demanded, instead of paying the whole sum, he only paid him £300. On arriving home the Boer counted out his money with the aid of a "ready reckoner," and found that he had been paid £200 short. He immediately returned to the Englishman and explained to him that according to his "ready reckoner" he was £200 short. The ready-witted Briton seized the book and replied that it was "last year's." The Boer returned satisfied.

The Discovery Saved His Life.
Mr. G. Cailhouette, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at E. Farnham's Drug Store.

HANDLES MILLIONS.
The Man Who Ships the Gold of the Government.

Peter Shay, of Washington, Packs the Precious Metal in Kegs—He Has Been in the Business Thirty Years.
A sturdy old man whose office is in a dingy little building down town is an important factor in the gold shipments that are made from this country. James Shay is the man's name, and he supervises the handling of nearly all the gold coin and bullion that is shipped abroad. Shay is a cooper by trade, and at his little shop at 18 Fletcher street are made nearly all the kegs and boxes in which the precious yellow metal is shipped.
It is needless to say that the cooper of Fletcher street has been a very busy man these last few years, and conservative estimates of the gold which he and his assistants have handled during the last 12 months would be $150,000,000. When it is added that Mr. Shay has been in the business over 30 years, the enormous fortunes which have passed through his hands without the loss of a single dollar can best be appreciated.
When a banker or some large exporting house finds it necessary to make a shipment to Europe, about the first thing that is done is to send for Mr. Shay, who has a virtual monopoly of this part of the business. Gold for shipment abroad is packed in kegs and boxes, just as the fancy of the shipper may dictate. For amounts exceeding $500,000 kegs are generally used, as they are easier to handle, and contain $50,000 each. The empty kegs are made of well-seasoned oak, and banded with hoops of steel. When packed and sealed each keg weighs nearly 200 pounds. The boxes used by the cooper are made of basswood or oak, neatly dovetailed. These are also banded with strips of steel. When Cooper Shay receives an order from a banker to pack a quantity of gold, the boxes or kegs are sent from his shop to a few trusted assistants, the packing is done in a room used for that purpose.
After the gold has been put in stout canvas bags, containing $5,000 to $10,000 each, and carefully sealed, they are put in the boxes or kegs, which, in turn, are sealed with tape and wax in three or four places. They are then placed on a truck and conveyed to the steamship pier. Not once has anyone ever tried to molest the truckman, but this may be through ignorance of the precious load he is driving. Another reason, too, is that the truck is always guarded by several armed men.
It is no exaggeration to say that the amount handled by Mr. Shay, if converted into double eagles, would make a pathway 100 feet wide around the globe. Certain it is that if the money were all his, Mr. Shay's wealth would be greater than that of the Rothschilds, Vanderbilts, Rockefellers, Goulds and Astors put together.
"Are you not sometimes possessed of a strong desire to run away with a portion of the many millions which you handle?" asked the reporter.
"Never," said the cooper, with a smile. "The metal weighs too much, and I don't think I could carry it very far before I got caught myself."
The old cooper has been engaged at his trade for upward of 35 years. He has amassed a modest competence, and lives with his family of grown-up children in a neat little house in Brooklyn. When he goes home at night he forgets all about the fortunes which pass through his hands, and is probably more contented than any of the millionaires of Wall street.—Washington Star.

THE DETECTIVE MIRROR.
A Clever Parisian Rogue's Scheme Foisted by a Modern Lecoq.

The latest and cleverest thing in roguesy has been discovered—where nearly everything that is new and clever comes from—in Paris. It seems that one of the large restaurant firms of the French capital—an establishment that has its eating houses in all parts of the city, has recently been losing its silver in the most unaccountable way. A number of waiters were discharged and detectives patrolled the restaurants without avail, until finally the trick was discovered.
It was found that in each case a respectable-looking person called the restaurant and gave his order for dinner. During the meal he conveyed one or more articles to the under side of the table, fixing them there by means of wax, with which he was provided for the purpose. Should the servant who waited upon him miss any of his spoons or other articles, the rogue was still in no danger, and offered himself to be searched with the greatest impunity and an air of injured innocence.
Of course, he was allowed to depart, but immediately after an accomplice entered, ordering his dish, seating himself at the same table, whence he removed the secreted articles to his pocket, taking care that the waiter should not miss any articles from the table as served before him. There was no reason for suspecting this individual, who paid his bill and departed to share the booty with his confederate.
The way in which the trick was detected is an instructive illustration of the ingenuity of the criminal pitted against the superior skill of the detective. The officer of the law who was on watch in a restaurant in the Place de la Madeleine noticed the disappearance of some silver at a certain table. He had the diner searched with the usual result, and was compelled to tender his profuse apologies to the indignant guest.
Returning to the table in no very good humor, the disciple of Lecoq seated himself with his back to the table and buried his face in a newspaper. A large pier glass was affixed to the wall on the opposite side.
Soon a gentleman (the confederate) entered, seating himself at the table, and while taking his soup, began his work, little dreaming that the peaceable-looking person opposite, with his back toward him, was watching every movement in the looking-glass through a hole in the newspaper which he held before his face, pretending to read. It was as good as a play and the detective was obliged to restrain himself or he would have laughed outright.
No sooner had the rogue succeeded in transferring the last of the forks and spoons to his pocket than he rose very leisurely and walked to the cashier's desk and took out his money to pay for the meal. But at the same moment there was a hand laid upon his shoulder and the detective slipped a pair of handcuffs upon his wrists.
The missing articles were found in his pocket, and he was marched off to the city prison.—Chicago News.

HOME-THRUST.
Lord Mansfield's Scotch Blood Loses Him an Important Case.

It is said that the saying: "Much may be done with a Scotchman if he be caught young," which has passed into an historical witticism, was first spoken by Dr. Johnson in reference to Lord Mansfield. An amusing little incident is said to have given rise to the remark.
Lord Mansfield, having received his education entirely in England, always considered himself an Englishman, but the fact that he was born in Scotland was once referred to with great effect. Gen. Sabine, governor of Gibraltar at the time, having failed in his attempts to extort money from a Jew, sent him back by force to Tetuan, in Morocco, from whence he had come to Gibraltar. The Jew afterward went to England, and sued the governor for damages.
Lord Mansfield, who was then known as Mr. Murray, was counsel for the governor. In the course of his defense before the jury, he said:
"True, the Jew was banished; but where? Why, to the place of his nativity! Where is the cruelty, where the hardship, where the injustice of banishing a man to his own country?"
Mr. Nowell, counsel for the Jew, retorted: "Since my learned friend thinks so lightly of the matter, I ask him to suppose the case his own; would he like to be banished to his native land?"
The court rang with peals of laughter, in which Murray himself joined with a right good will.—Youth's Companion.

Fish Cream Cutlets.
Chop with a silver knife, one pound of uncooked halibut rather fine, add one teaspoonful salt, two tablespoonfuls of minced almonds, a drop or two of onion juice, a dash of cayenne, and the unbeaten white of one egg. Mix well, and stir in a half pint of whipped cream. This cream must be stiff and fine. Put this mixture into small cutlet-shaped molds, stand them in a steamer, and cook about ten minutes. Turn carefully from the molds. Cover the bottom of the serving dish with cream sauce, arrange the cutlets, put a pretty sprig of double parsley in the "bone" end of each, and serve very hot.—Albany Journal.

DEATH BY ASPHYXIATION.

Fatal Result of Blowing Out the Gas at the Bay View Hotel Saturday Night.

TWO WOODSMEN FOUND DEAD IN BED IN THE MORNING.

Ex-Senator Ingalls' Lecture at the Opera House Tonight—Engagement of Brown's Theatrical Company Ended—Aldermanic Candidates.

AN INQUEST TO BE HELD TODAY.

"Blow out the gas" is the explanation of a double tragedy at F. O'Hegan's Bay View hotel Saturday night which took the life of William Hunt and David McKeiver, both woodsmen just returned from their winter's work. The two men came to the city Saturday and took a room at O'Hegan's Bay View. They then left for the time being. Hunt returned to the hotel at 10 o'clock. Mr. O'Hegan escorted him to his room, waited until he was ready for bed and then left, first turning off the gas. McKeiver, who was responsible for his own death and that of his companion, came in later but no one knows positively at what hour as his entrance was made without noise. The presumption is that he lighted the gas jet and afterward blew it out, then retired to the sleep which had no wakening. There is no reason to believe that he was drunk at the time, a more plausible theory being that he simply made the natural mistake of a man unaccustomed to other than kerosene lamps. McKeiver has also borne a good reputation for sobriety.

It was not until 8:30 yesterday morning when the chamber maid was going her rounds that the discovery was made that something was wrong. Not being able to open the door of the room in which the two new lodgers were, she notified the landlord and the latter succeeded in pushing open the door. It was not locked, being held only by a chair under the knob. The odor of gas when entrance was at length secured, was sufficient to convince Mr. O'Hegan that the worst had happened, but he did everything possible for the men who were stretched out upon the bed in their last sleep. Doctors Desjardins and Patterson arrived promptly but soon ascertained that they were too late to be of any service, all efforts to revive the men proving futile and no spark of life being detected in either.

The bodies were turned over to the authorities, Justice Meads was sent for and the following jurors were drawn to sit on the case: Peter Kremer, John Helmer, Peter Boyer, William Winters, Charles F. Schock and Matt Rustenhaven. No progress was made, beyond viewing the corpses, as Justice Meads thought it improper to hold the inquest Sunday and adjourned it to 9 o'clock this morning at his office. In Hunt's pockets were found a silver watch and $16.25 in money. McKeiver had $52.44.

Neither of the unfortunate men had any relatives in Marquette. Hunt was from Adlington, Lancashire, England, and was about 35 years of age. Until Saturday he was employed at Wiss's camp at Au Train Falls. McKeiver came from Angus, Ont., at which place he was a school mate of Joe Love of this city. During the winter he worked in Gibson's camp at Salmon Trout river. His father now living at Angus, has been notified, by wire, of his son's sudden death and asked what disposition he wished made of the body.

A Double Bill Saturday.

The touching story of "East Lynne" was played to a matinee audience by Brown's Theatrical company at the opera house Saturday afternoon. The most affecting scenes were brought out so vividly that there were many wet eyes before the performance came to a close. In the evening the company finished its engagement with "Damon and Pythias," given under the auspices and for the benefit of Iron Cross lodge, Knights of Pythias. Several local Pythians had parts assigned to them which they carried out well, considering the fact that their duty chiefly was to be seen and not heard. Everyone knows the story of Damon and Pythias, whose friendship has remained for two thousand years the ideal one in the world's history. The heavy parts, Damon, Pythias and Dyonisius, are assumed by Messrs. T. J. Langdon, Frank DeYenn and Harry Richards. Miss Wyman and Miss Richards had the female parts. These five characters are especially difficult, for not only are the scenes strong and tragic but the lines are written in a style that requires considerable effort to enunciate them distinctly. That they were handled well redounds greatly to the ability of the actors and actresses having them in charge. Browne will play in Ishpeming this evening.

Ex-Senator Ingalls on "Citizenship."

John J. Ingalls, ex-senator from Kansas and ex-president of the upper house of the American congress, will speak on "Citizenship" at the opera house tonight. Mr. Ingalls is a lively and entertaining talker, one of the best now upon the lecture platform, as his success in that field well demonstrates. Although on occasions a rabid partisan, the ex-senator does not touch on politics in his lectures, so that no one should refrain from going to hear him for fear of having his political feelings wounded. A better opportunity to hear an impartial, non-partisan, intelligent discourse on public affairs and duties will not often be accorded. Mr. Ingalls should address a crowded house this evening. Mr. Ingalls will speak under the auspices of the Sunday Evening club. This is the last entertainment of the series. Non-tickets holders will be charged seventy-five cents admission.

Aldermanic Suggestions.

Ex-Mayor F. O. Clark is being brought out as a candidate for the unexpired term of Michael Carney as alderman from the Second ward. He is not disposed to make a contest for the seat, but if the nomination comes his way he will probably accept. The Second ward will be in luck if it succeeds in getting a man of Mr. Clark's experience and ability as its representative in the council. No better choice can be made. John Tobin, whose term from the Second also expires this spring, will be in a passive way a candidate for reelection—will accept if nominated—but Mr. Tobin said yesterday that, if the voters want someone else, he is willing to step down and out. John Robinson, the retiring alderman in the Fifth, is a candidate for another term. Mr. Robinson has been a painstaking and conscientious member of the council, always attentive to his duties even at times when personal inconvenience was involved. He deserves reelection.

Old Settlers Going Fast.

Mrs. Katherine Neidhart, wife of B. Neidhart, died at 8:45 Saturday morning at her home, 236 West Washington street, after an illness of five weeks. The funeral will take place at 9 this morning from St. Peter's cathedral, Bishop Vertin, celebrating pontifical high mass. Mrs. Neidhart was born at Baden, Germany, seventy-three years ago. She left Baden in 1855, coming directly to Marquette, where she was married the following year. Thus she was one of the oldest settlers here and was probably one of the best known and respected. During all of her life she was a devoted member of the Catholic church and it is as a deserved favor that pontifical high mass will be celebrated. The deceased lady leaves a husband and four children, three daughters and a son, all residents of Marquette. One daughter is the wife of Warden J. R. Van Evera. Many of Mrs. Neidhart's friends, remembering her fondness for flowers during life, sent wreaths to the house yesterday, thinking this an appropriate way to testify their love for the dead. Several from Ishpeming, Negaunee and Houghton also spent the day with the bereaved relatives.

Stereopticon and Slight of Hand.

A stereopticon and slight of hand entertainment will be given by Albert St. Cyr at Fraternity Hall the evening of April 8th. The date was originally set for the 24th of the present month, but it was found necessary, for various reasons, to postpone it. Mr. St. Cyr is a clever slight of hand man, and his seemingly impossible feats are often highly entertaining. Of course, the stereopticon scenes will be the feature of the entertainment. A number of new views will be shown, and with the slight of hand thrown in an evening's enjoyment can be assured.

Committee Meeting Tonight.

George Arthur Brown, president of the Pingree club, announces the following executive committee: James Donovan, John Tobin, Sr., C. H. Kelsey, Joseph Neidhart, A. F. Agnew, Gustave Larson, Francis Finley. The committee will hold a meeting tonight to discuss plans for receiving Mr. Pingree when he visits Marquette and to arrange for his meeting here on the evening of April 4. The club now has a membership well up in the hundreds and is still growing.

Services at the M. E. Church.

The Sabbath evening services at the M. E. church proved wonderfully successful. The house was crowded to its full capacity. The sermon preached by Rev. Kerr was clear, decisive and powerful. The singing, too, was very effective. At the conclusion of the service came forward professing their desire and intention to lead better lives than heretofore. The public is invited to attend these services.

A Land Dispute Settled.

The homestead contest, which has been going on for three years between Thomas C. McGuire and Joseph Ladue for the north half of the ne ¼ and the se ¼ of the ne ¼ and the nw ¼ of the se ¼ of section 5, town 31 north, range 30 west, has been ended by Secretary Smith giving his decision in favor of McGuire who has already offered the final proof.

Breakwater Appropriation Passed.

A Milwaukee paper of the 20th inst. states that the house resolutions making appropriation for a breakwater at Marquette, passed the senate the day previous. The bill now needs only the signature of the president to make it a law, and as there is no probability of a veto, the work is practically assured.

All last winter Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Lebanon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale by The H. H. Stafford Co.

ANOTHER SALE

AT:

KASSEL OSHINSKY'S.

We are still selling and still repenting. What you are looking for just now—something with a big value at a low price—you will strike in our store. Opening days belong to old time methods in this busy bustling age—goods come and go too quickly to keep them on parade. We have no "Opening Days." Let each day have its own attractions. Something now that yesterday saw not.
