LONG STRUGGLE ENDED.

Senate Passes the Bill Prohibiting the Issue of Interest-Bearing Bonds.

ALL AMENDMENTS PROPOSED ARE VOTED DOWN.

Strong Opposition to the Measure on Ground It is a Virtual Repeal of Resumption Act and Step Toward Free Silver.

THIRTY-TWO TO TWENTY-FIVE.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—At 7 o'clock tonight the long struggle in the senate over the bill to prohibit the issue of bonds came to an end and the bill was passed by a vote of 32 to 25. The bill as passed covers only a few lines, as follows:

Be it enacted that the issuance of interest-bearing bonds of the United States for any purpose whatever without the authority of congress is prohibited.

The vote on its final passage was as follows:

Yeas, Republicans—Brown, Dubois, Mitchell (Ore.), Pritchard, Warren, Cannon, Hansbrough, Pettigrew, Teller, Wolcott—10. Democrats—Bacon, Berry, Daniel, Harris, Mills, Pasco, Tillman, Vest, White, Bate, Chilton, George, Jones (Ark.), Morgan, Pugh, Turpie, Walthall—17. Populists—Allen, Jones (Nev.), Stewart, Butler, Peffer—5. Total, 32.

Nays, Republicans—Aldrich, Burrows, Callom, Gallinger, Hawley, McBride, Platt, Watson, Allison, Chandler, Davis, Hale, Lodge, Nelson, Quay, Wilson—16. Democrats—Brice, Faulkner, Lindsay, Caffery, Hill, Mitchell (Wis.), Palmer, Smith, Vilas—9. Total, 25.

ALL AMENDMENTS VOTED DOWN.

The voting did not begin until 6:30, at which time the chamber was dimly lighted and the galleries almost empty.

A flood of amendments was first voted on, all being defeated. One by Aldrich (R. I.) gave the executive power to issue bonds in certain emergencies; another by Aldrich provided that the act should not impair obligations to pay in coin. Hill's amendment that treasury notes be retired when redeemed was tabled—43 to 12. Quay's amendment for the substitution of coin notes for treasury notes was defeated without a yeas and nays vote. The last preliminary vote was on Hill's motion to postpone the subject until next December, which was defeated. Then came the final vote, with the result as stated.

The debate on the bond bill lasted throughout the day and was at times animated. Cannon (Utah) made a spirited reply to the criticisms of the five Republican senators, including himself, who voted against the Dingley tariff bill and declared that the measure was a legislative monstrosity. Mr. Cannon asserted that the inter-merchant states took Henry M. Teller as a leader rather than the senator from Ohio (Sherman).

Allison denied the assertion made during the debate that the bonds under the law of 1875 were for the sole purpose of redeeming greenbacks and then cancelling them after the bond power had ceased. On the contrary, he said, it was continuous power that gives stability to values. No part of the people could be benefitted by a fluctuating, unstable and depreciated non-metallic currency. No experiment should be made in repelling a very law which brought that stability.

VIRTUAL REPEAL OF RESUMPTION ACT.

As to the seigniorage from silver, Senator Allison showed a seigniorage could not arise until after the silver was coined; that the present mint capacity was restricted to forty or fifty millions per year and that, on that amount, the seigniorage would be limited to twelve to fifteen millions. So that, said he, the senators were playing with the great question of the government's paper money. They were running the hazard of going back in thirty days to a paper basis not convertible into coin.

In a sharp colloquy with Butler, Allison declared his opposition to fiat money and to the indirection by which the pending bill sought to take a step toward free silver coinage without waiting for legislative action. "I believe the United States cannot open its mints to the free coinage of silver without becoming a monometallic nation; that it cannot take this step without an agreement with other nations," said Allison, "and I will continue to vote against free coinage of silver at 10 to 1 by this country alone."

Chandler appealed to the senators on the other side to join in a patriotic measure to sustain the country's honor. The senator also paid a tribute to the personal integrity of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle.

Pettigrew (Rep., S. D.) here rose to challenge the published statement that although an advocate of free silver coinage he had agreed to support "McKinley and sound money" in order to become a delegate to the national convention. Pettigrew declared the report was false. The South Dakota convention had referred the financial question to the national convention and no issue or vote was taken on silver. Pettigrew declared there was no office which could lead him to sacrifice his convictions on finances.

PREDICTS A VICTORY FOR SILVER. Teller pointed out that the pending bill had no connection with the free coinage of silver. The senator declared the silver question, whose death and burial had been predicted, was a most lively corpse. State after state had declared in conventions for silver. The great Democratic party was ready to inscribe on its banner "Free Silver Coinage." There were states in the west which had long furnished senators and representatives to swell the majorities in both branches of congress.

"What the Republican party will do at St. Louis, I do not know," said

Teller, "but I believe I know enough of the sentiment of the west and of the plain people of the country to say that the party that inscribes on its banner 'Gold Standard' is doomed to defeat."

Burrows (Mich.) opposed the bill on the ground it really meant the repeal of the resumption act, which act sustained the paper money of the government. "Before I would vote for a bill carrying such dishonor," exclaimed he, "I would rather a thousand times that the country had gone down in the awful storm of war. I will never raise my hand to remove the last prop that sustains my country."

Palmer (Ill.) urged that the bill sought to accomplish free silver at the cost of the credit of the country.

Before the bond bill was taken up Morrill spoke on tariff and finance. In part, he said: "The Democrats have broken away from the leadership of their president and while marching to the drum and fife of the South Carolina captain are in such dread lest the Populists get control of their party that they seem to be in a hurry to become Populists themselves." The senator declared the Republican party would never change its principles on the money question to secure a higher tariff.

Vest gave notice he would move tomorrow to take up the river and harbor bill veto. The filed cheese bill was taken up and made unfinished business. Allison introduced a joint resolution for a scientific investigation of the Behring seal fisheries. At 7 o'clock Hill moved to adjourn and as the motion was carried, exclaimed, "And may God save the country."

MARRIED AT WASHINGTON.

Miss Julia Stevenson Becomes the Wife of Rev. Martin Harlin.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In the presence of a distinguished gathering of friends from both official and resident society, Miss Julia, eldest daughter of Vice-President and Mrs. Stevenson, was married tonight to Rev. Martin D. Harlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Watt Harlin of Danville, Ky. Four years ago today the young couple first became acquainted.

The ceremony took place in the New York avenue Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock. Rev. Wallace Radcliffe officiating, and it was witnessed by President and Mrs. Cleveland, members of the cabinet and their families, a number of foreign ambassadors and ministers and their families and a large number of congressmen. The platform and reading desk were adorned with palms and roses. When the bridal party entered the church the ushers approached the platform by the center aisle and the bridesmaids by the side aisles, all meeting to receive the bride, who came into the church with her father, who gave her in marriage.

After a reception the couple left the city for Bowling Green, Ky. One of the most handsome gifts was a silver tea service presented by a committee composed of Senators Morrill and Harrison in behalf of the United States senate.

PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS.

Resolution Authorizing President to Call It Soon to Be Presented.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The project for a Pan-American congress, which Secretary Olney and Representative Smith of Michigan are endeavoring to promote, was given definite form today in a resolution which authorizes the president, whenever in his judgment it may be opportune, to notify the governments of Mexico, Brazil, Central and South America, Hayti and San Domingo to join the United States in a conference to be held at Washington for the purpose of considering and recommending such governments such measures as will provide for the arbitration of all disputes between any of the governments and measures to improve and extend their business and commercial relations and to promote and insure the security of the people of each country.

An appropriation of $30,000 is proposed. Owing to the course of Kem (Neb.) in objecting to unanimous consent for business, there is not much probability, Mr. Smith fears, that the resolution will be adopted at this session of congress, although it meets with favor from all the members of the house committee on foreign affairs.

FOR TORNADO SUFFERERS.

St. Louis Council Appropriates $100,000—Loss to City $3,000,000.

St. Louis, June 2.—President McMATH of the house of delegates estimates that to repair the Four Courts jail, court house, insane asylum, new city hospital and city hall a total of two millions will be required. In addition to this, a million and a half is needed for new bridges over railroad tracks. The work of alleviating the distress of victims of the storm was continued with unabated energy today and nearly seven hundred families were supplied with the necessities of life. The house passed a bill appropriating $100,000 for the relief of tornado sufferers. The following corrected list of the casualties at East St. Louis has been given out: Identified dead, 97; unidentified, 2; missing, 26; fatally injured, 7; total, 134.

BOY KILLS HIS FATHER.

William Baker Couldn't Stand Seeing His Mother Abused.

MINOR, N. D., June 2.—J. Baker, ex-county commissioner of Ward county, was shot and killed this afternoon by his seventeen-year-old son, William. Just before the killing, Baker had given his son a hard whipping, after which he started to abuse the boy's mother, which was more than the boy could stand. He took a rifle and shot and killed his father.

Turks Given a Hint.

ATHENS, June 2.—The commanders of the several warships have warned the Turkish authorities in Crete that unless they maintain order in the island they must expect that energetic measures will be taken.

ONLY SIXTY DISSENTED.

The House Passes the River and Harbor Bill Over the President's Veto.

NO OPPORTUNITY ALLOWED FOR DEBATE.

Twenty-Six Republicans Stood by the Executive, While Thirty-Nine Democrats Favored the Bill's Passage.

ONE HUNDRED VOTES TO SPARE.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The house today passed the river and harbor bill over the president's veto. The vote stood 220 to 60, or about one hundred more than necessary for a two-thirds majority. The vote was taken under suspension of the rules, moved by Mr. Hooker of the river and harbor committee as soon as the reading of the committee report recommending passage over the veto was concluded, without allowing any opportunity for debate. Dockery (Dem., Mo.) protested vigorously, but was overwhelmed and the house ordered the previous question, 178 to 60, the vote on passage over the veto resulting as above. The Democrats who voted to pass the bill over the veto were:

Bankhead, Buck, Clarke (Ala.), Cooper (Fla.), Culbertson, Denny, Ellet, Fitzgerald, Kyle, Lester, McCulloch, Melnea, Owens, Robertson, Straitt, Terry, Tyler, Washington, Wilson (S. C.), Berry, Catchings, Cobb (Mo.), Cooper (Tex.), Cummings, Dinsmore, Elliott, Kendall, Lattimer, Little, McMillin, Meyer, Ogden, Price, Sparkman, Talbert, Turner (Ga.), Underwood, Williams, Money—39.

The Republicans who voted against passing the bill over the veto were:

Allen (Utah), Andrews, Brown (N. H.), Calderhead, Grout, Hainer, Leighty, Long, McClure, Pearson, Scranton, Shafroth, Strooks, Updegraff, Anderson, Baker (N. H.), Brown, Connolly, Hager, Hepburn, Linney, McCall (Tenn.), McElwan, Pitney, Settler, Sherman, Tracwell—26.

Chairman Boutelle, of the naval committee, made a partial report on the naval bill. A further conference on battleships was ordered. The fortifications bill was reported from conference, but the adoption of the report was prevented by Kem, who made a point of no quorum and the house adjourned.

PRESIDENT'S OBJECTIONS ANSWERED.

Before action by the house today Chairman Hooker, of the committee on rivers and harbors, submitted a long report recommending the passage of the river and harbor bill over the president's veto. The objections of the president were reviewed in detail. All but twenty-seven of the 417 projects in the bill, the report said, were contained in previous river and harbor bills. The report also said the president is in error in saying there will be another appropriation for smaller schemes not covered in the contracts.

The committee also quoted from the report of Secretary Lamont endorsing the contract system in making river and harbor improvements and recommending "an extension of that policy to embrace other improvements." Attention was called to the fact that if the bill should fall work upon hundreds of projects in course of completion would be suspended at great loss. The report concluded that after a careful reexamination of the bill the committee sees no reason why the house should recede from its action.

LETTER FROM GEN. GOMEZ.

Cuban Commander Confident of Success of the Patriotic Cause.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A letter, dated May 16, from General Gomez to Senator Estrada Palma, the Cuban delegate in this city, was given out at the headquarters of the Cuban delegation today. In it General Gomez says: "The revolution proceeds on its triumphal course, and every day that has passed may be considered a victory now for our cause. The revolution now centers on its fourth period, in which the conflict will assume a severe character for Spain. Summer is death to them; our soldiers, on the contrary, are made of steel and the sun that kills the Spaniard is a friend to the Cuban. General Weyler will go, and it is now said General Polavieja will replace him. All to no importance. What General Canopus was not able to do at the beginning no other will do now."

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

The pardon of all the Johannesburg reform committee except the four leaders and the release of one of these, the noted American engineer, John Hayes Hammond, on parole, will undoubtedly have its effect on Richard A. Parker, who has been watching the proceedings from the vantage ground of London.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce, which has a commendably cheerful way of looking at things and finding something encouraging to chronicle, notes that our export trade is increasing with each advancing month of the year.

In the South African field alone, according to present indications, June 30 will chronicle a value of over $10,000,000 in shipments for the fiscal year that include mining machinery, lawn mowers, bicycles, electrical machinery, iron pipes and bolts, steam pumps, plows and barbed wire.

MINNESOTA has heretofore taxed mining companies on their output, the tax being at the rate of one cent a ton, under a law passed many years ago and probably modeled after the law so long operative in this state.

AN UNCONSCIOUS HERO.

BY MRS. M. L. RAYNE.

"No," Eleanor Landsberg said, as she crushed the cluster of fresh American Beauty roses she held in her clasped hands with painful intensity, as if they were somehow to blame, "I cannot marry you, Morris—you are not my hero."

"Heroes do not exist out of novels," answered Morris Holmes, with that perfect infection that good breeding gives to its possessor; "I cannot fight for my ladylove as the medieval knights did, nor fly to the wars in these degenerate days."

"Pardon me," returned the young woman, tearing the heart from a rose—a performance which made the sensitive Morris wince—"I think you are a profligate with time and influence, and all the other good things which you waste by lavishing them on yourself."

"What would you have me do to prove myself a hero?" asked Morris Holmes, with a gently patronizing air, as if he had been speaking to a child, and which infuriated Eleanor.

"Do?" she repeated, with withering scorn; "do anything to show the world that you are a man, and at least capable of managing your own affairs! Life is full of instruction, but you have never learned one of its lessons. You have not even been a profitable dreamer."

"She was intense and angry, and at last he was aroused. He rose without his usual dawdling elegance of manner and said: 'You have taught me one lesson, Eleanor, that I shall not forget. I hope when you find your hero he will love you as truly as I have done—as I will continue to do, if you do not forbid me. And now, good-by. We part friends, do we not?'"

"No berths left in the sleeper, sir." "But, I tell you, I must have a berth—I can't sit up all night," and Morris Holmes shivered at the thought of such a hardship.

It was strange that at the first moment Morris Holmes started out to become a hero and learn the seamy side of life he should be reduced to actual suffering like this. If he had been dressed in his usual fashionable and elegant traveling attire the conductor would have suspected that he had unlimited wealth and would have bought out some less important traveler or sold him a berth already negotiated for, as the all-powerful car magnate has the privilege of doing.

But Morris Holmes had donned the plain dress of the ordinary business man, and wore a hideous gray ulster that concealed his elegant personality, and was on his way to the mining district, where a mine was located of which he was part owner; not a gold mine, but one that brought in gold—a bituminous coal mine, known as the Little Summit.

GENEALOGICAL SEARCHERS.

They Spend Hours in the Libraries Tracing the Family Tree.

The attendance in the public libraries are kept busy these days by a horde of callers who have suddenly developed a mania for genealogical research. In fact, says the Detroit Herald, it seems to have become a fad to trace the family tree. The cause of it is not easily explainable. It is possible, however, that circulars calling for heirs to large fortunes, scattered broadcast by many lawyers throughout the country, may be responsible for this fad.

The seekers look carefully through the old books, records and histories, and every little clue found therein is coveted with avidity. There have been rare cases where some startling and important clue has been found, but they are few and far between.

One of the library attendants told me that many of the genealogical callers were young men, who think a good family tree may help them along in the world, as he expressed it. However, that may be, the fad, if it is really a fad, is by no means flippant, as it opens the avenue to much interesting and useful information, and instructs the searcher, even if his own wish for family information is not gratified.

MEXICAN MUMMIES.

The Grewsome Spectacle in the Catacombs at Guanajuato. In different places, including Guanajuato, Mexico has a display of comparatively modern mummies and of catacombs. The practice prevails, as in Barcelona and some other European communities, of renting tomb space for the use of a corpse. In Mexico, if at the expiration of the original term there is no renewal of the lease, the corpse is evicted and dumped into an extensive underground chamber. If in the dry air the evicted mummies he stands against the wall; if he tumbles to pieces the bones join the vast miscellaneous heap. The Guanajuato catacomb is ghastly enough to satisfy the most exacting connoisseur of the greswome.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Sour Stomach.

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone.

"I am here to see what you need, and will help you if you will let me," answered Morris, gently. "A spy or an overseer, like enough. The sooner you get out of these quarters the better for your health. If one of the bloomin' mine owners sent you here, go back an' tell him 't ain't safe to come spyin' round.' Tell him, too, that we'll give him a warmer welcome—hounds that they all are!"

"The miners, dirty, black and complaining, had gathered around the foreman, and, although they hated him, they were bound to him by a common grudge. 'Tell them to come and get filled with warm lead—we'll heat it for the 'casion,' said a burly miner known as 'Old Geordie.'"

"Aye, and his father afore him. It's that he might lie soft and eat fine food that we gets lost in the choke an' damp. If he sent you, go back and tell him to come out here himself. We hev a long account to settle, and the figgers is waitin'."

"I am here to see what you need, and will help you if you will let me," answered Morris, gently. "A spy or an overseer, like enough. The sooner you get out of these quarters the better for your health. If one of the bloomin' mine owners sent you here, go back an' tell him 't ain't safe to come spyin' round.' Tell him, too, that we'll give him a warmer welcome—hounds that they all are!"

Eleanor Landsberg had no word from Morris for six months. Then she received a paper marked in red ink, which had a paragraph that interested her. It gave a plain statement of the great improvement that had taken place in the Little Summit mine, and went on to describe the comfortable homes of the miners, the new machinery which had been put into the mines to take the place of child labor, the comfortable stables above the ground that had been built for the mules, the improved social conditions of the men's families, and ended with a glowing tribute to the "noble energy of the young and athletic mine owner, Morris Holmes."

"Athletic!" Eleanor repeated the word with much satisfaction. It was of moral athletes she was thinking, and it pleased her mightily that this word could thus be applied to Morris.

In a few moments she received a second newspaper, published like the first, in a town adjoining the mines, and giving the news of that section of the country. It also contained a marked paragraph, but the marking was irregular black lines of jagged pencil, and on the border was drawn a rude hand, pointing to the notice and the badly written but legible "Old Geordie."

Eleanor read in a few intense words the news that had been sent to her. There had been an accident in the mine. The roof of the entire chamber had fallen and buried 20 miners beneath it. The men were rescued with great difficulty, and some of them were badly injured. When all were supposed to have been saved, there was a wailing cry, and the wife of "Old Geordie" struggled from the hands of friends and tried to throw herself into the mine. Morris Holmes, pale and out of breath, called for men to go down with him and rescue "Old Geordie." No one responded. The men owed their lives to their families, and they knew the danger of a falling roof. So Morris, with one look at the blue sky above, swung into the cage and was lowered alone amid an avestricken silence into the bosom of death. There was not much to tell. When the signal was given there were willing hands to help deliver the two men from the wreckage, but only one came up alive. The other had succumbed to the fatal damp. A long panegyric followed, but it meant little to Eleanor. Her eyes rested on four oft-quoted hackneyed lines that closed the story—

—They would never leave her: "For whether on the scaffold high, Or in the battle's van, The fittest place for man to die, Is where he dies for man." She had found her hero, never again to lose him. He had returned on his shield.—Detroit Free Press.

The sooner you get out of these quarters the better for your health. If one of the bloomin' mine owners sent you here, go back an' tell him 't ain't safe to come spyin' round.' Tell him, too, that we'll give him a warmer welcome—hounds that they all are!"

"The miners, dirty, black and complaining, had gathered around the foreman, and, although they hated him, they were bound to him by a common grudge. 'Tell them to come and get filled with warm lead—we'll heat it for the 'casion,' said a burly miner known as 'Old Geordie.'"

"Aye, and his father afore him. It's that he might lie soft and eat fine food that we gets lost in the choke an' damp. If he sent you, go back and tell him to come out here himself. We hev a long account to settle, and the figgers is waitin'."

"I am here to see what you need, and will help you if you will let me," answered Morris, gently. "A spy or an overseer, like enough. The sooner you get out of these quarters the better for your health. If one of the bloomin' mine owners sent you here, go back an' tell him 't ain't safe to come spyin' round.' Tell him, too, that we'll give him a warmer welcome—hounds that they all are!"

Eleanor Landsberg had no word from Morris for six months. Then she received a paper marked in red ink, which had a paragraph that interested her. It gave a plain statement of the great improvement that had taken place in the Little Summit mine, and went on to describe the comfortable homes of the miners, the new machinery which had been put into the mines to take the place of child labor, the comfortable stables above the ground that had been built for the mules, the improved social conditions of the men's families, and ended with a glowing tribute to the "noble energy of the young and athletic mine owner, Morris Holmes."

"Athletic!" Eleanor repeated the word with much satisfaction. It was of moral athletes she was thinking, and it pleased her mightily that this word could thus be applied to Morris.

In a few moments she received a second newspaper, published like the first, in a town adjoining the mines, and giving the news of that section of the country. It also contained a marked paragraph, but the marking was irregular black lines of jagged pencil, and on the border was drawn a rude hand, pointing to the notice and the badly written but legible "Old Geordie."

Eleanor read in a few intense words the news that had been sent to her. There had been an accident in the mine. The roof of the entire chamber had fallen and buried 20 miners beneath it. The men were rescued with great difficulty, and some of them were badly injured. When all were supposed to have been saved, there was a wailing cry, and the wife of "Old Geordie" struggled from the hands of friends and tried to throw herself into the mine. Morris Holmes, pale and out of breath, called for men to go down with him and rescue "Old Geordie." No one responded. The men owed their lives to their families, and they knew the danger of a falling roof. So Morris, with one look at the blue sky above, swung into the cage and was lowered alone amid an avestricken silence into the bosom of death. There was not much to tell. When the signal was given there were willing hands to help deliver the two men from the wreckage, but only one came up alive. The other had succumbed to the fatal damp. A long panegyric followed, but it meant little to Eleanor. Her eyes rested on four oft-quoted hackneyed lines that closed the story—

—They would never leave her: "For whether on the scaffold high, Or in the battle's van, The fittest place for man to die, Is where he dies for man." She had found her hero, never again to lose him. He had returned on his shield.—Detroit Free Press.

PRIMITIVE FARE.

The Native Soldiers of Cuba Can Live on Plants.

They Have a Thorough Knowledge of the Woods and Can Find Those Growths Which Will Sustain Life.

One of the most disappointed men in town is Capt. Bueneo, of the Cuban army. The captain, who is a member of the largest banking house in San Diego, Cuba, came to New York last July on a special mission.

"I was all through with my business on July 20," said the captain, "and here I am still, held by this bail until I don't know when."

"I began together. We were old school-mates, you know. He stayed and fought, and now he is a colonel. If I could have gotten back I'd be a colonel, too, or dead. Oh, well, the rainy season is coming on, and after that the fever. That will make the Spaniards sick. In the last war 93 per cent. of them died of fever—to say nothing of those we put out of the way with our machetes and bullets."

"Of course, they cannot ride at all. Perez has told you about that; but we can outmarch them, too. One night, about a year ago, we broke camp and started to meet Maceo and Marti. We knew that they were to land about 40 leagues away. By noon the next day we had marched 18 leagues, but we were not too tired to attack a Spanish column that came down on our flank, a little to the rear. We had a lively fight until five o'clock, when Maceo and Marti came up. Then, together, we drove the enemy out of sight."

"We ought to have been pretty tired by that time. Don't you think so? Well, we were not very fresh, but orders were given to return by the route we came, and, after hunting up something to eat from what the Spaniards had abandoned in their flight, we marched back the whole 18 leagues, reaching our starting place the next afternoon. You don't find any Spaniards to do that. We couldn't if we weren't used to the food and to the climate and hadn't lived out of doors all our lives."

"Another thing in our favor, especially in the hilly country, where the woods are dense, is that we know what plants and roots are good for food and which poisonous. Almost anywhere in Cuba there is enough stuff growing wild to keep a man alive, if he knows how to get it. We do; so we can go about without a commissary department. When we halt for breakfast or supper, there is a bugle call as a signal to prepare to hunt—get our sacks ready, etc. Then a second call, meaning to disperse to the woods. In a half-hour, perhaps, you will see all the men back in camp, each with some fruit or vegetable that he has plucked or dug out of the ground. We eat these things and they agree with us. If the Spaniards eat them much they have a pain in the stomach."

"All we need to drive the Spaniards out is supplies. We've more men than we can arm. So it is no use for anyone to come to us looking for a job, unless he knows something about artillery. Then we might use him, but I do not know certainly."—N. Y. Press.

Changes in the Olympic Games. For many years the contests consisted only of foot-races, until in 708 B. C. wrestling and the pentathlon were introduced. During the seventh century the "memories" of the authorities at Olympia seem to have been quickened, for we then find introduced boxing (688 B. C.), the four-horse chariot-race (680 B. C.), the horse races and the pancration (648 B. C.); also the following contests for boys: foot-races and wrestling (632 B. C.), the pentathlon (628 B. C.), and boxing (616 B. C.). These heavy contests mark this century as one which set special value upon muscular force and endurance.

Identified by Their Brands. On the big, unfenced ranges of the west cattle from one herd frequently stray away and join a herd belonging to another ranchman, and for mutual convenience and protection the cattlemen in the various states have associations which keep agents at the principal cattle markets to watch for such strays and see that the result of their sale is credited to their proper owner, no matter in what shipment they reach the market.

GOV. BRADLEY WITHDRAWS

Name Will Not Go Before St. Louis Convention as a Presidential Candidate.

ALARMED AT GROWTH OF SILVER SENTIMENT.

Urges Republicans to Meet the Issue Squarely and Thinks All Patriotic Democrats Should Be Appealed to Do Likewise.

KENTUCKY MAN IS NOT IN IT.

LOUISVILLE, June 2.—The Commercial Gazette's special dispatch from Frankfort contains an interview with Governor Bradley, which is his official withdrawal as a presidential candidate.

Personal preferences should be laid aside and petty animosities forgotten, and patriotic Democrats who stand for national advancement and the prosperity of the nation should be appealed to assist in the defeat of those who would lower the standard of our money and thereby necessarily stain our nation's honor.

ONLY 15,000 SEATS IN ALL.

Chicago's Share of Convention Room to Be Less Than Expected.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Secretary Sheerin, of the national Democratic committee, said today that no application for press space at the national convention would be considered after June 15.

The sub-committee expected that fifteen thousand seats would be provided for in the plans, exclusive of the seats for delegates and alternates.

The decorations will be elaborate, but the general style will be kept secret by the committee until after the Republican convention at St. Louis.

POISON IN THE WINE.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Seven persons drank from a bottle of port wine tonight in the house of Eva Little on South Clark street and four of the number, it is expected, will die.

THE MICHIGAN CORSET CO., JACKSON, MICH.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

Beach & Bowers' famous minstrels which appear at the opera house tonight are bound to please the large audience their show always draws. It is now in its tenth consecutive season under one management and is the acknowledged monarch of the minstrel world. They receive the highest commendation from the audiences and the press everywhere they go. Here is a synopsis of the good things said about the company:

The Omaha Daily Bee of Dec. 16, says: "Beach & Bowers turned hundreds of people away, the theatre being packed to the doors, and the best pleased audience that ever assembled together." The Journal of Lincoln, Neb., says: "The sign was hung out at 7:30, Standing Room Only," but the people would not listen to such a thing." The Sioux City Journal says: "No more refined minstrel performance has ever held the boards in Sioux City." The Clinton News, Ia., says: "A better pleased audience never departed from Music Hall." The Davenport Gazette says: "It's an entertainment worthy of very liberal patronage." The Dubuque Herald says: "It's putting it mild to say brilliant." The Gazette of Green Bay, pronounces the company "the best that has appeared there."

Full Election Returns.

Reports from Munising yesterday confirm the news printed in THE MINING JOURNAL of Tuesday of the election of Timothy Nester to the presidency of the village, and the overwhelming defeat of Ex-Dishwasher Brewster. The dishwasher ran alone, all other candidates on his ticket having withdrawn their names. Out 435 names registered Saturday 376 votes were polled. The election passed off without a ripple of excitement. The new village officials are:

President, Timothy Nester. Clerk, Horace J. Lobbell. Treasurer, Robert Peters. Assessor, John McMillan. Trustees, John J. Hansen, Theodore E. Bissell, Courtland E. Moore, Anthony Ferguson, Edward Burling, Samuel Johnson.

Annual Church Meetings.
The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church society was held last evening. There being no matters of particular interest to come before the meeting the attendance was small. The reports of the various officers showed the church to be growing, and in good condition. Financially the society is in good shape, for after paying all bills there is still a balance on the right side of the books. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Secretary, George P. Cummings. Treasurer, E. W. Allen. Trustees, Gad Smith, George N. Conklin and W. S. Hill.

The Widjiwa club had a house night last night, an ample lunch being served. A feature of the evening was a discussion of hypnotism by Mr. George Williams, who put a number of the members "under the influence" during the evening.

On Thursday the Knights of Temperance will give a social in Morgan Memorial chapel. Ice cream and strawberries with cake will be served by the young girls, who for this occasion will assist the Knights. The tables will be trimmed in various colors.

Several witnesses were on hand yesterday morning to testify before the commissioners in the contested land case of John Prince vs. John A. McNeil, but as there were others equally important who were not present the case was adjourned till the 16th.

An owner has been found for the horse which Officer Anderson found running at large night before last. The man who claims the beast says that he was attending the Madosh wake and left the horse tied outside, by a rope around the neck. He thinks the horse either broke away or was loosened by some evil disposed person.

Walter Power, lawyer and editor of the Baraga Press, stopped over in Marquette yesterday accompanied by his bride. Mr. and Mrs. Power are making a trip over the peninsula. Mr. Power is quite as well known on account of his own ability and attainments as from the fact that he is the son of United States District Attorney John W. Power of Escanaba.

SAVED HIS MONEY.

Sharp Tricks Played by an Arizona Law- yer on Stage Robber.
While Tom Fitch, the orator and politician, was practicing law in Tombstone, A. T., he had occasion to visit Phoenix. On the way there the stage was held up by a lone highwayman, who not only robbed the mail and express box, but searched all of the passengers. The fellow found about $2,000 in the express box and Fitch lost $100, besides a gold watch and chain. While still in Phoenix the robber was captured, and hearing that Fitch was in town sent for him. Fitch's face appeared familiar, but the highwayman had forgotten where he had seen it, and Fitch said nothing about the matter. "What will you defend me for?" he asked.

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do," said Fitch. "I'll defend you for $500, but I'll agree to get you out and free on a writ of habeas corpus for $200."
"All right; it's a go."
The fellow told Fitch where his money was concealed, and the attorney found it. As soon as he had it safely stowed away in his grip sack he started home for Tombstone, and left the robber to take care of himself.

A couple of months later Fitch was nearly frightened out of his wits to see the robber walk into his office.

"I see you recognize me," said he, "but you needn't feel alarmed. You robbed me."
"Yes, but you robbed me first," exclaimed Fitch. "I was on that stage."
"Well, I didn't come to reproach you for anything of the sort. I have escaped from jail, and all I want is money enough to get back to my old home in Pennsylvania, where I will lead an honest life."
"Why, certainly, my boy," declared Fitch. "Wait right here till I can go to the bank and get it."
Fitch returned a moment later with the sheriff and saved $100.—San Francisco Post.

Sailing Round the World Alone.
Capt. Joshua Slocum, who sailed from East Boston nearly a year ago to circumnavigate the globe in his 40-foot sloop Spray, has been heard from as being at Sandy Point, in the Straits of Magellan, on February 16. His original intention was to make the trip to the westward by the way of the Isthmus of Panama, but finding that it would be impossible to transport his vessel across the isthmus, he determined to make the journey by sailing east. He crossed the Atlantic, and had reached Gibraltar, but hearing there that there were pirates in the Red sea, he again turned westward, and after a tempestuous passage across the Atlantic, reached Pernambuco, Brazil, on October 5, which was the last heard of him until the news just received.—Boston Transcript.

Rehabites Convention. The annual grand lodge convention of District No. 100, Independent Order of Rehabites of Michigan, was held in Ishpeming at the Co-operative society's hall Friday and Saturday of last week.

The tents of the copper country were represented by Joseph Heaton, Mrs. Biscombe, William Maynard, T. Milford and Alfred Richards.

The afternoon session Friday was chiefly taken up in receiving the reports of the officers and in announcing the appointment of committees for the ensuing year.

The Rebabites have great reason to rejoice over the progress the order has made during the past nine years.

The society's income last year was $75,000. The amount paid out for benefits was $625,000, leaving a net gain of $250,000.

Charles Engman, one of the pipemen employed at the Cleveland Lake mine, was run over by the skip and instantly killed yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

The deceased was twenty-four years of age and had been married about one month. His bride was Miss Lottie Depasig.

LEARNING TO SPEAK CHINESE.

Some of the Difficulties Set Forth by a Missionary Student. John Wesley is credited with the saying that the Chinese language was an invention of the devil to keep the missionaries out of China.

On opening his book, the student sees a mass of hieroglyphics, with no clew whatever to their pronunciation, sound or tone.

In Chinese we have no alphabet, no inflections, no conjugations and no distinctions of mood, gender, tense or person.

Standing alone and divorced from its context, the student cannot tell whether a single character is a noun or a verb. He turns to his dictionary and is often bewildered by a score of diverse meanings that have gathered around the word during 3,000 years of service in Chinese literature.

It is worthy of remark that a Chinaman living in Canton will pronounce these characters altogether different from the Chinaman, for instance, in Foochow; yet the meaning of the characters and construction of sentences is the same all over China.

The spoken language differs according to the locality, and yet a Chinese scholar will sit down and write poetry and prose compositions in a classical style that are intelligible to every educated man in China, Corea and Japan.

I have often seen two Chinamen who could not understand a word of each other's speech sitting down and holding a conversation in writing, much as the monks of different European countries used to correspond with each other in Latin.

Few foreigners are able to write Chinese with the elegance of the native scholar. Some cannot read even a single character, and yet are able to speak a local dialect with as much fluency and as perfect idiom as a Chinaman.

The great difficulty in acquiring the spoken language is in the tones, the inter-syllabic aspirates, and the utter lawlessness of its idiom. There are only about 700 distinct sounds in the language, and a few months' practice will easily master their pronunciation, but it must be remembered that to each of these sounds there is attached a sort of metrical scale, ranging from an octave to an octave and a half, giving a variety of tones which only a musical ear can detect.

In English a tone may denote anger, surprise or injury, but does not alter the meaning of the word. In Chinese the tone is all important.

Take the sound tseung. This may mean mean grasshopper, oar, elephant, mechanic or pickles, according to the tone.

Put an aspirate into the middle of the word, and it may mean examine, good luck, wall, spear or gun, and a variety of other meanings, depending on the tone given.

A man is a man only when the correct tone is given. Change the tone, and man becomes a nightingale, a carrot, and many other ridiculous things.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

A WOMAN'S ISLAND. Three Times as Many Women as Men at Tristan da Cunha. From the isolated group of little islands in the South Atlantic, whence the caged eagle, Napoleon, was guarded, though 1,300 miles distant, on lonely St. Helena, comes by faraway, roundabout means the strange tale of life without communication with the rest of the world for six months, and a bit of history in a community in which women outnumber the men in such a majority that they may compel obedience, by force, if necessary.

Notice is hereby given that the copartnership heretofore existing between T. L. Collins and W. John Truman under the firm name and style of T. L. Collins & Company, is this day dissolved by mutual consent.

In and About Negaunee.

Minor Meets Death. Henry Bavola, a miner employed at the Queen Mining company's No. 1 shaft, fell into a winze yesterday morning shortly after 7 o'clock and was instantly killed. He dropped about seventy-five feet. His body was picked up and taken to surface a short time after the accident occurred and Undertaker Wollner was sent for to prepare the remains for burial.

Coroner Samuel Rogers of Ishpeming and Mine Inspector James H. Rough of this city were notified and visited the scene of the accident, after which the coroner empanelled a jury in the case. The testimony of the witnesses will be taken today.

Bavola had been in this country but a short time. He was thirty-nine years of age, and was married to a wife and several children, who reside in Finland. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Religious services will be conducted at the boarding place of the deceased by Rev. C. Tolonen, the Finnish minister, of Ishpeming.

Making Some Changes. The Marquette County Telephone company is making some changes in its wiring system here. The extra wires necessary for the metallic circuit have been strung between here and Ishpeming and the workmen are now in Negaunee. It will take them the remainder of this week to complete the wiring here. They will then begin to extend the extra wires to Marquette. They expect to have this done within the next month or six weeks. Dave Myers of Marquette has charge of the work.

Return to Sweden. Gust Lindberg and wife, who have been residents of Negaunee since 1882, will leave tonight for Gottenberg, Sweden, their native place, where they expect to spend the remainder of their days. They have sold their house and lot at Teal Lake to John Carlson. Mr. Lindberg is a very industrious man. He worked at the Nelson mine from the time of his arrival here until operations were suspended there about a year ago. He saved his earnings and he will return to Sweden with a good-sized sum laid aside.

Pleasant Fishing Trip. P. C. Peterson, F. M. Beney and Joseph H. Winter left Monday for Salmon Trout river on a fishing trip. Mr. Peterson had logging camps there all winter and he is quite familiar with the stream. He promised the boys a pleasant trip before leaving here and they will doubtless have it. They expect to return tonight or tomorrow with trout enough to "whack up" with a few of their friends.

Fighting Fire with Fire. One of the great achievements of the future is to be the utilization of antagonistic bacilli in stamping out diseases of various grades. It is thought that there will in time be discovered germs that will act as spiders on upon flies and cats upon mice. They will simply grapple with and destroy them. In a number of instances accidental inoculation of patients suffering from malignant disease with the germ of some other equally serious malady has resulted in the restoration of the patient to health. Just how this is done, just why it is, no one seems able to understand, but facts justify this conclusion. In one case the patient was considered hopelessly ill with an incurable disease. A careless physician brought from another patient the bacilli of an equally serious ailment with which the sufferer was shortly attacked. After a number of weeks of extreme exhaustion and suffering, to the astonishment of everybody who knew the circumstances, the man began to mend and ultimately recovered, bearing no evidence of either disease, which seemed to have spent their force on each other and left the system almost clean. It will be an interesting day for medical science when doctors can bring out an army of erysipelas or other bacilli to fight the germs of equally malignant diseases.—N. Y. Ledger.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company, for the election of directors and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before the meeting, will be held at the office of the company in the city of Marquette, Mich., at 10 o'clock forenoon on Thursday, the 4th day of June, 1896. Transfer books will close at noon on Saturday, May 23, and reopen at 10 o'clock forenoon on Friday, June 5, 1896. Geo. H. CUNN, Secretary, 44 Wall St, New York City.

LOCAL LAONICS.

A. Maitland spent yesterday at Escanaba on a business mission. Alfred Kidder of Marquette and Captains Walters and Sineox of the Lake Angeline mine, Ishpeming, paid a visit to the Volunteer property, Cascade range, yesterday.

Charles Johnson and Henry Fuggie, representative of a Milwaukee liquor house, went to Swaney yesterday on a fishing trip. Mann Bros' camps will be their headquarters.

Miss Minnie Witt, who came up from Milwaukee Monday and will again take up her residence in Ishpeming, is spending a few days in Negaunee, the guest of Mrs. John P. Miller.

Jacob Henderson, who assaulted his boarding boss and wife Friday night was found guilty of the charge in Justice Verran's court and was fined for the offence. He paid the fine and costs of court and was released from custody.

The Beach & Bowers Minstrel company was greeted with a good-sized audience at McDonald's Opera House last evening. The performance was entirely satisfactory and all present were given well pleased with it. The parade given at noon was quite attractive and a large number came out to witness it. There were over twenty persons in the parade.

Marshal Rough says he intends making it warm for the tramps who come to Negaunee hereafter. He and the other members of the police force arrested four hoboes whom they found in barns and cars Monday night. These will likely be sent to the county jail for a month or so. Other tramps will be dealt with in a similar way. The "weary Willies" had better take warning and give Negaunee a wide berth in the future.

ALBINO BIRDS AND BEASTS.

The Idea That They Were Barren Seems to Have Been Erroneous. W. L. Bruce, of Yankton, S. D., reports that while hunting 25 miles northwest of Yankton along the St. James river, he shot two albino quail from a flock normally colored. They were larger than the ordinary bird, of a cream color, speckled with brown, but so dimly as to appear pure white at a short distance. Some years ago an old quail with 13 young, all albinos, were reported from California by a correspondent of the same paper. Many individual albino quail are reported and a few albino ruffed grouse. The London Field lately noted the finding of albino and pied rooks, crows and blackbirds, and a white house marten. It also told about a white badger that was taken in a weasel trap a short time ago.

A pure white deer and a mottled one were reported killed on Whidby island, in Puget sound, lately. Three or more white wild turkeys are known to have been killed during the past 15 years. One bird in Tennessee was known as the "Old White Witch Turkey." He may not have been a bright bird naturally, but it wasn't very long after he was hatched that he learned that being white was not all comfort. The hen turkeys liked him exceedingly, and one of his offspring, a gray bird, was killed in 1882, while others of light color were seen. Hundreds of bullets were fired at the witch bird, but without success, and he probably died a natural death in some out-of-the-way clump of bushes.

For many years albinos were thought to be barren, but observation has proved this to be erroneous. One, a female robin, reared a brood of young for five successive seasons up the Hudson, and a number of other robins were seen attending young in the vicinity during two or three mating seasons, the young being often oddly colored. Albino robins and squirrels are most frequently seen of the small creatures, while deer are the most numerous of larger albinos. An albino moose was never seen.—Forest and Stream.

Her Dower Too Small. The suit of Marquis di Maroscotti, of Bologna, Italy, against Princess Anna Maria Torlonia, of Rome, which has just come to an end in the former city, has excited widespread interest. It had a curious origin. In 1821 a Torlonia was married to a Marescotti, and brought him a marriage gift considerably less than a marriage gift. The marquis of that time sued for the difference, and the present marquis received a verdict of 267,000 francs against the family.—Detroit Free Press.

HOW MANY WOMEN DO YOU KNOW Who Can Say They Are Thoroughly Well? How They Can Be Strong.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.) I don't feel very well; I am so tired all the time; I don't know what is the matter with me.

You hear these words every day. As often as you meet your friends, just so often are the words repeated. More than likely you speak the same pregnant words yourself, and there is no doubt but that you do feel far from well most of the time. There is a cause. And—There is a remedy for all that is covered by those words so constantly spoken by women. Lydia E. Pinkham discovered the source of nearly all the suffering endured by the sex. "Women's Complaints,"—these two words are full of more misery to women than any two words that can be found in the language of the world. Sudden fainting, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or to do anything, backache, "bearing down," and kindred symptoms of serious disturbance should be regarded by your family physician, and reluctantly mentioned by you. The remedy is found; the same noble woman who discovered the cause of all your misery also worked out the remedy. All druggists have it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest blessing that ever came into the lives of suffering women.

THEY WANT THE CONTRACT.

Olmsted, Olmsted & Eliot Would Like to Design Presque Isle Park.

THE PROPOSITION SUBMITTED TO THE PARK COMMISSION.

Landscapers Propose to Charge $3,230 for Three Years Services—Are Paid for Skill and Experience, Not for Time.

COMMUNICATION TO COMMISSION

Among liberal minded people on every hand the regret is constantly expressed that more has not been done to improve Presque Isle and make it, as is possible, one of the most beautiful natural parks in the country.

Under the management of the present capable and liberal commission much has been done for it in the past year of the commission's control, but there remains yet much to do, and much in which the skill and experience of the professional landscaper is absolutely essential to good results.

The firm of Olmsted, Olmsted & Eliot, of which Mr. Charles Olmsted personally examined the ground, has submitted to the commission a proposition to undertake the design and oversight of the park for three years.

Monday night the commission came before the council and asked an appropriation sufficiently large to justify it in entering upon this contract. At the suggestion of Mr. White the matter was laid on the table till next meeting, that the council might have leisure to read the communication and act intelligently upon the question.

The proposition submitted to the commission, under a date of May 15th, is as follows:

WHAT THE FIRM WILL DO.
Hon. Peter White, President Park Commission, Marquette, Mich.

DEAR SIR: You ask us to state our terms for making a plan for Presque Isle Park. We may mention that we have made plans upon which the parks of Milwaukee and Louisville are being improved, as well as Jackson Park, Chicago, and many other public parks, and that while some of these may strike you as of far too costly a type, yet others would be found to contain improvements of a more modest type, such as we will doubtless have occasion to mention. In all these cases we have been supplied with detailed topographical maps to facilitate our study, and to enable engineers to properly work out the details of our plans on the ground. Such a map may seem to one not acquainted with the process of designing a well considered and well balanced park plan, and of construction in a thorough and systematic manner of the various improvements needed to make it comfortably available to the public an unnecessary expense, but to those who have had the experience it is well known to be not only useful, but a means of economy in laying out the work. In fact it would be almost impracticable for us to undertake to make a plan that would have any real value without a good topographical map. We must, therefore, ask you to arrange for such a map, either before employing us to make a plan, or so that it may be completed during the time when we are studying the ground and other conditions, and giving preliminary advice, say within six months or a year after our engagement.

With the aid of a good topographical map we will prepare one or more plans sufficient to explain our ideas, in order that you and your board may discuss them. We will then complete our general plan in a manner suitable for publication. We will also act in an advisory capacity to your board and its superintendent and engineer from the signing of our contract for the space of three years, and will make occasional visits for conference and advice, according to our custom during the same period for the sum of $3,230, together with traveling expenses, and the actual cost to us of the time of our assistants employed in work other than the general plan and preliminary studies leading up to it, such as enlarging or reducing maps and plans, estimating quantities, making detailed working drawings, making surveys and the like, including drafting materials, telegrams, express, etc. We may say that unless actual construction work is underway there is not likely to be much expense of this sort, perhaps $100 a year or less would cover it. We should also charge should any planting be undertaken that would require skilled advice, estimating and ordering plants, examining ground, giving detailed advice to our employees and inspecting planting. The traveling expenses of our assistants are to be refunded to us. The expense for the use of our planting assistants, so far as we can now judge, should not exceed two or three hundred dollars a year, and the compensation would be payable to us in semi-annual installments of $500 each, except the last, which would be $233. Expenses would also be paid, as usual, annually. It is to be understood that our compensation is for our skill and not for our time, also that we take no commission from dealers or others and that we make no profit on our assistants' services, but on the contrary lose office rent and other heavy expenses in connection with them; our object being to encourage our clients to make use of their special skill and training. We do no surveying ourselves. Should the park be enlarged we will extend our plan for $10 per acre for the enlargement.

We will add in regard to our charge that the rate of $10 per acre is the lowest rate we have received for the design of any park of less area than 500 acres, and we have usually received a higher rate, in some cases twice as much. We make our rate to you at our minimum, because the amount of expenditure on the park is likely to be less than usual.

ADVICE THROWN IN.

It would of course be an economy, and in other ways advantageous, if considerable construction work, and especially all that needs careful adjustment to the existing trees and natural conditions, could be done during the three years of our service. It is less important to have our personal advice as to buildings, wharves, sewers, water supply, bridges, approaching pathways and other heavy constructions, than as to grading roads and walks and their side slopes, and as to planting. It would for this reason be good policy for the city to borrow what is needed to carry out the roads and walks and necessary grading in the park, leaving other constructions for the future.

We enclose a copy of our printed circular further explaining our methods, and we desire to make it part of this proposition.

Whether we are employed or not we advise you to be extremely cautious in doing any more "clearing up" of underbrush and old mossy logs. The damage to the scenery through such work is very great.

Yours Respectfully,
OLMSTED, OLMSTED & ELIOT.

Kickers May Come Tomorrow.

The board of review spent a second day yesterday going over the tax roll and discussing the assessments, and still the end of the book is not reached. This task will be finished up today surely, and probably by noon. After that the kickers' sessions may begin as soon as the tax objectors want to come in. There have been a number around the city building during the two days the board has been in session.

High School Public Recitation.

The junior class of the High school gave a public recitation yesterday afternoon on English history and literature of the Seventeenth century. Parents and friends of the class filled nearly every seat in the school room.

The purpose of the public recitation is to give the pupils that confidence in themselves which is acquired only by speaking before an audience, and on the other hand to give the patrons of the school an idea of the work of the class.

At 3:30 the class marched in, in a body, and took seats on the platform at the front of the room. Miss Northrup, who is the instructress in literature, announced the opening numbers of the program. Each speaker was assigned a separate topic, and all recited without the aid of manuscript or notes, but of course, in order that twenty-five pupils might take part, the remarks of each were necessarily brief.

Starting with a review of the sovereigns of the period, the reigns of each were covered, and the relation of parliament to the crown, and the theory of the divine right of kings were expounded. Recitations were scattered through the program from the works of noted authors of the time, and the entertainment was still further varied by pleasing vocal selections.

At the conclusion of the program the guests remained to congratulate their hosts and to partake of tea and wafers. The refreshments were served in the small room immediately off the class rooms. In the north room the tea pourers were Miss Pyrie Hanawalt and Miss Bertha Higbee. Miss Elsie Hodgkins and Miss Cora Hanawalt poured in the south room.

Violent Deaths.

News was received here yesterday of the death of Hiram Cohn. Mr. Cohn was run over by a street car in Bay City, where he has made his home since leaving Marquette. No particulars of the accident are obtainable. Mr. Cohn is well known in this city, having lived here upwards of 25 years, and at the time of his death still retained his membership in the Superior Tent, K. O. T. M. His wife, who is a daughter of W. G. Boyce, survives him with several children.

C. H. Wilson, engineer of Corbin & Mead's mill at Sidaew, was killed Friday morning while at his work. While adjusting a small belt he fell a distance of seven feet from a platform and broke his neck. Instant death, of course, ensued. Mr. Wilson was 45 years old and married, but leaves no children. His body was taken to Sand Lake for burial.

Committee Better Hushed.

Unless the financial division of the Fourth of July committee gets a hustle on itself the eagle won't make a single squawk in Marquette Independence day.

Although appointed more than a week ago almost nothing has been collected, and the committee has as yet done no systematic work with the subscription list. Some criticism is made of its action in going before the council and asking a $500 appropriation before raising what it could on the outside. The other committees appointed are holding back till they see how much money is raised for them to expend on the celebration, and whether there is going to be anything to invite outsiders to or not. The idea is gaining ground in many quarters that the blowout will be a little one for a cent.

Fraternity Notes.

Superior Tent No. 28, K. O. T. M., will commemorate the anniversary of the order by giving a grand ball on Thursday, June 11th, at Fraternity Hall. An invitation is extended to all members of the order and their friends to come and enjoy the festivities. The ideal orchestra will discourse its usual delightful music. Tickets are $1.00.

Sometime during the early summer the Sons of Veterans are to be reorganized, and an attempt made to at least double the number of names at present on the roll. It is thought that there ought to be no great difficulty in securing fifty members.

The Shriners of Ahmed Temple will meet this evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of completing arrangements for a reception and dance to be given by the lodge in Hotel Superior. A full attendance of all the nobles is desired.

Sims, the foot doctor, is at the Summit House for a few days longer. Get your Corns, Bunions and Ingrown Nails removed. Call or telephone. (5-28-1w)

Those desiring fresh milk, sweet cream or fresh home laid eggs can get them of Mr. Harris, the dairyman. Mr. Harris has been doing such a thriving business that he has had to purchase some new Jersey cows and good laying hens and is now still better prepared to supply all new customers. Send in your order by either phone and same will have prompt attention. (3-11-tf)
