BACKED UP PRESIDENT.

House Sustains His Veto of the General Deficiency Appropriation Bill.

A SUBSTITUTE IS INTRODUCED AND PASSED.

Exactly Similar to the Old Measure With Omission of the French Spoilation, Southern War and Choteau Claims.

GROVER'S OBJECTIONS ARE MET.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The president yesterday sent to the house of representatives the general deficiency appropriation bill unapproved, accompanied by a message explaining why the measure was vetoed. The message included a defense of the exercise of veto power and a long criticism of the French spoliation claims, aggregating over a million dollars, and also an objection to payment of the Choteau claim for $174,445, arising out of the construction of the iron clad steam battery Etah.

After the passage—102 to 35—of the senate bill to amend the law defining fourth-class mail matter the veto message was laid before the house. The veto was applauded by that portion of the house which had opposed the claims, and which included many Republicans. Chairman Cannon of the appropriations committee arose after the reading, and said:

"In my judgment, if the senate amendment covering 700 items and aggregating $2,000,000 had been fully understood, the house would not have voted for it. If we had known that, fastened as a leech, under false pretenses, the Choteau claim was included, I do not believe any member would have voted for it." If any of the senate claims had been proposed in the house, Mr. Cannon continued, they would have been stricken out on a point of order. He gave notice that he would move to pass, after a vote on the veto, a bill precisely similar to the one vetoed with the omission of the claims put on by the senate.

After some debate, the question of passing the bill over the veto was then put. The vote resulted: Yeas, 40; nays, 149. Mr. Cannon then sent to the clerk's desk the substitute bill. It aroused vigorous protests from Richardson (Tenn.), Evans (Ky.) and Wellington (Md.) because of the omission of the southern war claims, but after a lively debate the bill was passed—172 to 43, a wide margin over the necessary two-thirds to pass a bill under suspension of the rules.

THE SECTARIAN SCHOOLS QUESTION.

The Indian appropriation bill conference report was called up by Sherman of New York. The compromise to end the appropriations for sectarian schools on July 1, 1897, inspired an eloquent speech by Fitzgerald (Mass.). He asserted that millions of the property of the Catholic church was to be destroyed without justice or fairness, hundreds of children were to be turned adrift without means for their education. The resolutions for the acceptance of the Marquette statue which passed the senate unanimously had been smothered in a committee of the house against his protests.

Mr. Cooper (Wis.) replying said: "I deny that this government has any right to take my money to teach the Catholic religion to a Comanche or the Methodist to a Modoc. It is no part of the duty of this government to teach an Indian that the pope is infallible. Other churches have voluntarily relinquished such appropriations. If the Catholic church is such a patriotic institution as its cardinal in a public letter has recently declared it to be, it will cease asking money from the government to propagate its religion. The report was disagreed to, 58 to 63, and the bill was sent back to conference.

THE SENATE DECLINES.

It Refuses to Recede from Its Stand on the Battleship Question.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The senate made some progress Saturday toward clearing away the great appropriation bills which stand ahead of adjournment. The Indian bill was finally disposed of, the contract school item being modified so that Catholic schools will be abolished July 1, 1897. After discussing the items of battleships and armor plate most of the day the senate declined, by a vote of 24 to 22, to accept a conference report recommending three battleships and armor plate at a maximum of $425. The sundry civil conferees were instructed by unanimous vote to insist on the appropriations for new public buildings at the capitals of Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana and additional sums for buildings at other points.

Among the favorable reports was one from the library committee for a peace monument at Appomattox, Va., at the point where Grant and Lee met.

FOUR BOYS DROWNED.

Considerable Damage Also Done by a Cloudburst at Leavenworth.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., June 7.—Four persons were drowned and considerable damage in the city done by a cloudburst which visited this section this afternoon. The water fell in torrents, smashing windows, tearing off signs, etc., and filling cellars and bottom lands. Dennis and Michael Desmond and Dennis and Eugene Cummings, all under eleven years of age, were drowned by going into a stone culvert to escape the storm.

HAIL DAMAGES CROPS.

WICHITA, Kan., June 7.—A terrific hail storm this morning destroyed thousands of acres of growing corn in southern Kansas. The hail stones cut the stalks off like a mowing machine. The storm was so severe that roadsides are strewn with dead birds. The storm was apparently general all over southern Kansas and extended over part of Oklahoma.

EX-GOV. BEGOLE IS DEAD.

Expired at His Home in Flint After Several Months' Illness.

FLINT, Mich., June 7.—Ex-Governor Josiah W. Begole died at 11 o'clock last night at his home in this city after an illness of several months. It was generally known that he could not live, but his death, nevertheless, came unexpectedly. Governor Begole was eighty-two years of age. The funeral will be held at the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock p. m., under auspices of the Knights Templar, of which he was a member. All flags in the city are at half-mast and a general feeling of sadness exists over the death of "Uncle Josiah," as he was generally known throughout the city and country.

WILL SUIT ALL FACTIONS.

Judge Thompson Talks on the Republican Platform.

For "Sound Money" and Acceptable to Both Eastern and Western Members of the Party.

GATHERING AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—Up to date there are fully five times as many out-of-town newspaper correspondents who have come to the national convention than Republicans. It is not expected there will be much real activity in a political way until the arrival of M. A. Hanna, Major McKinley's manager, with his forces. He is expected Tuesday, as is also Thomas C. Platt, who is coming to look after the interests of Levi P. Morton. It is also said ex-Governor Gear of Iowa will put in an appearance about the middle of the week with a corps of assistants to engage in the preliminary skirmish in behalf of Senator Allison. The bill-posting brigade of the Hawkeye state candidate was here today, and as a result lithographs of Allison have been hung in shop windows and posted upon dead walls of the town.

The national committeemen will all be here before the close of the week. With them will come scores of delegates, especially those having contests, and a horde of camp followers in the way of citizens who desire to serve their states, or rather party, in the capacity of assistant doorkeepers and other useful and necessary positions about the convention hall. Then, too, the crowds at the hotels will be augmented to a considerable extent by members of congress and other statesmen and patriots from the national capital. St. Louis, in spite of the fact that a fortnight ago a storm swept a hole a mile and a half wide through the center of the city, is ready to comfortably accommodate and handle the scores of thousands of visitors whom it is expected will attend the convention.

The latest arrival is ex-congressman Thompson of Ohio, who, with General Grosvenor, will argue the cases of contested McKinley delegates before the national committee. Judge Thompson is looked upon as the only McKinley spokesman yet in the field. He said he is certain there will be but one ballot for naming the presidential nominee. He also said Hon. Thos. B. Reed will not accept the vice presidency nomination. He is quite as positive of this as he is that McKinley would be nominated on the first ballot. In regard to the platform he had this to say:

"It will be a 'sound money' platform. It will be a platform that will be acceptable to the Republicans of the east and west. Some delegates, however, may go away dissatisfied at not having been able to work it just as they desired, yet it will be a platform they can support." In making this statement, Mr. Thompson said he did not wish to be understood as attempting to dictate sentiment to delegates—he was merely speaking from knowledge he had of the platforms adopted at the various state conventions.

When asked as to who he thought would be named for second place on the ticket, he said he had heard of no one talked of by the McKinley men.

G. W. Hill, of the national committee, said the Tennessee delegation will present the name of H. Clay Evans for vice president and will do all in their power to secure victory for him.

KERNS'S MYSTERIOUS MISSION.

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—A good deal of gossip has been caused by the sudden departure of Richard C. Kerns of this city, Chaney L. Filley's political opponent, for Canton, O., last night. It is said he went on a telegraphic request from McKinley. In regard to the matter The Republic in the morning will say:

Kerns friends declare the object of his visit is to confer with the McKinley lieutenants throughout the country, who are to be assembled before Hanna leaves for St. Louis. The theory of the Filley men is that McKinley proposes to call Kerns off and insist he shall make no further warfare on the regular Republican organization in Missouri. While Filley is not in a position to throw the Missouri delegation against McKinley merely to gain a personal point there are so many complications likely to arise in view of the currency squabble that it will be to the interest of the Ohio candidate to keep him in good humor at any cost.

EGYPTIANS WIN A BATTLE.

Firket Is Captured from the Derivishes After Two Hours of Hard Fighting.

ONE THOUSAND OF THE MAHDI'S SOLDIERS SLAIN.

Attack a Surprise and Made After an All Night March—Need of a Stronger Outpost Prompted the Movement.

TWENTY MILES NEARER DONGOLA.

FIRKET, Egypt.—June 7.—This point was taken by Egyptian troops this morning, and their manner of acquiring themselves in this, the first engagement of the Nile campaign, has given great satisfaction to the British officers who command them.

The Egyptian forces left Akasheh, the Egyptian outpost, last evening, June 6. The movement was a surprise, as it seemed to have been determined to hold Akasheh as an outpost until the season passed and the period arrived for an advance upon Dongola in the latter part of August or in September. The force responded promptly to the orders, however, and was soon under way for this point. The distance is twenty miles and it took the whole night to accomplish the march. The greatest secrecy was maintained as to all arrangements and precaution was taken to prevent news of the advance from leaking out.

In consequence, the arrival of the Egyptians at the derivishes' camp took the enemy by surprise. They quickly rallied, however, and rushed to their arms. Far from being routed in the first skirmish of the attack, they made a stubborn defense of the camp for an hour and a half, during which there was hard fighting. The derivishes were finally put to route by a flank movement executed by the cavalry. Seeing themselves in danger of being surrounded the forces of the khalifa took flight to the southward, towards Suarda, pursued by the cavalry. Suarda is nearly one hundred miles south and is strongly held by a force of several thousand derivishes.

Reports received indicate the loss to the derivishes will amount to one thousand men. Among those killed is Emir Hammuda, who was their commander, besides many important chiefs. It is probable the taking of Firket was decided upon owing to the doubtful strength of Akasheh as an outpost, surrounded as it is by low hills, the taking of which would make Akasheh a death trap. The Egyptian loss in the fight was twenty killed and eighty wounded. One hundred derivishes were taken prisoners.

MINNESOTA STORM SWEEP.

Several Towns Are Badly Flooded—Much Livestock Drowned.

ST. PAUL, June 7.—The storm damage in this city last night was severe, the city railway being the principal sufferer by wires being blown down. For seven blocks all the wires and iron poles were completely destroyed by a bolt of lightning, the accident being most peculiar. The storm was general throughout the southern part of the state. Luverne, in the southeastern corner of the state is badly flooded and heavy damage was done. Many persons were rescued by boats. John Kittelson, while fording the river was washed from his horse and drowned. Several farm houses were demolished and hundreds of cattle, sheep and hogs perished. The storm extended over in South Dakota, where considerable damage was done.

ST. PAUL, June 7.—The estimates of losses resulting from the severe flood yesterday are placed at $100,000 in Howard county alone. Two large bridges over North Loup river were swept away, besides many smaller ones. A great number of horses, cattle and hogs were drowned. Many farmers lost all their buildings. In some places twelve to fourteen inches of rain fell. A report from O'Neill, Neb., states the town of Lynch, Boyd county, was wiped out by a tornado. No lives were lost.

SERIOUS WASHOUTS IN WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, June 7.—Reports received from the northwestern part of the state show that serious washouts occurred on account of severe storms. Along the Wisconsin Central road between Stevens Point and St. Paul heavy floods are reported. Several towns are threatened with destruction. At Glenwood two bridges have given away. The dam gave way and the territory for miles around is flooded. It is reported bridges for twenty miles about Glenwood have been washed away, but no loss of life in that part of the state is reported.

ONE KILLED, MANY INJURED.

Overloaded Coney Island Trolley Car Runs Away on Long Incline.

NEW YORK, June 7.—An overloaded trolley car ran away down the long incline on the Nassau Street railway extending to Coney Island today when the tide of travel was at its height. More than one hundred passengers were put in peril of their lives. One lad was killed outright, and twenty persons bruised and battered in horrible fashion. A score or more were slightly hurt.

A $50,000 FIRE LOSS.

PEORIA, Ill., June 7.—The Stewart building, stocked with carriages, bicycles, wagons and agricultural implements, burned early this morning. The loss is estimated at $50,000. The Ferrer Fruit & Commission company's building, adjoining, was damaged by fire and water.

AN EARLY CONVENTION. Through the call for the Republican congressional convention for this district has not yet been formally made, the time and place have been agreed on.

This is unusually early for the congressional convention to be held in this district, and that it has been decided to depart from the established precedent as to the time for holding it warrants the presumption that there is a scheme of some kind behind the eagerness of the aspiring candidate for the "Soo" to have it called so far in advance of the customary date.

But the action of the committee in calling the convention stands as the action of the party which it represents, and THE MINING JOURNAL has no desire to criticize it.

Beginning with today, new railroad rates reducing the charge on ore ten cents a ton and on coke twenty-five cents between Pittsburg and Lake Erie carrying points goes into effect.

AN INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

Mr. Gibbins of Birmingham Discusses Affairs in England in General.
THE MINING JOURNAL man was favored with an interview Saturday with Mr. W. W. Gibbins of Birmingham, England. Mr. Gibbins is engaged in the manufacture of copper tubes, wire and steam pipe in his native city and is visiting the different copper mining and manufacturing plants of the country with a view of becoming familiar with the latest labor saving machinery.

Mr. Gibbins states that copper is imported in England from Chili, Spain, Australia, Montana and Lake Superior. The Chili bars are 94 per cent. refined. In Great Britain, manufactured copper is used mostly in locomotive fireboxes, plates, boiler flues and for steam pipes in shipbuilding in the yards at Glasgow, New Castle-on-Tyne and Belfast. Copper is not used as extensively in electrical work as in this country in proportion to the population. London is illuminated by gas, there being no electric lights; and on account of its narrow winding streets and enormous traffic it is impossible to establish a street car service. The underground railway, run by steam, is very unpopular and is to be rebuilt, steam to be supplanted by electricity.

Manufactured copper is shipped from England to all parts of the globe, excepting this country, the duty preventing competition with American manufacturers. This seems strange, taking into consideration the difference in price of labor, which Mr. Gibbins declares is from two to three times greater in this country than in England. Mr. Gibbins says he did not find any notable improvement in the copper wire and rolling mills of Connecticut, and says that with the scale of wages paid unless American manufacturers make rapid strides in labor-saving appliances they can never expect to compete with England for the world's commerce.

Mr. Gibbins is a strong admirer of Lord Salisbury and says his vigorous foreign policy has established an excellent credit abroad and with it comes a strong revival of trade. Regarding the Transvaal, Mr. Gibbins thinks the home office would have backed up Dr. Jameson had his expedition to Oom Paul's country resulted otherwise. Speaking of newspapers, he finds but little to praise in our American dailies—thinks them sensational.

Regarding the Irish question, Mr. Gibbins says the present parliament will probably pass a land bill. To use his expression, "As a humanitarian I should like to see Ireland better governed or independent, but as a British subject I must say no to any such condition, as Ireland is too close to us were we entangled with our sister nations, which is not improbable."

Mr. Gibbins is an enthusiast on rowing and predicts the Yale crew, which sailed Thursday for England to participate in the Henley regatta, will find worthy foes in the crews representing Oxford, Cambridge and the London Athletic club. He leaves tomorrow for Anaco and will visit the Pacific coast before returning home.

JOLLY TIME IN SIGHT.

Hancock Foresters' First Annual Picnic at the Grove July 25.
Court Rene Mesnard, No. 30, Foresters of America, of Hancock will hold its first annual celebration July 25. The court will be assisted by the courts from Lake Linden and Calumet. The features will be a parade through the principal streets of Hancock, thence to Hancock grove, where a dinner will be served. Dancing will continue until midnight. Refreshments will be provided for all who may come. During the afternoon there will be a tug-of-war between each of the courts, a prize of $15 going to the winning team. The Quincy band will furnish the music.

AN ENGINEER'S COOLNESS.

It Saves the Life of Young Dan O'Neil of the Quincy.
What promised to be a fatal accident was narrowly averted Saturday afternoon by the prompt action of Engineer Jas. Barkell of the Mineral Range road. At 4 o'clock his engine was pushing a train of coal up to the Quincy mine. When about to start the conductor drove several small boys off the train, but one young lad—Dan O'Neil of Quincy—escaped his notice. After the train got well under way young O'Neil fell off the car next the engine. Mr.

Barkell, seeing the lad fall, immediately reversed his engine and had the train at a standstill before going fifteen feet. The unfortunate boy was taken to his home. Dr. Downer was summoned and dressed his wounds. The flesh of his right leg was badly bruised while the big toe will have to be amputated. Had it not been for the coolness and promptness of Engineer Barkell death would have resulted instantly.

STRUCK THE WRONG MAN.

Henry Raappana, a Finlander, was arraigned before Justice Curtis Thursday morning on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. He waived examination and was bound over under $200 bonds to the circuit court. Raappana could not find any of his moneyed friends, and was taken to the county jail. For some time past Raappana had worked a neat little confidence game. He would rush into a business place a few minutes before train time and tell the proprietor that one of his friends, mentioning one known to the business man, wanted to leave town and had discovered at the last moment he had left his pocket-book at home, and had sent Raappana to ask the loan of a few dollars. Quite a few victims were roped in, but the wrong man was struck in the person of Dr. Kowupalo. The medical man investigated matters, with the result that Raappana was arrested on the charge mentioned.

HE ASKED FOR BUTTERMILK.

And the Weary Waiter Lived Over Again the Joys of the Farm.
"How's the buttermilk?" asked the tired man; and the weary waiter looked the ennuie he felt as he answered:
"Churned fresh every hour."
"Well, now, give me a glass from the last hour, and let her be full," said the tired man. Then he unfolded the midnight edition, smiling as if memories haunted him, and never seeing a line of all the black type which tried to startle sated humanity. He was thinking of buttermilk fresh from the churn, and the big, staring headlines were as blank paper before him. The weary waiter disturbed his reveries.
"Buttermilk's all out, sir."
He said the "sir" as one who follows a recent form, and meant nothing by it. "I'm sorry," said the tired man, taking coffee and sandwich—of course—and still conjuring up pictures of the country.
"Great thing when you're tired," said he, smiling, and looking past the weary waiter and the coffee urn, and the blank wall beyond. "La! I can hear the soft chug of the churn dasher yet when the butter is coming. Gets lighter then, and splashes inside, and the yellow drifts wash down from the hollows in the lid, and you hit twice half way and once clear down, and—butter's come."
The weary waiter smiled without releasing his stare at the street, silent in midnight darkness.
"And they put the buttermilk down in the springhouse in a great big jar, and the water swishes around it, and there's a board on top, with a stone to keep it down. And Sunday morning you curry the horses and turn them out on the clover pasture, and dive off the bank in the river and take a wash, and put on a clean hickory shirt and your Sunday clothes, and lay down in the shade of the apple tree in the long, soft grass, and catch the wind from the woods and the music of the cow bells far away—and then you think of the buttermilk."
"That's right," said the weary waiter, as he rearranged the sugar bowl and spoon holder.
"And you go down and dip it up with a big tin cup, and drink it in great big swallows, and the other boys come in and we all sit there and drink and talk of the tough times we are having, and chatter about the girls, and josh each other about going home with them from meeting, and after while dinner is ready, and we go in and eat fried chicken and mashed potatoes, and biscuits and custard pie—"
"U-m-m," said the weary waiter, fervently.
"And then again along in the afternoon," resumed the tired man, "we get out there when the sun is down, and we have another cupful, and the whip-poor-will is booming from some place up in the clouds, and the katydid is telling of the frost just six weeks ahead, and the cattle are standing along the barnyard fence, with the smell of fresh milk in the mellow air, and the tin cup has yellow flecks all over the sides, and we fill it again and drink—"
"Or in the harvest field," said the weary waiter.
"Yes, when the women folks send it out in a jug, with a slab of ginger bread in the long forenoon, and we take great swallows—"
"And sweat—"
"And sweat, and buckle down with the cradle and the rake, and set up a shock to shade the buttermilk—"
"And a rain comes up, and we run for the barn." The weary waiter stood erect, and smiled delightedly.
"Ah, yes! Ah, yes! That was life, after all."
The tired man took his check to the desk and waited outside for an owl car to come along; but all the time he was thinking of the mellow nectar, which mingles the acids and sweets of rural ecstasy, and all the tired insistence of his journey home could not impress the city's hopelessness upon him.—Washington Star.

ADJOURNMENT THIS WEEK

Rests on Settlement of Differences Between the Two Houses on Supply Bills.

MAIN DIFFICULTY LIES AT THE SENATE END.

All Depends There on the Maintenance of a Quorum in Readiness for Any Call for an Aye and Nay Vote.

LEADERS HOPE FOR CONCESSIONS

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The house managers have parliamentary machinery in operation which will enable them to secure prompt action on every proposition submitted by the conferees on the five remaining appropriation bills looking to the adjustment of the differences between the two houses.

The main difficulty in the way of an adjournment by the middle of the week seems to lie at the senate end of the Capitol, where a single senator can obstruct matters if he chooses until a quorum falls, when all chance of a sine die adjournment before the St. Louis convention will disappear.

Whether the senate will be able to conclude the work of the session this week will probably depend upon whether a quorum can be maintained. Some senators are opposed to the passage of the general deficiency bill with the French spoliation claims and the store and supply claims allowed under the Bowman act omitted.

FAST DAY IN NEW ENGLAND.

How the Custom Was Established by the Pilgrim Fathers. The custom of appointing a special day, known as Fast day, has been in vogue in the New England states ever since the landing of the Puritan settlers on the Massachusetts shores.

The first observance in this country was soon after the Pilgrims landed in Salem. On the day set for the festival all joined in praise to the Lord, at the same time asking for plenty of rain and abundant crops.

The observance has been almost wholly confined to the New England states, and has now become almost meaningless. In fact, Massachusetts woke up to this fact several years ago and abolished the practice.

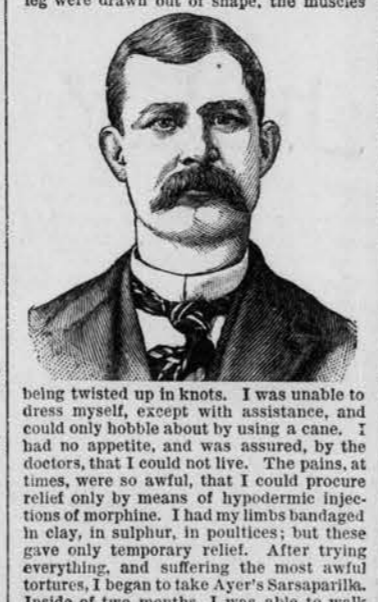

The governor always says that Fast day is a day of "humiliation, fasting and prayer," but no one ever takes the manifesto seriously, and, therefore everybody takes care to enjoy himself as much as possible on this occasion.

Wash, scrape and boil parsnips till tender, and mash fine when done; to each pint allow two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste; add a beaten egg; stir all together over the fire a few minutes, let cool, shape into balls, dip into egg, then into crumbs, and fry in deep, hot fat. Salsify or oyster plant fritters are made in the same way, only when boiling add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar to the water.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphia. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in potash; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

The Suit of Hearts.
A WHIST PROBLEM.
Time was when only stately dames
With silvered hair, and old gallants Accounted whist the queen of games.
While gay youth revealed in the dance;
But times and women change—today
Tennis has palled, and Tennyson,
While Phyllis studies up the play
Of Cavendish and Hamilton.

But when my suit of hearts I show
Her keen finesse she put to use,
So that each day I never know
Whether I feel like king or dunc, Till—"Tell me dear!" I cry at length,
"How can my wished for point be won?
You know in hearts are all my strength,
My diamond is a singleton!"

Her rippling laughter rings out clear,
And makes my heart go rub-a-dub,
"I think," she says, "You need not fear
If you will discard every club!"
"Dear, learn!" I cry, as to resist
My order she makes demonstration,
"The charm of kisses, as in whist, Lies in the test of qualification!"

EARLY SPRING SNAKE STORY.
The Remarkable Achievements of a Farm
Hand in Getting Bit.

When the editor of the crank department looked up from his desk to recognize his visitor he failed at first in recognition, but after a minute it came to him all right.

"How are you?" he said, heartily,
"What's the good word from Loudoun, and what the mischief have you done
with your whiskers?"

"Moved 'em," smiled the visitor.
"Spring's about got here and I didn't need 'em. But I haven't got any time to waste. I come in on my way to the train to tell you of a queer snake story up our way."

"Isn't it a little early for snake stories?" suggested the editor.

"Yes, for this year's crop, but this one is a last year's one, that I just found out about yesterday."

"Then it must be true. Go ahead with
it. Take a chair, won't you?"

"No, I'll stand, so's to be ready to start when I've finished. You see last year I had a hired hand on the farm that I never seen till the day he asked for work. I needed a hand pretty bad, and I took him right in without a word except to tell him that if he got drunk I'd turn him off. He said he wasn't a drinking man and he went right to work in the hay field. He wasn't the steady worker I ever hired, but he was forth and we got along all right till the fourth day he was with me. That day
I was in the barn, and I heard a yell, and I run to the door and seen my hired man flying around the field as if the old serpent himself was after him. When he seen me he headed my way, and as he went past me I could see a short, stumpy, mottled snake hanging to his leg at the ankle. He flew around the barn, yelling at every jump, and I took after him and caught him in a clump of woods about 200 yards from the barn, where he had dropped, plumb tucked under. When I got to him the snake was gone, but the marks of teeth were on his leg, and I hustled to the house and got a quart bottle of liquor I keep for snake bites, and other household purposes, and soon had him loaded down to the guards. He was sorer by next morning and all right, and the day after he went to work again. He stayed with me a month after that and then left when I had no work for him, and in the four or five weeks I had him that snake caught him that same way six times, and to save our necks we could never find the snake. Sometimes it would nab him by the hand when he was workin' in the weeds, and sometimes it would catch him in one place and sometimes in another, but it would always hang on and he would run and yell and me after him.

"Now for the queer part," said the visitor, taking a final spurt. "The other day I was grubbin' out that clump of bushes and, by hokey, I seen a snake, and before it could move I stuck my grubbin' hoe through it and dragged it out, and darn my buttons, come to look at it, it wasn't nothin' but a rag snake, painted. I carried it up to the house and as soon as my boy seen it he whooped, and said it was the same snake that had been feedin' on my hired man all last harvest, and I reckon the boy was right."

The editor gave the visitor a gentle haw haw.

"That's all right," said the visitor, moving away, "just let that chap try to git work with me this year; if he don't wish that that was a genuine copperhead, then I ain't no judge of what I'll do to him."—Washington Star.

Evidently Quadrumanous.

STOP! You have run up against a Good Thing.

Battle Ax PLUG

The best reason in the world why some things sell so well is because they are good. That is one reason for the great sales of "BATTLE AX."
But good quality is only half the story.
The other half is the size of a 5 cent piece.
It is as big almost as a 10 cent piece of other and poorer kinds.
Facts are facts. You can buy and see for yourself. Five cents isn't much to invest.

BE PRUDENT

Stop to think. No one can accomplish the impossible. There is but one

DONE UP ON BOTH DAYS.

Duluth, on Its Own Grounds, Defeats Marquette by Small Equal Margins.

W. C. T. U. STATE CONVENTION CONVENES HERE FRIDAY.

Maccabees at Church—Hum of the Boom Heard at Munising—Over a Hundred Enrolled for Pingree-Cyclers' Parade.

SAME SCORE BOTH DAYS.

Marquette, 8; Duluth, 10. is a score that tells two tales of woe at one time. The Lake Enders did the visiting Marquettes up to this time both Saturday and Sunday, administering the first defeat the Queen City boys have had this season.

Ball fans in Marquette took the news the wires brought the first day with considerable stoicism, and found ready excuses for the defeat in the fact that the boys had traveled all night while their opponents were fresh on the home grounds with the support of the rooters. But the second day they expected a victory over ball team, rooters, umpire and all, and every fan's jaw dropped about an inch and a half out of plumb when the Sunday night dispatches brought the same tidings as the one of Saturday, "Marquette defeated by Duluth. Score, 8 to 10."

Both games were before big crowds. Marquette always draws a crowd in Duluth, and the town had been plastered with bills announcing the contest with the champions, which the bills averred was for gate receipts and $250 a side. The author of the advertising literature was talking through his hat, however, about the money on the side, as there was no such deal on.

The cause of the defeat the meager dispatches leave to surmise. Reichman was in the box the first day and Smith the second.

The chastisement administered by Duluth is the first punishment the team has taken this season. At present its percentage is 666, having lost two games out of six. Ishpeming and Baraga have each lost a game here and Marquette lost two, though the second was a close call.

The Duluth games are the first the Marquettes have played off the home grounds. The team is expected back today, and may bring with it Quinn, the new player from Minneapolis.

Houghton crosses bats with Marquette on the home grounds Saturday and Sunday.

Busy Munising.

Saturday two representatives of THE MINING JOURNAL had occasion to visit Munising, the alleged coming metropolis of the peninsula. After a delightful trip of four hours in Captain Taylor's City of Marquette the large and substantial docks of the new town are reached. Approaching it from the lake the full extent of the town is not perceived, but once ashore it stretches out into a veritable city of magnificent distances.

Business is booming and buildings are going up on every block. The great majority of the structures are wood, but one handsome, fifty foot front stone building is now in process of erection on a $4,000 corner lot, another is being laid out across the street to the east of it, and Andy Ferguson, well-known here, expects to build either a brick or stone one across the street in the other direction. Speaking of Marquette people they abound on every street and block, and without exception appear to have struck a good thing in the new town.

Stumps are still numerous on the town site, but on the main thoroughfare they are being rapidly cleared off. The city boasts several stretches of sidewalk and more are to be added. Tuesday the six saloons which secured licenses opened up for business and took in something over $500 the first day. Since then they have been enjoying a thriving trade, but have not reached this figure.

Jim Maloney, Marquette's ex-marshal, is on hand to keep order but has so far had no occasion to put anyone in the lock-up. It is impossible for a man to put in the night getting drunk, as every saloon in the town shuts up at nine o'clock sharp. This rule is obeyed so rigidly that Friday night one publican threw a man out of his place who wanted to spend a dollar with him after hours.

Insurance is as yet unobtainable in Munising, but it is announced that certain companies will begin to write policies within a week.

W. C. T. U. State Convention. Ladies of the local W. C. T. U. have their hands more than full now making preparations for the state convention of the organization to be held here on June 12th, Friday. Representative women in the temperance and social purity movements will be here from all over Michigan to take part in the program and as delegates of the numerous societies of the state.

The arrangements for the convention are well in hand, and the various details are being looked after by active committees.

The opening meeting of the convention will be a temperance rally in which all temperance organizations in the city will take part. Those not acquainted with the strength of the temperance societies in Marquette will be surprised, it is asserted, at the size of the demonstration.

"The Jewish Hero." Judas Maccabees, the Hebrew hero, was the character of whose strength and virtue the Rev. Spencer spoke before the tents and hives of the K. O. T. M. in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. The edifice was crowded, for in addition to the regular congregation there had assembled to hear the address members of the order to the number of 180. Three tents and two hives were represented. Mr. Spencer gave first a historical sketch of the character, then pointed out the lessons to be learned from the life and deeds of the Jewish hero. After the services delegations were sent in carriages with flowers to the several cemeteries to decorate the graves of the dead lodge members.

James Patterson, Lester Clark and Mrs. Mary Fryfogle, delegates to the great tent and great hive review, which convenes in Saginaw Tuesday, left the city yesterday to attend.

A Failure at Dignity.

"When I was first put in long dresses," declares Mattie Vickers, the vivacious little comedienne, "I determined to be dignified and not allow my friends to call me 'Mattie,' but was thereafter to be known as Martha Vickers, a dignity in name thoroughly in keeping with the dignity of dress. Did I succeed? No. I failed miserably. They simply would not do it. I was Mattie Vickers when as a girl used to stand on the benches at recess and amuse my schoolmates with my imitations of the German janitor of the school, and I have continued to be Mattie Vickers ever since." And no wonder, anyone who has seen the rollicking, jolly little body could think of calling her Martha; it doesn't fit her. See her yourself Tuesday—tomorrow—evening in "Jacqueline" and you will say that Mattie's friends are right.

Lady Cyclers' Night.

The Kitchimikana Cycling club recently admitted ladies to its ranks, and tonight the ladies' auxiliary will participate in the parade for the first time. It is the desire of the club to bring out the entire cycling force of the town to get an idea of its numbers, and all wheelmen, whether members or not, are cordially invited to participate in the run. The ladies' contingent will assemble on Ridge street in front of the high school at a quarter after seven, the gentlemen, as usual, at Hoard's, joining the ladies at half past seven. The run, the route for which is Ridge to Cedar to Michigan to Spruce to Hewitt to Third to Hematite to Pine to the ice house, is neither long nor severe. If practicable a flashlight view will be taken at some convenient point. In case of storm the run will be postponed till Wednesday night.

Not Much Lower.

If property has fallen in value in Marquette during the last year the books of the tax assessor fail to show it. The board of review which completed its session Saturday night spent a week hearing the complaints of tax payers, but the cuts in valuation were in most cases small. There was no wholesale cutting down of the roll, and it stands this year only $60,000 less than last. The principal cuts were made on water front, and run down manufacturing properties. Ishpeming's board, which also sat last week carved the roll $100,000.

His Boom Still Lives.

The Pingree boom in the upper peninsula is not dead and it isn't sleeping. George Drolet has been enrolling supporters of Mr. Pingree among the miners and working people generally of the peninsula and has found them ready to subscribe their names as favoring the Detroit for governor. Saturday he returned from a trip to Champion and Beacon in the interests of his candidate. While there he secured the signatures of 121 who favor Mr. Pingree for governor. During the campaign he expects to visit the entire peninsula securing names.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Harvey wish to thank the many friends who sympathized with them in the hour of their affliction, in the death of their beloved son, H. W. Harvey, and they are under special obligations to those who so kindly furnished beautiful flowers for the funeral.
