NANSEN DIDN'T FIND IT. North Pole Still an Incentive to Other Adventurous Arctic Explorers.

NORWEGIAN DOCTOR CAME WITHIN FOUR DEGREES OF IT. Intrepid Explorer Has Arrived Off the Coast of Norway—Fram and Her Crew Are in Good Shape.

AGAIN IN CIVILIZATION. CHRISTIANA, Norway, Aug. 13.—The Aftenposten announced that Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer, has arrived at Vardoe island, Norway.

MALMO, Sweden, Aug. 13.—A newspaper, the Dagens Nyheter, has received communications from Nansen and Lieutenant Schotthansen from the island of Vardoe. These communications state that they abandoned the Fram in the autumn of 1895 and resorted to the ice.

The steamer Windward, carrying supplies to the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition, picked them up near Franz Josef Land. They expected that the Fram would eventually drift to the east coast of Greenland.

Dr. Nansen failed to reach the north pole, but he touched a point four degrees nearer than any other explorer has done.

The steamer Windward took letters for Nansen when it started to the relief of the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition, as Jackson expected to find Nansen and was convinced his idea of drifting across the pole in the ice was impracticable. He was also convinced that Nansen would return in the direction of Franz Josef Land.

VARDOE, Norway, Aug. 13.—Dr. Nansen left the Fram March 14, 1895, in 84 degrees north latitude. He traversed the polar sea to a point 86 degrees, 14 minutes north latitude. No land was sighted north of 82 degrees north latitude. From thence he went to Franz Josef Land, where he passed the winter, subsisting on bears' flesh and white blubber.

Nansen and his companion are in the best of health. The Fram is expected at Vardoe island or Bergen shortly. She stood the ice well. There were no sick persons aboard when Nansen left her.

Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian scientist sailed from Christiania June 24, 1893, on a voyage of discovery to the Arctic regions, and with the intention of reaching the north pole if possible. He embarked on board the three-masted schooner Fram, her sides being so constructed as to force all the ice meeting the vessel to pass under it, thus preventing all "pinching" and "screwing."

The Norwegian parliament gave Nansen about $52,000 in aid to his expedition, additional funds for the trip coming by private subscription, including one of over $5,000 from King Oscar. The Fram was in every way admirably equipped and had a crew of twelve men.

DIE LIKE SHEEP. Most Death Certificates Ever Issued in a Day.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The dead from heat in New York city today numbered sixty-four, and prostrations 123. There were 374 death certificates issued by the health board for the twenty-four hours ending at noon today. Of these 158 were for people who died from the effects of heat. This surpasses all previous records in the history of the health department. Horses killed by the heat today numbered more than on any former day during the hot spell.

There were eight deaths from heat in Jersey City today. Five died at Hoboken, fourteen in Newark, four at Elizabethtown and seven in Paterson. There were twenty-one deaths in Brooklyn.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 13.—There were nine fatal heat prostrations here today.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Thirty heat prostrations occurred here today, eleven of them fatal.

for the Texas convention meets. It has been decided to invite Bourke Cochran of New York to deliver a speech here during the convention. Other prominent Democratic speakers also will be asked to talk. Secretary Carlisle will be consulted in reference to the financial plank.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE NOTIFIED. Prohibition Vice Presidential Nominee is Officially Informed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Hon. Hale Johnson "straight out" Prohibition candidate for the vice presidency of the United States, having been nominated by the national convention of that party at Pittsburg, is now officially aware of the fact.

He was formally informed of the honor conferred on him at 8 o'clock tonight at the Association auditorium in this city.

On behalf of the notification committee there assembled, Rev. Oliver W. Stewart, of Illinois, as chairman, in delivering the formal notification to Johnson, reviewed the fact that Johnson had been nominated by the Prohibition convention in Illinois for governor before the higher honor had been conferred on him. Johnson, responding to the notification, said, in part:

"The action of the majority of the convention at Pittsburg, in making the prohibition of the liquor traffic the only article in our political creed, meets my most hearty approbation. For the first time in its history the party is in a position to invite the co-operation of all friends of prohibition without asking them to sacrifice their convictions on any other question."

Many of our people believe that our present financial depression, low prices and hard times, are the result of bad financial legislation, and that an increase in the amount of money by the free coinage of silver would prove a remedy for these conditions. I concur with them in their opinion that we must return to the full and free use of both of these metals in order to keep our circulation medium in proper proportion to our population, but I do not believe, in the present condition of affairs, that the free coinage of silver would afford us any substantial relief. It is doubtless true that the storm center in politics this year will be between free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 and the maintenance of the existing gold standard. Voters will be importuned to postpone the settlement of the liquor question until the finance question is settled, as we have been heretofore importuned to postpone it until the tariff question was settled."

POISONED HER PARENTS. Young Woman Resents Interference With Her Love Affairs.

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 13.—Miss Celia Rose, twenty-four years old, is in jail charged with killing her father, mother and brother with poison. It is claimed she has made a confession. "The girl was in love with Guy Berry, a neighbor, who disliked her and complained to his father, who complained to her father. Her parents took her severely to task, and the poisoning is the result. So JEALOUS HE KILLED HER."

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 13.—George Ritter today assaulted his wife, who is suing for a divorce, at the home of Mrs. Fischer, and inflicted fatal injuries upon her. He cut the woman's throat and hacked her face to pieces. A knife blade was found sticking in her temple. Jealousy was the cause.

WHY HE READ IT. Bryan Wanted His Speech to be Accurately Reported.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Bryan explained today his reasons for reading his speech in reply to the notification of his nomination at Madison Square Garden. He said: "Knowing it would be printed in full, I thought it more important if it should reach in correct form the millions who would read it, than that its delivery should please a few thousands who were present. It is always unfortunate when a speaker is compelled to read a political speech, but in this instance I thought it best not to risk the errors which always creep in a report of an extemporaneous speech."

WILL TOUR THE COUNTRY. Bryan Will Speak from Platforms All Campaign.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Bryan dined at the Windsor Hotel today and afterwards continued his conference with those members of the national committee who are in the city. One thing decided upon was that Bryan will travel the country over, addressing crowds from the rear of a railroad car. Chairman Jones stated that Bryan, in order to obtain much needed rest, will spend two weeks in some quiet place. The visit to Bath, Me., therefore will be postponed until the latter part of September, when Bryan will make a number of speeches in New England.

LIKE THE PLATFORM. Wyoming Convention Just Sued by Chicago Democratic Platform.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Aug. 13.—In the Democratic state convention this afternoon a platform was adopted endorsing the Chicago platform and especially the financial plank. Ex-Governor R. Osborne was nominated unanimously for congress. C. H. Burritt of Buffalo was named as supreme judge. A proposition of fusion with the Populists was rejected.

La Follette and Altgeld.

MONROE, Wis., Aug. 13.—The Green County Agricultural society is arranging two political days for the fair to be held the first week in September. The society will invite R. M. La Follette and Gov. John P. Altgeld to discuss the financial question.

KILLED BY THE TORRENT.

Six Lives and Thousands of Dollars Lost by Floods Near Pittsburg.

CLOUDBURST INUNDATE THE IRON CITY'S SUBURBS.

Little Creeks Become Raging Torrents, Filled With Small Buildings and Quantities of Debris—Three Lost in One Hour.

DISASTER FROM STORM.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 13.—This morning this city and vicinity were visited by one of the heaviest and most persistent downpours of rain that has been seen here for years. As a result of the storm six lives were sacrificed and thousands of dollars worth of property laid waste. The dead: MRS. SUSAN AULK, widow, aged seventy-four. MRS. ELLEN POPPLETON, widow, aged seventy-nine. MRS. FLORENCE ROBINSON, her daughter, aged thirty-four. MARTIN COCHRAN, infant. O'NEIL SCHAFFER, ten years. UNKNOWN MAN.

In the city proper little damage was done, but the suburbs and small towns near the city suffered severely. De Haven, a small town ten miles from here, had to bear the brunt of the storm's fury, and it was there most of the lives were lost.

The storm partook of the nature of a cloudburst, and filled the creeks to overflowing. A torrent eighteen feet deep came rushing down and struck the Robinson residence, in which were a dozen persons, with terrible force, and toppled it over into the swirling flood. All escaped except the three women, who were drowned. The other three of the dead lost their lives in different parts of the town.

ALL UNDER WATER.

Pine creek from its mouth at Sharpsburg to De Haven is a sorrowful spectacle. Every foot of level ground was under water for several hours, and for miles gardens and little truck farms were washed out.

Westend, Sharpsburg and Etna were also flooded. The loss at Etna will amount to between seventy-five and a hundred thousand dollars, divided principally between Spang, Chalfant & Co., the Allegheny Salt Works, the Pittsburg & Western Rail mills and the residents of Main and Bridge streets.

At Bowerstown, the greater portion of the town was under water. The heaviest loss is to the farmers. Live stock is drowned and crops are ruined. At Evergreen the people fared badly. There trees were blown down and small out-buildings torn from their foundations.

Irwin, a town twenty miles east of here, also suffered much property damage, but no lives were lost. At noon word was received that Fort Pitt dam at Jeannette had burst and the water was rushing toward Irwin. Warning was immediately given people living on the low land on the west railroad, but before they could get away the flood came rushing down Brush creek, carrying railroad ties, telegraph poles and debris of all kinds with it. The car shops and the West-morland Coal company, were first to suffer, the employees being compelled to flee for their lives, many having to wade through water to their shoulders.

Women and children living in houses near the shops were forced into upper stories and onto the roofs. Rescuing parties followed and took the imperiled ones away when the waters of Brush creek reached its height.

The Pennsylvania Plate Glass company's dam burst and its waters came rushing through Tinker run, flooding the foundry, machine shops, planing mill, lumber yards and many residences. At Manor, the loss to residents will be immense, as about sixty houses were almost submerged. The mining village of Claridge on the Manor Valley railroad, near Greensburg, was almost wiped out by the cloudburst, but no lives were lost.

BIG COUNTERFEITING SCARE.

Central American Company Making Millions of Bad Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The secret service bureau of the treasury department has been requested to look into the report of extensive counterfeiting of United States silver dollars in one of the Central American states. The information comes from a Mexican paper, and was sent to the state department by Minister Ranson.

It states that in one of the Central American states a company has been organized by Americans who have purchased the silver dollars of that state, worth forty-seven cents, and coined them into American dollars. It is said that two and a half million of these dollars have been shipped into this country where they passed at par.

SAWMILL EXPLOSION.

To Treat With the Rebels. LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Chronicle's Bulwage dispatch dated Thursday, Aug. 13, says: "Genl. Rhodes and Colonel Brado, commander of the Cape 'Boys' will go to Matopos Hills tomorrow to treat with the rebels who wish to submit."

NIGHTFALL ON THE FARM.

Upon the porch at even We two together stood. And listened to the tinkle Of sheep-bells in the wood. The locust trees bent o'er us, White blossoms dropping down. And, fringed with flowers, before us The path lay bare and brown.

We heard the sheep-bells' music Far off and dreamy grow; We saw the white flowers sprinkle The lawn like flecks of snow; The roses drew back shyly Into the silent dark, But though their haunts were shaded Their perfume we could mark.

Up in a locust's branches A little bird said "cheep"— "Twas all that broke the silence; The whole world seemed asleep. "Good night," she said. "I love you!" I said. She did not speak. But swift she leaped toward me With tears upon her cheek. —Philip L. Barker, in Chicago Record.

THREE TELEGRAPH STORIES.

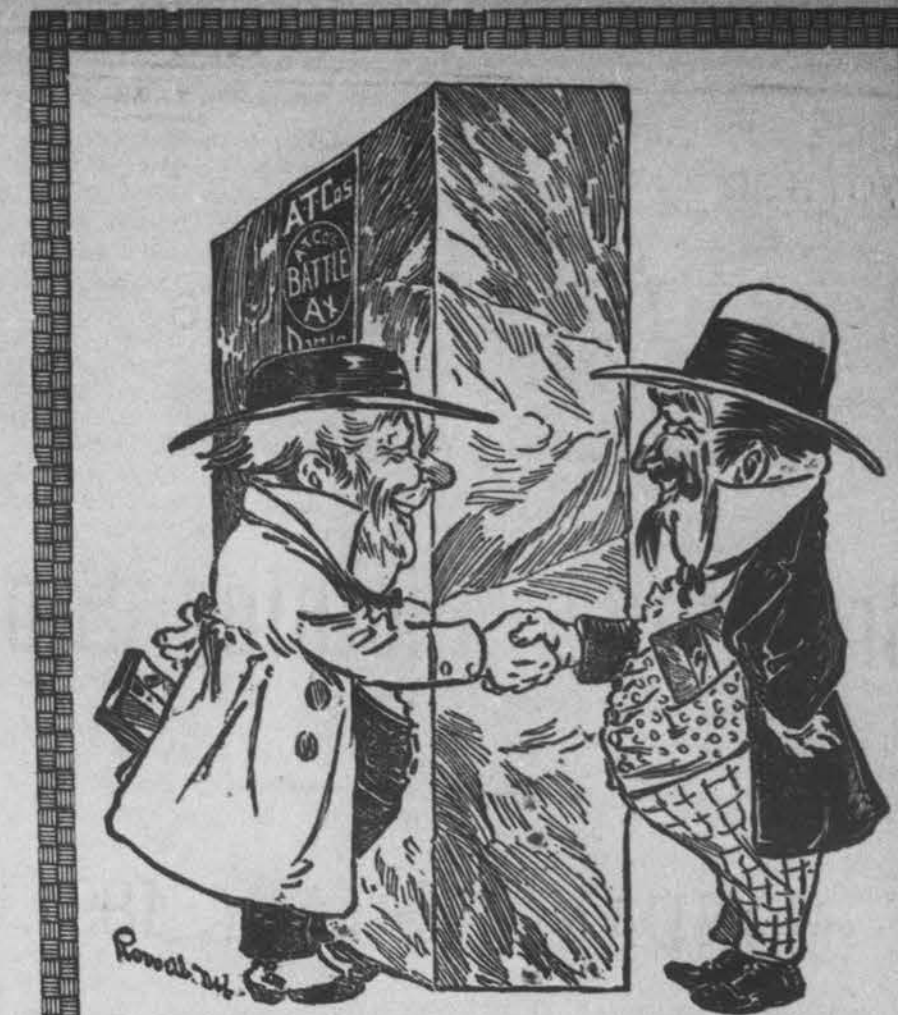

Showing How Much Depends on the Railroad Operator.

One of Them Made Up for a Blunder by Saving the Limited—An Accident Where Accidents Were Deemed an Impossibility.

Said the telegrapher: "Jones was night operator at a town near Altoona, on the Pennsylvania railroad. He had just a great deal of sleep and was very tired. The night went along and trains were few. It was hard to keep awake. Finally the operator in the signal tower next to the west reported No. 4, the express, passing east. The track was clear and Jones pulled the white signal and waited for No. 4. He had almost fallen asleep when he was aroused by the roar of the train as No. 4 swept past the white signal. He saw the red lights at the rear of the train as she disappeared around the curve and he reported her to the operator at the signal tower next east and west. Then he waited to hear that she had passed the tower east. Three or four minutes was all it should have taken her to reach that tower, but he waited long after that and no word came to him. He called up Smith, the operator there, and asked him if No. 4 had passed. Smith said 'No.' They talked over the wire and concluded that she had broken down or been wrecked between the two towers. 'At about that time the train dispatcher called up and asked anxiously where No. 4 was. Jones said that she had passed his tower and Smith was sure that she had not passed his. Everybody was wide awake now, for the train was certainly lost, and a lost train is a serious thing on a railroad. The dispatcher thought that she might have slipped past without Smith seeing her, the towers all along the road beyond declared that she had not passed them. A freight going west was stopped at Jones' tower and the conductor was asked if he had seen No. 4 between the two towers. He said that there was no sign of her. 'Then the perspiration began to stand out on the operators and dispatchers. The track between the two towers lies along the river. A high stone wall supports it. The only possible explanation seemed to be that No. 4 had gone over the wall into the river. She could not have gone up into the air. Nearly an hour had passed. The river seemed the only place where she could be. The freight conductor received orders to uncouple his engine and run back slowly. He ran back past two towers, but could see nothing of No. 4 on the track or in the river. There was not even a displaced rail where she could have gone over the wall. Then he was ordered to run slowly west, to see how things looked there. About half way between Jones' tower and the one west of him the express was found, with a broken cylinder head. She had never passed Jones at all. Jones had dreamed it, although he declares to this day that he was wide awake all the time. 'Jones was in bad repute for a time, but he was not discharged, as he was a good man, and his mistake had not caused a wreck. He redeemed himself within a few weeks. By his presence of mind and quick action he saved the limited. That was an unusual case also. It was the train dispatcher's mistake, so far as I know, but he may have been misled by some one else's blunder. One day the limited was going east in two sections. It is very, very seldom that the limited runs in more than one section. A freight was lying in front of Jones' tower waiting for the limited to pass. The train dispatcher sent out an order saying: 'No. 4 (the limited) will run 40 minutes late.' That gave plenty of time for the freight to get to the next siding. The message should have read: 'Second No. 2 will run 40 minutes late.' The first section was on time. Jones handed the order to the conductor of the freight, who went down out of the tower and started his train on to the main track. 'Just as the big freight engine began puffing the telegraph instrument began ticking, and Jones read a report saying that the limited had passed the tower above. It was just around the curve, not a mile and a half away. It was a question of seconds. There was no time to run down the stairs, and it was no use to drop the red signal. The engine had already passed. There was no time to think. Jones grasped his ink bottle and his red flag. He ran out on the balcony in front of the tower and threw the ink bottle at the engine. Then he waved the red flag and yelled with all his might. The bottle struck the cab and attracted the engineer's attention. He looked up and saw Jones waving the red flag and yelling like a madman. Just at the same moment they both heard the shrill scream of the limited's whistle as she approached the curve. 'The engineer did not stop to question what it was. The engine was clear out on the main track. He reversed the engine and sent her bumping back against the heavy train. The forward motion was stopped, but the train was so heavy that it would not start back. About half the engine was still on the main track. The limited swung around the curve not half a mile away, coming at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The engineer of the freight showed wonderful coolness. He ran his engine forward several feet, so as to separate the first few cars as far as the draw-heads would allow, and give him a chance to get some momentum in his engine going back, and thus start the train. The plan is known to all engineers, but to deliberately start forward with the limited in sight took nerve. When he had gone a few feet he reversed again and sent the big engine bumping against the train, and she started back. Jones held his breath and watched. It was not a question of seconds now, but of parts of a second, whether the freight engine would clear the switch before the limited or not. 'The two engines seemed almost to melt together as the limited struck the switch, but the great train, with its precious burden, went by unharmed. The switch was open for the freight, but it was an automatic spring switch, and when the limited struck it it was forced open along the main line. As soon as the engineer of the limited saw he was safely past, he put on steam again, and the great train rolled on out of sight, without ever stopping to ask what had been the matter. The passengers, who were chatting pleasantly in the cars, may have wondered why there had been such a sudden jerk when the brakes went on just before they passed the tower, but they never dreamed of the danger they had escaped. 'A more serious case occurred at a tunnel on the Pan-Handle. It was a single-track tunnel, and the officers of the road had perfected a scheme by which they thought it was impossible for an accident to occur. A tower was erected at each end of the tunnel and the two towers were connected by wire. Every train was compelled to come to a stop and get orders from the operator before she could enter the tunnel. Neither operator was allowed to let a train enter the tunnel until he had called up the other operator and got from him assurance that the track was clear. Jones worked at one end and Smith at the other. Jones could not let a train go into the tunnel until Smith said so, and Smith could not let a train go until Jones said so. The only way a wreck could occur was for each man to let a train go in at the same time. Even if both operators were to fall asleep at the same time the system would work, for the train conductors going into the towers for orders would awaken the operators. 'One night there was a terrible wreck in the tunnel. The trains had met head on. Several of the crews were badly injured, and I think two died. There was an investigation. 'The president of the road himself went to the scene of the wreck. The two operators were called before him. It was impossible to learn anything about the wreck. Each operator was sure the other had reported the track clear, and could give no explanation of the cause of the wreck. Then the president said: 'Now, boys, I will tell you what I will do. I feel sure you know how this happened. If you will tell me I will give you my word that neither of you will be discharged. I thought I had a system here that was absolutely safe, and it is of more importance to me to learn how the wreck occurred than to punish the one who was responsible. I must find out how it happened so that I can take care that it does not occur again. Tell me the truth, and I will give you my word that you will not lose your jobs. 'Then the two boys confessed. During the long nights they would become sleepy. Sometimes one would fall asleep. Then if a train came the other could not get an answer from him. One night Smith was sleeping soundly and Jones could not get any answer. He did not like to hold the train, for fear Smith would lose his job. So he let the train go through. He knew it was perfectly safe, for Smith could not let a train in without calling him up. When the train came out of the tunnel it awakened Smith, and Jones told him what he had done. Then they arranged a scheme so they could both sleep. They always kept the red block down, so that no train could enter the tunnel while they slept. If one called and received no answer he knew the other was asleep, and therefore, the track must be clear, and he let the train in. 'One night both were sleeping as usual. A coal train came to Jones' end of the tunnel. The whistle of the train awakened Jones. He called to Smith and received no answer. So he knew Smith was sleeping and the tunnel was clear. He asked the conductor to throw him off a little coal for his fire, as he was entirely out. The conductor threw off two or three lumps and the train started into the tunnel. Those few lumps of coal cost the road thousands of dollars, and I believe they cost two men their lives. 'Jones went outside to pick up the coal as the train pulled out. Being out side the tower, the noise of the train drowned that of his instrument, and he did not hear Smith's call. A freight train had come to Smith's end of the tunnel at the exact moment that Jones was picking up the coal. As Smith did not get any answer he thought, of course, Jones was asleep and the track clear. So he let the freight in. The two trains came together in the tunnel. 'The president of the road kept his word with the boys, but he took them off that tunnel and gave them daylight jobs, where they were not so likely to sleep, and could not do so much damage if they did sleep. Those are but three of the many stories like them that have come under my personal observation.' —Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

Before I took the Gem Treatment I was not able to work one quarter of the time. I would like to have everyone who is troubled with piles to know what the Gem Treatment has done for me. It cost me three dollars and it did me more than five hundred dollars worth of good.
 Yours Respectfully,

CARP RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

A Negaunee Contractor Puts in the Lowest Bid.

The bid for lowering the Carp River bottom between the end of the main trunk sewer and the falls at Deer Lake, were opened Tuesday afternoon by the board of public works. There were seven bids submitted, six by Marquette county parties and one by John M. Lally, of Detroit, who lowered the river when the sewerage system was put in three years ago. The figures submitted were as follows: Samuel Hoar, Negaunee, $4,619.35; Charles Regnstrom, Ishpeming, $4,687; Frank Ploffe, Ishpeming, $4,900; J. A. Hodgkins, Ishpeming, $5,243.76; Latterel & Powell, Marquette, $7,428.15; R. W. Claeson, Marquette, $10,667.50. Mr. Lally's bid was $2.70 per cubic yard of dirt removed. This bid was not considered at all by the board as in the aggregate it would amount to considerably more than any one of four of the bids submitted on the job.

The specifications call for the removal of 3,719 cubic yards of rock and 1,370 cubic yards of sand, the channel to be improved being 1,355 feet in length by 10 feet in width. The water in the river is quite low at present so that the work can be done more rapidly now than at any other time of the year. The board will recommend to the city council that the bid of Samuel Hoar of Negaunee, which was the lowest submitted, be accepted.

The board is desirous of having the work started as soon as possible so that it can be completed by the first of January next at the latest. The contractor will be asked to finish the job within six or seven months after signing the agreement so as to be sure that the improvement will be entirely completed before the spring break up.

MINERS KILLED.

Supposed Premature Discharge of a Blast the Cause.

John Meanpo and John Kumplo, two of the best known Finnish miners in Ishpeming, were killed last Tuesday afternoon, one of them instantly, by the supposed premature discharge of a blast.

The men were partners and were working in Lake Superior Section Sixteen mine. Just how the fatality occurred nobody knows. Other miners in the vicinity were startled by an explosion shortly before supper time. Running to the location from which the sound came they were horrified to find the mangled bodies of the two men. One of them was already dead, but the other was barely alive. He was hastily carried to the hospital, but died when about a week away.

There was no one near enough at the time to say just how the accident occurred, but as they had been given powder for a blast and were known to be getting ready for one, it is thought that there was a premature discharge. Both men were married and had lived in Ishpeming ten or twelve years. Kumplo has a wife and two children living on Hill street. Meanpo has three children living in the old country, but his wife is dead.

Some Novel Views.

J. M. Vickers, master mechanic with the Cleveland-Cliffs company, has just finished developing a set of views which are indeed novel. Every furnace site in Marquette county is included in the collection. The views were taken especially for W. G. Mather, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs company, who now has a great many fine pictures of Marquette county scenes.

The most romantic of the collection are perhaps three views of the Jackson forge site, all of which show the stream as it now is. The forge was torn out in 1858 and some time later the dam was washed away. Nothing to indicate that a forge or dam ever existed there is shown in either of the pictures. The view showing the dam site looking down the stream is very beautiful and the old road is almost hidden from view by the overhanging branches of the trees.

Included in the collection are views of the Deer Lake, Rolling Mill, Carp, Northern, Grace, Morgan, Forestville, Clarksburg, Champion, Greenwood, Iron Cliffs, Excelsior and Pioneer furnaces. In the photo of the Morgan furnace site is a good view of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company's bridge near there. It passes within a few feet of the old stack, of which very little now remains. The views of the Forestville and Iron Cliffs furnace sites are quite attractive. The buildings, kilns, etc., of the latter have been greatly wrecked during the past six or eight years. Prior to that time they were in fairly good condition. The stack still stands, but this will soon go to ruin with the remainder of the property.

This collection of views is doubtless the only one of its kind in the county. The pictures are 6 1/2 by 3 1/4 inches in size and they are taken in a manner that would do credit to a professional photographer. Mr. Vickers proposes adding some views of the Cleveland-Cliffs company's furnace at Gladstone to the collection within the next few weeks. He is very proud of the views, and well he may be, as they are certainly worth having. They will be especially valuable to Mr. Mather, as he is greatly interested in furnaces.

Back from Ely.

Thomas Lynn, Charles Coveau, Thomas Heard and Andrew Larson, who have been playing baseball with the Ely (Minn.) team during the present season, got home yesterday morning. They were all working there up to the time they left when Lynn was laid off. Seeing no prospect of another job for Lynn the four decided to come home, leaving there a few hours after making up their minds to come away. The boys will probably remain here the balance of the summer and it is possible that they will get the old team together and play an occasional game.

Boiling River

It is sure enough. It is not as large as the Mississippi, indeed it is quite small, but a mighty interesting stream for all that. It issues from the sides of a mountain in a thousand tiny rills, more or less, and of almost as many colors. These gather themselves into pools and lakelets on the mountain's side, covering an area of about 200 acres. Overflowing their boundaries they trickle down the sides of the mountain forming small cliffs, the most wonderful in the world. From a distance one can hardly believe what the eyesight reveals—white, black, orange, lemon, terra cotta, green, blue, red, pink, separate and in manifold combinations stand out before him. It is a bill of painted cliffs on the sides of the mountain that rises high above. And the odd part of it is that each of these exquisite colors represents a different temperature. Does that startle your credulity? Even so it is true.

When through with this beautiful painting process, these waters again come together and then, as if full of mischief like a pack of small boys trying to play hide and seek, dive down and remain under the ground for a space of two miles and then flow out from the mouth of a cononynta as one of the clearest, most beautiful, green streams imaginable. Where these waters emerge from the mountain into the little lakes they are hot, boiling hot. During their dark underground journey they fall several hundred feet and also many degrees in hotness, so that when they again see daylight they are much cooler. This then is Boiling river, an underground mountain stream of hot water.

But you ask, where is it? Where can I see it? It is in Yellowstone Park at Mammoth Hot Springs. It is one of the lesser, mind you the lesser—wonders of this land of wonders. Go there and see it by all means but first send to Chas. S. Fee, General Passenger Agent, Northern Pacific Railroad, St. Paul, Minn., six cents for Wonderland '96, that tells all about this renowned region. (7-24)

OUT OF PURE PHILANTHROPY.

Unappreciated Kindness of a Considerate Old Gentleman.

About four o'clock the other afternoon a half-dozen members of the Tioga wheelmen started from the clubhouse for a spin down to Point Breeze, says the Philadelphia Record. As they curved their wheels out of Verango street and into Broad street a tall, portly and pompous man of middle age, and with mustaches waxed a la militaire, stepped out into the roadway, and in a voice full of command yelled: "Stop!" The cyclists instantly dismounted. "What's the matter?" inquired one. "You've got no lamps on your wheels," said the pompous man. "Why, you must have wheels in your head," replied one of the riders; "we don't have to carry lamps in daylight." "Say, are you a bicycle cop? Where's your star?" asked another wheelman. "I beg your pardon, gentlemen, if you took me for a policeman you owe me an apology. Out of pure kindness I stopped you to call your attention to the fact that it will be dark in a few hours, and I should hate to see such nice looking fellows run in for riding without a light. By the way, gentlemen, I am introducing a new and improved bicycle lantern, warranted not to go out in the stiffest wind or over the roughest road. Throws a brilliant—" "Come off! Is that what you stopped us for?" Certainly, I can show you testimonials—"Scat! Scatter! You're occupying our air!" and away the wheelmen went down Broad street.

MAKING ONE'S WILL.

It Has a Soothing Influence on the Mind as a Duty Done.

The making of one's will does not hasten one's death; on the contrary, it has a calming and soothing influence upon the mind. A person who has done it feels that he has done his duty, says the New York Mercury, that he is so far prepared to die.

He has no burden upon his mind, in reference to what he shall do in sickness. When sickness comes he has no regrets on this subject; he has done his best to prepare for the inevitable hour. If he has made his will aright he has attempted to do good in his death as well as in his life.

This is not only a reminder that every man who has property to dispose of should make his will, but also that those who can do so without injury to their natural heirs should give a certain portion of their property for the public benefit. No man has got wealth without receiving it from society at large.

It is the growth of population, it is the general industry of the country from which he has benefited. He could not have got his wealth in an unorganized society.

Society has done much for him. Let him do something for society when he dies. The time will come when a man will not feel himself to be dying creditably who does not die generously.

TEN AT A BIRTH.

Recorded Cases Which Beat that of the Indiana Farmer's Wife.

One of the best-known physicians in the city, apropos of the case reported in Indiana of the German farmer's wife who presented him with six children of practically the same age, said:

"Even triplets are quite rare, and such cases as this are still more rare; yet instances are recorded in medical annals of the birth of six, seven, eight, nine, and even ten children at one time. It is very rare, however, that any of the children live where there are more than two at a birth, although a case is recorded by Chambon of quintuplets, all of whom survived their baptism for a short period. I heard not long ago of a Texas woman who gave birth to six children, and there is a case in Chicago where four fully-developed children were born, who lived for some time. According to statistics kept by Dr. Churchill, of England, twins occur once in 80 births, but of 57,441 births five cases only were those of triplets.

Barnato and His Landlord.

South Africa naturally recalls Barney Barnato, the "diamond king," who, within ten years, has risen from a circus clown to a many times millionaire. When he was just beginning to amass riches he rented a house in Natal and spent considerable money in improving it. But the landlord would not do his share, so Mr. Barnato decided to move. Before doing so he took means to get even with his landlord by inserting this advertisement in the local paper: "Wanted, 100,000 black beetles, by a gentleman who has agreed to leave his dwelling house in the condition he found it." Then followed his name and address, and the landlord's feelings may be imagined.—Golden Days.

The Mule Blowed First.

A negro was sick and a friendly colored brother came in to see him and asked what was the cause of his illness. The darky replied: "It's feelin' poorly. My mule done gone and got sick and I went to de hoss doctor and he tole me what to do. He tole me to git er tin tube an' put de tube in de mule's mout and blow de medersin down his froat. I got everything ready to blow, but de mule blowed fust, and I tell yer, brudder, dat ar mule medersin was too much for dis here nigger."

Balloon Racing in Paris.

Balloon racing is the latest form of petty gambling in Paris. A number of toy balloons are set off at the same time, each bearing a postal card having on it the umpire's address and a request to the finder to note the time and place of the balloon's arrival. Bets are paid and the stakes awarded on the results of the replies received within a week. The balloon that goes furthest in the shortest time gets the prize.

An Old Custom.

The custom of having days "at home" is by no means new. It was prevalent in Queen Anne's time, when the ladies were "at home" once a week to their friends of both sexes and called it a "day" just as we do.

The washboard we don't understand unless she's washing it. Women who use Pearline (use with-out soap) don't need a washboard. They don't have that tiresome, wearing rubbing over it. But for cleaning washboards or wood work or paint or anything of the kind, then they want Pearline.

In and About Negaunee.

CYCLISTS HELD UP.

Bicycling on the Cliffs Drive Has Dangerous Peculiarly Its Own.

Harry Sawbridge and Gust Carlson of Negaunee, were held up by an unknown man while making a trip around the Cliffs on their wheels Wednesday evening. They were going along the road near the Iron Cliffs school house when suddenly the man stepped from the bushes and threw a log across the road, at the same time commanding them to hold up their hands.

Seeing a revolver pointed at them both the young men did as the fellow requested. He then very leisurely went through their pockets. Sawbridge was relieved of $4.75, but Carlson did not have any money with him so he was nothing out. The robber had a cloth over his face, consequently the boys did not recognize him.

A couple of Negaunee men who drove around the Cliffs a couple of hours before the hold-up occurred report having seen the man who went through the boys. He attempted to stop their horse but they drove too rapidly for him.

THE ARMY GOT THERE.

In the opinion of not a few Negaunee people the members of the local corps of the Salvation Army did a great act Wednesday evening when they got alongside a street fakir in the city square and completely killed his business. The fakir was the fellow who sold receipt books and gave a speech on the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 at Ishpeming the previous evening. The man hardly had his business introduced when half a dozen members of the army put in an appearance. They took a stand as near to him as possible and the way they sang, yelled and hammered their big drum was a caution.

Realizing that the Army was too much for him the fakir took a rest for a short time, thinking they would soon finish their meeting and move on about their business. There was no let up in the Salvationists, however, as they had apparently come out to kill the fakir's trade. He finally got tired of waiting for the meeting to end and resumed his lecture. He talked for a short time and finding that those whom he was addressing could not hear him he got angry and began to roast the Army. The harder he roasted them the more vigorously they sang and pounded the drums. The chap finally called for protection but the sport was too good to be interfered with by the police officers. The Salvationists kept up their noise until almost 10 o'clock, when the fakir pulled up stakes and left the town. He only sold one book, so that he was several dollars out by attempting to do business in Negaunee.

It is said that some of the citizens paid the members of the army to hold their meeting in opposition to the strangers. The street fakirs have been so numerous of late that the people are getting tired of them. It is also said that one of the members of the Army got roped in for $1 by the fakir who was here selling jewelry the night before, and that he took this means of getting even.

The large crowd which stood on the street taking in the sport knocked more enjoyment out of the meeting than they could have had at a circus. Many are in hopes the members of the Army will continue to drive the street fakirs out of the city every time they attempt to do business here.

GAVE THEM A SCARE.

Maud Wah, whom "Cooney" Sullivan held up about ten days ago, was given a scare Wednesday night at about 11 o'clock, when some person set off a piece of giant powder near her place in the eastern end of the city. The woman suspected that there would be trouble sooner or later so she had applied for police protection. An officer was in the vicinity of the house when the explosion occurred, but he did not catch the guilty parties. The powder was set off under a shed near the house and the shed was considerably damaged while the windows in the house where Miss Wah lived were broken. No arrests have yet been made.

THE DISCOVERY SAVED HIS LIFE.

Mr. G. Callouette, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at E. Farnham's Drug store.

WEALTH OF THE ASTORS.

True Amount Kept from the Public, But Known to Be Almost Fabulous.

The Astors are adding to their realty holdings. Recently William Waldorf Astor purchased an old church building on Forty-sixth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, New York, which covers three city lots. By this purchase the great estate gobbles the entire block, with the exception of one lot. As this block is one of the several selected for the metropolitan terminal of the big North river bridge, which will surely be completed within six or seven years, the reasons for the purchase are obvious. The Astors—William Waldorf and John Jacob—are undoubtedly the largest individual owners of real estate in Gotham. Like the founder of their house, they have always regarded city land as the best and safest investment. Old John Jacob first became a real estate owner in 1789, when he bought for $25 a lot of land on the Bowery, near Elizabeth street. Twenty-one years later he was the largest holder of real estate in town, and his descendants have ever since kept the lead in this respect. In 1835 he sold the Astor house for $1. William B. Astor had expressed a desire to own it, whereupon John Jacob told him that he would sell it to him for the amount named. The bargain was concluded on the spot. The greatest care has always been taken to keep the exact value of the Astor estate from becoming public. When John Jacob Astor the first died he was said to be worth $20,000,000. At William B. Astor's death it was reported that he was worth $50,000,000, but this estimate has been declared too low. A few millions could be added with safety at present, and every hour increases the valuation.

Ever since 1811 the Astor family has been putting its spare change into Manhattan Island real estate. Rents which accrued were reinvested with a particular view to the location of the property. John Jacob and William Waldorf have continued to make investments in Harlem and the new annexed district within a few years. They keep a sharp eye on the trend of trade and the growth of new districts. One real estate authority, in speaking about the Astor land holdings, said that south of Eighty-sixth street it included 25 acres of soil solidly built up. Yet this large amount of property does not amount to more than half of the Astor estate, which owns land and buildings around Jerome Park and along Riverside drive and the Boulevard. It is the business custom of the Astors to give leaseholds of 21 years, on which the lessees build, the lease being subject to renewal at the end of 21 years on a reappraisal. The ground rents for these properties go to the estate, but on the assessment books the property does not appear in the name of the Astors. That's why their great wealth is not gettable by those people who are always poking their noses into the private affairs of other people.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE UGLY GIRL'S INNING.

She is Right at Home in the Poster Effects.

The girl who is distinctly ugly is having a lovely time, for fashion has at last come her way, thanks to Aubrey Beardsley and to the poster craze. It is only imperative that a girl should have individuality and be interesting; then the homelier she is, the better. Indeed, the merely pretty girls are in despair, because such a one simply ruins her effect if she attempts the grotesque in dress or hat or headwear, while the ugly girl is instantly rendered distinctive by such a piece of audacity, and to be distinctive—above all, to be audaciously distinctive—is in these days to be a belle. The girl who dares and whose triumphant ugliness permits her to rear upon the sabbie abandonment of her tresses a nodding plume, set gloriously awry, is the girl who is just now in the swim. Or, if she prefers to accomplish the trick with bows rather than plumes, then here is a model: Made of brocaded black felt and chenille, with a wide poke front to the brim that narrows toward the back, this hat's low crown is encircled with small rosettes of black satin ribbon, striped in three rows of velvet at each edge. In front three loops rise and are held in place by a fancy buckle. At each side of the back three small loops are placed and from these start two ribbons that form the tie strings, which must be wide and long. If the bows at neck and upon the hat are purposely set askew the effect is intensified, but this is not always desirable.

The effect of this freakish development isn't felt alone in headgear. The woman whose shoulders are actually bony, who can wear a pumpkin-seed color gown, bare her shoulders, let her hair hang down over her ears so the tips of them show at the back, then put a long trail of scarlet flowers in the curved ear-lock, sit with her back queerly bent and look as if she were all right, whether you like her or not, she is the girl the men are looking at just now. You poor, little pink and white girl with golden hair and a pretty pout would be simply lost in such a rig. To be triumphantly ugly and to look as if you liked it, that is the secret, and, to tell the truth, the belle of last season and the type of girl who for years and years has been the belle and who expected, of course, to be the belle now, this is the girl who is tearing out her hair.—Washington Post.

DEEP-SEA SOUNDING.

Measuring the Deepest Hole in the Ocean Without a Line.

The deepest spot in the ocean was recently discovered by the surveying ship Penguin, near the Friendly Islands, in the South Pacific. At least, it is supposed to be the deepest spot.

Nobody knows what the depth there is, because the sounding line broke upon the two occasions when it was attempted to reach the bottom. Upon the first cast being made by Capt. Balfour, of the Penguin, 4,300 fathoms were run out and then the wire broke. Another attempt to take the depth was made some days later.

Upon this occasion the captain managed to pass 4,900 fathoms, being 29,400 feet, or more than five miles of wire, over the ship's side. The wire was still running out when another break occurred.

An invention has now been perfected, however, which will enable marine surveyors to take the very deepest soundings, no matter how great the depth may be. This new method of taking deep-sea soundings dispenses with the line altogether. The whole thing is so simple it is a wonder somebody did not think of it before.

A microphone is first let down over the side of the ship a short distance beneath the surface of the water. A delicately adjusted cartridge properly weighted with lead is then thrown overboard, and an officer on deck notes the time by a stop watch the moment it strikes the surface of the water.

This cartridge sinks steadily, maintaining an erect position in the water as it goes down. The moment it touches the bottom the cartridge explodes and the microphone far above records the event.

Then it is a simple matter of calculation to ascertain the depth. The rate of fall of the cartridge in the water is known, as well as the rate of decrease in its speed as it reaches the deepest levels, where the water is compressed by the weight of that above.

With this table of figures in hand, the number of seconds or minutes occupied by the cartridge in reaching the bottom forms the basis of the calculation. By this means steamers and sailing vessels can take soundings in water of any depth, without subsequent loss of time in waiting to haul up the line. A vessel can even take soundings while sailing ahead, as the sound of the concussion may be recorded in the microphone miles away, and the latter may be dragged astern.—N. Y. Journal.

MAJOR GIFFORD IS HERE.

New Salvation Army Divisional Commander Pays the Marquette Corps a Visit.

SAYS RECENT SCHISM HAS NOT EFFECTED THE ARMY.

Democrats and Union Silver Conventions to Be Held in Negaunee—Water Flood and Famine—Marquette vs. Ashland.

WELCOME TO OFFICERS.

Curiosity to see the new divisional commander didn't appear to be so potent a factor in filling a church as Major Gifford, successor to Major Stillwell in command of the Northern Michigan division of the Salvation Army, seemed to consider it, from remarks made later in his address.

While the welcoming services at the Methodist church last night were fairly well attended, the demonstration was not nearly the size of the one held a month or two ago when Majors Milan and Stillwell were here.

Major Gifford is accompanied by his secretary, Ensign Potter, a young man who has but recently returned from Japan. In addition to these two, and the local officers, there were upon the platform Captain Frank Jewell, of Ishpeming, and Lieutenants Alf Jewell and William Cooper, of Ironwood.

The meeting was opened with prayer and song in the style usual to the army. This being done Captain Turner introduced the new major.

Major Gifford is a man of large experience in the army, and a large man physically. He appears to be an earnest worker and is a good and convincing talker.

The major started his remarks by saying that the Salvation Army agreed with him, and that he was glad to be in Marquette. He has not been here, or for that matter, elsewhere in the peninsula since eight years ago, at which time he was relieved from the command of the old Northern Michigan district and sent to general headquarters in New York. Since leaving there he has been in many sections of the country, and was recalled here from the Washington and Oregon division. At the time of his previous command there was a corps in Ishpeming but none in Marquette.

Leaving his historical recital, he said that the coming of a new major was like the coming of a new minister, a matter of considerable curiosity, and for the first meeting resulted in filling the church or building in which he might appear. He spoke of the intense interest and curiosity felt by the entire army a few months ago over who the new commander would be, but he added, curiosity was soon satisfied and they had all fallen to with a will to carry on the work of the army to glorious success under old glory.

Reference to the late schism naturally led him to speak of the present condition of the Army, and the outlook for its future. He said that he had a most encouraging report to make along both of these lines, and that he was in a position to speak with authority, having been in so many parts of the country. He thinks the recent trouble has had a tendency to unite the forces of the Army, and that it never was more earnest to carry out its great work than at the present time. The Salvation Army, he asserts, has not gone to wreck.

The second of the two welcoming services will be held tonight in the Methodist church. Ensign Potter will appear in the costume of the Japanese soldier, he having lately returned from that country.

Conventions Together.
The chairmen of the Democratic and the Union Silver parties yesterday issued the official calls for the county conventions of these parties.

Each is to be held at the same place and on the same date. Each is for the purpose of electing twelve delegates to attend their respective state conventions to be held in Bay City on the 25th of the month.

The county conventions are to be held at the Breitung House, Negaunee, Aug. 21, four days before the assembling of the state convention, which will give ample time for the holding of the city and township caucuses. Notices of the Marquette caucuses will be issued shortly.

The silver call invites all sixteen-toners, regardless of party, to attend the caucuses, and recites that they are eligible to be sent as delegates to the convention. Each of the calls has appended to it a list of the cities and townships in the county and the number of delegates to which they are generally entitled. Marquette gets the customary sixteen.

The silver call is signed by John R. Rood, and the Democratic one by Rush Culver, chairman of the county committee.

Party on the Cutter.
Mrs. Col. B. S. Kaufman gave a party last evening to one hundred guests on the revenue cutter Fessenden, lying in the harbor. The party was one of the elite functions of the summer season, and only the most aristocratic of Marquette's society people were favored with invitations. The boat was gaily decorated with flags and colored lights. Salisbury's splendid orchestra furnished the music for the dancers. The colation was served in the officers' quarters below.

Hydrant Broke Loose.
Residents of Rock street were very much in the position, yesterday morning, of the Dutch in the famous couplet:
"Water, water, everywhere,
And not a drop to drink."
One of Stewart's livery rigs that had been left standing unhitched at a house not far away took fright at something and ran away. In their wild flight they collided with a hydrant, and broke it off. The hydrant is located at the corner of Rock and Fourth streets and has two feeders. It belched out water like a young geyser, and by the time

Superintendent Kern was notified and arrived on the scene the whole street was afloat.
He had the water shut off to make the necessary repairs and it was several hours before the inhabitants along that line of pipe were able to draw water from their faucets. The repairs were completed and the precious fluid turned on just before dinner time.

"In Old Madrid."
To be presented at the Marquette Opera House tomorrow night. Mr. Francis Jones, in the character of Valentin Navarro, is given lines by the author of this clever comedy that would do credit to "Coin," and might well, with a little revision, be taught in his "Financial School." The following are selected as examples:
"He that has not wealth by patrimony should get it by matrimony."
"There is nothing so good as money, and no money so good as other people's."

"Money belongs not to the person who has it, but to the one who has wit enough to get it."
"Few who have money deserve it. Some indeed have made it; others have been born into it; a number have blundered into it; but the big majority got kicked into it."
"The fascination of money is not in having it, but in making it. When one has it, it is worthless, except for the excitement of holding on to it and keeping the other fellow from getting it."

Marquette Plays Ashland.
There is promise of two pretty good games of ball at the Fair grounds Saturday and Sunday. On these days the Marquette team will play against Ashland.

This club has not been here before this season, but from reports it is playing pretty good ball. August first and second Ashland played with the Virginia team. The Virginias won the first by a score of 6 to 5, but Ashland got the second 10 to 4. The Virginia team had in it then some extra fine talent, including Lynn, Coveau and Reed of Ishpeming, and Fitch, Hart and Hines of Duluth. A team that can take even one game from such a contestant ought to prove more than a foil for Marquette.

Special Sacred Concert.
Sunday afternoon from three to four there will be a special sacred concert at Hotel Superior. As is usual this concert will be free, and all who attend will be made welcome, and have an opportunity to enjoy an extra fine musical treat. Professor Salisbury and Miss Wood have extended the professional courtesies to Miss Gaffney, Marquette's favorite soprano, who will sing two beautiful selections, "For All Eternity," and the "Holy City," each with full orchestral accompaniment.

Marquette.
A queen surrounded with a brilliant suit
Something grand at a ball;
A diamond set in fringe of gold
Something admired by all.
The "queen of the lakes" mid hills and dales
In summer time, or fall,
Where'er they come, from far or near,
Something admired by all.

(Hotel Superior, bright white star
That shines on yonder hill
Invites the tourist, merchant, all
Its spacious rooms to fill.)
The beautiful park, the sparkling bay,
Kind Nature lends a spell,
And from her silent, soft retreats
She ever sings "tis well."

From Mount Mesnard to Sugarloaf
"Tis beauty unadorned,"
What sunny slope or shady nook
Was'er by artist scorned?
Were ever balm more soiling
Than here—that's in the air—
To sufferers from fever hay!
Go tell it everywhere.

We've churches fine, and liveries,
Hotels that "fill the bill"
And street cars that—"no pusher,
No puller" up the hill.
Then come this way to recuperate;
Just drop in here to stay
A little while to rusticate,
At the city by the bay.
