Norris Humphrey presided and introduced George Groot of Ohio, chairman of the George Groot of Ohio, chairman of the Silver party:

I beg to reply at this time without the formality of a letter. The platform adopted by the Silver party contains but one plank, and that plank upon the silver question is identical in substance with the silver plank of the Chicago platform. As I have already discussed that plank at length, it will not be necessary to enter into any extended discussion at this time. I beg to answer the committee that I acthe nomination tendered by them on cept the nomination tendered by them on behalf of the Silver party.

In the spirit in which that nomination is presented I can appreciate the feeling which animated those who assembled in that convention; I can appreciate the hesitation with which those assembled there turned their backs upon the party with which they had been associated. I know something of the strength of party ties, and because I was in a position where I looked forward to the possibility of like action on my own part, I can appreciate the depths of conviction that led them to when compared with the money trust place the interests of their country above the welfare of their party.

More than a year ago, when we engaged in the struggle to bring the Demacratic party to an endorsement of free coinage, the question was put to me whether, in case of failure, I would support the Democratic nominee if he were a gold standard advocate running upon a gold standard platform. I never believed such action probable in the Democratic party, but when those who questioned me were not content with probabilities and asked again whether, in that event, I would support the nominee, I said, as you will remember,

A CONSPIRACY AGAINST HUMANITY. I stood where the members of that Silver convention stood, and, like them, would rather have the approval of my conscience than the approval of all the world. My convictions upon this subject are not shallow convictions. I may be in error—none of us can claim infallibility—but I believe that a gold standard is a conbut I believe that a gold standard is a conspiracy against the human race. I would no sooner join the ranks of those whose purpose it is to fasten that upon the American people than to enlist in an army that was marching to attack my home and destroy my family. I say, therefore, that I can appreciate the spirit which animated those who have just tendered me this second nomination. I pledge them that if elected they shall never have cause to accuse me of being false to that platform.

My friends, when I declared I would not support a gold standard candidate, I was standing upon the record of the Democratic party. I am defending its principles, as well as the interests of the country at large. And when the Republicans who were assembled in the Silver convention at St. Louis refused to worship the gold image which their party had set up they were defending the history of the Republican party i Great applause.

were defending the history of the Republican party [Great applause].

The Republican platform of 1888 denounced the Democratic administration for having attempted to degrade silver. And in 1891, on the 12th day of February, in Memorial Hall, Toledo, O., at the Lincoln Daybanquet, the present candidate for president upon the Republican ticket used the words which I shall now read to yeu. I found these words published in a Toledo paper, and they have been published so long without correction that we may safely assume that he was correctly reported. If he hereafter denies the correct ness of this report I shall hasten to do him justice by retracting these words. These justice by retracting these words. These are the words which he is said to have used:

EX-GOY. M'KINLEY IN 1891. EX-GOY. M'KINLEY IN 1891.

"During all of Grover Cleveland's years at the head of this government he was dishonoring one of our precious metals, one of our great products, discrediting silver and enhancing the price of gold. He endeavored even before his inauguration into office to stop the coinage of silver dollars, and afterwards and to the end of his administration persistently used his power to that end. He determined to contract the irregulating medium and demonetize one of the coins of commerce, to limit the volume of money among the people, make ROLLED DOWN TO money scarce and therefore dear. He would increase the value of money and Townspeople of the White Metal make money the master and everything Frightful Accident to a Coaching else the servant."

Following these same lines the Republican national convention of 1892 declared that the American people from tradition and interest were in favor of bimetallism. That is the language in 1892, that the American people from tradition and interest are in favor of bimetallism. Have our traditions changed in four years? Haye our interests changed in four years Haye our interests changed in four years?
No, my friends, and yet forgetting the platform of 1888, forgetting the denunciation uttered by their distinguished leader in 1891, forgetting the platform of 1892 the Republican party in convention assembled declared that the American people must forego the advantages of the bimetallic system to which tradition and interest had endeared them until foreign nations should bring those advantages to them. Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 8.—The continuous welcome which Lincoln people and large contingents from other parts of Nebraska gave Mr. Bryan on his home-coming today culminated this evening in a grand demonstration in honor of his formal notification of his nomination for the presidency by the National Silver party.

From the time Mr. Bryan reached the city at 11 this morning until the tired crowds retired from the streets at a late hour tonight there was parading

FIGHTING THE MONEY TRUST.

We do not ask them who present this nomination to pledge their future services to the Democratic party. The same intelligence which directs them today in the discharge of this duty will be with them four years from now to direct them then in the discharge of duties that will then arise. The same patriotism that leads them today in what they do will be with them four years from now to guide and direct them. years from now to guide and direct them.
The Democratic party has proven itself worthy of their confidence today and it receives their support. If four years from now it proves unworthy of their confidence it should not then have their support.

The chairman of the notification commits

The chairman of the notification commit tee has told you that we have to meet today a great money trust. He is right; we are confronted today by the most gigantic which has its hands upon our country. Place the control of the standard money of the world in the hands of a few great financiers and times will be good for them no matter what distress may overtake the rest of mankind. I believe that John G. Carlisle did not exaggerate the truth when he said

"The consummation of this scheme means more misery to the human race than all the wars, pestilences and famines that have ever occurred in the history of the world.'

I thank them for the support which they have rendered, and all that I can promise is that I shall, to the best of my ability, endeavor to prove worthy of their confidence.

ACCEPTS IN BEHALF OF SEWALL. Mr. Harrington, of the notification committee, arose on the conclusion of Mr. Bryan's remarks and briefly informed him of Mr. Sewall's selection as the vice presidential candidate of the Silver party. Mr. Bryan accepted in a few words, in behalf of Mr. Sewall.

It is not often given to a political party, as it is this year given to ours, to stand between national onor and dishonor; public faith and repudiation; and order and disquietude. It is the good fortune of the Republican party to stand in this contest for what is best in government, for what is patriotic in citizenship, for what tends to support the financial integrity of the government, its credit and its currency. It has vast re-sponsibilities. It has performed supreme duties before, and it will meet new ones with an honest and unfaltering purpose to serve the best interests of the people. Fortunately, in this contest the Republican press is not alone in its support of the Republican cause. It numbers among its strongest allies many of the most powerful Democratic newspapers of the east and west, which are doing yeoman service for patriotism and national honor. They are welcome, thrice welcome, and the country owes them a debt of gratitude for their unflinching loyalty as against party, for sound money and public morals Great applause].

Party prejudice cuts little figure in a crisis like this. We must not indulge in aspersion or crimination against those who may have differed from us in the past, but who are now with us in a patriotic effort to preserve the good faith of the country and enforce public and private honesty. We must not drive anybody out of camp, but welcome everybody in. This is the year for the press and the pen; the sword has been sheathed. The only force now needed is the force of reason; and the only power to be invoked is that of intelligence and patriotism

There are nearly as many newspapers and periodicals published in the United States as in all the rest of the world besides. To me a modern newspaper is so vast and comprehensive that I can never contemplate its possibilities without be contemplate its possibilities without be-coming both interested and enthusiastic in the subject. Why, to be a capable and worthy journalist, wise, honorable and efficient, is to attain the highest plane of human opportunity and usefulness.

In the sixth Healy went to first on balls and Haas and Hocking hit safely, filling the bases. McGinley allowed two balls to go to the backstop, Healy and Haas scoring. Escanaba sent five men to bat in the fourth inning, securing two clean hits, but a beautful play on the bases re-tired the side. Aside from the clever work of both pitchers, Condon's backstop work was an especial feature. Several attempts were made to steal second base and each time the runner was caught. His presence on the team has a tendency to keep it playing steady ball and much of the credit for this game is due to his work. Four hits were credited to each pitcher. ### NOT A SICK DAY For Over Thirty Years! RESULT OF USING AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills for over thirty years have kept me in good health, never having had a sick day in all that time. Before I was twenty I suffered almost continually-as a result of constipation - from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, or boils and other eruptive diseases. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a single attack that did not readily yield to this remedy. My wife, who had been an invalid for years, also began to use Ayer's Pills, and her health was quickly restored. With my children I had noticed that nearly all their ailments were preceded by constipation, and I soon had the pleasure of knowing that with children as with parents, Ayer's Pills, if taken in season, avert all danger of sickness."-H. TOLD BY AN OLD SETTLER. Tenderfoots Concluded to Leave the West

"It is the proper thing, as a matter of course, to talk of things which hapsened in the early days of a country as having more fun and excitement in them than the prosaic days of these times," said an old settler in a reministent mood, which mood in an old settler is an indication of a happy state of mind. "But, in reality, some funny things did happen then. The story I have in mind occurred away back-beore there was much settlement in this country-and when it was the custom for adventurous and enterprising men to establish ranches where wanderers over the face of the earth who came that way might find something to eat. There was one of these places down in southern county, merely a hut filled with provisions, and guarded by two men and a couple of dozen guns.

"One day they were surprised to see a man drive tip with a wagon well loaded with provisions, who informed them that he was going to start a ranch in the valley just below them. They did not express themselves one way or the other, and he drove down a little and camped for the night under a bluff opposite them. Some time after he came up and found the boys had all their guns out cleaning them. There was quite an array as they lay in a row upon the ground.

" 'Going hunting, boys?' "No, the boys were not going hunting. Then what are you cleaning up your guns for?' The boys thought they hight want to use them-that was all. "The newcomer went back to his might want to use them—that was all.

"The newcomer went back to his wagon, and the boys, setting up a tincan on the edge of the bluff, began shooting at it as a mark. And they made their bullets go pearer the stranger's wagon than they did the can.

"This proceeding evidently gave the would be ranchman the idea that his company was not wanted, and in the morning he came up to parley.

"I don't want to have any trouble with von boys, he said. 'Just show me how far your land goes, and I will drive off it before I bulld.' He was informed that their land extended exactly as far as their rifles could shoot. This was an uncomfertable answer, and the man did not understand exactly the best way to proceed, but, being a blucky fellow, he told them that he would drive to a certain hill about a mile away and there unload. 'Very well,' the others said. He could do so. They would wait until he reached the hill and then begin to shoot, and if nothing hit him he might consider that he was off their land.

"This was not encouraging, but he started out, and when he reached that hill they began to shoot. And the bullets hit so close around that he did not take time to unload. He merely unhitched one horse, and, without taking the harness off, started back waying a handkerchief. The boys considered this as a truce to stop firing until they had heard what he had to say, and let him come up. Then he informed them that he had been mistaken in his desire to settle in that part of the country. In fact, he did not want to settle there, and would ear him. They let him."—Chicake Times-Herald.

signs of Rapid Growth in Manufactures and Trade Industries - Some Features of the Great Enterprise.

The pan-Russian exposition at Nijni

Novgorod, nominally opened by the pinister of finance on June 9, is now in uil progress, and the multitude visiting it is swollen by the crowds of mertend the famous fair at the same place. The exposition is a government under-taking, upon which a great deal of money has been lavished, with the ob-lect of promoting trade within the em-pire. It is the 16th industrial exposiion of all the Russias since 1829, three having been held in Warsaw, and the others in Moscow and St. Petersburg. The last was in Moscow in 1882. Since that date there has been a remarkable levelopment of Russia's manufactures. It is evidenced by the present exposition in a most convincing way that Russia has ceased to be an exclusively agricultural country, and must be ranked with manufacturing countries of the first-class. There are samples and specimens of everything, showing the wide range of Russian industry. There is not much, perhaps, that is new and original in the purely European exhibits, but in respect to things which the west does not produce there is ex-traordinary diversity and abundance. The peculiarities of Russia's various races and the products of her provinces from the Arctic circle to central Asia

The exposition covers an area of 200 acres, near the confluence of the rivers Oka and Volga, beyond the fair. The place is 260 miles east of Moscow, from which city it was expected there would be many visitors at the conclusion of the coronation festivities. With a view to this, numerous immense hotels were to this, numerous immense hotels were erected along the new byenue extending from the railway terminus to the main entrance of the exposition. These palaces, with the floating hotels on the Oka, have failed till very recently to obtain many guests, though the government has made great effort to render the place attractive to foreigners. The exposition buildings consist of a large number of separate pavilions, interspersed with restaurants, ferreshment kiosks and flower cardens prouped around a circular caller. number of separate pavilions spersed with restaurants, iment kiosks and flower grouped around a circular which forms the center. Agriculture makes a poor showing reflecting, it is supposed, the condition of this industry, which is depressed in tussia as in other parts of the world. The rural and domestic industries apart from farming, make, however, it large display. Whole villages, it seems are turning to the manufacture of useful articles to the neglect of agricultural pursuits. Spinning and basket work occupy great numbers, he largest progress in the past 20 years habeen in mining and metallurgy, but much has been done in textile tabrics cotton goods, silks, etc. Electrical contrivances obtain, of course, a marked prominence. The machinery hall has prominence. The machinery hall has 147,000 square feet of space and is a fine affair. The art display is poor.

The exposition was brought to Nijni this year, it is said, to revive the prosperity of this trade center, which has been declining. It is hoped that the great Siberian railway, when completed will produce the same result. Expert opinion is, however, adverse to this view. The increased railway communication must, it is held, tend to develop other distributing centers.—Baltimore Chone is the name given by the Kanakas to a tree which flourishes in New Caledonia. It reaches a height of 40 feet, and puts forth beautiful white flowers, having a perfume like that of jumine. The chone is the Cerbera manghas of the botanist, and belongs to the family of the Apocyhaceæ. It yields a milky juice, like the Indiarubber tree, which, when evaporated, leaves a black gum, that softens in boilleaves a black gum, that softens in boiling water like gutta-percha. It is impermeable, like gutta-percha, but has the advantage of dissolving in petroleum. The solution painted or floated on wood and evaporated leaves a third leaver of the gum impervious to water on wood and evaporated leaves a thin layer of the gum, impervious to water. Leather impregnated with the gum can remain in water for hours without becoming moist. The Humming Bird's Rain Signal.

One of the curious things about the humming bird is that when rain begins to threaten, the little creature shoots up into the air a hundred feet above the ground, poises there for a moment, and then dashes down with a whirring sound that is as loud as the whirr of a partridge. This noise is apparently a signal, as when it is heard the other birds in the vicinity seek cover.—Golden Days.

A new hat fastener consists of two strong tortoise shell combs, pleasing to the eye, and attached to elastic, which, in its turn, is destined to be fastened to the hat, while the combs are pushed through the hair at either side. Then, independent of hat-pins, you can be sure of keeping your hat firmly and comfortably fixed on your head, let the wind blow as hard as it will.

Smart wheelwomen are now copying the Parisian fashion of providing a collar of silver bells for the handle bars of their machines. Instead of worrying about constantly tinkling the warning bells, the motion of the machine causes the incessant jangling of the silver chime, and the effect is decidedly pretty. These bells are all of a more or less costly description, the handsomest consisting of a set of six, of pure silver, exquisitely chased, and hung upon a band of white leather embroidered with gold and jewels.

Most of the white and colored linen duck suits are made with full gored skirt and short jacket, fitted to the waist line, with flaring forms below, giving great fullness. The seams are lapped and stitched in double rows. The fronts turn away in very wide revers that begin at the waist line in a sharp point, then broaden at the top, and after being deeply notched expand into a sailor or rounded collar.

If you happen to possess a wash gown made with a cut skirt, such as was worn three summers ago, you can wear it this year and be gowned quite fashionably. If the flounce is perfectly plain, say of a blue and white striped material, you can adorn the edge with two or three small ruffles of either the white or plain blue. For the bodice make tightfitting sleeves out of the old full sleeves and trim them up at the top with several small ruffles, corresponding with those on the skirt. With a new ribbon collar and belt, your old gown will look chie and up-to-date.

The prevailing styles in sleeves are prettier and more artistic and becoming than anything we have had in years, for they are the happy medium between the huge, grotesque balloons just passed into oblivion, and the long, straight sleeves whose tortures still haunt us. The choice in shapes at present is almost unlimited as to the style of arranging the upper portion of the sleeves; frills, bell puffs, draperies, points, caps, slashed effects, etc., are prevailing among models for summer

The fashion for perfuming gloves, laces, sunshades, and, in fact, everything susceptible of the treatment, is being carried to excess. Word comes from Paris that at a recent gathering of elegantes the air was filled with new perfumes, and warning is given that care must be taken to secure the best in order to avoid unpleasant results. Cheapness is not to be considered. Only the finest scent make such a custom endurable, and unless such can be procured wisdom suggests absolute abstinence as the only possible course.

The veils most fashionable at present are the black heavily dotted, delicate meshed veils. These have a border of valenciennes or honiton lace. This border is frequently of white, though the all-black veil is considered to be in best taste. The heavily dotted veils are worn mostly with the large picture hats, a finer veil being better adapted to smaller hats or bonnets. The fashion able veil reaches now only to the chin and is brought up and fastened on the hat at the back. Colored veils are rarely seen, though white chiffon veils are still popularly worn with white hats.-Chicago Inter Ocean.

BUTTER HAD "RIZ."

"'Mebbe I did,' said I.
"'All right,' says he; 'I knew your word was good for 25 pounds of butter, so I give you credit for it on that date. The next time you came in, September 15, I asked you how about that butter and you said the cows were drying up so on their milk you guessed you'd hafter keep the butter for your own use, so I changed it back to you on that date to square up the transac-

"'I see you did,' says I; 'but there is a mistake in it, anyhow. You've got the price 30 cents on the debit side and

"That's all right,' says he; 'the price of buffer riz between September 1 and

"I paid his bill without sayin' anything more, but that was the last money he ever got out of me. I didn't mind takin' that butter back, seein' I had never parted with it, but there was never parted with it, but there was most too much difference between Abe's wholesale and retail prices to suit me, so I hunted up another store to do my tradin' with after that."—N. CHRONIC DISCONTENT. It Robs Life of Half the Good There Is

It is trite to say that we miss half of

is a hospital where every patient is possessed with the desire to change his bed. This one would prefer to suffer before the stove, and that other thinks he would recover by the window."

The probabilities are that the malady of discontent would follow the so-called patient wherever he might be situated. He, like the heroine of Mrs. Whitney's Hitherto, is "always holding up his soul with a thorn in it." Or, if the prick is not in his soul, it is in his lot in life, and he makes himself and his friends miserable by expatiation upon it. Such a person is the most wearing companion in the world, for he makes a constant drain upon our sympathies. And the amusing part of it all is that when this Ashtabula, has been ordered to lay up. present time over which he makes so much moan shall have become the past, he will then call it the "happy past," and heave a sigh at the thought that it feetly smooth and bore no evidence of cannot return. Thus he darkens all his pathway through life with foolish discontent, while "the beautiful around him lying" is unnoticed. An excellent cure for this disease of discontent is Vesselmen are learning that the for a man severely and mercilessly to rules governing the navigation of St. examine himself and ask why he should be particularly blessed above others, what especial virtue he possesses that should call down upon his head showers of blessings. If he is frank he will acknowledge that so deep seated is his complaint that he would find some cause for grievance against such showers. For the person who recognizes his falling and is anxious to cure himself of it, a good practice is that of attempting to count the negative mercies—the Eureka Springs will vouch for any immunities from pain, sorrow, illness and bereavement. He will be specifily overwhelmed, first, with a realization of his plessings, and next, if he be good for anything, with shame that he could ever have been discontented. Morbid unhappiness is a habit, and a wicked one, and all tendencies toward it should be rigorously checked from infancy to per's Bazar.

NOT A TRAVELER.

A Living Toad That Didn't Travel Siz Inches for Thousands of Years.
In the mining district, some three miles from this city, there has just been made a most novel, and, viewed from a scientific standpoint, a most interesting and valuable discovery. Half way up the mountain a prospector was working in a six-foot ledge of calcareous rock, bearing every evidence of the silurian age. He had progressed fully five feet into the ledge when a blow of the sledge revealed to his astonished gaze a live toad snugly esconced in a cavity in the solid rock about the size of a quart cup. The sides of this cavity were per-crack, seam, or crevice. The toad's position was about equally distant from the upper and lower surface of the ledge. Above the ledge is a stratum of pure white sandstone, three feet thick; and immediately over this a layer of soil, out of which tower great oak trees, two feet in diameter. The find was made by D. D. Field, formerly of Topeka, Kan., and an experienced miner, who has for some months been prospecting in the mineral region in this vicinity. Asked as to Eureka Springs will vouch for any statement he may make, and any number of Topeka people will testify to his reputation for truth and veracity.

When first exhumed from his adamantine tomb the toad's eyes were closed and there was little manifestation of life, other than a palpitating motion of the throat. Shortly after his old age. Once let it take root, and it grows with fungus-like rapidity.—Harstrength, until now he is a decidedly lively batrachian. He refuses all food ly enjoys, the light of which he so long had been deprived. Time, though, has set lightly on his batrachian brow. He seems to appreciate, too, the importance and privileges which attach to great age, and moves about with a silemn and arrogant mien. But when you scratch his sides with a lead pencil, he readily yields to the se -"I shall have to give up going on ductive sensation, places one front foot the stage." "Why so?" ### BOONE'S NEGLECTED GRAVE." Relic Hunters Have Shamefully Defaced the Marble Shaft.

Daniel Boone, with his wife, lies builed in the pretty cemetery at Frank-fort. The spot chosen for the last rest-ing place of this historical couple was one of the most picturesque on the banks of the Kentucky river. It is on the brow of the hill, and the monument is of stone, eight feet by three square, and without ornament. It stands on a stone base a foot high, the only inscriptions being "Daniel Boone" and "Rebecca Boone," on either side. There are four bas-reliefs, representing various scenes in the life of Boone in the wilds of Kentucky. One represents Mrs. Boone milking a cow, another Boone killing the Indian, and still another him with his son.

Tall beeches surround the monument, which overlook the Kentucky river. which overlook the Kentucky river. the secluded life of the woods. When settlers began to make their presence felt by their numbers Boone would move some hundred miles further into the forest. Having heard of the marry velous resources of the country beyond the mountains he was setzed with the desire to explore it. In 1769, with five companions, he set out on an expedition into what is now Kentucky—a region then unknown—inhabited only by wild beasts and Indians. One or two of his companions lost their lives, while he was captured by Indians, but twice escaped.

In 1773 he and his brother, with six families, including their own, and 40 men, started for Kentucky. Owing to the numerous attacks of the savages they were forced to stop at the Clinch they were forced to stop at the Clinch river. In one of the engagements Boone lost his eldest son, a loss deeply felt by his wife and himself.

He sent his family back to their old home on the Yadkin, but two years later he built a fort at Boonesborough an established himself there with them. Shortly after this, while returning from the famous Blue Licks, where he had gone to procure salt for the garrison, he was captured by the Indians and taken to Detroit.

Here he was adopted into the family of Blackfish, a Shawanese chief, where he remained some time. I carning that they meditated an attack upon Boonesborough he made his escape, traveling to the fort, a distance of 160 miles, in four days, pursued by 460 Indians. In that time he tasted food but once. Arriving at the fort he repulsed the attack of 445 Indians with only 50 men. In 1845, after the remains had lain for 25 years, the legislature of Kentucky re-solved that they should be removed to Kentucky and buried in the soil he loved so well. It was but a fitting loved so well. It was but a fitting tribute to this great man. The family having consented, proper persons were appointed to superintend the removal. The grave was opened and the remains brought from Missouri to Frankfort. On the 18th of September, 1848, the ceremonies of the reinterment took place. The occasion aroused the deepest feeling. a Meeting Here. John Enander, editor of Hemlandet, the oldest Swedish paper in the United States, published in Chicago, wiil open the campaign here for the Republican party tomorrow evening. He has been sent out by the Republican national committee to deliver six speeches in the upper peninsula and his first address will be given at Ishpeming. He speaks apolis. in both the English and Swedish tongues, but his talk here will be to the Scandinavian voters in their native the city yesterday.

Arno Jaehnig, Wilson Rogers and T. J. Dennis of Hancock were visitors in the city yesterday.

The opera house being engaged by the Wizard Oil company, the meeting will probably be held in the A. O. U.W. hall. In case this cannot be procured some one of the other society halls of the city will be secured for the meeting.

Mr. Enander is one of the best-known Swedes in America. He is not the finest Swedish orator in this country, but is known as a talented, level-headed man. During President Harrison's administration he was spoken of for the position of minister to Denmark. For a time he was professor of the Swedish language in the Augustana college and he has also held other positions of note. Death of Mrs. Gentry.

Mrs. Gentry, wife of George T. Gentry, died Sunday evening at her home, corner of First and High streets. She had been ailing for the past four years, ever since she suffered a severe attack of the grip. The deceased was about sixty years of age and had lived in Ishpeming the past twenty-eight years. She was a true Christian woman and had many friends in this community who will regret her demise.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Gentry survived by three adult daughters. The two oldest are married, one being Mrs. Thomas S. Pearce of Chicago and the other the wife of John Lawrence, Jr., of Amasa. Both were here when their mother passed away. Messrs. Pearce and Lawrence were summoned and arrived in the city in time to attend the funeral, which was held yesterday afternoon with religious services at Grace Episcopal church.

KEEP THE HOUSE COOL

Exclude the Light and Air During the Scorching Hours of the Day. However mild the first day of summer, July and August generally blast all hopes for a cool season, and it is a rare and exceptional year in which these months are not a flery furnace of endurance, so far as the weather is con-

The main question then for those who, from choice or necessity remain in town, is how to keep the house cool, them or other Europeans, it has long so that when night comes some part since ceased to carry with it the slight of the discomfort of the day may be for est sting of latent satire. From a term got in sleep. No one needs to be told that the main lement of success in this effort lies day. The breeze is very tempting whenever it comes, but it is also very treacherous and deceptive, for, in the long run, it is more heating than cooling, as it blows over streets where the thermometer is marking 90 in the shade.

Of course, we must have light and air, for if we remain in the house we must ways which require both, but the outside heat is the foe to fight, and it enters by every crack large enough for an atom. The best generalship selects cer-tain rooms to be kept open chough to live in, those of the second story being usually preferred.

As soon as the light grows strong in the morning all the other windows of the house should be fastened tight, the shutters bolted, the sashes in place and even the dark shades lowered so as to exclude as nearly as possible the rays

In the second story the shutters should be bowed in and the rooms made as dark as feasible, while on the parlor floor the only windows open should be those of the dining-room—and these are fastened tight between the hours

The cook needs light and air to make her hot kitchen still hotter, but the work is rendered more tolerable if a large gas stove or an "Aladdin's oven" is substituted for the fierce fires of the range. This deprives the bath-room of hot water, but it also prevents the heating of the house by the pipes which run from the boiler to different rooms, and hot baths are not advisable in hot weather.

A very important factor in keeping the rooms cool is the power to get rid of heated air, which rises toward the roof. A trap door which can be set open is almost a necessity for this but it must be carefully watched if there are any empty houses in the row, lest by these means a burglar should be tempted into devious paths.

A house that was considered intolerably hot was made more habitable by the audacious extravagance of its owner, who had a long, narrow window put in the wall near the roof at the head of the last flight of steps. The window was supplied with a grating and with slatted shutters, so that all hir was excluded and the hot air found a near the Englishman. Frenchman, German, cluded, and the hot air found a passage from the hall to the outside, while burglar-proof grating made it possible to leave the window open all night.

The front door might readily be so arranged with a grating that it, too, could be left open at night, and in all cases it should be supplied with an awning to prevent the intense glare of the marble steps and the pavement, and at the same time, to afford shade to the visitor and tradesman who must wait there till the bell is answered.

As soon as the sun has ceased to beat upon the house-either directly or by reflection-all these processes can be reversed. What is needed then is air, which, however heated, is sure to lose a degree or two of its temper as night comes on. All windows then should be thrown wide open and remain so until late, the upper stories, in fact, being left open until sunrise next morning announces the battle once more.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Sleeping Rooms in Summer. To be healthful, the sleeping apart-ments should be the most esthetic rooms of the house; the furniture should be simple, the floor uncovered and the bed comfortable. No rooms on the sunny side of a house can be kept cool without inside blinds, or sun awnings outside. Many house-keepers make the mistake of excluding sunlight and air from the house in order to keep it cool. Windows and doors should be thrown open early in the morning, so as to freely admit sunshine and light, then they may be closed to exclude the heat in the middle of the day, to be again thrown open in the cool of the evening. Management and method must be exercised in order to keep cool in summer, as in all else pertaining to the family comfort, and will be found to produce good results in even the warmest climates.-Ladies' Home Companion.

WHY WE ARE CALLED YANKEES! Origin of the Nickname Applied to Nerth

Everyone is aware that the word "Yankee" is applied abroad indiscriminately to all citizens of the United States, but it is used generally as a "nickname," and not always in a complimentary spirit. Our Spanish friends just at present are doubtless inclined to apply it in a sneering and derogatory sense, but however it may be used by of reproach or ridicule it has become to the citizens of the United States a verbal badge of honor, and is now synin the total exclusion of air as well as onymous the world over with shrewdlight during the scorching hours of the ness, enterprise, pluck and achievement.

Its origin is uncertain. According one authority "Yankee" is a variation of "yengees," or "yaunghees," "a name said to have been given by the Massachusetts Indians to the English colonists, being, as it is supposed, an Indian employ our time in a thousand and one porruption of the word English or of the French Anglais. Washington Irving, in his history of New York, explains the derivation somewhat differently. The first settlers of New England, he says, came to America "to enjoy, unmolested, the inestimable right of talking. And, in fact, no sooner did they land upon the shore of this freespoken country than they all lifted up their voices and made such a clamor of tongues that we are told they fright-ened every bird and beast out of the neighborhood, and struck such mute terror into certain fish that they have been called dumb fish ever since. for awhile contemplated these strange folk in utter astonishment, but discovering that they wielded harmless though noisy weapons, and were a lively, ingenious, good-humored race of men, they became very friendly and sociable, and gave them the name of Yankoies, which is the Mais-Tchusaeg (or Massachusett) language signifies silent men—a waggish appellation, since shortened into the familiar epithet of "Yankees." It had gained great currency as descriptive of the colonists. in 1755, when Dr. Schuckburgh, British surgeon, is said to have composed the words of "Yankee Doodle" in derision of the colonial militia, but the tune to which it was set is declared to have been popular in England during the Com-monwealth, at which period its doggerel words, it is alleged, also existed and were applied to Cromwell.

Whatever its ancestry and original signification, it has come in the light of history and accomplishment to be a designation of which the people of this country have no reason to be ashamed. They have no objection to being called by a nickname which is associated with The Englishman, Frenchman, German, Russian, Spaniard and the rest will have to content themselves with their nar-row national appellations, except on special occasions of merit, when they show themselves worthy of being decorated with the Yankee cross of honor and being complimented with the title of English, or French, or Spanish Yankees. The suggestion as to the selection of other nickname than "Yankee" may be wise, but it is not practicable. Nobody would ever adopt it here or abroad. Let us be content with the designation as it is. Baltic and Black Sea Works Turning Out

The Russian navy continues to grow apace. A few days ago the Admiral Oushakoff, the first of a new class of vessels, designed especially for coast defense, had her steam trials in the Baltic, maintaining a speed of 15 knots for 12 hours. Although of comparative-ly small displacement, she carries a powerful armament, consisting of four ten-inch breech-loading guns placed in two armored turrets, four 120-mm. cali-ber new pattern quick-firing guns, 24 small-caliber Hotchkiss, and four torpedo-launching tubes. A complete belt of armor and an armor deck from stem to stern protects the vitals of the ship, all machinery, boilers, etc., being placed

At St. Petersburg there is constant activity in naval affairs. The cruiser Rurik, built and engined by the Baltic works, is at anchor in Cronstadt roads, having satisfactorily completed her steam and gun trials. The battle ship Navarin, built and engined in St. Petersburg, is about to make steam trials. The battle ships Poltava, Sevastopol an Petropaulovsk, all built in government dock yards, have their machinery on board, and will be ready for trial next spring. The meeting finally opened with dull tion of the street and sewer committee there will be no sewer built on Front street between Michigan and Ohio because its construction would be too expensive. The same committee recommended that no catch basins or gutters be laid on Washington street between Front and Third this season.

Life was gotten into the meeting when Alderman Pendill announced the fact that the firewardens had seriously objected to the plans of the city for the small house to be built on the hose company lot to shelter the road roller. The building is a small frame structure to be covered with sheet iron. This to the firewardens' mind isn't good con-struction for the main part of the city. Alderman Stafford was on his feet in a warden's commands would be a bad precedent for the city to set. Alderman Tobin was sarcastic.

"Why," he said, "should not the city go ahead and put up the building without asking permission of the firewardens like most other people did, and then nothing would be said about it.

Why get permission at all?"
Stafford hereupon moved that the city ignore the wardens and go ahead. This resolution passed with Desjardins alone dissenting, and the controller was ordered to let the contract according to the original plan. This being decided upon the three bids at hand were opened. It was found that J. J. McNamara was willing to take the work at the lowest figure. His price is $247. He will get the job.

There were two ordinances up for remodelling at the session. One of these pertains to buildings in the fire limits stone, or other fire proof buildings must be erected are extended. They are now Lake to Third and Rock to Ridge. A trifle more power is given the wardens in dictating the plans or locations of buildings, though there is an appeal from their rulings to the council. The remodeled ordinance also requires that all buildings more than one story in height and not used exclusively for dwellings shall be prowided with a scuttle exit to the roof, and a convenient flight of steps leading up to it. The rules were sus-pended and these changes incorporated in the ordinance.

The proposed changes in the ordin-ance regarding the makeup of the police force allows the marshal to appoint deputies and the mayor to appoint policemen each with the approval of the council, but there is no definition of their duties, and a very clear clash of authority between the mayor and
