

The Filling Of Prescriptions

is the most important work of a good drug store. The very lives of a community depend upon the care and integrity of the man who fills its prescriptions. We use only the very best and freshest drugs, and exercise most painstaking care to prevent the possibility of error. Quality not quantity is our first consideration in buying.

BRYAN CAUGHT IN A JAM.

Is Almost Crushed to the Floor in a St. Louis House of Worship.

TERRIFIC CRUSH TO GRASP NOMINEE'S HAND.

He Is Finally Gotten Out of the Edifice With the Assistance of Police—McKinley Spends a Quiet Day After a Busy Week.

CROWD PACKED THE CHURCH.

St. Louis, Sept. 13.—Hon. W. J. Bryan attended services at one of the Presbyterian churches today. The edifice was packed and hundreds were turned away. Nothing remarkable occurred during the services, but at once the benediction was pronounced there was a crush around the pew occupied by the candidate. All seemed determined to grasp his hand. The jam became so violent that in a short while Mr. Bryan was almost crushed to the floor. A sergeant of police was called, and he, aided by Colonel Martin, whose pew he occupied, finally succeeded in getting Mr. Bryan out of the church.

For blocks about the church there was a great multitude of several thousand. Wholly forgetful of the Sabbath, they cheered him lustily. The police pulled him through the crowd from the church door to a carriage at the curb, but men held the horses and for several minutes he sat in the carriage, shaking hands with men and women who struggled to reach him. Bryan took dinner with relatives and spent the afternoon with them. At 9 o'clock this evening he went to his private car. Tomorrow at 6 in the morning he starts on his tour through the south.

SPENT THE DAY QUIETLY.

CANTON, O., Sept. 13.—Major McKinley spent the day quietly, principally at his home. After the busy week just closed and in anticipation of a busier one, opening with tomorrow, the brief respite was much appreciated by those about the McKinley home. Numerous and large as have been the delegations to call on the nominee, there is every indication that the movement is just starting.

BRYAN AT KANSAS CITY.

He Talked to Thousands of Workmen Saturday at the Depot.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 13.—Mr. Bryan arrived here at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and at the depot were gathered early a thousand workmen, who surrounded the car and awoke him immediately. A reception committee had met the train at Leavenworth, but did not wake the nominee. The workmen were from the car shops and the packing houses, and they demanded a speech from Mr. Bryan. From the rear end of the platform he addressed them as follows:

"Fellow Citizens: This is a little earlier than I usually commence my morning work. I am very glad to be able to speak to you, even for a moment.

Some of our opponents tell us that the thing to do is to open the mills instead of the mints. That reminds me of the man who said that his horse would go all right if he could just get the wagon started. It is putting the cart before the horse. What use is there for mills unless people can buy what the mills produce, and how can you start them as long as those who produce, particularly the farmer, are not able to get enough out of what they raise to pay their taxes and interests. There is no more effective way of destroying the markets for what the mills produce than to lower prices upon the products the farmer has raised, so that they will not bring him enough to pay him for raising them.

"There was a report once filed by Mr. McKinley, in 1890, along with the McKinley bill, and that report declared that there was great industrial depression, and that while there was depression in agriculture there could be no prosperity anywhere. This was true, and it is true today that while there is depression in agricultural products there can be no prosperity anywhere. You must commence to the bottom and work up. You cannot commence your prosperity at the top and expect it to work down through all the classes of society.

"My friends, there is one characteristic about this campaign and that is the intense earnestness of the people. Sometimes in a campaign you find men lukewarm, people who do not know whether they are going to the polls or not, and sometimes you find it necessary to get carriages to take the people to the polls. Unless all signs fail, the people are going to be at the polling places before the booths open, and stay there until they close and there will not be a man who can get to the polls, but who will be sure to be there. What does it mean? It means that the poor are taking an interest in the election. They are beginning to understand the value of the ballot as the means by which they can redress their wrongs. Sometimes people have complained that the laws were bad and have allowed them to remain bad. They have complained that they ought to be better and have done nothing to make them better. If the laws are bad, they themselves are to blame and if they wish good laws they must secure them themselves."

AND THE INSURGENTS, TOO!

An Eye-Witness Tells of Atrocities by the Cubans.

OMAHA, Sept. 13.—Arthur McPherson, a native of Scotland, has returned to Omaha, having spent two years among the Cubans. He was sent to Cuba to put up machinery by a Glasgow iron firm and was taken prisoner by the insurgents. He and his companions were charged with being Spanish spies. Not one in the party could speak a word of Spanish, and they were given a sort of court martial and given the option of death or serving in the Cuban army. They could do nothing but accept the situation. For the next eighteen months McPherson saw much life among the Cubans.

"They say that every once in a while Spaniards take out a batch of insurgent prisoners and shoot them down in their tracks."

"This is undoubtedly true," said Mr. McPherson. "But I witnessed deeds of cruelty on the part of insurgents that fully equalled that. I have seen them frequently turn over women, particularly young girls, found in houses raided to negro soldiers in the army who were allowed to do with them as they pleased. The whole island is wrecked and ruined. There are no plantations and no ranches. Everything has been destroyed."

Mr. McPherson and his companions eventually escaped by seizing a naphtha launch which had landed some Spanish officers from a warship, and were picked up and landed in Mexico. "The Cubans will win," continued Mr. McPherson. "The Spaniards have no revenue to carry on war. The armies must carry everything with them on expeditions. There are no provisions to be obtained in the interior."

HONORED BY HIS COUNTRYMEN.

Chinese Residents of Vancouver Accord Earl Li a Joyous Welcome.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 13.—At 11 o'clock this morning Li Hung arrived in Vancouver. Crowds lined the approach to the depot and wharf and masses of people crowded all the eminences around the harbor. The Chinese residents had erected a very handsome and artistic arch on the bridge leading to the wharf, and a long line of Chinamen in rich robes stood in line before the wharf waiting to receive the great viceroy. The bridge was carpeted on either side of the arch. A Chinese band played Chinese music as Earl Li alighted from the train. A carriage drawn by four white horses and draped with the Union Jack was in waiting to convey him the short distance from the train to the steamer.

The viceroy seemed delighted with the demonstration in his honor, and especially with the homage of his countrymen, who fell on their knees and raised their clasped hands to him as he passed. The grandstand of the empress of China was carpeted as for royalty. As he was carried up the plank in a scarlet chair, the Chinese dragon flag was run to the mainmast and a salute of nine guns fired. The absence of cheering was noticeable and gave an oriental solemnity to the proceedings. All the ships in the harbor were gaily decorated.

For this one day the usual social order was subverted and Chinamen everywhere took precedence over their white brethren in the good-natured throngs that lined the wharf. The Empress of China sails Monday, and Li Hung Chang will spend the intervening time aboard, receiving deputations.

TYNAN ARRESTED AT PARIS.

Mysterious "Number One" in the Cavendish Murder at Dublin.

BOULOGNE, Sept. 13.—Tynan, the notorious "Number One," has been arrested here on a Scotland Yard warrant issued in 1882. Tynan arrived in Europe, landing in Genoa in August, and proceeded to Paris, where he remained some days consorting with a number of members of the dynamite faction of the Irish party. His movements have been watched. This morning his room at the hotel was raided and Tynan secured. He admitted his identity. Incriminating papers and a large sum of money were found in his possession. The prisoner was lodged in the police station and will be arraigned in the morning with a view to extradition to England. The warrant on which the arrest was made charges that the prisoner was concerned in the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish, chief secretary for Ireland, and Burke, under secretary, in Phoenix park, Dublin, May 6, 1882, and with the manufacture of dynamite bonds for use in England.

BATTLE MAY COME SOON.

Egyptian and Dervishes Concentrating Their Forces Near Kerma.

CAIRO, Sept. 13.—Word has been received from the front that the Egyptian troops with the Nile expedition have concentrated at Fereig, twenty-three miles from the dervish outpost Kerma, where the dervishes have been concentrating reinforcements of cavalry as though with the intention of making a stand against the British advance.

Found Dead in Their Cabin.

VICTOR, Colo., Sept. 13.—Charles McGovern, Charles O. Toole and George Stevens were found dead this afternoon in a cabin. The men, with Harry Doyle and John McDermott, had been occupying the cabin for some time and all had been drinking heavily. The two latter have been arrested on suspicion of poisoning their companions.

The Child Was a Wonder.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 13.—The infant son of C. T. Tilson of Athens died today from cholera morbus. The child was a prodigy. Though but fifteen months old, it was three feet high, weighed fifty-seven pounds and was able to talk.

BRITISH GUNS MAY BOOM.

A Fleet of Fifteen Vessels Now Within Striking Range of Constantinople.

HEAD OF TURKISH GOVERNMENT MAY BE DEPOSED.

A Crisis of Great Gravity at Hand and Actual Intervention Seems the Only Solution of the Problem—Internal Dissensions.

J. BULL READY TO ACT ALONE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 13.—[Via Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 13.]—A feeling of the greatest anxiety prevails in all circles here. There is no doubt that a crisis of extreme gravity has been reached and that the powers are discussing the deposition of the sultan, that being, apparently, the only means of restoring quiet and confidence within the Turkish empire. A British fleet of about fifteen warships is now at anchor in Kavala bay, northwest of the island of Thasos, off the coast of Salonica, and within easy striking distance should an emergency arise, and it is believed that Great Britain will not hesitate to act alone in the matter of putting an end to the present disgraceful state of affairs if the other powers delay action too long.

EXTRAORDINARY TRIBUNAL A FARSE.

But the Turk himself offers no signs of appreciation of the fate impending over him in the limit that has apparently been reached in the patience of European powers with the process of extermination of the Armenians that has been steadily and relentlessly pursued by the Turks. There is no diminution in the rancor displayed by the Mussulmans towards Armenians and no sign of relinquishment by the Turks of the contention that the Armenians are determined revolutionists and agitators against the sovereignty of the sultan and as such invite the stringent repressive measures that have been used against them.

As almost generally expected the extraordinary tribunal which has been trying the men accused of massacring Armenians in the streets of this city and its suburbs has proved to be nothing more than a whitewashing court. Men who were arrested for brutally killing two Armenians before the guardhouse of the British embassy and in full view of several British officials have been acquitted. As there was no possible doubt of their guilt, there acquittal is regarded here as showing that it is useless to expect that Mussulmans will be punished for crimes committed against Armenians.

FOREIGN POPULATION INDIGNANT.

This has aroused the greatest indignation among the foreign population here and has served to greatly increase the feeling of uneasiness which prevails on all sides. The Europeans feel that the action of the extraordinary tribunal in acquitting the murderers whose guilt was so fully proven shows that the peaceable residents of Constantinople are absolutely without any guarantee that their lives or property are safe and that they must henceforth depend almost entirely upon the warships of the powers for protection. Such a condition, it is admitted, cannot last for any length of time, as business is at a standstill to all intents and purposes and the impoverished condition of the Turkish treasury is adding daily to the discontent prevailing not only in the army and navy, but in Turkish official circles generally.

The evidence against many of the Turks arrested on charges of complicity was deemed by foreign residents as conclusive, and the failure to hold them adds to the conviction that the porte has no intention of complying with the demand of the powers that the culprits be brought to punishment. In view of this failure to punish the authors of the outfares upon the Armenians the state of terrorism among the Armenians continues unabated and the exodus of these destitute people goes on with no diminution.

Many more officers have been arrested for claiming their pay and for resigning their commissions when informed that there was no money for them. If this be the situation among the officers it may be judged that the common soldiery are feeling still more irritated. But there is plenty of money and provisions for the strong bodyguard of the sultan and for the troops which constantly surround the palace and it is believed that this display of force alone saves the sultan from witnessing a demonstration which would surely open his eyes to the disgraceful state of affairs existing.

THE DEMAND OF THE POWERS.

The full text of the note which the representatives of the powers sent to the sultan on Aug. 31 has only just been communicated to the press. It is a decidedly strong document and says that their remonstrance is based on positive data. It adds that the savage bands which murderously attacked the Armenians and pillaged their houses were not accidental gatherings of fanatical people, but there is every indication of their special organization and that it was known to have been directed by the authorities. The note of the powers, then under seven specific clauses, gives evidence in support of their allegations and then concludes with a demand that the instigators and IRA WHITNEY'S SUICIDE. Temporary Insanity Thought to Have Been the Cause.

The news of the suicide of Ira G. Whitney of Green Bay, traveling salesman for the Smith Wallace Boot & Shoe company of Chicago, at Houghton Friday afternoon was a shock to the business community of the county.

It is safe to say that no traveling man was better known or more highly respected in the copper country than Ira G. Whitney, and it is a noticeable fact that expressions of regret at his death came mostly from pioneer businessmen.

For the Fire Sufferers. The ball given Friday evening at the opera house, under auspices of the various fraternal organizations of Houghton for the benefit of the Ontonagon fire sufferers, was a huge success in every respect.

Boiling River. It is sure enough. It is not as large as the Mississippi, indeed it is quite small, but a mighty interesting stream for all that.

The docks of the Lake Superior Smelting company at Dollar Bay are undergoing extensive repairs.

A Republican caucus to elect delegates to the county convention will be held at Chassel Thursday evening.

About forty men are at present employed in stripping at the Portage Entry quarry, preparatory to next year's work.

The Houghton band gave an enjoyable concert at the Douglas House band stand Saturday evening. The boys wore their new uniforms.

The Entry school has opened with 108 pupils and the following teachers: Principal, C. B. Tanner; intermediate, Minnie Robinson; primary, Lillie Owens.

The barn and warehouse of the Val Blatz Brewing company at Calumet were badly gutted by fire Friday afternoon and two horses perished in the flames. Loss, $700; fully insured.

John Slack, an agent selling clocks, macintoshes, etc., was brought before Justice Curtis at Calumet Saturday, charged with breaking a window in E. Ryan's store. He was found guilty and sentenced to a fine of $10 and costs.

A Prohibition club was formed Friday evening at Calumet, with the following officers: President, Christ Tucker; first vice president, Isaac Walman; second vice president and secretary, Joseph Heaton; treasurer, H. Winsjansen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan of Calumet left Saturday for Pittsburg. Mr. Duncan goes to attend a meeting of Thirty-third degree Masons, and this degree will be conferred upon him during the session. At present there are no Thirty-third degree Masons in the county.

Republican primaries to choose delegates to the township caucus will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 at Calumet. The township caucus will be held at the school hall Wednesday evening and will elect twenty-four delegates to the county convention, which meets at Hancock Friday afternoon.

Dewitt, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffenbecker of Hancock, died Saturday afternoon of heart trouble. The little fellow had been confined to his bed since July. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the community in their affliction. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the M. E. church.

Isaac Harris brought suit against Otto Parkinen in Justice Curtis' court Friday afternoon for $25, alleged to be the amount of damage sustained to his buggy by Parkinen running a heavy wagon into it. The case was tried before a jury. W. J. McDonald appearing for the plaintiff and Larson & LeGendre for the defendant. "No cause for action" was the verdict rendered.

C. P. Lutz of Wittenberg, Wis., will be in the copper country in a few days in the interest of the orphan asylum at that place, of which he is manager. Next Sunday morning he will deliver an address at Calumet on the objects and merits of the institution and also receive subscriptions for its maintenance. Mr. Lutz will deliver a similar address at Grover in the afternoon and at the Lutheran church at Hancock in the evening.

GOT EVEN WITH THE BOY. How the Bookkeeper Got His Revenge on the Slangy Messenger.

This is the story of a crusty bookkeeper and a bad, bad messenger boy. The bookkeeper is employed in a large Chestnut street house. The messenger boy is a part of the mighty service of the Western Union Telegraph company, says the Philadelphia Record. The boy crawled into the office where the bookkeeper sat at his desk early yesterday morning and asked for Mr. C—, the head of the firm.

"Got a message?" "No," said the boy; "a man asked me to come here and see if he was in."

"Well, he's out," snapped the bookkeeper. "I'll wait," said the boy.

"What for?" inquired the other. "Cat fur," retorted the boy, quickly. The bookkeeper looked back for a minute, then he said: "All right, wait, and went on with his work. The boy sat down and began to whistle 'Paradise Alley.' He fidgeted around and sang a bit just to tease the bookkeeper. The latter paid no attention to him. The boy grew weary after an hour or so, and finally he asked:

"Say, when's de main guy o' dis place comin' back?" "Don't know," said the bookkeeper, without looking up.

"Where's he at?" asked the boy. "In Europe," said the other. Then the bad boy used language that thoroughly proved his badness and made it necessary for the porter to eject him.

WHY HE FELT PROUD. Self-Satisfied with His Improvement Billy Shakespeare.

He is the young man who writes the newspaper advertisements for a large mercantile firm, says the Detroit Free Press. He writes them well, too, and enjoys life as is the privilege of a man who has successfully applied himself to his business. Among a number of friends with whom he was talking was one whose long acquaintance makes it possible for him to say things which would be resented from other persons.

"It seems to me," remarked the friend, "that you are a lucky person."

"Well," was the reply, "that is what the envious always say of men who make a success of literature. I have no doubt that remark has been made of nearly every man who has worked hard and finally prospered."

"You seem to take a rather serious view of your calling."

"I have to. It means shoes and neckties and house rent and three meals a day and lots of other little things that make life pleasant."

"Still, I don't think it is very much to be proud of."

"Perhaps not. I struggle with my self-esteem every now and then."

"Well, this period of civilization has certainly produced strange demands."

"That's it. There's the keynote of the whole situation. When I reflect that I am making a good living in an era when Shakespeare or Bryan would probably walk the streets in vain looking for a job, I tell you I can't help getting a little bit proud, and I might just as well own up to it."

Fallacy of Food Tables. Tables giving the respective percentage of nutriment in animal and vegetable foods are quite common and are often consulted by those wishing to gain nutriment from the smallest quantity of food matter. Such persons forget that the measure of nutriment to any individual case is not to be judged by a table showing the nutritive parts of food as determined by chemical analysis, but depends upon its digestibility in his or her particular case. Cheese, measured by the elements of its composition, is far more nourishing than beef, yet cheese is to most people difficult of digestion, and therefore beef in the majority of cases affords much more actual nourishment. All depends on the person. Many times food that is practically poison to one is nourishing and invigorating to another. We are not only fearfully and wonderfully made, but we are made so unlike in many respects that we must not take it for granted that another man's diet will suit us till we have tested it well.—What to Eat.

MIDLAKE AND HARBOR GOSSIP.

The Niipigon put in yesterday from Chassel, with 700,000 feet of lumber, to tow out the Coffinberry, ore laden.

The Chris Grover left port yesterday with a load of lumber for Munising. She took on her load at the old Burtis dock. The Delaware went out Sunday with 600,000 feet.

Port list: Arrived Saturday-John Martin, Australasia, Northwest, Tasmania, H. D. Coffinberry, Cleared-Australasia, Northwest, Cleveland; John Martin, South Chicago; H. D. Coffinberry, Buffalo.

Sunday the Robert Wallace got a line caught in her wheel and drifted on the Presque Isle reef. She was going slowly at the time and was fortunate in receiving no hurt. The tug Gillen got her off after a hard pull. Saturday the Robert Wallace, partly loaded, made an unsuccessful attempt to tow the David Wallace to the lower harbor for shelter. Wind and seas were against her, and she couldn't pull her tow away from the dock. The Gillen towed her down to shelter.

Sir W. G. Armstrong & Co., leading British ship builders, are now employing about 19,000 men and boys. About $7,500,000 was paid in wages by this firm during the past year. There are 1,300 guns in course of manufacture at its works and fourteen big warships, to say nothing of orders or merchant vessels. The war ships range from 2,000 to 12,000 tons and include one armor-clad battleship, four first-class armored cruisers, six fast protected cruisers, two armor-clads and one third-class cruiser.

"As I was going into Ashtabula with the Coralia, the other day, carrying a cargo of 5,000 net tons," said Captain Wm. Cumming, "I thought of the first vessel in which I ever entered that port. It was along in the sixties, and although she carried but about 250 tons, she was looked upon as a big vessel in her day. The Coralia's cargo was about equal to twenty-five of the kind that that little vessel would carry. Still, we had a crew of nine or ten aboard. I was one of five men before the mast and there was a captain, two mates and a cook."

CITY BREVITIES.

Yesterday's temperature: 7 a. m., 51 degrees; 12 m., 58 degrees; 7 p. m., 62 degrees; maximum, 64 degrees; minimum, 50 degrees.

H. E. Pease of Rock River was in the city Sunday.

Special service was held at the prison Sunday by the Y's.

William Coach, of Baraga, stopped over in the city Sunday on his way to Chicago.

John Ready of Duluth was in the city on business and left for home Saturday night.

Walt McDonald, proprietor of the Hotel Dwyer, Trout Creek, was in town Saturday.

Joseph Guy, superintendent of the Munising railway, came up from the new town to spend Sunday.

Mrs. J. M. Potter, who has been visiting Mrs. John Helmer the last few days left Sunday for her home in Bay City.

J. H. Lewis and F. H. Gooding went with a party Sunday on a week's fishing trip. They are twenty miles in the woods from Westmore.

Judge Chabourne of Houghton, being east, cannot appear before the McKinley and Hobart club the fore part of the week as was expected.

Hotel Superior is still open for guests and Manager Evans says it will not shut its doors for a month yet. He will quite likely spend the winter in Marquette.

The Ideals defeated the West Ends Sunday with a score of 14 to 8. Kellan and Jellison comprised the battery for the West Ends and Derre and Winkler were in the points for the Ideals.

Walter Ward, Charles Beaudry and John Mason returned Saturday from a hunting trip in the wilds of Canada. Beaudry is weather beaten and the other two have become thin by exposure.

Mrs. J. P. Outhwaite and the Misses Outhwaite of Ishpeming were among those who came down to take advantage of the excursion to Pictured Rocks. They stopped in town Saturday night and returned home Sunday.

Fifteen ladies from Republic camp No. 210 came down Saturday to pay a visit to Oakleaf camp No. 201. Dinner and lunch were served to the visitors, and they were taken for a trolley ride. The trip was the entire length of the line from Presque Isle to Hotel Superior.

Beginning today the new time table goes into effect on the South Shore. There are three changes in the passenger times. The train leaving here for the Sault daily at 4:30 now leaves at 3:45 a. m. The train arriving here in the forenoon via Republic and Neegaunee gets in at 11 instead of 10:50. The train from the Gogebic Range and the Copper Country will get in at 6:40 instead of 6:35.

MRS. BILLINGS' MAID.

After Her Last Day-Got She May Have Fewer Holidays.

Mrs. Billings-let us say the North side-has ordered her maid for the customary afternoon drive. Janet, her own-trusty-maid, had gone for her "afternoon out," for it was the fatal Thursday belonging to the old-fashioned regime of the Chicago household.

Mrs. Billings was too settled in her ways to dismiss the old servants, who clung like barnacles to this weekly holiday and substitute end-of-the-century domestics, who had their good time in the basement.

Looking lakeward, Mrs. Billings saw white caps, which meant that a veil would be needed with her new masterpiece in hats, not a month over from Paris. It is not a wise woman who puts on her veil first, but Mrs. Billings adjusted hers with elaborate care and descended the stairs, without even a parting glance at her mirror, because she knew she looked well.

Her coachman sat like a sphinx on the box and very properly did nothing more on receiving orders than to say: "Yes, madam," and make the salute of his profession. The carriage toiled down the avenue. Mrs. Billings was in a fine frame of mind and issued a series of bows in which there was everything from the "I believe we have met before" inclination to the "I am glad to see you" recognition.

Then she saw speeding toward her on a bicycle Mr. Algernon Billings, who was escorting a charming Cincinnati belle. As was most unusual, Mr. Algernon affected not to see his own mother, certainly out in a great deal of glory, judging from the attention of the people on the walks and the smiles of acquaintances.

Presently Hawkins, the coachman, turned into a business street as directed and drew up with a flourish in front of the great house of Billings. Indeed, there was Mr. Billings just returning from a late luncheon. Mrs. Billings smiled and waved and smiled at her consort until he reached the carriage and faintly ejaculated: "Great Scott, Maria, did you know you had forgotten your bonnet?"-Chicago Tribune.

CARE OF THE EARS.

Some Things That Should Not Be Done.

Never wear cotton in the ears if they are discharging pus. Never put anything into the ear for the relief of toothache.

Never attempt to apply a poultice to the inside of the canal of the ear. Never drop anything into the ear until it has been previously warmed.

Never use anything but a syringe and warm water for clearing the ears of pus. Never strike ner box a child's ears; this has been known to rupture the drumhead and cause incurable deafness.

Never wet the hair if you have any tendency to deafness; wear an oiled silk cap when bathing and refrain from diving.

Never scratch the ears with anything but the finger if they itch. Do not use the head of a pin, hairpins, pencil tips or anything of that nature.

Never let the feet become cold and damp, nor sit with the back toward the window, as these things tend to aggravate any existing hardness of hearing.

Never put milk, fat nor any oily substance into the ear for the relief of pain, for they soon become rancid and tend to excite inflammation. Simple warm water will answer the purpose better than anything else.

Never be alarmed if a living insect enters the ear. Pouring warm water into the canal will drown it, when it will generally come to the surface and can be easily removed with the fingers. A few puffs of tobacco smoke blown into the ear will stupefy the insect.

Never meddle with the ear if a foreign body, such as a bead, button or seed enters it. Leave it absolutely alone until a physician can attend to it. More damage has been done by the injudicious attempts at the extraction of a foreign body than could ever come from its presence in the ear.-Chicago Chronicle.

Male and Female Oaks.

Mr. Knight, the eminent English botanist, has made some curious and interesting investigations on the production of flowers of different sex in the various species of the oak tree. He shows that as a rule that species of tree bears the male and female flowers on separate individuals, but that these different individuals may be made to produce flowers of either sex at will. In forcing the female oak to produce male flowers, and vice versa, Mr. Knight employed light and heat, regulating the supply of both to suit himself and according to the end in view. This remarkable series of experiments proved that, if the heat was excessive as compared with the light, male flowers only appeared. On the other hand, if the light was excessive and the temperature comparatively low, nothing but female flowers were produced. In other species of trees which bear the male and female flowers on separate individuals the experiments of the botanist were not so conclusive as in the case of the oaks. However, it is believed that these investigations will finally lead to the conclusion that in the majority of trees and plants the cultivator will be able to produce sexes at will.-Chicago Inter Ocean.

MUST OBEY HIS OWN LAW.

Why the Bartender Refused to Sell His Boss a Drink.

Because a man makes a law he may not always break it with impunity. Hiram Clayton, who keeps the Branchtown hotel and is quite a well-known character, made a rule some time ago for the government of his barroom, says the Philadelphia Record. He decided that when a man went to sleep in his barroom that was sufficient evidence that the man had had enough to drink. Upon awaking, therefore, the sleepy one was promptly refused any more liquor. The rule was rigidly enforced both by Clayton himself and by his brother-in-law, who acts as bartender. One day recently, however, the rule proved to be a boomerang. Clayton was sitting in his barroom. It was a very warm afternoon and the host gradually dozed off into a sound sleep. Some time later a customer came in. He wore heavy boots and the noise of his entrance awakened Clayton. The latter sat up and rubbed his eyes. "Come an' have somethin', Hi," said the customer. Clayton stood up against the bar and sleepily called for a beer. "Sorry," said the bartender, "but you can't have any drink."

"What!" yelled Clayton, who was now thoroughly awake. "It's against the rules; you're been asleep," said the bartender, seriously. He stuck to it, and his boss, realizing the justice of it was obliged to give in. The rule has since been abolished.

KIPLING'S LITTLE JOKE.

How He Gave Out a Pol'cy for the Australians.

Rudyard Kipling is usually represented as being very cold and distant to young newspaper men, and proof against their efforts to interview him. There is evidently a kind side to his nature, however, as is shown by a story that is told by the Literary Digest. In regard to the statement in an Australian paper that he landed on that island at 12 o'clock and 16 minutes later, "had formulated an Australian policy," Mr. Kipling, according to the Digest, makes the following explanation: "A young reporter cornered me just after I landed. I treated him kindly, but said firmly that I was not to be interviewed. 'I have not thought of interviewing you,' replied the reporter, with a sadness in his voice. 'I ask a much greater favor than that.' It turned out that the reporter had an Australian policy which he knew would be of the greatest benefit to the country. No paper would print it. His modest request was that Kipling would let him put forth his theory, as the scheme of the novelist. 'They will print it,' he said, 'if I give it as coming from you.' 'All right,' agreed Kipling, 'fire ahead.' So the young reporter got in four mortal columns telling the people of Australia how to govern their country. 'I never read the article,' Mr. Kipling placidly says, 'but there must have been amazing theories in it from the storm it raised.'"

Canada's New Men.

Peter Brossolt, of Belle River, Can., distinguishing himself some time ago by carrying off prizes at the county fair for embroidery, crochet, beadwork, etc., and the papers published paragraphs on "Canada's New Men." He is a rival in a town in Ontario. In preference to playing marbles, shiny, or other boyish sports, a youth of that town used to sit with girls and surpass them in the use of the needle. One day he appeared with a pill box in hand, and exclaimed: "I've made the most delightful little pillow sham." He brought forth a miniature piece of work exquisitely finished. He not only did plain sewing and fancy work, but tried his hand at the family millinery. His fine embroideries were noticeable at fairs, and wedding presents to his girl friends were the work of his fingers. He is now interested in decorative art and earns his bread by embroidering and hanging portieres, lambrequins and other interior decorations.

HOW FISH ARE SUFFOCATED.

They Need a Great Supply of Air to Sustain Life.

Fish breathe air dissolved in water, and the oxygen which they thus receive is as necessary to their life as the oxygen of the air is to ours; hence, if deprived of it they die exactly as land animals would do-of suffocation. This may be proved in a variety of ways. Fish will not live in distilled water, or water that has been boiled, because it contains little or no oxygen. They will die if left too long in a tank without change of water, because they have used up all the oxygen and can no longer breathe. This is why fish are seen in badly-kept aquaria to come to the surface in search of air. If air be pumped through the water, they will assume their usual position. Some fish need additional air, and have a modified form of lung. These will die if prevented from coming to the surface of the water. Vast quantities of herrings die of suffocation consequent on crowding when the swarm meets the net. The same thing happens when the water in which they live is closely frozen over for a long time, as it is in the arctic regions. The same fact may be illustrated in a different way by passing nitrous oxide, or laughing gas, into a bowl containing fish, not from poisoning, but from suffocation.

FASHION AND FANCY. Odd Items of Dress That Are Now of Moment.

The coming woman and the coming sleeve are going to have a lively tug of war, but the new woman, as against the new sleeve, doesn't stand a ghost of a chance, for the sleeve is bound to win.

One of the newest developments is an almost skin-tight sleeve, with a very full ruffle sewed in at the seam on the back of the arm. From the elbow to the shoulder the sleeve is split and another ruffle sewed in. This gives a wing-like effect, and might be tolerated if it were at all comfortable, but those who have tried it say that it drags and pulls over the arm and shoulder, and is by no means easy and pleasant to wear.

A stylish sleeve for a dressy occasion is of velvet. It is moderately close-fitting, and the entire top is covered with full, lace ruffles, also ruffles to match at the wrists.

A very nice way to make a pretty, new garment out of an old one, or for remodeling, is by the use of sleeves that were discarded when they were too small. The wise woman took out the sleeves from her dresses and laid them carefully away where neither moth nor rust could get at them. They are now brought out, and are precisely what she wants for reconstructing her autumn dresses.

There is a fancy for contrasts in the make-up of skirts, and it is not unusual to see imported models with the side seams open and a panel of brocaded material or lace set in. In some instances the contrasting fabric is merely set on the outside. This has advantages, because it can be removed without taking the dress apart in case an accident happens to it or one wears of it. Such pronounced styles are much more manageable when the garment is put together in such a way that change can be made without too much undoing.

The corselet and sash are coming back again, and when artistically made no accessory is more stylish and becoming. A Paris caprice is a corselet of pink velvet embroidered in silver. It is pointed at the top and bottom, curves in at the waist-line, fitting the figure perfectly, and from the lower edge at the back there are long ends of ribbon in pink and silver brocade. Another model is of black velvet; the corselet and sash are edged with narrow black Chantilly lace. There is, by the way, quite a fancy for narrow black Chantilly, and every woman who has any of this lace on hand considers herself quite fortunate.

There are women who never allow anything to go to waste. One of these has just made a dress trimming out of a partly worn Spanish lace flounce. A piece of gray lace was stretched over a frame, then the Spanish lace was basted over it as nearly in the original shape as possible, and then the figures were wrought down with a crochet needle, covering the edges completely. The old net was cut away, and the result is a flounce in gray and black that is the admiration of a large circle of fashionable friends, most of whom have not the slightest idea of how this pretty trimming came to be, and are sending to all the stylish shops for something of the same sort.

One of the prettiest and quaintest dresses of the season has been made of heavy white net lace. The skirt is in five deep tucks, and the waist is shirred full at the waist-line, front and back, and in plaits over the shoulders. The sleeves are in deep tucks from shoulders to elbows and very full; a fringe of lace edging below the elbows forms the finish, and there is a collarette of edging with ribbons.

It is quite possible to match these heavy nets with a sort of woven white lace that is extremely durable as well as stylish. This dress was worn over a silk slip, and was voted a great success. —N. Y. Ledger.

Summer Salad. Tender, crisp button radishes are excellent mixed with other green vegetables for a summer salad. Slice them very thin, and stand in ice water from 20 minutes to half an hour. Serve with a French dressing sprinkled over crisp tender lettuce, or with cresses, or chop fine and mix with chopped cucumbers. A fine flavor is given to such a salad by using lemon juice instead of vinegar for your dressing. A little onion juice and paprika adds to the piquancy of the dressing. —N. Y. Post.

Ishpeming and Vicinity.

MCKINLEY-HOBART CLUB. One Organized With a Membership of 232 Saturday Night.

About two hundred and fifty Republican voters of Ishpeming met Saturday evening in the Red Men's hall, Heineman block, and organized a club to be known as the Ishpeming McKinley and Hobart club. William Prin was made temporary chairman. A committee on permanent organization, consisting of George A. Newett, George Tucker, Michael Ready, Jabez Trebilcock, George B. Sedgwick and A. E. Doty was named.

While the committee was preparing its report William Peters, candidate for representative in the state legislature from this district, was called on for a speech. He responded and gave a half-hour talk, principally on the financial question. He alluded briefly to the tariff, but said he would defer discussing that question until some future time.

At the conclusion of Mr. Peters' discourse the committee on organization submitted its report. It was that William Prin be made president; Michael Ready, first vice president; C. T. Kruse second; Leonard Sundblad third; Nels Mahanna fourth and Harry Routhier fifth. Nelson J. Robbins was recommended for secretary and Fred Braastad for treasurer of the club. The report was unanimously adopted.

An executive committee was then named. It is made up of George Tucker, George A. Newett, James Trebilcock, H. O. Young, Thomas Walters, W. H. Johnson and W. H. Rood. A finance committee, composed of C. H. Hall, George Hillam, Manville Jenks, A. J. Yungbluth, Charles T. Fairbairn, Jabez Trebilcock, R. P. Bronson and P. E. Haines, was adopted.

Committees of three to work up interest in the objects of the club in the several wards were named as follows: First ward—Manville Jenks, Nels Mahanna and N. J. Robbins. Second ward—W. H. Johnson, James Trebilcock and John Miners, Jr. Third ward—J. Simcox, J. F. Grip and George A. Newett. Fourth ward—Michael Ready, W. Wivell and A. Cox. Fifth ward—W. Hodgson, R. P. Bronson and Robert Triggerson. Sixth ward—E. D. Dady, Henry Routhier and John T. Verran. Seventh ward—W. H. Downing, W. E. Sterling and J. Stevens. Eighth ward—George Hoslam, Fred J. Egan and A. E. Doty. Ninth ward—W. T. Potter, George B. Sedgwick and A. Kernew. Tenth ward—James H. Tawrey, J. Martin and T. Gaboury.

A committee on entertainment, consisting of George Tucker, W. H. Johnson and J. Bennetts, was chosen. Mr. Richards was instructed to procure to procure a hall for meetings of the club to be held regularly from now until after election.

The secretary was instructed to ascertain the cost of suitable hats for the members, to be worn every time the club had a turnout. Messrs. Prin and Stevens were called on to sing and Tucker, Haslam and others gave short talks. Mr. Haslam predicted that the membership of the club would be increased to from 1,000 to 1,500 before the close of the campaign. Nearly every man present signed the membership roll. The number of the names secured was 232. Among these were several gold standard Democrats who were invited to fall in line with the Republicans.

The meeting adjourned with cheers for McKinley, Hobart and the Ishpeming Republican club. A MYSTERIOUS BLAZE. Incendiary Attempt to Burn the House in Which Eva Lafreniere Was Murdered. At 2:15 o'clock yesterday morning one of the night police officers observed smoke escaping from the rear window of the attic in the Voelker frame building on Main street. He climbed up on the roof and saw that there was a fire in the garret. An alarm was immediately turned in and No. 1 hose and book and ladder companies responded. The blaze burned slowly, as it was in a place where there was but little draft to force it along. The attic was not entered. Two streams of water were turned on and the fire was soon put out. The damage to the building is not very great, as the fire did not break through the roof. There was no one living in the rooms on the second floor and, but one of the two store rooms on the first floor is occupied. The fire was doubtless of incendiary origin, as there were no stoves or lamps burning in any portion of the building. It was in this garret where the body of little Eva Lafreniere, the five-year-old child who was murdered a year ago the 24th of last June, was found. The mystery as to the origin of SAID BY A GAS COLLECTOR. He Tells Why Bills Are Larger Some Months Than Others.

There are gas collectors and gas collectors. Some enter your premises like a raging lion and some like a sucking dove. Some look as if they had just come from the "works," and are strongly redolent of gas tar, and others cultivate a dudish elegance which would be funny if it were not semi-pitiful.

Of the many gas collectors I know the most charming is a handsome old man with a ruddy face, snow white mustache, somewhat gouty feet, and a smile which positively illuminates the room he enters. I do not know his name or anything about him, but I know he has seen much of life and has forgotten very little of the many things he has learned.

In speaking of his calling he said: "There is much more in gas bills than you might believe. After you have been on a certain route for a long time every gas bill is a little book in itself. If you take a house where a family lives in decent style you know just about how much gas they are going to burn for reading and entertaining. If the bill runs over this figure you know that they are lavish in their hospitality, that they live well, that they are generous and good-natured.

"Their servant girls stay with them a long time and generally become fat and rosy. They themselves increase in weight and there is very little danger of their moving away in a hurry. So, on the other hand, when a bill runs below what it ought to be you know that in that family sorrow sits on the hearthstone and hunger occupies the cupboard. The servant girls are always thin and change regularly every two or three months. The woman of the house is thin in the face and form, and the man has usually a sad and somewhat henpecked appearance.

"Where the newsboy throws in more than three or four papers a day and the gas bills are high it is safe to bet that the family are rather literary in their tastes, and that at least one of them uses spectacles. "Where the papers are numerous and the bills very low the head of the house is generally a noisy reform politician, who denounces everybody as a 'rascal' until he himself gets into office, and then the bills go up and the papers go down.

"When it comes to professions, the very busy, do not run large gas bills. The doctor, the lawyer and the newspaper man, who work very hard in their office or in the open, are usually so tired that they go to bed as soon as they can. Their wives seldom sit up for them after the first year of married life has gone by. The gas is therefore turned down, and the bills become discouragingly small to the company. Young doctors who give dinner parties, young lawyers who cultivate whist, general newspaper men who like poker, are the gentlemen who, when I hand them bills, invariably remark: 'I can't understand why my gas bill should be so large.'

"I understand perfectly, but I say nothing. "Courtship is a good thing to save gas bills. Young women engaged or about to be engaged usually mean a reduction in gas bills of two dollars a month. Cross children, on the other hand, generally raise gas bills a dollar a month. Bicycling has injured the gas trade terribly. First, the husband goes out upon a wheel; then the wife follows his example. The gas is turned down, and when they come back they are usually so tired from the long spin that they have no desire to sit up and burn the midnight oil.

"People who are always experimenting with economical burners are very good customers. They have different styles of tips in different rooms, and tuck to themselves in saving a half foot an hour upon one burner while four others are burning two feet extra from increased pressure.

"I know one old lady who buys every economizer and gas-saver that comes into the market, and I know that her gas bills are much larger than they would have been if she had bought nothing, and that she would have saved the $250 or $300 she has thrown away upon catchpenny devices." —N. Y. Mail and Express.

Antiquity of Burnt Wood Decoration. It would be impossible to state positively when this art was first practiced. Burnt panels have been found in various parts of Europe, set into ancient furniture, chimney-pieces and wainscoting. In the museums of Europe there are marriage-chests, coffers and panels, dating from the fifteenth century or thereabouts, upon which a species of low-relief woodwork, not unlike the so-called "fret-saw" work of today, has been applied or chiseled out, the flat surface being richly ornamented with fine traceries unmistakably burned with heated points. Some years ago a New York artist, while wandering through the seashore villages of Wales, found in a peasant's hut a rare panel of burnt woodwork of the Italian renaissance (about the fifteenth century). The fisherman had found it on the beach, where it had drifted from some wreck. In the sacristy of the little octagonal church of Sant' Ercolano at Perugia are some ancient chests which were quaintly decorated with hot irons some 400 years ago. —J. William Fosdick, in Century.

THE POPULAR BLOUSE. It Holds Undisputed sway During This Summer Weather.

All the feminine world seems to be appearing in blouses during the hot weather, and although manufacturers and designers had anticipated the demand for this exceptionally useful and elegant article of attire, they have set to work again and produced some striking novelties with a departure from the regulation article. One well-known house shows a pretty blouse of kilted grass cloth over a fitted silken bodice. The fitted bodices are in all the new art tints and appear to advantage in eau de Nil, new pink, heliotrope and amber.

The close-kilted grass cloth forms the entire front and back of the blouse. The sleeves are of the full top class in grass cloth arranged over a plain coat sleeve of the silk, the top puffs being exceptionally well arranged. At the wrists the sleeves are cut in vandykes, revealing an under layer of closely kilted grass cloth edged with valenciennes. The front hem of the blouse is also ornamented with a double-kilted fringe of grass cloth, also edged with valenciennes. The main collar is high and of silk, over which is arranged the grass cloth in slantwise folds; at the top is an outstanding kilted fringe edged with lace. Another novelty introduced in this model is a kilted fringe reaching from the throat down the shoulder line and terminating at the top of the sleeves. The frills face to the front of the blouse. The belt is of grass cloth. Another grass cloth model is chic, the cloth forming a zouave over a very bright pink pongee. The fronts and back of the grass cloth zouave represent four tucks about three inches deep, each tuck being headed with a feather stitch lace. The sleeves are of the class described in the preceding model, but at the wrist up to the elbow are ornamented with a series of tucks en suite with the character of the zouave. The collar of grass cloth turns over a folded silk collar and is relieved from the immediate front, while the pongee collar is ornamented on either side the fastening by a row of six pearl buttons. The pink pongee blouse is very full and belted in empire style, with 12 tiny pearl buttons forming an ornament in conjunction with the puff of pongee. An elongated pearl brooch fastens the blouse midway between the throat and empire belt. Yet another novelty is seen in an arrangement of epaulets of pongee beneath the full top of grass cloth. A third remarkable effect is a grass lawn known as striped silk grass lawn. The regulation lawn is intersected with stripes of white silk about a quarter of an inch wide and two thread-like stripes of gold. The fabric is very taking. With this fabric is introduced folded frills of white chiffon, forming a tout ensemble rarely seen. The front of the blouse is full, the hem being edged on either side by the chiffon frills. Three other chiffon frills appear on either side of the center, the whole frontage being trimmed with chiffon. The chiffon frills are about 1 1/2 inches in width. The collar proper is of small satin with an over collar set on small wings, these being of the grass lawn edged with chiffon frills. Still, notwithstanding the charm of the blouse, the sleeves are the noted feature of taste and artistic style. The main sleeve is coat shape, and at the top is ornamented with a huge bow and end. The bow is formed of a large square of the grass lawn folded up and left open on the side that faces the front, where it is edged with the chiffon fringe. In arrangement this falls into artistic drooping recess folds quite too difficult to describe accurately in words, but exceptionally beautiful. Depending at the back from this bow is an elongated wing of grass lawn tapering to a point where it reaches the waist line. The puff bow falls over the coat sleeve to the elbow, and the innovation to supersede regulation puff sleeves is the most artistic and novel that can be imagined. Frills of chiffon carry out the character of the blouse at the wrists. —St. Louis Republic.

NO FREEDOM FOR CHILDREN. Society's Laws Operate to the Disadvantage of the Little Ones. The young of the human race alone are bound to keep quiet. They are taken out to walk in the beautiful parks and compelled to restrain that natural impulse which makes them want to roll over on the velvet grass and climb the trees and dig in the tempting clay. There is no help for it as things go. If children were allowed these liberties the beauty of the parks would be spoiled. It is charged against American children that they are boisterous and self-asserting in public. I have myself often complained at the surprising lack of consideration and deference for their elders shown by our young people in the way of grasping car seats, taking possession of the easiest chairs in the parlor and the choicest bits at the table; in their inclination to argue and their greed of attention. But all this is part of another subject. If children are selfish, unmanly and impertinent, bad training is clearly the cause. They are mal eclere, as the French always say of a rude young person. It is quite possible to be happy, spontaneous, overflowing with good spirits, and yet be docile and sweet-tempered. To sit still is not to be virtuous. Sitting still may be required, but running about, climbing, twisting and stretching every muscle in his little body is much more natural and congenial to the child, and every opportunity ought to be given him thus to work off an activity that certainly will turn to fretfulness if restrained. It takes kindness and consideration from his guardians to enable Tot to subdue his impulse to run riot and exercise his limbs and his lungs in the way nature suggests to him. —Ladies' Home Companion.

"Is curiosity a small creature, mamma?" "Why do you ask, child?" "Because they always say 'Curiosity was on tiptoe,' and I supposed it was because he couldn't see over, standing flat-footed."

His Science Was Off. Professor Figured Right, But Did Not Allow for Errors. One night a young man in Divinity hall at Yale undertook, with a toy rifle, to hit a lamp. But his aim was poor, and the ball passed through the window of an eminent and venerable professor of science and imbedded itself in the wall.

This was the opportunity for the professor and for science, says the Hartford Courant. He, too, set to work and captured the curve, and with the exact kind of infallible figures he traced the ball right back to the room of an innocent colleague, who didn't even know the rifle had been fired.

The unfledged minister flatly denied all knowledge of the affair. But men, even ministers, have been known to make denials in self-defense, and the professor had the proof with him. There was the bullet, there were the marks of its course, and there was the computation worked out. It looked as if a pulpiter was to be nipped in the bud. But the guilty student heard what was going on. He called on the professor, confessed the offense, pointed out that the man of science was 200 feet out in his computation, and advised that the matter be dropped right where it was. And that was done.

A Valuable Prescription. Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Many think when it was said to the woman: "In sorrow shall thou bring forth children" that a perpetual curse was pronounced upon such is not the case. True, dangers lurk in the pathway of the expectant Mother and should be avoided. "Mother's Friend" so prepares the system for the change taking place that the final hour is robbed of all danger and pain. Its use insures safety to the life of both Mother and child, and makes childbirth easy and recovery more rapid. Opposition to Having a City Lighting Plant Put in Getting Ready to Strike.

The controversy over the city council's action in placing contracts for installing a municipal electric lighting plant here is at a white heat.

The main question in the controversy now seems to be whether or not the council has a right to put in the plant with the funds now in the city treasury without submitting the proposition to a vote of the taxpayers.

An act conferring upon cities and villages in this state the power to construct, acquire by purchase, operate and maintain works for the purpose of supplying such cities and villages and the inhabitants thereof with gas, electric lights and other lights.

Section 1. That it shall be lawful for any city or incorporated village in this state to acquire by purchase, or to construct, operate and maintain works for the purpose of supplying such city or village and the inhabitants thereof with gas, electric and other lights, at such times and on such terms, and conditions as the common council of any such city or the board of trustees of any such village shall direct.

Section 2. Whenever the common council of any city or the board of trustees of any village shall, by resolution, declare that it is expedient for such city or village to acquire by purchase or to construct, as the case may be, works for the purpose of supplying such city or village and the inhabitants thereof with gas, electric or other lights, then such common council or board of trustees shall have power to take such action as shall be deemed expedient to accomplish such purpose.

Section 3 of the above act provides that whenever 100 or more qualified electors of the city petition the council to submit the question they shall avail themselves of the provisions of this act at the next regular election.

One lawyer whose opinion was asked as to what interpretation he would place on the last section of the act said: "I think that applies only in cases where the voters desire an electric light or gas plant, and they take such steps to compel the council to act in accordance with their desire."

It is not improbable that a couple of petitions will be circulated among the taxpayers within the next few days. One will ask to have the council restrained from putting in a plant and the other will request the city officials to proceed with the work according to the plans it has formulated.

HIS NERVE WAS THERE.

This Sort of Centipede Was Harmless, But He Didn't Know It.

The Hawaiian islands are almost as well off as Ireland. St. Patrick drove all the venomous insects and reptiles out of the green isle, but the Hawaiians claim that the reptiles and insects left on Mr. Dole's domain are in no sense of the word poisonous.

People who have particular dealings with venomous insects imported from the islands make the same claim. A local fruit importer said recently:

"Very frequently we receive consignments of bananas and pineapples packed in dry grass and leaves. In taking the fruit from the boxes it is not uncommon to find a big centipede crawling along the stalk between the bananas, doing his best to get used to the California climate."

"The other afternoon I was opening a box of bananas and pushed my hand through the straw to get at the stalk. I felt around for a few seconds and thought I could feel something moving around on the back of my hand. I had often heard of the presence of centipedes in fruit shipments, so I carefully withdrew my hand, so as to make as little commotion as possible.

"I looked at it with fear and trembling, but did not dare to move a muscle. It lifted its head and seemed perfectly satisfied to remain where it was. I could hardly restrain myself from making a quick motion and shaking it off, but my companion warned me again and again to keep quiet. All I could feel was a tickling sensation.

"You are crazy," he said, "to get frightened over a little thing like that. Do you not know that Hawaiian centipedes are not poisonous? I told you to keep quiet just to see how long your nerves would last. If the thing had sunk every claw into your flesh it would have caused only a little swelling and nothing more. I have had several of them strike me, and I apply a little ammonia or salt water, and cure it up in half an hour."

IDYLLIC LIFE IN JAPAN.

Dainty Little Houses Set in a Rustic Glen.

There is an isolated, aristocratic quarter of the village in the ravine behind the temple inhabited by priests and superior folk; and the far ravine holds the Momiji, or maple leaf, tea house—most bewitching cluster of doll houses in the most picturesque setting ever found in Japan.

Each vantage spot on the steep bank holds a one, two or three-roomed doll house—such dainty, exquisite little toy dwellings, with such fairy balconies, such spotless screens and soft, shining mats, that one hesitates to desecrate them with the clumsy, defiling, destructive appurtenances of the simplest foreign living; and as for himself fitting into one of these midget mansions, it is Gulliver alive among the Lilliputians.

The deer were friends and neighbors from the moment of our arrival, coming to drink from the musical fountain jet in our three-feet-square court of entrance, and then to the edge of our porch to bob their heads in well-managed appeals for deer cake.

After Miyajima one may well boast of having lived in Arcadia, and each day, more idyllic than the other, puts one in the better spirit for enjoying the rare Japanese charm of it all.

In that simple, intimate life there were no mysteries, not even of the menu. All the villagers who passed night stop and watch our cook making his highly colored curry for our midday meal; and the peddlers who came to tempt the tea house maids with gay kimono patterns watched his strange concoctions, and sought pretexts to watch our further play with the knife and fork as we sat at feast on our little veranda over the lake.

There was a solidity and an adamantine fiber to the Miyajima fowls that resisted ordinary cooking, and we commanded one day that the bird should be divided at every joint, the body quartered, and all kept steaming for the three hours during which we expected to be gone on an excursion.

Seismologists say that every great earthquake causes pulsations which extend for thousands of miles in all directions on the globe, and Prof. Milne likens such pulsations to the long, low swells that sweep across the ocean.

What made that young man stay so late?" asked the father. "We got to talking about the coinage question," said the fair daughter, "and did not notice the flight of time."

"I don't think that story will do," said the old man. "People who discuss the coinage question make a lot more noise than you two did."—Indianapolis Journal.

TO PLEAD SILVER'S CAUSE.

Sligh and Whiting Will Open Local Campaign for White Metal.

FREE COINAGE SILVER CLUB WILL BE FORMED.

Building Briskly in Ontonagon—Future Prospects—Christopher Columbus Excursion—Address to the Drummers—Will Receive Insurance.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN FOR SILVER.

White metalists will begin their campaign in the city this evening by a grand rally and mass meeting in the opera house. The two principal speakers at the meeting will be the nominee for governor and lieutenant governor on the state silver ticket. They are respectively Charles R. Sligh of Grand Rapids, and Justin R. Whiting of St. Clair.

The gubernatorial candidate previous to the time of the St. Louis convention was a staunch Republican, but when it failed utterly to voice his ideas on the money question came out for the white metal regardless of party and accepted the place at the head of the Michigan silver ticket. In the business world Mr. Sligh is well known as the head of the big Sligh Furniture company of Grand Rapids.

Justin R. Whiting is well and favorably known all over the peninsula and state from his congressional record. In congress he was of sufficient standing to secure a position eight years running on the ways and means committee. The heads of the ticket are now engaged in a tour of the state, and are talking on the money question to large and interested crowds every where they go. Saturday night they appeared in the Saalt.

Local silverites are confident of having a large crowd to hear the advocates of their ideas. They will not only have the Marquette people who are interested in the issues of the campaign, but rates have been made that are very favorable to up the road people. From Negaunee and Ishpeming round trip tickets will be sold for a half a dollar, and from other points as far up as, and including Baraga a half fare rate will be made.

The speakers are expected to arrive in the city from the Soo this afternoon. They will be met at the train by the reception committee and escorted to their hotel, where they will hold an informal reception either in the late afternoon or evening.

The following well-known citizens have been named as vice presidents of the meeting:

F. M. Moore, M. D. Crawford, M. C. Scully, Peter Primeau, Webster Dook, Frank Vandenberg, Gust Hallstrom, Jno. R. Hood, E. J. Mapee, Geo. A. Brown, Bush Culver, Thomas Dwyer, S. E. Byrne, Jos. Courtney, Thomas Morgan, E. Cox, L. Redinger, Wm. Green, J. H. LaRoche, John Thoney, L. W. Midlam, S. W. Shaull, E. E. Halsey, Joseph Fay, John Dimond.

After the enthusiasm of the meeting has been aroused by the addresses a free coinage silver club will be formed, which will probably number in its ranks all the free silver voters in the city.

More Ore Brought Here.

Since the completion of the new dock business men and others frequently ask if the quantity of ore shipped via Marquette has increased, or if part of the ore that came to the South Shore docks has been diverted.

Those who are in position to know say that there is some increase in the quantity of ore going by way of this port since the new road and dock have been in operation. Iron from the Cleveland Cliffs mine is going by way of the new road. This used to go by the South Shore, but in its place ore from the Buffalo and Negaunee mines which used to be sent to Escanaba is coming here and is being shipped from the South Shore docks.

An indication of the increase in the ore shipments is seen in the increase of the fleet running to this port. Among the boats that have been running in here just lately are the Calyuga, Kantonac, Fontana, Pratt and Ash. The latter two have traded here occasionally before the new dock was built, but are now making the port regularly.

Spoke to Traveling Men.

Commercial traveling men were specially invited to the services held in the Presbyterian church last night. There were a number of this class who availed themselves of the invitation, and enough others to fill the church so that chairs had to be set in the aisles to accommodate the audience.

The musical features of the service were very fine. The duet sung by Mrs. Patterson and Miss Gaffney was well received and highly appreciated. During the offertory Miss Gaffney sang the soprano solo, "The Holy City" in her usual acceptable style.

Rev. Spencer preached a sermon adapted to the class of men he wished to reach. Choosing as his text the scripture sentiment, "So he paid the fare thereof," he showed how all travelers in life's journey paid some fare, and dwelt on the difference between the fare on the road of sin, and the narrow way of eternal life.

Not So Bad, Maybe.

W. L. Prickett, a Sidnaw lumberman, who was in the city Sunday, takes issue with Editor Meads' statements concerning the condition of Ontonagon. According to the lumberman the editor has painted too black a picture, and Mr. Prickett further insinuates that the reason Mr. Meads "flunked" on the town is that the Herald man got ahead of him with his paper.

"I am willing to bet," says Mr. Prickett, "that in three years Ontonagon will be a better town than it ever was, and have more people there. The most of the people as fast as they get their insurance are erecting buildings. Hawley, Derr, Hill, Mueller and Heard are building two story stores. One of them is a double building. I have sold almost 300,000 feet of lumber for building since the fire, and there has been much more free lumber shipped in. That doesn't look as if the town wasn't going to rebuild.

"There are many reasons why the town should be resurrected. It is on a lake harbor at the mouth of a river; the docks are there; there is ten years cut of timber for the mills; it is the county seat and the county buildings are only partially destroyed; the St. Paul has fifty miles of railroad from Channing that will be useless if the town is abandoned. An investment of $400,000 is at stake. That reason alone is enough to insure that the town will be rebuilt.

"Meads had a talk with Comstock, then he said the mill will not be rebuilt. I had a talk with Comstock. Comstock doesn't know anything more about it than you or I do. The Diamond Match company has 13,000,000 feet of timber in the river that something has to be done with. As I figure it, it will cost them about $3.25 a thousand to ship it away and have it cut, and they can contract with parties to build a mill and cut it for $2.50 or less, so there is bound to be a mill there. The old millwright is drawing plans for a new mill for the Diamond Match, which will be submitted to the directors shortly.

"One big feature is the destruction of the company store. That will not be rebuilt, and the $75,000 or $100,000 worth of business it did every year will be divided among eight or ten merchants, and that's something to figure on.

"There isn't time enough this fall to build permanent buildings, but all of them are made so they can be completed in the spring by siding them over and finishing them up."

Whaleback Excursion.

For the second time this season the monster whaleback steamer Christopher Columbus took an excursion out of Marquette, and the second venture of the boat was quite as successful as the first.

The trip Saturday was to Pictured Rocks, the objective point being of such scenic repute that 1,500 people took a half day off and made the trip. Many came down from up the road, and it was necessary to put several extra cars onto the regular to accommodate the excursionists.

The boat was advertised to leave here at 1:30, and in leaving at a quarter to two came as near as boats generally do to their schedules. As far as bright weather was concerned there couldn't have been a better day found for the trip, but there was a little too much sea for part of the passengers. Some of them even lost interest in the rocks, and remained stretched at full length on the cabin sofas while the beautiful panorama was being passed. The majority of the passengers, however, thronged the decks and strained their eyes to make out the cow, the old woman hanging out clothes, and the other views said to be outlined upon the cliffs. Grand Portal was reached just at sunset.

On the way out the boat ran on the inside of Grand Island and gave the passengers a sight of Munising, but on the way back took the more direct course. Dancing was indulged in on the return trip. The boat arrived at Marquette at 9:30, and left about an hour later for the copper country, where she carried out an excursion Sunday.

Many people will be interested in knowing what the boat is capable of doing in the way of speed. On a trip from Milwaukee to Chicago before coming in here she made a trifle over twenty three miles an hour. The best time ever made on that run, the chief engineer said Saturday that the boat could be made to do even better than that, and that when she went back on her run an effort would be made to cut the time again.

Insurance Companies to Pay Up.

Marquette's gold reserve will be considerably increased next month at the expense of the New York Life insurance company. There is to be paid to holders of its tonnage and endorsement policies in this city $100,000 cash. These policies were written fifteen years ago the coming October by Charles W. Moore, now located at Detroit, and who is suing the company for $100,000 which he claims to be his due.

Peter White will get the biggest slice, said to be in the neighborhood of $40,000. A. S. Westlake, E. M. Watson, E. B. Palmer, C. H. L'Hullier, J. L. Johnson, F. O. Stafford and George Hager will be paid smaller amounts. The coming disbursement will be the largest payment of insurance money ever made in the city, and will probably have the effect of booming business for the life insurance agents.

Seventeen Years Bishop.

Today marks the seventeenth year of Bishop Vertin's bishopric. He received his consecration the 14th day of September, 1879, and since that time has had continuous charge of the see of Marquette. The anniversary of his consecration will be celebrated by services in the cathedral.
